Chapter 47 (a)

Matteo

The training hall is big. Other than the one that Freya and Rapha were using, it had a sliding door connected to the next one on both sides that was used mostly by warriors and the other one was by omegas or younger generations who didn't have their wolves yet. Now, I am with Calvin talking to Clay and Alec about their training. They were surprised when they first heard it because they were expecting to join a tournament and do training after they won.

"So, the whole tournament thing was to be able to find someone who would look after Freya?" Clay asked. Calvin looked at me and, even if I didn't want him to call my mate by her name, I knew too well that his care for her is genuine.

"And to train wolves as well. Although I am not forcing you to accept this. I just thought that compared to whoever won the tournament, you would be more protective of Freya because you are their friend." I answered. "By protecting, you will have to stay and live here. Which means, you will no longer be the future beta and gamma of the Midnight Pack," I added.

The two looked at each other. I already thought that they would agree. I was looking forward to this. They are very essential to my mate's well being, especially when she was having some flashes of memories that she wanted to forget. I saw them nod at each other and replied, "We agree."

"Thank you From here onwards, you are going to undergo intense training Like you are a Lycan and I know this will be too hard on you, but I already saw you two fight and I am sure that you will be able to make it. You are strong, but you will be stronger after this training. I am thankful that you are already smart, so we don't need to work on that matter." I replied and then I looked at Calvin and he nodded. "Beta Calvin will be the one who will supervise your training and monitor your progress." I added and left them.

I went to Freya after and saw how she was doing. I didn't need to show up myself because I knew that Rapha would only get mad at me if I interrupted them, so I stayed on the sideline. It was really hard to outwit her. I remember our conversation in Dad's office.

 Flashback ***

"Why do I have a feeling that something was going on and I was not allowed to know?" she asked after. Is there anything that I can hide from her?

"It's just your feeling. Why would we never fill you with information when you are already Luna?" I asked instead. The others looked natural, as though we were really not hiding anything from her.

"I don't know," she replied and looked at her parents, whose faces were all casual as well. They told her what she needed to know about herself, so I'm sure that she will trust them when they say nothing.

"Maybe you are still thinking about what you saw last night." I said and informed her that I had already told Dad and her parents about it.

"What do you think is that, his highness?" she asked,

"I don't know either, but if ever something flashes on your mind, don't hesitate to tell it to me. We might get some clues next " Dad replied, casually.

"I was trying to think about it and squeezed my mind, but I only got headaches whenever I did that." she said, and I looked at everyone giving the "I told you so" look.

“You don’t need to force yourself. That image comes to you without even thinking about it, right?” I asked and she nodded.

“Yeah, it just came. But I had a feeling that I needed to know everything about it to know more about myself.” she said and that made me worried. I was sure that she was going to try and remember or find out something about what she saw

“Baby, let’s take it slow. Don’t force yourself to remember anything because it will only cause you a headache, which is not normal for us.” said, smiling. “They will come to you sooner or later, and once they do, you have to be ready. There might be some that you didn’t want to know or see but you will have to go through the process so you will be able to move on. You have to train harder, not for your physical strength, but for your mental and emotional health as well.” I added,

Chapter 47 (b)

“Your parents told me that your pack has been slaughtered,” Dad said, “That may be the reason why you can’t remember anything about your past. Because you may have seen everything and the child in you can’t bear it, which causes your brain or even your wolf to protect you by temporarily covering them. Just like what Matteo had said, you have to train physically and emotionally so when the flashes of memories flood your mind, you are ready and will be able to think rationally.”

“Why do I have to be rational?” she asked,

“Because when a person is hurt, they could think of anything else but to feel better and they will do anything to make that happen. If they’ve been hurt, they would seek revenge once they remembered what had happened to them. But if you are emotionally prepared, you will be able to think more than just about the revenge itself, but also about the aftermath of your action.”

“So, when someone hurts me, will I just let them?”

“No. I am saying that when you remember that someone hurt you gravely, you will be able to think about your revenge but you will be doing it for justice and properly. You won’t be able to just run around, hunt them and kill them without thinking. Remember, you are royal. You have many ways to punish those who have done, not just you, but also others, bad things.”

Dad was indirectly telling her now that something really happened in her past and Freya was not an idiot not to think that way. “For now, I will have to train myself and be prepared.”

“Yes, dear” he replied, then she looked at her parents who were nodding their heads at her, smiling.

