

Paragon 671

Chapter 671 - 671: Who is Klaus Hanson

The sudden discovery that Queenie had picked Klaus as her life partner sent shockwaves throughout every corner of the earth.

Who is Klaus Hanson?

Many asked this question over a year ago when his name suddenly appeared on the city, regional, and Union charts. It was a pivotal moment in warrior history when a mere Ascendant appeared on the charts.

Then, he went ahead and single-handedly cleared a forbidden zone. But it wasn't just once—he did it twice, both times against greater odds.

Next, he braved a tide of zombies and protected Alkadia City from dire odds.

And ever since then, he only kept moving, climbing the ranks to the point where he single-handedly faced an entire alliance of thousands of human warriors and wiped them out.

Now, his status has risen even further, as the leader of the Overlords, the strongest human on Earth, has just announced that Klaus is her man.

"That is something... It was totally unexpected yet strangely cute and perfect. Why is that?" KKKickinIt said with a shocked yet accepting expression.

"It's because I have met many men, but only Klaus was able to shake my heart," Queenie smiled, and then she said something into her communication device.

A few seconds later, all screens were hijacked, and for the welcome ceremony arranged for the Moon Borns, a white-haired young man appeared on the screen, standing atop a tall mountain.

Klaus stood tall with his hands clasped behind his back. He was wearing a coat, and the air blew through it, making it flutter behind him like a hero's cape.

All around him, pointed swords and crescent discs could be seen zipping through the air with lethal efficiency.

Bodies of thousands of monsters and beasts lay dead, each with single cuts lining their bodies. It was evident they all died from a single strike.

Strangely, all the monsters and beasts lying on the ground were either at the Transcendent stage's peak or the Ascendant rank's early stages.

There were thousands of them, and from the way it appeared, Klaus was taking on the entire Tier 7 Forbidden Zone all by himself.

This was a shocking sight to many who knew just how harrowing Tier 7 Forbidden Zones can be. In fact, although the Tier 10 beasts were still at the beginner stage, Klaus was killing them like bugs.

This proved that even Tier 8 Forbidden Zones, where the most harrowing dangers lie, wouldn't be much of a hassle for him.

Perhaps Tier 9 Forbidden Zones would be where he would face real challenges. But not the current forbidden zone he was in.

All over the world, everyone watched in stunned silence as Klaus slaughtered thousands of monsters and beasts down to the last one.

It took him two hours, but when he was done, not even a trace of blood could be found on his body.

This was because, while he was standing atop the mountain, his mind was controlling thousands of weapons, each killing with lethal precision.

All spirit masters around could only watch in stunned silence as he slaughtered through the forbidden zone until the last monster or beast was down.

The screens shifted away from him and then back to the controversial news.

"And that is why I chose him. With him by my side, protecting the Earth and everything it contains wouldn't be hard at all.

I love him, and I know he loves me. So until Klaus chooses to leave Earth and never return, then know that I will forever remain a protector of Earth and will not hesitate to put my life on the line to defend it,"

Queenie smiled one last time before walking away.

He still had to attend to his guests, who had finally realized that, though they had the strongest warriors, there was someone they could not be arrogant around, and that person was Klaus.

The display he had given them was just too much for them to fathom.

In fact, those who were previously unconvinced that Klaus was dangerous had finally realized that perhaps the brat was someone worth fearing.

Of course, KKKickinIt, who was known for controlling the narrative, added a few words that made everyone look at Klaus in a new light.

"There you have it, folks. Klaus Hanson is now capable of taking on an entire Tier 7 Forbidden Zone, and from what I've heard, his friends are also monsters in their own right.

Now, I don't know what you all think, but I say if Klaus can take on an entire Tier 7 Forbidden Zone all by himself, then who is to say he cannot do more than that?

I say all those thinking of going after him for taking the apple of their eye should just save their own lives and hide somewhere.

Klaus Hanson is the real deal, and when he returns tonight, I will be sure to get a few words out of him. We single people would like to know how he was able to pull off an Overlord.

He managed to tame such a tigress, and we single people can learn a few things from him. I know I will, so what about you?

This is KKKickinIt with the controversial news; see you in the evening."

Queenie made her way straight to a large hall where the Ascendants, her sister, and her mother were seated in what appeared to be a meeting of some kind.

"You are finally here," Queen Lunera said, making Queenie nod with a smile.

"Everyone, welcome once again to Earth. Though the welcome ceremony we had in mind didn't go as planned, at least we managed to spice up your few hours with a display from the most troublemaker you will ever meet," Queenie said, and everyone in the hall laughed.

"I have to say, you Earthlings know how to welcome a person. And that Klaus is actually very monstrous.

To think, the last time we saw him, he was just a Grandmaster, but now he's a Great Sage. This is truly a nice welcome display," one of the Grand Elders said.

She is Grand Elder Zeloria, one of the beautiful ladies who witnessed Klaus fight against the heavens during Queenie's tribulation.

Just as humans call their Ascendants "Overlords," the Moonborn call theirs "Grand Elders."

"True. The last time we saw him, he was just a child... It looks like he has now become a man and a monster... even more monstrous than most of us,"

Grand Elder Nyselle, one of the elders who was keen on attacking Earth until she saw Klaus's display, also said, shaking her head.

From the two-hour video they saw of Klaus handling the monsters, they could tell that killing them wouldn't be too hard if he wanted to.

"Well, Klaus has always been a monster from the day he awakened. His friends will actually be present in a few hours' time.

If you want to know more about his adventures, they will be the best people to answer you," Queenie said, and the Grand Elders nodded.

"Then we can start the meeting now. There is a lot to talk about and a lot to do, so why don't we start with the current nature of the events on the moon?"

Chapter 672 - 672: The Danger Hanging Above

The main objective was the most pressing matter of them all. The Earthlings wanted to know the dangers hanging above them.

Queenie already had a rundown on the dangers above, but to the people inside the room, this would be their first time hearing about something this bizarre.

"The situation on the moon is just too unstable. It was the main reason we fast-tracked our arrival. Our warriors were able to hold them back for as long as we could, but we had to leave," Queen Lunara said with a heavy sigh.

"Right now, there are thousands of Tier 9 and 10 Lunar Beasts. They are a headache that, despite killing thousands of them, there are still thousands left, and every day, we keep losing thousands of warriors.

But those are just Tiers 9 and 10. The real headaches are the ten Tier 11 beasts and the possibility that there is a Tier 12 Lunar Beast hiding there.

We currently can't deny nor confirm the existence of such a being, but we can tell there is such a monstrosity lurking."

The Overlords of Earth, hearing this for the first time, frowned.

Their frowns were not from the fact that this had been hidden from them. No, their frowns were from the realization that the people who had just become their allies had been in such danger all these years.

The mention of thousands of Tier 10 monsters was overwhelming, yet they also wanted to know just how much the Moonborn had managed to endure.

"It's a headache, but we had capable warriors blocking them all this while.

Right now, we can boldly say that within the next few weeks, the entire moon will be overrun.

From that, we will know which Tier 11 monsters will try to expand their territory and, more importantly, the total number of Tier 11 monsters there."

"This is something," Queenie said with a thoughtful expression.

