

Chapter 124

So, he had always worn it.

Occasionally, the pendant would accidentally be exposed, and photos capturing this were taken during events.

This time, for the live stream, he thought that working in the village might damage the pendant, so he left it in the safe and didn't bring it.

As for Olivia's pendant, he hadn't given it to her. He didn't even know she had one. According to the information the netizens uncovered, there were only two of these limited-edition pendants in the world, and they weren't sold separately.

With this in mind, he understood everything. Olivia's pendant was also a gift from that person.

At this point, Justin was feeling so angry that he couldn't hide his anger from his face. He barely restrained himself from smashing his phone.

How could he explain this? He even began to wonder if that person had orchestrated everything, including the intimate photos.

Seeing Justin's dark and angry expression, like a lion on the verge of roaring, Alex and Olivia exchanged glances.

What was going on?

This was the first time they had seen Justin, usually so composed, show his emotions so openly. Realizing it had something to do with his phone, they both checked Instagram and trending topics.

They were stunned.

Alex couldn't believe that Olivia and Justin's relationship had reached this level in private. Not only were the photos extremely intimate, but they were also wearing matching couple's pendants.

He stared at the two of them, blurting out, "What is going on between you two?"

Everyone in the family knew Justin was Lindsay's boyfriend. Even though he doted on Olivia, Alex found it hard to accept that the two of them had something going on behind Lindsay's back.

Olivia hadn't expected that so many photos of her private meetings with Justin would be dug up.

The intimate photos were from captured screenshots and candid shots. She had indeed deliberately created those ambiguous moments to lure Justin in. Of course, she couldn't admit to that.

As for the couple's pendant, it wasn't a gift from Justin.

It was a birthday present she received.

Until she saw the photos on Instagram today, she hadn't known that Justin had one too. Otherwise, to maintain her image and avoid suspicion, she wouldn't have worn it so many times at events just because she liked it.

Hearing Alex's questioning, Justin immediately denied it, "We are just normal friends."

Olivia quickly collected herself and added, "Yes, our relationship is not what the netizens are saying."

She was fuming inside.

Those people were lashing out at her because of these photos, even though she was innocent. Her little scheme to win over Justin couldn't be revealed in front of him and her brother now, and she certainly couldn't admit it online.

Otherwise, she would be seen as the third party in the relationship and be scorned to death.

Alex's face was tinged with anger. "If you two have no relationship, then what about those photos and the couple's pendants? Are you seriously saying you haven't been meeting privately behind our backs?"

The photos were undeniable proof, verified for authenticity. Justin and Olivia had no way to refute that they had met privately several times.

Justin tried to explain, "Yes, we've met, but it's not like the rumors online. The photos were taken and cropped at misleading angles."

Alex glared at him with fury. "Do you think I'm stupid? Even if the photos were taken at tricky angles, you still had to be close enough for them to look like that! Justin, you bastard. While being with Lindsay, you were doing this behind her back. Do you have any idea how much you've hurt Lindsay?"

He was seething with rage. "No wonder she broke up with you and cut all ties. You've gone too far."

Justin had betrayed and hurt his sister in such a despicable way.

It was unforgivable.
