Hannah grabbed Gabriel's arm and said. "Gabriel, you can go on a date with Gina anytime you want, but Jasmine's condition is really not good now. The doctor said that she has a tendency to commit suicide. Her only wish is for you to visit her. Can't you even agree to this little request? A life is at stake."

David did not expect his unintentional report to cause such a huge commotion. He looked at Gabriel apologetically. Gabriel said, "Wait for me downstairs first."

David nodded. "Yes."

Hannah was still accusing Gabriel, "Gabriel, I'll be frank. Jasmine basically helped you and Gina avoid the accident. If not for her, you guys would probably... You can't be so heartless."

Gabriel's expression was still cold. After Hannah vented her anger, she was afraid that Gabriel would be angry. She pursed her lips and did not know what to say to ease the atmosphere.

Unexpectedly, Gabriel only said calmly, "Wait for me to make a call."

Hannah heaved a sigh of relief. "Alright, alright."

Gabriel called Gina. "Gina, I'm sorry. I can't pick you up. I have something on."

"Okay. Gina didn't think there was any problem."

Hannah rolled her eyes and suddenly said loudly, "Gabriel, are you done explaining? Let's hurry up and see Jasmine. Jasmine really misses you."

Gabriel did not expect Hannah to be so deliberate. His expression immediately darkened. He did not intend to hide it from Gina, but it was not Hannah's place to interrupt.

Sensing Gabriel's displeasure, Hannah avoided Gabriel's cold gaze.

On the other end of the line, Gina was silent for a moment, but she did not mind it. "Go and visit her."

"Alright. I'll look for you after I visit her," Gabriel said.

Gina said, "Okay"

Gabriel hung up the phone. Hannah became a little nervous. She was worried that Gabriel would get angry at her, but Gabriel did not react at all. He only said coldly. "Let's go."

Hannah heaved a sigh of relief and followed him to the garage.

She drove by herself. Gabriel sat in his car. David, who was sitting in the driver's seat, apologized, "Mr. Jackson, I'm sorry. I didn't know she was here."

"It's okay. It's not your fault. Drive. Go to Vegate Central Hospital"

David said, "Yes."

They arrived at the hospital.

Gabriel pulled a long face all the way.

Before entering the ward, Hannah instructed, "Mr. Jackson, Jasmine's emotions are unstable and her physical condition is not good. Hope that you can be more polite to her. Now, she can't be agitated"

"Okay" Gabriel nodded and walked into the ward.

Jasmine had massive internal bleeding. It could be said that she had a close shave with death. She was weak all over and pale like a sheet of paper, Jasmine had many comminuted fractures, but what pained Jasmine the most was the cut on her face that was caused by glass shards. Although her face was wrapped in gauze and the wound could not be seen, she knew very well that she must have been disfigured,

When Jasmine saw Gabriel, her eyes lit up. "Gabriel?"

But soon, Jasmine felt that everything in front of her was an illusion. "No, how could Gabriel come to see me? He won't come. He only cares about Gina. He doesn't care whether I'm alive or dead at all. I've become ugly now. Gabriel won't even look at me. I have no will to live anymore. Let me die! Let me die!"

Jasmine broke down and started crying.

Gabriel said indifferently, "You're not dreaming."

Jasmine was stunned and looked up at him. "Gabriel, you.... you're really here?"

However, before Jasmine could rejoice about it, she became agitated again. "Don't look at me! Don't look at me! I'm ugly now. You'll definitely despise me. I don't want you to remember how ugly I look now. Don't look at me."

Gabriel said patiently, I'm here to visit you. If you're fine, I'm leaving. Rest well and get well soon."

Gabriel turned around and was about to leave. Jasmine shouted agitatedly, 'Gabriel, don't go! I'm begging you. Stay with me. Stay with me. I can't live without you."

Jasmine struggled to get up with all her strength. She wanted to hop Gabriel with her sickly body.

She endured the pain and moved her body a little, almost falling off the bed. Fortunately, Gabriel heard the commotion and turned around. He grabbed Jasmine's arm to support her but touched her wound.

Jasmine shouted in pain, "It hurts!"

Gabriel immediately let go after supporting her.

However, that instant of contact made Jasmine very happy. She knew that if she continued to cry and make a scene, Gabriel would definitely get impatient. While Gabriel still had some patience with her, she had to seize the opportunity to close distance between them.

She said, "Gabriel, you don't have to blame yourself. Although you hurt me, I can still tolerate this pain. I will listen to and take good care of my body. I will get well soon. If you visit me every day, I will recover faster."

"I don't have that much free time."

Gabriel's words weren't too harsh.

Jasmine thought, 'If Gina were the one lying in this hospital bed and unable to move, he would have time, right?

Jasmine gritted her teeth and said, "Gabriel, Mom said I had the accident in your stead. Her heart ached for me, but I don't regret it. I feel happy that I could help you avoid the accident. Jasmine asked, "I just want you to visit me every day. Can't you fulfill this small request? Am I being unreasonable?"

If it were any other time, Gabriel would have mercilessly rebuke Jasmine until she was speechless. However, Gabriel was that cold-blooded now. He still had basic compassion for Jasmine. "I can take the time to come, but I'm not a doctor. I can't help you recover faster. What you need is to see the doctor more.

Jasmine smiled bitterly. She knew that Gabriel was already being polite by speaking to her this way. "But as long as you're here sitting quietly by my bed and accompanying me, even if you're unwilling to say anything to me, my mood will improve when I see you. Being in a good mood will also help me recover, right?"

Gabriel had been enduring the urge to refute Jasmine. After a moment of silence, he finally hesitated and said, "Have a good rest first." Then, he turned around and left.

When Hannah saw Gabriel coming out so quickly, Hannah was a little worried. "Gabriel, I'm begging you. Can you accompany Jasmine for a while longer?"

I still have things to do,” Gabriel said coldly.

Hannah knew that Gabriel was referring to his date with Gina.

Hannah wanted to bow and beg Gabriel. Gabriel’s expression was still cold. He reached out to support Hannah and did not let her bow.

