

Chapter 122

With so many people supporting her, Lindsay knew she couldn't let them down. She posted the final set of counterattack photos in the group chat, each marked to highlight key details.

Lindsay wrote, "Please share these photos. After this, we won't need to engage with the public any further."

The three PR team members opened the photos and quickly understood the significance of the marked areas.

"Understood. With these photos, we can pin them down. There's no way they can escape this."

Working with someone like Lindsay was truly a pleasure and made their job much easier.

Soon, as the fans of Justin, Olivia, and Lindsay continued their heated arguments, another prominent entertainment industry insider, CasualGossip, known for occasional scoops, posted on Instagram.

"I just received some photos in my email. I had a tech expert check them, and they haven't been altered. I'm sharing them here for everyone to see."

He uploaded six photos. As soon as his post went live, Elric's team began spreading it widely, pushing it to the trending topics.

The public, still hungry for more gossip, eagerly clicked to see the new content.

"Although these six photos are individual shots of Justin and Angel, they provide further proof."

"Tsk tsk, wearing matching pendants— is this how he is supposed to take care of his friend's sister?"

"They really are the same pendant, and they've worn them in several different settings."

"Wearing them so often means they both really like each other."

"I just saw this pendant in a magazine. It's a limited-edition couple's pendant, sold only as a pair for 1.5 million dollars, which is why it stood out to me."

"I checked, and it's exactly as the person above said. Look for yourselves."

The commenter added a picture under their comment. When people clicked, they saw that Justin and Angel were indeed wearing matching pendants.

"So, are they flaunting their love in public?"

"Justin is really generous, giving away a pendant worth more than seven hundred thousand dollars just like that."

"Judging by the timeline, they were wearing these before the variety show, meaning Justin was still dating Lindsay then."

"Once again, I feel sorry for Lindsay. She was betrayed so early on."

"With this matching couple's pendants as solid proof, let's see how that second brother will try to spin this."

"Is he going to claim he gave them to both separately?"

"Haha, as the person above mentioned, it's not impossible."

"That would mean he's helping outsiders while undermining his own sister."

"I can't believe Justin is this kind of person—a cheating scumbag."

"Angel steals someone's brother and doesn't even spare her boyfriend. Impressive!"

"Biological brother siding with outsiders to bully his actual sister. Scumbag."

"Let me add, it's not just one brother. The other brother, Alex, is the same. They're both scumbags."

"I just want to say, these four are truly disgusting."

With these photos released, no one believed there was nothing going on between Justin and Olivia anymore. Subsequently, Justin, Olivia, and Alex were all roundly criticized by netizens.

In the office, Oliver and Linda were truly losing their minds after seeing the latest developments.

Unable to hold back, Oliver shouted, "What on earth are they doing?"

Not only had they been having private meals together and acting intimately, but now the couple's pendants had come to light. How were they supposed to explain this away?

Linda was equally incredulous. "How could this happen? Why are they wearing matching couple's pendants?"

She had never known about this.

With a dark expression, Oliver said, "I want to know too. How did they end up with matching couple's pendants?"