168 CHAPTER 168

Lilith 1

"You know what? I have no interest in finding out why. Let me go Sage." I sighed.

I had no more interest in delving into why or how Sage came into contact with information that no one should have, and if he was from the Celestial realm as he said then whatever was going on, I want no part of

He leaned backwards, "I'm not stopping you from returning to your sister, neither am I stopping you from seeing her, but you will have to acknowledge that the bond exist and this" he pointed at himself then at me, "this bond is as real as the clothes you've got on now." he shrugged.

I furrowed my brows, "let me be Sage."

He shrugged, "your choice princess. But like I said, we are going to talk about Us. Whether you want to or not, you won't ruin what we have for your fears." his eyes held promise.

Suddenly a ringtone pierced through the tension that was growing in the air, he let it ring for a minute before going to pick it up and leaving with it.

I shot to my feet immediately, the door slammed shut, he had a phone, looking at the ancient drawings and markings, the crude, simple yet comfortable bed, and the extremely ancient lifestyle, having a phone was indeed a surprise.

"Lena" I tried reaching out again.

Nothing.

Silence.

I sighed, she hasn't spoken a word since I got up, and for a usually chatty wolf especially whenever her mate was around, this was an uncomfortable development that had to be checked.

I took in the room, the wall was still concrete, nothing like the luxury I was used to, I picked up an old rag from the door side, the fur was extremely soft. A fine material, shame it's been used as a rag.

"Mer?" I tried again,

I was already losing my mind, I had no interest in staying without either of my spirit companions, whether Mer or Lena. I needed them both.

"Yes." She replied.

"Thank heavens" I breathed in relief, I thought she was going to ignore me, yet again she's proven me wrong.

"What happened? Where's Lena, I can't feel her, how are you coping, what happened after I lost consciousness?" I asked in one breath eager for answers.

"A lot." She said plainly, her voice showing hesitation to continue.

"What's wrong?"

She sighed, "you may not like what you're about to hear Lilith." She mumbled.

"What's that?"

"Lena," she breathed out, "She's gone."

"What?" I furrowed my brows. "Gone how?" I didn't understand.

"She's gone Lilith, she couldn't withstand Ursa's essence, it devoured her before your mate destroyed it. I don't know if she's still alive or not."

I fell quiet for a moment, trying to make sense of what Mer was talking about, "My wolf them both.

"Yes." She replied.

"Thank heavens" I breathed in relief, I thought she was going to ignore me, yet again she's proven me wrong.

"What happened? Where's Lena, I can't feel her, how are you coping, what happened after I lost consciousness?" I asked in one breath eager for answers.

"A lot." She said plainly, her voice showing hesitation to continue.

"What's wrong?"

She sighed, "you may not like what you're about to hear Lilith." She mumbled.

