Chapter 611 - 611: Asha's Secret (1)

"I am done," Kent said, setting down the last Hypnotic Illusion Star.

He had been at it for hours now. Thankfully, he wasn't alone during the process. His ladies were there, giving him all the support he needed.

Now, he had one for every one of his women, lovers, friends, their girlfriends, and even Kofi.

He had recovered, but he was in seclusion training.

Though the attack was from someone he had no business fighting against, it seemed to affect him somehow. So, he was getting over it through training.

He will be receiving one of the Crystals...

Now, all they had to do was inject their energy into it, and they would be pulled into the illusion—where a day inside was just an hour outside. This would let them train and face whatever they had to without worrying about time.

However, this would also mean their stress and fatigue would be multiplied severalfold when they woke up.

"You ladies won't have to worry about entering now. I'm not done with any of you, so for now, I'll hold on to these crystals," Klaus said, storing away the crystals. He stood up and stretched.

"Asha dear, why don't we spend some time together so you can show me how amazing you are," Kent said. Astra quickly abandoned the two vixens beside her and latched onto Kent's hand.

"This bitch," Anna glared at the traitor who had so easily abandoned them. They had been planning to steal Klaus from the ladies today so they could spend some time with him in preparation for their coming night with him.

However, when the chance presented itself, Asha abandoned them.

Asha just stuck out her tongue and teasingly flicked it at the ladies, who clenched their fists and started plotting their revenge.

"See you ladies later," Kent said, walking away with Asha in his arms.

Klaus and Asha began exploring the majestic valley, making sure they had some of the best time together. It was like they were two friends walking about.

Their energy levels were in sync, considering Asha was the loudmouth of the group. She didn't shy away from cursing anyone.

When Klaus first met her at the academy, everyone instantly hated her when she single-handedly cursed at Hunter Duncan and his team.

Now, she was all over Klaus, even stopping at some points just to share a kiss. She wanted to devour him despite them being in public. This, of course, caused many to raise eyebrows at their public display of affection.

But after all, they were just two young adults who wanted to share some intimate moments together.

After exploring the valley for a while, they returned to the hotel, where she and Klaus found themselves in a room. Nothing freaky happened, but she was sleeping on his chest, staring at him.

"Promise me you won't think I'm weird after knowing my secrets," she suddenly spoke, making Klaus raise an eyebrow.

"I can't promise anything, but know that no matter how weird it is, you are still my beautiful Asha," Klaus responded.

"You..." Asha playfully punched his chest, making Klaus smile. "You are definitely going to think I'm weird."

She exhaled and then stood up.

"If you tease me, I will make sure you regret it later," she pouted and waved her hand. Suddenly, a brown door with intricate drawings appeared inside the room.

Klaus was taken aback, but he had expected something like this.

Nothing was known about Asha—not even the sect elders knew. Aside from Old Lu, nobody had any idea what kind of monster she was.

Of course, she also didn't want people to know, so she kept it hidden and portrayed herself as a summoner who only summoned three powerful ants. That was all even her sister, Nia, knew about her class.

Now, the door appeared, and Klaus could tell it was much bigger than anyone would have thought. He stood up and walked toward Asha.

"So, your class also has a realm like Nadia's," Klaus said, and Asha nodded.

"I am an insect cultivator, and this door leads to my Insect Domain, where I work to grow, modify, and, to some extent, create my own insects."

Asha said, showing some pride in her words. Klaus smiled and patted her head, "Nice one, little girl."

"Who are you calling a little girl? In case you don't know, I have the power to bring down the alliance you fought a week ago."

"Sure," Kent smirked.

"I am telling the truth," Asha, who saw Klaus's expression, said, but Klaus just nodded, making her grow irritated.

"I hope you maintain your smug expression after you see my insect army," she pouted before opening the door. Klaus just smiled, watching her expression.

He was teasing her, but the insect doctor seemed much more serious about impressing him. If that was the case, then he would just see for himself.

They entered the opened door. It was as simple as walking through an open door. The moment they entered, the first thing Klaus saw was a large forge made from strange-looking metals.

It was very large and surrounded by seven pillars, each with different kinds of runes carved into them.

"Alpha, Queen, Emperor, Monarch, Demon, Divine, General," Klaus spoke the words as if he were the one who wrote them there.

This caused Asha to look at him with widened eyes. "You can read those words?" she asked, her eyes burning for an immediate answer.

"Yeah. Those are just ancient runes; I don't even have to think before saying them," Klaus bragged, but he knew it was all thanks to his [Universal Enigma] passive skill.

"Then come." Asha grabbed his hand and began leading him closer to the forge, which looked more like a basin sitting on a furnace.

They stopped a couple of steps away from the forge, and Asha pointed at a bunch of writings. "Translate that for me," Asha requested, and Klaus nodded.

"The eternal forge of the Insect Supreme. The first and the largest forge said to hold the power to create seven categories of insects and arachnids.

It has the power to create any form of insect you can design. With materials acting as sacrifice and blood from life as an authority, create the first-of-a-kind insects that will all be under your control."

Klaus read the writings, and Asha's smile bloomed. But her smile faded when she realized there was no explanation for using it...

She only heard how it works but not how to activate it...

Chapter 612 - 612: Asha's Secret (2)

"What are you smiling at?" Asha asked, looking at the smug expression on Klaus's face.

"Nothing. Just looking at your cute little face makes me want to cup it and never let go," Klaus said, making Asha glare intently at him.

"You clearly aren't saying everything. Spill it," she said, making Klaus scoff.

"You were the one who wanted to show off your amazing secrets. I'm like a guest here, so why do you expect me to know everything?" Klaus replied, then turned to the forge again and started scrutinizing it.

He could hear Asha gritting her teeth behind him, but he enjoyed making her mad. Asha was rather unruly, so he knew if he were to let her, she would clearly rub her achievements in his face.

He wasn't giving her the satisfaction. This only seems to irritate the little insect queen...

"You do know that without my permission, you can't leave here, right?" Just when Klaus was feeling smug, Asha spoke, making him turn slowly toward her and smile.

"I was just messing with you, big sister Asha," Klaus said, changing his tone immediately. He knew the brat before him wouldn't hesitate to leave him there, and as she said, he would be stuck.

Klaus had no authority there. The whole domain is under her authority, so if she indeed wanted, she would leave him there for as long as she wanted.

[Looks like you finally found someone you can contend with.] The senior even sounded amused when Asha threatened Klaus.

'I'll be sure to punish her soon,' Klaus smiled and then decided to reveal the true nature of the forge.

"Basically, this forge will allow you to forge seven different kinds, or let's say, seven different categories of insects. Now, know that these categories exist in the outside world, the universe. However, this forge will allow you to forge them from your own design.

