Chapter 301 – Every girl crushes on a man like Don

Chapter 301: Chapter 301 – Every girl crushes on a man like Don

All attention was drawn to Valerie, and since no one knew who she was except a selected few, they seemed rather interested in hearing her side of the story.

Denzel wanted to drain the life out of Clay but exercised restraint. What he did was despicable, and Denzel did not intend to allow him to go free.

However, Valerie was rather relaxed and composed. Only a few people noticed their CEO's darkened gaze.

Cordelia, on the other hand, was confused, but her face was also pale as her eyes met that of Aurora, who was rather happy.

She did not have to set her plans in motion, and Valerie's dirty linens were already being washed in public.

This was interesting, and she could not wait to see how everything was going to unfold. Valerie walked past Clay when he caught hold of her arm.

"I'm talking to you, whore!"

A slap sent him to the floor. Valerie was so pained that she could not control her anger this time. "If you ever touch me with your filthy hand again, I will kill you."

Her stern voice resonated through the hall, and though most of them had no idea who she was, they could not help being afraid.

Clay's cheeks burned from the pain, but also, the sly idea of him taking advantage of the situation swept through him as he tried to gain the attention of the person in charge.

"Miss Alessia. Have you seen? This woman is outrageous. She even dared to slap me after she tried to seduce me earlier."

Cordelia was suddenly feeling hot, swallowing tightly. She knew that Clay's accusation could not be right, but Alessia was very furious and replied.

"Since you have involved me in the matter, then you should understand that the woman you are accusing owns this company," she revealed, and the hall broke into murmurs.

"How is that possible? Isn't Don the owner of the company?" one of the officers murmured.

"Maybe the managers know something we don't know," one of the waiters replied fearfully as Aurora spoke in a hushed tone.

"I think Alessia is just trying to make her feel special because they are good friends. Who knows, she must have been the brain behind everything."

The ladies stared at her, but neither of them spoke anymore. It was obvious that they did not believe her. Alessia's words sure carried more weight than that of Aurora.

The looks on the faces of most of the staff were just incredible. The girl who was being fucked, Patricia, made her way to the front and stood beside him, helping him from the floor.

Her reputation was at stake, so she was not willing to believe that Valerie was a co-owner of the company.

Even Alessia could not lay claim to her brother's assets and money in Las Vegas because that was purely his sweat.

The pack leadership was through inheritance, so that was the only place she could claim rightful ownership to any position.

Valerie, on the other hand, was Denzel's mate, so half of whatever belonged to Denzel automatically belonged to her.

"Miss Alessia, everybody knows that the clubs, casino, wine, and gun companies are all owned by Don Denzel. What Clay is saying is the truth. I saw this woman enter the men's restroom."

Everyone began looking at Valerie differently with this accusation, but her head was held high.

"It's true that I entered the male restroom. But I was having a routine check on behalf of my husband," she said curtly, confusion clouded their minds as Patricia asked in a mocking tone.

"Miss, who is your husband?"

Valerie smiled but did not want to immediately reveal it as that would halt her plans. As soon as Denzel reveals their relationship, everyone would begin to give Valerie fake respect.

"I will tell you later, but why don't you tell everyone what the two of you were doing in the men's restroom together, naked?"

Patricia paled, not expecting Valerie to be so bold after all the lies cooked up against her. Swiftly, she denied it.

"That is not true. You are just getting back at us."

There was no point in wasting time on a bunch of idiots when Valerie had so much on her hands.

With the snap of her fingers, sex moans and screams filled the hall. The walls were suddenly projected with videos of the two people fucking each other.

"Faster before somebody catches us."

"We should have used the stall like always. If anyone walks in here, we are doomed."

"It's too stuffy in there, and if not for your wasting time to break up with your girlfriend, we would not have to be hiding doing it here."

"Forget Cordelia. She has eyes for her boss, and so does the bitch, Aurora."

Valerie lifted her hand, and the video was paused. Before she could speak, another hot slap met Clay's cheek. "You bastard. How dare you do this to me?" Cordelia's voice resonated through the halls.

She felt ashamed and betrayed, Aurora had a smirk on her face. Now, Cordelia would have no reason to not help her, and it felt as if things were working in her favor, except that Valerie had been vindicated but not for long.

Cordelia ran to the door, afraid of looking her boss in the eyes, but it was locked. Returning, she could only plead with Valerie.

"Ma'am, please, I need fresh air, but every girl crushes on a man like Don. I'm no different, but I never tried to hit on him or anything."

Valerie never saw any signs too, so she could not blame Cordelia. Of course, who wouldn't have a crush on Denzel, it was just that he belonged to Valerie.

The staff were shocked to see the CEO's secretary apologizing to Valerie, and Aurora's gaze darkened. It seemed that people were still not tainting Valerie like she wanted.

"I haven't said anything. Just go back to your seat. Don is the one hosting the meeting. I'm just trying to remove some mice from the company," Valerie replied in a nonchalant tone.

Cordelia went back to her seat with a heavy heart, afraid of what might happen next.

Valerie glared at Clay and asked seriously. "You said that I tried to seduce you. Are you still holding on to that accusation?"

Clay shivered this time around, contemplating the response to give, especially when he accidentally met Don Denzel's dangerously cold glare.

Chapter 302 – Rewards and Punishment

Chapter 302: Chapter 302 – Rewards and Punishment

As Clay pondered how far he could push the lie, Valerie snapped her fingers, and the video resumed playing.

"Who are you, and who granted you access to the building?" Patricia's voice was heard, though her face was not visible as the camera was pointed at the floor.

"Who I am is irrelevant, but the two of you are fired," Valerie's voice rang out, followed by Clay's.

"You can't terminate our employment. You lack evidence and are not part of the management. We will deny everything you claim, and we are a team."

"It's over, I confess, I'm sorry," Clay's voice interrupted the video, but Valerie showed no signs of halting and responded promptly.

"You had your chance." The video continued playing, intensifying Clay and Patricia's guilt.

"If you want to play hardball, then bring it on. I'll be at the CEO's office," Valerie's voice echoed, followed by Clay's.

"You're nothing. Just another woman trying to catch the CEO's eye. Don Denzel doesn't have time for women like you. They never succeed."

The video concluded as Don Denzel approached Valerie and whispered to her.

"I think you're being too lenient. I'll take it from here." His tone left no room for negotiation, and though Valerie had not finished, she yielded to him.

The atmosphere in the room grew colder, instilling fear in them solely through Don Denzel's menacing expression.

His voice was as icy as the winter breeze, as were his eyes. "I called this meeting to introduce you all to my wife, Valerie."

It was intriguing to witness the multitude of people blanch at Don Denzel's words.

Aurora felt a surge of anger, realizing that after this, no one would dare to support her in opposing Valerie, and some might even betray her for what she had initiated.

"She decided to inspect the company on her first day and this is the disrespect she encountered." Denzel gestured towards the projections around the auditorium.

Clay wished he could vanish into thin air. It felt as though the very air he breathed had been snatched away.

Meanwhile, Don Denzel had not even begun. "Don, please, forgive me, I didn't know."

As the manager from another branch who had come to the head office to handle some matters, his appearance now seemed pitiful as he sank to the floor, but he was far from garnering anyone's sympathy at this moment.

Don Denzel felt a sharp pang in his chest due to the insult and disrespect Clay and Patricia had shown his wife, with Clay's offense being more severe.

"May I pose a question?" Denzel inquired, and Clay fearfully nodded before lowering his head.

"What ordinary person can freely access every part of this building, huh? She even informed you she would be in my office, and how did you respond?"

From all angles, the path to redemption was blocked for Clay due to his actions and words.

Perhaps his lust had blinded him entirely, and now that everything was laid bare, only shame and regret enveloped his face.

"Don, please, I was wrong," Clay apologized, but Denzel had no intention of forgiving him. If they were in the pack, he would have already cremated Clay's body.

However, the human world operated differently, so Denzel would handle it in a human manner.

"Your punishment has already been determined by her. Are you prepared to hear it?" freewebnovel.com

Clay was too ashamed to meet Valerie's gaze, but she spoke nonetheless.

"I simply don't want him anywhere near any of our companies or branches. As I mentioned earlier, he's fired, and so is she," Valerie declared, referring to Patricia.

"No, I did nothing wrong. Why should I be fired?" Patricia couldn't accept it. She knew that Don Denzel paid handsomely, and she doubted any other company would compensate her as well.

"Engaging in sexual activities during working hours is a violation. HR, what is your stance on this?" Valerie inquired, prompting the HR manager to step forward.

Having worked with individuals like Alessia, it was evident that Valerie was even more severe.

"Ma'am, they should even compensate the company for the time wasted. We could also pursue charges of character defamation because not only did he do that to you, but he also spread false rumors among his colleagues."

"Never mind. Terminating their employment without compensation suffices for me," Valerie said but Denzel did not agree with her this time.

"No. Provide the evidence to the company's attorneys. They must face the consequences for what they did to my wife," Denzel stated.

Once again, the frost in his tone left no room for objection from Valerie. Clay and Patricia appeared as though their spirits had left their bodies, and Cordelia was pleased that her despicable boyfriend received his due.

They were escorted out of the hall before the doors were shut once more. Some employees who had seen Valerie earlier wore distressed expressions as Denzel proceeded to the next course of action.

"You must all understand that every employee in any of our branches is equally protected by the company. Those who engage in backbiting and malicious activities against their colleagues have also been exposed. All evidence will be forwarded to the HR office for appropriate action."

One of the cashiers emerged from the crowd and knelt before Valerie.

"Ma'am, please, I witnessed what happened. I promise not to engage in such behavior again. Can you forgive me and give me another chance?"

Aware of Valerie's softer side towards women, Denzel responded on her behalf. "Security, remove her from here. HR will decide; that's what they're paid for."

The remaining culprits were sweating profusely, knowing that this cleanup would have severe repercussions.

"My wife, who is also a co-owner of this company, not only witnessed misconduct but also many commendable actions. Some of you have made significant contributions and worked tirelessly for the company's growth and stability. For that, you deserve great rewards."

Those without ill intentions smiled at this point as Valerie singled out one individual.

"I observed many hardworking employees, but one woman stood out. I don't know your name, so I had your picture sent to HR."

The HR Manager promptly identified her. "Ma'am, that's Mary Thompson."

"Mary, I have recommended you for a double promotion. Keep up the excellent work, and this company will reward you handsomely."

Mary was so excited that she could not keep it in. "Madam Valerie, since you've proven to be an exceptional boss, I can't stand by and watch your enemies plot against you," Mary said emotionally, catching Denzel's attention.

"What are you referring to?" Denzel inquired, his gaze darkening once again in the process.

Chapter 303 - I meant no harm

Chapter 303: Chapter 303 - I meant no harm

Aurora couldn't allow Mary to spill her secrets and instantly spoke up, a cute smile on her face that dazzled those she had been in cahoots with.

It was clear to them, including Cordelia, that Aurora did not like Valerie.

"Madam Valerie," Aurora said with a smile but was cursing Valerie internally.

"I think it's a bit unfair the way you are rewarding and punishing others," she pointed out, happy that some people agreed with her.

Valerie listened to her calmly as she continued to speak her mind.

"All the companies work in shifts, and you judged everyone based on the day shift workers. I think the night shift workers like me should also be given a chance to prove our worth to your company, don't you agree?"

Though internally happy that Valerie's operation was during the daytime, hiding her bad intentions from being brought to light, she also took advantage of the whole thing, portraying Valerie as incompetent.

Not just that, she was also glad to have diverted attention from what Mary was about to say, turning it to herself and her request.

If her plans were exposed, not only failure but doom would accompany her.

Though she spoke politely, pitching it for the good of the company rather than for her selfish gains, Denzel noticed the sarcasm in everything she said.

No matter who she was to him, he could not allow her to trash his woman's words, especially when some employees already fell for it and kept nodding their heads in agreement with Aurora's words.

"Are you calling your boss incapable of making a fair judgment of who deserves promotion and who deserves to be punished?" Denzel glared at Aurora, and she was taken aback.

The color had drained from her face as the people she had informed about her relationship with Denzel were equally shocked.

They thought Aurora could get away with anything and never expected Don Denzel to call her out directly like this if their relationship was indeed true.

Words weighed heavily in Aurora's mouth as she struggled to bring them out defensively. "No, Don, I was just drawing her attention. I meant no harm."

Don Denzel's glare carried a lot of unspoken words, but Valerie tapped him gently and said, "Don't worry. I have an answer to her question."

Denzel swallowed his anger as he began to see Aurora differently. Valerie looked at where Aurora was and spoke seriously, addressing her directly.

