

R Woman 93

Chapter 93: Got the collaboration case with JK. (Third Update)

Su Qiangda's smile stiffened for a moment, his tone contemptuous.

"It's not that I, Su Qiangda, look down on you, Miss Chu, but you've already declared to the world that you would prevent the Chu Family from going bankrupt. Now, think about it, in the vast Capital City, who doesn't know Miss Chu's name? You repeatedly say you won't let Chu Family go under, but what proof do you have that you possess such capacity?"

As these words were uttered, the shareholders who were somewhat wavering immediately firmed up their stance.

What good are pretty words without actual strength? In their eyes, Chu Jin was nothing more than a waste who had lived for eighteen years.

What could a waste bring to them?

"What if I could secure a cooperation deal with JK Group?" Chu Jin leaned forward slightly. "To my knowledge, JK Group is currently calling for bids. If our Chu Family could secure JK's cooperation deal, wouldn't that prove my capability, and also lift the Chu Family out of the current crisis..."

"A cooperation deal with JK?" The mocking intent in Su Qiangda's eyes was clear. He cut Chu Jin off before she could finish, "Miss Chu, you must be still half asleep. Do you think JK would consider any Tom, Dick, or Harry's proposal? There's a saying, 'A gentleman does not stand beneath a collapsing wall.'

Since Miss Chu disagrees with my proposal, I have no choice but to terminate my contract with the Chu Family!"

With that, Su Qiangda ripped off the nameplate on his chest and threw it on the table.

Some shareholders below, hearing Su Qiangda say this, also made their position clear by ripping off their nameplates, "We are also withdrawing our shares!"

The situation momentarily spiraled out of control!

If they continued to stay with the Chu Family under these circumstances, they would truly be fools.

It would be better to disentangle themselves early from the Chu Family while it's not yet completely bankrupt.

Chu Jin adjusted the microphone slightly, her expression still unchanged, and she lifted her eyes to look at the shareholders below. In her deep eyes was a sharpness that could not be ignored.

"I respect the choices of all the uncles."

The clear ten words, transmitted through the microphone, reached everyone's ears.

Su Qiangda's face changed again and again; he had not expected such a perfect plan to be thwarted by a 'useless' person.

He had thought that if he announced his departure from the Chu Family, Chu Jin would be at least somewhat scared; after all, if he left, a large number of the Chu Family's shareholders would follow.

But he hadn't expected Chu Jin wouldn't even say a word to retain them!

Good, she has spine!

If that's the case, then he couldn't be blamed for showing no mercy!

He was eager to see how long the Chu Family could struggle under the suppression from Jun Ao without their support!

"Miss Chu is indeed a brave young calf not afraid of tigers. I, Su Qiangda, truly admire that," he said, holding back his anger and looking at Chu Jin with narrowed eyes filled with ominous intent. "I just hope that Miss Chu does not come to regret this in the future!"

Chu Jin's gaze toward Su Qiangda grew colder, and the dimples on her cheeks deepened with a trace of a smile, "Uncle Su, do not let the door hit you on the way out."

Su Qiangda snorted coldly and turned to those still sitting below, "Directors Zhang, Wang, Zhou, one must recognize the situation when making decisions. Do you really believe a waste can bring splendor to the Chu Family? However, considering the years we've worked together, if Chu Family goes bankrupt, feel free to come to me, Su Qiangda, anytime!"

With that said, he angrily turned and left.

A line of people headed by Su Qiangda left the Chu Family in a grandiose manner.

The majority chose to leave.

The ones who stayed were few and far between.

Those who could stay at such a time were all who had weathered hardships with Chu Liyan and were absolutely loyal to the Chu Family.

"I am very grateful to the few uncles for standing by the Chu Family at this time. Rest assured, I will not let the Chu Family head towards destruction!" As Chu Jin spoke, she took out a USB drive from her backpack, inserted it into the laptop port, leaned forward to press a few keys on the computer, and the large screen behind lit up.

The text that appeared on the screen was Chu Jin's summary of the Chu Family's current situation, as well as the planning for its future.

Presented in the form of a PPT, the big screen scrolled neither too quickly nor too slowly.

Just enough to let people see clearly.

Chu Jin, with one hand on the mouse and the other propped on the conference table, spoke in a light voice that continuously resonated from the speakers.

"The Chu Family now requires new blood. The times are advancing, the environment is changing, but the Chu Family's management philosophy has always been at a standstill. We need to evolve with the changes of the times..."

Despite her subdued voice, there was a stable and commanding authority about it.

The more the shareholders listened, the brighter their eyes shone.

Having been at the Chu Family for most of their lives, they had never felt as exhilarated as they were now, except under Chu Liyan's leadership.

They were eager to implement Chu Jin's new strategies right away.

But there were objections. "Miss Chu, your analysis is very good, but our Chu Family has operated this way for more than 30 years. If we suddenly switch to a new set of plans, will our clients accept them?"

Armchair strategies ultimately lack practical experience.

Some plans are easy to talk about.

Putting them into action is another matter altogether.

Moreover, Chu Jin was seen by them as someone who had already wasted 18 years.

No sooner had these words been spoken than some echoed the sentiment, "Exactly, Miss Chu, I believe the most important thing right now is how to get through the current difficulties. We should send someone to apply for corporate funding loans from the four major banks to fill the Chu Family's financial gaps, rather than indulging in impractical fantasies..."

The few shareholders who had been excited at first felt as though they had been doused with cold water.

Right, how could they forget? The withdrawal of shareholders would inevitably cause a financial shortfall in the Chu Family. Whether the Chu Family can continue to sustain itself is still a difficulty, let alone having the energy to implement Chu Jin's new plans.

"A loan?" Chu Jin's lips curved slightly, "That's not necessary."

As she spoke, she drew a black card from her pocket, and the words that followed stunned the people below for quite some time.

A clear voice came from the microphone, "Here is two hundred million."

Thanks to her twice-lived life experience, it had taken her only a few days to turn forty million into two hundred million.

Two hundred million!

She clearly had such an ace up her sleeve, yet she chose to reveal it only at this moment.

If she had shown her hand earlier, those people might not have chosen to leave...

The shareholders suddenly had a revelation, understanding her previous true intentions.

So, her earlier actions had been a purge!

Seizing the opportunity to clear out all those who harbored other intentions regarding the Chu Family.

Such ruthless tactics at such a young age were truly befitting of a descendant of the Chu Family!

The remaining shareholders were all secretly rejoicing, glad that they hadn't left with the others just then.

A smile curved on Chu Jin's lips; she adjusted the microphone and articulated deliberately, "Dear uncles, I believe, as long as we try hard, the Chu Family will surely advance to the next level of splendor!"