

Chapter 107

As the variety show live stream began, the camera captured Lindsay practicing boxing.

A group of older fans immediately flooded the chat with praises.

However, Justin's fans were relentless, continuously hurling insults at Lindsay. They even picked fights with the older fans, criticizing their taste for supporting such a shameless woman.

The older fans, naturally, wouldn't take this lying down.

They liked Lindsay regardless of who she dated and found Justin's fans' behavior over the top.

They retaliated, stating that the couple's relationship was none of Justin's fans' business.

Despite their age, they were formidable in arguments.

Soon, the fans who were mystics and Lindsay's fans joined the fray, holding their ground against the overwhelming number of Justin's fans.

After a while, some of the older fans stepped in to calm things down, advising everyone not to stoop to the level of Justin's fans.

They pointed out that the bickering cluttered the chat and ruined the viewing experience for others.

Besides, they were there to watch Lindsay box, not to argue with Justin's fans. It wasn't worth it.

Following their lead, Lindsay's fans stopped retaliating, letting Justin's fans rant alone.

Fans of Alex and Olivia, still greatly affected by Alex and Olivia's intimacy and exposure of their actual relationship, merely watched the drama unfold without participating.

Other fans and general viewers initially watched for the entertainment but eventually grew annoyed by the constant bickering. They just wanted to enjoy the variety show.

In the end, Lindsay's more disciplined fans withdrew, while Justin's fans continued their aggressive behavior.

This only generated resentment among other viewers, negatively impacting their perception of Justin.

After all, a star's fans often reflect on the star themselves.

In the yard, after finishing her boxing routine, Lindsay went to wash up and prepare breakfast.

Although she didn't know what was happening online, she guessed it wouldn't be calm.

She had regularly and anonymously sent the paternity test screenshots to that prominent social media influencer, who had likely posted them by now.

Elric, who had woken up early to watch Lindsay's boxing, joined her in the kitchen to help.

Charles signaled the cameraman, who then moved to film Alex and the others waking up.

With no cameras in the kitchen, Charles walked in.

Seeing Elric there, he thought for a moment but didn't ask Elric to leave.

After all, once the variety show ended today and the phones were returned to the guests, everyone would find out what was happening online.

He approached Lindsay and quietly said, "You've been trending on the hot searches since yesterday and today."

Lindsay smiled and asked, "What's the trending topic?"

Charles replied, "The paternity test confirmed you're Alex's biological sister. Someone posted the paternity test. But that hot topic was removed this morning."

He emphasized, "Now the top trending topic is the revelation of your relationship with Justin."

This left Lindsay momentarily stunned, clearly surprised. She hadn't expected Oliver to use her relationship with Justin to divert attention. It was obvious that Justin had agreed to it.

This made it clear that Oliver still didn't know about their breakup. And did Justin become dumber just because he stayed in the same room as Alex?

Two months ago, when a reporter asked Justin if they were a couple, he had denied it.

Now, even after their breakup, he agreed to let Oliver expose their relationship.

There could only be one reason: Justin had once again chosen Olivia over her.

How ironic!

Lindsay shrugged, unconcerned. "Let them do as they please."

Since they insisted on pulling this stunt, she would take this opportunity to sever ties with Justin once and for all.

Hearing Charles' words, Elric felt a surge of irritation.

His frustration wasn't directed at Lindsay but at Justin.

Considering Justin's attitude towards Lindsay, that guy didn't deserve to be with her at all.

big sale: 100 bonus free fou you

get it