

Paragon 581

Chapter 581 - 581: Entering Miriam's Soul World

The concept of manipulating the soul is a dangerous one. In fact, souls, if not well protected, can lead to the downfall of even immortals and gods. Souls are the foundation of one's life.

Many might even call it the core of a being...

The idea of creating a soul is not something to be taken lightly.

Klaus would have to use his soul and consciousness to enter Miriam's destroyed Soul World and recreate a new one for her using his cultivation.

Essentially, Klaus would need to sacrifice his cultivation base in exchange for his life force. This life force would then be used to create a new soul, which, in essence, means giving life to her.

But it's far from simple.

To do this, Klaus must be at the same cultivation base as the one he is about to help. If not, he risks losing all his cultivation base. It's a risky thing.

His life force increases as he breaks through to higher realms, so if he were to give it away, he would automatically become weak and eventually lose everything.

But Klaus is not like everyone else.

The current him embodies seven Sovereigns in a single body. This means every one of his seven Sovereign Cores can be used. He is not like everyone else.

He is a monster.

"How can I help?" Old Lu asked. He had once caught Klaus going through some of the monastery's secret books, and from what Klaus was reading back when he was known as Fruity, it was about souls.

Naturally, as monks, they knew more about souls. Old Lu had explained some things to him back then, but never in his wildest dreams did he think he would ever have to put that knowledge into practice today.

It has been thousands, if not millions, of years already...

"Since her soul world is destroyed, I will be entering an unknown world. This means that the moment I enter, I will lose access to my body. If I fail, I won't be able to come back.

That means if Miriam dies, I die with her. So I will need an anchor—someone to link me to this plane—and since you are an expert on souls, I will need you to become my anchor," Klaus said before turning to the ladies in the room.

He walked closer to his mom, who still had teardrops on her face. He wiped the tears away before planting a kiss on her forehead.

"I will save her, Mom," Klaus whispered to her.

Miriam had become someone akin to her own daughter over the past month she had spent with her. They did things together and talked about many things all day. So, while she may not be her real daughter, she was someone she could not afford to lose.

"I believe you, Klaus," she said, hugging him tightly. Klaus rubbed her back gently before moving to his ladies, who were all looking at him with expressions that conveyed one thing: 'Please save her.'

"It's alright, Queenie. I'll take it from here," Klaus said, pulling the teary Overlord away. She had been using her soul energy for the past hours, ensuring her sister remained alive while she waited for a miracle.

After discovering that she could never remember her blood relatives after 24 hours as a child, she resolved to cherish everyone around her and never let go.

She hated her childhood, especially the memories of making her mom and twin sister cry every morning. This was why she couldn't lose Miriam, her sworn sister who had saved her life 15 years ago.

She pulled away and immediately passed out. Klaus laid her down gently, then walked over to Miriam's unconscious body and pulled out his phone.

"What are you doing?" Lucy asked, but the answer came the next second.

Klaus took a picture of Miriam's aged body with a smile on his face.

"Why did you take a picture of her, Klaus?" Lulu asked, raising an eyebrow.

"How else am I going to tease her when she wakes up?" Klaus smirked, making everyone in the room look at him with eyes that conveyed one thing—beatings.

But they would save that for after everything was over.

Klaus sat on the bed and hugged Miriam from behind. Old Lu sat behind Klaus, their backs touching.

"I will start now, Uncle Monk. No matter what, don't pull me out. Since I'm linked to you, I can come out anytime," Klaus said, and Old Lu nodded.

Old Lu felt very happy at that moment. Somehow, he remembered his past life up until his death, and while that part of his life had been painful, the time he spent with Klaus brought him great joy.

Klaus may have been a brat in his fourth incarnation—and still was—but he was also one of the best gifts the monks had received in years. Although over half of them had died in the end, they held no regrets, Old Lu included.

So, while he may have died, he wouldn't hesitate to die again if it meant saving Klaus. He practically raised him, making him something of a father figure to Klaus.

"Don't worry, I know how important this is for you and everyone... I won't do anything that will jeopardize that," Old Lu said as he closed his eyes.

Klaus did the same, and they both began chanting the same words, which immediately activated a spell circle on the bed. The moment it appeared, Lulu, who had a strong attachment to the soul, was the only one who saw what happened.

Klaus's soul left his body and stood in front of Miriam. At the same time, a string shot from Old Lu's soul and latched onto Klaus.

That was the anchor that would keep him connected to the physical plane. If it broke, then he could only stay in Miriam's soul and pray he managed to create a soul for her so she could bring him back.

He turned and winked at Lulu before entering Miriam's body.

The moment he appeared in Miriam's soul world, Klaus felt all the air being sucked out. He gasped for breath as the air kept vanishing.

[Use your energy to create a vacuum around you. This space is basically a void. You can't breathe here like on the outside, so use your energy to create a vacuum around you]

The senior spoke, and Klaus did as he was told. Immediately after he did, he could breathe again. He looked around and saw only shattered heavens, lands, rivers, and everything else.

"How powerful is the weapon used to attack her?" Klaus asked. He just couldn't understand how something could destroy a soul to this extent.

[I can't tell until I go to the place where the weapon was used. But I can say for certain that whatever was used wasn't something simple... It also looks like it's not from this world.]

"Not from this world?" Klaus took in a cold breath as he gazed into the distance, where he could see a small part of Miriam's soul world that still looked intact.

[Let's talk about it after you leave here. You don't have much time here, and you are vulnerable here, too, so you'd better hurry up.]

"Okay, senior." Klaus moved, and soon, he was nearing the space. However, when he was just a few meters away, he froze and gazed at the old lady sitting with a sword in her hand.

It was Miriam, but she looked different...

"Klaus, is that you?" Miriam asked. For a moment, Klaus hesitated, but then he answered...

"Yes, it's... I have come to take you home."

Miriam looked at him and then sighed. "You can't. My soul is destroyed beyond repair." His expression was someone who had accepted her fate

Klaus could see it; Miriam knew she would die even before she defended Nadia...The look in her eyes said it all. She was happy with her current situation because she had accepted this outcome.

'But how?'

Chapter 582 - 582: Creating The Soul World

Klaus moved closer until he was right in front of Miriam. He crouched down and sat beside her, touching her arm.

He replayed the look he saw in Miriam's eyes for a few seconds, but at every turn he took, he arrived at the same conclusion... She knew she would die, and she didn't hesitate. That made Klaus look at her in a new light.

"Why did you do it, knowing you would die?" Klaus went straight to the point, not leaving room for doubt. He knew she had seen something and acted on it, but he wanted to hear her motivation.

Miriam looked at him and smiled. She may be old, but she still had her good looks. She waved her hand, and fractured mirrors appeared. On each display was a memory.

In the first memory, Klaus saw Miriam's childhood. She was an unruly child back then and would often sneak out to play outside despite the strict rules imposed by her father.

The next memory showed her guilt-tripping her sister into taking her to a sword competition, where she lost anyway, and how she manipulated her sister into buying her ice cream afterwards.

The following memory was when her sister was knocked down by a car, and instead of helping, she froze in place, watching her sister die.

Klaus could see the emotions tied to this memory, and from that moment onward, all her memories were filled with bitterness.

Everything was bitter.

From the time she was abandoned to survive in a zombie-infested world at the age of 14 to how she had to fight for her life every single day just to stay alive.

Back then, she wanted only one thing—to visit her sister's grave, say goodbye, and then end her own life. But even that was denied by her family.

So, for years, she fought zombies and monsters alike, all in the hope that one day she would be strong enough to visit her sister's grave. It was a strange way of holding on, but she used it as her motivation to keep growing.