Hannah broke down. ‘Gabriel, how do I have to beg you so that you will stay?’

“Gabriel, why are you in such a hurry to leave?”

Neil came with his walking stick.

“I have an appointment with Gina, Gabriel said.

Hannah turned around and begged Neil, “Mr. Jackson, just let Gabriel stay and spend more time with Jasmine. Jasmine is my only precious daughter. If she dies, I won’t be able to live either. Gabriel doesn’t have to do anything. He just has to accompany Jasmine. Is this request unreasonable?”

“As for Miss Miller, Gabriel, does it matter if you spend one day less with her? Mr. Jackson, Jasmine is in this state now because she helped Gabriel avoid the accident.”

Neil felt that what Hannah said made sense. “Calm down first. I get Gabriel to stay and accompany Jasmine.”

With Neil’s assurance, Hannah was relieved and stopped crying,

Neil instructed, “Gabriel, inform Gina about it.”

Gabriel understood that Neil cared about the relationship between the Jackson and Bush families but was worried that Jasmine would get the wrong idea about his non-romantic companionship and think she still had a chance.

However, the situation this time was a little special.

Gabriel’s mood became bad. He was going to miss his appointment.

He called Gina on the phone. "Cina."

"Are

you

done visiting so soon? I'm on my way home. Do you want to... have a meal together?"
Gina took the initiative to invite Gabriel.

At that moment, Gabriel really wanted to say yes without a care, but he couldn't.

"I'm sorry, Gina. I have to.... stay in the hospital. Jasmine is not in a good mood. Her family wants me to stay in the hospital." Gabriel's tone was a little depressed.

Neil gestured for Gabriel to pass the phone to him. Neil took the call. "Gina, it's me. I asked Gabriel to stay and accompany Jasmine. Don't worry, Jasmine is like Gabriel's younger sister. He's just taking care of a younger sister. There's no other reason.

On the other end of the line, Gina replied, "Yes, okay?"

She knew that Gabriel did not love Jasmine at all, but the Jackson and Bush families had been friends for many years. If Gabriel did not stay and accompany Jasmine, it would seem he was uncompassionate.

Neil was a little emotional. "Gina, I'm sorry. It's been hard on you

Gina did not think much of it. "I don't feel aggrieved, Neil:

Hannah thought, What's there for Gina to be aggrieved about?"

Hannah sneered inwardly and interrupted again, "Miss Miller, do you really feel aggrieved? After all, you and Gabriel aren't a formal couple. You're not his girlfriend. What right do you have to restrict his freedom? Didn't Jasmine know Gabriel before you did?"

Neil frowned at Hannah and said unhappily, "Gina is my savior. If you respect me, I hope you can give Gina the respect she Hannah was a little indignant, but she could not bicker with Neil I'm sorry. I was too emotional for a moment. Miss Miller, actually, I have something to discuss with you.

On the other end of the line, Gina asked, "What is it?"

"I know that Prover Hospital has better medical resources. I hope you can make an exception and arrange for Jasmine to stay in Prover Hospital for treatment. After all, Jasmine had the accident in your stead. We will pay the medical fees as usual. You just have to arrange it."

Neil also hoped that Jasmine could recover as soon as possible. This way, Jasmine would have no reason to pester Gabriel. Neil did not want Jasmine to affect the relationship between Gabriel and Gina.

Hence, Neil s

said, "Gina, can you make an exception? I also want to ask you to do it as a favor for me. okay?"

Gina did not want to refuse Neil's request.

"Okay"

This was also the only time she had gone against her own principles.

"Thank you. Thank you, Gina," Neil said.

"Neil, don't mention it, Gina replied.

Hannah heaved a sigh of relief. Jasmine could finally go to Prover Hospital for treatment.

After hanging up, Neil looked at Gabriel and said, "Go in and accompany Jasmine."

Gabriel could not hide the reluctance on his face, but he still walked into Jasmine's ward.

Meanwhile, Jasmine was already in tears. She was screaming at the top of her lungs..

When she heard footsteps, her first reaction was to tell the people who came in to get out. "Get lost, all of you. I don't want to see anyone. I won't eat or drink. I want to go on a hunger strike don't want to live anymore."

Hannah's heart ached when she saw her precious daughter in pain. She ran to the bed and looked at Jasmine with tears in her eyes 'Baby, can you not be like this? You haven't eaten or drunk for a day, and you're crying so hard. You don't have any strength left, right? If this continues, you will collapse.

"How are you going to recover? Also, stop crying Gabriel is back to accompany you. He won't leave. Mom has already told iam to accompany you until you recover

Gabriel frowned. He did not make such a promise

Just as he was about to retort, Neil shook his head at him, indicang that he should not provoke the agitated Jasmine.

Hannah answered for him, "Of course, Neil already said that he will let Gabriel accompany you. Don't worry."

Jasmine was overjoyed. "Okay. My good Mom, I'm hungry. I want to eat.

Hannah nodded. "Okay, okay, okay, I will get someone to prepare the food for you."

With Neil present. Jasmine felt embarrassed because of her agitated shouting just now, which left a bad impression on Neil. "Neil, I'm sorry. I must have scared you just now, right? I just really want Gabriel to accompany me. Now that I'm injured and lying on the bed like a paralyzed person, I really can't control my emotions. Neil, you won't laugh at me, right?"

Neil didn't know whether to laugh or cry but still went along with her. "Of course not, but Jasmine, you have to keep your emotions stable. Take good care of yourself and get well soon. By then, come to my house and I'll treat you to a meal"

Jasmine agreed.

Chapter 233

Chapter 233

Hannah got someone to bring the hot food over.

Jasmine could not help but push her luck. "Gabriel, can you feed me?"

Gabriel's expression was already very gloomy. Hannah said, "Jasmine, when has Gabriel ever served anyone? Don't mess around. I will feed you."

Hannah was afraid that Jasmine did not understand. She winked at Jasmine, hinting at her not to go overboard. If Gabriel turned hostile and left, no matter how much Jasmine cried, she could not make him come back.

