

Reclaimed By My Alpha Novel

c 6-10

He Knows the Door to My Soul and Who Forgot to Novel 6 Summary Natalia wakes up in a hospital, feeling a dull ache and disoriented, but relieved to learn that both she and her baby survived a recent car accident. Damon, Andrei's half-brother, is there to check on her, revealing that his pack found her after the crash. Natalia explains she was being followed and deliberately targeted, confirming that someone wanted her dead. Damon is surprised to hear that Natalia and Andrei are no longer together, as their contract marriage ended and Andrei divorced her without knowing she was pregnant.

Damon reveals that Andrei is now engaged to Lilith, which stings Natalia deeply. Despite the bitterness, Damon promises to find out who orchestrated the attack and urges Natalia to rest and protect her baby. She asks him not to tell Andrei she is alive yet. As Natalia begins walking daily to regain strength, she notices the peacefulness of Damon's pack territory, but her wolf senses danger nearby. Suddenly, three hostile men from another pack confront her, and when one attacks with a knife, Damon and his pack arrive just in time to save her.

After the fight, Damon discovers a tattoo on one attacker that matches a symbol on the SUV that caused Natalia's crash-Andrei's pack's elite warriors' mark. This revelation shocks Natalia and Damon, raising the terrifying possibility that Andrei or someone acting in his name might be behind the attempt on her life. Natalia realizes that neither she nor her unborn child is safe anymore. Continue Regular Chapter Reading Below

Chapter 6 NATALIA Pain woke me . Not the sharp , screaming kind - but the dull , bruising ache of being shoved back into life . I inhaled sharply . The air was sterile .

Clean . Tinged faintly with antiseptic and something herbal , like crushed mint leaves . I blinked , vision swimming . White ceiling . Soft light . A pulse monitor beside me . I remembered . The car accident . Falling . The impact . The water surging up around me . My hand flew to my belly . The baby . My heart thundered . Then , something inside me - my wolf - whispered that it was okay . My baby . Alive . Tears sprang to my eyes before I could stop them . I didn't sob . Just let them fall , warm and quiet , down my temples and into my hair . I had lived . My child had lived . For now .

The door creaked open . A tall man stepped in . Dark hair . Green eyes . A jawline sharpened by years of holding back too many words . Familiar but not . Damon . Andrei's brother . Half - brother , technically . The one they never spoke of at the packhouse unless politics or tension made it unavoidable . The one who left after too many disagreements , who carved out his own path in land no one thought he could rule . " You're awake , " he said . His voice was softer than I remembered . Or maybe I was just too raw to hear its usual edge . I struggled to sit up .

Damon moved forward quickly , placing a steadying hand on my arm . " Careful . You nearly drowned . " I hesitated . " The baby ? " " Safe , " he said . " You both are . The doctor said it was a miracle . " I looked down at the blanket covering me . Hospital linens . My skin was clean , my hair damp but brushed . Someone had tended to me .

1/5 Chapter 6 +25 Bonus My voice was hoarse . " Where am I ? " " My territory . North of the ridge . Not far from where you went off the road . " I frowned . "You found me ? "

He nodded . " One of my patrols noticed the guardrail was damaged .

We sent a diver . The vehicle was still sinking when we got there . " I swallowed hard . "
Thank you . ' He nodded once , then sat in the chair beside the bed . " Do you remember what happened ? " I did . Too well . The sensation of being hunted . The fear
. The crash . " I was being followed , " I said quietly . " An SUV . Black . I didn't recognize it . It hit me . Twice . " Damon's eyes narrowed . " Do you know who sent it ? "
" No. But it wasn't an accident , " I said the words knowing they were true the moment they left my mouth . " Someone wanted me dead .

" He rubbed his jaw , expression dark . " There are very few who would dare target the Luna of Andrei's pack . " I looked away . " I'm not his Luna anymore . " He stilled . "
What do you mean ? " I sniffed , turned away . " Our contract ended , " I said softly . " You're divorced ? " I nodded . " He signed the papers . " He stood slowly , as if trying to understand something that didn't fit . " Even knowing you were pregnant ? " " He didn't know . I didn't tell him . " " Why not ? " I hesitated . The words lodged in my throat , bitter and familiar . " Because Lilith came back .

And he didn't need me anymore . " I could see realization wash over him . Lilith he'd been there when Lilith had been . Had seen how much his brother loved her . Had seen how much his brother grieved when he thought her dead . His voice dropped . " He's marrying her ? " Before I could answer , the door opened again . A Beta entered , eyes flicking to me with surprise before turning to Damon . " There's a messenger from Andrei's pack . Invitation to the engagement ceremony . " +25 Bonus Chapter Damon's jaw clenched . " Of course there is . That answers that question .