However, when she met Klaus, everything changed.

The love she had been denied her entire life was now being showered on her through him. From the memories, Klaus could tell that Miriam had grown attached to his mother, mainly because of how she treated her—like her own daughter.

Klaus saw how she became friends with Anna and the others. He saw how she became happy when she finally gave her heart to him. He saw how she accepted all his women and became friends with them.

Then, the true reason revealed itself when he saw her have something like a dream or a vision of Nadia dying during her tribulation.

Klaus saw Miriam remain in seclusion for a whole month, not doing anything. She was just waiting for Nadia to come out of seclusion so she could accompany her during her tribulation.

"I don't know how, but when I had this dream, I immediately knew how it could be prevented, and so I did... What I didn't expect, however, was how much my sisters loved me. Because of them, though I should be dead by now, I am still here... for now," Miriam said with a sigh.

Klaus didn't immediately say anything. He just stayed there for a full minute before standing up...

"Let's start. I'll have to create a new soul for you, and for that to work, you'll need to give me the remainder of your soul," Klaus said.

It would be a waste if he chooses to dive further into her motivation when he could just save her and talk about that later...

Perhaps over some hot midnight sex.

Miriam looked at him and chuckled. "You think I'll let you hurt yourself? You'll definitely be losing something big by doing this... I won't allow it."

"You don't have a choice. If you die, I'll lose my sanity, and a lot of beauties currently waiting for me will be very sad... So no matter what, you're not dying today," Klaus said as he grabbed her hand.

"Plus, I have a picture of you I plan on framing and hanging on my wall... I can't tease you if you are dead, so I'm saving you whether you like it or not. And it's not like I'll get hurt doing this."

Miriam looked at him and sighed. "Klaus, are you sure this won't hurt you?" she asked.

"I'll be fine. The worst that can happen is me losing a level or two," Klaus replied before taking her other arm.

"From today onwards, your soul is mine," Klaus said before kissing her. Miriam smiled through the kiss, locking in deeper, making a mental note of how Klaus couldn't hold himself back, and kissed an old lady.

She also planned to tease her with this...

A few seconds into the kiss, Klaus's seventh core, which had become a sovereign core, lit up, and then **boom**—it exploded, flooding Miriam's soul world with potent life energy. Soon, the shattered world was erased, leaving only Klaus and Miriam in a dark, empty space.

He pulled back from the kiss and touched Miriam's forehead. In the next moment, she merged with his body. Klaus quickly sat in a lotus posture and began chanting strange, arcane words.

His sixth core followed suit, exploding and releasing its potent energy into the soul world that was beginning to take shape.

On the outside, Klaus's face was pale, but not too pale. He was still hugging Miriam, who remained old, but Lulu, a soul cultivator, could see she was beginning to recover.

"Whatever Klaus is doing seems to be working... Sister Miriam is recovering," she said, making everyone smile upon hearing that.

"Can you see what he's doing?" Lucy asked. She was a bookworm, but she also had a habit of knowing something about everyone.

She had studied her sister and friends, so she knew Lulu was, in fact, the only one who could tell what was happening.

"I can't see, but I can tell by how fast Klaus is losing his cultivation base that he's doing something right," Lulu said.

The ladies nodded. Klaus had entered Miriam's soul world 15 minutes ago, but he had already lost two levels. However, Miriam was also recovering, albeit slowly, so whatever he was doing was clearly working.

"These bastards..." Daniel blurted out, staring at his phone screen.

"What is it?" Kilian asked.

"It's the Legacies and their allies... They just released more photos of what happened and are calling Klaus a coward who chose to hide when his girlfriend was attacked. It seems they planned this well, considering they've already started evacuating Union City."

"So they're setting a trap for Klaus in case he comes for revenge," Danny said.

"Yes. Since they used the Overlords not stepping in to stop Klaus when he killed the mercenaries in Union City as an excuse, they think they're invincible," Kilian said, clenching his fist.

They were all angry at what had happened, but they were powerless to do anything. They could only wait for Klaus to decide what would happen next.

Ten hours later, Klaus had dropped two more levels, meaning he had sacrificed four sovereign cores. This puzzled everyone.

If he was meant to exchange his cultivation base for her soul, shouldn't he have regressed back to the Master Stage or perhaps the Grandmaster Stage by now?

But he had only lost a few levels, meaning a single level for Klaus was equivalent to a full cultivation base for someone else.

Monstrous...

Twelve hours later, after the fifth core was sacrificed, Miriam opened her eyes, bringing with her some changes that caught everyone off guard.

Chapter 583 - 583: Soul Rebirth

A few minutes before Klaus exploded the 5th core...which caused Miriam to open her eyes after hours, finally.

Klaus began exploding his cores starting from the 7th. After becoming a Great Sage, his cultivation base advanced to the 7th stage, granting him 7 Sovereign Cores and 2 Great Cores.

Now, he had already exploded the 7th, 6th, 5th, and 4th cores, and finally, he was about to explode the 3rd. When he did, a wave of life energy surged into her soul world, completing its formation entirely.

Klaus looked around and frowned.

"Senior, shouldn't there be clouds, rivers, trees, and other things inside the soul world?" Klaus asked. The entire space was now white, having transformed from darkness to light.

[That is because her soul will undergo rebirth, and for that to happen, you must first live here. This will occur based on her fate. Your presence is clashing with her fate, meaning if you remain here for too long, her soul world will form, but it won't necessarily be hers.]

"I see. When can I go now, or do I have to do something else?" Klaus asked.

[You can leave. You have already formed a soul three times bigger than the one she used to have. You've done enough; the rest is up to fate.]

Klaus nodded, and then he brought Miriam out of his body. Well, it was more like they were both souls, so he brought her out from his soul.

Immediately, he did. There was a rumble, and he could see changes starting to happen.

"I'll be going out now... Catch you on the outside," Klaus said with a smile.

"Race you," Miriam replied, smiling as well. She could now sense that her soul had fully formed. She could also tell Klaus was fine, but deep down, she knew it wasn't as simple as he made it seem. He was pretending...

Miriam opened her eyes outside; however, the moment she left her soul space, a tyrannical energy descended into the space, halting Klaus's escape. He was locked down. Even the anchor linking him to Old Lu was severed.

This caused Old Lu to cough up blood causing everyone to frown. But they weren't the only ones doing the frowning.

Back inside Miriam's soul world...

"So we finally meet, Paragon," Klaus suddenly heard a voice speak, and for some reason, fear gripped him. It was a fear he had felt before.

It was when Queenie told him they should spar. The trauma from his third incarnation followed him into his current life. Now, he was feeling yet another fear, and he knew this also had something to do with one of his past incarnations.

"Who are you... reveal yourself," Klaus said, looking around.

"Lol, look at you giving orders, Divine Archer. Are you perhaps overestimating your strength now?" The voice spoke with mocking laughter.

"Who are you?" Klaus asked again, still looking around.

"You will know soon enough. For now, saying too much will bring Karma, isn't that right, Paragon? After all, this meeting was all your idea. I have to say, your ability to predict the future is impeccable."

"Wait a minute, I predicted this...?" Klaus raised an eyebrow. Though he wanted to know more, his curiosity was easily piqued.

"No, silly. You predicted this world. You predicted the ending and even predicted that we would meet someday in the future. But as to how? You said nothing about that."

Still, I always have a nagging feeling you always knew. Of course, whether it was your scheming that made it possible or fate, I will find out when I dissect your brain and examine it like I wanted to eons ago."

The voice smiled, sending chills down Klaus's spine.

"Can you reveal yourself? I know you are Miriam's incarnation, but from when?" Klaus asked again.