Jasmine understood the hint and immediately stopped pushing her luck. She ate obediently.

Hannah was finally relieved. She said, "Baby, you will be transferred to Prover Hospital tonight. The medical resources there are good, and the doctors are more professional. I believe you will recover soon.

Jasmine thought. But isn't that Gina's hospital?"

Jasmine threw a tantrum again.

"I don't want to go to Prover Hospital. I don't care about Prover Hospital's medical resources. What's so great about Gina opening a hospital? Aren't private hospitals something that can be opened with money?"

"Mom, let's discuss this with Dad someday. I want to open a private hospital too," Jasmine said.

Gabriel, who had been silent for a long time, finally spoke, "Since you're unwilling to go. I'll call Gina and tell her there's no need to make arrangements. There's no need to trouble her and waste her time."

Hannah instantly panicked. "Gabriel, don't, don't Jasmine is insensible. She's spouting nonsense."

She hurriedly said to Jasmine, "Silly child, don't you want to get treated as soon as possible and go to Neil's house for a meal?"

She reminded Jasmine again to stop acting willful.

However, Gabriel was already prepared to make the call. Jasmine hurriedly changed her words. "I want to get better as soon as possible. I'll go to Prover Hospital for treatment. I'll go."

"Didn't you say you weren't going?" Gabriel's expression was cold. His patience with Jasmine was limited.

I've changed my mind. I want to get better as soon as possible. After Jasmine said that, she started coughing agitatedly.

Neil was also speechless at Jasmine's willful personality, "Alright, alright. your younger sister,

Gabriel, as an older brother, you should give in

Neil indirectly expressed that Gabriel treated Jasmine as a little sister he had known for many years.

Jasmine was not stupid. She could tell what Neil meant. She retorted, "But I don't want to be siblings with Gabriel."

Hannah had a headache. Neil was trying to give Jasmine a way out. Not only did Jasmine not go along with it, but she even wanted to reject it.

Hannah wanted to say something to ease the atmosphere.

Neil spoke first. "If you don't want to be siblings, then according to seniority, you should call Gabriel Uncle Gabriel along with Ethan. Why don't you call Gabriel Uncle Gabriel in the future and be Gabriel's godniece? What do you think?"

Hannah's expression changed from worry to embarrassment.

Neil was playing dumb. It also showed that he had no intention of letting Jasmine become his daughter-in-law.

Hannah could not understand how her precious daughter was inferior to Gina.

When Gabriel heard what Neil said, his expression softened a little. He was almost amused.

Jasmine's mood became extremely low.

She still wanted to retort, but Hannah winked at her again.

Jasmine could only say reluctantly. Then... it's better to be siblings. Anyway, Gabriel is not much older than me."

Mason arrived at Olivia's rental apartment. Unlike before, his expression was grim.

Olivia was a little surprised after she opened the door.

"It's late. Why are you here?"

"Is ten o'clock very late? Also, Olivia, aren't I already your boyfriend? Can't I even step into your house at night? I rented this house for you.

Olivia thought, Is he complaining?"

Olivia was a little surprised and impatient. "Alright, come in."

After Mason entered, he asked, 'Olivia, you... you didn't tell Ethan that I was the one who knocked him out, right?'

Olivia thought, "It turns out you're worried about that

Olivia was a little surprised. "No, I didn't betray you. Besides, had I told Ethan, would you still be fine?"

Mason felt that what Olivia said made sense. "Why didn't you call the police when he hit you?"

Olivia smiled speechlessly. "Had I called the police, wouldn't Ethan bear a grudge against me and find an opportunity to teach me a lesson? Or can you protect me if he teaches me a lesson in the future?"

Mason's face turned red.

Olivia wanted to see Mason out. "Alright, if there's nothing else, hurry up and leave. I'm tired and want to sleep. I've been busy looking for a job all day. I'm tired.

"Didn't you say I can't stay in the rental apartment all day without finding work? I need to support myself after all. I followed your advice. When I find a well-paid job, I won't need you to support me anymore. I can also pay the rent myself."

Olivia was completely exaggerating. She did not spend much effort on finding a job. She only saw that Quaria was recruiting recently and wanted to give it a try..

Mason finally exploded with anger. “Are you still unable to forge Ethan? Do you still want to get back together with him? Olivia, you still haven’t given up. Are you still dreaming of being a rich man’s wife?”

When Olivia heard those words, she was in disbelief. “Mason, are you crazy? When did you see me yearning for Ethan and unwilling to part with him?”

She did not want a scumbag like Ethan even if he threw himself at her.

Ethan had even hit her a few times. She just wanted to hit him back to take revenge. Unless she was hit silly by Ethan, otherwise she could not possibly still have the intention to marry him.

However, Mason refused to let it go. “You’re lying. He hit you. You didn’t call the police because you couldn’t bear to. Moreover, you didn’t call the police and even let him stay overnight. He only left at midnight. What exactly did you do in this rental apartment? Tell me,”

Olivia was baffled. She did not remember what time Ethan left. Why was Mason imagining things and sounding so certain about it?

Olivia was confused. "Why do you think I'm still attached to Ethan? That day, you didn't leave after knocking Ethan out?"

Olivia thought about it but could not figure out who the kind-hearted person was. She probed.

"Is Andy, my neighbor across the door the kind-hearted person who told you that you've been cheated on?"

Mason did not expect Olivia to guess it correctly right away. However, he had promised Andy not to disclose him.

Olivia wanted to laugh when she saw Mason's expression.

"It's him. Am I right?"

"You guessed it yourself. I didn't say it," Mason said stubbornly.

Olivia was so angry that she wanted to laugh. If not for the fact that this idiot was still useful, she really wanted to kick him as far away as possible..

"Let me tell you, Andy wanted to woo me. I said that I already had a boyfriend, and rejected him. He tried to sleep with me in the middle of the night but was scolded by me. He was indignant and started to spread rumors about me."

"Really?"

Mason obviously could not believe Olivia just because of a few words. After all, Olivia had cheated on Ethan before.

