

Paragon 841

Chapter 841 - 841: Messing With Time

"There's no need to look shocked, sisters. Chronis can control time to some extent, and Axis can bend space, so trapping us in ice was the least of our worries," Nia said with a smile.

The look on the faces of her three sisters said it all; they were in great shock from what had happened and didn't know where to look.

Behind them are three ice statues housing Nia and her three shadows. In the background, Nia and her shadows are smiling at them.

These two events made their minds bend backward and forward, yet they couldn't understand.

"Just how long can she hold time?"

It's been a minute already, so why were the ice statues still there? And the worst part, Anna doesn't have control over them anymore.

By logic, even if Chronis somehow managed to stop time and Axis was able to split space and let them out, the statues of ice should have vanished by now.

Two things of the same kind down to the last atom shouldn't be able to exist in the same quantum of space and time.

Since that wasn't the case, the three ice statues, trapping Nia and her shadows, can be said to have been lost to time and space.

And that was the case in this regard.

"Chronis can hold the time for 10 seconds as if now; however, what is happening to the ice statues is due to a loop she created around them.

The ice statues were supposed to vanish within ten seconds; however, the ten seconds repeat because of the loop." Nia explained

"Is that even something simple or easy to do?" The way Nia said it made it sound simple. However, it is much more complex than that.

But it could indeed be as simple as she said, and yet again, that was the case for Nia and her shadows. This, of course, was Axis, the shadow of space.

Axis controls space, so she created a vacuum around the three statues.

This took Anna's control over the statues, and since they are now under no authority, they became something that doesn't have will or presence, meaning they can be manipulated without much influence or interference.

If Nia were to have trapped a person inside the loop, the person has consciousness, and due to that, they would have a will that cannot be easily messed with.

At most, the best she could do was make the loop run for a few minutes, perhaps four minutes tops, before she would have to let go and let time take control of the rest.

However, Nia is merely playing with inanimate objects, which was thanks to Axis taking Anna's will over her ice element.

So Nia can hold the loop for as long as she wants.

The time loop skill was meant to be used on herself whenever she goes against a powerful target - at least that was how her past self did.

In the situation she was killed in, time will loop, giving her another shot to try until she succeeds. She can keep trying thousands of times if she has more control over time.

The moment she succeeds in killing her target, she can break the loop.

However, in most cases, the number of times she can use the loop will depend on the strength of the person she is going against.

Those with powerful mental strength can sense the loop after looping a couple of times, and if they are powerful within the soul, too, they can easily break it.

But as time goes by, as she or her shadow increases their comprehension of time to some stage, she can remain inside the loop for years, ultimately needing to change her title from Shadowless Assassin to Timeless Assassin.

The irony.

"This is too much for me to understand," Lucy said, raising her hand in surrender. Her sister Anna was the same, but Queenie looked at Nia with a smile.

"How many times did we have the conversation?" Queenie asked, but Nia smiled and said.

"I don't know what you are talking about, big sister."

"Oh really," Queenie retrieved her red sword and slashed to the side using an ability called [Reality Slash].

Suddenly, reality was cut, and the outside world came into view; the loop broke, and the ladies found themselves back in real time.

On the tribulation ground, Aoi stood with her gaze directed at them.

"It worked, Chronis. The loop can be looped again inside the same loop," Nia smiled, looking very happy.

"Wait, you created a loop inside another loop," Queenie asked, and Nia nodded.

"It was a theory we came up with when I was training. They couldn't manifest into humanoid form then, so I couldn't try it then, but now...hehe.

Now that I have awakened my bloodline, it worked."

"Wait, how long since we entered the loop?" The more questions the ladies asked, the more confusing the whole process became. It was like a puzzle put into another puzzle.

"It's only five minutes, but within the loop, it took me ten days to figure it out," Nia responded, leaving her sisters looking at her like some monster.

"But I am exhausted, so I will take a nap now." The pressure of staying and controlling the loop for that long exhausted her mind, so standing, she closed her eyes and fell asleep.

Her shadows dissolved into her body, and then she fell back.

However, before landing on the ground, flowers grew and caught her, wrapping around her like clothes. Lucy used one of her healing abilities on Nia.

Messing with time and space is something perilous. Luckily for her, she only got tired.

"Focus on your tribulation, Aoi. She is fine," Anna said to Aoi, who came out exactly five minutes after Nia awakened her bloodline.

"What do you want to do about the situation? Should we inform Klaus?" Lucy asked, looking at Nia's body wrapped in flowers.

"No. Mother said he is busy searching for minerals on Mars, so we shouldn't disturb him."

"Okay. But if she wakes up and feels any discomfort, we will tell Klaus." The ladies suddenly concluded and then focused on Aoi, who stood with both her swords in her firm grip.

When the tribulation started, she moved and, like a blur, she started cleaving through the obstacles. She didn't use any skills.

It was pure swordsmanship, which made her use more strength and speed.

But when the last level of the tribulation was cleaved using her sword, she moved down and sat in the lotus position.

"She is very good with the sword..." Queenie said, "When it comes to raw swordsmanship, she is better than I."

One could see the proud look on her face. She was proud of Aoi. All her sisters are proud of Aoi, for she really spent every single day honing her sword skills.

"Her father is the king of swords for a reason...and as someone who is the descendant of samurai, it will be a disgrace if she can't hold her sword," Lucy said before thinking about Klaus.

"I wonder who taught Klaus how to use the sword, though. He also seems good with it..."

"Well, it is Klaus we are all talking about; he is a monster in every field." They laughed and continued to talk about their man for two hours until a sudden sharpness in the air drew their attention back to Aoi.

Two beautiful swords, one blue and the other green, hover atop Aoi's head. Surrounding them was a dense sword qi.

Chapter 842 - 842: The Endless Sword Domain

"I have an ice affinity, but the chill is seeping into my bones. Is that a different kind of ice qi?" Anna said, standing on the platform, gazing at Aoi, who was awakening her bloodline.

Queenie and Lucy were not feeling much better either.

"This is not ice qi; it's death qi... the one you earn from countless slaughter." Queenie studied the aura coming from Aoi for a few minutes and immediately recognized it.

"Death aura? How is that even possible? The Aoi I knew doesn't even like killing monsters that much. She is only obsessed with sharpening her sword skills."

Lucy was shaken to hear that Aoi, the same innocent, sword-loving Aoi, has death qi. She never expected her to be that dangerous, and this scared her for some reason.

"She most definitely has death qi."

Aoi remained in her meditative state, the two swords hovering over her like a halo. Around her, however, was a feeling that you would experience if you were within its reach.

This feeling was dreadful, almost like standing inside a butcher's house.