"Aurora, I am too experienced to be biased, and of course, I have plans for the night workers. Due to my inability to do the same thing I did with the day group, the IT team is checking the details of everything that transpired for the past three months as we speak."

Aurora shivered at Valerie's words. The CCTV footage in the companies was not of much value because of how peaceful things have been, even in the clubs.

It had been with them to the extent where its existence no longer struck a chord in them. It was during times like this that things like CCTV cameras regained their respect. freewebnovel.com

Aurora feared that some of her dirty laundry might just be washed among so many if the footage was indeed meticulously checked.

"Past three months? Why so?" Fear laced her voice as she asked, and Valerie smiled and responded to her.

"Well, that is enough duration to make out any troublemakers and a great opportunity to spot outstanding workers too. This way, the night workers would equally receive their rewards and punishment."

Don Denzel was surprised at this moment as he was left out of that bit. "When did you make that arrangement?" He asked Valerie in a hushed tone, thinking she was just making it up to save the situation.

"When I went to Alessia's office. We had to get extra hands to check the footage, but there will be none for the restrooms. That would be the only place to miss out," Valerie revealed, earning her more respect and adoration in the sight of Denzel.

Working with smart people made his work easier than expected. Aurora stared at Valerie with disdain. Everything was perfect until Valerie arrived.

"Great. Now I don't have to worry about anything," Denzel said to her with a smile that enhanced his attractiveness, but the ladies could only admire him from afar.

It was clear that their big boss was already taken and also in love with his wife. No one saw him smile until she appeared beside him.

Denzel's attention shifted back to Mary as he had not forgotten what she was trying to say earlier.

"Mary, you were telling us something important. Go ahead."

Mary was nervous as she felt comfortable dealing with Valerie but was scared of Don Denzel. "I'm sorry, Don, it's not that important. Please proceed to important matters."

She was afraid that he might not find her report deserving of his time, but Denzel could not let it slide, especially when he knew it involved Valerie.

Don Denzel was trying to find means of getting the information out of her when Valerie beat him to it.

"Mary, the things you said were equally important. Please let us hear it," Valerie added her voice, and Mary grew nervous. All her boldness from before had suddenly disappeared.

"Can we talk in private?" Mary asked, not able to refuse Valerie's request and not bold enough to say it in front of everybody else.

Valerie did not mind, but since everything began this way, including Mary's clues being dropped in the open, she could not take the matter behind closed doors.

"I don't mind, but others might think otherwise. I hope you understand," Valerie said softly, and Mary was moved by her strong personality and blend of calmness.

"Ma'am, I was in the female restroom when I heard Aurora speaking to a group of waiters," Mary started. Aurora hastened to the door before remembering it was locked.

She turned around, and her gaze met with the cold ones of Don Denzel. "I... I want to use the restroom," she stammered, but Denzel glared coldly at her and retorted,

"You can pee on yourself for all I care, but you aren't going anywhere."

The tension in the atmosphere shot up once again, and in order for Valerie not to complicate Mary, she demanded the people involved.

"Are they here? Can you point them out?" She asked with a tinge of seriousness. Before Mary could utter a word, one of the waiters walked to the front.

"Yes, ma'am, I'm one of them. Aurora said that I should intentionally pour a drink on your clothes when you step into the club. If you go to clean it in the restroom, she would have a surprise for you there."

It was better to confess than to have it dug out. The waitress was not ready to lose her job.

Chapter 304 - For Lisa's Sake

Chapter 304: Chapter 304 - For Lisa's Sake

"Aurora, what do you have to say about what they are accusing you of?" Denzel took over this time.

The heavy emotions in his voice were evident signs that he was deeply hurt by Aurora's actions, since all he ever did was give her the best.

"And what surprise did you have prepared for my wife?" He asked seriously, but how could Aurora confess that she wanted to cause Valerie to have an accidental fall that could damage her brain or even kill her?

Aurora knew she was finished, but the heart-breaking part was the way Don Denzel's gaze was filled with disappointment and everyone else staring at her with disdain.

Another waiter added her voice upon realizing that Aurora was not the queen she always portrayed herself to be.

"Don, she said you would do nothing because her kid sister was the woman you loved. She always said that if her kid sister had not died, she would have been your sister-in-law."

Both Alessia and Valerie could feel Denzel's pain. For Valerie, through the bond and for Alessia, by putting herself in her brother's shoes.

Losing Lisa turned Denzel into an inhuman being, but with Valerie, he could even laugh again.

Aurora was tongue-tied, knowing that nothing she would say at this point would vindicate her.

Her plans against Valerie were all deadly, and any word that would come out would only send her deeper into Don Denzel's bottomless pit of wrath.

Alessia took her stand beside her brother to handle the matter, knowing how weak Denzel could be with matters concerning Aurora, all because of Lisa.

"Aurora, Denzel loved Lisa very much, and you have no idea the number of people who suffered his wrath because of her murder."

This information was new to those who were not directly family, so all ears were attentive to Alessia's words. freeweβovel.com

They were just realizing that Don Denzel had even loved a woman who had died. Suddenly, they felt for the first time, pity for the man who was always like a rock.

"He found happiness again, and you want to destroy it? How cruel can you be? You became somebody because of him, and you dare to touch the only person that brings joy to his heart?"

Alessia was saddened, and she never wished to see her brother in that state of darkness like before.

She could even count the number of times she saw him smoke or drink ever since taking down Conrad and his men.

"Alessia, you don't understand," Aurora found her voice, as she was unable to face Denzel due to her shame.

"Then make us understand," Alessia made it easy for her, but Aurora's mouth only opened and closed with no words coming out.

"Alessia, every girl here has a crush on Don, and she is one of us. She only feels that if her sister died, then she should be the rightful replacement and not madam," Cordelia revealed, concluding the matter.

"You!" Aurora glared at Cordelia, anger boiling inside of her, as she asked daringly. "Don't you want him too?"

Cordelia already faced her shame and was no longer afraid.

"I said us. I didn't exempt myself, but at least I know my place. Even working with him as his secretary for years, I never tried anything stupid. I never even wore a short skirt, but you tried all sorts of things, including convincing Godic to authorize you to clean his house when he was away."

It was time to put an end to all the cat and mouse games, and Cordelia was determined to make sure of that.

"I'm not saying this because I hate you. I just want you to change," Cordelia rested her case, but Aurora was very furious, feeling ashamed.

She remembered that Valerie had arrived unexpectedly with Don Denzel, preventing her from gaining the opportunity to do anything to gain his attention.

"No wonder Clay cheated on you," Aurora said with disgust, but Cordelia was rather happy due to the outcome of everything and replied.

"He is just an asshole, and in case you forget, he is getting his deserved punishment."

Aurora felt alone like the time Denzel picked her up and gave her a chance, but it was still very difficult for her to accept how everything suddenly turned out against her.

"Since everybody is against me, I will speak for myself," she began. Her end was not going to be good, so she might just as well spell out everything.

"It's true that I don't like Don's wife, but no one even knows who she is. Ever since her appearance, Don spends less and less time with his businesses."

None of the three werewolves were liking where this whole thing was going, as it seemed to them that Aurora was trying to dig into their roots.

"Why should he be here after paying people to do the job?" Alessia cut in calmly. When it involved Aurora, Alessia could not just be ruthless.

Her only living family was wiped out because of her brother, so she could not help feeling that they owed Aurora.

"He has worked so hard and deserves a vacation. After that, he can focus on building other companies and not waste his time doing what he could comfortably pay others to do."

Knowing that Denzel would be leaving again without a trace, Alessia put it that way for no one to suspect his movements.

"But why her?" Aurora asked, Alessia replied. "That is the mystery of love that no one can understand."

Aurora could not believe it. Not after all she heard about Valerie and addressed her directly.

"Ma'am, you are here pretending to be kind, but I know about all the people you killed since you arrived. Three Dons to be precise."

Alessia was surprised as no one had told her.

Since that day, Valerie had been with Denzel a lot, and they hardly had time to talk. "Oh, that," Valerie was about to say when Denzel took the words from her mouth.

"That is none of your business. Those people sent thugs to attack my home and kill me. My wife avenged me, and how is that your concern?" Denzel asked in annoyance.

He tried to help Aurora, but since there was too much greed in her heart, he was tired of it.

"Aurora, my generosity ends here. I don't want to see you near any of my companies. You can keep what is in your bank account, but not any of the properties still in my name."

Both Alessia and Valerie were shocked, not expecting Denzel's ruthlessness to extend to Aurora.

Both women were lost in salvaging the matter, but Aurora broke into tears, hitting on Denzel's weakness.

"Don, for Lisa's sake, please have mercy on me."

Chapter 305 - Look into your heart

Chapter 305: Chapter 305 - Look into your heart

Denzel stiffened at the mention of Lisa, and his eyes reddened instantly. Valerie could feel the emotional trauma he was going through and discharged the staff.

"Everyone, time is far spent. You should all go about your work, and those who are on the day shift can go home. Everything else will be communicated to you through HR."

Aurora feared what was going to happen next if she was left alone with Denzel and Valerie.

Having been enslaved by a mafia don for a greater part of her life, she could not help but fear that Denzel might eliminate her, or even Valerie.

"You want to kill me too?" Aurora asked audibly, gaining everyone's attention. Denzel was disheartened.

Before he could do something he might regret, Valerie asked Aurora, "What are you talking about?"

Aurora was afraid of being left alone with them and continued to speak audibly. "If you don't want to kill me, then why are you sending them away?" She asked. Valerie was now upset, and her voice was slightly raised.

"Why are you so heartless? Can't you see that he's in pain?"

Aurora noticed the slightly paled look on Don Denzel's face, but her fears of what might happen next could not allow her to believe they would just let her live.

"You are putting on this façade to look kind in front of everyone, then you can eliminate me secretly. That is what all these dons do."

Aurora's accusation crippled Denzel. If it were somebody else, he might have indeed done that, but for the sake of his late destined mate, he could not even think about harming Aurora.

Though he could not defend himself at this time, it was true that the good we do always finds ways to come back to us.

"Don Denzel is different," a bold voice spoke up. Everyone turned in the direction of the bold female voice as Aurora murmured.

"Oh, Greta. You are new, so how could you know anything about the mafia? I was enslaved by one of such dons for years."

"And so was I," Greta said with a bitter expression, adding, "but I was rescued. Madam Valerie and Alessia saved my life that night."

Everyone was shocked. Greta was brought in through the back door, so most people thought she must have done Alessia a favor, but it turns out it was the other way around.

"They were ready to do anything for my freedom, even when they didn't know me. If Don Denzel had not arrived that night, they would have been abused because of me, but Madam Valerie refused to give up on me."

She shook her head, saddened by the drama Aurora was putting up after receiving great help from Denzel and his family.

"These women only hurt bad people. They would never hurt a good person, so why have you become like the same people you claim to have hurt you so much?" Greta asked Aurora. Her shame did not let her reason right.

"They bribed you, didn't they?" She asked in a sarcasm-filled tone. Greta shook her head once more and approached her.

"Aurora, look into your heart. Even if your sister were alive, would your life have been different? Everything said here meant Don Denzel liked her, but he didn't marry her. Do you really think that if she was alive and had not met Don Denzel, you would have gotten this freedom, peace, and happiness you enjoy now?"

The question pierced Aurora's heart, leaving a raw wound that could not heal at any moment.

The fact remained that Denzel did not marry Lisa. They never even dated. If they had not met for some reason, Aurora could have continued in her suffering because Denzel would not have cared for her.

"What is the point?" Aurora asked, regret evident in her tone this time. Greta swallowed tightly and spoke calmly.

"Good question and my answer is, you are being ungrateful and mean. Ma'am is just trying to make this company better for everybody, but you are so blinded by jealousy, you are allowing it to devour you. I think Don is being too lenient with you. He should just shoot you here, and no one would miss you."

Her last words left everyone spellbound. Greta was grateful for the kindness shown to her and would die before she allowed anyone to trash the hands that fed and protected her.

She left as soon as she finished speaking, and everyone soon followed. Only Aurora remained with Denzel, Alessia, and Valerie.

"You shall be moved to one of the branches and must not appear at the head office until you are called. All your benefits remain for the sake of your late sister, Lisa. We shall give you a house close to the branch we agree on and a car," Valerie said.

Denzel did not want to continue with the aid he was giving Aurora, but since Valerie wanted to, he could not stop her.

The fact that she felt his pain meant she would never take a decision that would hurt him.

"Whatever you do with your life after that is up to you, but if we hear any bad report about you with proof, please don't blame us for taking action and letting you go permanently. This is our last kindness to you," Valerie spelled out, but Aurora felt she was faking it.