Olivia was impatient. She called Ethan directly and said, "Ethan, I want to get back together with you."

On the other end of the line, Ethan cursed, "Are you crazy? Get lost as far as you can. Don't disgust me. You're not worthy."

With that, he hung up.

"Can you believe it now?" Olivia asked.

Mason lowered his head. "I have another question."

Olivia said, "Tell me."

Mason asked, "Olivia, why did you ask me to buy rat poison that day?"

Olivia's heart skipped a beat. She wondered why Mason would ask that out of nowhere.

"What do you mean? Of course, the rat poison was for the rats. What else could it be used for?"

"Really? Your neighbor told me to break up with you as soon as possible because you offended someone you shouldn't have, and that person is Cina, the director of Prover Hospital

"Andy said that they were suspected because they interacted with you. Was that why you asked me to buy the rat poison? Was it to poison Gina?"

Olivia's eyes widened. She did not expect Mason, this wretched bootlicker, to be so good at making connections.

She immediately denied it. "Of course not."

Mason smiled bitterly and shook his head. "Don't lie to me. Do you think I'm a fool?"

Olivia thought, 'Aren't you?"

Olivia really wanted to say that but held it in.

"Don't make baseless assumptions. This matter indeed has nothing to do with me."

"Is that so? Then I'll look for Gina now and tell her that you asked me to buy rat poison. Let's see how she will react," Mason stood and said.

What Olivia was most afraid of had happened. Olivia screamed, Stop right there, Mason! Are you trying to kill me? Didn't you say you like me and have loved me for a long time? Why are you doing this to me?"

Olivia said hysterically, "I thought that in this world, you're the only one who's sincere to me. In the end, are you going to let me down too?"

Indeed, in this world, only dead people could keep secrets. Olivia even had the urge to kill Mason.

Mason grabbed Olivia's shoulder. "I didn't want to, but you forced me to. There are too many men around you. I'm your boyfriend. I can't stand it."

He smiled bitterly. "As your boyfriend, I feel aggrieved. I spent money on you and took the blame for you, but in the end, you won't even let me touch you."

Olivia revealed a mocking smile. After saying so much, in the end, it was just because of such a trivial matter.

She had had enough of watching this cowardly man act.

But she was really afraid that Mason would go to Gina.

"Then are you willing to keep the secret of buying the rat poison for me? Mason, there's a crisis of trust between us because of you. If you can't guarantee it, how can I be at ease? I even feel that our relationship is about to end. How can we still have intimate contact?"

Mason said, "Olivia, of course, I'm willing. I love you. I can't bear to see you being tormented by that b*tch, Gina. But I don't feel your affection for me. I really feel that you don't treat me as your boyfriend."

"Of course, I treat you as any boyfriend. What foolish thing are you saying?" Olivia took the initiative to hug Mason

"I was let down by those men. They appeared to love me very much, but when I encountered difficulties or conflicted with their interests, they abandoned me without hesitation.

"That's why I can't accept having sex with you so quickly. I hope you can cherish me more. People say that the easier it is to get something, the less you cherish it.

"I know I've done a lot of wrong things in the past, but I really want to settle down and live my life well now. Mason, are you willing to believe me? If you're willing to believe me, I plan to spend the rest of my life with you."

Olivia's tone became unusually gentle.

Mason was lost in her rare gentleness. He believed her

She didn't even want to stay in the same rental apartment as Mason.

"Hey, why aren't you sleeping in the middle of the night? What are you doing? You can't sleep? Are you lonely? Do you want me to accompany you?"

Olivia glanced sideways at Andy. "You're the one who told tales to my boyfriend, right?"

Andy admitted, "Told tales? Isn't what I told him the truth? There was originally another man who left your house in the middle of the night. What else could have happened in Gina was a little embarrassed. "It's just occasionally. When I'm busy, I don't have time to miss you."

"It's good that you miss me occasionally."

The two of them did not cuddle for long before Hannah poked her head out of Jasmine's ward. The moment Hannah saw Gina, alarm bells rang in Hannah's head. She shouted, "Gabriel, Jasmine is awake and wants you to accompany her."

Gabriel ignored Hannah.

He didn't want to be disturbed by anyone right now, especially Jasmine.

Hannah came forward indignantly. "Miss Miller, are you here to visit Jasmine? If so, why are you standing here? Go in and take a look at Jasmine. After all, Jasmine got injured in your stead, didn't she?"

Gina was not annoyed. She said calmly, "It doesn't matter whether I visit her. The point is, Miss Bush won't want to see me. For the sake of your daughter's physical and mental health, I think it's better not to visit her. Mrs. Bush, what do you think?"

Hannah felt a little embarrassed.

She thought, "This little bi*ch has a sharp tongue.

Hannah put on a fake smile. "Why wouldn't Jasmine want to see you? Jasmine might have had a conflict with you in the past, but after her life was on the line, she became indifferent to many things. In addition, during this period of time, with Gabriel's careful care, her emotions are very stable and she won't be agitated."

"The caretaker is the one taking care of your daughter, not me," Gabriel said calmly.

Although Gabriel visited Jasmine every day, he always sat far away on the sofa more than six feet away from the bed. When Jasmine spoke to him, he would pretend to be deaf and mute. When Jasmine started to throw a tantrum and said he ignored her, he would use his busy work to brush her off.

There was no way he could take good care of Jasmine.

Hannah said those words deliberately to anger Gina. However, it seemed that Gina did not take Hannah's words to heart at all.

Hannah, was a little embarrassed Gabriel was really on the same side as Gina. He had already put her in an awkward position when he and Gina hadn't even started dating formally. If Gina really married Gabriel, Gabriel would be so obedient to Gina.

"Since Mrs. Bush said my appearance won't agitate Miss Bush, I can visit her.

Gabriel held Gina's hand and said, "Let's go."

It just so happened that Gina was here. He would take this opportunity to let Jasmine know that he only loved Gina and could not love anyone else.

Hannah looked at them holding hands. She was anxious but could not say anything. She was afraid that she would make Gabriel unhappy. Then, Gabriel would drop all pretense of cordiality and refuse to accompany and take care of Jasmine. With Gabriel's company these days, Jasmine's physical condition was visibly recovering quickly..