This begs the question of how someone as gentle and elegant as Aoi could awaken a domain of slaughter, and it isn't any ordinary domain of slaughter; it is the endless sword domain of slaughter.

To understand this shocking phenomenon, we have to travel back to the primordial era and ask around about the lady who lived in the mountains.

During the primordial era, when powerhouses were rising and falling, everyone wanted to chase after the next best skill, the next most powerful spell, and the heaven-shattering techniques.

It was said that although the universe indeed spawns treasures occasionally, the primordial era was the time it spawned many treasures. So many were chasing after such treasures.

However, there was one lady who, regardless of how alluring these treasures were, never even flinched. She was only about her sword and sword alone.

When asked why she never wanted the skills given by the universe, she responded simply, "I can create my own skills."

Thus, many tended to tease her, calling her the skill creator. However, one day, when everyone woke up, she was gone, leaving not even a slight trace of her existence. Nobody knew where she went.

Years went by, and eventually, her name and even how she looked vanished from everyone's sight and mind. Her name vanished, along with every memory everyone had of her.

Thousands of years passed, and nobody even realized there once was a person whose nickname was the Skill Creator.

However, one day, out of nowhere, a golden light came from a mountain millions of miles deep in the Nightless Forest—a strange forest that never knew night.

It was always daytime there, and the forest was filled with millions of powerful primordial beasts. Nobody dares traverse the depths of this inhospitable forest. However, when the golden light came, they thought a celestial-grade treasure had appeared.

So they went, traversing this torturous forest. Many have died, but many also managed to reach the mountain. However, the light was gone upon reaching there, and only a person sat there, meditating.

Those who made it to this mountain assumed she had taken the treasure, so they attacked, not even bothering to ask any questions.

If they had asked, they would have found out that she had just merged her immortal Qi with her sword Qi, creating a one-of-a-kind mutation.

They would also have discovered that she was in the process of merging her mind, soul, sword realm, and sword intent when they arrived.

But they didn't, and so they attacked, and she also responded to their attack.

It was just a quick pull of her sword.

However, those who saw it from a distance and managed to survive were amazed. They saw a brilliant light that looked incredibly beautiful come from her sword, instantly reducing hundreds of thousands of immortals to blood mist.

This sight sent chills down many spines. But a foolish person never knows when to hold back their greed and accept defeat.

Instead, many started going against her—renounced swordsmen, powerful mages, incredibly strong divine beasts, and mighty dragons. They all wanted the treasure that never existed.

However, they all fell to her sword.

Eventually, gods even came, but none managed to force her to stand or look them in the eye. She just sat there, and all those who attacked were defeated with a single swing of her sword.

That was how the legend of the Lady who lives in the mountains was born.

Eventually, they stopped coming, but they remained at a safe distance, watching her. They could only wonder when that mighty swordsman would come and defeat her.

Aoi sat on the ground, unmoving, while the two swords hovered. Then suddenly, the two swords moved and slashed randomly into the sky.

It was a single, quick slash, but the moment the two swords swung, the void was torn, and from within the void, a big red-covered book appeared and fell into Aoi's waiting hands.

Then, countless lights immediately formed in the sky and turned into swords, dancing around, creating a beautiful yet overwhelming display.

That is the Endless Sword Domain of Slaughter. It's a domain where swords will never stop moving as long as Aoi continues to breathe.

This domain was created when she clashed with the 1st Paragon. The battle lasted 100 days, destroyed the entire Nightless Forest, and only ended when the domain was created.

It was thanks to the 100 days of battle and the countless number of people she had killed that finally added the missing ingredients for the domain - The Endless Sword Domain of Slaughter.

It was a mesmerizing display that only appeared once. After the awakening, nobody saw it again. Just like how she vanished at first, she did again, but this time, the legend of the Lady who lives in the mountains never died.

The legend lived on, and even after billions of years, her legend is still alive.

Aoi remained in her meditative posture for three good weeks. During that time, Kathy, Nadia, and Miriam, who, like Nari, also used the Star Monarch's blood to temper their bodies, came out of seclusion.

The overlords and grand elders, who also received Klaus's blood, experienced tribulation, with every last one becoming a Void stage being.

Even Klaus's uncles and the instructors, including Old Lu, came out of seclusion. They are all Void stage beings.

Everyone came out, except Hanna and Ohema, who were also nearing their awakening stage. However, everyone who came out stayed and could only watch the display of the endless swords in amazement.

The sky is filled with countless swords.

Chapter 843 - 843: The final Awakenings

Considering Miriam, Nadia, and Kathy had already awakened their bloodlines, their tribulations when advancing their realms were not that difficult. Miriam and Kathy become Void stage experts.

They had already awakened their bloodlines, so nothing out of the ordinary happened besides the breakthrough and getting even more beautiful.

As for Nadia, she was a sage when Klaus locked her cultivation base, but that didn't stop her from becoming a Transcendent and climbing to the peak of that stage.

She had also awakened her bloodline long, long ago, which perhaps counted toward her rise through the Great Sage and Sovereign stage.

But as someone who doesn't have combat power, awakening a swordsmanship class that allows her to use a sword like an expert makes her very powerful.

Klaus's Star Monarch blood truly made her someone worth fearing.

And the best part, her puppeteer class has also gotten stronger to the point she can now control dozens of Tier 10 puppets and even up to seven Tier 11 puppets.

And that is when she hadn't summoned any demon spirit into her puppets. Her mind and soul have gotten so strong that she can handle seven Void stage-level puppets.

That is like saying she alone can face seven Void stage beings if she puts her mind to it.

But it gets crazy if she somehow manages to summon demon spirits into her puppets. When she does that, she can go beyond even the seven Tier 11 puppets, since puppets with demon spirits in them are much easier to control.

He wouldn't even have to pay much attention to them since they would become like Nia's shadows. The puppets with demon spirits in them will have some independence to some point, just like Nia's shadows.

In short, Nadia became so powerful that everyone wanted to see her display on the battlefield soon.

Earth now has 26 Void stage experts, and they are all monstrous powerhouses, thanks to Klaus's blood doing wonders.

In fact, calling them monsters is an understatement; they become beings that rival monsters and even surpass them...All thanks to Klaus's star monarch blood.

All eight overlords are now Void stage beings, with Queenie even rising to Level 8 and Nari sitting at the 7th level.

Aside from them, the seven Grand elders had also become Void stage beings, boasting great power and strength they never knew possible.

Old Lu and the three instructors had also become Void stage beings, each at the 2nd level. However, Old Lu came out rather powerful among the four of them.