" The Beta handed him the envelope and left . Damon opened it slowly . His gaze passed over the words like ice over a fire . Then he handed it to me . Andrei and Lilith . I stared at it until the letters blurred . " I guess he's not wasting any time , " I said bitterly . Damon sat again . " He's a fool . " I shook my head . " It was a contract marriage , Damon , " I said . " Even if I maybe believed it wasn't . But now ... " " He was the one who looked happiest when he talked about you , " Damon said . " Not her . " I didn't answer . The ache in my chest felt bottomless . He leaned forward .

" Rest . Recover . Protect the baby . I'll find out who did this . You have my word . " I hesitated . " Please don't tell him I'm alive . Not yet . " His eyes met mine . Searching . Measuring . Then he nodded .  The doctor recommended I walk daily to regain strength . 4 Damon's pack was different from Andrei's . More rural . Less polished . But the wolves were watchful , kind . A few nodded to me with curiosity , others with cautious deference . Word must have spread . I kept to the outer paths , surrounded by birch trees and thick underbrush .

The forest floor was springy beneath my shoes , the scent of moss and pine rich in the air . Insects buzzed lazily in the shade , and birds trilled in the high branches . It would have been peaceful , under different circumstances . Onyx , my wolf , stirred uneasily . Something's wrong . I paused . Let the wind move over me . Then I heard it - rustling . Not wind . Not deer. Feet . I turned - too late . Three wolves stepped from the trees .

Men . Tall . Scarred . Not from this pack . Chapter 5 +25 Bonus Their scent hit me like a blow : blood , sweat , iron .

One had a knife strapped to his thigh . Another bore old burn scars curling around his throat . I backed up . My wolf surged forward , but the transformation faltered. I wasn't strong enough yet . They saw it . One of them smirked . " Thought we'd find you here . " One lunged . I ducked , sprinting toward the nearest trail . Branches whipped at my face as I ran . My lungs burned . The baby- I couldn't risk a fall . I had to make it back . I screamed . One caught my arm and slammed me to the ground . My vision went white . I kicked wildly , teeth bared . Blood bloomed in my mouth .

" Who sent you ?! " I demanded . The nearest man sneered . " Not something you need to know . " He raised a knife . It glinted in the light . Cold . Final . " You just need to die . " A howl split the air . Damon . His pack exploded through the trees like thunder , fangs bared . The clash of bodies and snarls filled the woods . Blood sprayed across bark and stone . The fight was brief . Brutal . I curled around my stomach , trembling . When it was over , Damon knelt beside me . Blood smeared his shirt . His eyes searched mine . " Are you hurt ? " I shook my head .

He stood and motioned to the fallen attackers . One of his guards rolled up a sleeve . A tattoo . Black ink . A stylized wolf . I staggered closer . My breath caught . " That mark - I saw it . On the SUV . The day I crashed . " Damon's expression darkened . Chapter 6 +25 Bonus " It's Andrei's mark . " My knees buckled . " What ? " I asked . I'd been in his pack five years and had never seen it . Damon nodded . " The warriors use it . It's the sigil from one of his elite units . " I tried to process this . " Odd , " Damon went on , " I thought that unit was all still on the front lines .

Still ... " he shook his head , angry . Had Andrei sent them ? Had he tried to kill me ? Or had someone done it in his name ? Either way , I was no longer safe . And neither was our child .

Comments Conclusion This chapter delicately unravels the fragile threads of Natalia's world, revealing the deep wounds left by betrayal and the uncertain path of survival she must now walk. Through her pain and resilience, we witness a poignant struggle between past ties and present dangers, underscored by the haunting question of trust and the shadow of those who would harm her and her unborn child.

Damon's presence offers a glimmer of protection and understanding, yet the weight of fractured loyalties and looming threats hangs heavy in the air. As Natalia confronts the harsh reality of her broken bond with Andrei and the peril that follows, the chapter captures the raw vulnerability of a woman caught between love, loss, and the fight to protect her future. The forest's quiet tension mirrors her inner turmoil, while the sudden violence reminds us that safety is fleeting.

Natalia's fragile recovery is shadowed by threats that feel all too close, forcing her to confront not only the physical dangers but the emotional wounds left by broken trust and shattered bonds. Damon's presence adds a complex layer to the unfolding drama, his protective stance hinting at a deeper connection and perhaps unexpected alliances. As Natalia wrestles with her feelings about Andrei and Lilith's impending engagement, the emotional stakes rise, making every decision fraught with uncertainty.

The looming invitation to the engagement ceremony is more than a mere social call-it carries the weight of past promises and future conflicts, setting the stage for confrontations that could alter the course of all their lives.

He Knows the Door to My Soul and Who Forgot to Novel 7 Summary In this chapter, Andrei faces intense pressure from his mother to control Lilith, who has been acting with authority within the pack despite not yet being Luna. His mother warns that the pack is upset with Lilith's behavior, which is causing unrest. Andrei feels torn and weary, struggling with the consequences of his decisions and the tension between his past with Natalia and his present with Lilith.