Right now, this forge is dormant. It will require some sacrifices and rituals to awaken. One of those rituals will be for you to form a soul bond with it by putting your blood on it.

The second will reveal itself to you when you finally become my woman. As for the last, you will need the blood of an Ascendant insect-type beast, monster, zombie, or human.

Of course, the monster or beast must die by your hands before their blood would work...

When these things are fulfilled, you will receive instructions on how to use it."

Klaus smiled and cupped her cheeks. He moved closer and kissed her. When pulling away, he bit her lip, drawing blood.

'Tastes yummy,' Klaus said to himself, savoring her blood. The blood was rather sweet when he tasted it.

He could swear the taste overwhelmed him for a moment there, but he didn't give in.

He used Asha's fingers to clean the blood and then pressed them against the forge. It vibrated a couple of times, making Asha smile.

"That is the first awakening. The rest will show themselves later. Now, why don't you show me your army?"

Asha nodded and led him away. The next stop was a green field where, in the distance, Klaus could see a huge mountain with a large cave in it.

"Asha Alpha, come out!" Asha shouted, making Klaus raise an eyebrow.

'Did she just call an Insect Monster Asha Alpha' He wondered, looking toward the mountain.

The mountain shuddered immediately. The next second, a large, dark Ant monster with eight legs, a colossal head, a long and thick antenna, and six eyes as red as blood lining each side of its face appeared.

Its height was around 70 meters, and from the look of the carapace covering this monstrosity, it would probably be hard to break.

It moved, and within a few seconds, it was within range. Klaus squinted his eyes, and from just looking at it, he knew the monster race name and its evolution potential.

"An Obsidian Dark Carapace Ant, huh? Not bad for a rookie," Klaus smirked, but he was impressed.

The ant before him was one of the colony's most aggressive types of ants. Just one could cause great calamity on the battlefield due to their hard defenses and destructive abilities.

"Yes. This is Asha Alpha. She was my best friend from the moment I awakened. When I became a Great Sage recently, Asha became a Transcendent, but she hasn't evolved yet. I don't know why..."

"Obsidian Dark Carapace Ants are carnivorous in nature. She probably needs to eat a lot of Tier 9 monsters or beasts.

Eating them would speed up her evolution, else the moment she reached the Tier 10 stage, she could not evolve into a beast anymore

Of course, if she were to eat her children, that would also speed up the process," Klaus suggested, but from the look in Asha's eyes, he knew that wasn't going to happen.

"Asha Alpha doesn't like that. We don't eat family," Asha said, making Klaus smirk again.

"I can give her my blood, which will help her evolve much faster, but she must work for it. Since she is the colony's queen, becoming a beast will affect her progeny.

Meaning the rest of her children will become beasts when they ascend to the Transcendent stage. This is the power of my bloodline. The moment I give it to her, it will affect all those she gave birth to.

By the way, how many children does she have?" Klaus asked. Since Asha seemed to treat her like a person, he didn't mind doing the same.

"Asha is my first Contracted Insect. However, I didn't make her a breeder; instead, I made her into an Alpha. So for now, she has 18 children, and they are all Peak Sovereigns."

"Wait, what?" This time, Klaus was taken aback.

"18 Peak Sovereigns? Are you telling the truth?" Klaus asked.

Asha smiled and puffed her chest out. She then snapped her fingers, and from where Asha Alpha came from, 18 similar ants appeared, each a Peak Sovereign (Tier 8).

"No way. You really do have the strength to go against the Alliance," Klaus said, patting her on the head, but Asha swiped his hand away.

She clearly didn't like Klaus patting her head like she was a kid...

"I didn't want quantity; I was after quality. So, I made sure Asha Alpha bred only once every three months. This way, instead of using her strength to breed thousands, she could use that strength to amplify her own cultivation.

"This was also why the academy didn't allow me to participate in duels. In insect cultivation, instead of going after monsters and beasts to form contracts with, you just need one ant, and the rest is history.

Not even the instructors could handle me if I were to compete."

"This is awesome. I am really proud of you, Asha," Klaus said, kissing her lips.

"Oh, I'm not done. You see, after I got Asha, she took me to her enemy colony, and despite the danger, I got another ant. Then I got yet another when I came to the academy, and one was just three months ago.

"Now, I have three Queens and a King who is at the level of an Overlord."

"What...?"

Chapter 613 - 613: Asha's Secret (3)

"This is Monix. She is a Devouring Venom Ant, my second contracted insect, and also a Tier 9 (Transcendent) insect ant. Under her are 14 Tier 8 ants, each ready to Break through the moment they devour a Tier 9 monster."

Asha took Klaus to the next place, which was the colony of one of the most powerful Ant monsters: the Devouring Venom Ants.

Their primary mode of attack is their venom, which devours upon contact. It doesn't matter the strength level of the opponent. When they come in contact with this venom, it will inflict damage.

"Wait a minute. If you have this type of ant, why don't you make it breed thousands, too? With their powerful venom, having thousands of them would be much more ideal," Klaus asked.

Any venom, when used in larger quantities, is always the best.

"I know that, but that would mean their ranks would be low, and I don't want that. I prefer a single Tier 8 to hundreds of Tier 5.

Of course, I only have these few, mainly because I don't really send them out there to hunt unless I follow Sister Nia on missions.

But aside from that, I also want to make them Beasts before breeding them. I am sure the moment they become Beasts, all newborns will be Beasts too."

Asha spoke like a caring mother, and Klaus could only listen to her. But her thinking was spot on. A Beast Ant would indeed breed beast children...

Klaus was impressed and shocked at the same time.

The army under her control is indeed not something to be trifled with. She again has another Transcendent and dozens of Tier 8s, each a monster in its own right.

[This young lady is not simple. Her Class is called Insects X Hive. But so far, she hasn't said anything about her class aside from forming contracts with these insects. If I were to guess, she only has access to forming contracts and speaking with them.

Even I am unsure if she can modify them until she awakens her bloodline.

Now, this may be a long stretch, but if she awakens a Supreme Queen Hive bloodline, know that you will have the Wicked Queen of pests, insects, and diseases on your hands.]

'Is it that bad?' Klaus asked.

[Yes. If she were to awaken that bloodline, then know that even a tiny ant can one day become a terror if she gets her hands on it.

Her class is designed to create an army of insects that nobody will pay attention to until it is too late. She has already started, and from the look of things, she has already figured out a path.

If all the insects under her were to evolve, then even you would have a problem dealing with her. Just wait until you see an insect evolve. That is when the true terror of an insect will be shown.]

Klaus absorbed the information with a thoughtful expression. If Asha truly awakened the Supreme Queen Hive bloodline, her potential would be limitless.