He awakened a rare body constitution that made him pack some punch, and as a battle monk, he is essentially given the key to destroy anything his punch touches.

But the best part is that the 26 Void stage beings don't include Klaus's personal army. It basically consists of the eight Overlords, Seven Grand Elders, War god Liu Yang, Tess, Miriam, Lunara, Kathy, Old Lu, the twins (Luna and Nuna), and the three Instructors.

Klaus's uncles are at the peak of the Ascendent stage. But knowing their track record, they will soon become Void stage beings.

Three weeks and a day later, Ohema and Hanna also completed their tribulation. Ohema's awakening was akin to a poisonous awakening, showing the infamous Poison Queen that once tormented the Divine Archers era had awakened.

She awakened the infamous Queen of Poison Body and even the infamous Domain of Poisons. Basically, she had become someone who could easily poison the whole world.

But the strange part is that Ohema is an Archer, something Klaus didn't even know. She is a rather good archer who, long before the apocalypse reached the moon, had been known to be very good at it.

Concidentally, the Poison Queen was also an excellent archer. It was through archery that she and the Divine archer, Klaus's second incarnation, met.

They met at an interplanetary archery competition, which ultimately turned into a showdown between her and Knox for first place.

In the end, the divine archer won the competition, but the Poison Queen poisoned him and forced him to become her servant for 100 years, or else she wouldn't cure him. Having no choice, Knox became her servant.

However, along the line, they fell in love, and that was when the paragon of the second scored himself the most beautiful yet unapproachable fairy who once lived in the Poison forest.

Her purple hair and her purple eyes made her very beautiful. She is on the same level as her sister Queenie. They both have the aura of danger, just like their mother, the mother of flames.

As for her second body, which was formed from Klaus's blood, her class remained the same, but instead of her Super affinity for poison, she now has Perfect affinity for poison, making her rather lethal in that form.

Hanna's 10,000 Divine Lightning Bodies also awakened when she awakened her bloodline. This is what Klaus gave her when he stole it to provoke the heavens so they would send the Lightning Source Diagram.

Klaus had to place a seal on her body constitution back then because she didn't have the means to handle its power.

However, now that she has become an Ascendent, the seal has been lifted, and the power of the 10,000 Divine Lightning Body constitution has been unleashed.

The moment the seal came off, 2,000 divine copies of Hanna, made out of lightning, appeared in the sky, each wielding a bow. Then, like saluting her, they draw their bow and let loose 2000 arrows.

It was a sight to behold, and that alone described what a monster she had become. But that ain't all, aside from her body constitution awakening, the second seal on the Skybound bow, the bow the divine archer once wielded, broke.

It has now become lethal, and while Hanna doesn't have the qualifications to use the full force of the second seal, if she had the time to unleash an attack using her full strength, even a Peak Void stage being would struggle to defend against it.

Basically, Hanna became powerful, and her bow has also become incredibly powerful, making her a force to be reckoned with.

However, long after she awakened, the swords Aoi unleashed were still circling the air, attracting the news media and making everyone start to witness such a display.

However, Aoi sat there, the thick red-covered book still in her hand, unopened. That aside, Earth had welcomed monstrous powerhouses who would fight for her when the time came.

Chapter 844 - 844: Klaus's Beast Army

"I have seen many things since the apocalypse descended, but this beast is something I am struggling to wrap my head around," Lunara said, sitting on Klaus's lap.

"Is he a machine or a beast? I mean, can we even call this monstrosity a he?"

Klaus smiled. "That is a living thing... And you can call him a he. He is someone incredibly powerful whom I didn't expect to turn out this way. It turns out my blood can do more for even creatures from the machine beast race."

On the tribulation ground, having just ended his tribulation, stood the last of Klaus's beast army.

The Abyss Engine was the last to complete his awakening, and while it would be safe to say he is probably the most dangerous being on Earth now, he might actually take the title if all things are put into consideration.

The machine beast Fruity met back in the tormented world was powerful. However, this one had become something else.

It came out with two forms, unlike most of his comrades, who emerged with three, some even four: his main beast body and a humanoid form, something he got so that he would be able to blend in with humans.

However, looking at the mecha standing four meters tall, no human would want to be close to it. In fact, no human warrior would want to exchange blows with him. Klaus wouldn't even make that mistake.

Abyss, as Klaus started calling him from the moment he awakened his bloodline, stood four meters tall with weapons all over his mechanized armor. It was as if his whole body was made of weapons, as it should be.

But his weapons were much more dangerous than they should be. These weapons included laser guns, laser grenades, laser spears, daggers, swords, and bows.

But those aren't even the worst kinds of weapons; the more dangerous ones are the two long sabers sheathed behind him. They have laser-sharp edges and contain powerful crystals that, judging by their appearance, hold additional power capable of boosting their deadlines.

As for his true beast form, he becomes a 60-meter-tall jaguar made of pure weapons. From his eyes to his tail, everything about him has become a weapon.

Even Klaus was shaken when Abyss's beast form appeared. Thanks to Klaus's Star Monarch blood, Abyss has become a deadly weapon—well, weapons.

His cultivation also rose to the 8th level of the Void stage.

But aside from him, the Radiant Hound, which Klaus added to his army when he defeated the spider demon, had also evolved.

It came out in three forms. His humanoid form is that of a golden-haired, handsome young man in his late 20s. His eyes are golden wolf eyes, showing he has a perfect human body, but not perfect human eyes.

He still carries his heritage as a wolf. In his human form, he possesses the spearman's class thanks to Klaus's blood.

His demi-wolf form makes his claws rather deadly to anyone who messes with him. When he assumes his beast form, his body is covered in golden armor, rising as high as 40 meters, 20 meters short of the Abyss.

Just like Abyss, his cultivation is also at level 8 of the Void stage.

Then there is the Crimson Crown, who became a rather beautiful redhead lady wielding power over blood and capable of using daggers like swords.

She is Queenie's beast companion, so it was only natural for her to have blood affinity. Her demi-lion form allows her to use both her claws and daggers.

As for her 30-meter-tall true beast form, her beauty and deadliness are worth fearing. She immediately used the connection between her and Queenie to return to Earth.

Later, Queenie named her Sura, a short form for Asura...

The fourth was the Stone Carapace Tortoise, who had now become a Metal Carapace Tortoise.

Like Abyss, he emerged with two forms. Thankfully, his humanoid form allowed him to interact with humans.

His body is human, but his back is covered in tortoise shells. However, since he wore clothes, nobody would know that. But his beast form is a terrifying one.

He had become a 50-meter-tall, 70-meter-wide tortoise, whose shell is made of metal, making him one of the most powerful defensive warriors in existence.