Compared to before when she could only lie down and stay still, Jasmine could at least lean against the headboard for a while now.

Hannah suddenly regretted asking Gina to visit Jasmine. However, she also hoped that Gina would visit Jasmine because she felt that this was what Gina should do.

Gabriel pushed the door open and entered. When Jasmine, who was leaning against the headboard, saw Gabriel, her eyes lit up. However, when she realized that Gabriel was holding Gina's hand, she instantly broke down. "Gina, why are you here?"

"Your mother wanted me to visit you, so I came, Gina said.

Jasmine thought, 'How is that possible? Mom clearly knows that hate Gina the most. This b*tch must have done it on purpose and deliberately. Gina is dressed beautifully because she wants to make a comparison with me and let Gabriel think that she is more beautiful, right?"

Jasmine gritted her teeth. "You Get out. I want Gabriel to accompany me. Let go. Let go of Gabriel."

Gabriel frowned and tightened his grip on Gina's hand

"What right do you have to ask that of Gina? Jasmine, enough is enough."

Gabriel's expression darkened.

Hannah rushed in and quickly sat by the bed. "Jasmine, my precious daughter, didn't I tell you not to be agitated or cry? When the tears touch the wound on your face, it will hurt."

Jasmine exploded with anger and glared at Gina. "It's all your fault that I became this way!"

Hannah glanced at Gina at that moment, her eyes brimming with barely concealed anger and displeasure.

Gina said indifferently, "If you hadn't insisted on following our car that day and you hadn't tried to overtake us to stop our car, none of this would have happened."

Jasmine's eyes widened in shock. "What are you saying? Are you saying it's my fault?"

Gina's expression remained unchanged. "I didn't mean that. It's just that one reaps what one sows. Adults should be prepared to take responsibility for their actions, or else pay the price.

"Ah!" Jasmine screamed. "You're talking nonsense. It's you who's to blame! It's you!"

Hannah was also surprised that Gina would say such a thing. "Gina, are you doing this on purpose? You're deliberately provoking Jasmine. How could you be so malicious? Jasmine's health has just started to improve!"

"I'm just speaking the truth, Gina said.

Hannah was on the verge of exploding with anger, and she looked at Gabriel in disbelief. "Gabriel, you too, say something, will you?"

Is he just going to watch Jasmine fall apart?" Hannah wondered.

Gabriel said indifferently, "What should I say?"

www

Hannah was even more shocked and thought to herself, 'Is Gabriel not considering the friendship between the two families at all? Jasmine is falling apart, her heart torn to pieces, and he doesn't tell Gina to stop!"

Jasmine was ranting and raving, cursing, and Gina, finding it too noisy, turned to leave, releasing Gabriel's hand. "I'll go first.

I'll go too, Gabriel took Gina's hand again.

But Hannah didn't want Gabriel to leave. She stepped forward and grabbed Gabriel's arm. "Gabriel, you can't leave with Jasmine in this state. If you leave, Jasmine will be even more painful. Can't you stay and accompany her?"

Seeing g that Gabriel didn't want to pay attention to her, Hannah looked at Gina. "Miss Miller, I was wrong to speak out of tur just now. It was my fault. Please don't be angry. Can you let Gabriel stay?"

Gina turned her head and gave her a faint look. "Whether he wants to go or stay is his personal choice and not something control.

"You don't have to beg me."

Hannah gasped. Gina was really sharp-tongued. She couldn't argue with her, so Hannah had no choice but to plead with Gabriel again.

"Just stay a little longer, just a few minutes, please? I'm begging you!" Hannah looked on the verge of tears, her demeanor humble.

Gabriel felt that Jasmine was pushing her luck. He had been making time to come and keep her company every day.

Yet, she continued to make excessive demands, even though Gabriel had always ignored her unreasonable requests.

But he thought that if he stayed now, it would give Jasmine the fusion that he was compromising and accommodating her.

So Cabriel said firmly, "I need to go back to the office to handle me official business. Honestly, making time to come here every day is a significant waste of my rest time"

Chapter 236

With the conversation at this point, Hannah could no longer bring herself to plead with Gabriel. Gina left the ward first, and Gabriel followed.

Jasmine was crying her heart out, and Hannah was at a loss, not daring to embrace her suffering daughter for fear of touching her broken bones and causing her more pain,

Hannah said, "Jasmine, don't cry. Trust me. One day, I will make that bi*ch Gina kneel down and apologize to you! Trust me. I will also definitely help you become Gabriel's wife!"

Upon hearing the last sentence, Jasmine's wailing turned into sobs, and she asked doubtfully, "Mom, will you really make me

Gabriel's wife?"

"At all costs. Hannah's gaze was resolute.

Gina, who had left the hospital, had intended to part ways with Gabriel. "Aren't you going to deal with the company affairs?"

Gabriel shook his head with a smile. "I just didn't want to stay there any longer.

"Can I accompany you for a while?" Gabriel asked.

"Sure."

Gabriel and Gina went home together.

Once home, they sat on the sofa.

You said you were going to Oriata City to handle things. Have you planned when to set off again?" Gabriel asked.

Gina looked up at him. "Didn't you promise to go with me?"

Gabriel immediately felt apologetic. "My fault, I'll try to free up my schedule in the next couple of days to go with you."

"Is your business in Oriata City urgent?"

With Michael holding the fort, it was actually not a big deal.

"No rush, but it's true that I've been delayed for a week already. Otherwise, you don't have to accompany me. I can go by myself."

Gabriel instantly became anxious, grabbing Gina's hand. "Are you angry with me??"

Gina looked surprised and said, "Why would I be angry with your Gabriel replied, "Because I delayed your trip to Oriata City and promised to go with you, but I caused you to be delayed

Gina smiled and said, 'I'm not angry, and there's no need to be upset about these things.

"After all, we didn't know that such an unexpected event would happen that day.

After feeling reassured, Gabriel continued, "During the days I was accompanying Jasmine, I didn't talk to her much."