The thought of an army of evolved insects, each capable of becoming a terror in its own right, sent a chill down his spine.

He glanced at Asha, who was now gently stroking Monix's head, her expression calm and focused. She seemed so unassuming, yet her power was anything but ordinary.

Klaus couldn't help but feel admiration toward her.

[You see, Klaus, the true danger lies not just in the strength of her insects but in their adaptability and numbers. Insects are among the most resilient and resourceful creatures in existence.

They can thrive in the harshest environments, reproduce rapidly, and evolve alarmingly.

If Asha can harness that potential fully, she could become a force of nature that even the strongest warriors would struggle to contain.]

Klaus nodded silently, his gaze still fixed on Asha.

'So, what you're saying is that she's a ticking time bomb? If she awakens this bloodline, she could either be an invaluable ally or a catastrophic threat.'

[Exactly. And given her current trajectory, it's only a matter of time before she unlocks that potential. Will she use it for good, or will she succumb to the darker aspects of her power?

The Supreme Queen Hive bloodline is not just about control—it's about dominance. It can corrupt even the purest intentions if the wielder isn't careful.]

Asha turned to Klaus. "What do you think, Klaus? Do you see the potential in my little army?"

Klaus smiled for a moment before responding. "I do"

'Then it's a good thing she is my woman. No matter the corruption that awakens in her provided she is my woman, I wouldn't have to worry about her.'

'I just don't want her to turn into an ant,' Klaus smiled, making the senior chuckle. But what he said is indeed true.

If and when she awakens her bloodline, things will change about her, but so long as he has his paragon mark on her, he has nothing to worry about.

Of course, the senior didn't want to startle him, but Asha had already awakened the Supreme Queen Hive bloodline; it was just locked for now like the rest of his ladies.

This also means the legend of the Hive Queen, who once terrorized an entire galaxy with her insect army, was about to rise again.

Strangely, she now has the Star Monarch, also known as the divine tamer or the beasts' overlord, by her side. Who is to say what will happen next?

Klaus followed her to the next colony, where another Ant monster was; this one, however, had close to a thousand children, but only three were around. They each are just at the Saint level...

This particular Ant was a shadow type and specialized in information gathering.

After she showed him this particular ant, she disclosed she was the one who scouts potential missions and reports to the dean to be put in the mission hall in the academy.

Her ants are everywhere, gathering information and reporting to her through their queen.

This also means that if Klaus needed expendable spies, she could help using her network of spy ants that are practically made of shadow.

They left there and went to the last stage, where the most dangerous of her ants was...

When Klaus saw this particular ant, a smile appeared on his face...

Chapter 614 - 614: Asha's Secret (4)

During the trial inside the dungeon, Klaus fought an alien-looking monster whose hair was ropelike in nature. It was literally a rope that, nearing the end of the battle, was used to latch onto him.

Back then, Klaus tried to break free, but no matter how hard he tried, he couldn't.

This was also the reason why he made a mental note to understand how the wood element works. The ropes were akin to the vines Lucy uses.

Now, standing before him is a 45-meter-tall ant with six legs, a carapace that seems to be crafted from the hardest metal, and over five dozen ropelike hairs wiggling in the air.

"Where the hell did you get a Tier 10 Metal Doll Puppet Ant from?" Klaus asked, not understanding how such a powerful and rare ant could be on Earth, let alone in Asha's legion.

This ant shouldn't exist on Earth at all.

The Metal Doll Puppet Ant is one of the fiercest ants out there. They are also one of the most dangerous types of ants you will ever face in battle.

They are known as Doll Puppets mainly because of the ropelike hairs on their bodies. Those are no ordinary hairs.

The moment they latch onto you, they can easily turn you into their puppet.

Back when Klaus faced the demon alien inside the trial, he had the sense of déjà vu that perhaps he had faced such a monster before or knew this monster from somewhere. However, he just couldn't figure out from where.

He was under pressure back then, so he couldn't think of that...

Now, seeing this monster ant, it seems it all started to come back to him...

The memories began to flood his mind, fragmented at first but slowly piecing together like a puzzle. He recalled an ancient text he had stumbled upon years ago, hidden deep within the archives of the Arcane Library.

In his life as Fruity, he and Yuying visited the Arcana Library. It was somewhere inside the tormented world that required them to fight dangerous demons just to gain access tokens.

Back then, he was looking for information on a forbidden ritual, and the arcane library was the best place to research it.

It was where some of the long-forgotten memories were hidden.

During his time there, he also came across the records on this type of forbidden and long-forgotten abominations.

The records spoke of creatures born from the fusion of organic and metallic elements, entities that defied the natural order.

These beings were said to be the creations of a long-forgotten civilization, one that had mastered the art of blending life with machinery.

The Metal Doll Puppet Ant fits that description perfectly.

Its ropelike hairs weren't just for show—they were conduits, capable of ensnaring prey and draining their energy.

Klaus shuddered as he remembered the sensation of being bound by those very same ropes during his trial. Back then, he just couldn't break free from the bind.

The alien monster he had fought back then must have been a prototype, a lesser version of this abomination now standing before him.

"I didn't look for him. Kai came to me," Asha revealed, and Klaus raised an eyebrow.

"Asha, dear, Metal Doll Puppet Ants don't come to you... They are not like ordinary ants. This ant standing before you is a Level 3 Ascendent (Tier 10), and from the look of things, it has already evolved, yet it remains like this.

Do you want to know why? It's because this ant is not an ant at all. I don't know where it came from, but that thing is very dangerous."

Klaus didn't like what was happening one bit.

He had read the records, and from them, he knew the forbidden creatures were not like him. He may be a forbidden-born, but these forbidden are more like rejects.

They don't have a place in the universe, unlike him, who can live under the heavens' watchful eyes.

"Kai is not dangerous. In fact, Kai has already told me about his origin. From what he remembers, he just woke up seven months ago inside a cocoon. When he woke up, he started looking for a home and found me two months ago."

"And you trust him?" Klaus asked, and Asha nodded.

[Brat, you must trust her. Though your suspicions are probably right, this is her decision to house this monster. Now, if you are worried, why don't you feed it your blood?

You will have supreme authority over it when you give it your blood. This way, if one day it were to retaliate, you can easily subdue it.]

The senior advised, and Klaus could only sigh.

What he said was indeed true. If he were to give his blood to the ant, he would not only have supremacy over it but would also be able to access its memories and learn more about it.

Klaus had the Star Monarch bloodline, which meant that if he were to give it to Kai, it would evolve yet again and gain all the benefits that come with the Star Monarch bloodline.

'I only wonder what monster it will become the moment it evolves using my blood,' Klaus sighed.

