

Chapter 156

His appearance, reminiscent of a national heartthrob, garnered him a brief period of popularity. However, since his style clashed with a newcomer that Oliver was promoting, his resources were cut off.

After starring in an idol drama, he was given two minor roles over the following year, effectively sidelining him.

In the entertainment industry, if newcomers didn't stay in the spotlight, they were quickly forgotten, even if they had once been popular.

Lindsay watched a few episodes of his idol drama. "Although his acting is a bit raw, it's not bad. He has a lot of potential and room for improvement.

The data shows he has no scandals. Even though he's been sidelined, he's still taking acting classes to improve his skills. He's a promising talent. We can bring him over and groom him as the star of our studio."

Jenny, seeing the elegant and handsome young man, smiled and said, "He's got a distinctive kind of good looks. I think he's great. Let's go with him, then."

Lindsay marked the file with a check. She pointed to another file and said, "This singer is also a good choice. He gained some fame on a talent show with a song he wrote himself.

After being signed by Harper Entertainment, he clashed with Scumbag No.3 and was outcasted. To make ends meet, he's been performing at bars. I've listened to his songs; his voice and tone are excellent, with immense potential."

She played a song for Jenny.

Jenny's eyes lit up. "This guy sings beautifully, better than Scumbag No.3. Let's get him! Let's raise him up to compete against Scumbag No.3 and knock that jerk off his pedestal."

Lindsay chuckled. "That's exactly what I was thinking."

She marked another check.

The last choice was a woman in her twenties. She had once been an A-list actress but was blacklisted for allegedly interfering in the relationship between another actress from the same company and a popular actor.

For over a year after the scandal, she had almost no offers. Even if she got a role, it was as a mistress or a despised villain.

"Her acting skills were top-notch among actresses, adept at portraying both protagonist and antagonist roles. Her looks are highly versatile; she can appear innocent and gentle or sophisticated, fiery, and cold.

"According to the information Albert sent, she was actually dating the popular actor first. She helped pave the way for him, only to be betrayed by him and the other actress."

Lindsay added, "I know the actress who stepped on her to rise to fame. She was also promoted by Scumbag No.2. She puts on a facade of being dignified and polite, but behind the scenes, she's harsh to assistants and acts like a diva.

"To lesser-known actresses, she's always condescending behind their backs. Once, Scumbag No.2 had a meeting with the artists, and she arrogantly asked me to make her coffee. I ignored her.

"We'll recruit this blacklisted actress and rehabilitate her image, positioning her as a versatile actress. I believe she has the potential for a comeback and to garner awards."

Lindsay smirked. "It will also embarrass Scumbag No.2 and show him what kind of trash he's been promoting."

Jenny was equally unimpressed. "Scumbag No.2 has a terrible character, and the people he supports are just as bad. Among your Scumbag brothers, he's the worst, the most ruthless."

She added, "Of course, the other Scumbags aren't much better. We'll take this actress. Let's show Scumbag No.2 how the people they try to crush can rise again and overshadow their favorites."

Lindsay marked the actress's file with a check. "Alright, it's decided. We'll go with these three."

They planned to focus on quality over quantity, aiming to make each talent they supported a star.

As they finalized their plans, Lindsay's phone rang.

She glanced at it and saw a message from Elric.