

28 CHAPTER 28

"You've been through so much" I pulled him into my arms, patting him softly, tears dripping down freely. 1

"It's all in the past. I have you now" he smiled softly.

I wonder if I should tell him about everything that happened, "you definitely should. Mate needs to know" Avalyne chirped in.

"Ahh, I need to get used to that" I blurted out.

"Talking to your wolf at first can be pretty confusing, you'll get used to it" Eros said

"How did you..."

"Same way you know when I'm talking to Eden"

"Ohh, she's really noisy, how do you guys deal with it? It feels like there's another person up in my head"

He chuckled, "just raise the wall in your head, it separates your thoughts from hers' plus she can't peek into your thoughts when it's up. It goes both way though"

"Mate is smart," she purred. "Tell him Aella,

Tell him"

"Urgghh, shut up and let me think" closing my eyes and trying, an image of a war conjured up in my mind.

"Ohhh" my eyes widened, "wow"

"Got it on your first try huh, you're a natural babe" He pecked my lips.

I felt my cheeks get warm, "flirt" I grumbled.

"Only for you darling"

"Do you ever run out of words to call me?"

"Nah, we've got quite an endless stream of them for my little one."

"Eden" I called out.

"Hello, little one. You really scared me" his red pupils peered into my mine

"Sorry about that" I mumbled, differentiating between them was getting easier, apart from the red eyes, Eden seemed to be obsessed with calling me 'little one'

"Avalyne isn't happy you shut her out little one"

"You met her?"

"Yes,"

"How is that possible?"

"It's a mate thing. We can meet, she's really unhappy you shut her out and she believes that Eros deserves to know what is coming"

"Great, so my wolf is a blabber mouth"

"Don't worry little one, Eros isn't aware. She wants you to tell him yourself"

"It sounds weird though. Telling my mate that an ancient and maniacal witch is after me"

"He's more resilient than you may think little" Eden sat next to me, locking eyes.

"I know. Just, it all feels so surreal, all of a sudden I have this heavy responsibility and all these duty, plus a twin sister. It's all crazy"

"I know little one, that's why you need to let him know, remember you're not alone anymore."

"I know.... But.."

"No more buts, little one, I'll let him take over now, tell him" he kissed the back of my hands deeply before drawing back.

Eros looked at me questioningly.

"I have something to tell you" I began, my palms suddenly felt sweaty.

He raised an eyebrow, but didn't say anything, waiting for me to continue.

"I have a twin there's an ancient witch after my life and possibly every existing wolf in Goth I'm also something called a dragon rider and Antares or should I say Aragon is my dragon he never really planned to marry me he has been protecting me all along." I breathed out at once.

"Woahh, easy there tiger" he said. "I did have my suspicions about Antares but you being a dragon rider. And the other parts, wow"

"Yes. I..."

"Wait, a witch that's after your life and possibly every other werewolf alive. Ursa?"

"Ursa is the dead one, Vega is the one after me" I pulled down the mental wall, Ava resurfaced not without cursing me out though.

"No, Ursa is alive. She had tried to save Vega but she had mistakenly saved herself instead, everyone thought she was the one that died but she survived"

"How do you know this?" I wondered.

"Everyone in my pack knows, it's a history lesson for us. My ancestor Ryazan, had spent the rest of his life tracing and gathering everything he could to stop Vega from resurrecting Ursa but instead made a discovery that Ursa was actually the one that survived."

"Wow"

"This changes everything. The witch fooled everyone" Ava said.

"Yeah, he made sure to document everything he discovered, hoping one day someone could defeat Ursa and bring peace back to the realm."

"How does it change anything?" I asked Ava

"We've been gearing up to fight Vega all along, not Vega"

"What's the difference?" I asked, genuinely confused.

"Ursa is more sinister, cunning and more powerful than her younger sister. They were both leaders, but Ursa was the Alpha male of the two, the ringleader and master strategist"

"Good thing we found out on time then, what do we do now?"

"I've gotta go" she shut me out, going off and ignoring my question.

"I know that look" Eros laughed.

"What look?" I grumbled.

"The aggrieved look you've got on your face"

he pointed at my face.

"Tell me about it"

"You have the look of someone who just got shut out by her wolf for the first time"

"There's no hiding anything from you, is there?"

"No darling, we're stuck together" he kissed my nose. "Now specifics, what exactly are we dealing with?"

I proceeded to narrate everything I had gone through, starting from the rogue, down to fighting Ursa off my head, and finally to how I woke.

"So basically, my mate is a wonder woman. I'm so proud of you honey" he grinned.

"Stop it, be serious for a second,"

"I am serious. Look at yourself, undeniably beautiful, powerful and an Alpha Female. I'll give you all the support you need darling"

"Alpha Female, isn't that a bit of a stretch?"

He stood and knelt with one knee, "I should have done this a long time ago. I am yours just as you are mine Zorya. Aella or Zorya, whichever one your name is, I don't care honestly."

"Eros.."

"No wait, let me finish"

"Ok" I nodded.

"You're not just my mate, you're my Alpha Female, and I want to be the first one to pledge to you, not as my Luna but as my Mate and direct Equal. Everything that is mine is yours, resources, the pack, even me" he winked them continued.

"When I say you're not alone, I mean it Zorya, I am yours and the biggest honour to me would be for you to use me, so forget an old witch who has over lived her time. Even if you ask me to follow you to the depths of eternity, I will. We are one, we are in this together, I won't let anything happen to you"

I rushed into his arms, sobbing. No one had ever protected me not to mention telling me they would brave such a storm with me.

"Thank you" I whispered, "also I think I'll stick to answering Aella for now."

"There's a better way to thank me though" he wiggled his brows suggestively.

"Pervert" I hit his shoulders.

"Only for you darl..."

I smashed my lips on his, cutting him off, he gasped in surprise but responded instantly.

The door burst open, "In case you have forgotten, you've still got people out here waiting for you lovers. And please, spare my eyes"

A bored voice spoke.

Comment ⁰

Leave the first comment for this chapter.

Vote

Send Gift

Swipe left to continue >