105 CHAPTER 105

Aella 1

I'm suddenly transported to a void like space, "another vision?"

"It's me" a voice came from behind

I turned and saw Lilith sitting crossed legged, eyes closed as though she were meditating.

"Lilith!" My mouth widened, "what was going on?"

She opened her eyes, "don't look so shocked, we're twins remember" she raised an eyebrow

"Doesn't explain why I'm seeing you in this..." I trailed off, not sure what to refer to this place as "You can call it a pocket dimension."

"Dimension?"

"Part of my powers." She shrugged casually.

"You get a whole world as part of your powers? That's so unfair" I whined, feeling a tiny pang of envy.

She rolled her eyes "You have yours too."

My mind flashed back to the void like space I had met Ava in previously, that was my dimension, I scratched my neck awkwardly, "didn't know. But how were you able to bring me here?"

"Being twins means we're connected in more ways than one, you'll see as time passes," she replied.

"Okayyy, doesn't sound creepy, you've gotten more powerful," I noted

"Doesn't matter, You're lost" she stated bluntly,

"Not exactly, how did you find out? Aragon said you've been missing?"

"I felt your troubled heart, and I knew you had gotten yourself in some sort of problem when Lena couldn't reach Ava."

"We can do that?"

"We're special. I can sense when you need me"

"Apparently," I muttered, "well if you must know, Karen kidnapped me"

"The Beta's sister?"

"The one and only"

"She's got guts"

A laugh slips through my mouth, "Karen and guts shouldn't fit in the same sentence" I chuckled.

Lilith's expression turned stern, like the type she always had before one of her lectures, "how was she able to take you from Eros's grasp? The pack security is poor"

"That part is quite a mystery. But I think she had help, anyways I believe she's taking me to our witch, the bitch locked out Ava with the Kastril"

"It was banned ages ago" she pointed out, "how did she get her hand on one"

"Same thing I thought, but it seems she has more of it in her possession. The witch is more dangerous than we may have anticipated"

"We'll be ready for her." Her face turned guilty, "sorry I wasn't there to stop her from taking you, I had no idea any of this was happening.

"I don't blame you." My lips stretched into a smile, "if anything I'm quite happy you're getting some time to yourself. I really do wish you can live for you whether as Lilith or Zareal and not the daughter mother expects you to be"

Something flashed across her eyes, "you won't understand" she closed the gap between us, "as long as your happy that's all I could ever wish for"

I took a step holding back a scoff, "and what about your own happiness? Do you even think about yourself? You know while you were a bitch without your memories I preferred the you Andrea raised, at least she went for her own happiness."

Her perfectly composed face cracked slightly, she covered it up almost instantly, "One day you'll understand" she caressed my face, looking at me lovingly like she always did.

I could feel tears in the back of my eyes. I grew up as a brat not caring about anyone or anything, not even having burdens thanks to her protection, is happiness too much to ask from her?

"Don't be sad, I'm fine" she smiled, but it didn't reach her eye.

"Wonder how I'm expected to be happy when you keep acting this way"

She waves her hand, I feel a familiar rush of power slam into me without warning, I double over, "what the hell"

"I deactivated the collar, guess the effect of not having your wolf side is more than I expected."

My jaw drops, how far does her power run? "You can do that?"

"Yes." She nods

"Just how powerful are you?" I wonder.

"Still exploring. But I can get you out of your current location and into your mate's arms in a minute" she added.

"Wow, that's powerful?"

"Just say the word," she said flatly.

"No need. I wanna spend more time with my little miss captor" a mischievous thought went through my head.

She shook her head,

"Come on, she kidnapped me, it's only fair if she dances to the tune of her own music" I cracked my neck feeling power and strength coursing through me. "Not to mention Aragon is nearby, so he's active and ready to get me out."

"If you say so," she nods, "but something is coming, you need to leave as soon as possible"

"Not without teaching that little twat a lesson"

"I'm not against that, but remember sister. Something has changed about the air surrounding you, danger is closing in, one neither you nor I can face, the farther away you are from it, the better"

"Alright mum"

The vision cuts, I'm back, still walking with Karen,

"Ava" I try

"Aella" she responds almost instantly, "let me out," she growled fiercely, I could feel her murderous energy.

