103 CHAPTER 103

"A desert or call it a deserted land. Looks dead to me though" I sighed, 1

"How? Why? When? What?" He sounded confused.

"Got drugged and kidnapped and now if my guess is right, she's taking me to Ursa"

"Who is she?" He asked.

"Move it...." Karen pushed me forward, "And stop trying to mindlink your wolf, it won't work"

"Sure mum" I rolled my eyes, but continued dragging my feet, if only she did her assignment.

"Karen"

"The Beta's sister?" He sounded a bit surprised.

"Apparently. Ursa promised to break I and Eros's bond, she thinks she has a chance with him if that is done"

"That's impossible," he pointed out.

"Tell that to little miss, 'obsessed with my mate.' she seems to believe I'm a liar, hasn't believed a word I said"

"Is she stupid or desperate?"

"Both. But either way I need to get out of here before she gets me to wherever she's taking me."

He breathed a sigh of relief "Good thing you're okay."

"What's wrong?"

"Well, your mate has been a pain in the ass, especially my ass, trying to set his entire pack on fire."

"Eros..."

"You've been gone for three days child, He has combed down the entire pack and neighbouring packs, even ensured I didn't rest, and he's amassing his men now to comb down the entire realm. You have to return, child."

His words warmed my heart, combing down the entire realm for my sake, oh my love — wait "you said three days?" I reconfirmed.

"Solidly."

"Shit, the drug must have been pretty strong if I had passed out for two days. How did she manage to get me to this side of the world?"

"Quite strong indeed, your mate has lost his mind, completely." he sounded tired.

I chuckled inwardly, "it can't be that bad"

"yeah right." he scoffed, "whatever you think, he has successfully turned into a nuisance."

"What of Lilith?" I wonder

"Missing?"

"Missing?" I raised a brow,

"No one has seen her since your disappearance,"

"Classic Lilith. She's still alive, no worries, let's focus on how to get me out of here, before that any new information?"

"Your ex mate joined the alliance"

"Crux?"

"The one and only" he smiled.

"Weird." I never thought he would join, well that's not time worthy.

"I thought you might want to know"

"Well, it feels suspicious and I don't trust him, but we need more hands on deck now, we can deal with his problem later."

"How fast can you get here?" I wondered.

He fell into deep thoughts, "Where exactly are you? I would need to know or that could be an issue."

I looked around, "nothing spectacular except the fact that even the I'm about to choke on my own saliva from the dust — hold on, I think I can spot an oasis"

"Aella, I'm going to need to see exactly where you are, that's the only way I can find you"

"How's that even possible?"

"It's supposed to be part of our next lesson. Seeing through each other's eyes, something past riders like you used in times of peril and also to scout when necessary" he replied.

"Sounds fun, but how am I going to achieve that? I'm not exactly in a magic-using position, remember?"

"You're going to have to try, child. Making it work is the only way you can be found and the only way your mate does not bring this pack and many more to ruin like he intends to if you're not found."

Shit. Eros, this damned collar isn't letting me get through to him, like a foreign wall was implanted in my head stopping me from reaching out.

"Hold on." I temporarily closed the link, I wasn't taking any chances, Karen might notice something was off if I kept mute for too long.

I stole a glance at Karen, her brows were furrowed, teeth clenched, it seemed like the journey was just as arduous on her as it was on me.

"What a waste" I scoffed, "such a young life about to be lost just because of her obsession with a man that doesn't give two shits about her" I taunted.

"Shut it" she snapped, her face reddening, "I have a tape and believe I wouldn't hesitate to use it" she sneered.

"Sure princess," I rolled my eyes "what ever you say"

She gnashed her teeth, but ignored me.

"You know, I wonder how Kaden will feel when he finds out that his little sister kidnapped her Luna, because believe me when I say Eros will find me." I continued

Hesitation flashed across her eyes, she paused half way but her face hardened almost instantly, "he'll understand that I'm doing for him—for us" her grip on my arm tightened, her nails dug into my skin, a crazed look on her face

"Right, after he flays your skin for even thinking of harming me, What's the punishment for traitors — beheading. Right" I smirked.

"When he sees I'm doing it for us, he'll thank me, he's just temporarily blinded. I just need to save him from this bond." Her face got increasingly hostile.

I felt nauseous seeing her act so crazily, I bit down on my lips to prevent myself from crying out in pain, blood was already beginning to trickle down my arm.

She regained her composure after a while, releasing me almost instantly, I stumbled slightly from the force, "she'll kill you, and boy will I be there to take your corpse" I bared my fangs

"Shut up"

"I know it, You know it. The witch would never help you for nothing, you're not too far from ending up like Braz"

"Stop talking" she glared at me.

"Gladly" I snorted, "Wouldn't want any more of your crazy to rub off on me"

"Better" she snarled, "Next word from you and you're getting muted and trust me it won't be pretty"

I rolled my eyes, worked in my favour by the way, now back to what matters, getting away from this crazy bitch before she drags me down with her.

"Aragon"

"Yes child. Done?"

"Yes, let's get me out of this hell hole."

"Well, I'm going to need access to your eyes"

"Let's get to work then" I shrugged.

"How do I do that?"