"What are the chances that the monsters up there will head here next?" Overlord Tydor of the Water Borns asked.

"That is something we all are wondering about," Queen Lunara answered. "But the chances of that happening are also very slim, considering that right now, the monsters are fighting for territory.

They now have the space we used to live in to fight over, but when that is done, they might turn toward this planet, and the chances of them coming here are also high.

So, we propose that your engineers work with ours to mount an aerial defense that will be in charge of handling any threat that may arise from above.

We will even task seven of our Grand Elders to oversee the aerial defense. This way, we will be able to at least hold back the threat for as long as we can before reinforcements arrive."

"Looks like you made a solid plan before coming, Mother," Queenie smiled, causing all the Overlords and Grand Elders to sigh inwardly.

The discovery that the leader of Earth and the leader of the moon are actually daughter and mother is a good thing for them.

This means the chances of one going against the other are nullified. Queenie would never try to go against her mother—not even by a long shot.

"The situation on the moon is dire. However, with our combined efforts, I believe we can handle both fronts," Queen Lunara added.

"Indeed. Though Earth also has thousands of Tier 9 and 10 monsters, we have only identified one Tier 11. Now that you are here, we can finally go after it and kill it before it grows beyond our strength level," Queenie said.

The Grand Elders and Overlords looked at each other.

"If you don't mind me asking, how confident are you that you can take down such a monstrosity? We have seen Tier 11 monsters in action and can tell they are something the current us cannot handle, not even in a group. So, how confident are you?"

A Grand Elder named Joppy asked.

"I am not confident. However, Klaus seems to have a plan that will secure us a big victory, and I trust him. So, no matter what, the Tier 11 monster will be taken down, provided we follow Klaus's arrangement."

"You make it sound like Klaus is a god," Grand Elder Nyselle remarked, and Ohema frowned.

She and Ohema were at odds, considering Nyselle was the one who proposed sending her to spy on the humans and make plans for their invasion.

She has accepted the alliance, but she still thinks they should be in charge, considering they have the highest number of Ascendants.

"I don't know about him being a god, but Klaus has done more than any of us. When I say 'done more,' I mean he has significantly contributed to our safety, which will be revealed soon.

Also, you saw how he was easily handling the Tier 10 monsters just a few hours ago. That may appear bizarre to you, but Klaus is much more monstrous than that.

If you still don't believe me, wait until you get to know him. He will be meeting us in a week to share some important news and plans he has come up with.

He also made a huge discovery that he believes will help us raise our strength by at least five to ten times our current level.

I say someone that confident and resourceful should be taken seriously," Queenie sighed.

"I don't know about the moon, but on Earth, provided we listen to him, everything will be okay. I believe and trust him."

All the Overlords and Grand Elders seemed hesitant, but they could tell she was serious, so they planned to wait for this meeting in a week's time.

The meeting continued for four hours. By the time it ended, they had formed the teams that would handle the aerial defense.

Overlord Dharma was picked as the leader of the aerial force, thanks to his enhanced eyesight and spiritual awareness. He would be backed by Grand Elder Nyselle, who is also a Spirit Master with powerful soul strength.

Five more Grand Elders were picked from the Moon-Borns, with Old Lu being the only one from the Earthlings who would back Overlord Dharma.

However, ten War Gods and Goddesses would join the team, and from there, the rest would follow through. Kathy also made her desire known and said she would be there to help whenever there was an attack.

Once everything was over, they all went about the celebration, where Klaus's friends were now in attendance and surrounded by hundreds of Moon-Borns, each eager to learn more about him.

Naturally, they exaggerated a few details, painting him as some kind of deity, for they all knew that over time, the real Klaus would be revealed, and his other personality as a shameless bastard wouldn't escape their eyes.

When it was around 7 p.m., a streak of golden lightning landed a couple of meters away from Moonville, signaling the arrival of the white-haired paragon.

He had finished wiping out an entire Tier 7 Forbidden Zone and secured over 20 Tier 10 beast and monster bodies.

This meant he had secured more resources to create the perfect warriors.

Chapter 673 - 673: Celebration: After a week

"Hahahaha," Klaus burst into laughter.

He was now seated with his friends as they began the celebration of the arrival of their new allies, the Moon-Borns.

Both humans and moon-borns are seated and mingling to the best of their abilities.

The current him was in stark contrast to the previous him, who nearly killed the Moon Born.

All around, the Moon-Borns, who were mostly women with a minority of men, kept staring in his direction.

Queenie chose to invite a few more people to celebrate such a memorable event now that they had finally added the Moon-Borns to their world and would forever be friends.

"Klaus, just how can you travel through the Void?" Nia asked. "And please be serious with your answer."

They all saw how he opened the Void when he nearly killed the arrogant simp who chose to crash such a memorable moment for the Earthlings and the Moon-Borns.

It ended badly for him. But what shook many was the fact that Klaus used the void.

They knew that for someone to be able to start sensing the Void and then use it, they must first reach the Transcendent stage. So then, how was he able to do so when he was just a Great Sage?

"My bloodline allows me to have some influence on reality and, to some extent, the void. But in case you all don't know, travelling the Void is not something the current me can do freely.

When I used it, it took a toll on me, and I was even ejected and fell into a Tier 7 Forbidden Zone. So don't think about learning it.

Of course, you can try, but don't come crying to me when you get lost in the Void."

Klaus laughed.

"I just don't understand how you can be this powerful. It makes me wonder just how much you're still hiding."

"A lot, actually. But don't worry, everyone has their own secrets, just like how you all didn't want to show your trump cards," Klaus smirked.

"I guess you are right", Nia said with a slight nod.

"Very soon, you will be forced to reveal them, or else you will die. And let me tell you, my training will not see you as friends or brothers. You all will suffer."

"Provided we grow by leaps and bounds, we won't complain," Danny said, already pumped to hack his axe at some monsters.

"Keep that enthusiasm, my brother, for you will need it," Klaus smiled before looking toward his left.

"Lycos, my friend, how have you been?" Klaus said, looking toward the silver-green-haired guy he met on the moon.

He was one of the brats who thought they had Ohema in the bag so they could become arrogant. Of course, after Klaus and he had a good talk, he straightened up and became his friend—the hard way.

"Why don't you guys come sit with us?" Klaus said, making sure "no" wouldn't be an answer they could entertain.

The brat, who was traumatized along with his friends, could only move toward Klaus and his friends. They did not want to think about the event that happened on the moon.

Watching the five moon-borns head toward Klaus's table, many started wondering how Klaus knew people from the moon and even appeared friendly to them.

"How have you guys been?" Klaus asked, looking at the five people he met and befriended while on the moon about a year ago.

"As you can see, we are in one piece, so fine, I guess," Dren, the only one of the five who didn't come looking for trouble with Klaus back then, said in a casual tone.

Among all five of them, he was the only one who took Klaus as a friend to heart. So he was much more relaxed.

"I can see that, Dren. You all have reached the peak of the Sovereign stage, and your auras have changed. We should spar tomorrow," Klaus suggested, but the five frowned.

"I don't think that will be necessary, Brother Klaus. We can just spar with your friends," Zayn said, and Danny smiled.