The arrival of the doctor who treated Natalia brings troubling news: Natalia was experiencing stress-induced instability related to her pregnancy and mate bond, which could have endangered the baby. Andrei realizes that Natalia left not out of choice but out of fear, possibly to protect their unborn child. This revelation fills him with regret and self-reproach for not marking her or offering her the stability she needed.

As Andrei orders a full search for Natalia after learning that her car was involved in a suspicious accident with tampered surveillance footage, he is overwhelmed by the possibility that she might still be alive. His Beta informs him that the only clue points toward his estranged brother Damon's territory, raising further complications. Despite doubts and the tense atmosphere, Andrei is determined to find Natalia and not repeat past mistakes. Lilith's unexpected arrival with offers of comfort and a proposal to provide an heir adds emotional complexity.

She expresses guilt and tries to mend their relationship, but Andrei remains focused on Natalia and the child he never got to know. His conflicted feelings and unresolved love for Natalia dominate his thoughts as he prepares to confront Damon's pack in search of answers. Continue Regular Chapter Reading Below Chapter 7 ANDREI " You need to rein her in before there's nothing left to salvage . " My mother's voice was sharp , clear , and unforgiving as she stood in my office , arms crossed in that imperious way she used when she knew she was right . Which , in this case , she probably was .

" She's only been back for a few days , " I said , already exhausted by the conversation .

" She needs time to reacquaint herself with the rhythms of pack life . " Mother's eyes narrowed . " Reacquaint ? She's issuing orders to warriors , reallocating patrols , questioning the Beta in front of others . Do you have any idea how furious the ranks are ? " I turned away , pacing behind my desk . It was easier than facing her . " She's not Luna yet . " " Try telling her that . The pack sees her acting like one , and they don't like it . Natalia would never have overstepped this way .

' I flinched . It wasn't that she was wrong . It was that I didn't want to hear it . Mother softened her tone . " Andrei . You can still undo this . You're not married to Lilith yet . " I shook my head , still thinking about my ex - wife , who was now likely dead . " It was Natalia who wanted the divorce . " (1 " Was it ? " she asked quietly . " Or did she just give up when she realized you'd already chosen someone else ? " The silence between us said more than either of us could . I hadn't chosen . I had let go . There was a difference . At least , that's what I told myself .

" I respected her decision , " I said . " She wanted out . I gave her freedom . " Mother's sigh cut through me . " And what if she was only trying to protect something ? What if she was trying to protect herself - and your child ? " The door opened before I could respond . One of my guards stepped in . " Alpha , the doctor is here . The one who treated Natalia . " " Send her in . " The physician entered , head bowed . She looked nervous . " I appreciate you coming , " I said . " Of course , Alpha . " ㄤ Chapter 7 +25 Bonus " What can you tell me about her condition before she left ?

" She hesitated . " I don't normally discuss patient matters without consent . " I growled , low and warning . " She's likely dead . You'll make an exception . " She nodded quickly . " Yes , Alpha . Natalia was showing signs of stress - induced instability . Hormonal changes , fluctuations in the mate bond . I advised her that without a steady bond , the pregnancy could be at risk . " A cold spike settled in my chest . " She could lose the baby ? " " Yes . If the mate bond is unstable , the pregnancy itself can destabilize the wolf's entire system .

" " She never told me , " I said under my breath . The doctor shifted awkwardly . " She asked about what would happen if the bond were severed ... if there was a rejection . I thought it was hypothetical at the time . " " But it wasn't . " It hit me like a punch to the gut . She hadn't wanted to leave . She had been afraid . Maybe afraid of me . Or of what I would choose . Maybe she had believed I'd never choose her . She had walked away for the sake of our child . M I could have marked her . I could have marked her and none of this would have happened . Why didn't she ask me to mark her ?

Why didn't I offer ? Why hadn't I done it all those years ago when we were first married ? All the could - haves , would - haves , should - haves were swirling through my mind so fast I was dizzy . The lunch I'd eaten earlier in the day threatened to make a reappearance . I dismissed the doctor and turned to my Beta , who had arrived and stood waiting in the doorway . " What have you been able to find ? " " Not much , sir , " Carlos said . I sighed . " Start a full - scale search . Every inch of the territory , every road . I want to find her .. " " Yes , Alpha . But ...

there's something you need to see .' He handed me a file of grainy photos and a short video clip . " This is from the highway surveillance . We confirmed Natalia's car . She was driving alone . But ... the footage from the moment of the crash is missing . Tampered with . All we have is this . " Chapter 7 +25 Bonus He pulled up a frame . Her car . Headlights glowing . A shape behind it . An SUV . Then the next clip : her car plunging through a guardrail and disappearing into darkness . I couldn't speak . My chest felt like it was caving in . " She's gone ? " " Not necessarily .

