

Chapter 94

"These elderly folks sure know how to have fun."

"They've created a whole new term, 'protégé,' and now they're senior supporters."

"These seniors are really fashionable."

"My idol is amazing; now she has senior fans too. She's a hit with the older generation!"

The older fans who had been drawn to Lindsay because of her boxing skills also felt it was inappropriate to call themselves her bias due to their age. So, they all switched to being senior supporters.

Fans of all ages started flooding the comment section.

"From the way these senior supporters are talking, are you all from the divination community?"

The seniors replied, "Yes, we are from the divination community."

They then started boasting about their knowledge of mysticism in the comments.

Meanwhile...

After finishing their meal, Lindsay and the others sat for a while before returning to the courtyard.

Just as they sat down, Justin and his group returned from their meal outside.

Suddenly, someone posted a comment.

"Hey seniors, can you tell if Lindsay and the newcomers are related?"

This question caused the comments to go silent for a moment.

Everyone was stunned, then eagerly waited for the answer.

The mystics watching the live stream were unaware of the trending topics online.

Seeing the comment, they all started examining the facial features of the new arrivals.

"The young man on the far left in the blue short-sleeve shirt looks like he's related to my protégé," one elder commented.

"I checked too; they seem to be siblings."

"Are these siblings on the show together? Should I support the young man too?"

"But does the young man know divination?"

"If he doesn't know mysticism, I don't want him as my protégé."

Everyone else was speechless thinking that these seniors were quite amusing.

Alex's fans saw these comments and couldn't help but laugh.

Fans eagerly asked, "Did you determine they're cousins?"

The mystics were a bit puzzled.

"Cousins? No, they're biological siblings."

"Yes, from their facial features, they are biological siblings."

"I can say with certainty that they are biological siblings, not cousins."

Fans of Alex and Olivia were not happy with these comments.

"How can that be? It's already been exposed online that they are cousins, not siblings."

"Exactly, you must be making this up."

"You must be fakes. Can you even read faces?"

"Are you sure you're not hired by Lindsay to spread false information?"

Now it was the mystics' turn to be upset.

"I walk the righteous path and stand by the truth; there's no way I'm making this up."

"We're not fakes or hired by anyone; we are well-known mystics in the divination community."

"Exactly, it's clear as day they're biological siblings. Anyone can see that."
"

A fan of Alex jumped in to argue.

"Didn't some of you say you couldn't read Lindsay's face?"

"Yeah, now suddenly you can tell they're biological siblings?"

"Your acting is too poor."

"You must be fakes and hired to spread lies."

"Lindsay can't possibly be Alex's biological sister."

"Exactly, open your eyes and see clearly. The girl in the blue dress next to him is his real sister."

This comment was repeated continuously by Alex's and Olivia's fans

The mystics in the group saw these comments and were furious.

These young people were so rude, accusing them of being fake mystics and hired propagandists.

And calling them blind was just too much.

They started to closely examine the facial features of Alex and Olivia.

"Wait a moment, let me take a closer look."

One of the mystics zoomed in on the live stream to get a better view.

After a few moments, the mystics began to comment again.

"It's clear to me that Alex and Olivia share a resemblance, but they are not biological siblings."

"Yes, they might have some family connection, but Lindsay and Alex are definitely biological siblings."

The mystics' comments caused more chaos in the chat, with fans from all sides arguing vehemently.