"Indeed, we would love to spar with you five. Klaus keeps talking about how powerful you guys are, so why don't we spar to see if he was telling the truth?" Danny said, looking at Zayn, the bald fellow who uses gauntlets.

As brute a brute fighter, Zayn is the perfect opponent.

"You will lose if you fight him, Danny," Klaus said to Danny, who just couldn't read the room. He isn't like his brother, who knows how to analyze his opponent's strength before attacking.

"We'll never know who will win until we spar. I am confident I can beat him," Danny said with confidence.

"Well, perhaps your confidence can pave the way for you, but judging by the difference in aura and cultivation base, you will lose."

Thanks to his unknown bloodline, Klaus can now read the aura around people. Lycos and his four friends are much more powerful than his friends.

And it wasn't just them; looking all over, he could tell the Moon-Borns were stronger than the Earthlings.

Of course, this was a result of the dire nature of the moon. The Lunar Beasts outnumbered them in the millions, so they had to fight every single day.

This helped them grow much faster than the humans.

Klaus and his friends started connecting with the five new Moon-Borns, who, thanks to Danny's lively nature, began to blend in much faster.

After a while, Queenie called Klaus to come to the "big boy's table," where he would be introduced to the new Grand Elders who had recently reached the Ascendant stage.

After that was done, there were a few rounds of drinking until the night came to an end.

By the time day broke, the Moon-Borns had settled down, and life as they knew it had now started anew for them on Earth.

Of course, when the reporters arrived in the morning, they could see thousands of Moon-Borns sparring with each other.

This showed how dedicated they were as warriors.

But this display also sparked another conversation among those still concerned that the Moon-Borns might turn against the people of Earth if they were not controlled.

But as the days passed, they all began to understand something. They started to see the advantages they now had.

With these warriors entering the Forbidden Zones, they could already envision a future where they wouldn't have to worry about monster tides.

However, aside from these new changes, Klaus's mom had already moved to Moonville, using the excuse that she wanted to get to know the family from which her son was marrying two beauties.

In reality, instead of staying for a few days, she would be there for months. This meant the assassin twins, who were almost at the stage of taking their tribulations to become Transcendents, were now moved to the academy.

The Moon-Borns also started enrolling in the academy at Klaus's request. This allowed Lycos and the others to join his faction, which would soon be launching its first campaign.

A week later, Klaus met with the Overlords and Grand Elders to discuss the future of Earth and the Moon, along with other important matters.

Chapter 674 - 674: Klaus Meeting with Earth's Strongest (1)

"Thank you all for coming," Klaus said, seated at the head of a large table surrounded by the 14 Grand Elders from the moon.

The 6 Overlords of Earth were also present, along with Kathy, Old Lu, Oheme, and Miriam. Klaus was seated between Queen Lunara and Queenie.

"You asked for us, so we are here, brat," Old Lu said, lightening the mood in the room.

"Indeed. I have a few things to discuss with you all. But before that, I would like to ask a question, and depending on your answer, I will know where to start," Klaus said, staring at the faces of everyone in the room.

"The question is simple. How many of you know about soul bodies?"

The question was indeed simple; however, only one of them had heard of such a term and actually knew something about it.

However, Old Lu didn't say anything, for he knew this was not the time for him to speak.

Of course, he would say something if Klaus asked him directly, but since he had already talked with him and they had come to an understanding, he simply sat there.

"I guess we will start from the basics, then," Klaus said, taking a deep breath before he began to speak.

"By now, we all know the moment we awaken and can sense the spiritual qi in our veins; we have finally stepped onto the path of evolution.

Then we move to Ascended, Master, and then Grandmaster. These four stages are called the Qi sensing stage. It's the first phase of evolution.

Then, in the next stage, we evolve further and form something we call a core. This is the second stage of evolution for us warriors in this apocalyptic world.

The first four stages are just for you to get acquainted with the spiritual qi inside you and in the air. After that, you form a core, and that will help you get much closer to the energies.

These energies are the elements we each have. Some of us have more than one, but all warriors have an elemental affinity.

However, from the Saint, Sage, and Great Sage stages, which are known as the Core formation stage, we go to the Sovereign stage, where the third stage of evolution begins.

Now, I don't want to pull your leg, but I would like to point out that all of you present here have made a fatal mistake that, if not fixed soon, your chances of going beyond the Void stage will be zero."

The faces of everyone present changed into frowns and panic. The fact that they all just heard they can only rise one more stage seems to strike a panic cord in them.

"Kid, what nonsense are you spouting?" Grand Elder Nyselle asked.

"It's not nonsense, Grand Elder. I am speaking the truth," Klaus turned to Queen Lunara. "My lady, what can you tell us about your experience after you became a Void stage expert?"

Queen Lunara smiled, "Let's just say after I reached the 4th level, I got stuck."

The frowns on their faces deepened upon hearing such a revelation. Klaus simply sighed.

He could tell from just looking at them how they were feeling. He knew he would have felt the same if he hadn't met his past self and started learning all about the journey of cultivation.

In truth, this would make anyone panicky, for this is something that wouldn't be revealed until the world awakens.

"Like I said, there is a third phase of evolution, and you all have been doing it the wrong way. Well, you didn't know, so it can't be termed as doing it wrongly. You didn't have the right processes to follow," Klaus said.

"But I suppose you have a way to fix this, right? I mean, you wouldn't have called us here just to drop such daunting news on us," one of the Grand Elders asked.

"Indeed. I have a way. I will teach you all by the end of this session. This will help you create soul-bodies. These soul-bodies will be like a spiritual version of you.

"What it basically does is help you increase your power output by many folds. It also helps you recover much faster, and to some extent, it can even come out to fight alongside you.

There are so many uses for a soul body, but for now, you all should know that until you form a soul body, the chances of increasing your strength are just at the basic level." Klaus looked at Kathy and smiled.

"So, before you all ask, yes, I will give you the method for free.

After this session, you all will know the world we are living in is in danger, and the only way for us to win is to cheat—for which I will ensure you all become the biggest cheaters."

Queenie, Kathy, and Old Lu smiled, knowing the brat meant every word he said.

"Then, with soul bodies, do we have what it takes to go further beyond the Void stage, or, in other words, what are our chances of breaking through the Void stage?"

Don't get me wrong; you already said we wouldn't be able to reach the stages above that, but I cannot help but wonder, if that was the case, even after forming soul bodies, what are our chances?"

Overlord Dharma asked.

Klaus smiled, "I have to admit, my previous statement was a little harsh. Above the Void stage is a stage called Chaos, and beyond that, we go to Ascension.

From what I know, that will be the last stage for forming Soul Bodies.

The reason I said you cannot break through the Void stage is that until you start forming your soul bodies, you cannot go beyond level 4 of the Void stage.

But the moment you start forming your soul-bodies, you can go as far as the Ascension stage. Then, the rest will depend on whether or not you can actually form the soul body and move beyond that stage, too.

So just see the Sovereign, Transcendent, Ascendent, Void, Chaos and Ascension stages as the Soul Body formation stage. You will have six stages to form a soul body.

If you fail to do so, then it means your potential is not high enough to rise beyond these six stages. But again, fear not, I am around, so we will handle that when we get there."

