Chapter 241 Obtaining the Invitation

Niki kept saying, with sincere tone, as if she was really worried about Grandpa Graham's condition.

"Don't cry, Miss Linch." Lara looked at Niki who was crying, feeling at a loss.

"There must be a way out. Things will mend In the end. Cheer up."

Niki nodded and wiped her tears with her hand. "Hmm, I won't cry."

After wiping away the few tears hanging on her face, Niki seemed to realize that her behavior was somewhat inappropriate.

She was a bit embarrassed. "Miss Turner, I'm sorry. I was a little out of place. Sorry about that."

She spoke like this, but her hypocritical posture remained the same.

Lara waved her hand straightforwardly and said, "It's okay. You're worried about your grandpa, that's why you cried. I understand."

Niki's eyes were grateful and she seemed to kneel down. "Thank you very much, Miss Turner, for your understanding."

"Although Grandpa Graham is not very kind to me and doesn't like me, he is an elder and I still have great respect for him."

The implied meaning of her words was very obvious.

She wanted to say that although Grandpa Graham was not kind to her, fortunately, she had a kind heart, and never cared about these things. She was still very kind to Grandpa Graham.

She was trying to boasting about herself!

Natalie stood behind her, listening expressionless as Niki was lying here.

These dramas had been used by Niki in front of Julian countless times, and Natalie had long been tired of them.

“Didn’t she come up with some new tricks?” Natalie thought.

Get Boy

She pursed her lips tightly. She endured the nausea in her heart as she watched Niki play for so long, losing her patience.

“Since grandpa fell ill, I’ve been running to the hospital almost twice a day. I can’t rest assured that others are taking care of my grandpa.”

“But later I was kidnapped and injured my leg...” Niki looked at her leg and said, “I can no longer go to the hospital to visit Grandpa Graham... Oh, I don’t know when he will wake up.”

“If I were kidnapped later, I would have had more time to find a doctor for Grandpa. And grandpa may not be the way he is now.”

Niki felt sorry for Grandpa Graham, frowning slightly, and her face was filled with resentment towards herself.

“It’s my fault. I was kidnapped at the wrong time How could I hurt my leg when grandpa was sick?”

Lara frowned and grabbed Niki’s hand, “Miss Linch, don’t say that!”

“No one could have predicted the kidnapping. Your leg hurt and you suffer. You are in such a pain, and you are still thinking about others.”

“Oh, you’re too kind!” Commented Lara.

Niki’s eyelashes drooped slightly, and her eyes were somewhat red.

Lara couldn’t help but be moved when she looked at Niki like this.

Lara came from the Turner family and was the only daughter in the family. She naturally grew up in clover, so that she was a little indulgent.

It was just because of this environment that she was well protected by her family and had never seen the dark side of society.

There was a naive sense of justice in her, a fierce hatred of evil, and a forthright disposition.

But that didn’t mean she didn’t know right and wrong, and didn’t know how to read people.

The Turner family was a famous and prestigious family in New York. Although they only had one daughter, they had many relatives.

These relatives kept an eye on her family every day, either scheming or admiring vanity, engaging in intriguing against each other.

Lara had seen it enough and had been tired of it.

But as she grew up, she had rarely seen a girl like Niki with a soft looking and a kind heart.

The only time Lara met a kind-hearted woman like Niki was when she was very young...

At the Spears family banquet when she was a child, a girl was the first to come to protect her when she was at a loss. The way the girl smiled was clear and peaceful...

She still remembered it to this day.

She had a great liking for kind-hearted girls.

Lara came out of her memory and took the initiative to ask, "Is Grandpa Graham's illness serious?"

"Mmm." Niki nodded lightly.

Lara thought for a moment and said, "There should be several invitations in our family for this medical exchange conference. I'll help you get one."

"Really?!" Niki said in a surprised tone, as if flattered.

"Of course. I never tell lies."

The excitement on Niki's face was evident. As if she was afraid that Lara would turn back later, she quickly spoke up, "Thank you very much, Miss Turner."

"You are Grandpa Graham's savior!"

With that, Niki pulled out her chair to and was about to kneel down, expressing gratitude to Lara.

Perhaps to make Lara feel her sincerity, she knelt down straight, disregarding the gaze of others in the room.

Lara only heard a thump.

She lowered her eyes to look at Niki and was startled. "Gosh, get up."

"So many people are watching, and you still have injuries on your leg."

Lara quickly reached out to pick up Niki.

"Thank you for your kindness. After Grandpa Graham is getting well, I will ask Julian to invite you to our house."

Lara waved her hand and said, "Not at all. Please think nothing of it. I'm just doing a small favor."

Natalie watched silently, with no expression at all.

It wasn't until Niki knelt down that she was somewhat shocked.

Niki knelt for whatever she wanted, regardless of the occasion. Natalie really "admired" her for that.

Natalie listened for a while and as of now, Niki had not shown any negative thoughts towards the divine doctor of the Spears family.

She spent the entire conversation at the exchange conference, clearly heading for the invitation.

But Natalie knew that Niki was definitely not asking for an invitation to save Grandpa Graham, after all, Niki was the one who made him this way.

“If Grandpa Graham could be saved, and had always been a vegetable, isn’t that what Niki wants?”

“Why did she bother to get the invitation?”

Natalie thought and didn’t understand.

She pursed her lips and didn’t listen to what Niki and Lara said anymore. She just walked straight away.

As soon as she took few steps, the voice of the salesperson came from behind, “Miss, what are you doing here? I just looked for you several times and didn’t find you!”

Although the voice was not that loud, it may be due to her excitement, it sounded harsh, and everyone around could hear it clearly.

Natalie nodded and said, “I’m just walking around.”

“Do I have to sign?”

The salesperson quickly replied, “Yes, I have everything ready. All we need is your signature!”

“Let’s go then.”

Then they walked towards the innermost room.

Sitting in the chair, Niki keenly heard the voice behind her. She felt it sounded so much like Natalie.

Because of her hatred towards Natalie in her heart, she was very clear about anything about Natalie.

That voice just now really sounded like Natalie.

Niki quickly turned her head to take a look.

But she only saw the back of a salesperson in a hurry.

“Did I hear it wrong?”

Niki stared at the back of the salesperson, muttering in her heart.

“Miss Linch, what’s wrong?” Lara followed Niki’s gaze and asked in confusion.

“Nothing.” Niki turned her head back and said, “I thought I saw someone I knew.”

“It shouldn’t be Natalie.”

She took a deep breath to comfort herself.

She should be happy now that she was about to get a priceless invitation!

Even Julian couldn’t get the invitation, but she got it!

Thinking of this, Niki got her smile back on her face.

Chapter 242 Goodwill Reminder

Natalie’s figure had all disappeared from Niki’s sight.

She followed the salesperson to the VIP room of the store.

The salesperson eagerly handed the prepared list to Natalie and said, "Miss, please check, you can sign it if there is no problem."

Natalie took the paper expressionlessly and gave it back to the woman with a simple glance. "I trust you, there's definitely no problem," she said.

The salesperson continued with a flattering smile on her face and said, "We can also give you a privileged VIP card of our store. The card can only be owned by someone as noble as you, and we don't give it to ordinary people."

"If you come in the future, just come to me with that card, and I can give you a big discount."

The salesperson was about to take out the card from the clothes.

"No need," Natalie waved her hand expressionlessly and politely thanked her.

She isn't interested in discounted promotion.

And she doesn't want to casually fill in her information in the store.

Natalie took the pen directly from the table and signed neatly. As she signed, she asked, "Can I drive this car today?"

"Yes, of course. "The salesperson nodded.

This young lady signed so quickly, facing such a large amount, the woman in front of her didn't even hesitate and signed directly. How rich she must be!

Such customers naturally need to be firmly grasped.

