Chapter 731 - 731: Two Deadly Sisters (2) [18+]

"AaaahhhHHH"

Both Lucy and Anna moaned at the same time as Klaus shot his load deep into Lucy. Her body was shaking vigorously as Klaus continued to offload into her.

Meanwhile, Anna also released her love juice on Klaus's face, making the paragon go through all forms of pleasure.

While he was releasing his load, he was getting a different one inside. This brought him all the calm he could ask for.

He would forever cherish moments like this, so he was enjoying his time with the two sisters. After Anna finished bathing him, she climbed down from him.

Anna looked at the still hard paragon rod and gulped.

"There's no need to keep staring at it, my love. Making good use of it is best for both of us," Klaus said as Lucy moved back for her sister to take over.

The two sisters had already decided to handle him with care and ensure he enjoyed every second of it. They've started, and so far, Klaus is having the best time of the evening.

Anna bent down on the bed, assuming the doggy position.

Her posture made little Klaus pump blood as he moved, and he further pressed her waist, making it bend even further.

He rubbed her for a few minutes before he thrust in and started moving his hips, holding her waist. Lucy was on the side watching as Klaus fuck her sister.

Back when Anna came home and reported that Martin Guan tried to kill her but somebody saved her, Lucy became intrigued, so she started to pry into her business.

Naturally, Anna made sure her sister extracted nothing from her. However, all that came crashing down when she found out Klaus was the mysterious person who made her sister lie to their entire family.

She became intrigued.

But what Lucy never expected was falling for him. That was the last thing she expected, yet somehow she fell for him, and it was magical from there onwards.

Now, she and her sister are his wives and they are pleasuring him on the same bed, even going as far as sucking his dick and balls at the same time.

That is wild, and even thinking about it made her blush hard. But the scene was clear, Klaus was fucking her sister right before her eyes.

This time, since Klaus was the one doing the thrusting, it took a little over 45 minutes before he came flooding her inside with his star juice.

Lucy was quick to get hold of the dick the moment it came out from her sister and started sucking on it. Anna, however, sat down to recover her strength, for Klaus made sure she felt his love deep within her.

He ensured he hit all the right spots, so her body was very sensitive and craving more. Lucy continued to suck for a while until Klaus came giving her all his juice.

After she had her fill, she sat beside her sister.

"You two look cute," Klaus said, staring at the two sisters.

"Are you not tired?" Lucy asked, staring at the still-hard paragon rod.

"I can never be tired of having two beauties nude before me." Klaus would be lying if he said he was getting tired anytime soon.

The first Paragon Star Diagram technique was meant for the body, and that helped build his body from the awakening stage to the Grandmaster stage.

This made his body very powerful.

The second diagram came for his cores, and right now, he has nine cores filled with energy he could use to satisfy his ladies and still have enough to fight against a pack of Tier 10 wolves.

That is how terrifying Klaus has become in bed. Including his Void stage ladies, he is not sure if they can satisfy him at the same time.

"Are you two ready for the second phase of your training?" Klaus asked

They nodded like the cats they were.

"Just tone it down a bit on us, would you? We are fragile, you see," Lucy said in the most seductive tone she could muster, but Klaus just smirked.

"If you slack off, I will punish you. There are no exceptions, missy," Lucy pouted

"How do you sleep at night knowing you women are suffering because of you?" Anna said, looking like she wanted to pop his eyes out.

"I want my wives to grow stronger and more capable than they currently are. So don't worry, I will work you to the bone, but when night came, I will give you the treatment you deserve as my wives by putting you to bed smiling" Klaus laughed.

"How do you intend to do that?" Lucy asked

"By doing this every evening," He raised her up and climbed down the bed, wrapping her legs around his waist before putting his dick in her.

Anna giggle as her sister was drill continuously for 30 minutes before her body was filled up again. This time, he set her down and immediately gave Anna her own too.

But he didn't stop there.

After he was done with her, he went back to Lucy, who had recovered and gave it to her again, this time making her fall down on her back, panting for breath even after he was done with her sister.

Four hours later, he made them cum several times with no time to rest. Their bodies have relaxed, making them feel like sleeping despite their bodies still full of energy.

That feeling would indeed put them into a good night's sleep.

"That is how I planned on making it up to you. The first two weeks will be easy on you all, so whatever arrangement you ladies come up with will work. But after that, I will make a different arrangement for you.

And don't worry, I have the energy to ensure you all are satisfied after your training."

"Was that the reason why you created one big room for all of us?" Lucy asked, still panting slightly.

"Indeed," Klaus answered. Just like he created one large room for his uncles, Lucy and the rest of his wives have the same room.

"But Hanna and Kathy are with us now, and even the twins want to move in. Not that we mind, but they are new to all this, so would that be appropriate?"

"That is for them to decide. But I don't mind..." Klaus laughed.

Though he and the twins haven't even reached the stage where they can see him naked with his ladies, he is aware they like him, and he likes them.

So he wouldn't mind putting them to sleep every night using other means.

"You really are one lucky, handsome yet shameless man," Anna smiled.

"I am lucky to have two amazing sisters in my bed," Klaus laughed and lay his head on Lucy's lap as Anna played with little Klaus.

"Klaus, do you think we can handle whatever you said was coming?" Lucy asked with a slightly worried expression.

Klaus just smiled. "As long as I am still alive, nothing will happen to any of you. And let me tell you, Death, and I are like best friends, so I am not going anywhere."

Though shameless, hearing him say that made her calm down a bit.

"We will train well and be your weapons when the time comes. And before you say we shouldn't see ourselves as your weapons, we don't mind being one, even if it was just for a moment," Lucy laughed.

"Maybe you should attend to little Klaus before you brag about helping me in combat. I doubt you can swing a sword with these small hands," Klaus laughed.

"You..."

Lucy pouted but couldn't help smiling at Klaus's teasing remark.

Then she went to replace her sister, and for the rest of the night, until four in the morning, they kept switching and pleasuring their man.

When daybreak came, they left and went back to their sisters.

Chapter 732 - 732: Meeting (1)

Mother-in-law, glad to see you are well and as beautiful as ever," Klaus said to Queen Lunara, who was now seated with Queenie and Nari in a meeting room.

It was just them inside, so he was flirting with her, making the queen smile at his words

"I'm glad to see you are also well and shameless as ever," Queen Lunara chirped, making Klaus smile.

The night until dawn had been wonderful for him, so his energy was different. Ann and her sister made sure he felt every second of it.

"I hope your first night here was great as mine," Klaus said with a sly smile.

"Of course, if you are having difficulty sleeping, don't hesitate to call me. I will help you have a good night's sleep."

The queen just chuckled, making Nari and Queenie shake their heads. Their man was shameless as ever, not that they cared.

He was capable, and having more wives wasn't getting in the way of their pleasure or his training, so they were cool with it.

However, tonight, Queenie and her sister Oheme have an appointment with him, so she wouldn't complain now despite her man flirting with her mother.

When they met in his bed, she and her sister would ensure he paid for his unruly behavior by draining him.

Old Lu and the three instructors who helped with the teams' training arrived a few minutes later.

War God Henry and the four generals also arrived a few minutes later, with his uncles being the last. When Klaus woke up, he went to check up on them but found their room empty, meaning they had gone to train.