"No... You are not ready to meet me yet, and yes, I am her incarnation. For now, spend your peaceful days with me in this incarnation. When I awaken, we will continue from where we left off."

Klaus felt his soul finally released, jolting him awake in the real world.

"Fuck... I need to talk to that hedgehog and find out who he's pissed off. This lady gives me the creeps," Klaus muttered under his breath, loud enough for the ladies around him to raise an eyebrow.

Miriam was sitting in a lotus posture, undergoing some kind of transformation. When Klaus stared at her face, a chill ran down his spine.

'Fuck... why do I always find myself in situations like this?' Klaus thought as he glanced at the ladies around him, wondering how they all connected to his past.

When his eyes met Lucy's and Anna's, he smiled, for he had finally received the next set of memories from Fruity. Now, he knew some more, but he would have to let the memories flow like before to know everything.

From his smile, it was plain that something good had happened... as to what, you will find out later. Klaus focused his attention on Miriam, who was reverting to her young self.

Meanwhile, inside her soul space, many changes were taking place. If one were to compare her previous soul to this one, one would notice some major differences.

The world was now filled with the aura of tyranny, but aside from that, there was a part filled with love. Perhaps one could say that for someone who was known to be full of tyranny, a small part of her was reserved for love.

However, for some reason, the tyrannical part was huge, which was disturbing. But as time went on in her soul space, her loving side began to expand, and soon, it was on the same level as her tyrannical side.

When everything was done, the soul world began to shake violently. It was as if a wave of danger was washing over the soul world.

However, it wasn't that. Instead, it was the awakening of a sword that once struck fear in the hearts of many. Whenever the sword appeared, tyranny followed.

That was why they called it the Sword of Tyranny. On the outside, Miriam was surrounded by a mist made of golden light.

After the sword appeared, Miriam opened her eyes, dispersing the mist. When the mist cleared, she returned to her previous self but with new features.

Before her rebirth, she had been a beauty with dark hair, but now, she had silver hair and blue eyes. Aside from that, her figure had also become more pronounced in certain areas.

It was the same trait that had initially attracted Klaus, and seeing it now made him very happy, causing him to smile. His ladies, including his mother, noticed why he was smiling but chose to ignore him and focus on Miriam.

She became much more beautiful, perhaps due to awakening her bloodline. Unlike the rest of his ladies, hers, like Nadia's, hadn't been locked.

This transformation caused her appearance to align with her bloodline. She remained human, unlike Nadia, who had become an Elf. However, she now had a golden gem with six edges embedded on her forehead.

There were other changes as well, but Klaus didn't have much time to observe them. He was utterly exhausted and wanted to sleep.

"Welcome to the land of the living, Miriam," Klaus said before turning to Nia.

"Nia, you and the twins should go to Controversial News and bring that lady. Tell her I have an announcement to make. If she accepts, bring only her."

He then turned to Queenie. "You can tell the Overlords not to interfere in the battles that will happen in the coming days. Also, you can start looking for a replacement for the next Legacy family of the Northern Union.

In a week's time, I will kill every last one of the Duncan Legacy family that dare raise their weapons at me."

Immediately after saying that, he fell onto Hanna's shoulder, who was right beside him. He drifted into sleep, only to be pulled into a meeting with Knox, his second incarnation...

" "

—

Chapter 584 - 584: Escalating...

It has already been five days since the attack on Klaus's family, and the world is still talking about it. It's everyone's daily and hourly discussion.

The attack was unexpected, and the fact that the attackers made their motives known is equally shocking.

Miriam nearly died, and had it not been for the twins' timely intervention, his mom would have lost her life.

These two outcomes are the basis of everyone's discussions. But, of course, things only got more interesting after the attack.

According to the news, people have already started evacuating Union City after the Duncan Legacy Family and the Three Clans began moving their troops there.

They declared war and immediately began to prepare.

A day after the attack, they announced that if Klaus didn't respond within two weeks, they would launch another attack.

This statement was made by the four family heads leading the alliance...

Naturally, their declaration, tied to the events in Union City when Klaus killed the mercenaries, has worked in their favour—at least among a portion of the population that supports them.

They are not calling for the Overlords to intervene, as they see this as a battle solely between them and Klaus Hanson.

Two days after the attack, the Dark Order issued a statement declaring their alliance with the Three Clans and the Duncan Legacy Family.

A few hours later, the Vargas Legacy Family of the Southern Union also joined the alliance, turning it into a force that cannot be ignored.

Naturally, Klaus's fans began calling out their shamelessness. But that is war, and they are preparing. Klaus was still asleep, talking to three of his incarnations.

Three days after the attack, Queenie, as the leader of the Overlords, issued a statement saying they wouldn't interfere in the matters between the Legacy Clan alliance (as they are calling themselves) and Klaus.

This statement further raised many eyebrows, but nobody questioned them. The overlords are the overlords for a reason...

Naturally, Queenie made this statement only after Klaus's mother instructed her to do so. For some reason, after witnessing everything that had happened, something snapped inside her.

She now wanted revenge, but since she could not act on it herself, she had to trust her son, who told Queenie to issue the statement.

Queenie, of course, was skeptical at first, but after they sat down and discussed things, she issued the statement.

Now that the statement was out, everyone knew Klaus and the Legacy Clan Alliance were bound to clash.

Naturally, after the statement was made, Moonville Group LLC informed the denizens of Union City to start moving to their affordable housing project.

This project was part of Queenie's housing initiative, which she had prepared for her people from the moon. This move was, of course, intended to make it easier for humans and the Moonborn to connect when they descended in a month's time.

It was also her way of ensuring that the innocent were not affected in the coming battles between the alliance and Klaus. They couldn't allow innocent people to die.

Four days later, Nia, Luna, and Nuna arrived with KKKickinIt, who was ecstatic when they told her Klaus wanted to make a statement through her channel.

They brought her through the Shadow Realm.

With the three working together, KKKickinIt was moved in secret and brought to Klaus's home, where she was housed in a room with a guard stationed outside. They wouldn't want someone who reports on gossip snooping around.

Nadia also woke up on the fourth day looking depressed. Luckily, Klaus's mother foresaw this and, being a good mother, spent hours talking to her.

Of course, Klaus's mom knew she would need a few days to recover, so after talking to her, a dark gate crackling with lightning opened, and she stepped through.

Asha, who saw this, smiled. She might also have something similar to that.

Kofi has also woken up but is recuperating and won't be fighting anytime soon. He was injured in the heart, and had it not been for Lucy's wood element, he would have died.

Old Lu also went back to the academy to guard Nari, who was still asleep even after weeks. Something was definitely going on with her, but they just didn't understand what it was.

In fact, Queenie thanked her lucky stars for letting Nari sleep; by now, fire and devastation would have rocked Union City.

Perhaps it was for the best. In the short time Nari spent with Klaus, she had grown closer to him that if she were to hear of the attack on her family, who knows what she would have done.

Now, everyone was just waiting for Klaus to make his appearance. Those who wouldn't be taking part in the war had evacuated, thanks to Moonville Group LLC.

Klaus's women and male friends were guarded and ready to join him in his war with the Legacy Clan Alliance.

"So, Hanna still hasn't left his side, huh?" Klaus's mom asked, looking at some of the most beautiful ladies in the entire world all gathered in the same room. They were all her son's women.

"She's hugging him like a koala bear. I doubt she'll be coming out anytime soon," Anna replied, shaking her head. Hanna was the one who carried Klaus to her bedroom when he passed out.

Strangely, she hadn't let him go and just hugged him while she drifted off to sleep. The ladies could only watch.