"I want to give Kai my blood. I can tell he really wants it," Klaus said with a small smile, watching how proud Asha was for having such a monster as a companion.

"Really?"

Asha's face lit up like a child who had received candy.

She had seen what happened to Kathy, so while she wasn't about to force Klaus, she had been planning to ask him for a few drops of his blood to give to her four Ant companions. If possible, she wanted all of them to evolve.

"Yes," Klaus said, shifting into his elf form. He cut his palm, extracted the blood, and froze it in ice.

"Give this to him. He'll go into a hibernation state for at least a week or two. But when he wakes up, Kai will become much more powerful."

Klaus sighed. He had learned a great deal about his bloodline, so he knew Kai was about to turn a new leaf.

If only they had known that this decision today would have a far more catastrophic effect in the coming years, they would probably look for a few more Kai's and feed them his blood...

Chapter 615 - 615: Puppeteers Kink [18+]

After leaving the Insect Domain, Klaus had a lot of thinking to do.

First, Asha was indeed a monster in her own right. Though he discovered that aside from contracting and talking with insects, she couldn't do much else, he was still impressed.

This also meant that the moment she fully awakened the forge, she would gain some incredibly overpowered abilities, allowing her to modify her insects.

The second revelation was the discovery that she possessed a forbidden abomination. That realization placed Klaus in a perspective he had never considered before.

If Kai—as she called him—really just woke up in a cocoon, then what else has awakened, and how many of them would be this benevolent?

Kai had willingly become a companion to Asha, which meant he was bound to her and could never betray her.

Of course, he was a forbidden entity, so who knew what else he could do? But that was beside the point—he had accepted his servant role.

This might have been due to Asha's locked bloodline or something else entirely, but he had accepted.

But there is a big question to this...

How many others like him were still out there, and what would they do if they began to roam freely? This didn't sound like a good thing.

It was clear to Klaus that many things on Earth were about to change.

The discovery that he had left an inheritance tower for himself, disguised as a dungeon, was all the proof he needed to realize that Earth was far more dangerous and deeply connected to him than he had ever imagined.

This discovery really put things in perspective for him, and now Klaus just doesn't know what to expect.

This also means his plan to rid Earth of all dangers would have to be effective; otherwise, humans and the other races are doomed.

He was so deep in thought that when Nadia entered his room, he didn't notice...

"You know, for someone who said we should enjoy this vacation, you don't seem to follow your own words," Nadia said, snapping Klaus out of his thoughts.

"Sorry, my puppet queen. I was just thinking about a few things I need to do when we go back," Klaus said, and Nadia walked toward him.

"You do know the upside to having many women is always having an ear to talk to and a chest to lie on," Nadia said, making Klaus smile.

"I know, love. And I promise I'll do more lying on those chests," he replied, reaching for her waist and pulling her closer. He then flicked her long ear, making Nadia glare at him.

She is an elf and so, she must accept her man would never stop flicking in her ears.

She looked at him for a few seconds, and then a smile appeared on her face.

"I want to do it in your elf form," she said, blushing like a red tomato. The request was, as they say, shameless.

"Kinky," Klaus teased. "I have to give it to you; your request isn't bad at all. I was expecting your sisters to ask for that, but it seems they were too shy."

Klaus's ears grew longer, his hair turned silver, and his handsomeness reached a new level. He had taken his elf form, his star Monarch form, and the elf in front of him couldn't handle it...

On the other side of the room, the ladies who were listening in—thanks to Queenie—gritted their teeth. They had clearly missed their chance. Well, Asha, Anna, and Lily smiled when they heard what Klaus said.

They were next on the roster, so they would certainly be asking for the same treatment.

"Well then, shall we begin? We have a long night ahead of us," Klaus said, devouring her clothes off with just a snap of his fingers.

The moment her clothes fell away, he laid her perfect elf body on the bed and spread her legs. What followed was Klaus indulging in the feast before him, making Nadia moan uncontrollably.

When she climaxed, it was as if a magic crystal had shattered in the room.

The scent alone was intoxicating, and if Klaus hadn't had nine cores, he probably would have passed out from what they called Spiritual Qi Overdose.

Nadia's yin essence was so rich in energy that Klaus could tell he was gaining something valuable by being with her.

Nadia also sensed that Klaus enjoyed her essence, so after her first climax, she let him continue for a second round.

Then, the third and fourth.

After that, he went straight to the endgame.

Klaus put his Paragon Rod in her, and before long, Nadia became his. Then the rest followed. Nadia was now an elf, so naturally, her stamina was on another level.

Though she is not a dragon, elves, who are naturally prone to magic, have high stamina since they require great energy to harness their magic.

So Klaus began thrusting, making Nadia moan along with the rhythm. The night was filled with so much love that when she came, Klaus didn't even stop and kept going.

Then, two hours later, he came, and the changes he expected started to show up. The Paragon Mark activated, but he told the ladies to hold on and even used his authority to make it so Nadia sensed no new changes.

He sat there and watched as Nadia's energy rose until she was almost near the Sage stage. Klaus didn't understand what had happened, but after observing her, he seemed to have figured it out, bringing a smile to his face.

'My 6th core is nearing its completion, and Nadia is also nearing the Sage stage. Does this mean we can now share cultivation? But that wasn't the case with Nia and the others.'

Klaus wondered, but no answer came since the senior was ignoring him.

He then chose to experiment, and thus, he went another round with Nadia. This time, she was almost at the final step to the Sage stage. Klaus also sensed his core nearly forming.

'I earned more than her. But she also gained more than normal. Was this because we both awakened our bloodlines?'

He arrived at this assumption, and for now, Klaus wanted to wait for Asha and the two vixens to spend the night with him.

If that wasn't the case, he would also spend the night with Miriam, who had also awakened her bloodline.

He was bound to find out soon.

If his assumptions were correct, and this was a result of their bloodlines, then wouldn't this mean that the moment the rest of his ladies awakened their bloodlines, they would be able to enjoy other benefits?

Obviously, the Paragon Mark wasn't for show. The only way this was possible was because of him, and since the heavens hated him, he could only use this cheat to get back at them.

Klaus and Nadia were thrilled. But aside from them, the ladies with the Paragon Mark were even more ecstatic. They received loads of Paragon Points (Marks) that they could add to their stats.

And it was much more than they had expected. But it was there, and they were very happy. So when Klaus opened the connection between them and Nadia, they immediately welcomed her into the fold.

The rest of the night was spent with Nadia only sucking Klaus's dick and taking in the Star Juice the old-fashioned way.

He wouldn't want her to have her tribulation just that... She and Miriam will be doing that in the coming days.