"I hope to use it as soon as possible," Natalie said lightly as she signed, clearly stating that she didn't want to waste too much time.

The salesperson had a bright smile on her face and promised readily, "I will prepare the car for you immediately."

"I'll have someone drive the car directly to the entrance. You just need to wait a little while and you can drive away."

"Thank you very much. " Natalie heard a satisfactory answer and nodded, giving the pen. to salesperson.

The salesperson quickly took over, and looking at the woman's beautiful handwriting, feeling a heavy pressure in her heart finally released.

Just after signing, she handed out the paper in her hand and looked up to see a woman also walking into this room.

Natalie's eyes narrowed slightly, and the woman's make up was exquisite. She was dressed in a pretty outfit, which had a somewhat gorgeous taste.

Two people looked at each other.

Natalie recognized at a glance that this person was the one who came to deliver documents to her uncle at the last medical meeting.

This person is also the "selling target" who was just deceived by Niki.

Natalie instinctively pursed her lips and gazed silently at Lara, as if she had something to say in her eyes.

She hesitated in her heart whether to remind Lara about being deceived by Niki.

After all, with Niki's "acting" skills, it is completely beyond the reach of ordinary people.

Moreover, Lara had just been kept in the dark by Niki and had become her tool. Natalie didn't want to see a good girl cheated by Niki.

Niki's mind was full of twists and turns. She had always focused solely on herself and completely disregarded others.

She was merciless in using others, no matter what the cost. No matter from which point of view, it seems that she should remind Lara.

Upon noticing Natalie's gaze, Lara also looked at her.

The woman's eyes were as clear as water, unlike Natalie, she looked emotionless, and she clearly did not know Natalie.

With such clear and innocent eyes, at first glance, it was a girl who had not yet delved into the world.

No wonder she was easily deceived by Niki.

A hint of sadness flashed through Natalie's heart.

Lara only glanced lightly at Natalie and then turned around. The two of them stared at each other for no more than a second.

She withdrew her gaze and walked aside without looking askance. The feeling of indifference and estrangement between the eyebrows was very obvious, with a sense of deliberately widening the distance.

There was a distance of nearly one meter between her and Natalie.

Natalie could feel that the woman was clearly unfamiliar with her and treated her like a stranger.

Feeling the other party's estrangement, Natalie was too embarrassed to say what she had just thought in her heart..

After all, if others are very indifferent to you and don't even want to talk to you, if you insist on joining in, you will be disliked by others.

Moreover, Niki first establishes a good relationship with this woman and gained her trust. She is definitely more willing to trust Niki than herself, a stranger.

If she speaks rashly, it will definitely be a bit presumptuous, and there is also a hint of stirring up discord.

Sometimes, it's better not to meddle in others' affairs casually.

Natalie was pondering in her heart as another salesperson trotted in.

She was also holding a piece of paper and a pen in her hand, wanting to hand them over to Lara for signature.

The steps were the same as those of Natalie just now, and Lara quickly signed.

The salesperson also presented a VIP card to promote to Lara.

"Miss Lara, would you like to apply for a VIP card in our store? Only noble people like you are eligible to have this card."

She took out a small card with a golden glow and said enthusiastically, "In the future, we can give you a discount with this card."

Lara glanced at the card and didn't think much. She nodded directly and said, "Okay."

Applying for a card is a piece of cake for her.

And this salesperson is also very attentive to her service. By applying for this card myself, it can be considered as helping sales.

Why not?

Natalie sat down and watched Lara quickly apply for the card with a plain expression.

After this salesperson also went out to handle the procedures happily, there were only her and Lara left in the room.

The atmosphere was temporarily somewhat peaceful.

Natalie didn't hide her gaze, she looked at Lara, hesitating whether to tell her the truth.

It was Lara who turned her face first. She blinked her eyes and said, "This young lady...

do we know each other?"

"Or is there anything you want to say?"

As soon as she entered the door, this young lady stared at herself, she must have something to say.

Natalie smiled awkwardly when she heard this, "Hmm... there should be something to say."

She first tried to lay the groundwork, "There are many bad people out of home."

Lara looked at her carefully.

Natalie continued slowly, "And bad people often approach their prey in the most delicate posture. We always need to pay attention to whether we are being manipulated by others."

Lara was confused.

She is a straightforward person who doesn't like others to beat around the bush. 'Just cut to the chase, please,' she doesn't understand why does a stranger say this to herself.

"The meaning is that the truth about Grandpa Graham becoming a vegetable is not what you heard. Be careful not to be used by others."

The other party is a straightforward person, so Natalie doesn't procrastinate and comes straight to the point.

Lara heard this and exclaimed directly, "Do you also know the Grandpa Graham?"

“Do you also know that Grandpa Graham has become a vegetable?”

Why does a casual stranger know about Graham family?

Lara shrugged her shoulders, it seems that Graham family is really a leader in Los Angeles.

Wait... did this woman just say she didn't know the truth?

What does she mean?

“Do you mean what I know is fake? I was deceived?”

Chapter 243 Confuse Right and Wrong

Lara smiled and looked seriously at the woman in front of her.

Natalie nodded lightly, “Yes.”

Lara snorted coldly, and her sharp eyes turned to Natalie, “Why should I believe you?”

Lara's expression at this moment is really not friendly, clearly questioning Natalie's statement.

What a weak girl Niki is, and her heart is so kind. How could she possibly deceive her?

Not to mention that she saved Niki's life.

Just for the sake of saving life, even ordinary people are bound to be grateful for their savior. How can they repay their kindness with resentment towards their savior?

This woman is clearly talking nonsense.

Perhaps she is Niki's enemy and wants to sow discord in front of her.

Natalie raised her eyebrows and looked at Lara's somewhat "excited" reaction, but she was noncommittal.

She had long anticipated that Lara would not believe her words.

If Lara really easily believed her words, it would indicate that her mind was a bit too simplistic, and it would actually surprise her.

"It's OK if you don't believe. I'm just trying to remind you and let you have a psychological preparation."

Natalie didn't pay any attention to Lara's words anymore. She sat down straight and picked up the tea cup and took a light sip.

She will only say the words to remind her once, because saying too much is useless.

Her goal is to stop Niki from messing around.

Lara was still waiting for Natalie's rebuttal, but unexpectedly, Natalie left such a sentence and sat down, no longer paying attention to her.

This surprised her a lot.

Shouldn't she argue with reason, find more mistakes in Niki, or fabricate some false things to slander Niki?

So she just reacted like this and told her to believe it or not?

Lara was puzzled.

"Is that all you said? Don't you say anything more?" She didn't believe Natalie only said that one sentence.

Natalie didn't speak or looked at her.

She just lowered her head to sip the tea, with an elegant and indifferent posture.

It seems that the person who just spoke rashly is not like her.

Lara didn't give up and asked, "How can I believe you with such a simple sentence?"

"Do you have anything else to say?"

"No," said Natalie without looking up.

This disrupted Lara's planned rebuttal and disappointment flashed across her face.

Why doesn't this person play according to the routine?

She's still full of words to refute!

The atmosphere quieted down, and Lara couldn't help but pull out her chair and sat down, waiting for the arrival of sales.

But after waiting for a while, the sales didn't come either.

Perhaps out of boredom, or perhaps out of curiosity about the woman in front of her.

Lara suddenly asked coldly, "What's your name?"

Natalie raised her eyebrows and put down the teacup in her hand. "Name?"

Lara nodded late and looked serious.

“I never asked your name, so there shouldn’t be any need to tell you my name, right?”

Lara was stunned.

She seemed a bit angry and raised her tone. “You just swore to me that Niki was lying,

but you didn’t even want to tell me your name?”

“How can someone who dares not even say her name and gossip about others?”

Upon hearing this, Natalie finally had a reaction. She looked up, but there was no special emotion in her eyes.

