

Chapter 46

On the other side, back in the room, Lindsay noticed Wendy staring at her. She smiled and asked, "Why are you looking at me like that?"

Wendy didn't hold back. "I didn't expect to uncover such a big secret about you and the movie star."

She had suspected something was off with Justin, and now she knew he and Lindsay had a past relationship.

Lindsay shrugged. "A result of youthful impulsiveness."

Wendy chuckled. "Who hasn't liked a jerk in their youth? The important thing is to cut your losses in time."

She had also been betrayed by a boyfriend before and despised guys like Justin, who had a girlfriend but still tangled with other women.

The recording Lindsay had would certainly impact Olivia.

Justin didn't want to break up but also wanted Lindsay to delete the recording for Olivia's sake. That made him even worse.

Lindsay nodded in agreement. "Exactly, cutting your losses is key."

Wendy thought for a moment, unable to contain her curiosity. "You and Alex didn't have something going on too, did you?"

Alex's whining and pleading didn't seem like how he'd treat a mere friend.

Lindsay laughed. "No way, we're related by blood."

It wouldn't be a secret for long, so she felt fine telling Wendy now.

Wendy didn't seem like the kind of person who would backstab her.

Wendy's eyes widened. "What? You and Alex are related? Both of you are siblings?"

Lindsay nodded. "We were siblings once."

Wendy was confused. "Were?"

Lindsay explained, "Before coming to this show, I cut ties with him and the rest of the family."

Wendy was astonished. "Why? Was it because of Olivia?"

Lindsay said, "A large part of it was because of her."

Wendy asked, "So you and she are sisters too?"

Lindsay shook her head. "No, she's adopted. I'm their biological daughter. When I was a child, Alex lost me. The Harper family only found me a year ago. They thought that after I came back, I took Olivia's place, so they were unhappy with me," Lindsay explained.

"They wanted me to give in to Olivia all the time. I couldn't stand it, so I cut ties with them."

Wendy was taken aback by the truth. "Your family is really unreasonable. Olivia took your identity, yet they expect you to compensate her? And Alex lost you, his biological sister, but treats you like you're the problem for his adopted sister? That's absurd."

She could only imagine how much Lindsay must have endured to make the decision to sever ties with her family. It must have been more than just a few incidents.

Lindsay smiled casually. "I just think of myself as someone without family ties."

Wendy admired Lindsay's clarity and calmness. "It's good you can see it that way."

Not wanting to bring up more painful memories and seeing that Lindsay didn't want to continue the topic, Wendy changed the subject. "Lindsay, you mentioned you could read faces. Can you read mine now?"

Lindsay nodded. "Sure."

She studied Wendy's face and then took her right hand to examine it. "Aside from your love life, everything else seems pretty smooth."

Wendy was surprised. "You can tell I'm having trouble with my love life?"

Lindsay replied, "Yes, from your face, I can see you have a troublesome romantic relationship. This person once helped you, but he also betrayed you because of another woman. You were once partners in love but later became resentful towards each other."

She added a warning, "Even though you've broken up, be careful. He might try to manipulate you."

Wendy was astonished. "You're amazing. Everything you said is spot on."

Her ex-boyfriend was her agent, who had indeed helped her a lot when she started her career.

However, after they got together, he secretly had affairs with other women, and not just one. When she found out, he dismissed it as just a fling. Disgusted, she broke up with him despite still deeply in love.