Chapter 616 - 616: Potential Spy

"You know, though we've taken a step in our relationship, we have to stop meeting this way. It's creepy," Klaus grumpily said, staring weakly at Hanna, who was gazing at him with a weird expression on her face.

Klaus had just woken up, and like always, Hanna was inside the room, staring at him. This time, however, he was in his elf form, so her gaze contained something else.

"Can I touch them?" she asked, pointing at his ears.

"No," Klaus said, not entertaining her this morning.

"Please. Just once," Hanna said, feigning a pitiful expression.

"No can do," Klaus turned back to his human form, making Hanna pout and playfully punch his chest. Klaus caught her weak punch and pulled her into the bed.

"I only allow my women to touch my ears. You're just my buddy, so no can do."

"Just a buddy... are you for real?" Hanna looked at him with evil intentions building up in her head.

"Just a buddy. You're like my best bud who's a pervert but also beautiful. So you're like my best beautiful perverted buddy."

Klaus laughed, but his laughter was cut short when Hanna's hand grabbed hold of his nipples and twisted them. Klaus winced but didn't let her continue her unruliness.

They played around in bed for a few minutes before Klaus took his bath, and they both went out to have breakfast.

"Klaus, Old Lu said Nari is still in seclusion, and from the way her energy is growing unstable, she will be breaking through in a couple of weeks, two months tops," Queenie said, making Klaus nod.

"There is still time. I will handle her when we go back."

Queenie nodded and then switched to the next agenda. She knew Nari would create a commotion when she broke through, so she was keeping a close eye on her.

If this were like before she met Klaus, she would just trap her in the Void. Now that she had become a Level 2 Void stage expert, her control over the Void was very high.

Of course, if she couldn't do it alone, then her mother, who had reached Level 4, would help her. This way, with two Void stage experts working together, they could easily trap her and figure out the next plan.

Klaus, on the other hand, had a different idea, one that wouldn't involve trapping anyone in the Void.

Nari is a Great Calamity, but he is the Star Monarch... Someone who once tamed the three Great Calamities, making them his subordinate...

"Mother reached out and said they are now set to come. Per their schedule, they will be setting sail in three weeks. This means I have to announce to the entire world that we will be having visitors."

"Go ahead. I know this is a big one for you, so do as you please. I will always stand by you," Klaus replied, making Queenie, Ohema, and, strangely, his mother very happy.

"Mom, why are you smiling?" Klaus, of course, had to ask. The woman had become unstable these past few days, so he felt he ought to know.

"Nothing. I just want to meet my in-laws and see if they are all as beautiful as these two gorgeous twins."

Obviously, she wanted to see if Queenie and Ohema's mom was as they described her. They told her she was just like them. In fact, if they were together, one would call them triplets.

Her shamelessness was starting to show.

In truth, Klaus was also thinking about the same thing. This meant both the mother and son were bastards who knew no shame.

"By the way, do the overlords have a way to address the entire world? I mean, like hijacking everyone's devices?" Klaus asked, and Queenie nodded.

"We do have something like that, but I presume you have a better idea," Queenie said.

"Yes. I promised KKKickinIt I would help her get an interview with an overlord. Of course, Nari is who I was talking about, but she is unstable, so I want you to do it.

This way, you can announce to the entire world about our new neighbors coming in three weeks. If possible, allow her to become your personal media personality."

"Why?" Ohema asked. All of them wanted to know, considering Klaus wanted someone who gossips to get close to the overlords.

"That's because she is just like you. She is a peak Ascendant. In fact, she is suppressing her cultivation so much that the moment she lifts the seal, she will become a Void-stage expert.

As to why or who she really is, I don't know. But she is not simple, and I think we should keep an eye on her. She might be an enemy, and what is the best way to keep an eye on an enemy if not while she is closest to you?"

"Are you being serious?" Queenie asked.

"Very serious. When I first met her, I assumed she was a Great Sage, but now that I have become much stronger and awakened a bloodline that allows me to hold influence over reality, I can finally see her true self.

She is in disguise. She has suppressed her cultivation base, and she has a rather powerful presence compared to ordinary warriors. I think she is very dangerous, so we should keep an eye on her."

Queenie gulped. In fact, everyone gulped, hearing there was such a person running around. Klaus, on the other hand, just smiled.

Right now, he just doesn't know where she is from. Just like the Water borns and Ice Children, the Moon borns are soon to come.

But the brown skin beauty who chooses to disguise and suppress her cultivation is a complete mystery for now. He wants to know, but he also doesn't want to let her know he suspected her.

"Don't worry too much about it. With me around, she won't be able to do anything, and that's assuming she is an enemy.

She could be like you, Ohema. You were here to assess us and report, but in the end, you became an ally. This could be a similar situation, and while we don't know the extent of her reach, we can only keep an eye on her."

"Okay. I will arrange it," Queenie sighed, then called her assistant to arrange a meeting with Controversial News.

Though she is the strongest person on Earth, she is Klaus's woman too. This means she now listens to her husband, and if her man says she should do something, she won't hesitate to do it.

Klaus may be a mere Great Sage, but he is as terrifying as an Overlord. If he makes a choice, she can only go with it.

In the end, it's Klaus—someone who doesn't play by the rules.

Chapter 617 - 617: Rebirth of The First Divine Golden Thunderwing

"Klaus, how do your clones work?" Lily asked after having breakfast, now resting under a pavilion.

"They are not clones. They are just illusions I made tangible," Klaus answered. The ladies and, perhaps, the entire world would want to know just how he was able to create clone after clone during the battle.

"But how is that possible? Illusions cannot affect the physical body, so how were you able to do that?" she asked again.

Everyone around was paying attention. Klaus had used clones during the battle in Union City. Later, they found out those clones were illusions. This doesn't make any sense.

Illusions affect the mind, but somehow, Klaus managed to make them tangible, giving them life.

Klaus smiled at Lily.

"I have an illusion Class that allows me to make illusions reality." He waved his hand, and an illusionary version of himself appeared. He shot a bolt of lightning from his finger at it, but it passed through.

"This is the illusion form. But aside from this, I have another form that allows me to make it tangible." He snapped his fingers, and the illusion moved toward the bar.

It went around, picked a wine from the top shelf, then picked a glass, poured it in, and brought it to Klaus.

"Illusions shouldn't be like this, but thanks to my unique Class, I now have the power to make illusions a reality.

And the best part is, unlike clones that can only harness a certain percentage of your true power, my illusions can harness 100% of my power.

All I need is the mental and soul strength to accommodate it. In a way, I can simply rely on my illusions to do anything I want, provided my mind can support it."

"That is just... monstrous," Ling, one of the Zhou twins, said, looking at the clone now staring outside. Just looking at the aloof expression on its face was enough to tell them this shouldn't even exist.