"I see. Thanks for the clarification, Klaus. This means with the method you will be giving us, the chances of us going beyond the Void stage are guaranteed."

"If you don't die, then yes," Klaus laughed along with the Grand Elders and Overlords.

"Of course, with me here, you all can rest assured death is the last thing that will happen. When I am done with you all, death will be something you will never fear."

Strangely, hearing the brat they all could have squashed like a bug just a year ago felt rather comforting. It felt like his words were what could bring them solace.

"Now, why don't we move on to the next agenda: the Bloodlines."

Chapter 675 - 675: Klaus Meeting with Earth's Strongest (2)

"Kathy, can you come closer?" Klaus asked, and Kathy nodded.

She walked closer to where Klaus was and turned to face all the Overlords and Grand Elders.

"She is beautiful, right?" Klaus asked with a smile. His cheeky question was received with smiles that lightened the mood further.

They were all smiling. Klaus wanted to clear the sour mood lingering in the room first before he moved to the next agenda.

Thankfully, it worked, so he asked.

"How many of you know she is not a human but rather a beast?" Klaus's question and the smiles on the faces of all the overlords and Grand Elders were wiped clean.

The sudden mention of a beast among them made everyone become alert. Even Queen Lunara grew tense.

Perhaps now wasn't the best time to talk about beasts around people who had just escaped a moon-infested environment.

They are sensitive toward beasts, so even hearing there is a beast among them without them noticing it was enough to shake their hearts.

"Relax, everyone. Kathy is not like the ones out there," Klaus paused, "I take that back—the current Kathy is not like those out there. The Kathy here is my family and would not harm anyone."

"How can you be sure of that?" Overlord Mira asked. She had every right to ask that, considering this was a beast they were all talking about.

"Well, she is in a contract of equals with my sister Hanna, so unless she is okay with dying, killing humans would be the last thing she would ever think of."

"Are you telling us your sister managed to tame a beast at this level?" Grand Elder Ylthia asked, looking closely at Kathy.

"Indeed. And she will not be the last beast that will start walking among us. In fact, in the coming months, more beasts will start walking among us.

And don't worry, they will not be monsters we all have to fear. I will be in charge of handling that because, although I don't like to brag, I am the only one who can make beasts appear friendly.

Not even gods can boast of that. I am a one-of-a-kind, you see."

Klaus smiled, causing Miriam and Queenie to roll their eyes. Even old Lu wanted to slap the back of his head for such a cheeky brag.

"Just who are you?" Queen Lunara asked, finally having enough of Klaus.

For the past week, she had seen and heard so much about Klaus that she started to wonder how someone like him could exist among mortals.

"You will know soon enough. But for now, why don't we talk about the power of bloodlines?" Klaus said, turning to Kathy. "Do it."

Kathy nodded, and at once, her body was covered in a golden fur that resembled metal. Then, a pair of metallic golden wings appeared behind her.

Instantly, her aura changed to the point that the Grand Elders and Overlords, who were nearing the peak, felt their strength being suppressed.

Klaus looked around the room and smiled.

"Thank you, Kathy. When you are ready, you can come for your reward," Klaus said, making Kathy blush and deactivate her bloodline before sitting back down.

"What was that?" one of the Grand Elders asked.

"That, Grand Elders, is the power of a bloodline. I know all of you have your bloodlines locked, but I have no clear reason why.

But if you all were to awaken your bloodlines, then know that the chances of you becoming a better version of yourselves will be realized.

In a way, your bloodline is a part of you that has been locked away. However, just like everything else, I have a fix for that. Of course, I will finally allow you all to unlock your dormant bloodlines

But you will have to work for it first. However, I promise you all will become better versions of yourselves for what is to come.

As I said already, the world as we know it is in danger, and you will need every advantage to liberate it. So, aside from the soul bodies, your bloodlines are next.

Kathy has already awakened her bloodline, and with that, she has awakened her true self. This includes her Heavenly Constitution, which came with her bloodline.

Now, I know you all might start to wonder, so yes, the beautiful lady with the long ears you all saw a week ago has also awakened her bloodline, and even the lady sitting beside that bald monk has awakened hers as well.

Of course, those eyeing her should give up—she is also my woman."

Klaus smiled along with Miriam, whose smile alone began affecting both the men and women in the room. She was covering her chest, making sure her melons were covered, but one had to admit, the lady was too beautiful.

"This is all good, Klaus, but why do you keep saying this world is in danger?" Queen Lunara asked. The others shared the same thought, so hearing her question, they all began to pay close attention.

"I know you all, at one point, wondered what this apocalypse is and why it came to us. This question can then be asked in a different format:

'Where did the apocalypse come from, and why?'" Klaus said with a thoughtful expression.

"The answer is actually very simple.

It came from the universe, and the reason was to add this world to the large pool of worlds forming the universe."

"You're being serious, right?" Queen Lunara asked.

"I am. Ask yourself, if the lady with the long ears is known as an Elf, then doesn't that mean there are Elves out there somewhere?" Klaus asked.

"I suppose so."

"There are millions, if not billions, of worlds out there, most of which have yet to reach our level.

Now, what this means is that when the apocalypse, which was meant to usher us into the path of evolution, arrived, we started taking steps toward joining the universe.

Now, a day is coming when a great calamity will befall us, which, in the universe's eyes, is a test to see if we are ready to be part of the universe.

I don't know how it will come or when, but I have already started making plans to ensure all variables that can be weaponized will be neutralized, and that includes clearing the monsters down here and on the moon.

Also, we should make an effort to reach the planets closer to us, for we can never know what is hiding there until we get there.

Now, I won't ask you all to take me seriously. I just want to share this with you and do my best to raise capable warriors for when the dangers arrive."

Klaus took a deep sigh, and Queenie gently massaged his shoulder, showing him she had his back in all of this.

"If this was a few years ago, I would have stormed out of here and never returned. But things have changed, and now, I can't think of any reason to doubt you.

So whatever plans you have, don't hesitate to bring them on board.

I am a natural-born warrior. It's in my blood, and so I will not hesitate to raise my scythe when the time comes to march into battle."

Queen Lunara said, exuding the aura of a warrior.

[She is so sexy right now,] Klaus said to Queenie, Miriam, and Ohema through telepathy, causing them to all cough at the same time.

A smile appeared on his face.

Chapter 676 - 676: Klaus Meeting with Earth's Strongest (3)

"It warms my heart to hear such words coming from you, Mother-in-law," Klaus said, causing Queen Lunara to smile.

Though the way he said the mother-in-law sounded weird, she didn't mind and chose to smile at his cheekiness.

"That aside, I know you all have your reservations, and I respect that. So, take the time to come to terms with the fact that, in the coming months or perhaps years, we will face a calamity like none other.

But rest assured, we will be ready for that day, and trust me when it's over, this world will become one filled with warriors who will tread the path to immortality, bathing in the blood of all those who dare to oppose.

However, be ready to put in the work, for we have much to do. But when all is said and done, you will all look back and smile.

This brings me to the fourth item for this meeting: the Tier 11 beasts and monsters around."

The Overlords and Grand Elders sighed.

"I have been made aware that there is a monster at the peak of the Tier 11 stage currently on Earth. However, we can never be too sure if that is the only one.