"Seems you're aware"

"The brat isolated me and even dared covet my mate" she snarled, I could feel her body trembling,

"How dare she? Treating us like dogs" she fought for control.

"Shit. Calm down, death is too easy for her"

I tried pacifying her, while I intended to deal with Karen, killing her was not part of the list.

"Doll. Are you there?" Eros voice slams into me like a wave, followed by a variety of emotion, rage, disappointment, confusion, sadness and above all loss

"Darling" I whisper, suddenly realizing just how much I had missed him.

"Fuck it's you, where are you, What happened? Are you okay? Did anyone harm you? How's our little one? I'm so sorry, I should have protected you, I'm so fucking stupid" he practically panicked.

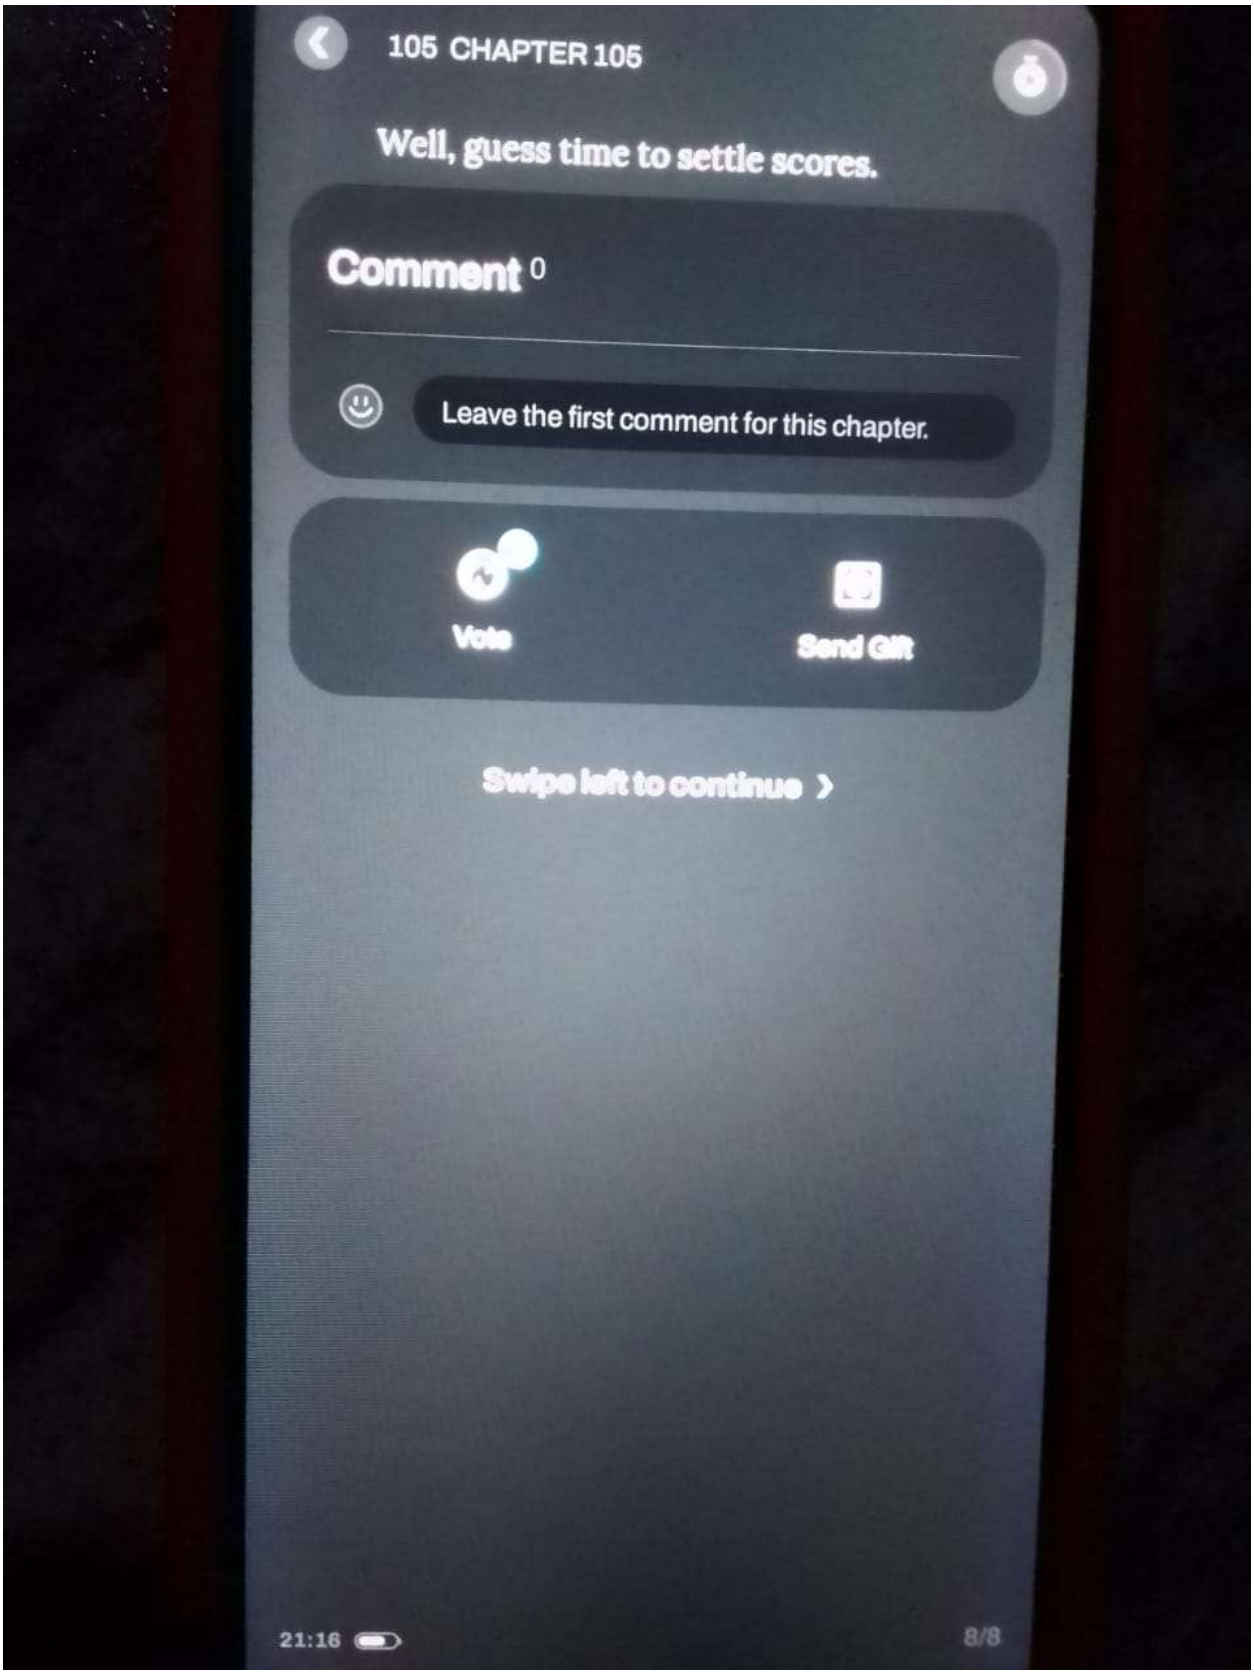

I grinned widely, holding back the urge to sniff, my heart warmed, someone actively missed me, "I'm fine darling, We're doing alright. No need to blame yourself."

"I'm on my way to you now, don't move so much as an inch, hold on for me doll. I'm coming" I could hear the relief followed by panic in his voice.

"So soon?" I wondered, but he had already cut off the link.

Was he coming with Aragon?

Why didn't he tell me?

105 CHAPTER 105
Well, guess time to settle scores.
Comment 0
Leave the first comment for this chapter.
Vote
Send Gift
Swipe left to continue
21:16
8/8