Chapter 194: Role Reversal

"Hey handsome and beautiful, do you want to take a picture with the kid as a keepsake?"

Suddenly, someone nearby holding a camera approached and asked with a smile.

"How much does it cost?"

Zhou Hanyun was immediately interested.

However, remembering the many tourist traps, she cautiously asked first.

"It's not expensive, just twenty for a photo."

The man smiled accommodatingly.

"Why don't we take a photo?"

Yang Yan noticed Zhou Hanyun's slightly eager expression and promptly suggested.

Zhou Hanyun glanced at Cai'Er, who was staring fixedly at the elephant, her eyes shining, and she nodded gently.

"Alright! You guys stand over here."

The man pointed in front of the elephant.

When Yang Yan carried Cai'Er and stood next to Zhou Hanyun, the man instructed:

"Get closer, Mom hold Dad's hand, Dad hold Mom's waist, and the kid look this way too."

Apparently, he automatically assumed this trio of high attractiveness was a family.

Zhou Hanyun's face instantly turned red.

But she didn't correct his misunderstanding, instead casting a somewhat uneasy glance at Yang Yan.

Unexpectedly, he smiled at her and naturally wrapped his right arm around her waist.

Zhou Hanyun's body noticeably stiffened for a moment, but she soon relaxed and leaned against Yang Yan's shoulder.

Click!

The man skillfully captured this warm and beautiful moment.

"Perfect! Wishing happiness and harmony to your family of three."

The man spoke these auspicious words while carefully sealing the photo and handing it to Zhou Hanyun.

Zhou Hanyun bashfully accepted the photo and hurriedly left.

The man watched her quickly retreating figure, not knowing what happened, and felt a bit baffled, thinking he might have done something wrong.

"Haha! The child's mom is shy and ran off embarrassed. Here, keep the change."

Yang Yan cheerfully handed the man a bill worth a hundred Huaxia Coins.

"Keep the change, haha," Yang Yan laughed and carried Cai'Er to chase after Zhou Hanyun.

"Dad! Why is Mom embarrassed?"

Cai'Er asked curiously.

"Your mom is shy! She blushes easily, but we don't mind her."

Yang Yan explained with a smile.

Cai'Er thought for a moment and then stopped asking.

After spending the day at the Ethnic Village, it was dark, and Yang Yan and Zhou Hanyun returned to the hotel with Cai'Er.

Unlike the hotel where they met Zheng Feng, this time they booked two rooms.

Zhou Hanyun took Cai'Er back to her room and immediately instructed Cai'Er to wash up once inside.

Then, she couldn't help but take out the photo they took this afternoon to look at it.

"Mom, why are you smiling?"

At some point, Cai'Er had finished washing up and came out.

The little girl stood in front of Zhou Hanyun and watched for a long while, noticing the smile on her face, and tilted her head to ask.

"Oh... it's nothing, Cai'Er. Since you're done washing up, get some rest! We've walked around a lot today and must be tired. Mom will wash up and come to sleep with you, okay?"

Zhou Hanyun quickly put the photo on the table and said awkwardly.

Thump thump thump!

The next morning, a gentle yet somewhat urgent knock on the door sounded.

Yang Yan opened the door, and it was not Zhou Hanyun but Cai'Er.

She stood there in a little nightgown at the doorway with a pitiful look.

Yang Yan felt a pang in his heart and quickly pulled her inside, asking with concern:

"Why aren't you properly dressed?"

Cai'Er leaned against Yang Yan's chest, choking as she spoke:

"Mom is looking for them for me! Dad, I miss Grandpa."

Yang Yan bent down and gently kissed Cai'Er's forehead, saying:

"Grandpa went to a very faraway place! You might not see him again. But it's okay, you have Dad and Mom, right?"

"When we return to East Sea City, Dad will introduce you to a little sister, okay? She can play with you every day in the future."

"Okay."

Cai'Er nodded lightly, but the sadness still lingered in her eyes.

"Cai'Er, why did you come over here? Now, hurry and get dressed."

Zhou Hanyun said with a slight reprimand as she pulled Cai'Er's hand.

After taking Cai'Er to get dressed, Yang Yan couldn't help but furrow his brow.

"Need to think of a way to cover this."

After pondering for a moment, he suddenly spoke to himself.

Today was the first day of the Spring City Jewelry Exhibition.

Zhou Hanyun wanted to stay an extra day in Spring City just to see the exhibition.

Early in the morning, Zhou Hanyun called Yang Yan and finally Zheng Feng, who had recovered his composure, to go out together.

The jewelry exhibition took place downtown.

Despite being called an exhibition, it was actually just a marketing strategy.

In essence, it wasn't much different from various sales fairs, except the items sold were more upscale.

At this point, the entrance to the exhibition hall was already crowded.

A large stage was set up in front, and performances had already begun.

Numerous tables and chairs were neatly arranged before the stage and were filled with guests.

Now was still early, and the jewelry exhibition hadn't officially started.

The main door was sealed with a long red silk ribbon, but a long line had already formed outside.

Evidently, the organizers' extensive publicity efforts had paid off well.

"This jewelry exhibition is hosted by Cainan Province's Jade Association, and like previous events, there will likely be a substantial display and sale of finished and semi-finished products, even raw stones."

"We already negotiated with suppliers from Myanmar, but if we can buy some here too, that would be even better."

Zheng Feng had finally returned to his professional self.

He was now fully into Zhou's Jewelry, instinctively thinking from the company's perspective.

This was undoubtedly a good start.

"How are the prices here?"

Zhou Hanyun could also sense the change and asked, feeling pleased.

"The raw materials here cost ten to twenty percent more than in Myanmar. However, compared to other parts of Huaxia, it's still much cheaper. We've already negotiated with suppliers in Myanmar, and the jadeite from there is good. We can buy in bulk without any issues."

"However, I still suggest we take a trip to New Province to check out the nephrite jade there. Nephrite jade is the most renowned jade in Huaxia, and with years of excessive mining, the stock is scarce. Its prices keep rising, but there's still plenty of room for growth. If we handle it well now, the profits will be substantial."

Zhou Hanyun nodded in agreement:

"I've already sent people to make contact over there for New Province's Hetian region, but there's no news yet. Once we're done here, let's go there personally!"

Seeing the ambition of the beautiful boss, Zheng Feng was overjoyed.

He had been feeling frustrated in recent years, and now he found a good platform where he could finally show what he was capable of.