Their training, however, involved killing monsters. So they had gone to the frontlines and helped the soldiers by killing their fill.

After a few hours of killing, they returned because Klaus had told them they would be having a meeting the next day.

Now that they were back, the meeting had begun.

"Thank you all for coming," Klaus began.

"We are here today to assess the threats we will face while here. Naturally, the end game is to rid this zone of all forms of danger.

This means we will be killing all the dangerous monsters and beasts here, leaving only the small fries to be handled by the military since they also need to do their work.

But for our objective, we will ensure that all dangers, both the known and the hidden, are handled swiftly."

Klaus turned to General Dane. "Can you tell us the power dynamics here?"

General Dane nodded. He is the highest-ranking general, so this falls on his lap.

"So far, we have determined that seven powerhouses hold the power inside this badland.

From our information, six of these are monsters with strength, I am afraid not even our laser guns can kill. The most we could do was injure them.

So the fact that this place is still standing is a miracle. However, the seventh is a beast, and so far, we haven't had a problem with her. And when we say "her," she is a humanoid serpent.

General Dane pressed a button, and an image of a beautiful serpent appeared. Klaus immediately identified her as the Dread Serpent, one of the devouring demon beasts.

He had met one when he was in the Tormented World, but even without that encounter, he knew of its name, abilities, and uniqueness thanks to the multi-dimensional cube in his possession.

"She is at the peak of the Tier 10 stage, and because we haven't fought her before, we don't really know her strength. However, she has twelve guards, and they are all Tier 10, with the strongest at the eighth stage.

They are all serpent-type beasts, and we can tell they are powerful from their presence. So while killing the rest would be ideal, killing this serpent is not something we planned on doing.

But of course, the final judgment cannot be made based on our thinking and feelings. However, we learned you have a way with beasts, so maybe you can work something out."

Klaus laughed.

"If she is anything like Kathy, then we will have a powerful beast on our side. But sometimes, trusting a beast is not ideal. Trust me, they are more cunning than even we humans.

However, I will pay her a visit and see if we can strike a deal."

Everyone nodded.

They all knew the danger Earth was in after their expeditions into the forbidden zones, so hearing that they would negotiate with the beast that rivaled their strongest sounded more reasonable to them.

If they could have more Tier 10 allies, and even stronger ones at that, wouldn't that be awesome?

"However, what can you tell us about the six monsters?" Klaus turned back to the projection, which changed to a colossal beast he knew all too well.

"A Diamond Body Brute Elephant," he said.

"Indeed, our worst enemy here. It has over a thousand monsters under it, and from time to time, they attack just to destroy our defences. We are strongly guarded against them, but no matter what, we just can't handle it.

Most of my men fell whenever they invaded."

Klaus and the others sighed.

The blockage formed by the Union military was meant to prevent the monsters from escaping. Earth doesn't have the means to handle all threats, so the focus is more on beefing up the defenses.

Of course, it seemed almost laughable now that they thought about it. If the monsters inside the badland decided to move, it wouldn't take them ten minutes to break through all forms of defense.

Naturally, Klaus knew why they hadn't attacked yet, but he wouldn't scare anyone just yet—unless he had to.

From his memories of his ninth incarnation, he knew that for a horde of monsters, having multiple to remain organized and not act recklessly, there had to be powerful monsters keeping them in check.

This meant they were being controlled by something even more monstrous. A hidden Tier 11 beast is likely to be the answer.

'Earth and the Moonborns must really beef up their surveillance, or else we will be overrun soon enough,' he sighed in his heart.

"I personally fought this Brute Elephant, and after hundreds of exchanges, I am unsure if mortal weapons can kill it."

Klaus and the others laughed at his words.

But they all knew that the seven-meter-tall Brute Elephant in the projection, which could make any human look like a bug, was indeed, as General Dane said, it would indeed require a divine weapon to kill it.

"So if I were to forge a divine weapon for you, would you be able to kill it?" Klaus asked with a smile, though he was very serious.

"With the correct weapon, I can indeed kill it," General Dane answered with a clenched fist. He certainly wanted to be the one to kill this brute, for he had lost many men to its terror.

"Very well, I will get you a weapon that can do that," Klaus said.

The Paragon Forge could make it possible—all he needed was the brain capacity to come up with the design, abilities, and everything else.

General Dane smiled.

Chapter 733 - 733: Meeting (2)

The next image to appear in the projection is that of a 3-meter-tall Shadow Wolf.

"That is the Serpent Tail Shadow Wolf. It commands thousands of different types of wolves, with the most dangerous ones being the shadow ones.

They are fast and deadly. The last time we clashed with them, we lost close to 40 men, and we only managed to kill 26 of them from a pack of 340.

This shows just how dangerous they are. Of course, they are much weaker if you can match up to their speed."

Klaus nodded.

The Shadow Wolves are a race that almost looks like Hellhounds.

Before the apocalypse, they were just wolves, but now, they have become monstrous to the point that even Overlords wouldn't be able to fight them all confidently.

But even if the only eight Overlords were to be present in all seven Badlands, the chances of the hidden dangers overwhelming them is something they wouldn't risk.

In a way, they are sacrificing the soldiers' lives in the hope that a change will come. Klaus wouldn't blame them.

When the apocalypse descended, humanity lost close to 75% of its population, with the majority of them becoming zombies.

So, although human life is cherished, they can't just sit and watch everything come undone again. But now, they are putting measures in place to handle all these threats.

It is Klaus's aim to ensure Earth becomes safe before the awakening arrives.

"The third is the Stone Lava Lion. It's a purely flame beast that also has an affinity for the Earth element. We only clashed with it twice.

Naturally, we wouldn't want to fight it anymore, so when it stopped evading us, we let it be. The dangers surrounding it are just too much," the four generals sighed.

There used to be five generals, but one fell when they faced this bastard.

"Then comes the Stone Carapace Tortoise. This one is even more monstrous with its defense than the Diamond Body Brute Elephant.

It has the earth's elemental affinity, and from the look of its body, we wouldn't want to find out just how strong it truly is, so we only spied on it.

The day we fought it, not even our laser guns were able to do much."

"It's even a miracle this place is still standing. The Stone Carapace Tortoise is a monster in its own right when it comes to defense and destruction." A glint appeared in Klaus's eyes when he said that.

He wanted to get it and transform it into a beast.

"What are you hiding, Klaus?" Nari cleared her throat.

"Nothing big. Just that the day this monster evolves, we will see the terror of a defense-type beast." He smiled, returning his mind to his and Yuying's battle against the Metal Carapace Demon Tortoise.

Back then, they went to retrieve one of the many items Klaus's third incarnation left in the tormented world.

Unfortunately for them, the Metal Carapace Demon Tortoise, an evolved version of the one shown in the projection, had made that place its own.

It was a Tier 11 beast, and Fruity was just a Tier 9 Unknown being. Even Yuying, a Tier 11 existence back then, could not crack its metal shell.

Fruity had to leave, and when he became a Tier 11 (Void Stage) existence, he returned, this time packing much more punch.

It was an entire day of battle, which showed him just how monstrous it was.

He promised himself then that if he met one in the future, he would tame it and make it fight for him. Now, he couldn't wait to meet this brute.

"So, you are planning on taming it?" Queenie asked.

"Naturally, of course. If we kill it, it will be a huge loss to Earth." He smiled, knowing he was bound to have fun in this Badland.