Gina smiled. "Do you think I wouldn't trust you and thought that there's something between you and Jasmine?"

"No, I believe it's just because of the relationship between our families that you interact with her. At least, you think so on your side, right?"

Gabriel nodded solemnly "Of course

He was very pleased that Gina could understand him.

Chapter 236

The atmosphere was just right, and Gabriel changed the subject and asked, "Then would you be unhappy if I go to accompany her?"

Gina, who didn't like to lie, felt a bit shy. "Well... I do mind a bit, but we're not a couple yet, and I don't have the right to restrict your freedom."

Gina suddenly became serious. "If one day, you don't like me anymore, and you don't want to wait for me to finish dealing with the things I want to handle before considering a relationship with you, you can choose someone else."

"No, I don't want anyone else. Gina. I just want you."

Gabriel hugged Gina, and Gina also hugged Gabriel, her voice a bit hoarse as she said, "I'm sorry... I really haven't thought about it yet."

Gabriel nodded. "I understand. I understand everything, Gina. I'm willing to wait for you as long as it takes."

Gina closed her eyes, enjoying this moment of tranquil happiness.

One of the important reasons why she hadn't decided whether to start this romance was that she wasn't ready to embrace happiness, and even felt a bit apprehensive and afraid that such happiness would be fleeting, just like when she was adopted by a very loving couple...

Mason brought some delicious food to Olivia's rental apartment

He saw Olivia looking at the recruitment page of Quaria Jewelry and she was looking at it very seriously.

"Olivia, how's your job search going? I brought you some delicious crayfish. Eat first and then continue looking. Mason said.

After their lovemaking, Mason finally felt a sense of reality that Olivia was treating him like a boyfriend.

He became increasingly better to Olivia.

Olivia was still very impatient with him, but she would no longer refuse him on that matter.

After all, she was about to use Mason to make a big fortune.

Olivia swallowed her irritation and said, "I don't like to peel crayfish."

Mason immediately understood and said, "I'll peel them for you to eat!"

As he was peeling the shells, he occasionally glanced at Olivia.

Olivia continued to study the recruitment page of Quaria Jewelry

Mason hesitated for a moment and then said, "Olivia, are you planning to go for an interview at Quaria?"

Olivia gave a perfunctory hum in response.

Mason pondered for a moment and then spoke again. "Are you only considering Quaria? Haven't you looked at other companies? It's good to have a backup plan in case you don't get in."

Olivia looked at Mason. "What do you mean? Do you think I won't be hired by Quaria? Have you forgotten that I studied design, and I used to work in design at Miller Jewels? Do you think I can't do it?"

"Do you look down on me?"

Mason was shocked. It was the first time he saw Olivia react so defensively. "Olivia, calm down. I didn't mean anything else. After all, Quaria is a big company, and the competition is quite fierce..."

"So what if it's fierce? That's what makes it challenging! Do you think I definitely won't make it to the interview?" Olivia became more and more agitated as she spoke.

She was determined to prove to everyone that she also had a talent for design and could surpass Gina.

"Olivia, I really didn't mean it. I'm sorry. I was wrong. I'm clumsy with words. Can you not be angry with me?" Mason apologized, his tone extremely humble.

Chapter 237

Olivia sneered coldly. "Know what you must be thinking. Back then, the Miller Jewels' popular Wish collection was Gina's work, and I haven't achieved anything. You think I don't have any real talent, right?"

Mason was stunned. He wasn't aware of this matter. He didn't really follow Miller Jewels, let alone such internal affairs. After all, after Gina took all the profits from the Wish collection, she didn't announce that she was the real designer.

She just removed Olivia's name from it.

"But I will prove myself. I am capable. Quaria will recognize my abilities," Olivia said.

Mason didn't care about Olivia's ambitions. He was racking his brains, thinking about how to appease Olivia so she wouldn't break up with him.

"Mm-hmm, I believe in you, Olivia. You will definitely be able to establish yourself in Quaria, a top international brand, and in the future, you will be a well-known international designer!" Mason flattered.

Olivia knew Mason was trying to make her happy, but hearing such pleasant words was hard not to feel good about, and her anger dissipated quite a bit. Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

The reason she was so determined to work at Quaria had two aspects. First, she hoped to show the Miller family her design. ability, to tell them she was not inferior to Gina.

She could also design good works. Secondly, when she was still the future granddaughter-in-law of the Jackson family and Ethan's fiancée, Abbie always took the opportunity to mock her, saying that even if she became the design director at Miller Jewels, it was just playing around in her own comfort zone.

If she really had the ability, she would go to Quaria and prove herself.

Olivia remembered all of Abbie's sarcastic and cutting remarks vividly.

She couldn't forget them.

She wanted to strike back at everyone, including Gina, with a vengeance.

"I'll accompany you to the interview, Olivia, since it's in Oriata City" Mason offered.

"Sure." Olivia agreed readily.

Mason was surprised. "You agreed? You're not angry anymore?"

"No, I'm not angry. Also, there's something I want to tell you."

"What is it?" Mason asked, a mix of anticipation and worry in his voice. He was concerned that Olivia might ask him money again, and he truly didn't have any more to give. However, if Olivia did ask and he couldn't provide, he fear would look down on him, thinking he was not as good as Ethan.

Olivia took out two airplane tickets from her bag. "I plan to go to Oriata City for an interview next week, but before th want to take a trip abroad this weekend. Let's go together."

Seeing the two tickets in her hand, Mason was so excited he almost fainted. "Really? Olivia, we're going together?"

“Of course,” Olivia confirmed with certainty.

Mason smiled. “I understood.”

“Here, take care of these, and since I’ve bought the tickets, packing and all that, you’re in charge of arranging it, Olivia said somewhat lazily.

Olivia nodded, then as if thinking of something, she instructed Mason. “Oh, and you don’t need to book a hotel. I’ve already taken care of that.”

“Are we sharing a room?” Mason asked, a mix of anticipation and excitement in his voice.