Klaus waved his hand, and it vanished.

"I also want a clone like this," Lily said, and the rest nodded. They all wanted clones to help them in battle...

"Too bad you can't have one," Klaus smirked, watching their faces. Having clones is ideal. In fact, clones are the best life-saving treasures one can have. In a dire situation, you can switch with your clones.

So, having them is the best thing that can ever happen to a warrior. But most cloning abilities are just too flawed. The clones won't be able to do much since they have limitations.

The strongest ability under the heavens for cloning only makes the clones gain 80% of the owner's strength. Though in a way, it can be monstrous, it also isn't ideal.

'I will hold on for now. When they reach the Transcendent stage, I will give them that technique,' Klaus thought, then looked at Queenie, Ohema, and Miriam.

Miriam has yet to break through to the Transcendent stage.

The moment she does, which will be soon, he will give her the technique. But for now, they must enjoy the vacation.

The skill he planned on giving them will allow them to create something akin to Avatars. This way, they will be able to harness all their energy through them.

They continued to speak about different stuff for a couple of hours.

"Huh?"

Suddenly, Hanna jerked up and looked toward the mansion.

"Kathy is waking up." She sped off, leaving dust behind. The look in her eyes said it all—she missed her beast companion.

"Let's go." Klaus and the rest also left and headed inside Hanna's room, where Kathy was breaking free from the golden cocoon she had been in for about a week now.

Klaus had assumed she would be out in a few days after he gave her his blood, but it seemed his blood was much more potent than he expected.

"How is she?" Klaus's mom asked the moment they entered the room.

"She is still in the process," Hanna replied with a beaming smile. Klaus, on the other hand, was shocked as he continued to look at the golden cocoon.

Queenie noticed and asked why.

"It seems she will create a commotion when she wakes up. Take her away from here now." Klaus wasn't even done speaking when the cocoon vanished.

The next second, they all vanished and appeared on a flat green land a couple of miles away from Stone Valley.

The moment the cocoon appeared there, a golden storm cloud formed, and the cocoon vanished inside the cloud.

"Huh, what happened?" Klaus's mom asked, gazing at the magnificent yet terrifying golden cloud forming on the horizon.

[Nirvana Rebirth], the senior said in a shocked tone.

'What is that?' Klaus asked, sensing something major was about to happen.

'[Brat, you are about to witness the birth of the first of her kind. The one that will be called the Progenitor, for she is the first and will be the first in eons to come. You are about to witness the birth of something majestic... Just watch.]'

For some reason, Klaus could tell the senior was very much more interested in what was happening than him. So he also focused on it and started to watch.

'Nirvana Rebirth.'

'Isn't this what Yuying used to call 'the phoenix rising from the ashes and undergoing Nirvana Rebirth, becoming the first of her kind'?

Does this mean Kathy is going to be the first of her kind, the first Thunderwing? But there are Thunderwings out there in the universe, so what does this mean?'

Klaus's mind went into overdrive, trying to understand what was happening. If the Nirvana Rebirth he knew was the rebirth of something unique, then did it mean there were no thunderwings out there?

'But that's not possible, right?' he wondered.

'Maybe this has something to do with bloodlines. Maybe she will be awakening a much stronger bloodline than the other Thunderwings out there.'

'Yeah, that can only be the explanation for why this is termed Nirvana Rebirth. I don't have to look too far; this is it. This is the only meaning there can be for this.'

Klaus resolved to stick with the bloodline awakening theory.

He literally became an elf when he awakened his Star Monarch bloodline, so this could only mean Kathy was undergoing something similar.

Unfortunately, Klaus was wrong this time. Though he was right about the bloodline, he was wrong about that being the main thing.

Somewhere far in the universe, a race of beasts known as the Thunderbirds were currently kowtowing to a golden statue of a large, majestic bird that had suddenly appeared out of nowhere.

They all had their heads on the ground despite their strength. The statue was exuding a powerful presence that nobody was able to resist.

However, instead of being alarmed, they were overjoyed.

For eons ago, when the demons attacked, the last remaining Thunderwings were slaughtered. But it was said that one day, the Divine Golden Thunderwing, one of her kind, would be born.

Klaus watched as lightning and thunder rocked inside the golden clouds for two hours until suddenly, a large wing silhouette moved through the clouds.

At that moment, a majestic, divine presence descended on Earth, marking the birth of the first Divine Beast—on Earth.

Chapter 618 - 618: Power Of The Star Monarch

The rebirth—or if she hadn't reincarnated, then the birth—of the first Golden Thunderwing was complete. The tribulation, or whatever awakening had occurred inside the cloud, was over.

But the result left everyone's jaws hanging.

A massive wingspan cast a shadow across the clouds as it sped past the horizon. Klaus and everyone standing nearby felt a divine presence.

The presence was moving with the silhouette hidden inside the cloud...

This wasn't the presence of an ordinary beast. This one felt different... more majestic. It's much more divine.

Then she appeared, and everyone was left flabbergasted. The aura she exuded was simply too overwhelming.

"Is that Kathy's beast form? It's... different," Anna said, gazing at the beautiful golden bird circling the sky.

Its entire body shimmered in gold, with feathers that appeared to be made of the most exquisite, celestial material found only in the highest realms. There were golden metallic coatings here and there, giving her that majestic yet warrior vibe.

Everything about her is just too majestic.

She moved across the sky for a few minutes before descending; when she was a few meters from the ground, she transformed, and a beautiful lady with long golden hair appeared clad in golden armour.

Kathy has changed dramatically.

In fact, Nadia, who was supposed to be the most beautiful of them all—considering she was now an Elf Saint—paled compared to the beauty that had appeared.

Of course, Kathy is an Ascendent now, while Nadia was just a Saint. But Kathy has undoubtedly become a beauty.

She is completely human.

Her features are human.

In fact, she is more human than many humans.

[A perfect transformation. Those are rare,] the senior commented, looking rather impressed and accomplished.

[Brat, it seems your bloodline is much more powerful than you think,] the senior said again, and Klaus could only nod.

When Kathy's feet landed on the ground, her armour vanished and was replaced by a thin, layered tunic made from a silver substance.

"Bastards, close your eyes," Scarlet said, shutting Kilian's eyes. Danny and the others were the same. Their ladies covered their eyes, preventing them from seeing the damsel walking toward them.

Klaus, on the other hand, was looking straight at the gorgeous, sinful body Kathy decided to bring to the table.

'She has both the ass, boobs, and hips. Way to go on your awakening, Kathy,' Klaus said to himself and then moved his eyes toward his mom, who was looking at him from the corner of her eyes.