If he could grow and rise to the level of an immortal, not even gods could break his defense. As for his offense, only a few could defend, considering his elemental affinity is metal, and he had already attained perfect affinity for the metal element.

Then came Pickle Berry's mother, who had already returned to Earth using the ship.

It was one of the first things she wanted right after her bloodline awakened, and she transformed into a beauty who rivaled Klaus's women.

She didn't take her naga (demi-serpent) form or her Devouring Serpent form.

However, she became powerful, robust enough to protect herself and the one she loved from even a Chaos stage being, considering she is now a level 7 Void stage powerhouse.

Then the Hybrid Beast he got from Blite Mountain also arrived, and as someone who had cultivated in the Chaos dimension, he had become very powerful.

Klaus even chose him to become his guard from now on. He came out with four forms. His human form is that of a bald fellow with jaguar eyes.

On his body are tattoos of the Antelope and the snake he devoured to become a hybrid beast—perhaps a tribrid.

His second form merged all three beasts he is made of, becoming one terrifying alien creature that will only continue to grow as he devours more beasts. The third form is a golden jaguar, his true form before he became a hybrid.

As for his 4th form, only the heavens can perhaps comprehend its monstrosity. It comprises his jaguar, snake, and antelope traits. Klaus and Lunara could wrap their minds around it.

It was a 50-meter-tall jaguar with the heads of both a jaguar, a snake, and an antelope, and the best part was that each head had a different element.

Fire, lightning, and ice, which by all accounts are dangerous, and Klaus was impressed by that part of him. So, he made him his personal bodyguard.

Naturally, Klaus made him his personal Guard because somehow, Jaguar managed to comprehend Chaos energy and has even attained Super affinity, just a step away from Perfect Affinity.

This makes him incredibly dangerous, and perhaps, from Klaus's perspective, he had the highest potential among all his beast army.

So Jaguar became his beast personal guard.

Chapter 845 - 845: Colonizing Mars

Abyss, Wolfie, Sir Totti, and Jaguar stood before Klaus, looking at him with reverent expressions — well, Abyss doesn't really have an expression, considering his face is made of metal.

Sir Totti also has metallic eyes, so his expression is much more complex than the soft ones shown by Wolfie (Radiant Hound) and Jaguar, Klaus's personal guard.

He knew Jaguar and his Paragon guards, that are on their way to him, would clash one of these days, considering she had replaced them with Jaguar. But Klaus didn't want to let such a monstrous person like Jaguar remain idle and do nothing.

He wanted him to follow him on all the dangerous missions he would be going on once he returned to Earth. So he wants him by his side.

Nyxthar and Veylor were still in seclusion; even Fury and Nirvana were still cultivating, considering the Lava pool still had the power to raise their cultivation bases.

"I know you all are happy with your gains," Klaus said, and the Beast army nodded. Even Abyss' mechanized head moved.

"Very well. Then we have to get to work." Klaus pointed in a certain direction. "Abyss, I know how resourceful you are, so why don't you drill 100 feet deep there?"

Abyss nodded, almost happy, as he moved and started drilling deeper into the ground.

Klaus picked that location because a week ago, when he and Lunara were exploring Mars, looking for more space crystals, he came upon something that, after a careful and detailed examination, he knew must be very valuable, so he wanted to explore it more.

Thankfully, he now has Abyss, who is more than enough to excavate the land and get to what was hidden beneath.

After five hours, Abyss flew out of the hole he was digging, holding a head-sized dark crystal. "Master, it seems there is a space crystal hidden down there. I only dug 60 feet before I came upon this crystal.

But there is something else." Abyss produced yet another crystal. "This one is a star dust crystal, perfect for metal cultivators to create elemental weapons. Just a single drop is enough to create powerful metal-type weapons.

I couldn't do much analysis, but I have a feeling that if we dig more in that direction, we will find more of this."

Klaus nodded, already expecting the outcome with the space stones and the star dust crystal. He never expected to find something like that on this lonely planet.

The star dust crystal came from a star.

It comes into existence in two ways. When a star dies, the dust from it condenses into crystals and falls into the cosmos. Most find their way to some planets, while others drift indefinitely in space.

The second happens due to mutation. The dust from the stars sometimes merges with asteroids, forming star dust crystals. However, this mutation is not always pure, so the outcome is not always ideal.

However, that doesn't mean the mutation makes it any less valuable.

Just a piece of Star Dust Crystal will sell very well in the universe, so getting even a chunk on this planet means Klaus will have an easier time when he enters the universe to grow his strength.

'This is good. Not only will I have a treasure to sell when I get out there, but I will also have the means to grow my strength in the process.'

"Keep digging in the direction of the Stardust crystal. Sir Totti, use your metal affinity to excavate the space Crystal. Jaguar, you and Wolfie should help him as best as you can."

Just like that, Klaus's beast army started proving themselves useful. And because of their Void stage cultivation, they were easily working their way deep underground.

"It looks like you will be going back to Earth a rich man," Lunara said, walking across the planet's red surface, holding his hand.

"That is the plan. Though I already have the means to protect myself and those I care about, having more backup plans will do.

Plus, I have already earned enough here to create some of the most powerful weapons Earth has ever seen. If possible, I want to have more to create even more."

Lunara smiled, hearing his words. Though Klaus always told her not to worry about him most of the time, she couldn't bring herself to stop wondering just what goes on in his head.

It was like the way Klaus thought was different from everyone else.

Most people would be arrogant if they had his strength, while some would be content with what Klaus has now. However, despite being the strongest being on Earth, Klaus still wanted to keep growing.

He had even opened up to her the last time and said he would be visiting the other planets. From what he had observed on Mars, he knew these planets would have something to offer, so he wanted to go there next.

However, he also didn't have much time left, so his next plan was to break through to the Ascendant stage, by which time his soul bodies would form.

This way, he could leave his soul bodies on this planet to cultivate while his main body did other things.

He had a feeling that the moment his soul bodies awakened, he would understand the true use of the doors inside his soul sea. However, he casually told Lunara he had everything in order for now.

She knew the journey would be dangerous, considering the perilous nature of these planets even before the apocalypse. Who knows what will become of him when he steps there?

Three days passed in the blink of an eye, and before Klaus knew it, his beast army had extracted several tons of minerals, with still more to excavate.

Thankfully, two days later, Veylor came out of seclusion, having reached the peak of the Void stage. He joined the beast army, and a week later, every last mineral had been dug out.

Klaus hungrily stored everything away, leaving only a few for Abyss, who wanted the space crystals to create ammunition.

"So, where are we going next?" Veylor asked after they were done with the task given to them.

