

Chapter 70

Lindsay finished making the crab cakes and shrimp cocktail.

Olivia also went into the kitchen to prepare breakfast.

Besides the oatmeal she had already made, she fried two eggs for each person. So, both groups ended up eating breakfast around the same time.

Eric, Lindsay, and Alex enjoyed another satisfying meal.

They finished all the crab cakes and shrimp cocktails and still felt they could eat more.

Meanwhile, the other group quietly ate their oatmeal and fried eggs without much enthusiasm.

Olivia smiled at Alex and said, "Brother, I made this oatmeal especially for you. Have some more."

Alex wanted to cry.

Could he say that he didn't want any more oatmeal?

He had been eating oatmeal all day yesterday, and now just the sight of it made him feel nauseous.

He wanted crab cakes and shrimp cocktail!

Lindsay used to make them at home, and they were even better than restaurant food.

The thought of it made his mouth water.

But since Olivia had made the oatmeal for him, he couldn't reject her kindness. He nodded and said, "Sure, I'll have another bowl."

He quickly finished one bowl of oatmeal and then helped himself to another, downing it just as quickly.

Fearing that Olivia would offer him more, he hurriedly wiped his mouth and said, "I'm full!"

Seeing him quickly drink two bowls, Olivia thought he liked her oatmeal. She said considerately, "Brother, if you like oatmeal, I'll make it for you again tomorrow."

Alex's smile froze for a moment. He awkwardly replied, "No need to go out of your way."

Then he added, "Tomorrow, see what Mr. Justin and Ms. Sharon want to eat, and make that instead. My stomach is much better now."

He really couldn't handle more oatmeal. Justin, noticing Alex's discomfort, couldn't help but feel some sympathy.

Justin said, "How about we have sandwiches or pancakes tomorrow?"

He missed Lindsay's sandwiches and pancakes.

Sharon remained silent, knowing her opinion didn't matter much.

Olivia, hearing Justin's suggestion, didn't think much of it. She believed her oatmeal was quite good.

As a considerate "little angel," she wanted to meet her group's needs. So, she nodded, "Alright, I'll make pancakes for you all tomorrow."

It was simpler than making sandwiches.

Alex let out a big sigh of relief. "Pancakes sound great. Just hearing it makes me hungry."

"Haha, poor Alex."

"Someone, please light a candle for him. His sister really can't see that he doesn't want any more oatmeal."

"Alex needs to improve his acting skills."

"Little angel: Here, have some oatmeal. Alex: I can't thank you enough..."

"I suddenly feel so sorry for Alex. With a sister like that, his stomach must be under so much pressure."

Alex's fans watched the live stream and felt a wave of sympathy for their idol.

Today, Lindsay and her group didn't go out to the farmers' homes for work. Instead, they stayed in the courtyard, where Lindsay repaired appliances and tutored the village children. Elric and the others continued teaching.

At noon, the families of the children who came to learn had agreed to each prepare a dish and bring it over.

So, for lunch, Lindsay's group didn't have to go out; they had a full table of food right there.

Elric took a photo of the spread and posted it in the group chat.

Elric wrote, "A full table of dishes without leaving the house. I'm afraid we won't be able to finish it all!"

Alex and the others heard their phones buzzed and opened the group chat out of habit.

The four of them were speechless.

Alex wanted to curse, "I shouldn't have opened it."

Sharon looked at the picture of the bountiful spread and then at the plate of spaghetti in front of her. She suddenly regretted her choice of joining this group.

Today, they found work helping with the wheat harvest. Instead of going into the fields to cut the wheat, she and Olivia bundled the harvested stalks and loaded them onto a cart. After less than an hour, they were both sore and noticeably slowed down.

Justin and Alex went into the fields to help with harvesting wheat and managed to last just over an hour.

big sale: 100 bonus free fou you get it