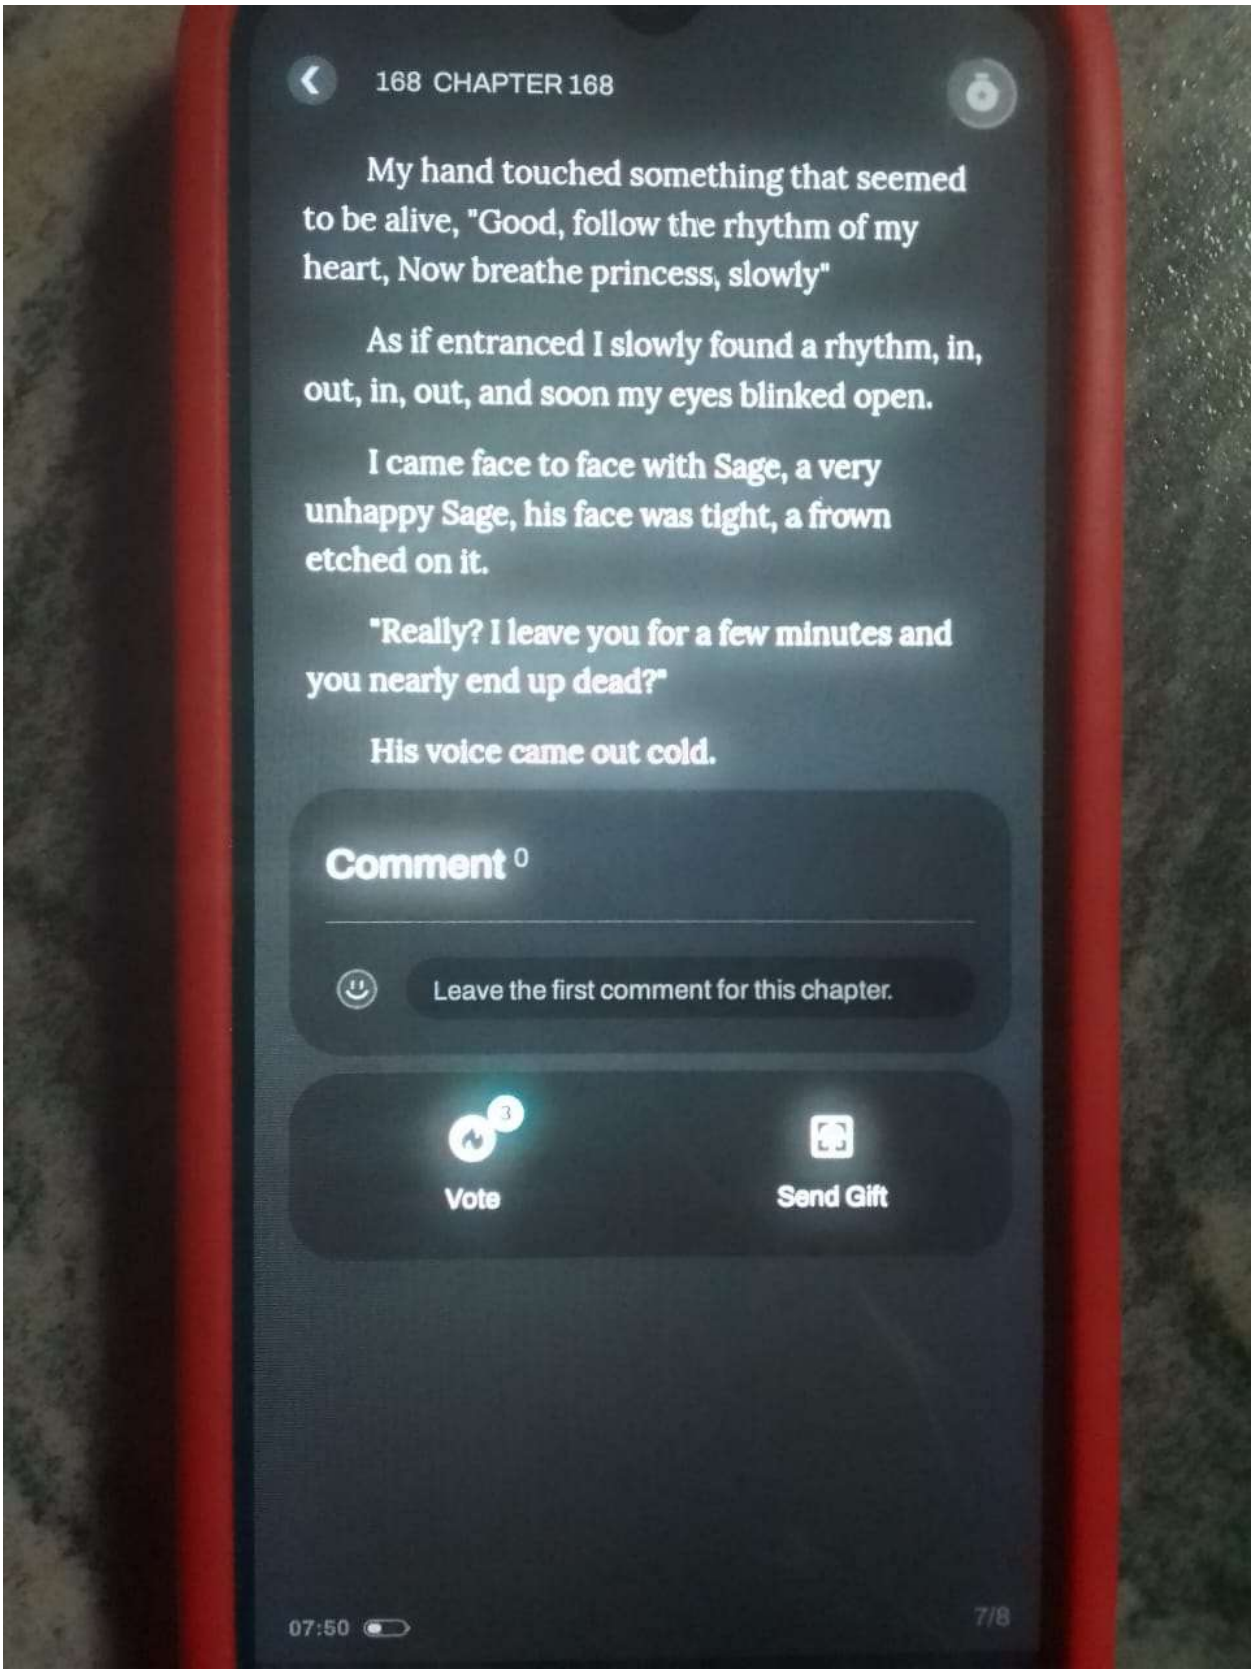

"What's that?"

"Lena," she breathed out, "She's gone."

"What?" I furrowed my brows. "Gone how?" I didn't understand.

"She's gone Lilith, she couldn't withstand Ursa's essence, it devoured her before your mate destroyed it. I don't know if she's still alive or not."

I fell quiet for a moment, trying to make sense of what Mer was talking about, "My wolf

168 CHAPTER 168
My hand touched something that seemed to be alive, "Good, follow the rhythm of my heart, Now breathe princess, slowly"
As if entranced I slowly found a rhythm, in, out, in, out, and soon my eyes blinked open.
I came face to face with Sage, a very unhappy Sage, his face was tight, a frown etched on it.
"Really? I leave you for a few minutes and you nearly end up dead?"
His voice came out cold.
Comment 0
Leave the first comment for this chapter.
Vote
Send Gift
07:50
7/8