"We have to visit the moon next and retrieve the next Doom Guard while handling the beasts there. Some will be friendly, others will be hostile, so prepare for some battles.

Others will join us there," Klaus responded. His friends were already en route to the moon, and the moment they got there, his team would also move from Mars.

A few hours later, he put all his Beast Army and Veylor in the cube and vanished back to the Moon with Lunara using the harem connection.

The awakened warriors of Earth were about to show their strength.

Chapter 846 - 846: Earth's Mightiest Heroes

Currently on the moon, every last warrior that Klaus had given his blood to is standing on a large white field, looking around them. Hovering above them is a large spaceship that is retreating from the moon.

"I never knew the moon was this beautiful," Danny said, looking around the serene field of a white orange plantation.

"It is indeed beautiful...too bad it wasn't safe anymore to stay on because of the Lunar Beasts."

"Indeed. But soon, when we are done with them, this place will become habitable again," Lily said.

"Do you think the Moon Borns will move back to the moon after we clear the beast from this place?" Nia asked since everyone seemed to be talking.

"I doubt they will come back, after all, while the moon is good, the Earth is better. They have more people to socialise with, and while coming here will be good, I don't think all of them would even want to move back here..." Ohema answered...on behalf of her people.

While her sister Queenie is for the humans on earth, she is for the moon-borns, but they all share the same man, so they can only ensure they stay where their man is...

The seven grand elders were present, each a Void stage warrior who can fight harrowing beasts and monsters. Lycos and his four friends are also present.

They were at the Transcendent stage when Klaus gave them his blood, so just like Klaus's uncles, they have also become Peak Ascendent beings, ready to take the tribulation and become Void stage experts once they get used to their Tier 10 strength.

The overlords are also present, all eight of them. Old Lu and the three instructors, namely, Instructor Victor, Oslo, and Kaden. They are all Void stage experts.

Suddenly, two people appeared in the air, drawing everyone's attention.

"Klaus..."

Almost everyone shouted his name when he appeared. He looked down and smiled at everyone as he and Lunara slowly landed on the ground.

Lily was the first to enter his arms and went for a kiss. Klaus didn't deny her that. He kissed her deeply, then Anna followed, and just like that, all his women went in for a kiss.

"You all have become powerful and even more beautiful," Klaus was taken aback seeing his ladies after two months.

They have changed, and looking at their beauty, especially Queenie, Anna, Lucy, and Nadia, a smile tugged on his lips.

The four of them are the only ones he has remembered so far from his past lives.

Queenie came from his third life when he was known as the Asura god. Anna and Lucy are from his 4th life as the renegade monk/fruity.

And Nadia is from his 9th life as the Star Monarch. She helped him escape when the Elven council captured him.

Having those memories and now seeing them slowly grow into their past beauty and strength, his heart melted.

Klaus looked at his wives with loving eyes for a few minutes before focusing on the rest.

"Glad to see you all have awakened your bloodlines. How does it feel?" Klaus asked, smiling at everyone.

"It feels great, Klaus, I feel like I can split the moon with a single swing of my axe," Danny said, his voice booming as he looked at Klaus with eyes full of reverence.

"You shouldn't do that, Danny. We want the moon in one piece after our operation here today." Everyone laughed at Klaus's words.

They all described the feeling coursing through their bodies after awakening their bloodlines. Klaus, through their words, quickly grasped their strength, and he was impressed.

They all had become people he could rely on, and thanks to his control over them, he managed to estimate their next evolution path.

That supreme control he now has over them isn't just for his own use; if he wanted to, he could use it to identify areas where they are lacking and help them improve upon them.

He can also estimate where their path will lead and if there is anything he can do to help them. The Star Monarch bloodline is designed to create the ultimate version of beasts, humans, and aliens. Essentially, his blood is the cure many are seeking.

Even if the person has the perfect bloodline, when they take Klaus's blood, their evolution will further refine their bloodline. And as he grows stronger, so will the effects of his bloodline continue to develop.

"This is just the start. Soon, Earth will be filled with some of the most powerful warriors in the universe, and when we hit the vast universe out there, everybody will tremble at our name."

The smiles on their faces bloomed, and looking at them, Klaus could tell they all wanted to hit the starry skies one day and make a name for themselves.

Crack...

Suddenly, the space cracked, and three people appeared through it.

"Mom, what are you doing here?" Klaus couldn't believe his eyes. The people who appeared were his mom, Pickle Berry, and Pickle Berry's mother, who now goes by Lumia.

Klaus rushed to his mom and held her hand. "This place is dangerous, Mom, you should go back."

"What, are you afraid I will get hurt?" Klaus could only stare at his mom with an expression that read, 'Yes, woman, aside the kitchen, you are practically useless anywhere else, especially not on the moon teeming with monsters.'

However, he just shook his head. However, before he could say anything, Asha walked and stopped beside Klaus's mom.

"Don't worry, I will protect her." The confidence in Asha's tone said it all; she really meant it... and believed it. Not that she can't do what she said, she can do it even better.

Asha now has world-humbling power at her fingertips, and with a flick of her finger, she can unleash chaos on a scale that will cause armies to quake in their boots.

She herself has become a Tier 10 (Ascendant). However, while that is impressive, she now has an army that can match up against major armies.

Her four Ant Queens are all at the Void stage. Ling and Zing, or as everyone calls them now, the Yin-Yang sisters, are also at the Void stage.

Chapter 847 - 847: Asha's Overpowered Army

Before Klaus left for the moon, he visited her in the insect domain one last time and left 100 drops of his blood for her to use.

Asha accepted the blood and promised to make good use of them. She did, and the outcome became something that nobody expected.

"How exactly strong have you become?" Klaus wanted to ensure everyone heard it. Of course, he wasn't afraid that there might be a spy among them. The reason was that they all had his blood, so that was just impossible.

"All four of my Ant Queens are at the Void stage, but that is already to be expected; they were already at the peak of the Ascendant stage before taking your blood.

However, the shock came after you left for the moon.

Thanks to the Supreme Insect Queen's Forge, my four Queens and I created something extraordinary."

[I said it. She has the Supreme Insect Queen's Bloodline. This makes her someone with unlimited potential. Not only does she have such an overpowered bloodline, but she even has the Supreme Insect X Hive Class.

I say you pay more attention to this wife of yours if you want to have an unlimited army that can help you forever.] The senior said in a rather happy tone.

Klaus smiled.

He knew what it took to be a paragon, for he had seen Fruity's memory. That was enough to tell him he needed an army that was vast and overpowered, because the army he would be going against wouldn't be simple.