"No need to be jealous, Anna. She is special to Klaus," Lucy said to Anna, noticing her behaviour, which made Anna blush slightly.

"Honestly, I think the two are made for each other. It's even weird that Hanna is still resisting him when Klaus clearly wouldn't bat an eye at making her his.

I mean, look at them. Klaus is handsome, and Hanna is gorgeous. They are practically made for each other," Lily said, shaking her head. The ladies around her nodded.

"I guess she's treating him more like a brother. I mean, back when you ladies arrived at the academy, she threatened us with Overlord Nari to stop us from spending all our time with Klaus.

Only someone who is clearly overprotective of him would do that. From my point of view, the two are more like brother and sister."

The ladies nodded again. Of course, they didn't share the same father or mother, but their bond, from what they could tell, was something even true siblings couldn't mimic.

The ladies and guys continued talking about various things, with even Queenie chiming in from time to time. She had grown close to Klaus's female companions and even his male friends, so it wasn't as strange as one might think.

"So, you ladies and guys do realize Klaus won't allow you to join this battle, right?" A few hours into their conversation, Klaus's mother chose to raise the most important question.

Of course, they had anticipated it, but hearing her say it dampened their mood. Klaus's mother might be weak, but she knew her son far better than they did.

She was right—Klaus wouldn't allow his friends and lovers to get involved in this mess.

He will want to make a statement—a loud one. So, he will participate in this battle alone.

However, people's view of him will change drastically after the upcoming battle with the Legacy Clan alliance. Right now, Klaus is feeling only one thing... and that is anger.

He is furious, and this anger isn't about to be subdued—not even by Hanna, who seems to have some form of influence over him.

No, this anger is something known by only a few as 'The Paragon Fury'.

In the coming days, Klaus would be turning the world upside down. As to how... only the stars can tell.

" "

Chapter 585 - 585: The Cheat...

Klaus had been sleeping for six days, but during five of those six, he was pulled into three different realms where he met four of the incarnations he had encountered so far.

The first to call him was Knox, the most annoying of them all. She spent an entire day rambling about the same topic, only to give him a new lightning-refining technique at the end of their conversation.

Basically, all the talk that day was nonsense. It made no sense, and the only worthwhile thing about it was the refining technique he received in the end.

Klaus was so frustrated that he nearly attacked the bastard.

Unfortunately, before Klaus could truly attack, he was sent away, only to appear in Number Three's domain. As the Asura God of his time, Klaus expected to gain something valuable, but instead, he received a lecture on his slaughter aura.

In the end, he gained nothing and was tossed into Fruity's domain, where he obtained something that nearly caused him to detonate one of his cores, threatening to destroy the entire realm.

Fruity wasn't pleased with Klaus failing to inherit his violet hair when he awakened his bloodline, so he decided to fix that.

While Klaus was furious, he would later discover that Fruity, in his shameless quest to change his hair, had also provided him with a method to control his poison element and finally merge it with his Nine Reincarnation Divine Body Physique.

Thankfully, when he entered Paragon's realm, Paragon gave him everything he needed to know about something he would rely on for the rest of his life—the Primordial Forge.

At the moment, Klaus had yet to fully explore its potential, but essentially, with dead bodies, his mind and soul spirits, he could create beings called Paragon Fiends—or, as Klaus would later choose to name them, Star Hives.

It was the kind of boon destined to reshape the universe in profound ways.

He also received more details about his second bloodline, which was the bloodline of a Beast Tamer. Klaus was surprised by some of the details he learned, but he couldn't wait to start using it.

As for the many other soul weapons he had received, he would review them all after finally exacting his revenge.

Fortunately, Paragon only wasted two days of his time before sending him away. Klaus then drifted into sleep, remaining for several more hours before finally waking up.

Of course, before waking up, Klaus had a dream in which he tied down all his incarnations and gave each one a good beating for their unruly behaviour.

He now understood why they could bring him to them.

It seemed that since he didn't die in any of his incarnations, he had instead become one with the Paragon Stars.

Because he relies on the Paragon Stars for survival, he essentially is one with them—and, as a result, they could seek him out just as he could seek them.

...He could only push that thought aside and focus on the angel currently hugging him and peacefully sleeping on his chest.

Klaus gazed at the sleeping Hanna and smiled. However, he froze when he noticed something.

'I have become a Level 3 Great Sage,' Klaus said inwardly, sensing that his third Sovereign Core had formed. In fact, he could already tell and feel his fourth core forming as he lay in bed.

'Senior, what is happening?' Klaus didn't want to enter his soul sea yet.

For some reason, he could tell that if he wanted to get to the bottom of all the changes that had happened to him, he wouldn't be done even after two weeks.

So, he could only wait. And so he sought out the senior who had forgotten all the secrets he revealed while inside the dungeon.

[I am no expert in Starlights, but I believe that since she is like a key or doorway to a Paragon Star, through your bond, she was influencing your cultivation in an abnormal way.]

Klaus didn't immediately say anything. Instead, he started checking his body to see if something had happened.

After a quick check, he noticed a star tattoo glowing on his back, and another star tattoo had appeared on Hanna's forehead.

'I see. This is something only Starlights can do. I wonder if she and Queenie sleep in the same bed as me, and I will level up faster.'

Klaus would certainly put that to the test.

He remained in bed, brushing Hanna's hair for a while until she woke up a couple of hours later.

"You know, for someone who doesn't want to become my woman, you most certainly know how to distance yourself from me," Klaus said with a smile, looking back at the blue-haired beauty in his arms.

"Do you want me to leave?" Hanna asked, glaring at him.

"Definitely not," Klaus replied with a fake smile.

"Then shut up and enjoy the moment. This is the only chance you will get to stay close to me," Hanna said with a smile, then buried her face in his chest.

"Yes, madam. I will savour this moment," Klaus, as shameless as ever, hugged her and stayed in bed for another hour until Hanna asked a question that made him remember the good old days when he was just a small boy called Haus.

"Do you want to bathe?" Hanna asked, and Klaus nodded.

"Then you'd better get into the bathroom and take a shower—you stink," Hanna said with a smile, fully aware Klaus was thinking something shameless.

"Haniva would never say this to me. I guess you're not her," Klaus replied, faking hurt as he stood up and began walking to the bathroom.

"You know, I promised I would marry Haniva when I grew up, but seeing you now, I think I'll break that promise. You'll die single," Klaus laughed and ran into the bathroom.

The next second, Hanna darted after him, and soon the two were staring each other in the eye. Klaus smiled at her, but Hanna glared back.

"Take back what you said," Hanna demanded.

"Take what back?" Klaus asked.

"That you broke your promise. Take it back," she said, looking sad for some reason.

"Fine. I was just joking... How can I break a promise I made to my one and only partner in crime?" Klaus said, cupping her cheeks.

Hanna smiled and removed his shirt. Within seconds, Klaus was naked and sitting in a bath. Hanna followed suit, removing her clothes and revealing her flawless body.

She looked at Klaus and gave him a 'don't get any funny ideas' look. Klaus just smiled, and the two began bathing together. Hanna helped him, and he returned the favour.

When they were done, they each dressed. But before leaving, Hanna walked toward him and hugged him.

"When you're done with whatever you have to do, take Mom on a vacation and spend some time with her. She misses you dearly, and a lot has been happening. She seems tired, but she kept going for you and everyone."

Klaus nodded.

He had plans to take his family on a vacation after leaving the dungeon anyway.

However, now that the enemies had shown their fangs, he would, without a doubt, use this chance to deal with them before going on the family trip.

Hanna tiptoed and kissed him on the cheek before holding his hand and walking out of the room, where his family was waiting for him to come out and tell them his plan involving the Legacy Clan alliance.