However, there was no one around to impress, which did not make sense to her at all. "Why are you being nice to me? I planned to cause you an accident to leave you with a head injury or death. Are you still going to let me get away with it?"

She thought she would face punishment and was ready for it, but this sudden show of kindness took her unawares.

Valerie let out a frustrated sigh and replied to her. "Aurora, Denzel is a very good man, and I would die for him any day. Judge between yourself and me. Can you do the same for him?"

Valerie wrapped her arms around Denzel's waist, allowing Aurora to wallow in her shame as they walked out of the hall.

Even as Valerie removed all the verdicts Denzel passed against her, Aurora felt like the biggest loser.

Denzel's mood was down even when they reached the office, so Alessia convinced him and Valerie to come with her to the club a few hours later, as she had heard from Godic how much of a good dancer her brother was.

Perhaps that might brighten his mood. Denzel agreed after Valerie kept ringing it in his ears, and over there, a pleasant surprise awaited them.

Chapter 306 - Trust me Denzel, I know nothing about this Chapter 306: Chapter 306 - Trust me Denzel, I know nothing about this

The club hall was booming with soft music, instead of the usual hip-hop. Unusual decorations turned the atmosphere into one of celebration, rather than the usual entertainment.

A three-step stage had been mounted with exceptional lighting. The walls were projected with well wishes, welcome messages, and messages of gratitude.

The boldest of them was projected like a banner: 'Appreciating our amazing Don and his family for all his care and thoughtfulness of us.'

The caption touched Don Denzel, and he turned to meet Valerie's infectious smile. She had been with him throughout after the meeting, so the only person Denzel suspected to be behind all this was Alessia.

"Aless, what did you do?" He asked in a hushed tone. She smiled and responded truthfully.

"Trust me, Denzel, I know nothing about this."

Loud voices echoed through the hall as soon as the music was off. "SURPRISE!"

Denzel was someone who never celebrated any of his birthdays. He hated them ever since his eighteenth birthday passed without him finding his mate.

Before then, he had been enthusiastic about it, but afterwards, it became a pain to him. Even his coronation was boring to him, as he never found his mate back then.

Strangely, this seemed to interest him, and he was even smiling. His staff were so thoughtful of him, and whatever caused them to do something like this for him, Valerie, and Alessia was just heartwarming.

None of the staff had left after the meeting, and they all appeared in their numbers, making the celebration grand.

Denzel wondered what they had done to the customers, but for their thoughtfulness, he could even forgive them if they had refused to open the club to the public.

It was not always just about money but little gestures like this that equally meant everything.

The HR manager was the one who spoke on everyone's behalf.

"Don Denzel, after the meeting, we all met together and agreed on giving your wife a befitting welcome and to also show you how much we appreciate your being our big boss."

Valerie was amazed by their thoughtfulness and was already thinking about doing something like this for Denzel at the pack.

No one celebrated their Alphas like this before, mostly because they always saw them as some superhumans.

Denzel had been moody after what Aurora did, but she saw him smile again because of this. It was totally exceptional. The HR Manager's voice cut through the soft music once more.

"Everybody has something to say, but time would not permit us, so we made some last-minute arrangements."

A large cake was wheeled into the hall, with 'Welcome, Valerie' boldly written on it, accompanied by a popular singer Denzel had invited before.

The HR manager gave the microphone to the singer, who began to speak.

"Don Denzel, we meet again, but this time, the lyrics in the song were given to me by all your staff gathered here. So, I will sing it on their behalf since they all have something to say to you."

His words made everyone attentive to the lyrics of the song, as they turned emotional by it.

"Companies rejected me, but you said you'd give me a chance. It's been four years, and my life has been amazing."

Denzel knew those lyrics were his HR Manager's story. Back then, she had lost hope in being employed, but Denzel loved her zeal and decided to give her the opportunity, even without experience.

Seemed to him that some people never forgot his kindness, but there was more, as the singer continued to release the lyrics.

"I remember when I was assaulted because I owed some loan sharks. You paid for me and said you'd deduct it from my pay, but you didn't. When I asked, you said you could not remember, but I knew you did."

Denzel's eyes were moist as he never thought these old incidents would be remembered. That was one of his bodyguards. He knew that taking that huge amount would affect his finances, deciding to let it go.

Valerie and Alessia were equally touched, but Valerie wondered how they could organize something like this within a very short time.

It was not any of their birthdays, but the staff chose to just honor them, which was touching.

"I can't forget when my son needed surgery. I was a stripper, and you saw me being abused. Gave me a better job and paid for my son's surgery. My life has never been the same since then."

Everyone could tell that was one of the club managers in the other branches' story, and they smiled with gratitude at Denzel as the singer continued the song.

"I was just a graduate. Shy and naïve. They said I had the qualification but lacked confidence. Then you gave me the chance to be the best I could be. Thank you, Don."

Denzel and Cordelia's gazes met, and she lowered hers shyly. That was her story, and another one followed.

"My wife wanted a divorce, and everything was against me. I was left with nothing, but Don, you made me somebody again. Being a bouncer for you feels like being a manager in other companies."

The singer went on and on until Denzel got too emotional and requested a speaker. Then he spoke, interrupting the singer.

"I honestly don't remember all that you are saying, but I am happy for all the love you have shown me and my family. You guys are also my family, so thank you very much."

Some were saddened that their lyrics had not been heard, but if it so happened, then no one could leave the club to their homes this night.

The lyrics were very long, and though the singer could not finish it, there was one thing he could not leave out.

"Don, there is somebody else who has something to say, but she wants to say it herself." freewebnovel.com

Everyone wondered who it could be, as all attention focused on Denzel. He reluctantly agreed. "Let the person come."

There were surprised when Aurora appeared. Annoyance showed on all the faces present as she went to stand in front of Valerie.

Chapter 307: Chapter 307 – The Best Revenge

Aurora never felt at peace ever since Valerie's words of advice to her. It laid a heavy burden on her heart that could not be quickly removed.

She was not ready to leave the club when the preparations were ongoing. Though she did not have the opportunity to join the team, she found ways to meet with the singer and share her remorse story with him.

Luckily, he agreed to give her the chance she knew her work colleagues would not give her because of how upset they were with how she handled Valerie's presence.

"Ma'am, I don't deserve to stand before you, but given this chance, I want to apologize for all the wrongs I've done. To you, Alessia, and Don. Even if you can't forgive me now..."

The remaining words were taken from her mouth as Valerie quickly responded to her shock. "I forgive you, Aurora."

Valerie was shocked when Aurora embraced her tightly. She was not expecting Valerie's forgiveness anytime soon, thinking of ways to make it up to her.

Now she understood that Valerie was just like her sister Lisa at heart. The only difference was their physical strength.

Valerie was very tough and yet had a heart of gold. "Thank you so much. Now I understand why Don loves you. He can never find another one like you, never," Aurora said with tear-filled eyes. Valerie smiled and spoke gently to her.

"Aurora, we all have had our fair share of pain and bitterness. The best revenge is to let it go and be a better person," Valerie advised.

Aurora choked on Valerie's words, joyful tears streaming down her cheeks as she hugged Valerie once more. The sight made everyone emotional.

"You are a star, ma'am. I wish I had known you better," Aurora said after a break from the hug, wiping her tears.

Valerie honestly held no grudges against her, speaking truthfully. "The best is gone. At least I'm still here."

"Not for long," Denzel chimed. He still could not trust Aurora until she proved herself worthy of it.

"We would have to take care of the other companies," he cautioned, but Valerie knew he was referring to the pack.

"Sure, but Aurora, be good, and your hard work will pay off," Valerie said. Aurora was grateful for her kind heart.

"Thank you and thank you, Don. I'm so sorry for everything. You saved me and gave me a new life. Ma'am Alessia, thank you too."

"All that matters is for you to make good use of that life," Denzel said seriously. Aurora wiped her tears and went to join the rest of the staff as the HR manager spoke once more.

"Don, before you and your wife cut the cake, can you do us the honor by going on a round of dance with her?"

Valerie was shaking her head, not thrilled about showing her amateur dance to their staff, but one of Denzel's favorite songs was instantly played, leaving him no room to refuse.

Turning to Valerie, he stretched his hand towards her. "You are dancing with me."

Seeing her reluctance, Alessia volunteered. "I will dance on your behalf."

A smile stretched Valerie's lips as she agreed with Alessia's request. "Yes, Denzel, she's a good dancer."

"And also not my wife," Denzel replied and pulled Valerie into his arms. They walked to the stage with his arms around her, as he whispered.

"Just take it slow."

The two did a romantic ballroom dance, stealing a few kisses and making onlookers blush before the music was changed to a more vigorous one.

Denzel's body was already swaying to the music, and Valerie was suddenly shy until she remembered those moves Alessia taught her and began to use them.

"That's it. You are doing it perfectly," Denzel encouraged her. She soon relaxed as he yelled to everyone's hearing.

"You should all dance with us."

The auditorium was suddenly filled with all the staff before the music changed to a slow one. "It's time to cut the cake," the HR manager announced.

Denzel fed Valerie the cake after cutting it, and everyone could tell that the two were genuinely in love.

Alessia felt neglected and approached them. "See? I hope you won't tell Godic that I danced with one of his bodyguards."

Denzel could feel a pending headache as Valerie gave up her spot and said to her, "you dance with him. I will have a chat with a few staff members."

Alessia grabbed the opportunity and danced with her brother for the first time.

"Aless, slow it down," Denzel had to caution his sister several times as she danced like crazy. Onlookers, including Valerie, had to agree that dancing ran in the blood of the brother and sister.

The event was brought to an end, the day staff went home, and the night staff stayed. The setting in the auditorium was changed within minutes, and customers flooded in as if they had been waiting in front of the door.

Denzel, Valerie, and Alessia waited for two hours, blending in among the guests before deciding to go home.

"Val, are you hungry?" Denzel asked. Valerie's stomach grumbled immediately, remembering they hadn't eaten since their last meal from home.

"I am, but I know that you are too," Valerie exposed him as Alessia volunteered.

"Why don't I make food for you guys at home?"

Denzel stared at her with interest. "Aren't you supposed to work the night shift?" He was just teasing her, knowing Alessia missed Valerie and was just trying to spend more time with her.

"Denzel, please, let me spend time with Val. I don't know when I'll see you guys again after you leave."

Denzel was touched, saying to her, "I have some meetings to attend tomorrow. Why not go for that magic show tomorrow with two bodyguards?"

"Love you, Denzel," Alessia hugged her brother before they all drove away together. Immediately they arrived, Denzel's phone beeped before he had the chance to get down from the car.

It was a text message from Burke. 'Alpha, there is a rogue attack. It's the lake side rogues.'

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 308 - Are you capable?

Chapter 308: Chapter 308 - Are you capable?

Denzel pondered deeply. The lakeside rogues would never attack a pack that did not have something belonging to them.

This was strange, so he asked, "What do they want? Are you capable of taking them down? Is Godic of good help?"

Denzel did not panic, even though Valerie was also with him and not with the pack. He had faith in his pack leaders but also knew that rogues supported each other.

With them knowing the Alpha was not physically present, they would not give up but rather call on their allies for help.

Rogues were desperate to possess a pack, so the war could go on for days. Only the presence of an Alpha would scare them away.

"Yes, Alpha, Godic is helping greatly. I just wanted you to be aware. There are rumors of someone possessing the powers from the lake. It's the reason for the rogue attack."

Denzel knew that Alice's powers were not from the lake but from the moon.

Also, Burke was aware of it and would not expose her, especially when she was his mate. "The powers from the lake? Who could that be?" Denzel asked, looking lost.

However, Lake's next question made him suspicious if he was speaking under duress.

"Alpha, have you noticed anything off about our Luna? During the last rogue attack, one of them mentioned that our Luna has some special powers."

The obsession of Alphas wanting Valerie because of her Luna wolf had not ended. Should these rogues know that she had an Alpha wolf, there would be another quest for Valerie.

Or, the Alpha wolf might scare them off, but since Denzel had no idea which of them would work at the moment, he tried to play safe.

The last time there was an attack, Valerie had used her wolf, so they must have already seen it, though not knowing it was her.

"Our Luna only has an Alpha wolf. She doesn't have any special powers."

Denzel was hearing the war screams but could not tell if it was the rogues or his pack winning until he heard a familiar voice from the distance.

"Alpha, Please don't answer." It was Godic's voice, and Denzel instantly felt something amiss.

"What is going on?" Denzel asked, but the line already died.

Possibly, these rogues must have contracted some spirits, making it even more dangerous and fierce.

At this point, Denzel wished he had powers to just disappear from the human world and appear in his pack.