This also calls for immediate action to exterminate it before it is too late. This is why I have already devised a battle plan, which I believe will see to the end of such a monster."

Klaus was rather happy with the turn of events for him. He is looking for materials to create his perfect soldiers, and the body of a Tier 11 monster will go a long way.

He just needed Tier 10 above bodies and perhaps metals he planned on taking from Nadia, who still didn't want to show him around her Puppet Workshop until she was done with some stuff first.

"Queen Lunara and her daughter, Overlord Queenie, will be our main strike force. Of course, another member will be joining us soon.

But the main force will be them. However, aside from them, 12 Ascendants will be needed to handle the 9 minions acting as generals for the Tier 11 monster.

"Little is known about this monster, but from my reports, it is in a Tier 9 Forbidden Zone, with only nine other monsters. Of course, this doesn't mean this battle will succeed, but we can try. And don't worry, none of you will die.

I will make sure of that."

"I was hoping you would join the main strike force," Old Lu commented, making Klaus smile.

"I don't want to take all the fun from them," Klaus shamelessly said, of course, causing the Overlords and the Grand Elders to begin reevaluating the brat they had started to look up to.

"Just kidding. I, along with the queen and her daughter, will face the monster. But you all will handle the rest.

Of course, to get down a proper battle plan, I need to know about you. But don't worry, I am not planning to uncover your trump cards.

I just want to know how you fight and how best to create a coordination plan for the battle. So disregard my previous plan and listen to this one instead.

Only ten Ascendents will be left to handle things here that day. The rest will go with us, which will be a one-time thing. We wouldn't want to go and test the waters.

If we fail, it means the one attacking us next will be that monster. That will be dangerous for us, so we must succeed."

"When is this operation?" Overlord Isaac asked.

"Exactly two months from today. By then, you all will have finished learning the cultivation techniques I will give you for the Soul Bodies. That will raise your strength by a bit.

We cannot afford to take this lightly."

"We will not disappoint," Overlord Jose from the Southern Union said.

"Happy to hear that. But before we end this meeting, I will be meeting you all a week before the operation. Use this time to learn the cultivation techniques."

Klaus waved his hand, and golden plates flew toward the Overlords and the Grand Elders. They all caught them and looked at the inscriptions on them.

"That is the cultivation technique, unique to each and every one of you."

"Thank you, Klaus," Overlord Dharma said with a smile.

"Then this brings us to the end of our meeting. However, know that the coming months will be dangerous, so let's all do well to train and be ready."

The Overlords and Grand Elders nodded and left. Old Lu, Miriam, and Kathy also left, leaving only Klaus and the triplets.

"Klaus, I want to join the main strike force," Ohema protested, acting like a spoiled child.

"No can do, lady. You still haven't reached the third stage of the Poison Body Art. Until then, you cannot join such a battle.

Of course, if you somehow manage to reach the third stage and breakthrough before the next five weeks, I will add you to the main strike force.

Until then, you can fight the small fries," Klaus laughed, making Ohema pout.

"You clearly are underestimating me," she said, but Klaus just snorted and said nothing.

Ohema is powerful, but she is not built for one-on-one battles. She is more suited for crowd control because her poison is perfect for dealing with a large number of opponents.

If she were to join the main strike force, then it would be to prevent her teammates from getting poisoned.

"Don't worry, sister, I will take care of him. I won't let anything happen to him," Queenie said, bringing a smile to Klaus's face.

"Look at you sisters supporting your man. I wonder what this brat has given you two, making you fall head over heels for him," Queen Lunara said with a smirk.

"Nothing to wonder, my Queen. You will know soon enough," Klaus said.

"Tsk," the queen chuckled. "I am leaving; your mother is rather a peculiar kind of human." Queen Lunara, who has already had her hair braided three times, is starting to see Klaus's mom in a new light.

"She is the best, isn't she?" Klaus asked with a smile.

"She indeed is something," she smiled. "Then, see you later. If you have some time, come see me."

"Oh, I will come, alright," Klaus said with a smile on his face as he watched the beauty walk away.

"She is something," Klaus said.

"Mother is the most powerful person I have ever met, and I've met you. So don't even think about getting her into your bed," Ohema said with a proud smile.

"Ohema dear, do you believe in destiny?" Klaus asked.

"I do."

"Then do you believe me if I were to tell you that Queen Lunara is someone I cannot allow to slip through my fingers?" Klaus asked with an evil smile.

"That..." Ohema was at a loss for words. Klaus just smiled, moved in, and kissed her.

"No need to think too much. Just know that it would eventually happen if it was meant to be."

Klaus was smiling, but something else was playing out in his head. Inside his 7th core, the pentagon-shaped gem was glowing when he spoke with the Queen.

Now, he wondered just how she and Lulu connected to this gem. Suddenly, Klaus's expression changed, causing Queenie to ask.

"What is wrong, Klaus?"

"It's Nari; she is about to break through."

"What?"

"Don't panic, dear. Get Kathy, Miriam, and your mom and meet me up there," Klaus said, pointing upward before holding Ohema's hand.

They vanished, and the next second, they were flying up into the clouds.

Chapter 677 - 677: The Awakening of a Great Calamity (1)

Klaus and Ohema flew into the clouds and hovered just above them. They waited for a few seconds before Queenie, her mom, and Miriam arrived.

"Klaus, what is wrong?" Queen Lunara asked.

"Nothing is wrong, my lady. It's just that something important came up, and I will be needing your protection for the next few days," Klaus said, making the queen raise an eyebrow.

"You need my protection." Hearing him say the word "protection" sounded rather funny to her ears. To her, someone like Klaus doesn't need protection.

She sees him as someone who has figured everything out. So, asking for her protection is the last thing she expected from Klaus.

One can even say he was just messing with him. But she had to listen to him first.

"I am going to the moon to help someone with her tribulation, and because of how dangerous this tribulation will be, I will need someone with your strength to ensure no external force attacks.

Of course, it might end up safe, and we wouldn't even have to do an."

Queen Lunara nodded. It seems he was only asking for potential "ifs."

"Then let's go." Queenie waved her hand, and the space cracked open, forming a rift. They flew through the void, and the next second, they were on the moon.

They appeared inside the Moon Palace. Klaus quickly moved toward the tribulation grounds they used the last time for Queenie's tribulation.

From a few kilometres away, he could see some monsters already occupying the place. Klaus didn't waste time.

He summoned his spirit swords and immediately killed them all before devouring their bodies with the devouring ice.

He then waved his hand, and an illusion immediately covered his space, creating a calming atmosphere.

Queenie, Miriam, Ohema, and Queen Lunara stopped about a mile from the tribulation ground and spread out.

They formed a square around the tribulation ground.

Klaus didn't know the danger that would be coming or whether this tribulation would be as he expected, so he brought the best he could think of with him.

He stopped at the centre of the tribulation ground and retrieved the Cube. He immediately entered and appeared in the space where Nari was secluded.

When he appeared, the entire space was burning.

In fact, had he not awakened two flame elements, he would have turned to ash immediately. He coated his body with his flame element, but even that couldn't prevent his clothes from starting to burn.

Klaus quickly covered his body with the exoskeleton alien armour he received from the trial. It was now complete, but he only used it to cover up to his neck.

