

44 CHAPTER 44

I saw an unclear face, with silver hair just like mine, her chest ripped open, her heart missing, her face fully covered in blood. 1

Things were coming out from her body, "you didn't save me" her mouth moved and maggots crawled out through them.

"No.no.no.no Zarealllll" I screamed.

"Aella, Aella, it's me, concentrate. Whatever you're seeing is not real" I heard Aragon's voice echo loudly.

My eyes shot open, I blinked twice, I was crumpled to the ground with Aragon beside me, the hairs on my arm were up, goosebumps filled my hands.

I trembled violently, "hey, hey, hey, it's okay" Aragon said softly, "you're fine. It's not real"

I opened my mouth to speak, but instead burst into tears, "she...she...she.." the tears kept coming, I couldn't control myself.

"Don't speak yet, come, let's get you back to the pack house" he helped me to stand, but my legs wobbled, my body numbed, I felt myself going down, but he caught me just before I reached the floor.

"Shit" he exclaimed as he carried me in a bridal manner and rushed back with me. I could barely feel anything, all I could remember was the feeling of seeing the heartless figure of my dead sister, blood spewing out of her mouth, tongue and eyes as she blamed me for her death.

"Aella, baby girl, can you hear me" I felt someone shake me, I didn't know who.

"Pull yourself together, stop being so damn dramatic, there's still time to save her" Ava berated.

"She's not dead yet?" The word caught my attention

"No" she rolled her eyes, "what you saw was a possible future, it hasn't happened yet"

"I thought she was dead before I found her"

"No Aella. Your visions are mostly a possible future, or things happening currently, I'll say the one you just saw was the latter"

"I can stop it"

"Yes, we just need to find her faster, so get up and stop making my mate unnecessarily worried"

"Eros?"

"No Cruz, of course it's Eros dum dum"

"You need to stop calling me that" I frowned

"Well you need to grow up"

"Excuse me for feeling sad that the sister I haven't met was already dead, before I could meet her"

"Again, not dead"

"Thanks for clearing that up, genius"

"Ouuu, someone is finally grateful for having a genius as a wolf"

"You're insufferable" I groaned

"Aella, baby girl" I heard Eros's worried voice.

My eyes blinked open, he was beside me, I was inside our room. Yes our room, we decided to stay together in one room.

"Eros" the word came out raspy, my throat was parched,

"You're awake," his eyes lit up, he handed me a glass of water, I gulped it down gratefully.

"Thank you" I heaved.

"Don't do that again, you scared me" he whispered, placing his forehead on mine.

"I'm sorry"

"It's fine, what matters is that you're fine?"

"Mmmm" I nodded

"What happened, Aragon said you had a vision, although he doesn't know what exactly you saw that got you so traumatized"

"Zareal"

"Your sister?"

I nodded,

"I'm confused, if you saw her that should only make you happy not traumatize you"

"I didn't see her face"

"How do you know it was her then?"

"It's complicated, but she's in serious danger, we need to find her as soon as we can"

"You're not making any sense love"

I sighed and began explaining everything I saw in the vision, he listened attentively, nodding till I was done. If he was surprised, he didn't show it, his face was blank till I finished my story.

"So in essence, if we don't find her soon, she will die?"

"Basically," I nodded, "Ava said it was only a possible future, that means I can still prevent it"

"At least your vision has given us clues" he reasoned.

"Clues?"

"You said she was in front of the Alpha's house, plus she passed through the Beta's Mansion, that means she might be in either place or someone there knows her whereabouts?"

"I think the same thing for the Alpha house, but I grew up in the Beta's Mansion, won't I know if my twin stayed with me?"

"Valid point love, but there were shorter ways to get to the Alpha's Mansion, why would your body specifically pass the Beta's Mansion, a longer route just to get to the Alpha's Mansion"

"True. When do we leave?"

"As soon as you're ready, Kay already sent them a message that we would be visiting"

"Aww, have I ever told you that I love you?"

He froze, stunned, my heart pounded as I waited for his reaction.

"What did you say?" He sounded unsure.

"I love you" I muttered, feeling my cheeks heat up

"Yessss" he suddenly jumped up, "I thought I heard wrongly. Oh the goddess, I'm blessed" he carried me up and twirled me around.

I giggled at his childishness, "Put me down" I laughed.

He lowered me, capturing my lips in a soft kiss, "I love you Aella, you may not know it, but you just made me the happiest wolf in Goth"

"Stop exaggerating" I chuckled.

"Oh no. I'm not exaggerating, I'm the freaking luckiest wolf alive" he screamed at the top of his voice.

My mark on his neck seemed to glow as he spoke, the scar on his face slowly closed up. I froze, "what just happened?"

"Opening your heart healed him, silly, guess you've got healing powers too" Ava Chirped

"Healing powers?"

"Exactly as it sounds" she said dryly.

"You look like you want to devour me, not that I mind" Eros stared at me,

"Look" I pointed at the mirror beside us.

He gasped, "How..What...when"

"Ava said my healing powers manifested after I fully accepted and since you have my mark, I guess that happened.

I could see tears brim at the corner of his eyes, but he didn't say a word, instead he engulfed me in a hug.

I knew he had a lot to say, but in that moment, we basked in the quiet and silence.