"Denzel, what is the problem?" Valerie asked when he lowered the phone, meaning the call ended.

Denzel sighed but could not answer her directly and referred to Alessia.

"Aless, why don't you make us something to eat?" He spoke calmly before turning to Valerie.

"I have something to discuss with you."

In spite of his calm facade, both women knew there was something off.

"Denzel, is something the matter?" Alessia asked again. Denzel did not hide it since her mate was involved.

"The pack is under attack. Don't you want us to eat something before leaving?"

"I will hurry up," Alessia said and ran ahead. She wanted Denzel to leave quickly to go help, as she was afraid of anything happening to Godic.

As Denzel led Valerie to their room, he kept dialing Burke's number, but it was switched off.

Restless, Denzel began to question Valerie eagerly. "Val, the last time you communicated with your wolf through the lake, how did you feel?"

If she had any connection at the time, then that could be her.

"That has been a while, but why are you asking now?" Valerie asked with a confused expression. Denzel was slightly impatient. freewebnovel.com

"Please answer me Val, the lakeside rogues are looking for someone possessing the powers from the lake. Water is quiet, unless there is a storm. The way you did those investigations. Do you feel any different?"

Valerie was slowly understanding that this was linked to the powers Denzel questioned her about before.

"Aside from my curiosity, I don't feel any different."

Denzel believed her and realized how impossible it was to get anything from her at this moment.

"Of course you wouldn't. We aren't in the pack."

Valerie did not understand why they were still standing there without picking up a few things and returning to the pack.

"Are we leaving now?"

Denzel weighed his options since he did not plan to return to Las Vegas anytime soon after his return to the pack.

"Maybe. Let me make a few calls. My meeting tomorrow is very important."

Valerie did not argue, only reminding him. "But the pack is under attack means you are needed."

"Burke can handle a lot of things with Godic's help. This is a test of their competence, but let me try Godic's number."

Denzel dialed, but there was no answer. Perhaps Godic had already shifted, so there would be no way to communicate with him through the phone, and mindlink would also not work because of the distance.

"Should we not be on our way?" Valerie asked once more upon seeing his frustrations.

"Even if we leave now, we still would not be able to make it on time. But I have an idea," Denzel spoke thoughtfully. Valerie's eyes lit up immediately as she asked.

"What is it? Can I help too?" Valerie was disturbed, but there was no way she would be able to help, just like him.

"I'm going to ask for help from a couple of packs, but you have to understand that we might have to return it one day."

As a co-leader of the pack, Valerie had to be aware of his movements.

"That isn't a problem," she readily agreed but wondered which of the Alphas Denzel was going to call upon.

She watched Denzel dial Alpha Troy's number. "My pack is under attack, and I can't communicate with my leaders. Can you help?"

Troy could tell that Alpha Denzel was on one of those travels.

Nevertheless, he felt honored that Alpha Denzel thought about him in the time of trouble.

"Sure. Adira knows a lot about your pack, so we shall set out with a lot of warriors."

Denzel was grateful. "Take it as a loan. You shall be repaid."

"No need, Alpha Denzel. You already helped us a lot," Troy quickly refused.

After ending the call with Troy, Denzel dialed Idris's number and said the same message.

"I shall gather my warriors and be on my way," Idris replied.

The black fur pack was nothing without Alice, so Denzel did not bother to call Ludwig.

The thought of Alice gave him an idea, and he said to Valerie.

"Can you call Alice, please?"

Valerie was rather uneasy with the request. "What for? Did you not say never to use her powers?"

Chapter 309 - I am here for peace

Chapter 309: Chapter 309 - I am here for peace

At the Evergreen Pack, intruders had invaded the pack and the war sirens rang.

Burke, who was in the kitchen with Alice and Godic after a tough training session earlier, instantly sprang into action the moment a mindlink went through.

'Beta, the pack is under attack. It's the Lakeside rogues.'

Burke ended the mindlink instantly and said to Alice, "Run upstairs and don't come down until I come to get you."

Alice knew there was a war, but she was not willing to be a damsel in distress when the Alpha and Luna were not there to help.

This was the time to prove her worth to the pack, even if she could not use her powers. The sound of invaders could be heard from outside, and her heart was thumping wildly.

"Let me help Dorothy organize the omegas," Alice countered, trying to make herself useful.

After a little thought, Burke agreed, "Fine," and Alice ran to the underground safehouse.

Organizing and getting the omegas and the elderly to safety was not difficult, but warriors were needed to protect them.

Dorothy could take care of all that, so Burke shifted his attention to the warriors.

He had never led a war like this before but had seen Alpha Denzel's style of leadership many times. He was also privy to war side by side with Luna Valerie and had learned from her as well.

Burke decided to blend both styles together and turned to Godic.

"Godic, I will mindlink Gandolf to lead the weakest group. Can you lead the strongest and fight where the war is toughest? I will lead the remaining warriors."

Burke knew that Godic was tougher than him and had more experience in fights, so he capitalized on it.

Godic, on the other hand, graced Burke with the needed respect, though he knew Burke could not compare with him in terms of strength.

"That is fine. You are the beta, so give the order, and we shall obey."

The two of them rushed out together, and the warriors were geared up for defense.

The Lakeside rogues were not so tough, but it was rumored that they had the power to hypnotize their enemies during fights.

Gandolf's team alone was taking down a lot of the rogues quite easily until the king arrived.

The rogues instantly stopped fighting as he approached Burke. "Your Alpha?" he asked, staring strangely at Burke.

This rogue Alpha was not as old as the rest. He was rather young, strong, and zealous.

Burke knew that revealing the absence of an Alpha to the enemy could be dangerous. It was better for them to think the Alpha was around and might appear at any time.

If not, they wouldn't mind calling for backup. The warriors were a bit tense, knowing that their Alpha and Luna were not there to lead and protect them this time.

"What do you want from him?" Burke asked sarcastically. The rogue king chuckled slightly.

"It's good that betas are now protecting their Alphas, but I have a simple question."

"And that is?" Burke asked with the same layer of sarcasm. frēwebnovël.com

The rogue king was there on a mission and could not allow a beta to stand in his way.

"There are rumors of a girl with powers from the lake here. I want to see her."

At first, Lake thought about Alice but knew her powers were not from the lake. Then he thought about his Luna and her Alpha wolf.

Could she be the one? He never saw his Luna exercise any strange powers too and was confused.

"There is no one with such powers here."

The rogue king was certain about the rumors he heard that the girl was in the Evergreen Pack and requested.

"Then let me talk to your Luna. I am here for peace."

Burke scoffed. If he was here for peace, then why did he enter the pack without permission and even lost some of his men in a fight?

"Peaceful people come through the front gate with the pack leader's permission and not with force. Our Luna is not here."

The rogue king felt he was lying but did not expose him. "If I come through the front door in peace, would you have welcomed me, knowing I was a rogue?"

Godic wanted to answer him, but it was not in his place to do so when Burke was the beta.

The next thing they saw was the rogue king waving his hand, and a young girl came to stand by his side.

After an eye battle between her and the rogue king as if mindlinking someone, which they knew was not the case, the rogue king stared at Burke in the eye and commanded him.

"Take your phone and call your Alpha. Make sure it's on speaker and ask him about, his Luna's powers."

Everyone was shocked to see that Burke brought out his phone and dialed Alpha Denzel's number without argument.

"Alpha, the pack is under attack. It's the rogues from the Lakeside."

"What do they want? Are you capable of taking them down? Is Godic of good help?"

"Yes, Alpha, Godic is helping greatly. I just wanted you to be aware. There are rumors of someone possessing the powers from the lake. It's the reason for the rogue attack."

"The powers from the lake? Who could that be?" They heard Alpha Denzel ask.

"Alpha, have you noticed anything off about our Luna? During the last rogue attack, one of them mentioned that our Luna has some special powers."

It was as if someone was speaking through Burke, and they wanted to stop him, but for a moment, it was as if their lips were sealed by some supernatural force, but they were happy with their Alpha's response.

"Our Luna only has an Alpha wolf. She doesn't have any special powers."

Godic scrutinized the rogue king carefully, realizing how Burke was being hypnotized by his eyes, instantly causing chaos by knocking down three rogues to create a distraction.

"Arhhhh," screams filled the air as the rogues geared up for defense. Their screams broke the hypnotism going on as Godic screamed to Alpha Denzel's hearing.

"Alpha, please don't answer."

Burke's eyes cleared at the moment, and the phone fell from his hand, the screen broke.

He shifted to his wolf form and attacked the rogue king. Godic knew he couldn't handle the rogue king alone and shifted to help him.

The rogue king could face Burke alone, but with Godic, his defenses were failing.

The sorcerer who came with him was afraid and thought of a way to help.

She began casting spells against the warriors of the Evergreen Pack, but the spells were reversed against the rogues.

Something was wrong somewhere. The only thing left was for her to save the rogue king and help the remaining few to escape.

Worse, Alpha Idris and a team of warriors arrived, followed by Alpha Troy, Adira, and some of their warriors.

The sorcerer fell on the injured rogue king as they both disappeared. The dust in the air settled as cheers broke out before the pack members took notice of the new team.

It was clear to them that though Alpha Denzel was not physically present, he still sent them help.

"Thank you for coming, Alpha Idris and Alpha Troy," Burke said. Godic smiled at Adira.

"Luna Adira, it's good to see you again."

Adira naturally hugged Burke. "It's been a long time. What are you doing here?"

Before Godic could respond, Dorothy rushed out of the pack house. "Beta Burke, Alice."

Chapter 310 – The Alpha is on the line

Chapter 310: Chapter 310 – The Alpha is on the line

"Alice, are they going to kill us?" one of the children asked, fear evident in her eyes as the sounds of war surrounded them.

Alice never enjoyed these times either, but she would turn eighteen in a few months, gain her wolf, and eventually find her mate.

When that happened, she would have children of her own and would need to comfort them during times like this.

Pushing aside her fears, she put on a calming smile and began to reassure the children under her care.

"No, our warriors are skilled. They will protect us from the enemies."

In the absence of the Alpha, most people lose hope, and these children were no exception. Alphas and Lunas were always symbols of hope for the pack.

"Alpha is not here. What if I lose my dad?" one of the boys asked, leaving Alice feeling helpless. She had experienced a similar loss when her parents died in a war orchestrated by supernatural forces.

"You won't lose your dad, okay? Everything will be fine. Who wants more doughnuts?" She shifted their focus to the food she was offering.

"Me, me!" some of the children, especially the boys, eagerly raised their hands and requested doughnuts. Relieved to see the fear dissipate from some of them, she turned her attention to the remaining children.

"Good. There are drinks here too. You know, it's even better to sleep. By the time you wake up, everything will be over."

This was her usual approach during times of war. With no one to comfort her after her parents' deaths, she would force herself to sleep in the safe house, away from the sounds of war.

To her amazement, some of the kids were already practicing the trick and trying to lure themselves to sleep.

Dorothy tended to the elderly, while Alice proved capable of caring for the children. As she attended to them, her phone rang, and seeing that it was Alpha Denzel calling, she quickly answered.

"Alpha."

"Alice, what is happening at the pack?" Denzel inquired immediately, causing Alice to swallow nervously before recounting the situation.

"There is an attack, so I'm assisting with the children. Is it safe for me to do so?" she asked, fearing that the Alpha might instruct her otherwise. However, Denzel had a different response.

"Of course, it's safe for you to help, but I need you to do something for me," Denzel requested, sparking excitement in Alice as she felt useful to the pack for the first time since her arrival.

"Anything, Alpha."

"Alright, can you check if someone is using strange powers in the pack?" Denzel asked, to which Alice disclosed,

"I sensed the presence of a sorcerer earlier."

Upon hearing this, Denzel understood why Godic had warned him not to answer any questions.

It was evident to him that Burke was under some sort of spell or influence. While Denzel was accustomed to encountering individuals with supernatural abilities, Burke was not.

"Can you move to a different location?" he asked, and Alice promptly agreed.

"Okay." She then informed Dorothy, who was in another part of the safe house, "Dotty, I don't feel well. I need to retrieve something from my room."

"Alright. Rest. The other warriors will assist," Dorothy replied quickly. Knowing that Alice was physically weaker than most she-wolves, she never intended to overwork her.

Additionally, Alice had pushed herself during training, despite not having fully manifested her wolf, leading to understandable fatigue.

"Alice, please stay," one of the children she was attending to pleaded. Despite feeling sympathetic, Alice was compelled to obey her Alpha.

Retrieving a candy from her pocket, she handed it to the child. "I will be back," she reassured the tearful child before hurrying to her room. The girl, upon receiving the candy, ceased crying.

"Alpha, I'm all ears," Alice said upon reaching her room.

