

Chapter 141

When it didn't involve Olivia, both Grace and the five Harper brothers showed a certain level of leniency towards Lindsay.

Even if Grace hadn't mentioned it, Oliver wanted to find Lindsay himself.

He had no control over the sudden appearance of those photos and Lindsay's PR team.

Therefore, he believed it would be better for Lindsay to come back to the company under his supervision. It would prevent any unpredictable issues and allow him to manage her more effectively.

He agreed readily, "Alright, I'll go see her tomorrow. I'll offer her the best contract, with the same terms as our top celebrity. This time, she shouldn't have any complaints."

As for coming home, he was confident that if they offered Lindsay an olive branch, she would accept it.

He knew that deep down, Lindsay longed for family connection.

They were siblings by blood, and no argument could sever that bond permanently.

Quarrels were normal among family members.

The other four brothers shared similar thoughts.

They believed that as long as they made the first move, Lindsay would happily return.

After all, they were family, and there was no need to hold grudges.

If Lindsay could get along with Olivia moving forward, they would treat her with the same affection.

Hearing Grace's words, Olivia felt a bit uncomfortable.

It was clear that being a biological daughter made a difference.

Despite all the conflicts and Lindsay saying she had severed ties with them, they still wanted Lindsay back.

However, this aligned with her plans, so she didn't try to stop it.

She agreed enthusiastically, "Yes, Lindsay just misunderstood the situation before. Oliver, you need to bring her back this time. I'll apologize to her and explain the misunderstanding about the photos and the couple's pendant."

She then added, deliberately setting a trap, "I'm sure that once Justin and I explain everything clearly, Lindsay will understand."

Oliver replied, "You don't have to apologize, but you definitely need to clear up the situation between you and Justin for her. There's no reason to let a misunderstanding over a man ruin your relationship."

The family all hoped that Lindsay and Olivia could get along peacefully.

Previously, Oliver had been uncomfortable with the ambiguous relationship between their foster sister and Lindsay's boyfriend.

Now that he knew it was a misunderstanding, he felt relieved.

Justin had failed to manage the relationships properly, causing all these misunderstandings. It was embarrassing how poorly he had handled it over the years.

Oliver's resentment towards Justin was at its peak now, blaming him for the fallout between his two sisters.

Lindsay had also jumped to conclusions, causing Olivia to endure so much criticism.

The situation gave his PR team a lot of headaches.

He decided that once they had reconciled with Lindsay, they would have her post a clarifying statement on Instagram, explaining that she had misunderstood the relationship between Justin and Olivia.

A statement from the involved party would be far more effective than any PR efforts they could undertake. This would also clear Olivia's name from the scandal, preventing further backlash.

As for Justin, if Lindsay truly didn't want to reconcile with him, they would find her a new match from another wealthy family.

After all, as her biological brothers, they could manage and discipline her to curb her rebellious and reckless behavior.

However, they would never allow outsiders to bully her.

Even his friend Justin wasn't exempt from this rule.

After dealing with these matters, Grace felt exhausted and retired to her room.

Once she left, the other five siblings continued to comfort Olivia.

Brandon, out of habit, reached out to hug Olivia, but as soon as he did, the housekeeper suddenly appeared and reminded him, "Mr. Brandon, Madam Grace requested that you all should mind your distance and behavior around one another."

Before heading upstairs, Grace had specifically instructed the housekeeper and the servants to keep an eye on the five brothers and Olivia. If there was any inappropriate behavior, they were to step in and remind them.

Seeing the housekeeper's stern, expressionless face, Brandon reluctantly withdrew his hand. "So many rules."

He was frustrated that his mother felt the need to have them watched. It made them feel like they were doing something shameful, which was ridiculous.

Olivia was also displeased.

Her foster mother actually had people spying on them.

What did Grace mean by this?

It seemed that Olivia would have to be more mindful of her actions with the servants around as well.
