

Chapter 174

Lindsay planned to have Fiona appear as a guest on an upcoming episode of a popular reality show.

The director of this reality show, Sarah Watt, was a talented woman who had been classmates with Charles. So, she called Charles for help.

When the call connected, Lindsay got straight to the point, asking for his assistance.

Charles was silent for a moment before saying, "I don't mind helping with this, but Fiona's reputation is really bad. Sarah is very particular about the character and reputation of the artists she works with and detests homewreckers. Even if I step in, she will most likely refuse."

Lindsay wasn't surprised by this response.

It was well-known in the industry that Sarah's marriage had ended due to infidelity, making her very selective about the artists she worked with.

Lindsay replied, "Fiona was falsely accused. The real homewrecker is the other woman, Denise Wills. Sarah's show has been running for several seasons, and its popularity isn't as high as it used to be. Using Fiona could boost the show's ratings."

She continued, "I can release evidence proving that Fiona was set up and Denise is the real homewrecker. This will not only clear Fiona's name but also bring a lot of attention and higher ratings to the show. People will see that Sarah didn't make a mistake in choosing Fiona."

Charles' previously worried expression turned into a smile. "If that's the case, I'm sure Sarah won't refuse. I'll call her and get back to you."

Lindsay thanked him, "Great, thank you, Mr. Barker."

Soon after, Charles called back.

Sarah wanted to meet Lindsay to see the evidence for herself and determine if Fiona was truly innocent.

Lindsay readily agreed, and they arranged to have dinner that evening, with Charles facilitating the introduction.

That evening, the three of them met.

Lindsay presented screenshots from the email, which included chat logs and photos of Fiona and Vincent clearly indicating they were in a relationship.

Sarah was completely convinced and also disgusted and angry at the actions of the two deceivers.

Sarah's sister was the deputy general manager of one of the top three entertainment companies, aside from Harper Entertainment and Star Entertainment. Therefore, she wasn't afraid of offending those two and Oliver.

Moreover, Sarah quickly realized that Lindsay was no ordinary person.

Opening a new star studio and daring to sign an artist as infamous as Fiona was impressive enough.

Even more remarkable was how quickly she found solid evidence to fight back.

As a fellow woman, Sarah felt sympathy for Fiona's plight and was willing to help. Besides, this turnaround would undoubtedly boost the show's topics and popularity.

Additionally, Lindsay was a renowned mystic, and Sarah wanted to establish good relations with her.

Thus, she agreed without hesitation and told Lindsay to bring Fiona to sign the contract with her assistant within the next few days.

When Fiona received Lindsay's call, she was stunned by the efficiency.

She marveled at how incredible Lindsay was to secure her a spot as a guest on such a popular show, something not just anyone could achieve.

To avoid any unexpected issues, they went the next day to sign the contract, effectively taking the guest spot that Harper Entertainment had planned for one of their artists, an artist managed by Oliver.

Coincidentally, that artist was Denise.

When Oliver heard that Sarah had rejected his artist and instead chosen Fiona as the guest, he was dumbfounded.

He wanted to ask if Sarah had lost her mind.