Olivia felt disgusted by his excited expression, but the thought of not having to deal with Mason’s pathetic face after this trip, and not having to live in this shabby rental room anymore, made her feel much better. “Of course, we’re dating. Would we book two rooms?”

Mason was almost bursting with laughter. He was oblivious to the fact that he had been sold like a piglet by Olivia. “Yeah, I got it.”

Chapter 238

At Prover Hospital. Jasmine saw Gabriel coming to visit her as usual and instantly brightened up.

Last night, Hannah had spent a long time comforting Jasmine before she finally calmed down.

However, after the outburst of shouting, crying, and making a scene yesterday, her voice had become very hoarse.

“Gabriel, you’ve come to visit me. Thank you for taking such good care of me. You’ve worked hard these past ten days, and I’m very grateful,” Jasmine said in her raspy voice, reciting a speech that Hannah had coached her to say in front of Gabriel.

“I won’t be coming to visit anymore,” Gabriel said indifferently to Jasmine.

Jasmine’s eyes instantly lost their luster, and she couldn’t help but feel angry, to the point where she was shaking all over. “Why?”

“I don’t have that kind of free time.” Gabriel replied coldly.

If it were Gina lying here today, would he still say the same thing?

Jasmine kept reminding herself to stay calm. If she continued to act crazy, it would only make Gabriel like her less and less.

That would only serve Gina’s intentions, wouldn’t it?

“Okay, Gabriel, you don’t have to come to visit. Anyway, I’m not in any real danger now. I can take care of myself. You go ahead and get busy.”

Gabriel was a bit surprised by Jasmine's response.

But the fact that Jasmine was no longer clinging, crying, and making a scene was a good thing. Gabriel's expression softened a bit. "Hmm"

He gave a nonchalant response and then turned and left.

Hannah entered the ward shortly after, and Jasmine immediately started to cry with grievance. "Mom, Gabriel said he won't be coming to visit me anymore.

"It must be Gina causing trouble behind the scenes, making Gabriel not come to visit me."

Hannah hurried to comfort Jasmine. "Didn't I say? You need to change your relentless behavior in front of Gabriel. Me won't like a woman who's too much of a drama queen. Look at Gina. She appears to be light and breezy on the surface. good at playing hard to get, which is a clever way to manipulate a man's psychology.

"Then why do you insist on going to Oriata City?"

On the weekend. Mason was excited to travel abroad with Olivia,

After getting off the plane. Mason was a bit excited. “Olivia, thank you, this is my first time traveling abroad.”

Olivia was somewhat absent-minded. “As long as you’re happy.”

“Let’s go to the hotel first,” Olivia said.

Mason carried the luggage. “Alright.”

Arriving at the hotel, Mason was still immersed in the pleasure of traveling with Olivia.

He pushed open the hotel room door, imagining that he could spend a sweet night with Olivia in a foreign hotel tonight. and felt very happy.

But when he walked into the room, he found a man with blond hair and a mask sitting on the sofa,

“Then who is he?” Mason felt something was wrong, and his survival instinct made him want to run, but there were t other strong men hidden in the room who grabbed Mason and drugged him.

Seeing the unconscious Mason, Olivia felt a sense of relief and asked, “Dr. Jacquard, will he die?”

She secretly hoped he would die.

Olivia prayed in her heart.

Mason now knew her secret and had threatened her, intending to reveal the truth to Gina: Even though Mason did love Olivia had no mercy for him.

“No, the customer wants one of his kidneys, but whether he dies from infection is uncertain. After all, the medical conditions on our ship are not very sophisticated, Nicolas said with a sneer.

“But if he dies, wont that be troublesome for you?” he asked.

“Aren’t you going to help me deal with it?” Olivia was somewhat surprised.

Nicolas chuckled. “A nobody from the lower ranks, is he worth my effort?”

Olivia was startled and very surprised, but the grip of Nicola*'s hand grew tighter, making it impossible for her to speak.

She struggled to break free, pleading. "Spare me... spare... my life

Nicolas kept laughing, seemingly mocking Olivia's futile efforts. Who do you think you are, daring to investigate this matter?"

He released his grip, and Olivia fell to the ground, clutching her neck in fear. At that moment, she truly felt that Nicolas seemed intent on killing her. It would be such a grievance to be killed by him after just completing a deal for him. Was there anyone who would drop his benefactor as soon as her help was not required? Fortunately, when he let go, Olivia felt there was still hope for her to live.

"Why? Why can't I investigate? Was Mike... arranged by you?" Olivia was confused and wanted to get a clear understanding of the situation first.

"I know," Nicolas said indifferently. "Just keep him at bay. How you do it is up to you."

Nicolas said, "I'll transfer the payment to a card for you"

Transferring directly to Olivia's account would result in it being forcibly seized and returned to Gina.

Olivia's nerves, which had been taut, finally relaxed.

"Because you threatened me, Mason. You said you would tell Gira about the drug purchase. You know very well how terrible. my end would be if Gina found out about this. I can't trust you anymore. I had to betray you before you betrayed me."

Olivia smiled. "Then I wish your curse will take effect, okay? Also, you don't have to worry about your life from now on..."

Olivia took out a pack of mute medicine, poured it into a cup of water, pried open Mason's mouth, and fed it to him. "I will take good care of you."

"But your looks mean nothing."

Andy was instantly angered. "You dare to say that again. Don't think I won't hit a woman."

Olivia sneered. "Alright, if you don't believe I have a way to make money, forget it. I kindly wanted to help you earn some money so you don't have to work for the rest of your life, only receiving that pitiful salary every month, but if you don't appreciate it, then I can't help it. You've seen it. I'm moving, moving to a big house. Goodbye, we won't be neighbors anymore, Mr. Poor Guy."

After uttering her last words, Olivia felt an immense sense of relief and satisfaction. She had always known she was destined. for wealth and luxury. She was not meant to live a life of hardship. Finally, through her own efforts, she achieved the lifestyle she desired.

Andy was skeptical, calling out to Olivia who was about to leave, "What money-making scheme? Last time you stopped mid-sentence, and I thought you were just blutting."