"Asha Alpha, whom I have renamed Lisha, now has 18 Peak Ascendants under her, and that was because of the blood you gave them.

However, aside from that, we used the Forge to modify them, so they have no problem taking on the Void Stage enemies. This is also because their bloodline is now Primordial Obsidian Dark Carapace Ants.

Additionally, we created 30 new species using your blood. Three of these 30 will emerge as Void Stage Ants, while the remaining 27 will be at the Ascendant stage." Everyone's jaw dropped when they heard that.

But Asha wasn't done. "Monix now also has 14 Peak Ascendants, and the same conditions apply as with Lisha. 30 more Ancient Devouring Venom Ants are on the way.

Then there is Viel. As for her, we had to dissolve her spy army simply because they were too weak.

But that doesn't mean she is weak now. In fact, her soldiers are now divided into two categories, and they are all Peak Ascendants.

Ten are assassins, and 25 are spies who, so far, have gathered more intel on Earth and its hidden dangers. I will share this with all of you after this battle.

And just like Lisha and Monix, she also has 30 cocoons that will hatch in approximately one to two months. Twenty-five will be assassins, and five will be shadow mages."

Everyone could just look at Asha like she were some monster. The force she had just described under her command was enough to handle any army on Earth.

"There's more," Asha laughed with Klaus' mom.

Klaus's mom already knew all this because Asha had shown her everything. Unlike most of Klaus' ladies, who mostly run because they don't want to become styling dolls for Klaus' mom, Asha doesn't have a problem.

After the awakening of her ant army, which now has some of the most beautiful ants in existence, she needed Klaus's mom to style their hair, so she spent the last few days with her inside the Insect domain.

This made her realize how powerful Asha had indeed become.

"Ant Queen Remy managed to hatch the seven cocoons she had been working on for years. When they hatched, seven handsome Alien Ants appeared.

Four ladies and three men, and they are all Level 5 Void Stage Ants."

"Damn, how come Asha has become more powerful than all of us?" Danny couldn't help asking.

"She has always been stronger than everyone. Long before you guys even met me, she had transcendent ants and several dozen Sovereign ants under her," Klaus said, making his friends smile weakly.

The witch everyone knew in the academy now has an army that can grace the battlefield with overwhelming prowess.

"You have become monstrous, Asha. You really beat me on this one." She told Klaus she would become more powerful than he when he returned. It turns out she was right.

Her army is indeed something worth fearing.

"So don't worry. With me around, Mother will be fine. And oh, Remy now has 10 more cocoons containing ten more Void Stage Ants." Asha winked, and the door to her insect domain opened.

Ling and Zing appeared, and then it closed.

Klaus raised his brow. "You're not calling your force?"

"No. If I do that, the battle will be over before they get anything to kill." Asha replied, looking around at her friends teasingly.

[Haha... I like this little girl. She is bold, arrogant, and shameless. She reminds me of some brat I know.]
The senior burst out laughing, causing Klaus to scratch the back of his head.

"Very well." Klaus looked toward his mom and then sighed.

"Just don't do anything that will get you killed. Knowing you, I doubt you will stand at one—ouch!" Klaus wasn't even done when his mom grabbed his ear.

He tried to move, but he couldn't. Now, looking at Pickle Berry hidden behind her mother, he knew the brat used a space lock on him.

"Pickle Berry, pray I don't get my hands on you," Klaus said, holding her red ears. His friends and everyone around laughed at his predicament.

Pickle Berry was rolling on the ground, holding her stomach.

"So what now? I want to punch some things," Danny said.

Klaus sighed and then decided to get back to what they came there to do.

Klaus rose into the air and cleared his throat. Using Star Qi to amplify his voice, he started to speak.

"Hello there, this is Klaus Hanson speaking. I have with me the best of warriors, ready to kill anything that isn't human. Those who don't want to die, you have the next five minutes to come and surrender. After that, there will be no mercy."

The moment Klaus's voice boomed out, the ground started shaking, indicating that the lunar beasts were approaching.

Naturally, Klaus's team was inside the safe zone on the moon. But away from them, thousands of towering monsters could be seen running toward them, some already hitting the formation, weakening it.

Far from this brutal primal rage of monsters, three demi-beasts flew from different directions, heading toward the formation.

In another direction, a pale beauty with two white horns on her forehead set down a teacup and sighed. "Master is finally here, meaning the others are here too. Time to get busy."

Her clothes transformed into the dark attire of an assassin. Black trousers, short sleeves, and a classic jacket, which showed she had some fashion sense.

A crossbow hung on her back, and daggers were sheathed on her left and right legs. Several shurikens were well sheathed.

She took a deep sigh, and then a hood extended from her jacket and covered her head. A mask appeared on her face. She looked into the distance and then fell back.

But instead of hitting the ground, she fell into a shadow and vanished.

Chapter 848 - 848: Eren Nightveil

At the barrier that created the safe space for the moon-born to live in for years, thousands of Lunar Beasts could be seen. Their ranks ranged from the Sovereign stage to the Ascendent stage.

That was an army of beasts that could indeed bring down the entire Moon Race. It was the kind of number that would make any army tremble.

However, not a single person among Klaus's team wore a panicked expression. On the contrary, they all wanted to jump into the battle...

Suddenly, a powerful presence began to envelop the place. The Tier 11 (Void) stage beasts started to appear. Each was a beast in its own right.

They were powerful, and despite all of them appearing in their demi-beast forms, the aura coming from them was just too much.

Klaus and his team stood on the other side of the barrier, watching the twelve overlords of the moon appear. The sheer arrogance they radiated was enough to tell that they didn't really take the army they were about to face seriously.

Suddenly, three of them moved closer to the fence and looked at Klaus and his army. Klaus moved forward and stopped behind the barrier.

"I take only three of you who want to surrender," Klaus said.

"Surrender... No. However, we have an offer for you," replied a beast—a demi-Phoenix, which caused Klaus to smile inwardly.

She had red hair and was clad in a red dress. However, unlike Nari, Kay, and Amelia, who had managed to become fully human thanks to giving them his blood, this demi-phoenix had her wings behind her, and her eyes were also phoenix-shaped.

Aside from that, her hair had two feathers sticking out on the sides. However, she was a truly beautiful lady. But among the lunar beasts, Zeyra, as they called her, was the strongest of them all.

Almost half of the Tier 11 beasts that appeared were at the Peak of the Void stage, which said a lot about their strength. But she remained undisputed among the Void stage beasts. Klaus saw that and knew she had the right to reject his demand.

Klaus looked around, and what he saw made him smile. He knew that what she was about to say would determine the outcome of the battle.

"Go ahead, I want to hear your offer," Klaus said.

