

Chapter 32

Elric's face was pale, but a bright smile appeared in his eyes.

He looked at Lindsay and said in a slightly hoarse voice, "Thank you!"

Lindsay smiled at him. "It was the least I could do. No need to thank me."

She had always had a good impression of Elric. Besides being one of the few men who showed no interest in Olivia, he also had a genuine and cheerful personality.

She hadn't expected him to jump into the water with her to save the children.

The reservoir gate hadn't been opened, and the children weren't in immediate danger.

His decision to jump in showed his trust in her actions. He didn't want the children to be in danger and had a kind heart.

Seeing the smiles and conversation between the two, Justin felt a discomfort growing inside him.

He had wanted to scold Lindsay for risking her safety to save Elric.

If she hadn't managed to save him, she could have lost her life as well.

But because of the livestream, he held back.

Otherwise, Elric's fans and other viewers would have surely called him cold-hearted.

He stepped forward and, with a worried expression, asked Lindsay, "Linds, are you okay?"

The smile in Lindsay's eyes faded a bit. She shook her head and said calmly, "Thank you for your concern, Mr. Ford. I'm fine."

Justin felt a pang of frustration in his chest. He wanted to ask why Lindsay insisted on speaking to him with such a distant and cold attitude, but because of the livestream, he held back.

He finally managed to say, "It's good that you're okay."

Alex also wanted to scold Lindsay for risking herself to save Elric, feeling a bit jealous as well.

But he, too, held back because of the livestream.

Seeing Lindsay's cold attitude towards Justin, he decided not to approach her.

Olivia was extremely displeased that not only was Lindsay unharmed, but she had also saved Elric. This meant that Elric now owed Lindsay a favor.

Many viewers of the livestream would also have a better impression of Lindsay.

In the following days, Olivia knew she had to work even harder to stand out; otherwise, she wouldn't be able to contrast herself against Lindsay.

Once Lindsay and Elric regained some strength, they returned to the courtyard.

Meanwhile, the livestream chat became active again.

At first, the comments were filled with gratitude, mainly from Elric's fans.

"Ahhh, the young lady is so brave and cool! I'm a fan now!"

"Thank you, cool lady, for saving El God. Love you!"

"Thank you, young lady, for saving El. I'm a fan now, too."

"The young lady was so cool and fierce just now. Love it!"

Many of Elric's fans grew to like Lindsay because of this event.

Fans from other groups and onlookers also started to appreciate and follow Lindsay, with many praising her.

"From now on, young lady, I'll call you my Precious Linds."

"Love it! I think I love Precious Linds more than El now."

"Precious Linds is amazing! She could tell the kids were in danger just by looking."

"She's incredible! She even predicted where the kids would be in trouble."

"If it weren't for the young lady and Elric getting in the water early, those kids would have been in real danger."

However, Alex's, Olivia's, and Justin's fans were unhappy and started to post negative and sarcastic comments.

"How could it be such a coincidence? I think the show planned this script in advance."

"I agree. There's no way she could predict it so accurately. I don't buy it."

"Didn't they say Lindsay has a wealthy backer? And Elric comes from a rich family. This script was written just for them."

"The show went to great lengths to promote these two. They even came up with this kind of script. Impressive!"

These remarks shocked the other guests' fans and onlookers.