We've found debris . No body . " I swallowed , throat dry . My wolf pushed to the surface . Not gone . Not dead . Not her . み Just then , there was a knock . And then , as if summoned by the very worst timing , Lilith stepped inside , carrying a tray of tea and pastries . "I thought you might need something warm , " she said sweetly . I couldn't muster a thank you . Her eyes darted to the monitor where Natalia's car was still displayed . " Oh ... is that ... " I said nothing . She sat down across from me , her smile faltering . " Andrei , I - this is all my fault , isn't it ?

" I looked at her finally . " What are you talking about ? " She clasped her hands together , fingers trembling in well - practiced sorrow . " Natalia left . She filed for divorce . Then she was attacked . It all happened so fast . If I hadn't come back - if I hadn't tried to reclaim what we had- she wouldn't have left at all . " I sighed . " This wasn't your fault . " " But it was ! I feel terrible . Just tell me what I can do . Should we reschedule the engagement ceremony ? Would that make things better ? " I blinked at her . " Are you serious ? " She paled . " I just thought ...

we had everything planned , and- " " Not now , Lilith . " Her expression crumpled . But I didn't have the bandwidth to comfort her . Not when all I could see was the haunted look on Natalia's face when she handed me the divorce papers . Not when I remembered every time she tried to tell me something - and I didn't listen . All I could think about was the baby we should be having together . The baby I had always wanted . The baby I had always wanted with Natalia . I could picture its soft , sweet chocolate colored hair . Its green eyes , so like its mother . Would it have been a boy ? A girl ?

3/4 Chapter 7 Goddess , I might never know . As if sensing the direction of my thoughts , Lilith spoke . " If you need an heir , " she said softly , " I could give you one . A powerful one . " I stood up . " I'm not thinking about heirs , " I lied . " I'm thinking about her . " I was filled with so many emotions , but the biggest one of all was regret . Lilith stood too , her smile now replaced by a tight line . " Do you still love her ? " I didn't answer . Because I didn't need to . My Beta returned . " Alpha . The only clue we've found points to territory near Damon's lands .

But he's denied any sightings . ' Damon . My brother . Estranged and secretive . He wouldn't hide her . Would he ? But something deep in me said otherwise . " She's alive , " I said quietly . " Sir ? " " She's alive . I would feel it if she weren't . " My wolf paced just beneath the surface , tense and ready . "I'm going to Damon's pack , " I said . " Alone if I have to . " "But- " " No more delays . I let her go once . I won't make that mistake again . ") Support Conclusion The chapter closes on a poignant note, capturing Andrei's profound turmoil and the weight of his regrets.

His internal struggle reveals the complex layers of love, loss, and responsibility, as he grapples with the consequences of choices made and those left unspoken. The themes of connection and sacrifice resonate deeply, underscoring the fragile bonds that tie him to Natalia and their unborn child, while casting a shadow over his present with Lilith. Despite the uncertainty and pain, Andrei's resolve emerges as a beacon of hope amid the darkness. His unwavering belief that Natalia is still alive and his determination to find her reflect a powerful commitment to redemption and healing.

Readers will sense the weight of Andrei's regrets and the fierce determination that propels him forward, even as uncertainty gnaws at his resolve. Meanwhile, the delicate balance between Andrei and Lilith grows even more fragile, with unspoken tensions simmering beneath their interactions. The question of loyalty and love looms large, casting doubt on where true allegiance lies and what sacrifices might be demanded.

He Knows the Door to My Soul and Who Forgot to Novel 8 Summary Natalia reflects on her recent car accident, feeling that this injury is different from past ones due to a persistent pain and vulnerability. She is haunted by the thought that Andrei, a man she once trusted, might have ordered her death. Despite Damon saving and protecting her, Natalia knows that Andrei will not stop if he sees her and the child she carries as threats, and her presence puts Damon's pack in danger.

Her pregnancy is taking a heavy toll on her body, with worsening symptoms and a doctor's warning that carrying an Alpha's heir is dangerous for her as an Omega.

Damon's concern for both Natalia and his pack grows, especially after a violent attack linked to Andrei's wolves. Natalia tries to follow medical advice and rest, but one day a nurse named Grace arrives, whose hostile behavior and harsh words reveal her resentment toward Natalia and her presence.

Grace confronts Natalia, accusing her of endangering the pack and demanding she leave, showing bitterness over Damon's protection of Natalia and the child. Damon arrives and immediately senses the tension, warning Grace to stop interfering. Grace reveals that Andrei already knows about Natalia's pregnancy and is sending wolves to find her, viewing the unborn child as a rival threat. Natalia is shocked by this new danger and the implications for her and the baby. Damon firmly defends Natalia, refusing to let Grace insult her or threaten her safety, and orders Grace to leave.