"Every last one of us will surrender if you can promise this place will be ours to rule after you kill the overlord."

'And that is what I am waiting for,' Klaus smiled.

Zeyra was the strongest, but there was an Overlord they all feared, and seeing a power as strong as Klaus's, they knew he could help them.

Why? Because the overlord she was talking about was just at level five Void Stage, but she was a monster none of them could handle. She had already killed 8 of them, and if she were allowed to remain at the top, she would soon kill all of them.

"So if I were to help you kill this Overlord, you all will back down and not attack anyone?" Klaus asked, and Zeyra, along with the three that came with her and two more, nodded.

Klaus just smiled.

"Very well. I will help you." Klaus turned to his left and looked into the distance. A smile appeared on his face as he spoke.

"You can come out now." Nobody knew who he was talking to. However, their answer came when a sudden shadow moved, and a graceful figure appeared.

"Lady Eren," Zeyra mentioned the newcomer's name, fear gripping her.

"Hello, Zeyra. I didn't know you were also coming here... to meet my master," Eren spoke as her mask vanished from her face. She moved toward Klaus and knelt down.

"Eren Nightveil, 2nd of the Doom Guards, pays her respect to Master." Klaus smiled upon hearing that. Though she said the second of the Doom Guards, Klaus knew she meant to say the second strongest.

Not that she was lying; the aura coming from her was enough to show she was indeed worthy of that title. And the best part, she was only at the 5th level of the Void stage.

But despite that, the peak Void stage lunar beasts were trembling when she appeared.

"Stand, Eren," Klaus commanded. The assassin lady stood up and turned toward Zeyra.

"So, Zeyra, what are you going to do now?" she asked with a smile that made the phoenix lady tremble in terror. Never in her wildest dreams did she think the one she wanted to help kill her adversary would actually be the master of her adversary.

That was the biggest bad luck.

Klaus chuckled. "I don't want to make things difficult for you. So I will declare again, who among you wants to surrender now? Don't worry, your overlord won't interfere, so if you want, you can reject the offer."

Klaus tapped on the barrier and injected space energy into it. A few seconds later, a crack appeared, and then it shattered, bringing the two forces face to face.

"Those who want to surrender, you have 20 seconds to move that way."

"Eren, let's go." Klaus flew to the left, separating himself from the chaos that was about to occur. A few seconds went by, but nobody made a move.

Fifteen seconds later, a few beasts moved in his direction. Counting, there were only 47 in number. Five of the 12 Void stage beasts, alongside 42 Ascendent beasts.

"Very well. You 47 can wait for me here." Klaus sent them into the Cube, then he turned to the rest.

"So you all choose death... so be it." Klaus snapped his fingers, and an ice chair appeared. He sat down and looked at his team.

"Kill them all."

Danny was the first to enter the battle.

"Finally, I can get to kill some monsters!" His voice boomed as he jumped high into the air. His axe glowed golden, and then, descending, his axe landed on a 30-meter-tall beast, cutting it in half.

Just like that, the battle began. Though Klaus knew the odds his team was facing weren't for the weak, he knew this was a way for them to see what they could do, and also his way to gauge how much they'd grown.

After this, he had something that would further enhance their strength.

Chapter 849 - 849: Battle On The Moon (1)

Klaus had seen a lot of things in the thousands of years he had lived, and even in the few years he had spent in his current life, but watching the warriors of Earth play rock, paper, scissors to decide who gets to take on the seven Void stage beasts wasn't something he expected to see in this life.

Just a few months ago, only two Void stage warriors could be identified on Earth; however, in just a few months, they now had over two dozen Void stage beings, and they were playing a silly game to decide who would fight the Void stage beasts.

Since five Tier 11 Lunar Beasts had chosen to surrender, the remaining seven now had complete control to command a rather large army.

Klaus didn't know if the beasts could identify danger when they saw it, but watching the many Void stage humans before them, they still wanted to fight.

Now, the humans were deciding who would fight whom. Of course, Queenie and Lunara weren't part of the silly game, simply because they were still regarded as the leaders of Earth.

This meant the five remaining beasts were being shared among the dozens of Tier 11 human warriors.

'Is this what it feels like to have the odds on your side?' Klaus couldn't help asking himself.

[This is all your doing, brat. You truly have what it takes to create the strongest army in the universe.] The senior said with a happy chuckle. Klaus indeed has what it takes to create the strongest army in existence.

On the battlefield, Danny and his friends were killing as if the beasts were bugs. They weren't even putting in much effort, even against the Peak Tier 10s.

Every swing of Danny's axe was a killing blow.

Meanwhile, Daniel was hammering the beasts like they were nails. He wasn't using his enhancement skills, so his 6'5" height was what he was relying on.

But even so, despite having the height of an ant compared to the huge beasts they were fighting, none of them seemed to despair. Instead, they were having the time of their lives.

Miguel and Vida, the other two brutes in the team, were also showing their newfound strength. None of them were using their skills. It was pure strength, and the result spoke for itself: they were more monstrous than even the beasts.

Klaus focused more of his attention on his wives.

Lucy and her sister Anna stood in one place, but the carnage they were creating was already enough to show their strength. None of them held any weapon, not that they needed one.

The vines piercing the bodies of the beasts were metallic in shape and feel. They were much more deadly than the previous vines during her tribulation.

'That is her Ironblood Annihilation skill... If and when she starts comprehending the Metal law, not even immortals can stand against her vines.' A smile appeared on Klaus's lips.

In his past life as Fruity, this was one of Lucy's many skills. But she liked this one. The reason was that while she was easily piercing the body of the beast, something else was happening.

Every time she pierced the body of a beast, her vine stole their essence blood, which was absorbed into the vine and strengthened it. The best part was that this strengthening was permanent, so the more she used it, the stronger it became.

'I quite remember those idiots from the frozen continent... I wonder if they reincarnate, if they'll be that stupid again,' Klaus smiled, looking at Lucy, the reincarnation of the Vine Queen.

The metal law he had spoken of in the past made the Ironblood Vines even deadlier. She had used it to devour the essence blood of 20,000 warriors sent from the Frozen Continent to kill Anna.

Fruity had been in seclusion at that time, and while Mason's incarnation could have helped, the Queen of Vine wanted to face them alone, and the result was that she devoured them completely.

And that was just the Ironblood Vine. She hadn't even used her Devouring Princess Flowers.

As for Anna, she was turning the beasts into ice statues as if it were the easiest thing to do. Klaus could only smile watching this.

Eren, who was rather unruly, stood beside Klaus, smiling as well. "They are much more powerful than people at their level."