And he was only using a layer of it to cover his clothes.

On the platform, Nari was seated with her eyes closed, but a manifestation of a red phoenix could be seen hovering behind her.

It wasn't real, but it wasn't something to be underestimated.

The aura emanating from her was overwhelming. Klaus had to unleash his laughter aura to manage to get close to her.

When he was a meter away, Nari opened her eyes.

"Shit," Klaus cursed, realizing he was too late.

The redhead opened her eyes, and a look of craziness could be seen in them.

"Let's go out first, or else we'll destroy this place." Klaus willed it, and they both appeared outside. They emerged immediately, and a ball of fire surged toward him.

He punched forward, destroying the fireball, but before he could recover from the shockwave, Nari arrived in front of him and grabbed his neck.

"This is going to be troublesome," Klaus said as he was thrown to the ground, creating a powerful shockwave that pushed the ladies back a few meters.

"Ladies, kindly get away from here now," Klaus said. He lifted himself from the ground and stretched his body.

Queenie, along with Ohema, Miriam, and Queen Lunara, moved back, distancing themselves from Klaus and Nari.

The two crazies are about to do something crazy.

"Okay, Nari, why don't we talk first?" His sabre appeared and split into two. Klaus took hold of the sabre and raised them up, and a fire dragon appeared in the air.

"Dragon slash." The sabres came down, and the dragon shot toward Nari, who gazed back at the dragon with a furious expression.

It was as if she hated dragons deep in her bones. Klaus just laughed, considering the Nari he knew wanted to have her own fire dragon.

She was fascinated by dragons. But now, she seems to hate the sight of a dragon.

This explained that the current Nari and the one he knew were different. Nari is no longer in control.

It also meant he would have to bring back the Nari he knew to give her his blood. Who knows what this crazy lady will become once she tastes his blood?

So Nari must come out.

That would require him to defeat this current Nari, who is practically a phoenix and, from the look of things, a great calamity in the making.

"I can't kill nor injure her, meaning I can only deal with her using my fists." Klaus put away the sabres. He knew if he were to use them, she would get hurt, and that would only escalate things.

"Then why don't I punch out the Nari I know?" His hands were covered by the gauntlets he received from one of the trials.

He moved, and the next second, he was in front of Nari, who smirked for some strange reason. Klaus didn't mind, so he punched forward.

However, the moment his fist was about to land on her naked body, he sensed a ball of flame coming from behind him.

He abandoned the attack and instead dodged to the side.

"A clone, huh," Klaus muttered, watching as another Nari appeared beside the real one. This one, too, was naked, but Klaus had no plans to admire anything.

He looked deep into Nari's eyes and sighed.

"Sorry about this, Nari. I really hope you won't take offense to this."

Klaus muttered and then moved. He took a single step and vanished.

This startled Nari, who turned to look around, but the moment she turned, Klaus appeared and landed a punch that sent her slamming to the ground.

This time, the shockwave wasn't as intense since Klaus controlled his strength, making sure she wasn't hurt in any way.

"Nari, are you in there?" Klaus landed beside the naked body on the ground and asked, but what he got in return was a fireball to the face.

He dodged and landed another blow. Then the next blow followed, and it kept adding up until suddenly, a chilling voice entered Klaus's ears, bringing a smile to his face.

"I will kill you, Klaus." Nari slowly stood up and glared at Klaus, who held a smirk on his lips.

"Drink my blood and break through first before we think about who will be killing whom."

Klaus smiled and then turned into his elf form, causing Nari to raise an eyebrow.

She moved close, and before Klaus could react to what she was doing, she grabbed him and bit his lips, drawing blood.

Chapter 678 - 678: The Awakening of a Great Calamity (2)

Far from the space where Klaus and Nari were, Queen Lunara looked at the three ladies beside her, and a teasing smile appeared.

"Is it just me, or is someone trying to steal your husband, ladies?" she said with a cheeky smile.

"That's Nari, and she's not trying to steal our man. She's just a friend," Ohema smirked, looking in Klaus and Nari's direction.

"Hmm. I say friends don't kiss like that," Queen Lunara said again, making the three ladies narrow their eyes in Klaus's direction.

Nari had wrapped her legs around Klaus's waist, and her hands were on his shoulders, their lips connected in a fierce kiss that was doing more than just Klaus giving her his blood.

"You don't seem surprised seeing Klaus now turn into an elf," Queenie asked, trying to change the topic. Her mom just smiled and chose to stop teasing them.

"For someone like him to talk about bloodlines like that, it's only normal to assume he had awakened his. So, seeing him take a new form isn't a shock to me."

The ladies didn't say anything and continued to watch as Klaus and Nari kissed.

Klaus's hand was gripping her butt, and from the way he was holding her, one could tell he wasn't taking any chances. Nari had initiated the kiss, and now he was kissing her back.

Though he knew this was happening, he still wouldn't be sure of the outcome until she fully evolved into a phoenix and not turned into a great calamity.

So they were kissing, but Klaus was ready to spring into action the moment the beautiful redhead went berserk.

"Relax, Klaus. I'm not crazy. I just wanted to kiss you, and I did. Now, I can feel your blood working, so let me break through first, and we can continue later."

"Continue what?" Klaus asked, pretending he had no idea what she meant.

"You better be prepared, Klaus; you won't be getting a breather when I am done," Nari said, staring intently at Klaus, who couldn't think of anything except how unpredictable the lady seemed.

He could tell she was on the edge and might lose control at any moment.

"Just don't keep the heavens waiting. Your drinking my blood has prevented something dangerous from happening, and since they can't do anything to me, they will try to come after you."

Klaus said, recalling what the senior had told him about great calamities.

They were meant to destroy. So, taming one wouldn't be something the heavens would take lying down. Klaus knew this, so he allowed Nari to use the Flame Transformation inside the cube.

This would give her a chance against the heavens, and hopefully, Klaus wouldn't have to intervene.

"Don't worry, I'll be fine," Nari said confidently, causing Klaus to nod.

"Then do your best."

"Just wait," Nari said, pulling him in for one last kiss before she sat down and began to meditate.

'She is crazy,' Klaus thought, smiling, knowing he would soon have this craziness in his harem. The lady sitting naked on the ground is no one he could underestimate until she is tamed.

He flew away, landing only when he was far enough. The four ladies arrived beside him.

"Is she okay?" Queenie asked.

"Yes, she is fine. But she is crazy at the moment," Klaus answered.

"I'd say she is fine, considering how she just kissed you," Ohema said with a chuckle.

"What can I say? Women find me irresistible," Klaus laughed, causing the three ladies to roll their eyes. Queen Lunara, however, was looking at Queenie, who was undergoing the final phase of her evolution.

"Is she also a beast?" she asked.

"Yes. She is a phoenix awakening her bloodline and heavenly body constitution."

"I see," Queen Lunara nodded.

"What should we do now?" Miriam asked.

"We should just wait until she is done. The rest will be her tribulation, which will determine whether Earth will get its first phoenix."

They began waiting for Nari, who was doing her best to see it through.

Six hours later, the clouds started forming, signalling the arrival of the tribulation. This meant Nari had succeeded. Now, she just had to face the tribulation, and she would become a full-fledged phoenix.