Despite Damon's confidence, Natalia worries about the consequences if Andrei's forces continue to search for her. She insists she might have to leave to protect Damon's pack, but Damon is determined to keep her safe. Their conversation is interrupted when Damon receives news that Andrei has arrived nearby, escalating the tension and danger surrounding Natalia's situation. Continue Regular Chapter Reading Below

NATALIA I'd been injured before when my car fell from the cliff - cuts , bruises , and fractured rib - but something about this time felt different .

Pul Maybe it was the way the pain lingered beneath my skin like a warning , a slow burn of vulnerability I couldn't shake . Or maybe it was the gnawing weight in my chest , whispering that the man who might have ordered my death was the same one I once trusted to keep me safe . Andrei . I hadn't spoken his name aloud since the crash , but it never left my thoughts . It clung to everything : the bruises on my ribs , the tremor in my hands , the way I jolted awake each night expecting another attack . Damon had saved me . Damon had sheltered me . But I was no fool .

If Andrei truly believed I was a threat because of the child , because of the past he would not stop . And hiding within Damon's territory put him and his people directly in the line of fire . Still , I couldn't bring myself to leave . Not yet . The pregnancy had taken a toll on me . More than I'd expected . 4.4 The headaches were worse now , and so were the dizzy spells . My balance felt off . My appetite came and went . Some nights , I couldn't sleep through the cramps that twisted through my lower back . Damon's doctor finally gave it to me straight . " It's the bloodline , " he said .

" You're an Omega carrying an Alpha's heir . Your body isn't designed for this kind of strain . It's not impossible , but it is dangerous . " Dangerous . The word stayed with me . Echoed in my ears every time I felt a sharp pain or sat up too fast . Every time I reached for my stomach and wondered if the life inside me was struggling too . Damon had tried to hide the concern in his eyes , but I saw it . He didn't say it , but I could feel his fear . Not just for me . For his pack . They'd already had to clean up blood from the last attack . Damon had killed wolves who bore Andrei's mark .

That couldn't be undone . War between packs wasn't something to take lightly . And I was at the center of it . I tried to keep my head down after that . Took my medication . Followed the doctor's instructions . Kept my walks short , stayed inside when I felt too dizzy . Let myself rest , even when guilt gnawed at me for being a burden . But one afternoon , as I sat by the window watching a storm roll in over the distant ridge , a nurse I didn't Chapter 8 +25 Bonus recognize entered the room . She was young , maybe a year or two younger than me . Blond hair tucked into a tight bun .

Pale eyes that never quite met mine . " Time to change the bandages , " she said curtly . I frowned . " Where's Roberta ? " " Busy , " the girl muttered , already reaching for my arm . Her touch was too rough, impatient . She unwrapped the bandages carelessly , yanking the gauze like it offended her , then slammed a cold compress against my side with enough force to make me gasp . I watched her hands - how they hesitated , then pressed harder . They didn't move like a healer's . They moved like someone trying to hurt without leaving a mark . " What did you say your name was ?

" I asked , unease rising in my throat . She didn't answer right away . When she did , her tone was sharp and full of venom . " I didn't . But since you're dying to know - I'm Grace . " She looked straight at me now , and the loathing in her expression stripped away any pretense . " And I think it's time you left . " I stilled . " You're not a nurse . " " No. I'm someone who actually belongs here . " Panic curled in my chest . I knew what this was .

Wolves who saw bloodlines as crowns . Wolves who thought I was a stain . " You're one of Damon's ? " I said quietly .

" I was supposed to be his Luna , " she spat . " Until you showed up . Until he started hiding you like some precious secret . Like you mattered more than the rest of us . " My breath caught . " Don't play the victim , " she snapped . " You're putting all of us in danger . Andrei's wolves are still looking for you . When they find you , do you think they'll care who else gets caught in the fire ? " I gripped the chair beneath me . " What do you want from me ? " " I want you gone , " she growled . " You've caused enough damage . " " But ... I'm pregnant . " She scoffed .

" Then go back to your mate . " The door swung open before I could speak . Chapter 8 +25 Bonus Damon stepped inside , a folder in one hand . His eyes flicked from me to Grace , and something in him sharpened . " What's going on here ? " Grace straightened fast , schooling her face into something pure and wide - eyed . " Alpha- I looked up at Damon , and couldn't control the nervous look on my face . Damon took one look at me and his jaw tensed . " Grace . " She froze at the warning in his voice . " You've been warned before about interfering with guests under my protection .

" "She's not a guest ! She's a liability ! Don't you see what's happening ? Andrei's already sent people . He knows she's pregnant . He knows she's here . How long until he sends a real army ? " Silence stretched between us . I felt like the air had been sucked from the room . " He knows ? " I said . " You said ... you said he didn't . " Grace turned to me , triumphant now " Oh , he knows , His wolves are everywhere , and they're not looking for a corpse . They're looking for you . You think he's going to let his ex - wife give birth to a rival heir outside the pack ?