Denzel spoke from the other end of the line. "Alright. The leaders have no defense against charms."

Excitedly grasping what her Alpha required of her, Alice suggested, "So, do you want me to counter the sorcerer's powers? I could redirect anything they do back to the rogue warriors."

Intrigued by her idea, Denzel found it appealing and agreed. At that moment, he was willing to repay her kindness.

"That would be perfect, but won't it be too much for you? The backlash, I mean."

"I've been trying to use my powers without suffering the consequences, so let me attempt it," Alice replied, determined not to give him a chance to change his mind.

Denzel realized too late that Alice had deceived him by saying she would try. He had expected her to report back on whether the effect was still present. He then said,

"I will stay on the line."

After a few moments, Alice suddenly announced, "It's done."

Denzel was surprised but also concerned, asking, "How are you feeling?" His anxiety grew when he received no response from her.

"Alice?"

Valerie, equally worried, spoke up since the phone was on speaker mode. "Alice, it's Valerie. Can you tell us how you are doing?"

Still receiving no response, both Valerie and Denzel were alarmed. Denzel remembered that Alice was with Dorothy and immediately dialed her number.

"Dorothy, go check on Alice."

"Yes, Alpha," Dorothy responded in a panicked tone. The fact that the Alpha had called her for such a task indicated a serious issue.

She hurried to Alice's room and found her unconscious. "Alice, wake up," she called out three times, receiving no response. Dorothy then dialed Alpha Denzel's number and informed him, "Alpha, she's unconscious."

Denzel and Valerie were both worried, with Denzel regretting pushing Alice to use her powers. However, he remained calm, knowing that her abilities had saved the pack, and was determined to make it up to her.

"How is the war?" he inquired, seeking confirmation that Alice's actions had indeed been effective, leading to her current state.

"It's over. The rogue king, his sorcerer and the rest of the rogues have all run away."

A relief sigh escaped him as he knew that Burke would be free to take care of Alice for the time being.

"Good. Call Burke and tell him to attend to Alice."

"Good. Call Burke and tell him to attend to Alice."

Since Burke was aware of Alice's powers and the fact that he had to keep it secret, Denzel was certain that he would know how to handle this matter as well.

"Yes, Alpha." Dorothy rushed out of the pack house and instantly saw Burke a distance away. She began yelling, "Beta Burke, Alice."

Burke was disturbed, no longer feeling the excitement of the win. "What happened to her? Where is she?"

His heart thumped wildly with fear of what had happened to her when she volunteered to help at the safe house.

"In her room, unconscious," Dorothy revealed. Burke ran to Alice's room, followed by Godic and Dorothy as the latter informed him.

"Alpha said I should call you to attend to her."

Burke wondered how Alpha Denzel already knew that Alice was not well before those at the pack.

Thinking of asking later, Dorothy already dialed Alpha Denzel's number and gave the phone to Burke. "The Alpha is on the line."

"Alpha," Burke took the phone and spoke immediately. Denzel calmly explained the situation to him. freewebnovel.com

"I made her use her powers. Did she suffer burns?" Alpha Denzel asked from the other side of the line, and for the first time, Burke saw that his Alpha was not as aloof as they thought.

He cared a lot. "No. I'm checking her pulse, but it's normal. I think she's just exhausted," Burke explained. Alpha Denzel was relieved but wondered if she was exhausted because of the use of her powers or if there were other conditions.

Also, Burke said that Alice did not suffer any kind of burns. Could it mean she was indeed improving in the use of it?

"The sound of a cough was heard, and everyone's attention went to Alice as she opened her eyes.

"What are you all doing here?" She asked, and hearing her voice at the end of the line, Denzel and Valerie were quite excited.

"You were unconscious when I got here. What happened?" Dorothy asked. Everything flooded into Alice's mind, but she could not let those who did not know that she had powers know, so she brushed it aside.

"I guess I was just tired after training." After Denzel heard this and due to people around, he ended the call, planning to call Alice later.

Dorothy stayed with Alice, and Godic and Burke went to prepare rooms for Alpha Idris and Troy.

"No need to stay when the war is over," Alpha Idris refused, but Alpha Troy reminded him.

"Being rogues, they might return because of the absence of an Alpha, especially when they have not gotten what they want. Let's stay for a few days."

He knew Adira would not have a problem with it as she missed her old pack, but Alpha Idris suggested,

"Why don't you go for me to stay since you are both here?" He was equally concerned about their pack, but as for his, he knew his mom and beta were capable of taking care of everything in his absence.

Troy smiled and replied. "Did you forget about a beta? Nevertheless, I will send the warriors away."

"My bad," Idris came to his senses and said, adding, "I already sent my warriors away, and the Evergreen pack has developed from the last time I saw it. The architectural design for the omega's community is outstanding. I'm thinking of having something like that at my pack."

Troy agreed. "Same here. Alpha Denzel is always full of ideas. I wish I had the opportunity to be close to him earlier."

"No need for regrets," Alpha Idris said, remembering how he thought of Denzel before. "I used to see him as an enemy too, but knowing I have a cousin like him, half of my problems are solved."

The Evergreen pack was peaceful, and everyone joined in cleaning the pack and restoring it to its former glory.

Back in Las Vegas, a knock was heard on Denzel's door as Alessia opened the door and entered with packaged food.

Disappointment dulled her eyes when she saw Denzel and Valerie in a relaxed manner on the bed. "Why haven't you packed your stuff? Did you forget your responsibilities as Alpha and Luna?"

Denzel smirked, stood up, and took the tray of food from her. Knowing she was worried about Godic, he teased her a little.

"Everything is taken care of, and everybody is fine. Don't worry. We aren't leaving anytime soon, so Godic isn't coming back either."

"Great. I should call Godic then," Alessia said in a dismayed tone. She wished it wasn't true and she could have her man back.

After teasing her, Denzel decided to cheer her up a little. "And you guys can go for your magic show."

As expected, her eyes lit up instantly. "That's great. I hope that your meeting equally turns out successful. Break a leg."

Denzel smiled at her retreating figure. "Thanks for the meal."

After Alessia left, Valerie said to Denzel. "I'm really surprised you made her use her powers."

He did not mean to, but it already happened. "She's a pack member, and I wasn't around. I knew she might get injured, and I plan to take responsibility for it. Imagine the whole pack being under some kind of spell when there is someone to help."

"You have a good point over there, and she sounded ready to help," Valerie agreed. She was just happy that the pack was safe.

"She always has. I can't wait for her to turn eighteen," Denzel smirked. Valerie shook her head, not expecting it from him.

"You are so naughty, Denzel."

"Is it a bad idea to watch out for my beta?" He wished that all his pack members above the ages of eighteen would find their mates without going through the hassle he went through.

"No. It's just as I'm looking out for my little Alice. She's so innocent," Valerie countered, remembering Alice's innocent mannerisms.

"Well, the pack needs more members," Denzel said directly, not accepting the level of innocence Valerie was grading Alice.

Knowing he was right, she shook her head. "I just can't win an argument with you."

Denzel dropped the food gently on the nightstand and climbed on top of her. "Well, you might, if you are able to do one thing."

With raised brows, Valerie asked seriously, "And what is that?" Denzel's gaze settled a little far away, and following his gaze, Valerie's jaws dropped.

"No way."

Chapter 312 – The news he has been waiting for

Chapter 312: Chapter 312 – The news he has been waiting for

"I know you can. Right now, I want the wild you," Denzel made his intentions known.

Valerie stared at the two cowboy hats he placed on a chair, imagining another wild night and exclaimed, "Cowboy sex, I'm too exhausted for that."

She soon regretted it, thinking Denzel would be annoyed and was about to change her mind when he suddenly spoke to her, astonishment.

"Then let's shower and sleep. We could do that another time."

There was no irritation or whatsoever in his voice, but Valerie felt guilty. "No, let's do it," she succumbed, but Denzel only kissed her on the forehead before he rolled over to the side.

"I know that over here, it's just our human abilities. Please rest."

Their wolfy abilities could make them work long hours or have sex many times without getting tired, but the more they stayed in Las Vegas, the more human they became.

But as soon as their feet touched any of the pack communities, their wolfy abilities would instantly resurrect.

Valerie was moved by his thoughtfulness, but that did not mean that he was going to let her off in the shower.

They had a round of hot sex under the shower before coming out and sleeping after. Denzel's meetings went smoothly with no one daring to trouble him.

Seemed his enemies were even more afraid of his wife than him. Slowly, the murder of those dons had reached the ears of other dons who were not ready to lose their lives through a powerful mafia couple.

Valerie and Alessia's magic show also went equally well, and the subsequent days were all peaceful.

Two weeks passed like the blink of an eye before Denzel received the news he was waiting for.

"Alpha Denzel, my father is ready to move, but there is a problem."

Denzel looked to his left and right. Only after hearing the sound of the shower did he answer the phone in a hushed tone. "And what is it?"

"Fusion has turned the rogues here against us. They all want to come with us. I don't want to initiate a fight because my father is not too strong and might get injured."

Denzel would have done the same until he was able to get the old man to safety. This was also not something he could allow Burke, Godic, or any of the trusted Alphas she sent to them to handle.

If things blew out of proportion, it could result in a war.

"I will be there tomorrow," Denzel said, quickly ending the call. Unknown to him, Valerie had heard him speaking to someone and stopped at the entrance, without turning off the faucet.

She trusted Denzel but could not understand her reason for feeling that he was hiding something. Rooted at the spot, she continued to listen.

Denzel dialed Alpha Idris's number. "What is the situation with the lakeside rogues?" He had to know whether they were still suspicious of the person having the powers they were looking for.

Denzel knew it was Valerie. Her wolf had appeared to her inside the lake when she hadn't manifested.

It was clear to him that Valerie's wolf must have unknowingly usurped the powers of the lake back then.

Still, whatever belonged to nature belonged to everyone, so the rogues had no reason to sulk about it.

"They are still spying on us. I have been running shifts with Alpha Troy and Adira during patrol."

Either of the Alphas would accompany the warriors at night together with either Burke or Godic in keeping the rogues at bay.

Alpha Denzel wanted to end this once and for all and came to a decision. "Alright. I want you and Troy to leave tonight."

Worried that the pack might face another rogue attack, Alpha Idris asked carefully. "Are you serious about this?"

"I know what I'm doing," Denzel's voice sounded on the line. He did not hear the sound of the shower anymore but was not hiding this part of the bait since Valerie was already aware.

"I don't think Troy and Adira would leave without seeing you," Alpha Idris hinted, Denzel responded calmly.

"Don't worry. I will handle it, but my Luna's coronation would be in a week. I hope you can send the message across." The notice was short so the Alphas could send the messages by word of mouth before the letters were sent.

After all, Alpha Denzel was inviting all Alphas across the region. This was going to be the biggest coronation the werewolf witnessed and was also going to be the one with the shortest notice.

The next call was to Godic. "Meet me at the base tomorrow. There are pending works for you to do here."

"I will make sure of it," Godic eagerly replied before Alpha Denzel ended the call and dialed Burke's number.

"Burke, send invitations to all pack leaders. Our Luna's coronation would be in a week."

"Yes, Alpha," Burke responded excitedly. It was clear that the Alpha and Luna were coming back after almost a month-long journey.

Valerie wondered why the rush. Initially, Denzel constantly brushed it aside, but now, it was as if he was desperate for it.

By the time Denzel ended the call, his phone rang. It was Troy. "Alpha Denzel, are you sure about what you are saying?" He received the message but was not comfortable about it.

"Yes, and I want you to rather prepare for the coronation." Hearing about the coronation meant that Alpha Denzel was coming back.

"Okay."

Denzel was already packing their things as Valerie came out of the shower room and asked, "What's going on?"

The plan was to go to the office, but Denzel suddenly changed everything. "It's a surprise, but we have to go." Denzel went back to picking the few items they came with.

Once he was done, he yelled for his sister. "Alessia, Godic should be back by tomorrow."

Alessia came running to the room due to the excitement with Denzel's words. "Ah, thank you, but Val, aren't you happy?" She observed the gloominess on Valerie's face and asked.

Valerie forced a smile and hugged her. "I will miss you so much."

"Same here, but this is my home now. I have a great responsibility here," Alessia said in a satisfactory tone. She has come to love Las Vegas a lot, especially due to her fun-loving nature.

"I know. Take good care of yourself," Valerie hugged her again and said.

"I will, and my man will soon be here so don't worry."

Alessia walked them to the car and hugged her brother and Valerie before they drove away.

On the way to where the chopper was parked, Denzel smelled an intoxicating scent. "There is a werewolf around."