" "

Chapter 586 - 586: Reunion

Klaus's women were all over him when he entered the hall with the clingy Hanna. Unfortunately for her, before she could keep clinging to Klaus, his women swooped in and took him away from her.

She could only go sit with her mom, who hugged her to stop her from crying. Well, Klaus's mom was just being dramatic and struggling to hold back her emotions.

It had been months since she last saw Klaus, and as a result, she currently didn't have much control over her emotions. Thankfully, she wasn't the only one sitting idle...

Hanna and Kathy were with her.

Speaking of Kathy...

"Are you alright, Kathy?" Hanna asked when she noticed Kathy staring dangerously at Klaus, her eyes full of curiosity.

"I don't know..." Kathy said, not taking her eyes off Klaus.

"Is there something about him that caught your interest?" Klaus's mom, of course, chose the shameless route and decided to shoot her shot for her son.

Unfortunately for her, Kathy wasn't about to check out any Dragon Rod just yet.

"For some reason, I feel like bowing down and worshipping him. There's this energy coming from him that makes me want to follow him forever," Kathy said, forcing Klaus's mom and his sister to look in his direction.

He was busy showering his ladies with kisses and sneaky, shameless massages.

"Hey, Klaus, hurry up! Something's wrong with Kathy." Hanna said. Klaus's mom looked at Hanna, who was clearly jealous but tried to hide it with a laugh.

'Something happened between them while they were away,' she said to herself, but she didn't pursue it. After showering his women with kisses, he looked at his friends.

"You guys have become stronger," Klaus said, looking closely at Kilian, who he could sense a powerful power coming from him.

"Yeah, well, it seems you have become much more of a Monster since you are now a Great Sage. But even so, I think we can now handle you in a group battle," Daniel said, already itching to have a clash with him.

"Maybe after you singlehandedly kill 7 Level 3 Ascendents or 8 Level 5 Ascendents at the same time, only then can you have a chance at scratching my back."

Klaus joked, hearing Daniel's words. However, while it sounded like a joke to him, his words were far more shocking to his women and friends.

"You're joking, right?" Queenie asked, looking at him with eyes that demanded answers.

"Let's not dive into it. It's been hard on you guys, but now that I'm here, I'll handle it. You can just relax and watch me deal with some idiots who think they're supremes."

Klaus jumped into his mom's embrace, making the shameless mother wrap her arms around him like a bear. She was definitely shedding a few tears...

The ladies chose to ignore them and started looking at each other. Klaus's friends were also exchanging glances.

They had planned to ask him to take them into the battle to come... but now, after hearing that he had singlehandedly killed seven Ascendants and even another eight Ascendants, they could tell he wouldn't need their help.

Bummer but understandable...

Not that he needed their help. He could ask them to come, but Klaus wasn't about to share the headlines with his friends.

"Mom, if you keep crying like this, I'll feel guilty every time I have to go away for a while," Klaus said, looking at the most beautiful mother in the world.

"Tsk" His mom just chuckled and wiped her eyes, showing she wasn't really crying.

'She was faking it. Unbelievable' Klaus and his friends couldn't believe their eyes seeing this. This is actually true for Klaus, who was actually feeling guilty for making her worry all these months.

'If only I could spank her for being unruly'

Klaus chose to pocket that for now. Instead, he turned toward Kathy, who was also looking at him.

"Congratulations on your breakthrough, Kathy... You have become a beauty," Klaus said with a smile. Kathy nodded, then asked a question that left everyone except Klaus puzzled.

"Can I have just a drop of your blood?" she asked, making everyone stare at her. Did she just ask for his blood?

Klaus simply smiled and responded.

"Sure..."

The next second, Klaus transformed, taking on his elf form, leaving every jaw hanging. While he was still Klaus, he now appeared as an elf, thanks to his bloodline transformation ability.

Though he could have allowed Kathy to drink his blood in his human form, it wouldn't have been as effective. Paragon had already explained more about the Star Monarch bloodline and its immense power when used in its true form.

Now, he had become an elf, and in doing so, he had become extraordinarily handsome. So handsome, in fact, that even his mother's eyes were wide open.

"No need to look so shocked. Nadia is also an elf. I'm not the first, and I won't be the last."

While he doesn't know how Earth played a role in his past lives, he saw enough to know he was once on Earth, and it is true that he left the dungeon.

Perhaps... he will find out more when he begins exploring the ancient ruins in 7 months' time.

However, the fact that two people, along with a third, who had awakened their bloodlines seem to have transformed suggests that, soon, when everyone starts to awaken their bloodlines, things will change.

Miriam has now become a race called Supreme Human, a race akin to High Elves. She is still human but at a Supreme level.

Of course, it wouldn't take a genius to know that if she somehow has a fateful encounter, she could be the first ever to become a Celestial Human.

Klaus is now a Human, Elf, and an Unknown.

Paragon told him he should name his race after awakening Fruity's bloodline. However, for some reason, he wasn't comfortable with that, so for now, he would see himself as an Unknown.

As to when or what it meant and what he was capable of, he would find out soon enough.

"Here you go." Klaus pricked his finger and extended his hand to Kathy.

She took it into her mouth and began sucking and licking his finger like a lollipop. A few minutes into her licking and sucking, she stopped and sat down.

"Hanna, take her to your room. Kathy will need a few days, or maybe a week, to evolve," Klaus said casually, making everyone wonder what the hell had happened.

One minute, she was licking and sucking his blood; the next, she entered a meditative state that seemed on the verge of making her breakthrough.

"Klaus, what the hell just happened? And how are you an elf?" Lucy asked, unable to make sense of any of it.

"I won't tell you... But if there's any joy in it, know that after I'm done with the legacies, all of you will finally awaken your bloodlines. You can find out then."

Lucy and the ladies gritted their teeth, but they could only watch as Klaus reverted to his human form.

If only they knew they were in the presence of the one, they once called the Calamities' Tamer... For he was the first in history to tame all three Great Calamities and made them his fateful servants.

This pissed off the heavens...

Chapter 587 - 587: Bold Declaration (1)

"This is KKKickinIt with the controversial news." On screens all around the world, the most-watched news and gossip channel was broadcasting, and their favorite reporter was smiling at them through their screens.

"I know most of you have been wondering where I've been for the past few days. Whether I was kidnapped or whether I stopped posting entirely. The answer is... I will never stop posting.

I love you all, and the thought of stopping updates for my dear listeners and readers is just too puzzling. Now, I wouldn't want to waste much time, so why don't I disclose where I've been these past few days?"

KKKickinIt smiles and continues.

"The past week has been all about the Legacies, Clans, and Dark Order declaring war on Klaus Hanson—the youngest warrior ever to climb the warrior charts and accomplish mind-numbing feats that no warrior had ever achieved before.

The past week had been tragic as we all witnessed the attack on the Klaus family. As of now, it hasn't been disclosed whether Klaus's mother and his rumored War Goddess girlfriend are still alive or not, but that will be revealed soon.

Yes... I am currently with Klaus Hanson, who has invited me for an interview where he plans to issue his own statement to the Legacy Clan Alliance and the entire world.

The Legacy Clan Alliance has made their stance, the Overlords have made their stance, and now it's Klaus's turn to make his stance. So, without further ado, I will begin.

The moment KKK, as she preferred to be called, made her statement, those watching the show from all over the world turned their full attention to the video and began watching intently.

After the Legacies and the Clans released news of the attack on the Klaus family, Klaus's fans became enraged, with some clashing with haters of Klaus Hanson.