" I sank back into the pillows , numb . I hadn't even thought of that . I'd been thinking that he'd want to take the child away from me to live with him . That I'd lose my baby . That I'd lose the last tether between me and the man I had so once loved . I hadn't even considered that he might consider the child a threat . That it might be a future Alpha whose aim would be to one day take over Andrei's pack . Damon crossed the room , standing between me and Grace . " Leave , " he said . Grace stared at him like she'd been slapped . " You're choosing her ?

" " I'm choosing not to let you insult the Luna I protect . " " She's not your Luna ! " " And neither are you , " he said dly . " Get out . " She didn't move right away . Then , with stormed out . I couldn't look at him . My throat burned . a sharp breath and a glare that promised more trouble , she turned and " She's right , you know , " I whispered . " If Andrei knows ... you can't keep hiding me . " 3/4 Chapter 8 +25 Bonus " I don't care what he knows , " Damon said . " But I do . I won't let your pack suffer for me . I'll leave . " " No. " He had to see reason . Sense .

His pack was still relatively new . And as Andrei's half - brother , Damon himself could be considered a threat to Andrei's pack hierarchy . Even if he'd left several years ago to start his own . I stood , grabbed his arm , trying to get him to see the sense in my leaving . " I will , " I said . " Tonight , if I have to . I'll go north . Find somewhere remote- His phone buzzed . He checked the screen . Then his face went still . I sat up . "What is it ? " His eyes met mine . " Andrei is here .

" BIG SALE : 3500 bonus free fou you Comments Conclusion The chapter closes on a tense and fragile note, capturing Natalia's deepening vulnerability as she navigates the dangers surrounding her pregnancy and the looming threat of Andrei. Her physical pain mirrors the emotional turmoil of betrayal and fear, while Damon's unwavering protection highlights the complexities of loyalty and love amid chaos.

Despite the mounting pressure from both internal and external forces, Natalia's resolve to protect her unborn child and those she cares about remains unbroken, even as uncertainty clouds the path ahead. At its core, this chapter explores themes of trust, sacrifice, and the weight of legacy, illustrating how love can both shield and expose us to danger. The confrontation with Grace reveals the fractures within Damon's pack and the harsh realities Natalia must face as an Omega carrying an Alpha's heir.

The emotional weight of her vulnerability intertwines with the dangerous political landscape, leaving her torn between protecting her unborn child and safeguarding those who have become her new family. Damon's fierce protection contrasts with the growing fear and uncertainty, hinting at fractures within the pack's unity that could have devastating consequences. As the chapter closes with the chilling revelation of Andrei's arrival, the atmosphere thickens with dread and anticipation. How will Damon confront his half-brother's encroachment?

He Knows the Door to My Soul and Who Forgot to Novel 9 Summary Damon firmly orders Natalia to stay in her room, aware of her fragile emotional and physical state as warned by the doctor. Despite her pleading eyes, he shuts the door to protect her from any sudden shocks, especially from Andrei. Grace, tense and frustrated, tries to speak to Damon about Andrei, but he silences her, insisting Andrei lost his right to know when he abandoned Natalia while she was pregnant and alone.

Damon moves to the southern gates where his pack is already assembled, sensing the arrival of Andrei himself, who has come without envoys or scouts. Andrei arrives with Lilith, who poses as his Luna, a fact that irritates Damon. Their interaction is tense and filled with underlying hostility. Damon mocks Lilith, calling her a "dead woman," and challenges Andrei's sudden concern for Natalia. Andrei reveals he is there because Natalia is missing and insists she is still his mate despite their divorce.

Damon ridicules Andrei for abandoning Natalia, especially now that she is pregnant, and accuses him of moving on with Lilith. The conversation grows more heated as Andrei denies knowing about Natalia's pregnancy until after the divorce and demands to know if Damon has seen her. Damon coldly suggests Natalia may not have survived a dangerous cliff near the territory and criticizes Andrei for not stopping her when he had the chance.

The tension between the two men escalates, with their packs ready for conflict, but Andrei insists he does not want a fight—he only wants to know if Natalia is there. Damon denies her presence, though Andrei's doubtful gaze searches the compound for any sign of her. Continue Regular Chapter Reading Below DAMON " Natalia , stay in your room . " She looked at me like she wanted to argue , to press for answers , but I didn't give her the chance . I closed the door softly but firmly , cutting off her wide , panicked eyes .