She was about to say something, but was interrupted by the sound of pushing the door.

“Miss Natalie, the car has already been parked outside for you.”

The salesperson didn’t feel the atmosphere in the room at all, and she ran passionately to Natalie.

Natalie stopped her words and nodded, “Thank you.”

After saying this, she opened the door and walked out, leaving Lara alone in the room.

“Hey – you haven’t answered me ye!”

Natalie ignored Lara and walked straight out. She even regretted being too talkative.

As soon as she walked out of the door, she bumped into someone again. Natalie quickly leaned over and looked up, it’s Niki.

“Natalie!”

Natalie raised her eyes and looked at her.

“Is that really you?! “She just said that she seemed to see Natalie here, thinking she was mistaken, but unexpectedly she was really here.

Niki’s eyes were filled with shock and an uncontrollable disgust.

The suppressed emotions in Niki’s eyes was obvious for Natalie. But there was no unnecessary expression on her face, and she was still indifferent.

She only gave Niki a fleeting glance and passed her without looking back.

Chapter 243 Confuse Right and Wrong

She didn’t want to talk with her.

“Are you intentionally following me? “Niki shouted at Natalie’s back.

How could there be such a coincidence that Natalie happened to be here?

Did she already know something, so she deliberately messed up her plan?

The faster Natalie walked, the more thoughts and emotions Niki had in her heart.

Or is it because Natalie knew she had sent someone to kidnap her and came to seek revenge?

Many possibilities flashed through Niki’s mind, causing her to feel a bit flustered.

“Miss Niki! “, the crisp female voice called her back from her confused thoughts.

Niki turned her head and saw Lara blinking at herself, waving at her as she walked over.

Niki turned her head and took a final look at Natalie. Her figure had completely disappeared from the door, along with the sales behind her.

Like a gust of wind, as if the Natalie I just saw was just a phantom.

Niki took a deep breath to calm herself down as she slowly walked towards Lara.

“Miss Lara, do you also know Natalie?”

“Hmm? Natalie? “Lara looked puzzled,” Who is Natalie?”

Niki pointed out the door and said, “It’s the woman who just walked out.”

“Oh, so her name is Natalie? “Lara frowned,” I just asked her name, but she is unwilling to say it.”

Even if she didn’t tell her, but now she already knows.

Niki looked at Lara’s expression and her intuition told her that something must have happened in this room just now.

“Did you... talk something?” Niki asked tentatively.

Lara nodded and spoke calmly, “She reminded me that you were lying to me and told me not to trust you too much.”

What?!

Niki’s heart was pounding wildly.

Sure enough, she guessed right. Natalie, this b*tch is here to retaliate against her!

She cannot let Natalie succeed.

Niki immediately restored calm expression, and her tone was gentle and soft. "Miss Lara, you don't believe her, right?"

Lara smiled and said, "Of course."

"I definitely believe you."

Niki breathed a sigh of relief and said, "Miss Lara... I thought you wouldn't believe me."

"How could it be?" Lara handed Niki a cup of tea as a gesture of comfort.

"How can I believe a stranger's words so easily?"

Niki lowered her head and took it, with a complex expression on her face, without any relaxation due to Lara's trust.

"But why did Miss Natalie slander you? Do you usually offend her?" Lara was a bit curious.

Niki immediately felt aggrieved, "Miss Lara, I am very grateful for your trust in me."

"This was originally a bldy wound in my heart, and I didn't want to expose it to anyone. But you trusted me so much... I'm willing to tell you."

Niki gritted her teeth as if she had made a big decision.

"Miss Natalie is the wife of Brother Julian."

The words startled Lara.

Julian's wife?

“Natalie also took advantage of this opportunity to enter, using her similar appearance to mine, to attract Brother Julian.”

The more Niki spoke, the more aggrieved she became. “Now that I’m back, Natalie doesn’t want me to go back Graham family and tries every means to obstruct me, even wanting to kill me.”

Lara was shocked and speechless.

Chapter 244 Pretending to be wronged

“Is it true?” Lara widened her eyes, as if she didn’t quite believe it.

Although what that woman just said was a bit presumptuous, she didn’t look like someone who did such a thing....

She snatched a man from Niki?

Also, she had to kill Niki for this... this was too cruel.

Lara was filled with surprise and couldn’t react for a long time.

She carefully recalled Natalie. The woman was well dressed, with delicate and even stunning features exuding a calm demeanor, like a fairy.

She didn’t seem like such a cruel person.

Niki secretly watched Lara’s reaction nearby, keenly capturing Lara’s disbelief.

Upon seeing the situation, she immediately frowned, with an endless sense of grievance in her eyes. “I knew no one would believe me...”

JJ

"I also told Julian about this, and he didn't believe me either. Even everyone in the Graham family was deceived by Natalie, and no one believed me..."

As Niki spoke, it was as if she was stabbed in her heart, and she was about to whimper and cry.

Tears of grievances were about to surge out of her eyes, but she hastily held them back.

She seemed to be unwilling for Lara to see her grievances, and it also seemed to be to maintain her self-esteem.

She looked upset, "It's okay. No one believes me. I've been used to it for a long time."

"I am the one who always suffers. Natalie has a pretty face, and people will believe whatever she says."

"And no matter what I say, they don't believe me, and they still think I'm up to something."

Niki's beautiful eyebrows were tightly furrowed due to sadness, as if there were endless

Chapter 244-Pretending to be wronged grievances.

But she was also stubborn and didn't want others to see her vulnerability, trying hard not to cry, showing a hint of resilience.

Like a delicate yet resilient white lotus.

Lara saw her appearance and felt sorry for her. Why bother to think about what kind of a person Natalie was?

Even if Natalie was not such a cruel person, looking at Niki's delicate appearance, Lara must believe Niki a bit.

She quickly comforted her, "Niki, don't be sad..."

Niki waved her hand and took about three steps away from her, “Miss Turner... it’s okay, you don’t have to worry about me.” She was full of determination.

“I’ve been just holding these in my heart for too long, and today, I don’t know what happened, it all erupted....”

“I’m sorry. Don’t take it seriously.”

Lara took out a tissue and said, “Wherever you feel wronged, you should speak up for yourself. We only live this once and cannot always suppress our grievances. We will be suffocated otherwise.”

Niki nodded pitifully, “Hmm... after I said it, I feel much better.”

Lara wanted to say something more. The salesman had already come over with the order.

“Miss Turner, the car has been arranged for you.”

Lara raised her eyes and casually said, “Okay.”

But her eyes were still on Niki, as if she was still a bit worried about her.

Niki saw her worried gaze and was very moved. She quickly said, “Miss Turner, you go quickly. Don’t worry about me, I am not that delicate.”

Lara kept still.

“Are you really okay?”

“I’m fine, don’t worry.” Niki looked at Lara, whose whole face furrowed up because of worry, completely forgetting about facial expression management.

Niki immediately burst into laughter, extending her hand to push Lara out.

“Your business is more important, go pick up your new car quickly!”

Her performance in this scene was entirely worth it.

Lara saw a smile on Niki’s face, and she felt a little relieved.

“Wait here, when I pick up the car, I’ll help you get the invitation.”

“Good!” Niki nodded sincerely.

Watching Lara finally take a step forward and follow the salesman out of the door, Niki took a deep breath in her heart.

Fortunately, she reacted quickly and immediately managed her expression. When she put on a look of grievance, no one could blame her after looking at her expression.

That’s how Lara was convinced.

Niki looked satisfied and pulled out her chair to sit down.

Just after dealing with Lara, she had time to think about the recent appearance of Natalie here.

Niki still felt uneasy in her heart.

She had been hesitating for a long time, but in the end, she made a decision and got together with Roger, thinking to leave a way for herself.

But unexpectedly, Roger, who was so stup*d, had to fight against Julian, causing a lot of trouble for her.