She was probably thinking what her son was thinking. The only thing left was for them to whistle, but their shamelessness hadn't reached that stage yet.

"Hanna, you should probably cover her body with something opaque," Queenie said, snapping Hanna out of her daze. She took out a cloth and rushed toward Kathy, who opened her arms wide for a hug.

Hanna jumped in without any hesitation.

"You have become very beautiful, Kathy, and you are now an Ascendant," Hanna said, helping her into the clothes.

"It's because of your brother. His blood helped me greatly. I must thank him," Kathy replied, looking toward Klaus with eyes filled with reverence.

"Don't worry about him. He can wait; let's talk about you first," Hanna said, dragging Kathy toward Klaus's mom and the other ladies. Klaus just smirked and walked toward them.

He wanted to confirm something.

"Kathy, how do you feel?" Lily asked, playing with her golden hair.

"I feel great. I am now strong, and I can tell I will only grow stronger. Also, I feel like this is who I am meant to be," Kathy said proudly. The ladies smiled with her.

They are happy.

Kathy was their friend and teammate during their missions when Klaus was away on his own missions, so this was like one of their teammates becoming a powerhouse.

"Do you feel anything strange, like another presence inside you?" Hanna asked, obviously checking to see if she was a reincarnate.

"I feel fine. It's just me and me alone. This is who I am meant to be," Kathy replied. Klaus, who was listening, smiled.

"You sure about that? I know you are now a divine beast, but do you want to stop there or go further?" Klaus asked, causing the ladies to turn toward him.

"What is a divine beast?" Queenie asked. She had dreamt about her past for months now, but she hadn't heard of divine beasts until now.

"Divine beasts are basically beasts born with a trace of divinity in their bloodline. In the beast kingdom, there are many types.

We have common beasts, epic beasts, mystical beasts, divine beasts, supreme beasts, and finally, celestial beasts."

The Kathy in front of us now has a trace of divinity in her. This means that if she doesn't die along the way, she is guaranteed to become immortal and, eventually, a god someday.

However, as I said, Divine Beast is not the pinnacle of beast evolution. She can go as far as the Celestial grade," Klaus explained.

"Then how can she become more than a Divine beast?" Lucy asked.

"Obviously, by drinking more of my blood. I just have to increase my cultivation base first. Until then, she is now a Divine beast, and as such, why don't we learn more about her?"

The ladies and dudes who heard what Klaus said didn't even want to think about the implications of his words.

"His blood can turn ordinary beasts into Divine, Supreme, and even Celestial. Obviously, he's lying, right?"

But that's the thing. Klaus wasn't lying. He was, in fact, telling the truth. The Star Monarch bloodline can indeed take a common beast or monster and turn them into a force to be reckoned with.

Why would the heavens try so hard to kill him if he didn't have something like this?

The Star Monarch Bloodline is the greatest treasure there is, and if Klaus wanted, he could turn every monster he meets into a terrifying force.

Obviously, he wasn't going to waste it. If he were the Star Monarchs who tamed all three Great Calamities, then he could be that Star Monarch again—but this time, he would command an army of celestial beasts.

Not even the heavens could boast of that.

Just thinking about it was enough to make his ladies and friends imagine all kinds of scenarios he could use. Obviously, they all wanted divine beast companions.

Kathy had become a true powerhouse.

They wanted one, too, but they would have to wait until after their vacation. The [Eye of the Monarch] needed to examine all the monsters and beasts and pick the ones with true potential first.

Chapter 619 - 619: Divine Beast, Golden Thunderwing

Before the rebirth, Kathy was a Thunderwing.

Now, she was a golden Thunderwing with a divine Beast Bloodline. She had become the first of her kind. The heavens have acknowledged her now.

Everyone was happy for her. Of course, she had become someone akin to a new life form. This is the first-ever divine-grade beast of the Thunderwing lineage.

She was meant to be different, and she is different.

"Kathy, what has changed about you?" Anna asked, sitting on Kathy's left side. Hanna was on the right, and Lily was beside Anna.

"For starters, I am now a Tier 10 beast, and like Lord... Brother Klaus has said, I am a divine beast. I would like to say I know what has happened to me, but it will take some time to fully assess that.

But some cool things have happened to me." She extended her hand, and a 2-meter-long golden spear made from an unknown material appeared in her grip.

"Wow!"

Some of the ladies exclaimed as the spear appeared in her hand. It was bathed in lightning, and its radiating energy showed it was no simple spear.

The design was sleek, and the runes etched onto it made it appear dangerous and deadly. Obviously, Klaus could tell just by looking at it that the spear was meant for killing.

"It's a soul weapon called—Storm's Wrath."

"Cool name," Mark said, admiring the spear. He was also a spearman, so he knew just how deadly the weapon was.

"It allows me to command the storm however I want, and just like the weapons awakened by you guys, the stronger I get, the more dangerous the spear becomes. Basically, it grows with me.

I also now have Bloodline abilities and even an Innate Talent called [Daughter of Lightning].

It allows me to wield lightning with ease and also connect with its source as I grow stronger, harnessing its power."

Kathy went on about all the cool changes that had occurred to her. Meanwhile, Klaus was using the authority he had over her—because she had taken in his blood—to access her true potential.

From what he saw, she was indeed worthy to be a divine beast.

Her bloodline made her immune to all lightning attacks and added a 30% extra punch to every lightning attack she unleashed.

Strangely, this ability of hers now also applied to Hanna, who was very happy to know that. The beast companion was not useless to her master at all.

Aside from that, she also had a Law of Self that, from what she told everyone, was connected to her bloodline—and she wasn't the one who had comprehended it.

In fact, she had never tried to comprehend her own Law of Self, as most beasts do the moment they reach Tier 9. In a way, she had jumped many levels, so it only made sense.

She was a Level 2 Transcendent when Klaus gave her his blood, so if she was now an Ascendant, it meant she had jumped seven levels.

[Thunderwing Ascendence]

The Law of Self was purely for her to maintain clarity in combat. It had three effects on her. It had no opposing effect on her opponents, and that was for the best.

First, she would never grow tired as long as she willed it. In combat, she could go as long as her Spiritual Qi could sustain her. She would never run out of stamina, nor would she feel any mental fatigue.

Second was Pseudo-Immortality. She would become akin to an immortal whenever she used her Law of Self. Inside her Law of Self, all damage dealt to her was reduced by a whopping 50%.

She would only take half of the attack, no matter how dangerous.

The last was something she called Excedo 040. The name sounded strange, but according to her, when inside her domain, she has a 40% chance to ignore all forms of defence and deal true damage.

No matter the defence or strength of a person, the moment she gains the chance, her attack will deal true damage.

She then moved on to her forms.