Luckily, Uncle Ziggy and his other uncles had once again gone off on one of their mysterious adventures so they weren't around to cause chaos like when he was attacked by the dark order.

Now, Klaus is back to issue his own statement.

"Welcome to the controversial news, Klaus." Klaus's image appeared on the screen, and everyone's eyes widened. In fact, even married women widened their eyes when they saw the handsome face on their screens.

"Thank you, KKK," Klaus responded with a small smile that left KKK blushing faintly. The ladies watching didn't like that, but all they could do was watch.

Of course, Queenie, Ohema, and Nadia weren't there, as they didn't want their relationship with Klaus to be known just yet... but it will be soon.

"Well, Klaus, you invited me here, so care to tell everyone why we are here?" KKK said, reluctant to get down to business. Klaus just smiled.

"I know you want to ask a lot of questions, so why don't we get down to business? It's not like I'm rushing to get things over anyway," Klaus said, acting all human when, in fact, the current version of him and the one inside were clashing against each other.

"Then I won't be polite," KKK said, asking her first question.

"Many are wondering—and when I say many, I include myself—is it true that the War Goddess of the Eastern Region is your girlfriend? And if yes, how? I know many would want to know... Lol," KKK asked, and Klaus just smiled.

"Yes... War Goddess Miriam is my girlfriend, and as to how I managed to pull it off... Well, I did it with my awesomeness and handsomeness. Just between me and you, she fell for me at first sight," Klaus said, moving closer to KKK.

Everyone heard it, and Miriam, who was watching the show, turned red with embarrassment. Klaus was just too shameless.

In fact, it was he who had been obsessed with her breasts for months, drooling in his sleep over the thought of planting his face within them. Now that he had succeeded, he shifted all the blame to Miriam.

"Your sense of humor never changes," KKK said. Instead of calling it shamelessness, she branded it as humor. Of course, every Klaus fan watching this gave him a thumbs-up while the haters seethed.

"I don't see why I shouldn't be classic. I mean, you're practically best friends with the Overlords. They only watch your channel... In a way, they're obsessed with you," Klaus said, and KKK's jaw dropped.

"Lol... You didn't know, huh? Well, I happen to be friends with Overlord Nari, and from what I've seen so far, she's obsessed with your channel.

She even told me their leader introduced them to it," Klaus said with a grin, fully aware of the rising killing intent emanating from one part of the house.

Queenie was clearly plotting to challenge him to a spar the next time they had free time. During that spar, she'd undoubtedly break a few of his bones for outing her like this.

And it wasn't just her; the overlords watching, though smiling, also held the same thought. The fact that Klaus was out of the dungeon meant he had succeeded. While they were happy, they also wanted to discipline him for his unruly behavior.

"Thanks for letting me know." Kkk was on cloud nine at the moment. In fact, all over the world, everyone was happy for her.

While Klaus might have been joking about what he said, a few months ago, KKKickinIt reported on a discovery that was made in the academy.

Apparently, Klaus and Overlord Nari are friends. So hearing him confirm their relationship now authenticates what he said about the overlords liking controversial news—obsessed is the right word here.

"It's shocking to know you have an Overlord as a friend," KKK commented.

"Well, it's one of those situations you don't have a say in. Overlord Nari is actually a great friend," Klaus said with a smile, knowing the word "great" should have been "wicked."

Nari is wicked by design.

Just a day ago, they received a report that Nari was awake but in seclusion. Strangely, she had reached the peak of the Ascendent stage and would be breaking through in a month or two.

Though that is bad, Klaus wasn't concerned like before he entered the dungeon...

"Well, it's you, so there's no telling what you couldn't do. That being said, while I still have many questions, we can pocket those and get down to business.

A week ago, your family was attacked by the Legacy Clan Alliance, and then they declared war against you. It has been days since this declaration.

Do you have plans to respond, or are you calling for a negotiation instead? The current odds stacked against you are overwhelming.

Also, from reports, it seems some other Great Families and Mercenary Factions have joined the alliance. It appears your situation with the Legacy Alliance isn't on stable ground now.

So tell us, are you responding with hostile intent? Do you plan on taking the easy way out and surrendering? Or perhaps, are you considering seeking help from your Overlord friend?"

KKK asks all the right questions.

All over the world, everyone watching held their breath as they waited for what Klaus had to say. They all knew that what he would say now would determine the outcome of things in the coming days.

It might be a war that would cause great damage or a harmless surrender that would end things much more simply and peacefully...

Klaus looks into the camera and smiles...

"You know, my father once said, 'When you poke the beehive, you will know how the sting feels.'" Klaus smiles, and then his face turns into a cold expression.

"Since they want war... In two days, two Legacy Families, three Clans, and the rest of their allies will know what despair feels and looks like."

Chapter 588 - 588: Bold Declaration (2)

While the words were spoken from thousands of miles away and people were just watching on their phones, everyone broke into a cold sweat upon hearing what Klaus said.

It was a bold declaration but one that left everyone wondering if what they heard and felt was the reality coming in two days.

"You know, sometimes, I just don't understand how an entire family will resolve to come after a single human who isn't even an Overlord. I may have disciplined their child, but it was a duel, and I had to win.

But here we are, and as shameless as it can be, two Legacy Families, three great clans, and a loser faction calling themselves the Dark Order also choose to join the alliance, so what, they can finally kill me?"

"Hmm... I don't know about shamelessness, but I know I wouldn't be prolonging this battle between me and them.

They attacked my family while I was away, and that, if there was ever a chance for us to talk this out, is now gone." Klaus's eyes were staring daggers into the camera.

"They attacked me and my friends while we were on a mission at the academy, but I chose to chalk that up to them being desperate. But they dare attack my mother and woman? I won't swallow that.

Thankfully, the Overlords won't interfere, which works well for me. So I, Klaus Hanson, officially declare that in two days, I will arrive in Union City and promise that within three hours, if I don't erase these so-called alliances from the face of the earth, never take me seriously again."

Klaus's words were arrogant yet coldly spoken, making many think that perhaps things aren't as simple as they once appeared.

"You know many will think the Overlords not interfering would be bad for you, especially since your Overlord friends wouldn't be able to come to your aid," KKK said, probing for more clarification.

"Nari wouldn't do that... I mean, she hasn't done anything yet, so you should rest assured she won't interfere. But I don't think I should be the one asking for the protection of the Overlords.

I don't see any way out for this alliance. Thankfully, all innocent citizens have been evacuated. So, in two days, I, alone, will arrive in Union City.

It will be best if the Northern Union picks a new Legacy Family, for one will soon be gone from the face of the earth."

KKKickinIt stared at Klaus and could tell he meant every word he had just spoken. This made her start to think that perhaps, in two days, something shocking would happen.

"Like I said, in two days, only I will be matching there. I have no plans on bringing anyone else... not even my friends. So the Alliance should be happy because, in two days, they will come close to killing me but won't succeed.

Also, to their soldiers currently watching, you have two days to decide whether you want to face me or live. In two days, everyone gathered to face me will die. I won't spare anyone, so make your decision."

Klaus looked at KKKickinIt and smiled.

"Thank you for coming, KKK; though this wasn't the ideal news one would love to report, however, since you helped me, I will help you get an interview with at least one Overlord. And if you work fast, you can build your fame from there."

Immediately, Klaus said that, and he vanished from his chair, shocking everyone.

The next time he appeared, he was inside his room, where his ladies and friends quickly rushed in.

"You really aren't taking us with you?" Anna, who wanted to show off her abilities, asked with a pout.

"No... You ladies shouldn't take part in this useless battle. In the coming weeks, when the Moonborns arrive, we will be going on dangerous missions so you all can prepare for what is to come."