Chapter 313: Chapter 313 – You are just a waste of time

"Denzel, what are you talking about?" Valerie asked, worried. Denzel explained it to her.

"I can smell her close, which means she's either spying on us or lost." The scent was so strong that he could not resist it.

What if it was another spy? There were his kind among the other dons and some of their subjects, so it was very possible for them to send someone like that after Denzel and Valerie.

It could also be some of the humans sending people to know their exact location. Denzel, at times like this, would take care of all these weeds before taking off, so as not to be tracked.

"And how would you find her?" Valerie asked, not the least thrilled with this new development. Well, that was Don Denzel's life in Vegas.

There was always somebody watching him, even if it weren't for trouble or just for peace.

"I can smell her, which means she's close by, perhaps hiding," he said seriously. Denzel was about to step out of the car when Valerie asked him,

"Why can't I smell her too?"

Denzel thought about the question. It could mean that she was not the target or, "Perhaps you are not giving it much attention."

When he was about to step out again, Valerie held him back. "What if it's another seducing spirit?"

She got him this time with her question, but Denzel was ready for anything that would pop out its head. "Then I will kill her."

He stepped out and yelled, "Come out. I don't have much time." The area was very quiet with just a few cars going about.

A minute passed, and without any sign of anyone coming out, he added, "If you make it hard, I will kill you."

A shadow figure moved a distance away from him, and he began to follow it. Valerie was not liking this, and when the distance increased, she got down from the car and began to follow him from a distance.

"I don't have time for games. If you make it hard, I will kill you, and that is the last warning." Denzel's voice was menacing.

The figure stopped and turned around to face him. "I feel that we have a connection."

Though she was dressed in normal jean pants and a white casual shirt, Denzel saw it in her eyes. "A witch."

"How can you tell?" The girl feared a little, her long, blonde hair being swayed by the breeze. Denzel was so furious, his gaze darkened fiercely.

"You are just a waste of time."

When he turned around, the girl grabbed his shoulder. He grabbed her arm and twisted it, but as if she felt no pain, she rather wrapped her arms tightly around him.

At the same time, Denzel's eyes met with that of Valerie, and his anger burned for the fact that he had been tricked.

Valerie would be upset, thinking he was cheating on her. Though he tried his best to make her understand these things, it did not mean she completely overcame her insecurities as a result of the betrayal she faced before.

Peeling her from himself, he slammed her hard on the floor, and she groaned from pain. "Ouch, no one has been able to break from my hug before."

She quickly rose to her feet when she saw Denzel marching towards her. "I'm not anyone. Who are you?" He asked seriously, his gaze intimidating.

If she revealed herself, it might ruin everything. Getting Valerie upset was the only thing she came to do at this moment.

"My mission is completed." She was about to run when Denzel caught the back of her neck tightly and slammed her face on the floor.

"If you won't tell me, then I have no use for you. I can kill you here, and no one would catch me. After all, I'm leaving." freewebnovel.com

Denzel slammed her face once more on the floor, but instead of the groan he expected to come out of her like the first time, the sound of strange laughter filled the air instead.

"I already got what I wanted." The neck Alpha Denzel grabbed suddenly felt like smoke, and the girl had disappeared.

Denzel's fingers balled together throughout his walk back to the car. He could have ignored the urge to come out, but it was too strong, and now, another spirit got him into trouble with his mate.

He was faintly guessing the reason. The only reason Valerie might leave him was if he cheated on her, so creating an image like that would not only make her vulnerable but also susceptible to their plans.

If she leaves Denzel, then they could pair her with the mate they wanted.

Denzel went back to the car, seething, and expecting Valerie to be upset, but to his amazement, she asked, "When would they leave us alone?"

"You know?" Warmth filled his heart at the sound of her words, and she chuckled.

"I didn't leave."

Denzel stiffened slightly. "You used your powers again. I'm glad we are going back. You can do whatever you like."

If Valerie could do that with her powers, then it meant they were developing quite well.

The chopper did not go to the pack this time but rather to where Denzel usually parked it. Godic was already there.

Seemed that training at the pack was more intense than Las Vegas these days, and Godic had grown more muscles. He looked even more intimidating like his Alpha himself.

Denzel took him through a few things he observed that needed change. He explained that Alessia would help him to take care of the rest.

As soon as the chopper was in the air, Denzel's phone rang. Seeing Burke's ID, he instantly answered it as Burke's voice rang at the end of the line.

"Alpha, the lakeside rogues are back."

Alpha Denzel smiled. These rogues fell into his trap this time, and he was going to end things with them permanently.

Chapter 314: Chapter 314 – As Fast as You Can

At the Evergreen Pack

"Thank you for all your help, Alpha Troy and Idris," Godic shook hands in turn with the two Alphas before smiling at Adira. "Luna Adira, we miss you but are also happy that you are happy."

He had been quite close to Adira before leaving for Vegas, so their friendship had been rekindled with a lot to catch up on.

"Godic, you make me want to cry. I wish to see Alessia sometime soon, but for now, take care of yourself too."

Adira was saddened to be leaving back to her pack, but her responsibilities there were enough motivation for her to make the journey.

Also, they were going to return in a few days for Valerie's coronation, lessening her worries.

Facing Burke, she spoke honestly. "And Burke, you are doing great. Gandolf and Dorothy, I must say your positions are well-deserved," she concluded.

A lot had changed since she left, but they were all positive changes.

After handshakes and hugs here and there, the Alphas and Adira left. It was noon before Godic was also ready to set off.

Godic hugged Burke, and then Gandolf. He had already bid goodbye to his family and was about to leave to meet Alpha Denzel at the base.

"I will miss you, brother. I hope you visit again soon," Burke said, his voice loaded with longing. Godic smiled and responded, "If I am called at any time, I will surely come."

Burke walked Godic to the gates before the latter shifted as Burke stuffed a nylon bag containing his clothes in his mouth. As soon as he got to the base, he would just shift to human form and wear them.

Burke, Gandolf, and Dorothy did some checks around the packs with some warriors before nightfall.

Burke was just about to go check on the project at the Omega's community with Dorothy, since the engineers would not be around by then.

He did most of his checks around that time to take note of any errors to be pointed out to them before their arrival the next day.

The war sirens began to ring before they reached their destination.

Being the early hours of the evening, all the lights in the pack were turned on as a mindlink invaded Burke's mind. 'Beta Burke, it's the lakeside rogues again.'

He instantly dialed Alpha Denzel's number. "Alpha, the lakeside rogues are back."

"Do what you can. I will be there soon."

Burke was very happy to hear that Alpha Denzel was not too far from the pack. If not for the sorcerer, he would have been able to win this battle without informing Alpha Denzel.

"Dorothy, please keep Alice close to you and get some of the warriors to help you protect the weak," he said to the woman by his side.

He had learned from Alice's recovery that she had used her powers, so it would be good for her to be with Dorothy in case Alpha Denzel decided to call on Alice's help once more.

'Gandolf, let's take as many of them down before that sorcerer appears,' Burke said through mindlink, informing the remaining warriors by the same means.

'Warriors, hit to kill. As fast as you can. We can all stand against the sorcerer after that.'

His plan was to take down as many rogues as he could, then focus on the sorceress after. 'Yes, Beta Burke,' multiple responses invaded his mindlink.

The fight was fierce, as it was obvious that the lakeside rogues had gone for reinforcement. These rogues were tougher, but the warriors of the Evergreen Pack were more skillful and faster.

The rogue king seemed determined to take over the pack this time, seeing no Alpha around. As soon as he heard the information that the two Alphas had left, he jeered towards another attack.

Still, he was impressed with the Evergreen Pack warriors' battle skills. Even with stronger rogues, they were easily taken down.

He beckoned for the sorcerer, and she came to stand beside him. "What do you want, my king?" If they succeeded in taking over the Evergreen Pack, she would be the Luna.

"Make them stop," the rogue king commanded. She lifted her hand, and all movements halted on both sides, all the warriors turned to their direction.

Another spell had been cast so easily, but Burke was exempted from it because they needed information from him. He stood in front of the rogue king. "You came back, and you won't leave here alive."

Burke was sure of that. His Alpha and Luna would be at the pack very soon, as all he was trying to do was stall for time.

The rogue king was visibly upset as he replied with a daring tone, looking at the sorceress. "If she snaps a finger, not only you but all your warriors would be dead, but that is not why I am here."

"So, what do you want?" Burke asked, not the least afraid of the sorcerers when he had both a male and female Alpha on the way coming to their defense.

"There is a girl with special powers, not from the lake. Give her up, and the pack would be free."

The smile on Burke's face froze, knowing that the target had now shifted to Alice. With his anger burning inside of him, he retorted. "There is no such person here."

The rogue king stared at the sorcerer, wondering if her discernment was wrong but watched her lick her long nails slightly. "I can taste her. She is in the pack house," she said in a hungry tone.

Burke's fingers balled into fists as the rogue king demanded. "Bring her out or," he pointed at the sorceress. "She would go in there and bring her."

If anything at all, Burke would rather die than allow any harm to come near Alice. "There is no such girl, and I dare you to go near the pack house."

The rogue king only believed the sorceress and dashed towards the pack house with her in tow, but both of them froze when they reached there.

"Alpha Denzel?" The rogue king asked, taken aback.

"Luna Valerie?" The sorceress asked, equally taken aback.

Chapter 315 – You've learned too well Val, now I'm scared

Chapter 315: Chapter 315 – You've learned too well Val, now I'm scared

Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie set off in wolf form as soon as they heard the news about the attack.

Arriving at the pack, they were proud to see the level of defense their warriors put up and went to get some clothes to wear because they were naked from the shift.

Just as they were about to join the fight, they realized that the warriors were all under some kind of spell.

As they contemplated how to break the spell without using Alice's powers this time, they were surprised to see their sworn enemies right in front of them.

"Alpha Denzel?" the rogue king asked, taken aback.

"Luna Valerie?" the sorceress asked, equally taken aback.

Denzel held the gaze of the rogue king, as Valerie held the gaze of the sorceress. The woman was half-naked, her long nails painted black. She had seven piercings on her ears, and her black lipstick and eye shadow gave her a witchy vibe.

"You both look surprised," Denzel observed as the two people stood in front of him. The rogue king glared at the sorceress and asked her,

"Didn't you say they were far from the pack?"

The sorceress tried to avoid Valerie's gaze. It was clear to her that Valerie was the one with the powers from the lake, but there seemed to be something else powerful about her.

Then she remembered how Alpha Denzel had said on the phone that his Luna had an Alpha wolf.

That was exactly what it was.

Valerie's Alpha wolf would make it difficult for a spell to work on her, but the sorceress thought of one thing.

If she cast another spell on the warriors, it could force Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie to do her bidding to set them free.

"Yes, but I don't understand what is happening," the sorceress spoke honestly.

Their mission would have been accomplished so easily if Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie had not shown their faces.

The rogue king seemed to have lost his tongue at the sight of Alpha Denzel and his Luna. There were just some Alphas who could not be messed with, and the same with their packs.

"Alpha Denzel, we are just looking for a thief, and I was informed she's in your packhouse," the rogue king said, looking everywhere except at Alpha Denzel.

The calmness Alpha Denzel exuded was so scary. "What did this thief steal, if I may ask, and who gave you the right to even enter my packhouse?" Alpha Denzel's words became hard at the end.

The rogue king swallowed tightly, and the sorceress wanted to use her powers to enslave everyone at the pack but was afraid of Luna Valerie's glare on her all this while.

"It's the powers in the lake. You know we, the lakeside rogues, deserve to be the only ones to benefit from it, right?" the rogue king asked, Alpha Denzel's brows raised as if he just heard of a new discovery.

"If my memory serves me right, then you rogues deserve nothing. Whatever belongs to nature belongs to all."

Rogues had no inheritance among any packs and could not claim anything as theirs. That was the reason why they were rogues.

Being hit in the face by the truth, the rogue king found another way to put his message across as he was afraid of what Alpha Denzel could do to him.

Perhaps they should have kept their distance after surviving the first attack and not dared to do it again.

"My sorcerer said there is a girl with special powers in your pack. If it's a gift of nature, then it would just be nice for her to share."

Alpha Denzel found it funny that the rogue king was trying to challenge him. With a scoff, he proposed, "Okay. Why don't your sorceress also share her powers with me, ha?"

The sorceress quickly lowered her head. Alpha Denzel was already powerful without any powers, so should he get even a small portion of her powers, he would be undefeatable from all angles.

Seeing the loophole in his request, the rogue king smiled awkwardly. "Alpha Denzel, you have a point there, and it's just as people say. No one plays the mind game better than you." He tried to patronize Alpha Denzel, only earning a frown from him.