The rich guy that she finally got was also gone... Thinking of this, Niki felt so angry in her heart.

However, fortunately, she was lucky enough to meet Lara.

Get Boy.

The noble girl that she finally met this time cannot be affected by Natalie anymore!

She must keep an eye on Natalie and not let her have any opportunities to take advantage of it! And as for Lara, she must also hold onto her!

Lara acted very quickly. After picking up the car, without any hesitation, she helped Niki get two invitations.

After all, with the Turner family's position in New York, it was easy for her to get two invitations for the conference.

Niki received the invitation as expected.

The invitation was made of rare red sandalwood, surrounded by thin glass edges, with black sandalwood as the base. The word "Invitation" in the middle appeared very profound on the ancient style material.

Niki looked down at the invitation in her hand, heavy and weighty.

It was truly a first-class conference.

As soon as she received the invitation, without any hesitation, she took out her phone and dialed Joey's number.

She said softly, "Hey, Joey, where is Julian now? I have something to tell him."

Julian have been mysterious recently, Niki didn't know what he's busy with, and she couldn't meet him anywhere.

Niki had gone to the company several times to meet him, trying to win the man's heart back, but she was doing it in vain.

“Mr. Graham...?” Joey took a look at the CEO’s office and said, “he’s in the office.”

“Okay,” Niki felt confident. “I’ll go meet him now.”

She wanted to hand over the invitation to Julian in person.

Joey heard the news that Niki was coming to the company, and his phone almost didn’t fall...

Miss Linch... You... are you coming to the company?”

What’s wrong? Can’t I?” Niki couldn’t understand why Joey had such a big reaction.

“Yes... yes, of course.

Joey said so, but he didn’t think so in his heart.

Miss Linch recently angered the CEO, and she hasn’t been quiet for a few days. Why was she looking for the boss again? Wasn’t she rushing to make Mr. Graham more upset?

Why didn’t she know that she needed to restrain herself a little bit?

If Niki came over at this moment, Mr. Graham hasn’t even calmed down, maybe it would only make things worse.

Half an hour later, in front of the CEO’s office.

As expected, Niki was awkwardly turned away by Julian, as Joey had anticipated.

The secretaries and employees around looked over, and Niki awkwardly put down her knocking hand, looking a bit embarrassed.

Anyway, her image in the company has always been noble and elegant, Julian's beloved girlfriend.

Being rejected by Julian showed that she's clearly not favored by him. How did Julian like her? It seemed that he hated her...

The former image was completely ruined.

Title: After the Divorce, CEO Realizes He's the Stand-In Lover By

Chapter 245 Attendance at the conference

There were all kinds of eyes around her, curious, gloating, sarcastic, contemptuous, indifferent, all looking at her.

All the gazes were like arrows, leaving Niki in a daze.

Joey stood next to her with an awkward expression on his face.

After all, he used to be a popular one around Niki in the company, and he spent all day around her.

At that time, Niki was in her best times, and the boss doted on her very much, so she,

along with him, was also "superior".

Many people in the company envied him for being able to be around Niki, and he was considered as having good days for a while.

But now Niki has lost Julian's favor, and even when she came to the company, Julian.

didn't even want to look at her...

Niki was looked down upon by others, and he would also be looked down upon by others. The two of them have already become grasshoppers on the same ship, both.

prosperous and damaged.

The people around were looking at Niki, but Joey felt as if they were also looking at himself.

"Julian..." Julian didn't answer, so Niki continued to knock on the door with a stiff face.

Anyway, she couldn't just walk around like this.

Otherwise, wouldn't it look like that she's abandoned by Julian? Did she have to be laughed at by these employees?

She, Niki, absolutely did not allow this kind of thing to happen.

She's the future Mrs. Graham!

Not only that, but she also wanted to become the owner of this company. How could she be looked down upon by these employees in advance?

Niki thought this way, knocking harder on the door.

But there was no movement inside the door.

She stubbornly knocked a few more times, but there was still no response. The further she knocked, the colder and more disappointed she became...

No, she couldn't accept it.

Since Julian was unwilling to open the door, there should always be another way!

Niki turned to look at Joey and wanted to seek his help.

Joey caught a glimpse of Niki. He quickly dodged and looked down at his unfinished.

work, pretending not to see her.

He didn't want to get involved between Niki and Mr. Graham.

But his movements were a bit slow.

Niki had already seen his disguised actions.

Niki sneered. At this moment, was he too anxious to ignore her? How ungrateful!

Even if she died, she still needed to get someone to the hell with her.

Niki raised her eyebrows and deliberately shouted loudly, "Joey, can you help me?"

Joey still pretended not to hear her. He lowered his head, with his eyes fixed on the folder, his hands constantly flipping, as if busy.

"Joey...? Joey, do you hear me?" Niki deliberately shouted louder.,

All the eyes around now gathered on Joey... The awkward atmosphere suddenly shifted to Joey.

Now he couldn't pretend not to hear her.

Joey twitched the corners of his mouth a few times and stiffly adjusted his expression, "Oh..."

He pointed at himself blankly, "Miss Linch, were you calling me?"

Niki smiled when she saw Joey's pretentious expression, but her smile was fake.

"What do you think? Of course I was calling you."

She waved at the man, gesturing for him to come over.

Joey looked over. Although the woman wore a smile, there was a malicious intent hidden in the deepest part of her eyes.

Her fake smile made her look like a tiger. It seemed like the next second she would come over and tear him into pieces.

Joey immediately shrank his neck and felt a chill in his heart. He walked towards Niki.

Watching the man walking towards her, Niki then withdrew her gaze.

She made room for Joey.

Before Niki could speak, Joey knowingly knocked on the door of the CEO's office.

"President Graham... I have a document for you to sign." Joey kept his tone as calm as possible.

After all, if Mr. Graham found out that he was deliberately making excuses for Niki to open the door, he would definitely be unable to bear the consequences.

After about half a minute, there was still no movement inside.

Just when Niki thought that Julian wouldn't open the door, a cold voice from inside.

"Come in."

Joey quickly grabbed a stack of documents and opened the door. He glanced inside at the boss's face, then turned around and gave Niki a look.

Niki also pushed the door and entered.

Julian was sitting in a chair, with a pair of golden glasses on his tall nose, and he looked so elegant, not as cold as before.

“Sir... this is the document that requires your signature.”

Joey placed the document on the table and pushed it in front of the man.

“Okay... put it there.” Julian didn’t lift his head and focused on his work.

After a long time, he seemed a bit tired, so he raised his head slightly and moved his neck.

Then he extended his hand with distinct joints and removed the glasses from his nose, revealing a pair of narrow and beautiful black eyes.

In his remaining sight, he caught a glimpse of a figure in front of the table.

Julian instinctively furrowed his brow and said, “Why haven’t you left yet?” He thought Joey put down the documents, but he was still in the office.

Niki spoke with grievances coquettishly, “Julian...”

The man’s face suddenly changed.

Without saying a word, he picked up the phone next to him and dialed Joey’s phone,

“Take her away.”

“Don’t, don’t...” Niki quickly stopped him, “Julian... don’t be so cruel to me.”

Julian remained unmoved.

The next second, Niki reached out directly, took out two invitation cards from her bag, and threw them on the table.

Julian's movements in his hands suddenly stopped.

The air also seemed to be stationary for an instant.

"Is this the invitation?!", the man's tone was shocked.

A few days later, in Chicago.

The medical conference was located in the most central area of Chicago, adjacent to the city government to the east and the moat to the west, surrounded by commercial area.

The venue for the event was naturally noble and luxurious.

At the conference, Natalie was wearing a low-key black evening dress with silk on the hem and dark floral embellishments on the fabric, which, although low-key, looked luxurious and decent.

Get Boys

On her shoulder, there was a white shawl, and there was a pearl necklace on her slender neck, which made her very noble.