"Why don't you ask me then? Andy, for making money, do I have to beg you? Are you out of your mind? I've put the opportunity right in front of you, and if you can't seize it, that just shows how foolish you are, Olivia said disdainfully.

Hearing Olivia berate him like that was really frustrating. Andy wanted to lash out, but he decided to press on with his questions. "Then tell me. What kind of scheme is it? Olivia, if you're deceiving me, I won't let you off the hook."

Gabriel finally had the chance to accompany Gina to Oriata City Cina, what brings you to Oriata City? Can you tell me

"Business"

"Business? Whose company?" Gabriel was somewhat surprised.

"Quaria Jewelry."

A flicker of astonishment crossed Gabriel's eyes, but he quickly took in the information. It was normal for someone as outstanding as Gina to have another identity.

"Quaria Jewelry has always been managed by Michael. It's about time I came back to check on things."

Gabriel nodded in understanding.

"I'll accompany you," Gabriel said. "I'll drop you off at the company first, then I'll go back to the hotel."

"Please book a room for me." Gina suddenly said.

Gabriel was a bit surprised. "Gina, I thought you had a home in Oriata City, so I only booked a room for myself at the hotel"

"There is a house, but... Gina cleared her throat. "I don't want to stay there."

It was so boring living alone in a big, empty house.

Gabriel smiled. "Alright, I'll book a room right next to mine. How's that?"

"Sounds good,"

Gabriel dropped Gina off at the Quaria building.

"I'll pick you up when you get off work."

"Okay" Gina waved to Gabriel and turned to enter the Quaria building.

She didn't let Michael announce her identity and return, and she naturally blended into the crowd.

Passersby would occasionally stop to look at her because of her gold and beautiful face,

Her phone rang, and Gina saw it was a call from Michael. She walked to a quiet safety passage to answer the call.

Inside the safety passage, a smell of smoke wafted through the air, causing Gina to frown as she answered the call.

"Gina, have you arrived at Quana? How about we have dinner together tonight? It's been a while since we last got together,"

If it weren't for Gina's request for him not to personally greet her wanting to inspect the company discreetly, he could have met Gina sooner. To restrain his urge to go find Gina, Michael had not even gone to the company today.

"Sure, can I bring someone along?"

Gina's inquiry made Michael's spirits instantly plummet.

He didn't want to be a spoilsport. "Is it Gabriel?"

“Yes.”

“If you don’t feel like it. I won’t invite him.”

Michael let out a soft, bitter chuckle. It’s fine. Let’s have dinner together.”

“Okay.” After hanging up the phone, Gina left the safety passage.

She continued to inspect various departments.

Upon arriving at the marketing department, Gina could tell by the orderly working staff that Michael had managed Quaria very well.

There was no need for her to worry.

Just as she was about to visit other departments, someone called out to her. “Are you here for an interview?”

Gina turned around to see a woman dressed in professional attire, her badge engraved with the name, Zelda Jensen.

“Are you lost?” Zelda asked thoughtfully. “I can show you the way to the interview area.”

“Quaria is a big place. It’s normal to get lost the first time you visit.”

I

Gina inquired, “May I ask who you are?”

“Oh, I forgot to introduce myself. I’m Zelda Jensen, the director of the marketing department. Nice to meet you.”

“Nice to meet you. My name is Gina Miller.” Gina nodded and greeted her.

She did not correct Zelda’s assumption that she was there for an interview, and let Zelda lead her to the interview area.

“Here you are.

. I wish you success and look forward to the day you join Quaria. Zelda offered encouragement.

Cina didn’t say much, “Goodbye.”

Zelda watched as Gina's figure disappeared into the crowd before turning back to the marketing department.

"Holly shit, have any of you ever seen Zelda being so polite to a newcomer? Even showing her the way... Goodness, is she crazy?"

"No idea, it's really creepy."

Just as Zelda reached the entrance to the office area, she overheard her subordinates gossiping, and she heavily stepped inside. "Are you all that idle? Do you have time to gossip here?"

The subordinates instantly lowered their heads.

Zelda rolled her eyes, what a bunch of fool-

Cina was no newcomer.

Everything in the company was managed in an orderly manner by Michael, and she couldn't see any problems.

However, she thought it again. She needed to participate in the design of the new products for the next quarter, so it was necessary to come back.

Before leaving the company, Gina asked Michael to announce that she would join the design team for the new products in the next quarter, as a specially invited designer.

Gina exited the headquarters, and Gabriel came to pick up her on time.

It was rush hour.

Gabriel's custom Rolls Royce attracted a lot of attention.

“Wow, what model of Rolls Royce i is this? I can’t recognize it.”

“It’s right that you can’t recognize it. It’s customized.”

“Customized Rolls Royce? The owner must be very wealthy... He, the woman who just got in the car seems to be the one who came to our marketing department by mistake today, right?

“My goodness, could she be some wealthy young lady?”

Zelda, listening to their discussion, rolled her eyes. A wealthy young lady? Probably she was just someone who got in through connections.

Today, when Zelda was smoking in the safety passage, she overheard Gina’s phone call with Michael and knew that this woman had an unusual relationship with the CEO of Quaria. Perhaps she was his mistress.

Although Michael’s emotional history had always been very mysterious, Zelda thought that a man as outstanding as Michael must have already gotten married. Besides, if Gina was his wife, why wouldn’t he openly publicize it?

Now, she saw Gina getting into another man’s car...

Zelda guessed that tomorrow, Gina would be parachuted into Quaria, definitely with a significant position.

Although she looked down on Gina from the bottom of her heart, flattering Gina to get some benefits was still very good.

Gabriel and Gina returned to the hotel, and the two entered the elevator. Just as the elevator door was about to close, someone pressed the open button.

The elevator door opened, and Gina looked up at the door.

The moment the familiar face of the man appeared, Gina was somewhat surprised and called out his name. “Max...”

Max smiled with his eyes curved. “It’s rare that you remember me.”

“When did you return?” Gina asked,

“Yesterday, and I will be staying here for a long time.