 End of Flashback ***

She knew that something big was going to happen in her life and looking at her now, she looked determined and serious. Later, she will be talking to the palace’s psychology doctor to prepare her mentally and emotionally.

‘And you had better prepare yourself as well.’

‘Oh, you’re still there.’ I replied, King, my beast was not a talker. He just stays at the back of my mind and him talking to me now, is really something. Clearly, it was our mate that made him do something he doesn’t usually do.

‘Be serious, Matteo. I am an ancient Lycan and Pi was an ancient wolf.’ he replied. It was the first time that I found that out and I don’t think Freya knows it. ‘She had no idea and so, like Pi, I found out about that when we marked each other.’ he added.

‘How?’

‘After she marked us, I was able to see her deeper soul and found a mark. It was a crescent moon that was not visible to our naked eyes. Only by looking deeper into them, which only happens when we’re marked by our fated mates.’ he explained,

‘If she’s ancient just like you, does this mean that something big is going to happen?’ I asked,

‘Yes, the moon goddess will never pair both powerful souls for no reason. She always paired a strong alpha with a wolfless omega. A strong female Lykan to a male wolf, so the balance will be intact But since the moon goddess foresaw a war, she made Freya our savior and led the kingdom’

‘Did something like this happen before? I mean, a war?’

‘Yes, and I was the one leading it as well, and it was also Pi who was with me.’

‘Why are you telling me this just now?’ I asked, feeling frustrated.

‘Because you are an idiot who keeps on banging every female,’ he replied, and I chuckled,

‘Is that the reason why you didn’t talk much to me before?’

‘I only wanted my mate. I am not like the others who would follow their sexual desires.’ he replied,

‘Sorry about that, I cannot bring back the times but I can assure you that it will only be our mate for me and no one else.’

‘You better be,’ he replied before he retreated to the back of my head. I had a feeling that we would be talking a lot from now on.

Chapter 48 (a)

Freya

I want to know what happened but I cannot force myself to remember everything. I always get a headache every time I do that and just like Matteo said, it was uncommon for a Lycan or a wolf to feel something like that. We heal a lot faster than anybody else, so a simple headache should be nothing. But because the cause was I was forcing my brain to remember everything that I wanted to know.

King Marco has a point. I needed to condition myself and prepare my heart and mind for the truth that will be uncovered once I regain my memory. I was very ill tempered and would surely do what everybody does when they found out that they had been hurt by a certain someone and I shouldn't act recklessly. I didn't want to worry Matteo and my parents. Especially them. They never hide anything from me but tell me everything they know about my biological parents.

"Princess, you're getting sluggish." Rapha said, we were in the training hall and we were doing our sparring. After our little meeting yesterday, I couldn't help but think about it.

"I'm sorry, something came to mind." I replied in a low voice. He heaved a deep sigh and started to take off all of his boxing gear.

"Come on, princess." He said, so I followed him. He sat on a bench and motioned to the space beside him and handed me a bottle of water. Camila went back to our bedroom to get the hang of clothes that she had forgotten to bring with us "I know that you are thinking about what we talked about yesterday" He said as I took my seat

"I just want to know what happened" I replied and concern was all over his face.

"I know, but forcing it will not help you. It only makes you space out just like earlier. You have to relax and concentrate on what you are doing right now. You must have been through a lot during that time and knowing what has transpired can make or break you. But, the way I see you now. I can tell that it is going to break you. That's why you need to prepare for it. Your heart, your mind, in that way, no matter how painful it was, you will be able to get yourself up and do the right thing." he explained. I looked down and thought for a while.

The king had already told me about this, but my heart was aching to know my past. Mom and Dad had told me that my parents were the Alpha and Luna of the Howers Pack and that pack was now completely gone. Since then, I have no idea. My parents brought me there when I was a kid and have seen the ruins ever since. And as I grew up, I realized ed that it happened at the time that my parents found me along the border of the Midnight Pack.

“You have to focus on what you need to do right now, Princess. Learn not to let your emotions control you. Remember, you are a strong Luna and queen of the entire supernatural species. You have to be at your wits at all times.” Rapha added. I looked at him and nodded my head. He smiled after and got up before he offered his hand, so I took it and we walked back to the ring.

I decided to do just what they said. I will make sure to strengthen myself in all aspects and be the Luna and queen that I should be. We continue our training and now, I am more focused and motivated. In the next three days, we trained the whole day and only had our daily regular meals as a break. Tomorrow, the tournament is going to start and, since Clay and Alec are no longer included, the Midnight Pack send another warrior to replace them.