Surrounded by well-dressed people, the guests came and went, making it very lively.

Natalie, holding a glass in her hand, stood alone in the outfield.

She stood there with no one around, out of place with the bustling scene next to her.

Moreover, she specially wore a black dress today, making herself even more low-key. As she stood in the corner, almost no one could notice her.

Natalie felt at ease.

Because she didn't want to come, just because she couldn't resist her uncle's orders... she had to come to this banquet.

Staying in the laboratory all day and devoting herself to studies in a quiet laboratory has made her a quiet person.

Moreover, during her three years at the Graham family, as Mrs. Graham, she had to attend many banquets every month and wore masks all day to meet various people.

She has long been tired of this atmosphere.

Chapter 246 If Natalie were here

Natalie stood in the outfield, looking at everything around her indifferently.

She stood right next to the entrance, surrounded by entering guests.

Although she was dressed in a low-key manner and stood away from the crowd, she couldn't conceal her overall temperament and outstanding appearance.

Although the guests who just came in looked hurried, they couldn't help but be attracted to her.

It was impolite to look at her standing next to them openly, and they glanced at her.

"Where is this young lady from? Why haven't we ever seen her before?" A man in a suit whispered.

The woman on the side glanced at Natalie, with a hint of jealousy in her eyes. "I haven't seen her before, probably from a remote place to attend the exchange meeting."

At this exchange meeting, she knew all the influential figures, but she had never seen this woman before.

Reasonably, if she had seen someone with such a stunning appearance, she would definitely remember her vividly and never forget. But she never had this woman in her memory.

With such a seductive appearance, she must have gotten the invitation from somewhere. Maybe she even managed to sneak in.

Thinking this way, the woman felt a little relieved.

Taking a sigh of relief, she turned her head and saw her boyfriend staring at Natalie without moving.

If it weren't for her standing next to him, the man would have already approached Natalie to strike up a conversation.

She suddenly lost her temper and pulled over the man who was out of his mind, whispering, "Let's go!"

The man was dragged away.

And Natalie didn't even notice the people around her, and her attention was all focused on the wine in front of her.

There were various colors of wine in front of her, all filled with tall glasses, reflecting colorful light under the dazzling light.

The mellow aroma of wine permeated Natalie's nose, and she lowered her eyes, enjoying every sip.

Not knowing how long she had been drinking, she lifted her head and glanced casually at the door.

And she saw familiar figures.

Julian was dressed in a black handmade suit, with exquisite gold rimmed glasses on his nose, and his body was slender and straight.

He politely handed the invitation to the waiter and then took a step into the outfield.

He didn't rush in, but glanced across the room, seeming quite nervous.

Natalie held a wine glass in her hand and raised her eyebrows.

In the past, whenever Julian appeared in such an occasion, he would definitely be the focus, surrounded by flattering people, making it difficult to meet him once.

Perhaps due to being accustomed to the flattery of those around him, Julian was very dignified and arrogant.

But today, he clearly restrained his temper, and was even timid, completely lacking the previous arrogance.

Even the pace of walking was quite rapid.

It was the first time Natalie had seen such a Julian, and she found it very interesting.

Not long after she looked at him, a woman's petite voice came from behind the man,

"Julian, don't leave so fast."

Niki was wearing a high set gown with a crimson flower pinned to her chest front. Her face was adorned with exquisite makeup and her hairstyle was meticulously curled.

At first glance, it was evident that she had dressed up meticulously to attend this meeting.

Natalie looked at her coldly, while Niki tightly grabbed the dress with one hand, her face.

quite anxious.

Such a scene seemed familiar.

Last time, at a bustling banquet held by the Graham family, Niki also attended like this.

However, unlike today's awkward appearance, Niki gracefully entered the room holding Julian in hand, under the envious gaze of everyone.

How long had it been since then? Why was Niki so embarrassed?

How could Julian watch Niki struggling to pursue him from behind?

Natalie curled her lips and watched all of this. It really became more and more interesting.

Niki spent a lot of money on this dress for today's exchange meeting.

She knew she didn't have much status and didn't deserve to participate in this exchange meeting, and this invitation was Lara's.

At this meeting, there must be various celebrities. If there were no more precious things around her, no one would look up to her.

She could only rely on expensive dresses to give herself some confidence.

But although this dress was gorgeous, the hem was very long, dragging on the ground, making it inconvenient for walking.

Julian, on the other hand, walked very fast without waiting for her. In order to catch up with the man, she could only tightly hold her dress with one hand and extend her other hand forward, trying to pull Julian and make him walk slower.

Julian, however, seemed unable to hear and walked straight ahead.

Niki was helpless and could only shout louder, "Julian, wait for me please."

Although the people around her didn't react and were communicating about their own affairs. But in this elegant atmosphere, Hearing the shouts of others was always unpleasant.

Julian also noticed that.

He tilted his head and a hint of discomfort flashed on his face.

This kind of thing never happened before when Natalie was here.

She understood etiquette, and what could be done or not.

She had a better understanding of how to be appropriate and more elegant in such a grand occasion.

At least Natalie would understand that attending such an academic exchange meeting should not be in such a gorgeous dress.

Moreover, it was such a long skirt.

Looking at the entire audience, no one else dressed as gorgeous and luxurious as Niki, but she really stood out.

Julian looked embarrassed.

But Niki didn't seem to notice and continued to shout, "Julian!"

The unhappiness of the people around them was more pronounced, and someone even made a "hiss" sound, clearly about to get angry.

Julian couldn't keep calm.

He couldn't help but frown, with a hint of disgust and annoyance on his face.

He was forced to stop.

Niki then showed a smile as she walked over with a small step and said, "Julian, let me hold you."

She was about to hold Julian's arm, but when looking up, she saw Julian's cold face with a hint of disgust in his eyes.

Her raised hand froze, and she was unable to understand why she had offended Julian.

Get Boynt

She could only reluctantly put away her hand and stood obediently beside him.

Julian calmed down and slowly walked into the infield.

The infield was more luxurious, and there were more people inside. Surrounded by the giants of the pharmaceutical industry, there were also many nobles from New York.

As soon as they came in, countless people looked at them.

Niki had never seen such a scene before. A hint of nervousness flashed on her face, almost tripping over her left foot and falling to the ground.

Julian's expression became even worse.

Fortunately, he quickly pulled her, so that Niki didn't make a fool of herself in front of so many people.

If Natalie were here, how would such a thing happen?

Title: After the Divorce, CEO Realizes He's the Stand-In Lover By

Chapter 247 Inconsistency

Niki's arm was forcefully grabbed by the man, which forced her to settle and prevent her from falling to the ground.

In such a grand situation, Natalie was indeed more appropriate. Compared to her, Niki appeared very narrow-minded.

At this moment, Julian inexplicably began to miss Natalie.

If this invitation hadn't been brought by Niki, he would definitely not have brought Niki here.

But the fact was that he had already brought her, which was irreparable.

In order to maintain his dignity, Julian reluctantly wore a decent smile, leaned his head against Niki's ear and said, "Watch out."

The sound was indifferent.

Although her voice was flat, Niki immediately recognized the threat in the man's words.

She flashed an unnatural expression and could only helplessly smile awkwardly at the crowd.

Niki knew she was wrong, so she was nervous and didn't dare to say anything. She could only keep nodding.

"Julian, I was a bit nervous just now, so I didn't notice. Don't worry and I will definitely pay attention and not make you embarrassed."

“I will definitely pay attention to the ground and not fall down.”

Niki had been apologizing in a low voice, with a cautious tone, trying to calm Julian down.

She shouldn't have worn such a long dress, which cost the money she had finally saved up. She regretted it in her heart.

“Listening to Niki's incessant apologies, Julian was once again angry.