Behind the door , I could still feel her wolf - agitated , alert , pressing against her skin like mine pressed against mine . " She's too close to the edge , " the doctor had warned me . " Emotionally and physically . Any sudden shock- " I wasn't about to let Andrei deliver one . Grace was loitering near the hall , arms crossed , jaw tight with tension she didn't bother to hide . She opened her mouth , but I cut her off . " You will not speak to him . Not a word . Not unless I order it . " Her lips curled in irritation . " He has a right to know- " No , " I snapped . " He had the right .

He gave it up when he let her walk away pregnant and alone . " She glared at me , but under my Alpha tone , she dropped her gaze . " Yes , Alpha , " she muttered . I brushed past her and headed toward the southern gates . My pack had already assembled , standing at the ready . I hadn't even needed to summon them . They could sense it - the shift in air , the weight of power approaching . Andrei . He hadn't sent envoys or scouts this time . He'd come himself . Of course he had . The SUV was sleek and black , the engine still humming faintly as he stepped out .

He looked exactly as he had the last time I saw him - rigid , immaculately dressed , coolly detached . Every step he took was measured , Alpha through and through . And beside him , Lilith . Dressed in soft winter - white , her hair pulled back in a graceful twist , her smile shallow and poised . She clung to Andrei's side like she was already Luna . I resisted the urge to bare my teeth . " Alpha Andrei , " I said coolly . " You've brought company . " He didn't smile . " You've been hard to reach . " I gestured at the pack behind me . " We've been busy . My pack doesn't run itself .

Apologies for missing your engagement celebration . " Chapter B +25 Bonus Lilith's lips twitched , but she said nothing . " Lilith , " I said . " You look well . For a dead woman . " She looked scandalized but Andrei stepped forward before I could insult the woman further , his expression hardening . " I'm here for Natalia . " Straight to it , then . I tilted my head . " Now ? After all this time ? Isn't it a little late for husbandly concern ? " " She's missing . " " You divorced her . " " She's still my mate . " I laughed . " Now she's your mate ?

After you let her walk away , after you chose Lilith ? " I gestured casually to the woman beside him . " Seems you've moved on , brother . " Lilith didn't like that . I saw the flash in her eyes . Good . Andrei's jaw flexed . " She's pregnant . " " Already ? " I said , misunderstanding which woman he was talking about on purpose . " I offer you congratulations , Lilith . " " Not Lilith , " Andrei spit . " Natalia . Natalia is pregnant . " My brow lifted . " Your mate was pregnant and you divorced her ? " I was vexing him on purpose , which wasn't kind , but I couldn't help myself .

" She didn't tell me , " Andrei snapped . " Not until after . I didn't know when I signed the I sucked in a breath . " Sounds like a personal problem . " His wolf stirred visibly beneath his skin . " Have you seen her ? " " No. " " She was last seen near your territory . " papers . " I shrugged . " She probably didn't survive . That cliff was steep . The sea was cold . Happens . " The muscles in his jaw clenched . " Don't speak of her like she's already dead . " " You didn't stop her when you had the chance . Why mourn now ? " The air between us was crackling with tension .

His warriors behind him shifted , sensing it . Mine did the same . " We're not here to fight , " Andrei said lowly . " I just want to know if she's here . " " I told you she's not . " He didn't believe me . That much was clear . His eyes were scanning every corner of the compound lik will her to appear from the shadows . P Comments Support G Share Conclusion The chapter closes on a tense standoff charged with unresolved pain and fractured loyalties.

Damon's fierce protectiveness over Natalia reveals the depth of his care, even as he struggles with anger and bitterness toward Andrei's absence and choices. The emotional weight of Natalia's disappearance and pregnancy hangs heavily between the two Alphas, underscoring themes of loss, regret, and the complexities of love intertwined with power. Amidst the charged atmosphere, the chapter captures the raw vulnerability beneath the surface of these strong, commanding figures.

As Andrei's unexpected arrival stirs the already fragile atmosphere, emotions will run high, and loyalties will be tested. The uneasy truce between the packs threatens to unravel as secrets and unresolved grievances come to the surface, forcing Damon to confront not only Andrei but also his own protective instincts. Meanwhile, Natalia's absence looms like a shadow over everyone, raising questions about her fate and the truth behind her disappearance.

The revelation of her pregnancy adds another layer of urgency and vulnerability to the situation, hinting at challenges that could redefine relationships and power dynamics. Readers can expect a charged encounter filled with raw emotions, subtle power plays, and the looming possibility of confrontation that could change everything for the characters involved.

He Knows the Door to My Soul and Who Forgot to Novel 1`0 Summary In Chapter 10, the protagonist confronts Damon about the fate of his ex-wife, Natalia, whom Damon claims is likely dead. Despite Damon's insistence, Andrei feels strongly that Natalia is alive and nearby. He refuses to give up the search, driven by his deep emotional connection and hope. Lilith tries to mediate, suggesting they be allowed to search the area to ease Andrei's worries, but Damon denies permission, asserting control over his territory. As days pass, Andrei's men search covertly but find nothing.

