

Passive Skills 99

Chapter 99 a quiet brush

the first guild war in new world had ended. other than the guild members of both sides, no one else knew about it.

In order to attract attention, the flamboyant Windcloud blade posted a world message.

The world Channel:

Windcloud blade: "this Guild war is over. The opponent is a little weak. I don't think I've used much strength. I won without doing anything.

"F * ck, it's only been ten minutes? It's a little fast."

"Swordsman one blade, is it that easy to cut down the war flag? Furthermore, there are still 200 people in vertical and horizontal. Are they just going to let you guys kill them?"

he must have killed all the people before he could cut down the flag. Otherwise, how could he cut down the flag in peace? "

" that's way too fast. he killed two hundred people and three flags in just ten minutes? "

"Didn't you say that the Dragon King of the East Sea got two scrolls? Are you not willing to use it?"

of course I did. If I don't use it at this time, do I keep it to lay eggs? " the wind and cloud Guild is awesome. Are the two scrolls from the Dragon King of the East Sea fake? "

[Feng Yun realm: the video of the Guild War has been compiled and uploaded to the forum. Those who are interested can go and take a look.]

the boss is generous. He didn't hide it. I'll go and take a look.

After Feng Yun realm uploaded the video of the Guild War, the world Channel was quiet for a short while before it went wild again.

f * ck, the Thunder scroll Cape of the Dragon King of the East Sea is invincible. I'll kill as many as I can.

you've got the main point wrong. The main point is, why did the six bodhisattvas stand up again after being killed by the scroll? "

"F * ck, it's true. What kind of prop is this? A death exemption token?"

"Is there such an item in this game?"

who knows? you have to ask the divine artifact boss about this.

[dragon slaying saber of heaven and earth: six-barreled Bodhisattva is just a Cape, not a tool at all. This is the second time we've seen him reincarnate.]

In the future, when you fight with him, you must remember to guard his corpse after you kill him.

Dragon slaying saber, this fool, had even bragged about his rebirth skill so much that he would not have the chance to sneak in in the future.

However, he had no choice. He had already triggered the rebirth skill twice in front of others. It was impossible to keep it a secret.

“Not a one-time prop? Could it be a special effect of a skill or equipment? That’s awesome, can I always stand up again after I die?”

that’s impossible. There are bound to be some restrictions, such as a long cooldown time, or a chance of triggering it. If it doesn’t die, then it’s a real equip.

divine artifact boss, come out and take a few steps. Explain.

zhang shan was silent. what a joke. could he tell them? That’s impossible. Once this skill is displayed, then wouldn’t his passive King talent be known to everyone?

If they knew of Zhang Shan’s talent, they would probably be even more jealous. For their sake, Zhang Shan was silent.

It cost money to send a message in the world chat. Ignore it and let them guess.

Only a few people in the wind and cloud Guild knew of his talent, although Zhang Shan did not specifically ask them to keep it a secret.

However, the big shots clearly had this awareness and did not spread it around.

Since he was already in the city, it was time for him to take a look at the auction house as usual.

It was a pity that good luck didn’t come every time, and he could only pick up scraps occasionally. This time, he didn’t get much.

He looked at the price of the engineering blueprint. It was a blueprint of a level 1 ordinary bullet, 600 gold coins. It was not expensive. He would buy it first.

Previously, Zhang Shan had planned to see if he could farm for it. If he could, he could save some money.

However, after so many days, no blueprint had been spawned. He would buy one for now.

When he had time in a few days, he would consider getting a lifestyle class. Since he had bought the blueprint, he would also take a look at the corresponding materials.

The materials used to make ordinary bullets were also the most common and cheap. Wood, iron ore, and red copper, just these three.

Other than the slightly more expensive purple copper, which was a green-colored material, the wood and iron were white-colored materials, which were very cheap.

One gold coin could buy a whole bunch.

the engineering profession certificate started at 1000 gold coins. this price had always been stable, but the buyout price was very high.

There was no need to be anxious. He could try selling it for 1200 gold coins. If he couldn't get it, then he could forget about it. It wasn't a rare item anyway.

If you want it, the auction house has it at any time.

After storing the blueprints and materials in the warehouse, he set off and continued to kill ants. Killing monsters and leveling up was the eternal theme of the game.

after repairing his equipment and gathering his supplies, he set off for the ant mountain.

It's so f * cking far. I'll just run slowly.

He asked boss Wu how he was doing in the novice village. It was already his second day in the game.

He still had to work during the day and only played for less than four to five hours at night. It would probably take some time for him to reach level 10 and leave the novice village.

He called out to Daoist priest with blade, "

"Boss Wu, what's your level?"

"level five, level six is still a bit away."

why is it so slow? it's been two hours since last night. Is it so difficult to level up? "

...

I can't help it. This game's settings are so stupid. Taoist priests don't have magic balls to attack, but can only use wooden swords to kill monsters. It's too difficult.

" we're looking for a team. of course, we can't do it alone. "

" i did find someone to form a party with. otherwise, i wouldn't even be able to kill a little chick at level 1. " alright, take it slow. The sooner you reach level 10, the sooner I'll help you level up.

well, there's no rush. I should be able to reach level 10 in two days.

The early stages of the Taoist profession were indeed very difficult. Attack blessing was proportional to the attack, so it had no effect at all in the early stages.

Only with Zhang Shan's character's current attack power, the effect would be obvious. Early players only had tens of attack points.

He didn't feel anything at all when he added another 20%.

At that time, Feng Ling had also been pitifully chopping up the chicks alone.

Perhaps, she would have to chop up the demonized chicks for a long time.

However, the Taoist profession was easy to survive after leaving the novice village. It was in high demand everywhere, as long as it was a team of a few people.

...

Who wouldn't bring along a Taoist when farming monsters? with an attack of 1000 plus 200,2000 could add up to 400. If a few people were to add on, the efficiency of farming monsters would skyrocket.

After ending the call, Zhang Shan spent another 40 minutes to reach the ant Mountain Map.

He summoned the Panda baby and focused on killing monsters.

There shouldn't be much to do for the time being, so he planned to clear the dungeon before next Wednesday.

He stayed alone in a level 40 monster map, far away from the players, so it was unlikely that he would fight with others.

Zhang Shan's principle was that if no one provoked him, he would just be a quiet brush. If someone wanted to court death, then he would transform into Thanos and send them off.

After he reached level 26, the level suppression of the Army ants on him weakened. The level suppression mechanism should be one level per level.

Now that the Army ants could only suppress him by two levels, he was much more efficient at killing monsters than before.

Previously, each of his attacks could only deal 1500 damage, but now, he could deal 2000 damage. Without any critical special effects, he could take down an army ant with six shots.

However, even though he could farm monsters faster, his leveling speed was not as fast. He needed 120000 exp to reach level 27, which was simply terrifying.

Even if he could get more than 300000 experience in an hour, it would take him two days. He had to keep doing it without any interference.