"What is to come?" Lily asked. Everyone waited for an answer.

"I can't say for now, but all I know is, soon, something bad will happen, and if we are not prepared, this world will cease to exist. Now, I am not saying this so you can despair; I am saying this so you can prepare.

You all are sages now and have awakened powerful elements, but can you boldly take on a Transcendent or even an Ascendent? The answer is no, but you can learn to fight them. So, after this stupid battle, we will start preparing."

Klaus turned to Queenie.

"I have cleared the 31st floor of the dungeon, and you were right; there is indeed a portal that leads to the ancient ruin, but it will open 7 months from now.

So, you can go inform the Overlords... Also, tell them I want to have a meeting with them." Queenie nodded with a smile.

Klaus then turned to Hanna.

"Take Kathy and everyone to Stone Valley. After the battle, I will join you there. It's time we have a family vacation," Klaus's mom smiled upon hearing that. She wanted that, but for now, her focus was on Klaus's hair, which had grown too long.

"You guys are included, but you must bring your girlfriends. I don't plan on staring at your faces all day. These eyes only look at beautiful ladies."

Daniel and co rolled their eyes. Klaus had become powerful, but he was still the same Klaus. However, they didn't argue. Klaus had already made it clear to them that he wouldn't be taking them with him...

"How about sister Nadia?" Luna asked. Though she and her sister aren't one of Klaus's women, they are equally family, so they are in the room with them.

Klaus's mom had already started working behind the scenes for them. Had it not been for them, she would have been dead by now. Because of that, she started working to make her son recognize them.

Shameless mother... shameless son.

"You ladies should leave this evening. Nadia will come out the moment you leave... She is still blaming herself for what happened, but I will talk to her."

The ladies nodded and scrambled, leaving only Klaus and his mother.

"Are you sure you don't need their help? They have been training very hard so they can fight side by side with you," Klaus's mom asked.

"This battle is not something I want them to dirty their hands with. In fact, if they hadn't attacked Nadia, leading to Miriam and you nearly dying, I wouldn't have even responded to any war declaration from them."

Klaus sat in front of his mother, who started cutting his hair.

"You are just like your father. He was all about doing risky things. I'm sure one of those risky things got him killed... I just don't want you to become too much like him," Klaus's mom said calmly.

"I won't do anything risky, Mother. I left all the risks in the dungeon." Klaus smiled as he let his mom work on his hair. He wouldn't deny her that.

"So, are you finally going to make your girlfriends your women?" Klaus's mom asked, making Klaus turn and look at her strangely.

"What... I am your mother... It's normal to ask questions like this," Klaus's mom smiled.

"Nothing is normal about this. You're just too shameless for your own good." Klaus's mom landed a smack on the back of his head, making Klaus smile.

"And yes... I have kept them waiting for too long." Klaus wasn't about to hesitate anymore. Klaus's mom smiled and already began planning to gossip with the ladies.

"What about Hanna?" she asked.

"What Hanna and I have is complicated, but I do plan on making her my woman. I'll wait for her to come around. For now, we'll remain brother and overprotective sister." Klaus smiled, knowing he and Hanna were much more complex than they appeared.

After a while, she was done with his human hair. "When you're back, I'll handle your elf hair and whatever form you have aside from that." Klaus's mom gave him a wink before leaving.

For a moment, Klaus could tell she knew about his other form—the Unknown form.

But how?

A few hours later, everyone was gone. Even the maids and guards left for their vacation at Stone Valley, leaving Klaus behind.

"You can come out now... Nadia."

Chapter 589 - 589: Pacifying a Puppet Master [18+]

The sound of moaning could be heard.

Inside Klaus's bathroom, his head was buried between Nadia's legs as he licked her nether cave. Nadia was equally moaning her heart out.

She was gripping the bedspread as her chest rose up and down, moaning like crazy.

A few hours after everyone left, Klaus called Nadia out. He knew she was watching everything wherever she was, so she came out when it was just him around.

But instead of talking, Klaus immediately engages in an intimate catching up, which ultimately ends them in the situation that they are in.

Klaus was using his expertise to make sure Nadia felt his affections on the inner level, and, as such, for the next 30 minutes, he had been going down on her making her cum three times already.

"AaaaahhhHhhh"

Nadia's moan filled the bathroom as her dam burst open, spraying her love juice for the 4th time. Klaus continued licking her until she was done cumming.

He raised his head and looked at the pleasure-filled face staring at him.

"You sure you don't want to do it just yet...The ladies won't say anything, you know." Klaus asked a question he had already asked when they started their intimate bonding.

"No. I will wait for now," Nadia said with a flustered expression. It was her first time being this intimate with him.

Klaus hasn't been this physical with her like this before.

Nadia glanced at little Klaus, who was staring at her, and her blush deepened. Klaus just chuckled.

"You do know we are dating, right? And things like this are normal among lovers." Klaus knew what she wanted to do, but she was shy and hesitant to do it.

Maybe she was just too shy since she had never been close to Klaus like Anna and the other were. She only gets to see him when he comes for photoshoots. So, the fact that they are now getting intimate was overwhelming for her.

But she also doesn't want to remain the same, so she chooses to be bold.

She moved closer and wrapped her hands around little Klaus, who was happy to finally have a playmate. It has been months since he was this close to any of his lovers.

Nadia began stroking it while looking at Klaus with a flustered expression. Klaus just allowed her to get accustomed to whatever she was feeling and have her way.

It took her just a couple of minutes to wrap her lips around his dick and begin sucking it. Klaus relaxed his body, and for 30 minutes, he let her play around until he came, giving her the infamous star juice.

In the end, she went ahead for another round that ended similarly. After they were done, they bathed and went to bed in each other's arms.

Nadia doesn't want to overtake Klaus's other lovers, so she wants to wait until he is done with them. Though it wasn't something she had to worry about, Klaus knew ladies are weird, especially in a harem, so he allowed her to make her own decision.

They spent the night sleeping and having dreams.

In the morning, Klaus chooses to talk to her...

"Why did you run off when you woke up?" Klaus asked. Though his mom had pacified her, she still retreated into her secret domain and only came out after the ladies had left.

"I'm sorry for doing that, but I needed some alone time to check what I have become. I was too weak, and because of me, I nearly got Sister Miriam killed," Nadia said with a defeated sigh.

Klaus flicked her long elf ear, making her glare at him.

"What... you think this happened because of you?" Klaus asked. "You must be mistaken. All this happened because of my beef with them. If anything, I should be the one feeling guilty right now.

All you did was break through and become a Saint. What happened afterward was that my enemies were shameless and chose to target those I cared about. You and the others were in danger because of me."

"Still, I should have done something instead of standing there like an idiot while everything around me was chaotic," Nadia sighed. She had frozen when the attack came, but luckily, she only experienced mild headaches.

"It's understandable. You've never been in a fight before, so don't beat yourself up. If things had been different, you wouldn't have hesitated to step in.

Just go to your sisters, who are waiting for you in Stone Valley. They will help you in every way they can. Use this chance to grow faster, and if you're still feeling guilty, then become even stronger so that one day, you can also save them."

Nadia nodded, bringing a smile to Klaus's lips.

"Good. Also, you don't have to cover your ear... the fact that you're an elf doesn't make you a monster," Klaus said, playing with her ears.

"Why do you keep touching my ears, and how is this possible?" Nadia asked.

"You've awakened your bloodline, which happens to be that of an elf. You can already feel your connection to the energies, right? That's one trait of the elves—they have a high affinity for magic."

Nadia nodded again and asked, "How do you know all this? It's not like there's ever been an elf before in this world... They only exist in fictional novels."