The Overlords, generals, and instructors around could only shake their heads.

They may have heard all about monsters hiding in the Badlands, but they knew the real monster was the white-haired, harmless-looking human in front of them.

"The next is the Dark Fur Flaming Panther. Among all the monsters we have shown, this one is a true monster, but it hasn't attacked us actively. It only attacks whenever we get close to its territory.

So we don't know much about it. But we also wouldn't want to enter its domain for it's not a place we can step casually"

"As for the last one, we call it the Tiger Lord. It is also a flame-type monster with hundreds of monsters under it. The last time it attacked was a month ago.

It has an ability that allows it to summon flame-type monsters, so whenever we clash, we only battle these summons. It's one annoying monster we want to get rid of for years now."

"It doesn't summon flaming monsters, General; it has been making them. In fact, you and your men have been helping it all this while without knowing it," Klaus said, causing the generals to shift in their seats.

"What do you mean by we have been helping them?" General Eric asked.

Klaus didn't answer. Instead, he extended his hand, and a white flame appeared in his palm. The flame then transformed into a bird.

Small at first, but it started to increase in size until it reached a wingspan of half a meter. He then put it away.

"If your memories serve you right, the first time you faced it, the flaming monsters were small and weak."

The generals nodded.

"Then it went from there to medium, and now, you are battling monsters between the Tier 6 and 8 stages."

"How did you know that?" General Manas asked.

"I know because the Tiger in the projection is not a normal monster. In fact, it is a hybrid of a human and a monster, and if I am not wrong, the human side of it is the one in control now.

However, it is still a monster at heart.

But the main reason I said you have been training it is that whenever you kill a flaming monster, you are actually tempering this hybrid flame manipulation ability.

In a way, once this hybrid reaches the stage it wants to be at, which wouldn't be long now, it will burn this place to the ground. This was a way to commemorate its breakthrough.

This hybrid should instead be called the Infernal Tiger Lord Mage, for it is one that has great control over the flames. In fact, if you want to kill any monster in this Badland, that monster must be handled first."

Klaus offloaded the truth on them, and the backs of everyone, except the Queen and the Void Stage beauties, broke into a cold sweat.

"But I will tame it, so don't worry too much."

"You brat... why didn't you lead with that?" Old Lu said, and Klaus smiled. However, just when he was about to ask a question, a powerful shockwave washed over everyone, making them freeze momentarily.

"Klaus, we have a problem," Queen Lunara said the next second, standing up.

In her hand was a device beeping.

At the same time, one of the star tattoos, the fifth one to be exact, glowed, making anger that is buried deep in his heart start to surface.

The roof of the building they were in burst open as Klaus rushed out, shocking everyone.

Chapter 734 - 734: The Day The Heavens Cried Blood

The concept of destiny is one many don't understand.

Some say it is a linear construct, something formed from the strings of fate.

But then, what is fate? Or more importantly, who is fate, and what does she have to do with destiny? Nobody knew that destiny is a strange one.

Some call it the circular domain, where everything that moves returns to where it began.

They say it is a circle that moves through many transformational stages and then returns to where it all started.

There are many others, for destiny is something nobody seems to grasp as a whole. However, there is a way to understand it.

You wouldn't know what it is, but you will understand it.

The concept of destiny takes many forms, depending on how you want it to be. In many ways, it has no form, yet it has every form.

To Kaden, destiny is a promise.

Destiny is a promise spoken from the heart. He believed that something spoken from the heart can transcend time and space, and even if the heavens are against it, it will come to pass.

This is the story of a Beast Cultivator and his five-headed elemental serpent companion.

Kaden was a kid like any other. His father died in battle, according to what his mother told him. Thankfully, his mother was someone he could count on, so he was happy.

He had friends and a life he was proud of.

He lacked nothing, and over time, he became a young adult, someone who could stand on his own two feet now.

And what is even better for Kaden is that he is in a world where power is everything, and rising to the young adult stage was like a dream come true.

Until it all came crashing down hard on him.

On the day of the awakening, Kaden awakened an unknown class that had no combat capabilities whatsoever. The only thing he saw in the blue panel from the universe was two words:

«Bind» and «Sacrifice»

These were the only things he saw. There was no explanation, nothing whatsoever to show he had become a powerhouse.

This devastated him.

His friends—or those he called friends—laughed at him, and his instructors ridiculed him. However, when he got home, his number one fan, his mother, made him feel loved.

She showered him with praise and even told him he was someone the heavens were jealous of—that was why his awakening was so bad.

Kaden believed his mother, and so he started living the life of a mortal, eating from his mom's account. But when a paragon is happy, the heavens frown upon that.

His peaceful life was shattered when his secret was revealed. Even without cultivating, he lived in an awakened world, where the concept of forbidden births was widely known.

So they chased him down, and in the last moment, his mother did what she had to do to ensure her king was well off and free from harm.

That was when Kaden found himself in the Lone Demon Forest, where he met the cutest snake he had ever seen. His sorrow was washed away by Pickle Berry—that was the name he gave to the snake.

That day, when he touched Pickle Berry, the panel appeared and displayed a new message:

«Do you want to bind this beast? Available slots (0/1). This is the maximum.»

Kaden chose yes, and that day, his destiny changed forever.

The moment he chose yes, he learned two new skills: [Poison Breath] and [Lethal Cut]. Strangely, he also learned how to turn into a snake and move like one.

His combat abilities have risen out of nowhere, and he can finally feel like a warrior.

But that wasn't all. When he used the [Sacrifice] option, his strength rose twofold.

That was when Kaden realized he wasn't the weakest awakened—he was the strongest. This would continue to rise in strength as pickle berry grows stronger.

Thus began the legend of Kaden, the lonely cultivator who roamed the universe with his snake. But he never forgot the revenge he had promised.

A thousand years later, the Heavenly Devastator, the one who made it his mission to hunt down the heavenly chosen, was born. He hunted them down, and those he wanted to kill were killed.

Those he didn't want to kill were enslaved, and for another thousand years, his army of heavenly beings was born.

Beings there were meant to do the bidding of the heavens were now under his command.

That was a huge blow to the ego of the heavens.

They said that when he counted sixty thousand heavenly beings, he laughed at the heavens and used the Paragon Star Transformation Art to transform all of them into Paragon Warriors.

Then his revenge began. The revenge he had been dreaming of for years began.

Many paragons had risen, but none had ever gone against the heavens.

He was the first.

He challenged the heavens themselves and forced down immortals, gods, supremes, and even celestials. This legend was written in the forbidden records, just like the other paragons.

But his was written in red—for he bled the heavens.

When he uttered the word [Sacrifice], the heavens quaked, for his trusted companion, friend, and source of power was the infamous five-headed elemental serpent—one that had never been born before.

Pickle Berry bestowed his strength on him, and with the power of the fire elements, he battled against the heavens.

Legend has it that when he broke through the Heaven Gate and landed on the celestial grass, he started to slaughter everyone and everything in sight.

Legend has it that, on that day, it rained blood everywhere, for the heavens had touched the reverse scale of a paragon by killing his mother.

He made them understand that a paragon cannot be trifled with.

That day, when he reached the Heavenly Law Pool, which was said to contain all laws and secrets even the heavens couldn't touch, he tossed Pickle Berry in for that was what he came there for.

