

Chapter 164

This question left Oliver at a loss.

Indeed, how could he deal with Lindsay?

Preventing her from participating in shows wouldn't work; Lindsay had saved Charles's wife, and Charles wouldn't go against her.

Trying to blacklist her in the industry had only made her more popular through the reality show.

Hiring trolls to slander her backfired, and she turned the tables on them.

Now, she was about to become an artist with Star Entertainment.

With all these setbacks, Oliver didn't know what else he should do.

He regretted, "We should have signed a contract with her when she first joined the company."

If they had signed a contract, he would have the leverage to keep Lindsay in line. Otherwise, she would face a steep penalty she couldn't afford, compelling her to remain under his authority.

Edmund was more composed. "Haven't you realized that she was always one step ahead? When we didn't bring up the contract, she didn't either. Maybe she was already preparing for this day."

From recent events, it was clear that their sister was not simple, and they had underestimated her.

Oliver was stunned, unwilling to admit it but forced to recognize that Lindsay had indeed been prepared. This realization made him feel even worse.

Edmund, also feeling uneasy, said, "Can't you see? She's not afraid to burn bridges with us. So, let's hold off on any plans against her for now. If we continue, the Harper family will become a laughingstock in the industry."

Being outmaneuvered and humiliated by his own sister made Oliver feel incredibly frustrated.

Reluctantly, he asked, "So we just let it go?"

Edmund replied, "What else can we do? Do you have any way to deal with her right now?"

Oliver clenched his fists. "Then let her be arrogant this time. In the future, I'll find a way to make her come back and address me properly."
"

Online, due to the consecutive posts from Lindsay and Elric, coupled with Lindsay's hints and the stirred momentum on Instagram, the situation escalated.

People couldn't help but speculate conspiratorially.

They believed that Oliver, Lindsay's own brother, was trying to coerce her into posting on social media to help Justin and Olivia cover up and clear their names. It was outrageous; what kind of brother would do that?

Fortunately, Lindsay had cut ties with them.

Lindsay's fans and many others who disapproved of the situation flocked to Oliver's Instagram to berate him. Justin and Olivia were also dragged into the fray again, reigniting the controversy that had barely died down.

Seeing herself once again targeted and criticized because of Lindsay, Olivia felt like she couldn't stay sane.

Sitting in the living room, she burst into tears, feeling both angry and wronged. She wanted to be a rising star in the entertainment industry, not infamous.

The three Harper brothers tried to console her, though under the watchful eye of the housekeeper, they didn't dare to hug or hold her for comfort.

Alex, after some thought, suggested, "How about we skip the next episode of the show?"

Being snubbed and mocked by their own sister on the show was unbearable. He was already reluctant to continue participating. Now, with Olivia being criticized again, he felt that quitting might be the best option.

However, Olivia immediately opposed the suggestion. "No, I won't quit."

Quitting now would mean she was afraid of Lindsay.

She had already planned how to turn her image around and win the audience's favor in the next episode.

Above all, her dreams had suggested that this show would only gain more popularity.

She wouldn't have gone to such lengths, including fighting for Lindsay's spot, to join the show if it hadn't been for the dream.

Beyond her desire to outshine Lindsay, the encouragement from her dreams drove her to pursue stardom on the show.

Quitting now would be unbearable for her.