She has a Human form, a Divine Beast form, and a Manifestation.

The first two are practically the forms every beast has, except she has become much more human than most beasts. This was a result of her bloodline and Klaus's blood.

However, the third form, which is a manifestation, involves her using both forms together. In her human form, she can summon her Divine Beast form. She can also summon her human form while in her beast form.

However, she would have to depend on her energy reserve, as the longer the manifestation remains, the more energy she will need to sustain it.

This manifestation is very useful when looking to fight with all your strength. Klaus was particularly happy when he found out that the manifestation wouldn't affect her strength.

In fact, she would even become twice as powerful when using both forms.

Then, there were the skills and techniques she had awakened. She awakened three skills and one technique, each related to killing with lightning.

It was both dangerous and impressive to know she was now a divine beast with powerful skills meant for killing.

Her final change was her bloodline ability, called [Harden].

This ability allows her to transform her Divine Beast form into a Golden Thunderwing, with wings and feathers made of golden metal. In this form, her strength increases by 160%.

However, she can only use it for three hours every day.

It doesn't matter how low her stamina or energy is; she essentially becomes a bird encased in a metal outfit and can launch metal feathers.

She shared everything there was to know with everyone, and the more they listened, the more they all wanted to get their own beast companions.

Klaus simply smiled and reassured them he would help. He would now first learn more about his Star Monarch Bloodline after caring for his ladies.

That was equally beneficial to him, just as his bloodlines and memories were. He wouldn't prioritize one over the other.

Though he has the power to create Divine Beasts, he wasn't about to rush into the wild and start sharing his blood.

Right now, the Three Vixens were next to spend the night with him, and they planned to keep him up all night long...

He most definitely was looking forward to that...

Chapter 620 - 620: The Three Deadly Vixens (1) [18+]

"You ladies are weird. You know that, right?" Klaus said, looking at some of the beauties Earth has to offer. They had just had dinner and were resting atop the roof of the Oracle Building.

They had pulled him away to spend some time while Anna, Lily, and Asha prepared for their time with him. Obviously, it was for their amusement, so the ladies were asking if he could delay the Paragon Mark from activating until he was done with all three vixens.

Klaus had the authority, but being asked to do something like that felt weird. Still, he had to give them the benefit of the doubt.

Their shamelessness knew no bounds.

"We just don't want to ruin your night with your soon-to-be wives," Queenie said, taking on an innocent expression. "Imagine what would happen if you had to take time explaining to each of them whenever the mark activates."

"That would indeed spoil the fun," Klaus thought for a moment and nodded. "I will do as you say."

The ladies smiled. He wasn't about to argue, considering the ladies were now his and his alone. Making them happy was his priority...

"So, what have you ladies discovered about the Paragon Marks?" Klaus asked. 'I really should change that name. It should be Paragon Points instead,' he thought.

"For now, we get points whenever a new sister joins us. But aside from that, we also gain points whenever you release inside us. So, in a way, the more sex we have, the more points we gain," Lucy, the nerd, replied.

"Isn't this cheating? I mean, doing something we both enjoy should only make us happy. But now, this. There has to be a catch somewhere," Klaus wondered, but he wasn't about to dive into that just yet.

Eight damsels surrounded him; he couldn't get technical talking about something that wasn't there when he could just use his hands for something way better.

"Later, gators, ladies," Klaus said to them before running off to spend the night with his three vixens, who had created their own methodology just for the night.

They planned to handle him with all intents and purposes.

None of them were there when he entered his room, so he jumped into bed and started waiting for them.

A couple of minutes later, Anna, Asha, and Lily entered, wearing matching nightwear. They entered at the same time, so Klaus's eyes fell on them simultaneously, and a smirk appeared on his face.

"You three are weird," he said, but they just brushed his comment aside and chose to climb into bed. Lily immediately went in for a hug while Anna and Asha settled by his side.

"So, it has come down to this, huh?" Klaus asked, brushing his hands across Anna and Asha's backs.

"You left us for months..." Anna complained.

"I know, and I am sorry. But now that I am here, what are you three vixens going to do about it?"

To answer his question, Lily's hands brushed past his already semi-hard dick.

He couldn't keep his composure, not when three deadly vixens were in his bed and ready to devour him.

"We are going to keep you awake all night," Asha said, feeling shy. Lily and Anna had already played with Little Klaus. So, in a way, among his ladies, only she was yet to taste the star juice.

Even Hanna had subtly tasted it when she played with it all in the name of bathing him. So Asha was lacking, but she wasn't rushing to get some.

Lily continued to stroke him through his pants for a few minutes before she chose to take the clothes off entirely.

When Little Klaus appeared, the three ladies blushed, but they were determined. Lily was the first to go, so she took Little Klaus and started stroking it for real this time. It took just a few strokes to get it hard.

Then she wrapped her lips around it and began sucking.

Meanwhile, the two ladies by Klaus's side exchanged looks, and Asha smiled. She crawled from Klaus's side and leaned toward him, bringing her head closer to his.

They locked lips and began kissing while Anna brushed her hands across his fine abs.

Asha was kissing Klaus, making sure she didn't fall behind. Meanwhile, Lily was playing with Little Klaus while her hands toyed with the Paragon jewels.

A few minutes into it, Asha broke the kiss.

Klaus instantly knew what came next, so he gently removed her nightwear, which revealed her nude body since she wasn't wearing anything underneath.

Her nether region was shaved clean, making it appear all the more inviting. Klaus moved her toward him, making her sit on his chest, and slowly guided her waist toward his face.

When she was near him, he grabbed her ass and pulled her closer to his mouth.

"Aaahhh..."

Asha moaned as Klaus's tongue entered her nether region. She began moaning even more as Klaus continued to pleasure her.

The pleasure was also coursing through him as Lily went down on him. It was a pleasurable moment they were both enjoying. Klaus was particularly enjoying it even more.

I mean, who wouldn't want to be surrounded by three beautiful ladies bent on making him feel their love in every way they could muster?

"Aaaah—I'm coming," Asha said as her waist shuddered.

Klaus held her close so that when her climax came, he made sure she felt the pleasure deep within her soul. She came in under ten minutes and was now panting for breath.

But Klaus wasn't done.

Anna was next, and he planned to go through all of them before they could gain the upper hand.

However, he failed to notice the ladies had their own plans: to show their man they were more capable than his own ladies. Asha didn't back down and chose to let him go down on her again.

Ten minutes later, she was now panting heavily.

Klaus took Anna next and made her cum within ten minutes. Then, after the second time, he came, and Lily took his star juice all in, as she had worked for it.

Asha was next to play with the Paragon rod when that was settled.

The night had just begun, and it was going to be a long one.
