

Chapter 31

If Lindsay would just drown here, it would have been nice.

Olivia wouldn't have to worry about this woman stealing the love and attention she received anymore.

Lindsay was someone who shouldn't have been alive in the first place, so her death would be fitting.

However, Olivia didn't show any of these thoughts on her face, instead, she looked worried.

In the water, Lindsay saw Elric being pulled underwater, so she swam down as well.

The visibility underwater was poor, but she still managed to spot Elric's direction.

Using the current's force, she quickly swam ahead and grabbed his arm.

However, the current was strong, and it pushed them towards the reservoir gate, nearly separating them.

But Lindsay didn't panic, she held her breath.

She tightly grasped Elric's arm, using the current's force to draw closer to him. When she was pushed against him, she quickly let go of his arm and wrapped her arms around his waist.

She used all her strength to swim towards the shore.

Although Elric's eyes were tightly shut, he was still conscious.

He had thought his impulsiveness would cost him his life.

The current pushed him further, and at a critical moment, his leg cramped.

Unable to swim up to save himself, he choked on a lot of water.

He couldn't breathe and felt like he was going to pass out.

Just as he thought he might drown, a hand suddenly grabbed his arm.

Soon, he was wrapped around the waist and pulled forward.

Was he being saved?

He certainly didn't want to die if he could live.

At this moment, everyone on the shore and in the livestream audience watched without daring to blink.

The live chat fell silent; everyone was too tense to type.

Fans of Lindsay and Elric kept praying silently, hoping that nothing bad would happen.

Onlookers and other fans also wished for their safety.

Despite their prayers, the strong current and the reservoir's height of several dozen meters made survival seem unlikely if they were swept away.

Only a few fans of Alex, Olivia, and Justin hoped for misfortune.

Just as everyone thought they might have been swept away, Lindsay suddenly emerged from the water, holding Elric, and swam towards the shore.

The people on the shore and the viewers in the livestream couldn't help but cheer excitedly at the sight.

The fans were so emotional they wanted to cry.

Several heart-stopping moments followed.

Lindsay, holding Elric, swam closer but was repeatedly pushed back by the current.

Despite this, she never gave up, continuously swimming against the current.

Finally, they neared the shore. When another strong current came, Lindsay grabbed a branch extended from the shore.

The person holding the other end of the branch quickly pulled them towards the shore with all their might.

They were quickly pulled ashore.

Most of the people on-site and in the livestream breathed a sigh of relief; thankfully, they were saved.

Once on shore, Lindsay half-sat on the ground, panting.

Although she always exercised, the ordeal had left her utterly exhausted.

Elric, on the other hand, was semi-conscious.

Fortunately, the medical team had arrived and hurried to attend to Elric.

Soon, he coughed up several mouthfuls of water, took a few sharp breaths, and slowly opened his eyes.

He turned his head and saw Lindsay, leaning on her hands, looking at him.

A rare softness appeared in his eyes; she had indeed risked her life to save him.
