Chapter 1711

An icy tone echoed.

Experts popped up all over the region, and every single one of them was wearing a weird outfit. Most had an ugly face on.

The aura they exuded was as creepy as they were hellhound.

The criminals!

It didn't take a genius to know that the Ruling Union had contacted the criminals and got them there.

Looking around, it was clear that there were quite a few people there, and they were all strong.

However, Levi scoffed and warned, "Surrender now, and I might spare your life. Know that this is a privilege that foreigners won't get. You guys might be evil, but you are still a citizen of Erudia, so I will give you a shot at redemption."

"Seriously? Do you actually think that you can beat us all by yourself?"

The criminals weren't a part of the previous battle, so they didn't know how strong Levi was.

On top of that, Bruce was too busy to warn them.

"Levi Garrison, do you even know who we are? We have been waiting for quite some time now."

A few figures showed up after those words were said.

"Are you members of the Northern Demon?" asked Levi.

Everyone chuckled.

No one expected the criminals to show up in the middle of nowhere.

Dang, they are basically offering their men up for free.

Levi had already guessed that his enemy would try to ambush Oakland City.

As a military commander, he knew that was what most would do under those circumstances. Heck, if Levi was on the enemy's side, he would send his men to destroy Oakland City as well.

That was why he was worried and was thinking about how to deal with the situation in Oakland City.

He couldn't exactly split in half and go protect the city.

To his surprise, his enemy served themselves right up and helped him solve the problem.

Phoenix stood beside him and asked, "Do you think they'd believe that those pills are poisons? Those are actually ordinary vitamins and supplements."

Levi had used that trick a dozen times.

He would use some random pills and tell his enemy that it was poison.

It seemed that the trick would never get old.

Levi chuckled and replied, "The more powerful a person is, the more that person would value his or her own life. They would never risk it. Moreover, I have shaken them to their core, so they definitely bought the lie!"

At that moment, everyone knew that Erudia’s trump card and experts were fighting the war on the battlefield.

That had to mean that the city was vulnerable, and they assumed that conquering the city was a sure thing.

They were especially confident because they sent five hundred martial artists over.

Hence, Bruce waited patiently after he returned to Zarain.

He didn't share the news about how he lost the battle in the West because he didn't want the news to affect the remaining soldiers.

He also wanted to ambush Levi with Jared's upgraded Deicide.

That was why, other than those in the Warzone, no one else knew about what happened in the West.

"We still have a shot at winning this war. First, we take Oakland City down, then we'll have Jared kill Levi off in the East Warzone. That way, when we break through, we'd be able to coordinate with our men, who would already be inside the city. Erudia will still fall, and we will still win," said Bruce before he prayed, "I pray to the heaven above. Please... let there be no more surprises."

That was their last hope of winning the war.

"Mr. Bruce, the five hundred martial artists we sent are nearing Oakland City. Shall I give the order to attack?"

"Yes!" ordered Bruce.

All five hundred martial artists took off.

They entered Oakland City from different locations.

The Triple Group truly united and was going to deliver the most devastating blow to Floyd and the others.

"Kill them!"

The fighters of every organization were sent out.

In total, there were about two hundred Rank Six fighters and over three thousand Rank Five fighters.

That was everything they had.

Turned out, many had been hiding their aces up their sleeves and had been lying the entire time.

No one wanted to risk everything they had.

Hence, they were reluctant to send their Rank Five and Rank Six fighters to the battlefield.

Heck, even their Rank Four fighters were hidden away.

That was why the East Warzone hadn't fallen.

Floyd and his men couldn't last that long if the Triple Group had been honest with each other from the beginning.

At that moment, Jared was using all of his weapons, but he kept the upgraded Deicide aside.

They wanted to make it so that Floyd and the others couldn't even catch their breath.

We will kill them all in one go.

It was as if he was a deity from heaven.

Boom!

The land shook like a bomb had gone off when Levi landed.

An Earthquake ensued, and a terrifying aura spread out.

The allied army stumbled a few hundred meters backward.

Levi fell from the sky, and it was as if he was a gift from heaven.

He stood there and faced the army all on his own.

There was no sign of fear on his face.

Instead, a small grin crept up, and he commanded, “You will not take another step forward with me here. I command every single one of you to surrender right away or I will kill you!”

He was on his own. Yet, he demanded the entire army to surrender.

How powerful did a man have to be to have that confidence?