"It's about to start," Klaus said.

He and the ladies looked up and saw Nari hovering mid-air, watching the clouds form above.

In her grip was her bow, and now covering her body were red and golden feathered scales acting as clothes.

Rumble.

Thunder rocked the moon, shaking it vigorously. Klaus narrowed his eyes at the clouds, trying to see if he could figure out what was coming. He knew something was amiss.

Rumble.

The moon shook again, and this time, Klaus sensed something approaching. The feeling was familiar, as he had experienced the same change and sensation many years ago.

It was when he came out of the Bloodline Awakening Tower.

'Heaven's Descent.'

His blood grew cold as a bow appeared in his grip.

"Klaus, what is going on?" Queenie asked.

"Nothing to worry about. But know that things might escalate at any moment, so when that happens, quickly retreat, and no matter what, don't come any closer," Klaus replied, already emitting battle intent.

"You're scaring us, Klaus," Miriam said, sensing something was truly wrong. She looked at Klaus and then up at the clouds.

"Don't worry, ladies. Everything will be fine." As Klaus said those words, a thunderstrike descended from within the clouds and stopped below the tribulation cloud.

"Is that a demon?" Queen Lunara asked, staring at the figure that had appeared there.

"No, ladies. That is what you call a messenger of the heavens. I call them slaves of the heavens because that idiot there is here to kill Nari, and it's all my fault."

Klaus's fists clenched as he gritted his teeth.

[Brat, don't do anything stupid. The one about to face the heavens' messenger is a Great Calamity, who has the blood of a paragon running through her veins. I say trust her and watch.]

'But Senior, we both know this is not a normal tribulation. That is a real person who the heavens have recognized.

He has nothing to lose because even if he dies here, he will be awakened wherever he came from. This means he will put everything into this battle.

And knowing the heavens, they will do anything to stop someone of Nari's destiny from becoming my ally.'

[Yes, I know that. But until you meet a Great Calamity, you will never know what they are made of. If I am not mistaken, I feel you will discover something interesting soon.

Just don't intervene until the last moment. So relax and watch.]

"A calamity being born in a place like this. How unexpected," the figure spoke, and everyone who heard him understood every single word.

It was as if the universe itself was translating his words for them. But in reality, it was just Klaus being nearby that allowed everyone to understand what the messenger had said.

"I know, right?" Nari smirked. "So why don't you die?"

She moved, and before the figure could take action, Nari was in front of him.

BOOM.

The entire moon turned red.

Chapter 679 - 679: The Awakening of a Great Calamity (3)

Back on Earth, the moon was in full bloom, lighting the night sky with its radiance and beauty. Many were star gazing with their loved ones.

Suddenly, everything turned crimson, shattering the serene atmosphere.

Instinctively, all Moon Borns retrieved their weapons and prepared for whatever was coming. The humans also followed.

The Overlords and Grand Elders flew up, acting as the first line of defense against whatever threat might emerge.

Their response was quick and immediate.

Meanwhile, Klaus, Queenie, Queen Lunara, Ohema, and Miriam gazed upward, watching as Nari clashed with the messenger.

Her attack landed on his body, sending him flying to the ground. She moved rather quickly, and before the messenger could counter her move, she had already landed a blow.

"Flame Ascendance!" Nari's voice boomed as a thick, three-meter-tall arrow shot from her bow and arrived right in front of the messenger.

"Boom," She mouthed the sound as the arrow exploded, bathing the unfortunate messenger in its unholy radiance.

Screams of pain escaped his mouth as the impure flames burned deep into his body, searing even his soul. Nari's impurity flame was rather lethal in that regard.

Then, to the shock of the five onlookers, Nari took a nosedive into the burning flames. It was like the flame was a pool of cold water.

She dived in.

The next second, she was back in the air with the messenger in her grip. He was burnt all over, and from the look on his charred face, he was terrified.

"Let me guess, you thought this would be an easy gig from the heavens, so you decided to get arrogant." Flames surged from Nari's eyes.

"I know that the heavens will not be happy with me now connected to a paragon. I know they will send idiots like you to hinder my breakthrough. I know they will set their sight on me from now onwards.

I know they will try everything to stop me. But do I care?" Nari turned and looked at Klaus. A smile appeared on her lips.

"I don't care, for I promised him eons ago that I would help him on his journey. This means I will not let the heavens touch him, not now, not ever."

Klaus heard those words, and the bow in his hands vanished. The anger and frown on his face were also wiped away. It was then replaced by a smile.

He could tell that the Nari speaking now was the same one who had kissed him, yet also she was somewhat different.

This one seemed much more mature, meaning she had been possessed by her past self for this tribulation. Klaus had already been in the same situation several times, so he could tell.

"Ladies, why don't we sit back and watch a good fight?" Klaus snapped his fingers, and five chairs made of ice appeared.

"I have a feeling we will learn a thing or two from our very own Calamity disguised as Nari." His smile bloomed, catching the four ladies by surprise.

They had heard what Nari said but didn't know how to process it.

However, a seed had been planted in their hearts, and soon, it would make them start wondering about many things—one of them being whether they were incarnations of people who once lived.

The answer would follow from three.

"I know when you die here, your other body will be safe," Nari said, her smile turning crazed.

"Sorry you met me. You see, I cannot let you divulge my awakening to anyone. Not just yet, so I will kill both bodies now."

Her smile was now as crazy as it could get.

Somewhere far in the universe, a Metal Demon, who had recently entered the Chaos stage, snapped his eyes open and tried to scream.

However, before even a peep could come from his mouth, a phoenix tattoo appeared on his forehead, and then he exploded, destroying the space he was in.

Thankfully, three more people in the same posture died with him. One of them was inside a tribulation, facing someone very important to Klaus.

This person had once promised him that if they met again, she would grant him three wishes of his choosing.

Nari grinned at the messenger and engulfed his neck in flames until his head was turned to a crisp.

"That is too evil," Queen Lunara said, watching the smile on Nari's face.

"That is not evil enough, my lady. What the heavens just did was something they shouldn't have," Klaus said, already waiting for his tribulation.

He knew they would carry all their frustration and offload it on him.

Rumble.

The heavens shook again, and this time, a terrifying beast with six pairs of arms and three pairs of eyes emerged from the clouds.

The moment it arrived, everyone present could sense the aura emanating from it—it was that of a Void stage expert who had been suppressed to the peak of the Ascendant stage.

"This should be fun," Klaus said, his mind already calculating 14 scenarios in which he could kill the beast up in the air.

Nari also smirked and then pulled back her bow.

However, before she could release an arrow, the beast split into six different versions. Strangely, this caused it to lose five pairs of arms, revealing it to be a six-part beast merged into one body.

"These," Queenie muttered, watching as the six beasts lunged at Nari, who had to switch her attacking mode.

She conjured a flame into her palm and raised it up. When the beasts closed in on her, she clenched her fist, and a wave of fire exploded from her hand, pushing back the six beasts.

"Piercing Flame Arrow." A brilliant red light flashed through the air, piercing a hole through one of the beasts.

Four more followed, killing all five additions. In a way, Nari didn't know which one was the real body, so she simply killed at random.