Speaking of the Midnight Pack, Jorie was one of the pack’s representatives. He is soon to be Alpha and surely he needed training, especially from the palace. He will be able to learn a lot about running the pack and he will be more pack oriented. He had been thinking about himself and thought that being the Alpha’s son would always give him what he wanted. I just hope that if he ever wins and will have the chance to get recruited for the training, he will take it and use it as an advantage.

“Princess, what do you want to wear, this one or this one?” Camila asked. We were in our walk-in closet and she was helping me to get ready for the welcoming ceremony of the fighters.

"Is that the one Matteo and I bought at Ricky's?" I asked and she nodded, "I never thought that I would actually need them this soon." I added, and took a black gown. Since the event was for the tournament, I don't see any reason why I couldn't wear black. Camila asked me, so black is definitely fine.

"That's really beautiful, princess. The color compliments your white complexion and the cut of the gown is very sexy. The prince will surely salivate when he sees you in that," Camila said. I smiled at her as my cheeks turned red thinking about my mate. We had been too close and there was no night that we hadn't mate. Our bond is getting deeper and deeper as the days go on. It's not a bad thing, right? I mean, he's my mate and it was natural for me to fall in love with him, over and over again.

"Thank you, Camila."

"Next time, you should buy more. The previous queen had a lot of dresses and gowns too. She's like you, and doesn't like to buy things. Especially the expensive ones, but she had to be ready and prepared at all times, so the king convinced her to just buy them because she's going to use them more often." Camila explained, "Once you and Prince Matteo reign, you will have no time to think about other things but the betterment and well being of every species. So, while it is not the case yet, you have to enjoy yourself and get everything you need. You won't be able to do them at will when you become queen," she added

Being a queen must be really hard, the way she said it, I don't think that I am going to be even at the same level as the previous queen. What more to surpass her? I thought, just like alphas and lunas, they were happy having that power over every species. But it turned out that it wasn't always like that. The responsibility was so great that it made me question my capabilities.

I started to get dressed and, oh goddess, Camila was really good with make-up. She was born to be a stylist because she made me as beautiful as a swan. I couldn't believe what I was seeing in my reflection in the mirror. I looked at her and she was smiling at me. "You are such a beautiful princess!" she exclaimed,

"It's because of you. I didn't know that you could do magic," I replied,

"I didn't do much. You are already beautiful to begin with." I stood up and she moved back to have a whole look at me. We were both smiling when the door swung open and Matteo came in. He was stunned for a moment and, as if realizing what was going on, Camila excused herself and left the room.

"You are so beautiful, baby," he said. I was so happy that he liked how I looked. He offered me his hand and took it. He led me out of the bedroom and walked down. The tournament's opening ceremony will be held in the event hall and the lighting of a torch happened this morning on the training ground.

Everyone was there and I felt a little embarrassed thinking I was late. "We're on time baby." Matteo said as he gave my hand a little squeeze. Clay and Alec were in position along with the palace warriors, looking at me, smiling. I was about to go and greet them when I saw Alec's face and his eyes were not on me anymore. He was looking at someone behind me, so I looked over my shoulder and found Camila, who had her eyes on him too. Are they?

"Mineeeee!!!" Alec yelled

"I guess Alec will really have to stay in the palace," Matteo told Freya. They were looking at the two who were now hugging each other. The king looked at them and he was happy because Camila was very close to him as well and had treated her like a family. That's why she assigned her to look after Freya. He stood up and said,

"This is a celebration for us. In addition to the opening ceremony, our dear Camila had finally found her mate from the Midnight Pack." Everyone looked at the new mated couple who didn't care about what was going on around them and were just staring at each other. But they had to continue the event and even if they didn't want to, they had to go back to where they should be.

"Are you that happy?" Freya asked Camila as she saw her smiling.

"Huh?" she reacted and nodded her head really fast. "And very excited.. princess. I never thought that I am going to find him now." she added.

"Why didn't you see him before this? I mean, he was here during the oathtaking."