"True. But that is good. With their strength, my homeworld will be safe from all forms of danger in the future." Klaus was more than happy to see where their strength would go next.

"You are right, master. They are indeed enough to do that... However, I would ask if my master wouldn't mind me training those three ladies."

Eren pointed at Nia, Luna, and Nuna.

Nia wasn't using her shadows yet, but even without them, she was killing the monsters faster than her hands were moving.

The reason was simple. After she went unconscious from creating the Nested Time Loop, her mind underwent an upgrade, and she woke up with an ability she hadn't shared with anyone yet.

However, Eren has a unique assassin class called Voidshade Executioner. It was an ascended Assassin class that allowed her some control over reality.

Though she hadn't mastered the law of reality to even 5% yet, her class allowed her to see what Nia was doing, and that caught her interest.

The Nia everyone was seeing was the future version of herself, who came back 3 seconds to become the present version.

It is all very complicated, but Nia now has the ability to see 3 seconds into the future and move three seconds from the future to the present.

...well, it was more like she could move three seconds into the future.

However, that also meant she could move three seconds backward to the present from the future, and then three seconds backward to the past or three seconds from the past to the present, which effectively meant moving from the present to the future.

It is all very complicated. However, Nia could correct the past three seconds, both in and out of time, and could do the same for the future.

So she was moving between times, making her 3 seconds ahead of her target. This allowed her to kill three times faster than she should.

Of course, there was a limit to how long she could use this skill. But it had already helped her kill 120 beasts, so there was no telling how much longer she could hold on.

Chapter 850 - 850: Battle On The Moon (2)

What Nia was doing was truly heaven-defying. However, she wasn't the only one with mind-shattering abilities; Luna and her sister Nuna were equally amazing.

They may not have the means to move through time, but their control over shadows is impeccable. Klaus is already aware of their ability to use shadows to create shadow beings that can fight on their behalf.

Additionally, just like Nia, they can utilize the shadows to augment their abilities, which will significantly enhance their defense.

In fact, they had already started...

However, what caught Klaus's attention now wasn't the shadow being raised slowly. This time, it was how they were using the shadows.

Klaus raised his brow, and Eren smiled.

"It is called Shadow Enchantment," Eren said, then went on to explain. "They are using the shadow to strengthen themselves, and while at first they might only have the means to boost their defense, this time they are boosting everything.

Their agility, defense, strength, and stamina. They are using the shadow to do all that, and while not many assassins can do this, it seems to come naturally to them.

Of course, they are still too weak to realize the true power of shadow enchantment, but if they undergo the training I have for them, they will become immortals before they even reach the Chaos stage."

"That is indeed something to wrap one's head around...but how would they become immortals?" Klaus had to ask. He didn't know if he was once an assassin, but he was fascinated by the idea of using shadows to kill.

He already remembered from his past that his first incarnation was a swordsman, the second an archer, the third was also a swordsman, and the fourth a combat mage proficient in multiple weapons... Of course, his other incarnations could use other weapons aside from the sword and bow.

In his fifth incarnation, he had yet to learn about that person, just as his sixth and seventh incarnations remained a mystery.

But he had a nagging feeling his sixth was a woman, considering his affinity for music. While he didn't want to admit it, he could play the zither like a goddess.

This feeling was deepened when he met Syrith, the demoness of music, inside the trial he underwent in the dungeon. He could also be overthinking it. Perhaps he was a dude after all.

So, he knew his sixth incarnation wasn't an assassin.

His seventh wasn't an assassin either, simply because he had a nagging feeling that incarnation was much more bloody, making it unlikely for him to wield daggers.

The eighth and ninth weren't assassins either, so his fifth must have been, which would explain his liking for daggers.

'Or maybe I'm just overthinking everything... I'm a weapons enthusiast, so it's natural for me to like all types of weapons.' In the end, he decided to listen to what Eren had to say.

But first, he watched closely as Luna's dagger flipped through her fingers, then she melded into the shadows only to appear behind a Peak Tier 10 lunar beast, triple her size, and slit its throat before blending into the shadows again.

'...Beautiful.' Klaus couldn't help but admire such a graceful display of murder.

"The Shadow Enchantment has three forms. The first form allows one to augment their body and weapons with shadows, amplifying them.

This is, of course, temporary unless they have something that can trap shadows. In that case, they can store the shadows and use them later. If not, then they can slowly use it while they kill.

The second form is called Shadow Infusion. This form allows them to infuse the shadows into their blood slowly. This will enable them to permanently augment their bodies, as the infusion occurs in the bloodstream.

I was once at this stage before the Eternal Sleep years ago. But even now, I still have traces of the shadows in my blood.

This augmentation, when done to some stage, can turn their bodies shadowy, rendering them invincible to most weapons.

Then, at some stage, they will become shadows that no physical blow can destroy. I was at that stage, and aside from Nyxthar, who has abilities that make him immune to all augmentations, I was immortal on the battlefield.

And before you ask, Nyxthar's abilities are not something found throughout the universe; he created them himself, and yes, among all of us, he was indeed the strongest.

But that is by the way. The third form, which I never managed to reach, was said to make the assassin completely immune to all attacks, regardless of the source.

It was just remorse, but you once told us you know someone who had achieved this infamous third stage of shadow augmentation."

Klaus nodded, hearing all this craziness. He didn't like to admit it, but watching his ladies smile as they took down their fair share of lunar beasts left him awed.

That was true for Lily, who was like a blur on the battlefield. She moved like the wind, driving wind blades through the beasts, killing them as she moved.

The Red Fury, who once chased him across the universe, was now killing the beast that, deep down, they thought would end the battle on the winning side.

If only they knew that the Red Fury was among the line-up of heaven-defying warriors taking care of them. Then again, who could blame them? They were fighting a battle that had already been set in stone.

Even Klaus expected at least hundreds of beasts to surrender, but only 47 did. This meant his beast army now had four dozen more additions that, after their evolution, would become Void stage beings and perhaps five Chaos stage divine beasts.

'Wouldn't that be a sight to see?' Klaus smiled.

"I mean, isn't it cheating that they have my blood running through their bodies? Now they have the means even to become invincible to physical damage," Klaus smiled.

He turned and looked at Eren, then a grin appeared on his face.

"Do you perhaps think you can teach me this Shadow Enchantment..."

Eren smiled, which turned into small laughter. "Isn't it ironic... to think the creator of Shadow Enchantment will ask to be taught his own creation..."

"...Ah, I knew it. I was once an assassin," Klaus smiled.

"The best assassin to have walked the face of the universe... well, there was the Shadowless Assassin too, but, well, history tends to take you out of their history books, so... By the way, I would be glad to teach you."