Of course, when the five died, the last one weakened, and the next second, that one, too, was killed.

Then, a different beast appeared, also suppressed to the peak of the Transcendent stage despite being a Void stage expert.

That one, too, was dealt with, and more kept coming. Beasts of different sizes and shapes poured in for Nari to slaughter.

Klaus and the ladies could only watch with amazed expressions.

"I feel like the real battle ended when that demon was killed. Look, his body is even on the ground," Miriam said, pointing toward the demon.

"Indeed. The rest are just formalities," Klaus smiled. He waved his hand, and the body vanished. "The heavens truly didn't see that coming."

Two hours later, Nari was finally done, killing hundreds of beasts.

However, when the last beast fell, the rebirth ceremony began.

"Ladies, pay attention to what is about to happen, for you might only see it once in your lifetime." For some reason, Klaus was very happy.

It was the kind of happiness one feels when they see someone they missed dearly.

"You are about to witness the kind of rebirth that is widely accepted by the universe and added as a cultivation stage."

"You are about to witness the Nirvana Rebirth of a True Phoenix."

As soon as Klaus said that, Nari's body exploded into brilliant flame. Everything about her was gone. A golden-red crystal remained in her place.

This crystal is widely known as the Phoenix Heart, one of the most valuable items in the universe.

The rebirth is about to start, and the attraction starts drawing all kinds of beasts.

Chapter 680 - 680: Nirvana Rebirth

"What is going on?"

Someone asked among the thousands of battle-ready warriors as they waited for whatever was coming from the moon.

Considering it was now red, and from Earth, they could see two large wings spread out behind the moon.

Nobody knew what was happening, but they knew the two strongest on Earth were away, so it was probably them doing something.

But that was far from the truth.

Queenie and Queen Lunara were indeed on the moon, but aside from sitting back and watching a glowing red crystal hovering in the air, everything seemed fine.

Well, it's not completely fine.

"The Lunar Beasts are coming," Queen Lunara turned to her left and said, causing the ladies with her to draw their weapons.

"They are just Tier 8 and 9 Lunar Beasts; let me take the first offense." Miriam flew into the air and drew the Sword of Tyranny.

She sped toward the beasts, stopping only when she was a few meters away.

There were hundreds of them, but she simply smiled and unleashed a single swing that sent countless sword lights cutting through the bodies of the monsters.

She didn't stop there; she moved forward again, creating a new gap between herself and Nari, who had now been reduced to a Phoenix Heart.

"You ladies should be ready; we might get a bigger boss soon," Klaus said, already alert for anything.

Nari's Phoenix Heart was something that, if he knew nothing about her, he would also try to seize. The Phoenix Heart contains the blood essence of a phoenix.

In fact, aside from their blood essence, it also holds their everything within it. Absorbing it would first turn one into a powerful fire user if the phoenix was of fire.

However, the most important thing that perhaps made it even more valuable was the Phoenix Rebirth.

The Phoenix Heart contains a unique power, allowing a phoenix to rise from the ashes after they die. They call it Phoenix Rebirth.

This means that if a person, beast, or monster were to consume it, they would also gain this ability and experience a rebirth when they die.

This is something anyone would chase after. In fact, even immortals will be hungry for something like this.

Klaus knew the aura emanating from it would attract attention, so he was already a step ahead. This was the main reason he brought two Void Stage experts with him.

"We will be ready for them," Queenie said, spreading her senses across the entire area, ensuring nothing escaped her detection.

Ten minutes later, Tier 10 beasts began to appear. Miriam, who had been slaughtering them, started to feel overwhelmed, but she refused to back down.

Her sword did the work, and her movements were always a step ahead as if she knew exactly where to move and when to swing her blade.

Her swordsmanship is rather impeccable.

"Hmm," Klaus smirked when he suddenly sensed something. He took to the skies.

Queenie, Queen Lunara, and Ohema followed him.

A few seconds later, they stopped and gazed at a humanoid figure approaching the crystal in the air.

It was a gray-haired man with two horns on his forehead, a muscular build, and metallic skin. His demeanor is humanlike, but Klaus knows he is no human but a beast.

This Tier 11 Lunar Beast had chosen to make its appearance, aiming for the Phoenix heart.

"That is Hamrix, a Metal-skinned Mountain Goat, one of the Lunar Beasts with whom we have clashed several times over the years.

His minions are the ones dying over there," Queen Lunara said, making Klaus nod.

"Turn around and go," Klaus said in a commanding tone.

"The only reason we are warning you is because you are a beast and can reason. So you can tell the odds won't be in your favor if we were to fight.

We also don't want to create a scene here. So do well to take this advantage and go back, for it will end badly for you if you do otherwise.

It will be best if you listen to reason and go back"

Hamrix looked at the two ladies behind Klaus, then back at the red crystal, and silently left. He knew that if things were to escalate, it would not end well for him.

Klaus said it, and he could see it; the odds were stacked against him.

"If we come after them, I want to drive my sword through his heart," Queenie said, watching the hateful Void Stage beast leave.

She had already marked him for targeting her sister during her evolution phase.

"He is not leaving. He is merely going to wait until we can no longer stop him. That is when he will return," Klaus smirked. "I want them to relax, for today is more important to me than fighting. A battle now won't end well for any of us."

"Don't worry, Klaus, we won't let them have a chance," Queen Lunara said. Just like her daughter, she was still standing without her weapon but was ready.

Klaus wanted to see her in action, but he would also be happy if this ended as quietly as possible.

"I will go help Miriam," Ohema said, knowing things could get chaotic. She moved toward Miriam.

When she landed on the ground, purple poison burst out of her body, instantly reducing all the Lunar Beasts to dust.

"Thank you," Miriam said, catching her breath before moving again.

Ohema followed, and just like that, they began killing the beasts, who never seemed to learn that the crystal in the air was protected.

Two Void Stage experts, One Ascendent and a transcendent, were protecting the crystal. As for Klaus, he was not someone whose strength could be measured at the moment.

Twelve hours passed, and thousands of beasts had been slaughtered.

Queenie joined in when Miriam and Ohema grew tired. It went on for two whole days, with the three ladies switching every hour to preserve their energy.

Klaus and Queen Lunara didn't move, remaining alert and ready for the dangers lurking nearby.

Thankfully, none of the six Tier 11 beasts that tried to come after the Phoenix Heart trusted the others enough to form an alliance, so they did not want to face two Void Stage experts.

Klaus noticed all of them were between the 3rd and 6th stages, making them stronger than Queenie and her mother. However, if both of them joined forces, they could handle them.

They were also afraid of being stabbed in the back by the others, so they only came, observed, and then retreated to hide.

A few hours into the second day, powerful red energy shot out of the red crystal and extended to the heavens, bringing with it a presence so strong that it pushed everyone back.

"It's starting," Klaus said with a smile as clouds began to form.

"Oh my," Queen Lunara mouthed as the clouds, engulfed in flames, started burning fiercely. In fact, the heavens were bathed in so much fire that even though it was night on Earth, it appeared as day.

Naturally, many began to panic.

But this was a sight to behold to Klaus and the ladies on the moon, for they could see the phoenix rising from the flames of Nirvana—and it was beautiful.