

Chapter 112

Furthermore, Olivia, a C-list celebrity, acting high and mighty in front of Sharon, a B-list actress?

It was incredibly rude.

The four members of the other group seemed much more harmonious.

Sharon regretted her decision to join Alex and Olivia's group, thinking she had made a poor choice in believing they would be good to work with.

Next time, she would strive to switch groups.

In the first car, Lindsay and her group members took out their phones, catching up on a week's worth of messages and responding to them.

They also checked the reactions to their participation in the live-streamed variety show.

Soon, they encountered a major revelation.

Leslie, in particular, noticed that the comments on the program's official website were not only discussing Lindsay and Alex being siblings but also fervently debating her relationship with Justin.

He exited the site and checked the trending topics.

Sure enough, there were two trending topics about Lindsay and Justin's romance.

After reading through them, he was a bit stunned.

He hadn't expected Lindsay and Justin to be a couple, nor for their relationship to be exposed.

Wendy also checked the trending topics.

She had known about Lindsay and Justin's relationship beforehand, but seeing most of the comments bashing Lindsay made her angry.

She asked, "Linds, have you seen the trending topics?"

Lindsay had just finished looking through the trending topics and the online sentiment. She looked up and said, "Yes, I've seen them."

Wendy asked, "You didn't know about this beforehand, did you?"

Lindsay shook her head. "No, I didn't know, and I didn't expect it."

Feeling a bit sympathetic towards Lindsay, Wendy realized this exposure must have been premeditated.

"Are you going to respond?" she asked, sensing that Lindsay was in a difficult situation.

Not responding would only lead to harsher criticism, but crafting a response wasn't something simple either.

Eric had already read the trending topics, and Wendy had voiced his thoughts. While he knew Lindsay was prepared, he was still curious about her plan. Would she address the situation directly?

Lindsay smiled and replied, "Of course, I'll respond. Otherwise, it would just be letting them have a one-sided show."

Elric's eyes lit up. "I'll have my PR team help you."

Since Lindsay had left Harper Entertainment and didn't have a manager or a PR team, Elric's dedicated PR team could assist her completely.

This time, Lindsay didn't refuse Elric's offer. "Alright, thank you. I appreciate your PR team's help."

With limited time, her studio hadn't hired any staff yet, and she indeed lacked PR support. After returning, she needed to complete her team.

Seeing that Lindsay accepted his help, Elric's smile grew even brighter. "I'll have them prepare right away."

He then sent multiple voice messages to his manager and team, instructing them to be ready for Lindsay's PR needs.

Elric's manager and team were not only supportive but also proactive.

Lindsay was their savior, and they wouldn't stand by while she was being attacked.

Earlier, when they saw the uproar online, Elric's team was already outraged and wanted to intervene.

However, they held back, worried that Lindsay might have a plan or that their actions might backfire.

After coordinating with his team, Elric turned to Lindsay. "Are you going to respond now?"

Lindsay opened Justin's Instagram account and kept refreshing. "I'll respond as soon as Justin posts. Given that he agreed to and supported Oliver in exposing our relationship, he will likely address it quickly now that he has his phone."

Sure enough, just as she finished speaking, Justin's latest post appeared on her screen, stating, "Yes, I am indeed in a relationship with Lindsay."