Still, Andrei's intuition remains firm-Natalia is alive. One day, a young woman at Damon's packhouse suggests he take a walk through the servant's quarters. Following her advice, Andrei senses a faint but undeniable trace of Natalia's presence, along with something new: the scent of a child, his child. Determined, Andrei demands Damon unlock a locked door in the servant's quarters, convinced Natalia is behind it. Damon refuses, citing rules and authority, but Andrei insists, leading to a tense standoff.

Lilith tries to calm the situation, urging cooperation, but Andrei's resolve breaks the lock, and he bursts into the room, calling out Natalia's name, ready to confront whatever awaits inside. Continue Regular Chapter Reading Below Chapter 10 Chapter 10 " I'm sorry you came all this way , " I said . " For nothing . " I crossed my arms over my chest . " Your ex - wife is likely dead , Andrei . And I'm sorry for it . I always liked her . " He winced , but he didn't make a move to leave . I sighed . Fine , then , if he wanted to play it this way . He wouldn't find her . Not unless I let him .

ANDREI Damon was lying . I'd known him too long not to see it in the way he shifted his stance , the way his shoulders twitched when he spoke about Natalia like she was already gone . She wasn't . I didn't need proof . I didn't need witnesses or a signature on a damn logbook . I could feel it in my bones . In my blood . In the ache that hadn't dulled since she left . She was alive . And she was close . But he wasn't going to believe that .

" There's been no body , " I said . " And without a body , I will go on looking for her . Forever , if I have to .

" Lilith's voice filtered in , soft and diplomatic . " Damon , surely you understand how worried Andrei is . Natalia means a lot to him . " I shot her a warning glance , but she kept talking . " We've searched every neighboring region . All leads brought us here . If she truly isn't here , why not let us check the grounds and put our minds at ease ? "

Damon didn't even blink . " Because this is my territory . And you're not entitled to search anything . I sighed . " It's been a long day , Damon . A long drive . Do you mind putting us up for a night or two ?

" His arms crossed over his chest , but he reluctantly agreed to host us . And if Natalia was here , so help me , I was going to find her . Chapter 10  +25 Bonus One or two days turned into a week . I had my men search clandestinely . And they found nothing . But I knew she wasn't dead . I knew it . I had taken to wandering Damon's packhouse , trying to walk off the jittery , not - right feeling when a young woman looked at me in the packhouse kitchen and suggested a walk through the servant's quarters . " If you want to really stretch your legs , " she said . " It has a lot of steps .

" Anxious and restless , I decided to take her advice . Up and down the steps of the servant's quarters . And that's when I caught it . A flicker . A scent . Something faint on the wind - so faint that I almost doubted it . But there it was . The trace of her . And something more . The scent of her blood . And something unfamiliar ... new . Richer . Sharper . A child . My child . I moved fast , pounding on the door , but it was locked . I stormed back into the Alpha wing and found Damon , demanded he unlock the door .

" Alpha Andrei , " Damon barked , following me as I marched back to the servant's wing . " You're crossing a line . " I stopped in front of the heavy door . Reinforced . Locked . Private . Too private . " Open it , " I said . " No , " Damon replied instantly , stepping between me and the door . " You are not permitted to open rooms in my house without cause . " " I have cause . " Chapter 10 +25 Bonus " You have suspicion . That's not the same . " Lilith stepped in between us , hands raised like she could smooth it all away . " Please , both of you . This is getting out of hand .

" " I can smell her , " I snapped . " She's behind that door . " Damon's eyes flared gold . " You're mistaken . " " Open . The . Door . " " I said no . " Lilith moved quickly to Damon's side . " If she's not in there , just open it . It'll be over in minutes . Damon hesitated . Just long enough . I didn't wait . I stepped forward , grabbed the door handle , and shifted enough strength into my arm to crack the lock . It gave with a metallic pop . The door swung open . " Natalia ! " I shouted , stepping inside .

BIG SALE : 3500 bonus free fou you Conclusion The weight of uncertainty and longing hung heavily in the air as Andrei's relentless hope clashed with Damon's guarded resistance. Despite the tension and unspoken truths, the chapter reveals the depths of Andrei's unwavering belief in Natalia's survival and the lengths he is willing to go to uncover the truth. The emotional turmoil is palpable, underscoring themes of love, loss, and the fierce determination to protect what remains hidden in the shadows.

Tensions reach a boiling point as Andrei confronts Damon, challenging the boundaries of trust and authority within the packhouse. The locked door symbolizes more than just a physical barrier-it holds secrets that could unravel the fragile alliances and hidden truths everyone has been tiptoeing around. Emotions run high, and every word exchanged carries the weight of desperation, hope, and unspoken fears. Readers will find themselves holding their breath, wondering what lies beyond that door and how its revelation will shift the dynamics between these complex characters.