He then went ahead and made him a promise.

"We will meet again... When that day comes, we will face the heavens once more. Go and rest, for your legend is yet to be born."

That was the promise Klaus's fifth incarnation made to his friend, companion, and power source.

Just now, while meeting with the generals, the fifth star shone, and the promise he had made millions of years ago resurfaced.

A wave of deep, seething anger gushed from his heart, driving him to move at full speed toward the location where a Void Stage Beast was attacking the mother of the beast he had once made that promise to.

Naturally, this was the work of the heavens. The moment he arrived at the scene, he felt an intense hatred that was directed at the beast—the same hatred he felt when he tried to kill Kate Duncan.

It was directed toward the Gray-Haired Naga, the one attacking the Dread Serpent.

"You dare?" Klaus's anger erupted as thousands of spirit weapons materialized in the air.

For the first time since leaving the Dungeon, Klaus was about to unleash his full strength against a being he had no business fighting.

And this being had the support of the heavens.

Chapter 735 - 735: Klaus's Fury (1)

Boom

Klaus burst through the roof of the building where they were having the meeting, spreading his lightning wings as he vanished from sight, leaving only lightning trails.

"What is happening?" General Eric asked, watching the broken roof.

"A Tier 11 beast has appeared," Queen Lunara answered before taking to the skies and going after Klaus.

Just now, the satellites belonging to the Moon Borns picked up the signature of a Tier 11 beast inside Monsterland. It had just appeared out of nowhere, so they contacted her.

Thankfully, she was already there and ready to take action.

What she never expected, however, was how Klaus behaved when the shockwave washed over him. At that moment, he became different, making her wonder what had happened to him.

"No need to despair; sound the alarms, for a tide might find its way here," Queenie said and then turned to Old Lu. "Organize the team and let them fight in a controlled area now.

You, the Instructors, and the high-ranking soldiers should ensure the big guns are held back. Lucy will take care of the control of the rest of the team."

Old Lu nodded. He then ran off to Klaus's team, calling everyone out. Nari and Queenie also left. In just a few seconds, the camp was now standing guard with weapons ready for whatever danger might come their way.

Klaus sped to the location where the shockwave originated. However, he stopped when he arrived at a scene of pure carnage.

Twelve Tier 10 snake beasts lay dead on the ground, their bodies frozen in ice. Ahead, he saw a colossal pink snake—a rather majestic one—curled on the ground with its body covered in a metallic coating.

Blood was seeping out of multiple cuts littering its body.

It seemed to be protecting something. So despite getting bombarded by attacks from the Tier 11 Snake, it continued to protect whatever was on the ground.

However, the attacks were just too powerful, so what it was protecting came into view when the gray-haired half-snake, half-human attacked, sending the pink snake flying.

In its place, an incredibly beautiful silver snake, about a meter long, was left on the ground. The moment Klaus's eyes landed on this snake, a sense of familiarity washed over him.

"Pickle Berry," he muttered absentmindedly.

Then his anger surfaced when the gray-haired snake aimed her sword at the baby snake.

"You dare!"

Klaus's voice boomed as he summoned his spirit weapons, filling the air with thousands of them.

The gray-haired snake lady, who was going after the silver snake, jumped back as a giant sword descended from the air, blocking the path between her and the baby snake.

The sword was about six meters tall and two meters wide, and when it landed on the ground, it created a powerful shockwave that pushed the snake lady back.

Klaus landed on the sword with thousands of weapons behind him. His eyes were red, and the aura radiating from him began to freeze the already frozen ground.

"Human. What are you doing, interfering in my business?" the snake lady said, pointing her weapon at Klaus.

In response, Klaus gestured forward, and his spirit weapons moved, raining down on the Void-stage snake lady.

When the weapons came close, she stepped back, as the void cracked, swallowing her.

This allowed her to evade all of Klaus's attacks, which was rather convenient for fighting against someone who could command that many weapons.

The next second, she appeared above Klaus and was about to unleash an attack when a powerful flame arc appeared behind her, sending her flying down.

Up in the air, the void cracked, and Queen Lunara, now clad in black and red armor, appeared, wielding a scythe.

Hiss

The snake lady hissed but stood up and was about to open the void again when she heard Klaus's cold voice.

"You will die today."

The moment he said that, he formed a hand seal, and up in the air, a golden circle appeared and began to expand.

Feeling her control over the void growing unstable, the snake lady knew she had to leave. However, before she could act, a voice spoke from the clouds.

"Phoenix Piercing Arrow!"

A flaming arrow arrived from the air, forcing her to step back. Up in the sky, Nari made her presence known.

The snake lady narrowed her eyes as she moved back. But as she did, another voice spoke.

"Asura Blood Domain."

The ground burst open, and a sea of blood gushed out, forcing the snake lady to retreat once more. Up ahead, Queenie also arrived.

She and Nari stood side by side—Queenie clad in pure red armor, and Nari in black and gold. In Queenie's hand is a blood-red long sword, and in Nari's a golden red majestic Phoenix Bow.

Klaus turned and looked at the three. And even though he was angry, a smile appeared on his lips.

At the same time, the demon-killing circle was complete. Within its four-mile radius, the Level 8 Tier 11, like the snake lady, could no longer use the Void.

That is the power of the Demon Killing Circle.

Klaus didn't immediately attack. Instead, he turned toward the heavily injured pink snake and spoke.

"Take her away. I will find you after she is dead."

The pink snake nodded, carefully carrying the silver snake with her. Just now, she knew that had it not been for Klaus, her daughter would have been killed.

So as a beast, she knew who to trust and when to obey commands in such situations.

Klaus watched them go, and he sighed once they were out of sight.

Then, he turned back to the snake lady.

"I have lived many lives and fought many battles, but..." Klaus said as his clothes were enveloped in a purple, leather-like armor.

"I have killed millions and struck fear into many hearts." He extended his hand, and a blood-red saber appeared within it.

"They called me many names and gave me many labels, but I have only one name." His eyes shifted from red to black, and a dark aura began rising from his body.

At the moment, a part of his Unknown Bloodline, which he inherited from Fruity, began to stir. That part of it is made of death, for the 25 circles of death he went through while awakening the bloodline, just lay dormant for now.

But his emotions have stirred a small part of it.

The three women watching felt their blood run cold. Hearing his words was like hearing the voice of death itself.

The aura around him was that of death. Not simply an imitation—but death itself, manifesting. Klaus, at that moment, no longer resembled a Great Sage.

No, his aura belonged to someone at the Peak of the Ascendant Stage.

But the moment the Lightning Source Diagram appeared behind him, his aura exploded to the Void Stage, shocking all four Void Stages within the Demon-Killing Circle.

"The heavens frown on my name. But I shall be known by all, and my name shall remain known to all."

He raised his saber, splitting it into two as their edges curved slightly.

"The heavens have cursed my name... but I do not bow."

"Let it be known, across all realms, across all time—"

"I am the Paragon. Master of the Nine Paragon Stars."

The heavens roared to life as Klaus charged toward their messenger, their executioner, who was meant to kill a part of Klaus's destiny, one he used against them millions of years ago.

Klaus was furious.

And that meant only one thing—

A heaven-shattering battle was about to begin.

Chapter 736 - 736: Klaus's Fury (2)

The saying that what was will be again was exaggerated.

