

Pervert In Stone Age: Breaking Cavewomen with Modern Kinks - Chapter 6 World Map Function

I opened the fourth gift, and it revealed an ability called "Limit Breaker." The description was vague, but the implications were vast. It promised to make my body limitless, to instantly reach the maximum level of all abilities and skills, and to remove any negative effects.

It would also allow me to have control over my body on a cellular level. The ability was overpowered, which can make me invincible if I buy some powerful abilities from the supermarket Store in the system.

But I was still a chicken, with no strength or ability to protect myself, except for the Magical Tool. I didn't know what kind of danger I would face here, but I was determined to find out.

I opened the last gift with a sense of trepidation, a prayer on my lips for something to protect my safety. It revealed an ability called "Healing Factor," a skill that would make me immortal, that would heal any injury I suffered, and that would protect me from diseases and infections. The implications were vast, the potential both exciting and terrifying.

"Ha ha ha haaaa.... I will be a fucking unkillable monster.... awesome..." I couldn't help but laugh, with excitement that I achieved something that no one can achieve, and I would be an Immortal Being right away. But my laughter stopped as a thought crossed my mind.

I still didn't have any fighting power, and if anybody knew about my abilities, I would be captured or experimented upon.

But as I stood there, I couldn't help but wonder about the nature of this world. I didn't know if magic existed in this world or not, like in those novels where the main character reincarnates in magical worlds.

I had read those manga, but I never thought this would actually happen to me. The thought was both exciting and terrifying, a mix of wonder and fear.

I was not perverted enough to cut myself to see if the Healing Factor was working or not, but looking at the other abilities of the system, I didn't doubt it.

The Healing Factor was a powerful ability, one that promised to keep me alive no matter what. But even with the Healing Factor, that didn't mean I wouldn't feel hungry or thirsty.

The ability would keep me alive, even if I became a sunken skeleton, a thought that was both comforting and terrifying.

I knew that I had to be careful, that I had to be strategic. I couldn't just rely on the Healing Factor to keep me alive. I needed to learn about this world, to understand its rules and its people.

Lastly, I paid attention to the Super-Market Store, a place that had everything, from food and clothes to guns, medicines, cars, planes, choppers, even spaceships, and time machines.

The variety was endless. And when it came to skills, it had all kinds, from swimming and hunting to writing, cooking, tracking, assassination, survival, and more. The list was endless, never-ending, and you can get anything you want.

But the only thing missing was purchase points. Generally, for food items, the price was 10 Pervert Points, and for a grand luxury full meal, it cost 50 Pervert Points, which was the maximum for food.

The cheapest was a water bottle, priced at 2 Pervert Points. When it came to clothing, it started at 10 Pervert Points and went up to 10000 Pervert Points, with all kinds of clothing, including spacesuits and fireproof suits.

Skills were quite expensive. Swimming costs 10000 Pervert Points, hunting costs 20000 Pervert Points, and assassination costs 45000 Pervert Points.

The cheapest skill was swimming, and the thing that I needed most was the survival skill, which was 30000 Pervert Points. Looking at my balance of Pervert Points, which was fucking zero, I couldn't help but curse.

"Motherfucker... system, do you want to kill me?" I yelled at the system for not even considering how I would even survive without any food if I didn't have any Pervert Points to start with.

I didn't have any food or water, and to earn Pervert Points, I needed a woman. But where could I find a woman in this fucking jungle?

Looking at the abilities, each was outrageously expensive. Cloning was one of the least expensive at 100000 Pervert Points.

Telekinesis costs around 1 million Pervert Points, Superhuman Strength 500000 Pervert Points, and Telepathy 10 million Pervert Points.

I couldn't help but feel a sense of anger and frustration as I closed the store. I was dirt poor, with no way to earn Pervert Points in this fucking jungle.

I yelled for the system, but it didn't respond. It was a dead system, making me think it was a dumb system without any intelligence. Suddenly, I heard a prompt notification from the system.

[Does the host want to initiate the Live World Map Function?]

[Yes / No]

I clicked Yes without any delay, as at least with the map, I could know how big the world was. As soon as I clicked yes, a map appeared on the virtual panel, just like in some game.

It showed my location, with a person standing there like my 3D image on the map at the same place I was standing. The map was not like a satellite map, but was like a terrain map, same as those in games.

I could see the jungle all around me. This function was really helpful, so I decided to test whether I could zoom in or out of the map. As I zoomed out to see the whole world, I found that red dots started appearing on the map, a lot of them, which were at the end of this jungle. They were in groups of a few hundred together, and then at a distance, there were another few hundred of them.

As I kept zooming out, I found it was the same as Earth, with the continents the same, and I was still in America. The location it showed should be around the same place, like it was the same exact city where I lived. But the map was not showing the names of the continent or city, or anything, just my location and red dots.

As I zoomed in on those red dots that were just outside this forest area near me, they were found to be moving.