But he obviously couldn't show it. Julian could only nod faintly, humming a single syllable, “Hmm”, which could be considered to soothe Niki's emotion.

Holding wine glasses in their hands, they looked at them with probing eyes. Seeing that they didn't have much impression, they turned their gaze back.

People from these large families naturally had unusual identities and positions.

At the same time, they also looked down on people from small families. In their eyes, these people were not worthy of their attention.

Therefore, for unfamiliar faces like Julian and Niki, they even didn't bother to greet them and casually returned to what they had just done.

Julian walked aimlessly around the banquet venue, holding Niki's arm.

It was obvious that they were out of place with these nobles, who didn't even glance at them.

Moreover, Niki was dressed in such a magnificent dress and walked unsteadily, without any sense of elegance.

A discerning person could tell at a glance that she was nobody, and could also determine at a glance that they were definitely not from a big family in New York.

Julian took a few steps and stopped the waiter next to him. He took two glasses of wine from his tray and handed one to Niki first.

Then he picked up the other glass, took a light sip, then looked around.

This invitation was valuable, and the opportunity to come to such a high-level exchange meeting was very rare.

If Graham Group could seize this opportunity, he might be able to reach cooperation with some major families in New York.

As long as he reached cooperation with the big family, it would only benefit the Graham family. Graham Group would definitely take advantage of cooperation and would even reach a peak that had never been reached before.

Julian was calculating in his heart that he must seize this opportunity.

The people around them gathered in twos and threes, talking and laughing, and the atmosphere was extremely harmonious.

He lightly sipped his glass and glanced at the crowd around him, looking for a suitable opportunity to enter.

The closest position was three men in suits, who were talking about the latest drugs.

Julian had an idea in his heart, and he raised his hand and directly took down the hand that Niki was holding onto his arm.

Niki's attention was all by her side, and she was startled by Julian's sudden touch.

Then she looked at Julian, feeling a bit puzzled. "Julian, what's wrong?"

Julian spoke up and said, "Take a look around yourself and I'll talk about something."

Upon hearing this, a smile appeared on Niki's face and she agreed very happily, "Okay, you don't need to worry about me."

She was worried about staying by Julian's side, unable to showcase her charm.

At this moment, Julian let go of her first. She naturally couldn't help but be overjoyed.

Julian nodded and walked towards the three people not far away.

Before he had just taken two steps, he seemed to remember something and walked back again.

"Don't run around and don't talk casually. Just stand by and eat something. I'll come find you in a moment."

His meaning was very obvious that he didn't want Niki to wander around here casually. With her temperament, she might offend someone in such a situation, which was troublesome.

Niki chuckled and nodded, "Don't worry, go get busy with your affairs."

Upon hearing her answer, Julian felt a bit at ease and left with a glass of wine in his hand.

Niki stood behind him, watching Julian's figure gradually disappear.

As soon as the man's figure disappeared, the slightly nervous expression on her face instantly changed into a cold expression.

She held a glass of wine and looked around.

The dress she bought at such a high price should work.

She wouldn't obediently listen to Julian's words and go to the corner to temporarily hide herself. With her beauty, wherever she went, she would always be the focus.

In the future, she would become Mrs. Graham, and she would definitely participate in many such occasions. This time, it could also be considered as accumulating experience.

Niki looked around and saw a group of women standing next to her, dressed in formal attire and precious gemstone jewelry, with very elegant behavior.

Niki didn't think about it, and walked over directly..

H

She seemed to be familiar with them, standing next to them. If it weren't for the fact that they were discussing formulas, which she didn't understand, Niki would even add a few words.

One of the women noticed Niki, stiffened her smiling face and raised her eyes to look at her up and down.

Then she spoke indifferently, "Miss, who are you?"

Her arrogance was evident.

Niki could naturally understand it, but she didn't feel embarrassed at all.

On the contrary, she suddenly smiled a little and said, "I'm from the Spears family. Today,

I came with my grandfather for this exchange meeting."

With so many years of acting experience, she never blinked when telling lies.

"The Spears family?" The woman frowned, as if she didn't believe it.

When it came to the Spears family, the first thing that came to her was the famous medical family in New York.

They were also important figures in this exchange meeting.

"Yes." Niki nodded calmly.

Get Boran

The other woman said, "Is it the Spears family in New York?" She was about forty years old and her tone was much gentler.

Niki nodded and said, "Of course."

The people around were in a uproar, but most of them were not very convinced.

Niki saw their confusion and spoke calmly, "Haven't you seen me before? This is normal."

"I used to stay in the mountains to learn medicinal herbs, and I don't participate in such occasions, so you haven't see me."

"This time I come because my grandfather is too old to come to Chicago alone, so we come together."

Title: After the Divorce, CEO Realizes He's the Stand-In Lover By

Chapter 248 Rampancy

Upon hearing this, the people around looked at each other with a murmur in their hearts.

Niki raised her eyebrows and looked at these people. Her face was all calm and serious, with no sign of lying at all.

The person who was just more aggressive spoke up first. She stood up and hesitated,

“Are you really from the Spears family?”

With these words, she looked up and down at Niki. This time, the evaluation was even more serious than last time, not even letting go of a single strand of hair, as if staring at Niki, not letting go of any flaws in her.

Niki seemed to find the woman’s questioning very amusing. She curled her lips and smiled, “Of course.”

People who liked to lie would become uncontrollable once they get used to it.

Over time, she may even be unable to distinguish her own words, not knowing which one of her words was true or which one was false.

At this moment, Niki’s posture was arrogant and her tone was quite arrogant too, as if she were really from the Spears family.

“Don’t you believe it?” Niki looked at her with big grape-like eyes, and also evaluated the woman in front of her.

The woman was intimidated by Niki's undisguised gaze, and she didn't know why she was a bit scared.

But she still pretended to be calm and after symbolically clearing her throat, she crossed the arms and said disdainfully, "Of course I don't believe it. If you say you're from the Spears, family, would I believe it?"

"I am the eldest lady of the New York Mills family. Do you think I am a fool? If you lie to me, it will be tough."

New York Mills family?

Niki was completely unaware of the major aristocratic families in New York. She only knew that the Spears family had a great influence in New York and was a famous medical family.

As for what this woman said about the New York Mills family, she had never heard of it at all.

Since she hadn't heard of it before, she naturally didn't know what the Mills family did. and how powerful they were in New York.

The saying goes that a newborn calf is not afraid of tigers, and Niki naturally didn't take women's threatening words to heart at all, and her attitude remained arrogant.

She nodded thoughtfully and agreed with the woman's questioning, "I just said it out of mouth, it's not very convincing."

“But with so many powerful figures attending the banquet this time, who dares to lie in front of so many people?”

“When I lie like this, everyone knows that I am a scammer. Who will have dealings with me in the future? Isn't my reputation stinking? “Not to mention her outstanding.

appearance, which most people would never forget after a glance.

The more Niki spoke, the more confident she became, and her tone became steadier. “I don't need to take such a big risk to lie, do I?”

The people around were completely silent.

After hearing Niki's words, some people had already begun to believe it.

After all, if this woman were really from the Spears family, please her a bit and somebody would definitely benefit a lot.

To take a step back, even if this woman lied, she was not the Spears family at all. They won't lost anything if they pleased her.

After weighing it this way, there would be no loss at all. It's better to seize the opportunity now and give the Spears family a good impression.

Reya was the first to laugh. She picked up her glass and raised it to Niki. “It turned out to be a Miss from the Spears family. I just offended you, please forgive me.”

With her standing up to make a comeback, the people around her glanced at each other and also relaxed their posture, raising their glasses to Niki.

For a moment, except for Wendy, everyone else greeted Niki with a smile.

Wendy's face turned ugly and she said, "Why have you changed so fast? You are all snobbish people!"

Niki raised her eyebrows and said, "Sister, why are you talking like this? It's just making friends, why talk about being snobbish?"