In history, the title "Paragon" was one that many feared. The gods fear it, and even the heavens are scared of it.

It was said that many people casually put titles on themselves.

They used these titles to do many things.

But only one transcended all in the billions of titles that ruled the universe.

The title Paragon was owned by one person who wasn't afraid to claim it.

Nobody else would be stupid enough to take that title for themselves, for the heavens would annihilate them even before they thought of it.

So, for someone to boldly declare this title was like an insult to the heavens.

They were angry, and Klaus was also furious.

Boom!

His saber clashed against the sword the snake lady wielded, creating a powerful shockwave. However, she was forced to retreat as the [Demon Cutting Disc] appeared behind her, aiming for her neck.

She reacted quickly and evaded, but the moment she landed, a scythe appeared from the side, slicing toward her throat. Queen Lunara swung her flaming scythe at the snake lady, forcing her to retreat again.

But Klaus didn't let her. His spirit weapon, a pointed spear, pierced through the air, aiming for her chest. She twisted away, allowing only the spear to leave a shallow cut on her arm.

But it healed in the next second—only for her to be blasted away by a blood bomb. Queenie had coated the ground in blood, and the moment the snake lady landed, the ground exploded beneath her feet.

"Die!"

A flaming arrow arrived a second later, exploding in her face and sending her flying once more.

The battle had only just begun, yet the Level 8 Void Stage snake was already being overwhelmed by Klaus and the three women.

In just a few exchanges, the Level 4 Void Stage Queen of the Moon Borns had proven herself a formidable warrior.

She wielded a scythe imbued with flame, making all her attacks scorching hot.

If Klaus was in the right mindset, he would have appreciated her body and focused more on her chest area, which seemed to bounce whenever she slashed her weapon.

"Humans, I will kill you all!" the snake lady, now burned in many places, shouted as her body exploded with energy.

Suddenly, the entire space began to freeze, forcing Klaus and his ladies to retreat. They knew the being they were fighting was far above them in level, but strangely, they did not care.

Instead, they faced her with unwavering determination.

But now, things had changed. The snake lady had had enough of them and had taken her beast form. A strikingly beautiful white snake appeared, stretching over 250 meters.

The moment she transformed, frost spread everywhere.

"I will kill you all," she said again as a powerful light shone from her body.

Klaus and the ladies instinctively shielded their eyes. It wasn't a normal light, and Klaus knew that. However, when the light faded, four colossal snakes stood before them, gazing down.

[The heavens have made their move, brat. This is who you'll be going against in the future. Pay attention to their schemes now.

Also, treat all four bodies as the real body, for this is how the heavens do their work. When it comes to you, they don't care how many had to die to achieve their aim.

Kill all four yourself, else the three ladies will receive heavenly punishment for killing a messenger of the heavens despite them not knowing.]

The senior's furious voice echoed in Klaus's mind, making him narrow his eyes at the four snakes. He could tell they were the same entity, split into four different bodies.

Looking around, he noticed that three of the twelve dead snakes on the ground were missing. A chill ran down his spine.

"Those are all Level 5 Void Stage beings," Klaus thought grimly. Then, turning to the ladies, he warned, "Be careful. We're not fighting an ordinary snake."

He didn't want to scare them, so he said nothing about the heavens. Telling them will be like dumping a bug of Karma on them.

Instead, he moved swiftly, isolating one of the snakes. Queen Lunara, Queenie, and Nari did the same, each taking on an opponent.

Queen Lunara knew she held the key to victory.

At Level 4, she had the highest chance of winning. Queenie was Level 2, and Nari was Level 1. In the Void Stage, every level mattered, and the two lower-ranked ladies wouldn't be able to do much.

So she must defeat her opponent early. At least that was her plan. But the battle has just begun, and plans tend to change in combat.

Klaus, however, was an anomaly. She didn't factor him into normal calculations.

"Be careful, Nari. Don't get reckless," Queenie warned. Then, her expression shifted as a powerful red aura surged from her eyes. She lifted her sword, locking onto the massive snake before her.

"Asura Blood Transformation."

A complex diagram, housing seven smaller diagrams within it, appeared in the air.

"First Blood Transformation: Blood Berserker!"

Her body erupted with energy as she charged at the colossal snake, clashing violently.

The battle was overwhelming—a storm of blood-red and white snow colliding in a chaotic dance of destruction.

Meanwhile, Nari engaged her opponent, fire clashing against ice. Their attacks painted the battlefield in a shocking spectacle of searing heat and frozen devastation.

Queen Lunara also isolated her opponent, doing her best to overwhelm her. Behind her, a massive diagram appeared, containing five smaller diagrams, each housing a distinct transformation ability.

Like her daughter, Queenie, she was also using a transformation technique that granted her overwhelming strength—but at a cost.

However, that cost would come after the battle. Right now, she was fighting against the heavens, unaware of the karma she was placing upon herself.

After this battle, her relationship with Klaus would change, for anyone who aided a Paragon was doomed in the eyes of the heavens.

"Asura, Crazy Sword Slash!"

Klaus unleashed his signature move, a powerful crimson sword arc slamming into the snake and forcing it backward.

But in his blind spot, a colossal tail lashed toward him.

At the last moment, he used [Vanishing Step] to evade.

However, as he reappeared in a new position, a piercing ice shard shot up from the ground, aiming for his back.

The [Demon Cutting Disc] arrived in time, shattering the shard before Klaus launched himself upward, unleashing a devastating lightning beam that sent the snake crashing down.

Yet, a chill ran down his spine as he gazed upon the massive white serpent, completely unscathed.

Klaus knew this enemy wasn't something he could handle easily—if at all.

But one thing was certain.

All four snakes had to die by his hand. The ladies shouldn't kill them, for they wouldn't survive after the killing.

But if he told them not to kill the snakes, the heavens would take this as a warning to the three ladies. This would cause the heavenly punishment to fall on them.

If he failed to kill the snakes too, the three ladies would be in danger, and he was not prepared for that.

Meanwhile, the soldiers and Klaus's team, still at the camp, were about to receive a brutal welcome from one of the most destructive monsters in the Badlands—the Diamond Body Brute Elephant and its 1,200 juggernauts.

Chapter 737 - 737: Deaths Chosen (1)

"Dragon Slash," Klaus unleashed an attack, causing a large fire dragon to gush out from his sword, striking the ice-cold body of the Tier 11 snake.

It was pushed back, but the attack did little to nothing to wound it. It was like it landed on the hardest metal.

However, Klaus wasn't really about that. He has other ways to make it bleed.

The [Demon Cutting Disc] moved, and before the snake could recover from the fire dragon attack, the disc split into thousands of discs that descended on the snake and started cutting it.

However, most of the attacks produced sparks, showing how tough the snake's skin really was. Klaus wasn't ordinary, either.

He had fully unlocked his memories as Fruity, meaning he had all his skills and, strangely, all his weapons.

One such weapon is the cauldron, one that doesn't have an origin. It's a strange weapon Fruity got from one ancient ruin when he and Yuying explored and trained many years ago.

To date, aside from using it for defense and absorbing any attack, the only other thing he ever did with that cauldron was pound-hard stuff.

"If I can't injure you, then I will pound you."

This is the catchphrase Fruity uses whenever the Dark Cauldron is out.

