141 CHAPTER 141

Aella's POV 1

(Back at the couples room)

I paced around trying to stable my trembling body,

"Doll, you really need to rest. You'll give yourself a headache if you continue this way" I could hear the worry in Eros's voice. But that was beside the point.

"How dare they?" I snapped, unclenching my fists, my knuckles were already white from too much pressure,

Eros led me to sit on our bed, massaging my sore arms, "At least she's fine now. We just need to prepare for whatever comes next, besides I trust Sage to take good care of her."

"I know Sage can get her running in no time, but to think that bitch had the gall to lay a finger on my sister. Did you see her state, and I wasn't even there for her. She always saves me each time and yet the one time she needed me I was clueless," hot tears spilled from my eyes, my body began shaking once more.

"Useless" I cursed, "Fucking useless, use-"

"Hey," Eros held my hands, his pupils darkening, "No more of that. You're not useless. You're beautiful, intelligent, smart and brave" he kissed my lips gently, "I don't want to hear you down talking yourself anymore" his voice came out stern.

"But I-"

"No buts" he cut me off, "You're not useless. End of discussion, now let's get you settled in before you have a headache" he pecked my forehead.

I sighed, "What will I do without you?" I felt myself getting lost in those dual pupils of his. The electricity I felt the first time I met him was still there, was it even possible?

"I believe nothing" he said with a smug grin,

"Don't flatter yourself darling. I will get on just fine without you' i teased,

"Trying to hurt my feelings now darling?"

"As if i can" I humphed

He leaned in, "You already did. But I know how you can make it up to me" his eye twinkled with mischief,

"Pervert, depart from me" I faked an accent

"You're already pregnant mademoiselle, I've seen every inch of you" he said without blinking

Heat flooded my cheeks, "Shut up" I threw a pillow at him,

"Cute" he said, "Now about my compensation" he drew closer to me

"Babe" I place a finger on his puckered lips,

"mmmhmm" he replied,

"You're children are craving something now"

He raised an eyebrow, "Nothing too crazy this time, hopefully" he replied

"Are you complaining?" I felt tears pooling in my eyes "I didn't choose to be this way you know" I sniffed "You-" I glared at him, "You did this to me."

His eyes softened even more, "I know the doll, and I'm sorry" he held my hands in his, drawing small circles, "and, I will never complain about anything my darling needs. I'm just saying, last time you wanted the snow from Richard's hometown and you've never even been there'

I sniffed "Blame it on your pups, they wanted to smell the snow from there. It's not my fault, just say you don't want to get us what we are craving instead of trying to make us feel guilty "I glared at him, a scowl making its way to my face.

"Never doll, tell me what my baby girl is craving and this fateful servant will make it happen" he replied

"Promise" I mumbled

He tucked the loose strands of my hair behind my ears, "Have I ever lied to you?" he replied

A wide smile made its way to my face, "Then I want, Chicken wings specially cooked by Celeste and dipped in one of her potions, Ice cream made from scratch and it has to be homemade, and also i want Xavier to prepare barbecue, the special one he learnt from his travels, green apples that are half sour, half sweet, oranges with little water and the water should be sour too" I finally finished my list.

His pupils were dilated, his mouth hung open in shock, "Wow." he breathed out, "That's pretty specific"

"I know" I bobbed my hair vigorously.

"That's what they want"

"Well anything for my baby" he breathed out, "Although it may take a little while to gather, you don't mind that right?"

"No."

Alright. I just mind linked Kay, he'll have everything organized and brought up"

"No." I shook my head

"No?" he asked confused

"I want you to go personally. You don't have to do it, just go personally, meet each of them and inform them of it" I muttered

"Huh?" he looked puzzled

"You don't love me anymore?" I sniffed, the water works were coming back, "You can't even go and do this simple thing for me" it increased

"No doll, look i'm up already" he shot to his feet

"Be fast okay?" i said

"Anything for my Luna," he said, then left with a smile.

I watched his back feeling a tingle of guilt, but I just couldn't help with the cravings.

Sigh.

"Aella" one of my bonds cracked to life, a hint of panic in his voice.

"Aragon" I answered, surprised, "oh my gosh, how are you doing? Are you better now? Have you figured things out?" I wondered

I still couldn't forget Richard's words from back then, Aragon had to get through it on his own, and he had kept himself sealed up since then, so this was quite a pleasant surprise.

"I'm fine kiddo" his voice held a faint tiredness,

"That's great, that's great" I felt my mood lighten.

With him in whatever closed off seclusion he had entered, and Ava sleeping at every time possible, barely awake and conserving energy, my held has been quite quiet and should I say lonely.

"Pay attention kiddo"

"Right. Sorry" I chuckled, "What'sup?"

"There is an essence circulating and gathering right now. A very ancient and familiar one." he said gravely

"Ancient and familiar?"

"Yes." He nodded

I stood and walked to the balcony, the cool evening air grazed my skin, but I felt chills.

Odd.

Could it be the essence he spoke of, "Do you know who it might be."

"Roughly"

"Who owns it?"

Comment 0

Leave the first comment for this chapter.

Vote

Send Gift

Swipe left to continue >