101 CHAPTER 101

Aella's Pov 1

"Karen"

"Congratulations" she spat, the anger in her eyes barely controlled.

I rolled my eyes, "Thank you Karen, now if you'll excuse me, I have important matters to get to" I bypassed her, finding my girls was the priority and not entertaining a kid.

I could feel her glares burning holes into my back, guess she's done with pretenses,

"You should have let me scratch her eyes back then, not that it's too late now" Ava snarled

"We're not scratching her eyes Ava" I chuckled, "she's just a kid, her crush literally got taken away, she'll be fine" I shrugged.

"Whatever, she smelt weird by the way, you should be careful, something is off" she said.

"Noted. Same thing I thought, didn't want to dwell on it though, I need to find the others."

"Luna, Alpha ordered a juice for you, he said you might be famished." An omega came to me with a tray, I traced Eros with my eyes, he nodded.

"Thank you" I mouthed.

"I know a much better way you can thank me doll" his voice came through the mind link.

"Focus on your buddies" I chuckled and shut him out, taking the glass from the wine,

"Thank you"

Her eyes glittered, "you're welcome Luna" she bowed, her lips curling.

Weird.

I shook my head, downing the juice in one gulp before handing her back the cup,

I resumed my search for the girls, soon I spotted them, engaged in what seemed like banter, I quickly made my way to them.

(An unknown location)

I clutched my head, a throbbing pain hitting me immediately my eyes blinked open.

A foul stench hit me, "what the hell" I scrunched my nose, my eyes adjusting to where I was, I was sitting on a hard surface.

What the hell happened?

The memory hit instantly, I had felt strangely dizzy just after spending a little time with the girls, I had retired to my room to rest, so while the hell am I waking with my head feeling like a dozen hammers were hitting on it.

I flexed my arm but it didn't budge, my eyes widened, I was tied up. I've been kidnapped, a chuckle escaped my lips, but how?

My mind flash back to the strange glint in the omega's eye after I took the juice, and it clicked, I was drugged, but how were they able to take me from inside my room? The same room I shared with Eros, and without any one noticing.

Taken in my own room, weird, seems Eros didn't fish every spy out, Ursa couldn't have done it, I'd smell her within even a mile of me, so who was it?

I sat properly, inhaling and exhaling. Now was not the best time to panic, I took in my surroundings, I was in what seemed like a cottage, a small wooden one, a small fire was lit up in the center, it had only one window, cold wind blew in through it.

I'm likely in a deserted area, cold winds this heavy were rare at this time of the summer, if my guess was right then I'm pretty far away from the pack. Drugged or not, taking me from the pack and bringing me this far was most likely a job done by someone close, close enough to have access, I brushed the thought away, I didn't want to believe that any of my friends betrayed me.

"Eros," I tried mind linking

Weird, I couldn't feel him, not even the link we shared was there.

"Ava, I can't reach Eros, can you try reaching Eden"

Silence. That was all I got

"Avalyne" I tried again, still nothing.

The reality finally set in, whoever did this had thoroughly prepared, what did they do to Ava?

My eyes widened, my babies, I twist my arms trying to reach for my stomach but the rope wouldn't budge.

Clink.

Something metallic sounded against my throat immediately I moved my body.

Did I hear wrong?

Clink. Clink. Clink. Clink. I moved again, the sound followed.

I wasn't just tied up, I'm collared too, I tried moving forward, the loose collar tightened on my neck, closing in on my wind pipe.

My throat began to squeeze, I couldn't breath, I could feel my heartbeat quicken, a tear slipped down my eye, I thrashed widely, trying to free my hands and get the collar off me, but it all proved fruitless, my body convulsed, everything blurred and just before I lost consciousness the collar loosened.

I inhaled greedily, my heart beat slowing, coughing violently, I had never felt so close to death like I had now, but atleast if it told me anything it was that my captor wanted or rather need me alive.

"Don't mess with the collar—point gotten" I muttered.

So where was my captor? Surely they didn't plan to keep me here for life without even a glimpse at them, that would be really rude.

I heard footsteps approaching from the distance, finally, time to meet my darling captor.

The knob turned, I kept my gaze locked on the door.

A figure stepped in, with a smug grin on her face

"I expected you to sleep for a while longer"

I scoffed, of course. It all made sense now, "I should have known it'd be you"

Comment 0

Leave the first comment for this chapter.

Vote

Send Gift

Swipe left to continue ›