And now, Klaus brought it out and made it hover above him. There were no skills to it, for he didn't know its secrets, so all he was doing was sending his energy into it.

The more star qi he injected, the stronger and bigger the cauldron became. It soon filled the sky, increasing in size until it was almost as big as a house.

Klaus then formed a hand seal and pointed his fingers together.

The cauldron moved and descended on the snake, shaking the ground beneath it. When it landed on the snake's body, even the ground cracked.

This time, the body of the snake sustained a cut.

It was just a cut, but that was enough for the battle Klaus had in mind. A single drop of blood flew and entered Klaus's forehead, entering his soul sea.

Inside his fifth core, a gloomy, dark diagram he had never seen before or even knew was hidden inside the thick darkness in his soul sea has now come to life.

The fifth core is made of pure darkness. He knew nothing of it since whenever he entered that place, he immediately ran away.

But inside the darkness, now, a dark diagram is activated, and within this dark diagram, 25 smaller diagrams are inside, each possessing different abilities.

The blood entered the diagram, and the whole 25 smaller diagrams started to come to life.

Meanwhile, Klaus was unleashing attack after attack while dodging and making sure the snake's attacks didn't land on him.

Naturally, with his numerous soul weapons in his possession, he was swimming through the attacks while raining weapons on the snake.

But one thing was certain: killing the snake wasn't as simple as he expected. It was proving to be much more difficult than he expected.

But then again, he wasn't fully focused on the battle, so that can be expected. That will change soon, though.

But the Tier 11 was proving to be a different ball game.

This begs the question: Just how strong are the other Tier 11 monsters sitting at the peak that he would have to kill or tame soon enough?

Klaus didn't want to think of that at the moment, so he tapped into his memories and used the skills he had acquired all those years.

He was doing a good job for a Great Sage, but fighting a Tier 11 wasn't something he should be doing. But he was doing it, and it looked dope as fuck.

Far from him, Queen Lunara was overwhelming her opponent. The flame diagram behind her had turned to the second small diagram, giving her a monstrous boost.

Whenever she swung her scythe, all the attacks coming out would take the shape of countless flaming scythes, each as deadly as they come.

The snake she was fighting was really facing a lot, for it never even had a chance to attack from the start of the battle. Unlike how it was attacking Klaus, the queen wasn't giving it any chance.

"Slash of the Fire Nova."

Her sweet voice echoed as the manifestation of her scythe appeared and extended in the air, becoming large and long. Then she swung the scythe in her hand, causing the manifestation to descend on the snake.

The snake curled its body and activated a defense skill since there was no escaping that attack. Naturally, this was what the queen was aiming for.

Just when the scythe arrived on the snake's body, she snapped her finger.

"Burst of the Fire Nova."

A blinding explosion rocked the battlefield, creating a powerful shockwave that pushed everything back.

Naturally, this attack only affected the snake and the landscape since the rest of her teammates were in the air.

The snake was blown back, its body littered with many cuts.

"Die."

She moved again, and this time, her eyes were engulfed in flames, and her body was also radiating intense fire energy. Her scythe was also bathed in flames as she descended on the snake.

However, just when she was in attack range and was about to unleash a powerful attack that would end the snake, a voice entered her head, causing her to miss the attack.

"Don't."

That was the only thing the voice said, but as if knowing the voice was to be trusted, she missed the attack. The shockwave further damaged the snake, pushing it further back.

Queen Lunara looked around her, but she saw nothing. However, when her eyes landed on Klaus's back, as if it all clicked, she knew what had to be done.

The fire diagram behind her moved to the fourth, causing her to raise her scythe up.

"Bind by flames." Seven copies of it appeared in the air and descended, creating a severe barrier containment around the snake.

"Nullification." She clapped her hands together. The seven scythes burst into flames and created a burning barrier around the snake.

"Agony of the flame." She activated a different skill, yet still, while the fourth diagram was active.

"Binding by the flames of agony."

Then she sat down.

Under normal circumstances, in a battle where there are hidden foes, using this skill is the last thing she would have wanted. But in a one-on-one battle, the moment she had the chance to use it, it was game over.

So she sat down and started muttering some strange mantra that immediately started causing the barrier to strengthen and close in on the snake.

Its painful cries could be heard, but the Queen wasn't about its feelings. Her plan now was to seal it and wait for Klaus to kill it.

Just now, her voice spoke to her, warning her not to kill the snake, and when she looked at Klaus, the white-haired brat used a saber move to warn her.

Something that escaped the heavens completely.

They overlooked the white-haired brat using a single swing of his sword to warn the queen, telling her what to do.

He played them and they failed to notice it.

Chapter 738 - 738: Deaths Chosen (2)

The forbidden records label the Asura race as abominations.

They are beings who crave blood. They love battles where blood is abundant.

It was said that their number one enemy was the vampires. Two beings with blood can't exist in harmony.

This was why one of Klaus's enemies was the vampires.

His race, the Asura Borns, was created for battle. They are the ultimate weapon; as long as there is blood, they will fight and keep fighting until nothing is left to battle.

Right now, Queenie, who hadn't yet awakened her Asura bloodline but had already taken steps in that direction, was moving through the air with eyes filled with blood intent.

Her sword is bathed in blood, and her moves leave trails of blood in her wake.

The mark of the Asura appeared on her forehead when she started using the [Asura Blood Transformation Art].

The first form was the [Blood Berserker], which, when she activated it, granted her strength like none other.

Her speed increased.

Her strength multiplied, and her stamina reached all-new heights.

However, that only allowed her to do minor damage. Yet, as if she were in a competition with her mother, the diagram moved to the second form.

"Asura's Phantom Form"

The moment she muttered that, her speed exploded, and like a string woven in the air, her attacks filled the space.

Hundreds of crimson sword arcs filled the air, descending on the snake. But that wasn't all; she raised her sword and activated a skill Klaus knew all too well.

"Infinity Blood Swords"

The sky was filled with thousands of blood swords, and powerful energy descended on the snake, freezing its advances completely.

She used this skill against Klaus when her past self met his past self. It was a skill that made him aware he was just joking around with his life.

"Die, you scum!"

Her hateful voice echoed as the blood swords descended right when the sword arcs finished attacking the snake.

They rained down on the snake, creating a powerful explosion.

The skill is one of the core skills of the Asura race.

It's from a larger technique set called [Asura Blood Menace Art]. Naturally, she should only be able to unleash 400 swords at her current mastery.

However, when she used the transformation, her control reached a different level, allowing her to unleash thousands.

Now, looking at the snake's body, she couldn't help but allow a smirk to appear on her face.

However, something caught her attention, which made her wipe the smirk off her face and distance herself.

The moment she did, the snake's body burst with energy as a red line appeared on her skin, bringing with it red lightning.

[Brat, the heavens are targeting your Asura wife]

The senior was very angry at the shameful display the heavens were putting up. His words are filled with anger.

When the battle was about to be four against one, the heavens used a skill to create four powerful versions of the snake. This was something that shouldn't be possible, yet they made it happen.

And now, when Queenie used the Asura skill, they took offense, causing tribulation lightning to appear inside the Ice-type snake.

Lightning appeared out of nowhere just to end her existence.

Klaus, who heard what the senior said, turned and looked in Queenie's direction for a split second before scoffing.

"She will be fine."

The confidence in his tone showed he wasn't worried.