Klaus smiled and shifted into his elf form, making Nadia's eyes widen.

"You are also an elf? But how? How are you a human and an elf at the same time? I can't turn back to my human form," Nadia said, frowning.

"That's because I'm awesome and handsome," Klaus laughed.

"You..." Nadia threw baby punches at his chest. "Be serious here!"

"Sorry... The only reason I can shift between forms is that I have more than one bloodline," Klaus explained, making Nadia finally nod in understanding.

"I feel like I'm too beautiful in my elf form. It would be good not to draw too much attention," Nadia sighed.

"You are indeed beautiful, and it's only natural for my women to be some of the greatest beauties in the universe," Klaus laughed, gently massaging her breasts.

"By the way, where have you been these past few days?" Klaus asked.

"It's a place called the Puppet Shop. It's like my own pocket dimension where I can work in isolation. Everything inside this realm is under my control," Nadia smiled.

"I see. Then, do you want to show me around after my battle? I would love to see how puppeteers work. Also, do you need something to work with? I know you'll need materials to create your puppets."

"That's the thing. When I entered the Puppet Shop, there were already some materials there. In fact, I have more than enough to work with. The only thing I'm lacking now is the schematic, which, for some reason, is locked away.

I even saw some puppets that had already been created and sealed. When I tried to open them, I discovered that I must fulfill certain requirements—part of which involves being intimate with you.

Now, before you get any ideas, know that there's a strict 'no sex before battle' policy here. Also, I would never cheat on my sisters," Nadia teased him, smirking mischievously.

She looked at him seriously and continued, "But I've created two puppets who are currently gathering intel on the alliance. So far, they've only managed to collect 70% of the information, and it's not looking good for you."

Klaus smiled...

Chapter 590 - 590: Anticipation...

It has been two days since Klaus announced that she would be storming Union City to face the Legacy Clan alliance.

It was an arrogant yet bold move on her part, making such a bold declaration on air. But it was also what was needed since this has built up the anticipation to another level.

Currently, the various heads of the alliance are gathered inside a luxurious building in Union City.

Duncan, along with Jiwon, Mason, and Nabil, was there. Vargas, the head of the Vargas legacy family, was also present. Markos from the Markos Great Family in the Western Union was also in attendance. Lanky of the Lanky Great Family from the Eastern Union was also present.

Aside from them, a few notable families who are in some way linked to the Legacy families and a few to the great clans were also present. A handful of mercenary groups and factions were around as well.

However, the main attraction was the leader of the Dark Order, who had become an Ascendant and was now sitting wearing a mask in one corner of the room.

Naturally, he commanded the most powerful force, considering Dark Lords One, Two, Nine, and Eleven had now become Transcendents.

This made him the highest authority there, yet he chose to stay out of their way and focus on what he had come to do... kill Klaus Hanson.

"Is everything ready?" Duncan, acting as the leader of the alliance, asked.

"Yes," one of the mercenary leaders responded. "Everyone is ready and waiting for him to make his appearance."

"Good," Duncan nodded.

Though one could describe this as overkill, they were not taking any chances. Now that they knew Klaus was friends with an Overlord, they had to be extra careful.

Thankfully, the Dark Order joined them, so they are pretty confident now. They have assembled a force that could challenge a whole country if this were before the apocalypse. Now they are sitting in wait for a mere youngster to appear.

"But do we really need all this force to face him? This is practically all of our warriors combined. This feels like overkill," Collins Simmy, one of the heads of the great families affiliated with the Vargas legacy family, asked.

"This is Klaus Hanson we are talking about. He singlehandedly cleared an entire Forbidden Zone when he was several times weaker than he currently is. He has done things that just don't make sense.

So while yes, this is overkill—going against him with thousands of Saints, Sages, and Great Sages, hundreds of Sovereigns, dozens of Transcendents, and even an Ascendant—at the end of the day, we all want to see his dead body.

"And while people will criticize us, using our entire force to kill him is worth it. He is not someone we can ignore, so he must die," Duncan said without hesitation.

They could never control him, so they might as well kill him. Even though they knew the overlords wouldn't interfere, they were still prepared for them.

They continued to wait for their prey.

Meanwhile, far from the Northern Union, the heads of the Ravani Great Clan and Antonio Great Clan were staring at a large screen showing the events about to unfold in the Northern Union.

It wasn't just them. All over the world, and even in the Celestial Mountain Academy, everyone was watching the events that were about to happen.

"Do you think we made the right decision not to join this alliance? If we had, we would have gained a connection to the Dark Order and a few powerhouses," Ravani sighed.

"I also don't know, but I have a gut feeling we may have escaped something. Even if they succeed in killing that brat, the overlord's friend would definitely come after them one way or another," Antonio replied.

"Well, you have to give it to Klaus; he sure knows how to anger people," Ravani sighed. "His father saved my life a couple of years ago, you know.

Back then, I was attacked by a bunch of zombies, and I happened to run into him. I never knew he was this brat's father until recently when I chose to look into him."

"Wait, that benefactor you wanted to give your daughter to is this brat's father?" Antonio asked with a raised eyebrow.

"Yes. Such a small world, isn't it?" Ravani sighed.

He knew he wouldn't be able to do much today, but if there was a chance in the future that Klaus would survive, then he would surely repay him for his father saving his life.

Meanwhile, the overlords were also watching, but not from their meeting rooms. No, they were a couple of miles away from Union City.

Queenie obviously wasn't with them, as she was currently watching from Stone Valley, where Klaus's friends and women were.

"Isn't this an overkill? I mean, Klaus is just one person," Overlord Mira said, looking very angry.

Queenie had informed them of Klaus's success in the dungeon, and as the coolest overlord among them, she believed Klaus should be celebrated by now. Instead, he was about to engage in a life-and-death battle with this useless Alliance.

Overlord Dharma looked at her and smiled. "Don't worry. Although the leader said we shouldn't interfere, I won't let Klaus die. Not on my watch."

It wasn't only him; the other Overlords all held the same thought. Klaus had just helped them unlock an ancient ruin, and for that, they wouldn't let him die just like that.

"But what if Klaus does indeed have the strength to kill them all? Are we to intervene?" Overlord Sorrine asked.

"Then they can all die. This behaviour of theirs isn't commendable. Instead of protecting an asset, they actually want to take him down," Overlord Dharma said, exuding some killing intent.

Meanwhile, as everyone was waiting for Klaus to grace them with his presence, he was at the moment negotiating with five battle-ready individuals blocking his path.

"Uncle Ziggy, I said this is none of your fault, so don't beat yourself up over it. As for joining the battle, no can do," Klaus said, looking at his five uncles who had returned as Peak Great Sages after vanishing for over three months.

"We're coming whether you like it or not," Uncle Jojo said, brandishing his colossal shield.

Klaus could only scratch his head, trying to think of a way to solve this issue. Though having them around was cool, it would defeat the purpose of what he planned to show.

After today, he wanted to declare that no matter who you are, never come against him or anyone in his circle. He was ending all forms of negative thoughts directed toward him.

"How about this: instead of fighting against me, you five can act as my anchor and use your soul strength to expand a containment formation," Klaus offered.

"Are you planning on boxing them in?" Uncle Ziggy asked.

"More like a pentagon, but yes. I plan to keep all of them contained, and to do that, I will need to depend on your soul strength. This way, without even using your weapons, you can help me on the soul level."

The five uncles nodded. They couldn't object to this compromise. Klaus smiled and told them to spread out and surround Union City, which, to his shock, took them just under an hour.

Klaus then moved, and the next second, he made his presence known in Union City. This, of course, was the moment the Alliance realized they had poked the wrong bear.

" "