Alpha Denzel was not amused. "This isn't a mind game but a pure mockery of your foolishness. You don't terrorize my pack."

The warning tone in which Alpha Denzel spoke, though not loud, made it seem as if he was going to shift.

Afraid, the rogue king quickly denied it. "I did not terrorize your pack, and I was just leaving."

Alpha Denzel did not give him the chance to even take a step before retorting coldly.

"Why should I allow you and your men to leave here alive when you dared to cast a spell on my warriors?"

His intimidating voice and personality, evoked a great level of fear in the rogue king and he instantly glared at the sorceress, as she immediately released the warriors from her spell.

Little did they know she had been tricked. Alpha Denzel instantly mind-linked his warriors. 'Kill them all.'

Not wanting to cause Alice any harm by using her powers again, Alpha Denzel and Valerie were only planning ways to get the sorceress to release the pack members from her spell without getting ridiculous conditions from her.

The perfect opportunity presented itself, and Denzel did not waste time in utilizing it.

The cries of the falling warriors drew the attention of the rogue king and his sorceress to them, and as soon as they fell for the bait, Valerie took the sorceress on before she could cast another spell.

About to give a command, the rogue king was dismembered as soon as Alpha Denzel's fingers elongated.

The Alpha and his Luna's movements were in sync with each other, and very fast, even though there was no mind-link between them yet.

The bond was stronger between them than anything else. Denzel quickly checked on Valerie to see how she had equally dismembered the sorceress.

"You've learned too well, Val, now I'm scared," he smiled and stole a kiss.

The pack broke into cheers, welcoming the Alpha, as Denzel's phone beeped. He saw a text message. "I'm close to the pack." It was from Ashley.

Chapter 316 – A Life Saver

Chapter 316: Chapter 316 – A Life Saver

Alpha Denzel quickly texted back, 'Stop wherever you are. I will find you.' He did not want Ashley to get too close to raise suspicions.

Valerie caught sight of the text but quickly looked away, pretending not to have seen anything.

There were already a lot of fun activities ongoing, and she did not want to ruin the mood. Besides, the name displayed was that of the investigator.

"Alpha, Luna, welcome." The pack members chanted in sing-song voices. Denzel and Valerie's hearts warmed greatly.

This was the joy of belonging and being loved by one's pack. Alice ran out of the pack house and hugged Valerie.

"Welcome back, Luna, we missed you so much."

Valerie was happy to see her in good health, hugging her back as she asked seriously, "Have you been training and eating well?"

Excitement laced Alice's voice as she responded, "Yes, Luna."

"Alice, we shall talk later," Denzel said. Alice smiled and responded, "Yes, Alpha. We are so happy to have you back. The lakeside rogues would not dare to show their ugly faces anymore."

Denzel chuckled and was glad to see her healthy and happy. Alice deserved a special reward, but it was unfortunate that he could not honor her in front of the pack members, as that would open her up to threats.

Looking at the time, he could not keep Ashley waiting for too long and thought of a way to go meet her.

By tomorrow, she would be arriving with her father, so everything had to be in perspective, including their temporary accommodation since the omegas community was still under construction.

Alpha Denzel could not stay for long and said to Valerie, "I will check around the pack. You can prepare us something warm to eat."

He hoped that by keeping her busy, she would not insist on following him where he was going, and to his satisfaction, she didn't.

"Of course," Valerie agreed.

Denzel did not take the car, as that would make it hard to hide. He trotted out of the pack gates to a distance away until he saw the familiar figure.

Though she was dressed differently, he could tell from her scent that she was the one.

"Take this. What is going on?" Denzel asked Ashley as he stuffed the money in the envelope into her palm.

Ashley pushed it back, but when Denzel plans to give something, he doesn't take it back, so Ashley explained it to him.

"We don't need money again now. Your beta brought us enough, and my father is fine. He can walk and talk but is not as strong as before. Raven said with enough exercise, healthy food, and fresh air, his strength would return."

Denzel was relieved and happy that Raven had done her part just as he did his. "That is good news. I will send a car to pick you up tomorrow."

Ashley's expression suddenly turned gloomy. Perhaps Alpha Denzel must have forgotten.

"That is the problem. Fusion has turned the rogues against us. Even the rogue Alpha has lost control of him. I had to dress as Raven to sneak out to meet you."

Denzel had forgotten about this bit, and the reminder upset him.

It would be better to not leave any suspicions, and that meant not going out of the pack until Alpha Lawn's arrival, but only he could resolve this matter.

"This is annoying. I just don't want to ruin the surprise when we are so close. This is the first time your sister did not insist on following me when I told her I was checking a few things around the pack."

Ashley understood his predicament, feeling sorry for involving him. "I will find a way to get him to the pack."

Alpha Denzel did not agree with her. "No, you can't. Rogues aren't like the warriors you have in your pack."

Ashley agreed, annoyed at how Fusion suddenly turned out. "I know."

After some thought, Denzel settled on a plan and said to her, "Okay. I will come and get the four of you tomorrow. Just get ready. I will leave here after training in the morning and would arrive by late noon, so we could make it back around this time."

Ashley smiled with gratitude. Everyone knew Denzel as a man who carried death with him, but they had to understand that he was also a lifesaver.

"Thank you for all you are doing for our family. We shall greatly repay you as soon as everything is settled."

This was not the first time Denzel heard this, and his response remained the same.

"You don't have to pay me. Valerie is my mate, so her happiness is my responsibility. I love her more than anyone could understand."

Ashley was happy that after all the pain, Valerie found happiness above any she-wolf. "We are still grateful, and I already heard the news about the coronation. It's in five days."

Denzel smiled as he imagined the look on the faces of all those who ridiculed Valerie.

She was now marked, mated, and also had an Alpha wolf. Not the Luna wolf everyone was crazy about.

Right now, they would just die if they knew how strong Valerie had become.

"Yes, I hope that your father can be stronger by then. You know what I'm talking about."

Ashley nodded her head, knowing he was talking about Scarlet and Tristan. The time for atonement had come.

"I am sending a special invitation to Tristan and Scarlet to ensure that they attend."

A smile decorated Ashley's lip. "Thanks for informing me first. Good night."

By the time Alpha Denzel returned to the pack house, Alice was the one to welcome him. "Alpha, Luna said I should serve your food. She said she's tired and already went to bed."

Denzel frowned. Valerie would always attend to him no matter how tired she was. Something must be wrong with her. When he reached the bedroom, his heart sank at the state he found her.

Chapter 317 – I'm not in the mood

Chapter 317: Chapter 317 – I'm not in the mood

"Val, why are you crying?" Denzel sat on the bed and gathered her in his arms, worried, as he asked.

She was joyful before he left and could not understand the sudden change in her mood. This was the first time she cried after they mated and marked each other.

Denzel could not wrap his head around whatever got her into this mood. Worse, Valerie tried to wiggle out of his embrace, "I want to sleep."

Denzel's arms tightened around her waist, caging her safely as he pointed out. "But you are crying. Tell me what happened. Who hurt you?"

Valerie stared at him, wanting to throw angry words at him but could not find the strength. They had both not slept on the journey so it was natural for her body to demand rest.

"No one. Allow me to have some rest." She tried to pull his hand away but Denzel's heart was breaking and he wondered who to ask for information at this moment.

Alice did not seem like she knew anything due to how she had received him, and Denzel knew the only person Valerie would feel comfortable confiding in was Alessia.

Sadly, she was equally far away from the pack. "Val, please let's talk about this."

Valerie stared at him with blurry eyes and asked solemnly. "Where did you go?"

Denzel stiffened slightly, wondering if she had followed him, but he would have noticed it from her scent.

After tomorrow, he would no longer keep any secrets from her, and this was the last time he was going to lie to her.

"I already told you. I went to check a few things around the pack."

A bitter smile lined the corner of Valerie's lips as she forcefully broke from the hug and pulled the duvet over her head. "Goodnight."

"Val..." Denzel was about to pull the duvet when she hit his hand.

"Don't touch me."

Denzel was offended but swallowed it. Maybe it was that time of the month for her. She never showed weakness from that side before, but who knew whether things had changed?

"If that is what you want, but I have a surprise for you tomorrow."

Not expecting a response from her, he got a one-word reply, "Sure."

The next day, Denzel expected the grudge to continue, but Valerie even apologized. "I'm sorry for last night. I acted rather childish."

Her behavior seemed strange to Denzel, but since he could not pinpoint exactly what was going on, he quickly brushed it aside.

"Whatever makes you happy, Val. After training, I will be out for a while."

Valerie's expression instantly turned gloomy, not understanding Denzel's sudden desire to keep things from her.

She wanted to ask exactly what he planned to do out of the pack, but another idea popped into her mind, and she swallowed it.

"Alright. I will see you when you get back."

That was also not a response Denzel expected, but the certainty of everything being okay after his return with her father and Ashley gave him the courage to do as he planned.

Leaning in, he kissed her on the lips, but realized that Valerie's lips were pursed together. She was rejecting his kiss, and that did not sit well with him.

"Are you rejecting me?"

Valerie swallowed tightly, and when their gazes met, she quickly responded. "I'm not in the mood."

Denzel forced a smile. Her behavior was so weird, but nonetheless, he would have time for her from tomorrow.

"Alright. Let's go."

Training went on without problems, and there, Valerie was herself. Denzel was concerned about her quick switches in personality, but as soon as training was over, he mind-linked Burke.

'Keep an eye on Valerie and make sure the temporary house for the two rogues is furnished with the necessary needs.'

'Yes, Alpha,' Burke responded instantly.

Denzel arrived at the rogue community, and tension filled the air instantly. Unlike the first time he came with Burke and the investigator, he was all alone this time.

However, he was still as intimidating as ever, even in his training attire. As expected, Fusion came to meet him at the entrance.

"Alpha Denzel, to what do we owe this visit?"

"I'm here to see Alpha Lawn. Get out of my way," Denzel snarled, and Fusion took a step back but followed him closely.

Ashley was dressed nicely, and so was Raven and Roy, but Denzel's eyes were moist when they landed on Alpha Lawn.

He had lost so much weight and was looking lanky, but the smile on his face was exceptional.

"I have come to take you home, Dad," Denzel said with a smile, a tear rolled down the cheek of the middle-aged man.

"I never had a son through my DNA, but your calling me Dad makes me feel as if you are my biological son. Thank you very much," the middle-aged man held his hand out to Denzel, but instead, Denzel hugged him.

"I love Valerie, so her father is equally mine. Thanks for birthing such a strong, courageous, and loving woman. I would have died without her love."

"You deserve it, son." Alpha Lawn's voice sounded weak but was still laced with excitement. He looked older and had more gray hairs for his age.

The smell of herbs still encased him. Nevertheless, Denzel was certain that with proper nutrition, exercise, and peace, Alpha Lawn would regain himself completely.

Alpha Denzel looked around and asked worriedly. "Where is the rogue Alpha? I have a gift for him."

Raven's head lowered as she revealed. "He left earlier this morning. Didn't want to see us leave."

"I understand. Give this to your mother to give to him. If you two behave well, then there might be room for your parents and others," Alpha Denzel spoke sincerely.

Raven had mannerisms similar to Alice, ranging from their petite form and innocent looks, but Raven looked and was physically tougher than Alice.

"Thank you, Alpha Denzel. We won't let you down," Roy said when Raven went to give the gift to her mother.

She returned with teary eyes. "She said thanks but also refused to see you. She won't be able to take seeing us leave."

Alpha Denzel was not offended. "I understand. We should go now."

Making rogues pack members was the greatest risk he was taking. As such, he could not take more than these two at once.

When they reached the car, all the rogues in that community had surrounded the car as Fusion spoke proudly.

"Alpha Denzel, if you are taking them away, then what about us? We deserve a pack too."

Chapter 318 - My Pack Isn't for Rogues

Chapter 318: Chapter 318 - My Pack Isn't for Rogues

It was crystal clear that Fusion had organized the rogues to retaliate against Alpha Denzel, but he remained calm about it.

"Fusion, isn't that your name?" Alpha Denzel asked. Fusion nodded. "It is."

Just as he had told the rogue Alpha, he was not going to let Raven and Roy leave their community without them.

If Alpha Denzel could make room for two, then he could make room for ten, twenty, or even a hundred.

"My pack isn't for rogues," Alpha Denzel stated firmly.

Every rogue standing before him must have committed some crime or the other in their packs, except for the born rogues.

"What about those two?" Fusion leisurely pointed at Raven and Roy. It annoyed him that the rogue Alpha was trying to make his children live comfortably while the rest of them remained in misery.

"They were born rogues, meaning they were just victims of their parents' mistakes. You were rejected from your pack," Alpha Denzel pointed out, exposing Fusion.