Why?

Because the third diagram appeared behind Queenie, the third of the seven transformations was active.

She smirked again at the snake, which now held foreign energy inside its body.

"Demonic Blood Armor." She activated the third diagram, forming a crimson blood armor around her body.

This armor overlapped perfectly with her normal armor.

Meanwhile, the snake opened its mouth, causing red lightning to form into an orb, ready to be spat out.

The lightning shot from its mouth, closing in on Queenie instantly. She slashed her sword and severed the orb in two, causing it to explode.

But the moment the lightning exploded, she knew she had fallen into a trap. The lightning from the explosion formed a barrier around her, locking her in place.

Then the eyes of the snake shone, and a beam of piercing lightning shot out and landed squarely on her chest, threatening to pierce her through.

However, the bolt of red lightning only stopped at her chest, causing Queenie to look up and smirk again. It was like she was covered in the strongest metal.

"Performance issues?" she taunted the heavens, knowing this was their doing. This meant Klaus didn't have to warn her about what to do.

She knew killing the snakes was what the heavens were after.

But while she knew that, the Great Calamity fighting on their side was rolling a different ball game. A part of Nari knew this wasn't something she could play with.

So her Phoenix wings appeared, and wielding her bow, arrow after arrow rained down hard on the snake.

Naturally, the snake was supposed to be the one with the upper hand. However, Nari, who hadn't even taken her Spearman or Beast form, was overwhelming the snake.

"Klaus said if the target isn't doing much, just bathe them in flames." Nari smiled as she moved across the landscape, unleashing a barrage of arrows.

Each arrow had golden runes running around it, which meant that Klaus's Star Monarch's blood was in effect. Naturally, this was something that could hurt the heavens.

"Should I use it?" she muttered, watching as the snake was being pushed back further and further. She looked back and saw Queenie and her mother facing their opponents.

She looked at the Blood and Flame Diagram behind them and smiled.

This made her want to use her own transformation technique. However, she changed her mind when the queen created a chance for a kill, missed her attack, and switched to sealing the snake instead.

This immediately gave her the message she wanted to hear.

Klaus is smart.

From the moment the senior warned him about heaven's scheme, he started using 26 of the 27 minds he had to devise the best way to trick the heavens.

Naturally, all outcomes arrived at the same conclusion: his ladies dying under heaven's punishment, except Queenie.

She is Asura, so she recognizes the heavens and their schemes. This made her aware of what had to be done and what not to do.

However, the other two ladies don't. He also cannot tell them directly, and all the methods he planned to use were risky. Even the paragon mark wasn't something he considered.

The heavens are unpredictable in this regard.

However, that all changed when he felt the queen stare at him. Klaus is no psychic, but at that moment, he knew that for someone to look at him like that during such a chaotic battle meant something wasn't right.

He immediately factored that in, and the plan came. So he used a saber move to write something in the air. The moment the queen saw that, she also knew what had to be done.

Thus, while she had the upper hand, the moment she switched to sealing the snake meant she didn't want to kill it.

Nari saw the message and knew she must not kill the snake. So she didn't use the transformation. Instead, she retrieved a 2-meter-long arrow and made it hover.

"Dark Flames Tempering Art"

The heavens were about to have a nasty evening once the arrow was done being tempered.

Klaus also has 27 of his minds running in the battle now.

Chapter 739 - 739: Deaths Chosen (3)

Klaus now has all 27 minds focused on the battle, making the hivemind complete. This means his focus was back on the snake.

However, he could not shake the feeling that something wasn't adding up.

His mind was that big, and his thinking capacity was rather monstrous, so he knew something was clearly not right.

However, he didn't know what.

He was now more focused on making sure he wouldn't miss anything. The battle was strange in a way he just couldn't explain.

So, while he was overwhelming the snake, he was also taking measures in case something bad happened.

Meanwhile, back at the camp, a great battle was hammering down hard on the soldiers and the Paragon Force.

When the Tier 11 snake attacked the Devouring Snake, the Tier 10 Diamond Body Brute Elephant also attacked the camp, this time with its full force.

Old Lu was holding it down. He and General Dane are locked in with the Peak Tier 10 brute, who is disciplining them greatly.

None of their attacks connected, and strangely, the elephant wasn't slow either. It was fast and powerful, something that caught them by surprise.

Clearly, its law of self has something to do with adaptability. It wasn't too fast or too slow, either. It was just perfect for adapting to the battle.

Old Lu was using his powerful attacks, hoping to create an opening for General Dane to land a fatal attack.

Still, whenever he landed an attack, the brute elephant just evaded or defended like it was unaffected.

The clash only intensified as the Tier 10 Diamond Body Brute Elephant charged forward, its massive feet shaking the earth with every step.

The warriors were being tossed around whenever it stepped on the ground. The more it moved around, the more disorganized the battle became.

Thankfully, Old Lu knew that the brute had to be pushed away for Lucy to have good control over her teammates.

Old Lu gritted his teeth, sweat dripping down his weathered face as he unleashed a barrage of energy-infused strikes.

Finally, the chance came when he saw Kathy take out a Level 5 Tier 10 Brute Elephant. The moment the elephant fell, one of the first Tier 10s to fall, his chance arrived.

"Enhance!"

His voice boomed, and his shirt burst apart, revealing his muscular physique now lined with green runes. They ran across his body.

Strangely, his bald head gleamed under the sunlight, making Lily, who was fortunate to see it, giggle. She knew Klaus would have made fun of his uncle if he were to be around.

"General Dane, I will require you to hold it back for a minute," Old Lu said, and General Dane nodded. He knew he was out of his league here, but he had to.

He and Old Lu should have taken care of Level 7 and below, but Old Lu knew Kathy and Miriam were special.

If they were to take on the Peak Brute Elephant, the chances of him and General Dane handling Level 7 and below were still low.

So they would hold the brute back and wait for the two ladies who held one of the keys to winning this battle.

The moment General Dane got in position for some beatdown, Old Lu flew away and landed on the body of the brute Kathy had killed.

He clapped his hands together, and a barrier appeared around him.

"Blood Monk Transformation" He said the magic words.

The moment he did, the blood coming from the dead Tier 10 Brute Elephant started getting absorbed into his body.

Slowly, his aura began to rise as the blood was being absorbed.

General Dane circled to the beast's flank, his blade gleaming with a faint golden hue. He was enhancing his sword using sword qi.

He lunged, aiming for a gap beneath the brute's thick foreleg, but the elephant twisted with unnatural agility, slamming its trunk into the ground where Dane had stood a heartbeat before.

The general rolled aside, narrowly avoiding the crater left behind, and cursed under his breath.

It had only been a few seconds since he took over, but he was already getting overwhelmed.

But that was to be expected, considering the monster he was fighting wasn't normal. This one had skin as thick as metal, so the fact that he, a Transcendent, hadn't turned to paste yet was already a miracle.

But he was holding on.

Meanwhile, Lucy was under great stress as she issued commands. This time, the scale of the battle was large, so her vines were everywhere, and her command was absolute.

Nobody dared question her orders, for she was that powerful at the moment.

She was in charge of their safety, so she did everything in her power to keep them safe and engaged in combat.

Klaus wants to make her a Supreme Command of all the warriors on earth. Aside from commanding the Paragon Force, she will also hold it down when all armies on earth are facing one common foe.

