

Chapter 37

Elric scoffed at Alex's words, "Yes, yes, I lack manners. I can't compare to you and your genius sister. But I'm just someone who likes to speak the truth. And I don't go around bullying girls, so don't slander me or stick labels on me."

Lindsay chimed in to support Elric, "So it's okay for you to do as you please, but we can't even speak the truth? Alex, you're being too domineering and hypocritical."

She was more than happy to team up with Elric to give Alex a hard time.

Alex was furious. "Lindsay, whose side are you on?"

His own sister siding with someone he disliked was too much.

Lindsay replied confidently, "I'm on the side of whoever is right."

Elric pointed at himself, "Did you hear that? She's on the side of what's right."

Seeing the three of them bicker, Charles could barely contain his laughter. Conflict was good; it kept the show interesting. Who said a variety show had to have a united cast? Genuine disagreements were more engaging than forced harmony.

He wasn't worried about Lindsay either. He knew she was smart and rational. Since she had chosen to oppose Alex, Olivia, and Justin right from the start, she must have had her reasons.

He didn't think she was doing it just for controversy; he suspected there would be some kind of twist later on. If he was right, it would be another highlight and a source of viewership for the show.

So, he didn't intervene and was happy to see the two groups clash.

In the livestream comments, fans of Alex and Olivia began to harshly criticize Elric and Lindsay.

Elric's fans and Lindsay's fans, now fed up with Alex and Olivia, saw them as a brainless idiot and a hypocrite.

"This girl obviously wants their meat but won't admit it. She's so fake."

"Alex blindly protects his sister, just like those brothers who enable their sister's bad behavior."

"His obsession with his sister is a bit scary."

"If Alex had a girlfriend and she argued with his sister, who would he side with?"

"He'd definitely side with his little angel!"

"Our El might not be a gentleman like Alex. But at just 15, he was exceptionally admitted to a top music academy abroad."

"Our El might lack manners, but he finished all his credits in just two years and graduated with excellent grades."

"Then he came back to play games and won a world championship after just a year. How irresponsible..."

"I remember El God is fluent in four languages. He really doesn't know how to talk..."

"We always told him to study more and show good manners, but he never listened to us."

Elric's fans, with self-deprecating humor, managed to push Olivia's fans aside.

Then someone brought up another issue.

"What did Alex mean just now? Why does he think Lindsay should be on his side?"

"Lindsay was seen practicing dance with him alone, and the paparazzi exposed it."

"Their relationship definitely isn't simple."

"Could they have dated secretly before? Did Alex dump Lindsay?"

"Doesn't seem like it. Since the show started, it's always Alex approaching Lindsay."

"Lindsay has that 'don't come near me' attitude. Doesn't seem like she got dumped."

"But there must be some relationship or conflict between them."

"Paparazzi, go dig this up."

Among the livestream viewers, there was indeed someone who ran a paparazzi company.

Seeing the comments, they thought the relationship between Lindsay and Alex was worth digging into. If they were to find anything, it would be a major scoop. They immediately instructed their paparazzi to start investigating.
