

Chapter 105

After listening to Oliver's words, Justin fell silent for a while.

"Fine, go ahead and reveal it. Call my manager first and let her know that I agreed. She should be ready to coordinate with you."

In choosing between Lindsay and Olivia, Justin decided to help Olivia this time.

He knew with Lindsay's resilient character, she could handle anything.

On the other hand, Olivia was too delicate, more suited to a sheltered environment where she wouldn't be exposed to any harshness.

He added, "However, revealing our relationship will only distract people temporarily. It won't last long. So, you'll still need to figure out a PR strategy to clear Olivia's name."

Hearing this, Oliver let out a huge sigh of relief. "I just need some time to arrange the PR. Don't worry, I won't let Via be condemned by the entire internet."

He thought for a moment and added, "You don't need to feel guilty about revealing your relationship with Lindsay. Maybe she actually wants it to be public. After all, she cares so much about you."

Oliver still didn't know that Lindsay had already broken up with Justin. Seeing Lindsay announce on the live broadcast that she was severing ties with Justin, he thought she was just throwing a tantrum.

Justin agreed to Oliver's suggestion not only to help Olivia but also out of self-interest.

Once their relationship was public, he planned to confirm it on Instagram after the variety show ended. He hoped that this would prevent Lindsay from bringing up the breakup again, and they could smoothly reconcile.

She had never said it outright, but he knew she disliked keeping their relationship a secret. Making it public now might actually be what she wanted.

He said, "I understand. Go ahead."

Oliver smiled and said, "Thanks, buddy!"

He then instructed Alex not to tell Olivia about the online situation yet, fearing she couldn't handle it, before ending the call.

Alex found it even harder to sleep lying there. He suddenly spoke up, "I really regret asking Lindsay to read my fortune today."

Justin was now fully awake. "Regret is pointless and meaningless. Honestly, your relationship being exposed was only a matter of time, so there's no need to dwell on it."

Alex stared at the ceiling. "Justin, do you think Lindsay mentioned the 'three things she won't read' rule on the live broadcast on purpose?"

If Lindsay hadn't said that, people probably wouldn't have dug so deep into their relationship.

Having grown up with Lindsay, Justin knew she wasn't easily intimidated and wasn't particularly soft-hearted either.

When she cared about someone, she would give her all, but when she no longer cared, she could be ruthlessly decisive. She was also smart and knew how to set traps well.

So, there was a high chance that Lindsay's comments during the day were intentional. However, to preserve Lindsay's image in Alex's mind, he said, "She probably didn't do it on purpose.

"After all, you kept pushing her for an answer during the day, and that's why she said it. Many mystics indeed adhere to the 'three things they won't read' rule. When this episode of the variety show is over, you can go back to the capital and ask around."

Hearing Justin's explanation, Alex felt reassured. "It's good to know it wasn't intentional."

After that, although neither of them could fall asleep, they didn't talk anymore.

Meanwhile, Oliver called Justin's manager, Linda Cooke.

Initially, she was against the idea of revealing the relationship.

However, Oliver emphasized that it was Justin's decision and that he was not asking for her permission but informing her.

Linda sent a message to Justin to confirm, and when he responded affirmatively, they had a brief argument.

Despite her reluctance, Justin was very resolute, so she had no choice but to agree. Feeling quite frustrated, she cooperated with Oliver's PR team.

She provided them with photos of the two embracing, Lindsay smiling while linking arms with Justin, and a few pictures from their school days.