So this was her trial run. It was just too bad Klaus wasn't around to direct her. Of course, as the incarnation of the infamous Vine Queen, she was holding it steady.

But she wasn't doing too much, thanks to her team.

After the battle in the Ant Kingdom, they had gotten a good grasp of chaotic battles, so they were already doing their part.

Klaus made sure they understood the concept of against-the-odds battles. So, despite being surrounded by towering monsters, they were holding their ground.

Thankfully, his uncles were there with them.

The Brute came with 1200 brutes.

Out of that, 1000 were Tier 8 and below. Those were the ones the Paragon Force was dealing with. They and the military were handling the 1000.

But not all of them were cutting their clothes according to their sizes. Miriam, Nadia, and Kathy were facing the 10 more Tier 10s.

Kathy had already killed one Tier 10, and Miriam was almost done handling one. But the one working the magic was Nadia.

Like what she did in their last battle inside the Ant Kingdom, the black pot filled with souls was in front of her while her 6 puppets encircled the 7 remaining Tier 10s, ensuring they didn't get past them.

Naturally, Lucy didn't want to put her asset in harm's way, so this time, Ling and Zing were guarding her. They created several layers of defenses around her.

So Nadia was just there, moving her fingers through the air as her puppets handled the monsters. The formal fashion designer was now holding back 7 overlord-level monsters.

The world would definitely flip if they knew that.

But now that the Tier 10 and Tier 8 monsters had been taken into account, the over 180 Tier 9s that came with them were the true headaches.

They are like the Variables that will determine whether the humans will win or the monsters will.

Thankfully, the main forces Lucy pushed to the front of that battle were Uncle Ziggy, Jojo, Xian, Mark, and James.

Klaus had told her long ago that she shouldn't hesitate to use his Uncles as meat shields whenever she is in a battle, and they are fighting for her.

Naturally, he made sure his uncles didn't know of his plans for them. But now that the odds were against them, Lucy didn't hesitate to push them to the frontline.

But while they should have despaired, they were rather over the moon as they handled the brutes, showing everyone that Klaus wasn't the genius in the family.

Chapter 740 - 740: Deaths Chosen (4)

The mysteries surrounding Klaus's uncles are ones he doesn't understand.

He had no idea he had uncles all this while. He knew his father was a hunter. He was a warrior who hunted monsters as his day job.

That was all he knew of him.

However, never in his wildest dreams did he ever think he had uncles all this while. The day he met them, he was rather shaken.

The only question he asked himself was, "If he had amazing uncles like this all this while, then why didn't they come to their aid when he and his mother were suffering in the slums?"

This question is a major one with many mysteries surrounding it. He thought about it, but in the end, it just doesn't make any sense.

They said they didn't know he and his mother were in such a situation to begin with. This raised many questions, and as he grew up and learned more, he started to suspect something about his uncles.

First is their abnormal rise in their cultivation bases.

He met them when they were only Grandmasters. Back then, he saw them as pillars he wanted to be like one day. But it didn't take long for him to see that the Grandmaster stage wasn't that special.

However, when he met them again after a few months, they became Sages and now, fighting like the brutes they are. Every last one of them is a Sovereign, each packing powerful punches.

Naturally, that should be fine, considering some people are just freaks. But the mystery is that they are Peak Sovereigns, which means they will soon be Transcendents. This isn't normal.

Normal humans need at least a few years to move at that speed. Klaus's friends are a perfect example. They are currently at the Sage stage since things get difficult from the Grandmaster stage.

But they were moving too fast, which was why Klaus believed they had a secret.

Naturally, he brought them on this expedition to find out what, or at least get a hint. He knew they wouldn't tell him if he asked, so he would be playing the long game.

Second, the mysteries surrounding his dad's death were ones he just called bullshit now that he knew better. If what his uncles told him was true, the mad hunter wouldn't have fallen into a Tier 3 forbidden zone.

So he suspected they were hiding something.

He trusts them, but he also wants to know more about them. And since they kept quiet, he took drastic measures to glean something from them.

Too bad he wasn't around to witness them use their Law of Self.

One thing all warriors should focus on is their Law of Self. When they get to the Domain stage, they will fully comprehend it to form their domains.

So it's very important.

It's what will determine if they can keep rising after forming their domains.

However, Klaus noticed something.

Just like how the bloodline awakening is being blocked by the heavens, something which isn't normal, by the way, the Law of Self is also being restricted for most.

Aside from Queenie, Nari, Kathy, and Instructor Victor, he has yet to find anyone who has the Law of Self. Even Queen Lunara doesn't have one.

But his uncles do and are now using their Laws of Self.

Watching them unleash their laws was shocking to all the Sovereigns watching them.

"Gunslinger's Mountain Body"

Uncle Ziggy activated his Law of Self, and at once, the 100 meters around him turned black and white. There wasn't any color in the air.

It was like he had sucked away all the color in the air.

But while the color is gone, something else replaces it. From the ground, a metallic giant version of him rose up and stood 5 meters tall with two giant horns on his forehead.

He has four pairs of arms, which means he has eight arms. In each arm is a big revolver bathed in lightning.

The real Uncle Ziggy floated up, stood atop his metallic self's head, and grinned.

"Let's dance."

Saying that, ten revolvers started offloading lightning bullets on the monsters, creating powerful explosions all around him.

"Hahahahah... This is awesome," he laughed, unleashing barrages of bullets, each as quick as the wind and leaving lightning trails in their wake.

None of the Tier 9 brute elephants could get within 50 meters of him since the moment they enter his Law of Self, their defenses and speed are slowed down.

Naturally, this Law of Self has already reached the second tier, unlike the ones Klaus faced during the trial inside the dungeon.

When it's formed, it is Tier One.

Then, the more you increase your comprehension, the more it grows. It is basically like growing your own domain. All you have to do is keep learning, and it will improve gradually.

His uncle, a gunslinger, has managed to add an object to his Law of Self, which means he has already reached Tier 2.

But he wasn't the only one.

Uncle James also activated his own Law of Self.

"Boomerang Arc Rain"

Uncle James has an affinity for the fire element and uses boomerangs. So now, hovering colossally inside his 150-meter-wide Law of Self, he is a flaming boomerang shooting barrages of fire arcs at the monsters.

Each arc looks like a boomerang, creating powerful explosions just like Uncle Ziggy.

Naturally, he was also using different skills, but Klaus would have been blown away by the fact that just activating his Law of Self could already be this amazing.

Lucy expected them to hold back a few of the Tier Nines while Danny and the others handled the rest, but based on how things were going, the uncles would finish them first.

Lucy, who was witnessing this, could only stare in shock as his uncles manhandled the difficult task. Though they weren't killing the monsters like small fries, they were also not playing with them.

This made her make some changes to her battle plans.

"Mountain Shield Domain"

Uncle Mark's voice boomed as a giant shield materialized from thin air and descended on the ground, shaking everything.

"Damn it, Mark, can't you do things in moderation?"

Uncle Ziggy shouted at his brother, who just smiled and landed a powerful punch on the shield.

Bang

When his fist landed on it, a beam of light shone out, erasing a Tier 9 from existence.

"What in the actual fuck..." Danny's jaw was hanging as he stared at the severely injured Tier 9 monsters and the spot where one used to stand.

Not even the core was left.
