

29 CHAPTER 29

Aella 1

We separated, and turned to meet Antares, Eros was fuming, glaring at him, Antares didn't back down, he returned it with a glare of his own.

"Alrightttt, that's enough boys" I called out breaking up their staring contest.

"Can't stand to see others happy Dragon?" Eros sneered

"Not when you're involved, Wolf" Antares shot back.

"Mate is hot when he's being childish," Ava purred.

"He looks hot to you no matter what he's doing," I said dryly. "Welcome back, care to explain where you ran off to?"

"True" she giggled.

"So back to business guys. Snap out of it" I clapped at them, "We've got a wicked witch of the west to handle"

"I see you've told him?"

"He is her mate and an Alpha, you'll address me with respect" Eros growled

"Try harder Alpha" Antares said sarcastically

"Can you both stop it, you're giving me a headache" I groaned in frustration.

"Sorry, Zorya/Aella" they both chorused.

"I'll stick to Aella for now, Antares." I corrected him.

"Noted," he nodded.

"So what now?" I ask them.

"You've caught him up to speed right?" Antares confirmed referring to Eros.

"Yes." I nodded, "he also corrected a mistake as well. Ursa is the living sister not Vega."

"What?" He furrowed his brow, confused.

I proceeded to explain all that Eros had previously told me, he listened quietly, nodding but coming to the same conclusion as Ava, "It all makes sense now" he said.

"What does?"

"You said wolves were missing right?"

"Yeah." Eros caught in, fingers clenched. "My men and pups all gone like they never existed."

"Back then, Ursa had an ability to recreate an army of mindless wolves. But she had to take them unwillingly, as no wolf would serve a witch, just like.."

"Just like the rogue from earlier" I completed

He sighed "Yes. Like the rogue that attacked you previously"

"So you're saying that my opponent's has an army of undead wolves with her." I wasn't liking our odds.

"More or less"

"My men" Eros gritted out through clenched teeth.

"I'm sorry for your loss" I placed my hands on his. His gaze softened, "It's not your fault" he smiled.

"So what now?" I asked Antares.

"We find your sister"

"How the hell are we gonna do that?"

"We check records for any clue as to the prophecy about you two, it might lead us to a way to find her"

"Sounds good. The elders have the best library around here, I'll take you to them"

I made to reply but the sound of the door opening cut short our conversation.

"Sorry to disturb Alpha, but Luna is also my friend and I'd like to see her too" Brianne peeked in with her head.

Eros shot her a look then without a word he turned to me "I'll go get some things done, I'll be back to pick you up"

He kissed my cheeks and dragged Antares with him, "don't disturb my mate, Brianne" he frowned slightly before leaving.

"Lunaaa" she engulfed me in an embrace. "Ahhh my ribs" I groaned. What's with them wanting to crush me today.

"Sorry Aella" she smiled sheepishly

"I was only gone for few hours, did you miss me that much?" I joked

She froze, looking at me weirdly,

"What's wrong?"

"You've been in a coma for more than hours Aella, you've been gone for two weeks"

"What?" I shrieked.

"Yes. Alpha even delegated most of the park duties to Kaden just so he could be by your side. I still feel bad for Kaden whenever I remember it"

"I didn't know" I gasped.

"Yeah, you scared everyone back there. Don't run off like that again."

"I'm sorry" I said, sincerely. Warmth swelled inside me, the feeling was foreign, and new, a most certainly welcome feeling.

"Why did you run off like that?"

"I'm sorry. But the issue has already been settled. Don't sweat it" I replied, not wanting to spill my insecurities.

"Alright Luna, if you say so. I'm glad you're awake, now that bitch Karen won't be strutting around with her fake phoenix shoulders so high up in the air" she sneered distastefully.

"Eros released her?" I said, surprisingly I didn't feel threatened anymore.

"Yes, few days ago."

"Who's the bitch? Don't tell me we have a contender for mate?" Ava chirped in.

"You like to come and go huh?" I replied her.

"When it suits me, yes" she shot back. "So who's she?"

"Kaden's little sister, that's got a crush on Eros. She's not worth the trouble, trust me" I assured her.

"Whatever you say princess. I have no problem clawing out any eyes that wants my mate" Ava growled before retreating back.

I looked up to find Brianne smiling at me.

"What?" I asked.

"You've got your wolf, huh?"

"You noticed,"

"Well the new look is a pointer though. Rare, but still, Congrats Luna." She squealed, hugging me.

"Times up ladies. Little one we've got to go" Eros said, entering the room.

Wait. Who's room was I in? I finally took note of my surroundings.