"I went to my parents'. My mom fought with dad and he wanted me to help her woo her." She replied, "When I came back the next day, I kind of smelled his scent but ignored it, thinking I was just imagining it since I was too eager to meet and find my mate. But when I smelled his scent again, I decided to follow it but lost it somewhere I really thought that I was never going to find him," she added

"My nose is not as sharp as everyone else's because I don't have a wolf or a Lycan. I am an omega, so my senses are not as good as the others. Speaking of omega, will he accept me if he finds out about it?" she asked worriedly.

"You don't have to worry about such a thing because Alec is a very good guy. He had been my friend even though he thought that I didn't have my wolf." she answered, and that made Camila feel relieved. Having no beasts is one of her insecurities. She saw and knew some wolves who rejected their mates because of being an omega and they feared that it would happen to her. "You are a very sweet girl, Alec will surely love you. He had no choice because you are very lovable."

she added.

"Thank you, princess."

"You don't have to thank me, I was just telling the truth," she replied. Matteo was just listening to them and he was smiling internally as he saw how good Freya is when she becomes queen. Without her knowing, she had started to act like a true queen and a mother to the kingdom.

Meanwhile, Joric was staring at Freya. He had been liking her since they were kids, but because of what had happened to her, she never noticed him. It was the main reason why he bullied her because he thought that only when he did that, that she was able to see him. Growing up, he prayed to the moon goddess to give her to him as his mate

But when he found out that she had no scent and he wouldn't be able to know whether he was his or not, he started to feel agitated, especially when his father, Alpha Daniel, always warned him about not getting too close to her

Until now, he still couldn't believe the fact that Prince Matteo was her mate. He didn't want to believe that he smelled her scent when he couldn't. No one couldn't, so he was suspicious of how the prince managed to know that she was his. He had no idea about the eye contact of two mated couples and would never have, since the school taught them, that they caught their mates' scents to be able for them to know each other as theirs.

Alpha Daniel had warned him before he went to the palace to gain more knowledge about the palace and the royals so they would be able to know what they could please them. But he has no intention of telling his father whatever he finds out. He had a plan of doing everything he could and giving his best to acquire power and strength for his pack. And if ever he found out that Freya was really his mate.

The king started to announce the commencement of the tournament and he informed everyone, especially the Midnight Pack, about Clay and Alec. Joric felt envious that he was not selected to protect Freya. He would gladly turn down the alpha position if it was for her and her safety. He was furious at both Clay and Alec, especially when the latter had already found his mate who was also the one who took care of the woman he liked.

After the opening ceremony, they were given a chance to enjoy the night as the competition would start the following day. Matteo and Freya didn't leave the party, they wanted to be with all the warriors so they wouldn't feel that the tournament was only for a show. They wanted to show them that the palace was actually ready to support them and ready to provide them with their needs to improve their fighting skills and abilities.

“Why are you still here?” Freya asked Camila.

“You are still here, so I had to be here as well.”

“You just found your mate and you want to stay with me? What’s wrong with you two?” she asked, confused.

“He is here as well, so it was fine. Our duty comes first because we will have our time later,” Camila replied. Freya said no more and let “Don’t worry about them, baby. I was so proud of Alec. I already felt his frustration but he was holding himself up,” he told her.

“Why don’t you just tell them to leave already? Look at them, they both look stupid, staring at each other, smiling like an idiot.” she said, and he laughed really hard as the new-found mates looked at them, confused.

“I think you need to go, you two.” Clay told Alec. “Come on man, you are only making me feel envious here. You look as if you want to eat each other!” Clay added.

“Thankfully, there is someone who gets my point,” Freya said,

“Alright, you two. Go and have time together. Get to know each other or even fu each other just stay the hell out of our sight.” Matteo told them, which made Camila’s face turn red.

“His highness, don’t be too vulgar. See how shy my mate is.” Alec said and walked towards Camila.

“Fine, just go.” Matteo replied and they both left the party.

Matteo was giving instructions to Clay when Joric approached Freya “Tell me, is he really your mate?” he asked,

“What is this all about, Joric? I thought we had already made things clear Yes, he is my mate.”

“The prince has been in the pack for 4 months and you didn’t say anything. Surely you r

“She already told you that you’re not. Stop this nonsense, Joric, because I don’t like the idea of someone claiming what was already mine.” Matteo warned him,

“I am going to get stronger, so when I finally get the chance to know that you are mine, I will be able to defend you and our bond.” Joric said before he left. MATteo, Freya and Clay were looking at him. They had no idea that he was still holding and believing that she was his.

‘Just you wait, Freya, you’re going to be mine.’ Joric told himself as he walked back to his dorm.