“Hell yeah! That is so cool, Master,” shouted Floyd.

The others cheered loudly as well.

The allied army of Ruling Union was completely flabbergasted.

What the f*ck? Is he telling us to surrender even though he is alone while we have an army with us? Is that guy crazy or is he just plain stupid?

“Deicide Eighty-eight in position!”

It didn't take long before over a hundred Deicide were in position and aiming at Levi.

"I want everyone to clear the way in ten seconds and leave Levi Garrison completely exposed!" commanded Jared.

"Now!" ordered Jared when the timing was right.

The allied army suddenly parted.

As promised, they were gone within ten seconds, and Levi was completely exposed on the field.

He was the bull's eye that the Deicide were aiming at.

Levi sensed something at that moment.

He felt like hundreds of pairs of eyes were locked on him, and it got him uncomfortable.

He wanted to leave, but he couldn't, because there was nowhere to flee.

Floyd and his men knew exactly what was happening.

"Oh, shoot! The Deicide! They're probably using the Deicide against Master."

"This is crap. Master, run!"

Floyd and his men quickly shouted to warn Levi.

Unfortunately, they were too late.

Deicide had tracking software and being locked in while standing in the middle of an empty field was equivalent to death.

Levi was still struggling on the field.

The Deicide was ridiculously powerful and almost destroyed the place.

Worse still, it was all just the beginning.

They finally installed the energizer into the upgraded Deicide.

There were only eight upgraded Deicide in total.

Their production was more costly and required more resources.

The danger involved was also higher because the upgraded energizers were less stable.

However, those Deicides were several times more destructive than their predecessors.

It was difficult to control them, and the technology behind it was more advanced.

The Ruling Union was actually worried that they might make a mistake and cause the energizer to self-destruct. That would deliver a devastating blow to their own people.

It was also why Jared was nervous.

Would the upgraded Deicide actually work?

No one really knew, and they were about to find out on that battlefield.

“All eight upgraded Deicide are ready and in position.”

It didn’t take long before all the Deicides locked in on Levi.

“Fire! Exhaust all the energizers. There is no way he can survive this,” roared Jared.

They only had eighty energizers for the upgraded Deicide because its production was too complex.

Boom! Boom! Boom!

However, all eighty energizers were fired simultaneously, so the remaining thirteen shots missed their target after Levi disappeared.

The spot where Levi stood, however, was in shambles.

It was in such a bad shape that it looked like the set of an apocalypse movie.

“He’s gone. Levi Garrison is dead! We did it. We did it!”

The Ruling Union cheered together.

They celebrated as if they had already won the war.

Jared, in particular, howled, “There is no more Levi Garrison, and I am the only king in Erudia. My name, Jared Schmidt, shall be in the history books!”

Everyone stared at Jared in astonishment.

No one could’ve guessed it, but an ordinary guy like Jared turned out to be the most important player in the field. He turned the situation around for them.

Who could’ve imagined it?

Levi was strong. He destroyed most of the Ruling Union’s forces when he defeated them in the West Warzone.

Hell, he even crushed Rank Five and Rank Six fighters like they were ants.

The voice came from the sky, and it felt as if the deities from heaven had issued that warning.

The allied army stopped short.

Floyd and his men bulged their eyes as well. They looked at the sky.

Does this mean that Levi is still alive?

That thought ran past everyone there.

“No way? How can he still be alive?”

Jared was so scared that he was sweating bullets, and his lips were pale.

Everyone was still reeling in the fear that Levi instilled into them earlier.

He is too terrifying.

Boom! Boom!

A loud noise echoed from both sides of the battlefield.

The two teams of horsemen totaled to just a little over ten thousand men, but one should not underestimate them.

Every single one of them turned to a killing machine as soon as they fought.

The allied army never had a chance.

All that was left for them to do was die.

The horsemen acted like they were having a competition of which team would kill the most enemies.

Every single one of them killed like they were insane...

It was a merciless and quick battle.

With the energizers depleted, Jared had no choice but to watch as his soldiers fell one after another.

They had nothing left to retaliate with.

The battle was over quickly, and almost every soldier of the allied army died by their hands.

The Eragon’s power was freakishly terrifying.

They disappeared without a trace after they defeated the Ruling Union.

It was as if they were never there in the first place.

Lee Jong-guk, Jared, and the other top members fled Erudia before they were attacked by Eragon.
