

Chapter 54

Justin, ever the gentleman, took the fish and vegetables into the kitchen himself, not letting Olivia carry them.

Olivia tried to muster some courage and handle the fish herself, but she found it too difficult. Seeing her struggle, Justin stepped in to help.

Meanwhile, Alex, who had been feeling better after taking the medication provided by the show, joined them in the kitchen despite his lingering weakness.

Olivia immediately gave him a superficial but seemingly concerned greeting, which still made Alex feel content.

"I've never had the chance to try your lemon herb baked fish, Via. I'll make sure to eat plenty tonight."

Elric, carrying a tray into the kitchen, overheard and couldn't resist commenting. "You might want to ask the show to prepare an extra box of medicine for you."

Alex glared at him. "Why do you have to involve yourself in everything?"

Elric shrugged. "Just looking out for you."

"Well, thanks a lot!" Alex responded sarcastically.

Olivia was fuming at Elric's remarks. Did he really think so little of her cooking skills? She resolved to prove him wrong by showing she was better than Lindsay.

Determined, Olivia began filleting the fish, but her knife skills were lacking. The fillets came out uneven, with some pieces too thick and others too thin. Near the end, her knife slipped, cutting her finger.

Startled by the sight of blood, Olivia instinctively turned to her brother. "Alex, I cut my finger," she said, her voice filled with childish distress. She held out her bleeding finger to him.

Without hesitation, Alex bent down and sucked the blood from her finger, trying to soothe her.

"It'll be fine soon," he reassured her, then asked Sharon to fetch a band-aid from the show's supplies.

Sharon felt uncomfortable watching the scene. What kind of brother uses his mouth to stop his sister's bleeding?

The closeness between Alex and Olivia seemed excessive. Even Justin frowned at their overly intimate behavior.

The viewers watching the live stream were equally stunned.

"It's my first time seeing this method to stop bleeding, quite unique."

"Little Angel instinctively offered her hand to Alex's mouth. This must happen often at home."

"Doesn't this make you feel uncomfortable?"

"Of course, it does. It's my first time seeing siblings behave like this."

"Even my husband never stopped my bleeding like that."

"My boyfriend neither. Men are worse than a caring brother."

"Isn't it strange for adult siblings to be this close?"

"It feels awkward. To the untrained eye, they could be mistaken for a couple."

"I thought I was watching a dating show for a moment..."

Soon enough, Alex and Olivia's fans jumped in to defend them.

"You're just jealous of the strong bond between Alex and Olivia."

"Alex is simply that caring towards his sister."

"Exactly, with a sweet sister like Olivia, Alex would naturally be very protective."

"They're biological siblings. Some people are just so dirty-minded."

"If your mind is dirty, you'll see dirt in everything."

The fans quickly engaged in a heated debate, causing many viewers to feel increasingly uncomfortable with the situation.

Most viewers felt uncomfortable watching the sibling interaction.

Lindsay walked in carrying a bowl and witnessed the scene between Alex and Olivia. She couldn't help but smirk; these two never failed to surprise her.

At home, Olivia was treated like a delicate princess. Her brothers would pamper her at the slightest discomfort, sometimes even with kisses to comfort her. Olivia often did this on purpose to make Lindsay feel left out.

Even before she got hurt by them, Lindsay never felt jealous or bitter about it. After all, she couldn't imagine being so intimate with her brothers.