The event was a success and the king was really delighted. He was satisfied with the outcome of the opening ceremony and looked forward to the next day. He saw how competitive everyone was and as excited as he was. Everyone seems to be hoping to b ecome the winner because of the training opportunity as the main prize.

Being able to train in the palace gives their pack an advantage and others will think that the royals will favor the trainers' pack because of the loyalty and allegiance that they may actually pledge.

There were 150 participants and they would be screened through a knockout battle. They will be paired randomly and will have to fight. The loser will be out permanently. They can choose to stay in the palace as spectators or they could go back to their pack.

The next round will be named as a riot. There were three of them fighting. It's up to them how they will be able to knock down their opponents when they are fighting two to one. This round will be able to teach them how to win in an outnumbered situation.

Round three will be for team work. The twenty-five of them will be divided into five groups with 5 members each. This will make them prove their ability to adapt to different circumstances, especially when they are from different packs. They should be able to learn how to connect with each other for them to win.

And the last round will be the battle royal. The team that will win the third round will be battling against each other. Being together in a team, they should at least learn something about each other that they will use to take them down.

Because they want to form camaraderie, the criteria for this round will be based on the number of hits they will give. They will be wearing gear that will detect the hits and will be automatically recorded on the board. It is for everyone to see and know that the tournament is fair and just.

"As the rules have been explained to you about this round, we will proceed to our first round, the knockout. Please look on the board as your name will be picked electronically. We will try to finish this round in one week, so if ever, do not rush fighting and think about what you need to do when you're in the center of this field with your opponent." Kevin. Calvin's warrior said. He was the one who was assigned to lead the tournament. He is very strict and looks into details. Even the slightest cheating would not work on him.

“Let’s pick our first pair of fighters.” he said, and then the screen started to show the roulette, like, with the names of the participants. “Loly and Rena” Kevin said, and looked at the fighters and there stood two she-wolves. They were asked to go to the center and Kevin called one of the warriors who was assigned to become the referee for the day.

Loly and Rena were both good fighters, everyone could see how much they wanted to stay and continue the tournament and would have the chance to train in the palace. It was their motivation, so they were really giving their best to show their skills and talents. As for the king, he was sure that every pack chose their best fighters. He could see how enthusiastic everyone was and with Loly and Rena having the first match, the crowd became more excited.

Freya was worried about the she-wolves who would be fighting male wolves. That’s why she didn’t go and watch but did her training instead. Surely there were strong she-wolves. She knows that the effort and discipline that they put themselves into so they will be able to be as strong as others cannot be compared to anything. There will be no amount of money that could pay for that.

But male wolves were naturally stronger than she-wolves. Being an omega is one of the proofs. There were a lot more she-wolves omega- than males and the ratio will be another proof. “Princess, you’re out of yourself again. Why don’t we just watch the tournament?” Rapha asked.

“I was just concerned about the she-wolves,” she replied,

“It’s natural, you’re the future queen, so you start to feel your bond with your people. But the tournament was safe and the king, as well as Matteo, was there. You have nothing to worry about. They will never let any casualties or anyone get injured severely.” Rapha replied.

“I guess you’re right,” she replied and continued with her training. Camila had not been with her since she was with Rapha. She let her watch Alec doing his training with Calvin and even the beta didn’t like it. He had no choice, since she allowed it. He even asked f or Matteo's help even if he already knew the outcome and, just as he thought, he couldn't do anything about it either.

Now he had to watch Alec and Camila looking at each other from time to time and he was getting pissed since he didn't have his mate yet. Everyone was busy with the training and the tournament while something evil was brewing in the outskirts of the palace. They had no idea that a threat to Freya's life that they were thinking was in motion and might happen soon.

"Is everything ready?" asked the man,

"Of course,"

"What about the princess? Are you sure that she's not the child from the Howler's Pack that Matteo said was his mate?"

"There's no way that it will change. There may be some variable that will interrupt it but the outcome will be the same unless we do something about it."

"But we had already killed the entire Howlers Pack, so there was no one from there who could be mated to the prince."

"Have you seen Freya's wolf?"

“No, my Lord. We didn’t join the pack run when she transformed. But according to everyone who was there, her wolf was gray.”

“Not silver?”

“Gray is what they were saying, everyone in the palace was there and they all said it was gray.”

“Then we have nothing to worry about. But to be sure, ask someone to follow her all the time.”