Reya had always been against with Wendy and had long been tired of her style. Now, when she heard Wendy making trouble for Niki, without even thinking about it, she directly helped Niki and said, "Miss Mills, don't talk like that. We're just making friends, why are you still saying some unpleasant things?"

Still saying they're snobbish? Who didn't know that in the vast New York, Wendy was the most snobbish!

Now that the self-proclaimed Spears family member in front of her had arrived, the focus of the crowd had all turned to her. Who else's looking at Wendy?

She's just jealous!

After saying this, Reya gracefully continued to clink glasses with Niki, "Don't mind. Sister Mills' usual way of speaking is like this. Don't take it to heart."

Niki had a sweet smile, and she nodded to show understanding.

She had been secretly observing the two women in front of her, watching their hostile movements, and she knew that there must be some tension between them.

As the saying goes, the struggle between the snipe and the clam benefits the fisherman, but she actually benefited from it.

"Who are you talking about? "Wendy looked at her and spoke up," I can speak as I want. When will it be your turn to take care of me?"

Reya naturally refused to be outdone. “Miss Mills has a noble status, so of course I dare not interfere with you.”

“But do you think that if your domineering demeanor spreads to the Johnson family today, where will your dignity go?”

Wendy was pleased with Philip, which was something that all New York knew.

Philip not only had a good family background, but also had a handsome appearance. He was a noble young master in New York, and was loved by countless women. Wendy was one of them.

However, in recent years, for some unknown reasons, Philip had been staying in Los Angeles all year round and rarely came to New York.

However, it's not important. What's important was that Wendy was determined to marry Philip. If Philip knew she was so arrogant and domineering, how could he marry her?

“You!”

Sure enough, Wendy was angry.

“You can't talk about Brother Philip!”

Reya raised her eyebrows and said, “Why can't I?”

The two of them talked back and forth, their tone getting higher and higher, and their voices were instantly extremely noisy.

Natalie happened to have just walked into the infield holding a glass of wine, and was watching such a wonderful scene.

She stood aside, watching the two arguing, shaking her head.

Philip this bastard, even if he was not in New York, could cause such a drama. He's really harmful.

Natalie, squinted her eyes and looked inside the group, wanting to see who everyone was.

As a result, she saw familiar people at a glance, and Niki was also here?

Her expression was a bit complicated for a moment.

Niki was at the center of the argument, and as everyone around her looked over, she quickly went to stop it.

If Julian saw it, she would definitely be scolded.

But before she could get closer, Wendy, who was in a state of anger, pushed her away and she unexpectedly forcefully fell to the ground.

"Ah – "Niki closed her eyes tightly as she was about to fall.

Upon seeing this, Natalie instinctively went to help.

But her speed was not fast enough. A figure flashed in front of her and helped Niki up.

"Miss Turner?!"

Niki was grabbed by both hands and instinctively looked up, but unexpectedly it was Lara.

However, she only glanced at Lara, and before she could express her gratitude, she hurriedly stopped the two who were arguing.

The urgent task now was to make the two stop arguing. If Julian was attracted, the consequences would be unimaginable.

Moreover, big tree catches wind, if the organizers were coming, her lies would also be exposed.

Title: After the Divorce, CEO Realizes He's the Stand-In Lover By

Chapter 249 Release

Before Niki could stand firm, she quickly went to separate the two of them who were about to fight.

“Both sisters, calm down and have a good conversation.”

Niki walked over cautiously as she spoke, trying to keep her tone gentle.

“Sisters dressed so beautifully today, and now the argument is always a loss of beauty.

It’s not worth the loss.”

But the two of them, who were feeling angry, couldn’t hear Niki’s words. They choked each other back and forth, still very fiercely.

Niki was a bit anxious, “Speak up if you have something. So many people are watching by the side!”

But as if they couldn’t hear it, they completely didn’t take Niki’s words to heart.

The two of them even argued even more fiercely due to Niki’s joining.

The gaze of the people around them came one after another. It wouldn't be long before it reached Julian, and Niki was just very anxious.

She originally just wanted to stand by and watch the excitement, but she didn't expect the two of them to really argue.

It's so noisy, they're really afraid others wouldn't hear it! Were ladies from wealthy families so free to do as they please?

Niki could only stand on the side, feeling anxious and muttering, "Arguing at the exchange meeting is not good for everyone."

Niki's voice was gradually overshadowed by the voices of the two arguing.

Lara couldn't bear to watch anymore. She took a step forward and pulled Niki over, standing between the two of them who were arguing.

"You step aside, I do it."

Niki looked up at her and said, "Miss Turner, are you okay? They are arguing a bit fiercely. You should go over and be careful not to hurt yourself

Lara gave her a reassuring look.

Niki had no other choice, so she could only retreat to one side with doubt and quietly watch Lara's movements.

Lara didn't have any special expression on her face. She just stood in the middle, lifted her eyelids slightly, and casually said, "Shut up all

Three words were spoken from the mouth of Lara, and the two of them instantly lost their voices.

The atmosphere returned to a calm state.

Hmm?!

Niki's eyes widened. What's going on?

Lara said three words and the two of them closed their mouths? She just talked so much.

and it's useless

Niki was shocked in her heart, and she couldn't believe her eyes. "What?"

Lara seemed very satisfied with their obedience, and she patted Wendy on the shoulder as a warning.

"That's the right thing. Being calm is good for everyone."

Wendy bit her lips and didn't speak.

She appeared submissive on the surface, but cursed in her heart. Why did Lara suddenly appear here.

Was she also here to support the woman just now??

Sure enough, the next second, Lara's actions confirmed her hypothesis.

Lara walked straight to Niki and gently pulled her hand. "Let's go," she said.

Before Niki could recover from the scene just now, she felt the warmth of another person in her hand. She nodded dumbfounded and said, "Okay."

She obediently took Lara's hand.

Wendy was shocked as she watched their intimate movements.

How could this woman have such a good relationship with Lara?

Lara was the only daughter of the Turner family, who was held in the hearts of the entire

Turner family. Due to the indulgence of her family, she usually worked with a high profile and a spoiled personality, and looked down on anyone in New York at all.

She was actually willing to stay with that woman intimately.

This was a situation that had never happened before.

There was only one reason why two people could get along.

That's it, that Miss Linch was really from the Spears family!

Throughout New York, only the people of the Spears family were worthy to stand with.

the Turner family.

As soon as this idea came to mind, Wendy's face immediately became a bit dark. This meant that she offended the Turner and Spears families in one go.

The Turner and Spears families were considered the two major aristocratic families in New York. If she offended them, she would be offending the entire New York.

Wendy's face was very gloomy and she regretted it for a moment.

Niki was pulled forward by Lara, and she seemed a bit uneasy. As she walked, she kept looking back.

Lara noticed her movements and glanced back. Standing away, Reya and Wendy were clearly no longer arguing.

But in order to reassure Niki, she pondered for a moment, released Niki's hand, and returned to the two of them again.

"Miss Turner, where are you going?" Niki asked.

Lara stood still in front of the two, her tone flat but oppressive. "This place requires at least silence, don't let me see you say one more sentence."

"If I see you making any more noise and disturbing the normal progress of the communication meeting, I will have my dad drive you all out"

This sentence was full of warning.

The two naturally knew that Lara's words were not just for fun, and with her personality, she could do such a thing.

There were many examples of her driving people out of Turner family's banquets in New York before.

The two lowered their heads and remained silent.

Lara looked at the two of them who were without speaking, and with snort, she turned around and left.

Niki quickly chased after her, "Miss Turner. Why are you so powerful?"

She blinked her eyes, full of admiration.

When Miss Turner got off the car to save her, she glanced at the woman and guessed that her identity must be extraordinary.

But she didn't guess that Lara's identity was so extraordinary.

A casual sentence could make two wealthy ladies shut up instantly. She could easily.

bring her an invitation for this meeting, and even with just one word from her, she could.

drive people out of the meeting.

Her identity was too impressive.

Niki's eyes were filled with admiration, as if she had seen the last straw to save her life.

"There's nothing powerful about me. "Lara said expressionlessly." It's just that my father is powerful. Without him, I'm nothing."

Niki shook her head and said, "Miss Turner. Don't say that."

Being able to be reborn into such a wealthy family was considered very lucky!

Niki had always believed that good luck was also a form of strength.

Get Boyer

"But how did you get involved in this argument? "Lara was a bit confused.

With Niki's gentle and weak personality, she should not have taken the initiative to cause trouble.

"And why are you staying with them?"

The personalities of these female relatives in New York were well understood by Lara.

They had always had high ambitions but low skills, and look down on others. Niki couldn't get into this circle at all, let alone be the ones who took the initiative to call Niki over.

"I am not sure. "Niki was pondering her tone when she wanted to speak, but she bumped into Natalie who held a tall glass in her hand.

Natalie wore a low-key black dress, which, although low-key, could not conceal the splendor on her body at all. Even this black dress made her even more radiant under the light.

Niki furrowed her brows subconsciously, and her words were forgotten.

“What’s the matter?” “Lara followed Niki’s gaze and looked over.

She also saw Natalie.

Chapter 250 Friends

Niki’s face became a bit darker the moment she saw Natalie.

Of course, Natalie also saw Niki’s gaze, but she didn’t bite her teeth like Niki did, and she didn’t change her expression.

She even casually picked up the wine glass with her fair and slender fingers and toasted Niki in the air.

Her smile, under the illumination of a black dress and lights, appeared both charming and frivolous.

Niki’s face turned even darker.

What did Natalie mean?

Did Natalie show this eye to provoke her?

Niki burst into anger. How dared Natalie!? How dared she provoke Niki within these few days?

She gritted her teeth and was about to lose her temper. But on second thought, she realized that it was a public occasion.

Moreover, Lara was still standing by her, so she must maintain her usual tender image.

She didn't want Lara to find her usual tenderness was all a façade.

So, Niki forced herself to turn her gaze away from Natalie.

Natalie held a glass of wine and OW Niki's face even darker. Her expression seemed to tell Natalie that she was going to kill Natalie.

Seeing Niki like this, Natalie blinked her eyes showing an innocent expression.

Natalie thought her expression when she just greeted Niki was nice. How could Niki show such an expression to her?

Natalie felt a bit confused.

Natalie felt that when Niki saw her at the moment, Niki was even unwilling to pretend to be friendly to her... It seemed that Niki really hated her guts.

Anyway, she also disliked Niki.

As long as Niki didn't play tricks on her or interfere with her, she could completely treat

Niki as a normal stranger.

Therefore, Natalie glanced at Niki's hateful expression and then happily drank her wine.

again.

Lara followed Niki's gaze and also saw Natalie.

Unlike Niki, Lara just raised her eyebrows without other strange expressions.

After all, she had no feud with Natalie, and the only connection between she and Natalie was that they both knew Niki...

For Niki's previous statement that Natalie stole Julian from Niki and tried every means and trick to kill someone... she didn't entirely believe it.

Lara came from a wealthy family; therefore, she had never struggled for life since childhood, and never experienced the dark side of the world. Even so, she had basic judgment skills, and she knew that a mere verbal statement was no guarantee.

So she didn't take Niki's words seriously.

But...

Lara glanced up and down at Natalie with a profound look.

But as the saying goes, there is no fire without smoke. There must be a reason why Niki would say such things to her.

If Natalie hadn't done anything wrong, how could Niki make all these things up to her?

Who knows?

Lara only looked at Natalie in a glance and then turned her gaze back. As she was about to move forward, she found that Niki was still standing motionless with a distracted look.

"Miss Linch...?"

Lara was puzzled so she carefully observed Niki and found that Niki still occasionally lifted her eyes to look at Natalie, with a somewhat distracted expression.

“Miss Linch... “She raised her arm and waved it in front of Niki, and it was then that Niki regained her composure.

“What’s the matter?” Niki looked back and her eyes showed she was a bit confused.

Lara frowned and said calmly “it’s nothing, I just find you are in a trance. So, I’m just reminding you.”

“Really? Am I in a trance?” Niki’s expression was tinged with panic, and she didn’t even realize that she was distracted.

Whenever encountering Natalie, Niki felt her emotions would lose control and could be easily affected by Natalie.

“Yeah... I called you just now but you didn’t even hear me! ” Lara nodded in affirmation.

Niki smiled sheepishly and said “sorry, I didn’t realize it then.”

She adjusted her expression and quickly pulled Lara forward. “I think there’s a person in charge of a pharmaceutical company in the middle, and I’m quite interested. Let’s take a look.”

Lara nodded her head.

She knew that Niki’s expression showed Niki didn’t tell her real idea, but she didn’t ask further.

“Okay.”

Everyone had their own plans and faced their own difficulties, and she had no right to dig.

these things out.

Lara was pulled to the middle of the exhibition by Niki in this way.

There were many booths of the exhibition, but the central one was reserved for the most influential pharmaceutical companies at the moment.

So when they walked to the front door, there were already many people talking around, forming a large circle.

Niki took Lara’s arm and wanted to squeeze inside to see what attractive and valuable medicine was inside.

She pulled twice, but the person behind did not move.

Niki was puzzled and turned to look at Lara. “What’s the matter?”

Was it because the rich girl didn’t want Niki to hold her wrist?

Niki instinctively released Lara’s hand, apologizing repeatedly, “I’m sorry, I’ll just release your hand.”

“Shall we take a look at the medicine inside? There are so many people around. There must be good medicine.”

Although she was not very knowledgeable about medicine, knowing more about it would be somewhat useful for her if she married Julian and took over the Graham family’s business in the future.

But Lara frowned.

Niki noticed her expression and felt her resistance. “Miss Turner... are you alright?”

“I won’t go in.” Lara shook her head.

Lara’s expression made Niki panic for a moment. Niki wondered did she make Lara feel uncomfortable?

At the moment Lara was her last straw.

If she held onto Lara tightly, with Lara’s family’s power in New York, she could do whatever she wanted with Lara’s help in Los Angeles and even in New York.

So at this moment, she must do all she could to flatter Lara, and made sure Lara was never even slightly displeased with her.

coming from all walks of life, and the air doesn’t smell good. So, I don’t want to squeeze Niki saw a hint of disgust in her eyes.

“Okay, then I won’t go either.” Niki decisively expressed her attitude that she would be with Lara.

“Don’t worry about me and just go. I’ll wait for you outside.” Lara waved her hand.

She was completely forced by her father to take part in this exhibition and she was not interested in medicine at all.

And she totally had no idea about the medical research on various fields here at all.

So in the eyes of Lara, this exhibition that countless research institutes flocked to was simply extremely boring.

“No, I won’t go either if you don’t go. How can I leave you alone outside?”

“Niki’s face lit up with a smile.

“Never mind. I just came with Julian to find divine doctor of the Spears family. This medicine is nothing much to me.”

“Really? “Lara was a bit incredulous.

She noticed that Niki’s expression and gaze just seconds ago showed she wanted to see

Moreover, as Julian’s girlfriend, Niki was supposed to have some knowledge about medicine.

There shouldn’t be person in medical field in the world who wouldn’t take a glance at such advanced medical technology.

“I mean it! Let’s go away.”

“The pastry you said you liked to eat last time when you bought the car, I just saw it on the table over there. I'll take you to taste it."

Lara was once again pulled away by Niki.

She silently followed behind Niki, with a touch floating in her heart... was this the so-called friend?

She hadn't had any friends since she was born.