Ashamed, Fusion began to shift the blame. "There are other born rogues."

Alpha Denzel's expression was unreadable as he replied, unfazed. "They are not my concern. These ones earned it. They rescued my father and treated him."

Warmth radiated in Alpha Lawn and Ashley's hearts due to Alpha Denzel referring to them as his family.

It seemed that Tristan's betrayal had brought them good fortune.

Fusion did not seem ready to let things slide. If at least one person among his circle of friends left, he was sure to continuously receive information about the Evergreen Pack and find his way there.

"They would also not have stayed if we had not agreed."

Denzel chuckled. These days, he was not like the iceberg people knew him to be, thanks to his mate, Valerie.

"I made the exception because they proved themselves worthy, but what you are doing now is the exact reason why I would never allow any of you into my pack."

The tone of his voice grew stern, earning remorseful looks from the rogues. They stared accusingly at Fusion, and in an attempt to find a way out of the situation, he accused Denzel.

"You never intended it from the beginning."

A mocking smile raised the corner of Denzel's lip as he asked, "Roy, what did I say before we left your house?"

Roy was taken aback by the question but remembered the answer vividly. "You said that if we behave well, then there might be room for our parents and others."

Vividly, the others could be any of the rogues standing there. Alpha Denzel was merciless with his words.

"Now you messed up your chance. You would riot in my pack and cause insubordination if I let you in, so for that, I say no."

He indeed planned to. If these ones were of good behavior, he believed he could speak to Valerie about it for them to be taken in, but this showed that these rogues had not learned their lessons.

"We can change," one of them said, as Fusion now had lost his tongue, wearing a defeated look on his face, but it was too late.

"I don't have time to take care of babies, and you haven't proven to be adults yet," Alpha Denzel said as he went around the car and opened the trunk, lifting up a bag of cash.

If they were mature enough, they would not have done this, so now their opportunity was gone.

"As for now, this is the best I can do, and I hope that you really change for the better." Alpha Denzel dropped the bag of money in front of Fusion, and when he squatted to open the bag,

Alpha Denzel beckoned Raven to go first before leading Alpha Lawn to sit beside her at the back. Then Roy sat beside them.

When they sat in the car, Ashley sought Denzel's permission when they saw how excited the rogues were for the money.

"Can I tell them something? I don't want them to end up hurting the rogue Alpha."

"Go ahead," Alpha Denzel shrugged. Ashley stepped out of the car and walked back to them.

"I am yet to reclaim my pack and would need some allies. If you guys change for the better during my next visit, I might consider bringing some of you in."

Joy shone in their eyes as she went back to sit in the car. Alpha Denzel heard everything and was quite disturbed.

"Are you sure about this?" He asked Ashley. She nodded, knowing these rogues would not pass the test.

Alpha Denzel opened the door and spoke to them in a raised voice. "You heard her. I will have someone keep watch over you to see who passes the test."

Due to the money, they were excited and did not resist anymore. As Alpha Denzel drove, he advised Ashley.

"I wouldn't advise you to take in a rogue when you are going to rebuild your pack. They can easily pass on information to fellow rogues in other communities and attack you."

With her head nodding in understanding, she replied, "I know. I've been with them."

"Then why did you make the offer?" Denzel asked curiously. She smiled and replied.

"Because I know they won't pass my test."

Denzel chuckled and shook his head. "I guess you are savvier than your kid sister."

Ashley laughed. "Hahaha, how is she doing?"

"Suspicious," Denzel answered honestly. Ashley understood it quite well.

"She will be very proud of you when she sees us."

Denzel nodded but did not say anything more. The rest of the journey was in silence, and Roy and Raven never took their eyes off the window, taking in the view of everything they saw on their way.

When the gates of the Evergreen pack opened, they felt as though they had entered heaven. Despite being rogues and hunting a lot, it was as if they had never seen such greenery in their lives.

The Evergreen pack showcased nature with its well-trimmed trees, lawns, and grass, giving the pack a luxurious appearance.

Denzel parked in front of the pack house and was met by Burke. "Alpha?"

Denzel pointed at the people in the back seat before instructing him. "Watch them. I will go in with Ashley first."

Burke smiled in agreement as Denzel went in with Ashley following him from a distance. Ashley was surprised when a hard slap sent her head turning to the left.

Chapter 319 - You won. I'm leaving

Chapter 319: Chapter 319 - You won. I'm leaving

The night before.

As Alpha Denzel was leaving the pack, he said to Valerie, "I will check around the pack. You can prepare something warm for us to eat."

"Of course," Valerie agreed, but she was full of suspicions about his movements.

As soon as Denzel turned around, she whispered to Alice, "Can you start dinner? I will come and help you later."

"Okay," Alice agreed joyfully, not suspecting anything.

Valerie followed Denzel from a distance, using silent steps so he wouldn't notice. She froze when she saw Denzel with a woman. The woman's head was covered with a black hood, but when Denzel got closer, she removed it.

"Ashley?" Valerie murmured with tears in her eyes as she saw Denzel giving something to her. Her heart sank, and she turned around and walked away.

So all along, Ashley was the investigator Denzel constantly spoke to on the phone. How foolish she had been to trust him so much.

'He's cheating on us,' she said to her wolf, Astrid. 'With my sister. Ashley betrayed me, just like Scarlet.' She could not understand why her sisters liked all the men the moon goddess blessed her with.

If Ashley liked Denzel, then why was she pretending so much at the club only to make Valerie suffer for it?

'I don't know about that, but I don't sense it,' Astrid replied. Her first wolf did not also sense it when Tristan was cheating on her so what could she do?

'Then what could he be doing with her?' Valerie asked, wondering why her wolf was not on par with her.

'Why not ask him?' Astrid suggested. Valerie feared that Denzel might humiliate her in front of the pack like Tristan did.

'No. He might just kill me for fear that I might expose him. Tomorrow night, we leave secretly,' she concluded, but Astrid did not agree or disagree with her.

The next day, Valerie pretended to be nice throughout training, after crying through the night. When it was over, she was not surprised when Denzel left again.

Due to her escape plan, she did not even question him about it. Thinking it through, she realized she could not escape during the day and waited until night. Just as she was dressed with her duffle bag and about to leave, Denzel appeared in front of the door.

"Where are you going?"

His gaze was dark, and Valerie feared, but when she saw the person behind him, her anger boiled, and she walked past him, releasing a harsh slap.

Ashley's face turned to the side, and her cheeks reddened from the impact. "Val, what is wrong with you?" Ashley asked with pain in her eyes.

This was not the welcome she expected, but Valerie was far from regret.

"Stop pretending. You won. I'm leaving."

Ashley was even more confused. "What are you talking about? I'm only here because of you."

Valerie scoffed. This was the same way she was deceived by Scarlet, but not anymore. She lifted her hand, about to slap Ashley again when Denzel held it in midair.

His gaze was as cold as his voice. "What is wrong with you?"

Valerie yanked her hand away from him, even more annoyed that he tried to stop her from hitting Ashley.

"You are stopping me from slapping your mistress? You don't have to sneak out to see her anymore. I'm leaving."

With Alpha Denzel's smart brain, he easily understood what was going on. No wonder she was crying last night. "How long have you known?"

Valerie glared angrily at her sister as she replied to Denzel's question. "I've been suspicious, so I followed you last night."

A bitter smile curved the corner of Denzel's lips. "Well, you ruined the surprise, but I'm not cheating on you. Never had, never will."

He was just upset that she tried to run away without confronting him, but Valerie was beyond being calm and raged. "What makes you think I'll believe you?"

She made another attempt to hit Ashley but ended up slapping Denzel instead. From his darkened look, she quickly apologized. "I did not mean to hit you?"

Denzel was particularly intimidating at the moment, not because she was suspicious, but because of the duffle bag on the floor.

Assuming it was some other woman, was this how she was going to run away from him?

"Why not? I should be the one taking your wrath. I orchestrated everything." Denzel's voice was laced with anger, but Valerie was still not remorseful.

"When did you start cheating on me?"

"I never cheated on you. When the investigator tracked down your father, Ashley was already taking care of him," he explained. Valerie wanted to believe him because of how much she loved him and asked.

"Why did you save her number as the investigator if you were clean?"

"Because I didn't want you to ruin the surprise. When I met her, she did not have a phone, so I took that of the investigator and gave it to her with his number."

Shame was ganging up on Valerie, and she was afraid of having misjudged him. "I would only believe you if you prove that you found my father."

Denzel smiled, but it did not reach his eyes. This was not the mood he wanted to create with the surprise he planned for her.

"And how are you going to pay for all the mistrust?" He asked seriously, his gaze not leaving hers.

Valerie swallowed tightly and remembered that Ashley had visited the Yellow Stone Pack and informed Scarlet that their father was still alive.

"I will make it up to you if you can prove it."

"If I prove it to you, I will punish you so hard, Val, you would never forget it," Denzel said with a darkened gaze that even Ashley feared.

Valerie was determined to take her punishment but also stood her ground. "And if you lied, you would allow me to leave in peace."

Ashley shook her head, not having the slightest idea of whatever punishment Denzel had for her sister but also too afraid to voice her opinion.

"Deal," Denzel said to Valerie before ordering a maid. "Take her things upstairs."

He removed a blindfold and began to cover her eyes with it. "Though you ruined everything, I hope that this still works."

After covering Valerie's eyes with the blindfold, he led her out of the entrance of the pack house to where he parked the car, before removing the blindfold.

"Dad," Denzel called out, but as soon as Valerie saw her father, she fainted.

Chapter 320 – Valerie's Shame

Chapter 320: Chapter 320 – Valerie's Shame

She fell right into Denzel's arms, and he was not too worried, knowing it was a result of the shock of seeing her father in one piece or the punishment she was going to face for her distrust in him.

Slapping her cheeks gently, he called after her. "Val, wake up. You owe me a punishment, so don't try to escape it. It won't work." Ashley chuckled, not having the slightest understanding of Denzel's personality.

He was nothing like the outside world said.

Valerie's eyes snapped open from his words. It meant that Denzel won the bet, and it was indeed her father. "Dad?" Tears streamed down her cheeks.

Denzel released his hold on her, and she went to embrace her father. The middle-aged man almost fell from the force, but he was happy to see that his daughter was living well.

No one told him about Tristan being Valerie's mate, but he knew about those who tried to kill him.

"I am happy the moon goddess rewarded me with a good mate for you." She looked prettier and stronger than when he left.

Denzel had indeed taken care of his little tomboy.

Valerie did not know if he was strong enough to hear about everything that happened to her, but right now, she was just interested in knowing what happened to her father all these months.

"Dad, I'm so sorry I couldn't protect you." She wiped a tear from the corner of her eyes and though her father's eyes were equally moist, he could not shed a tear.

It was a shame for an Alpha to shed a tear in public, even if it was for a joyful reunion like this.

Her father stared affectionately at her. Since he did not have a son, he trained her like a boy.

This was one of the reasons Ashley left for the human world, not wanting to be caught up with being a tomboy.

"No. I was too hard on you, and you were always busy. I heard what they did to you, so I couldn't burden you with my condition," her father said to Ashley's shock.

Seemed her father heard all her chats with Raven when she was working. They thought he was unconscious, but it didn't seem so anymore.

"Dad, let's go in. We have a lot to talk about." Valerie was leading her father to the living room when he abruptly stopped and turned around, beckoning for Roy and Raven to come close.

The middle-aged man heard the ruckus that happened earlier and did not want Denzel to be the one introducing Raven and Roy.

"These twins rescued me. Roy and Raven, but Raven was the one who healed me. We begged Alpha Denzel to allow them into this pack."

Valerie remembered faintly that Denzel had told her about a meeting with some rogues, with the decision about him taking some of them in not finalized.

Valerie smiled at the pair with raised brows. Raven's petite appearance was similar to that of Alice. "Of course. Anyone who treated you kindly is welcome."

"They are rogues," Alpha Lawn ascertained. Valerie thought they must have left their packs to join the rogues in taking care of her father, but hearing they were indeed the enemies of all packs, she was quite skeptical.

"What?"

"That is the problem. It was not easy for them to leave. That was the reason Alpha Denzel had to come and get us," her father explained on Denzel's behalf. Valerie wanted to dig a hole and bury herself.

'So that was what Denzel's meeting with Ashley was all about. To plan this surprise for me.'

Valerie felt so ashamed but was glad it was late, and only Burke was around. If not, she would have been too embarrassed.

She went to Raven and held both of her hands in hers. "Thank you so much for saving my father, Raven. I promise to make it up to you."

Raven shook her head, and her voice was soft, just like that of Alice. "No need, Luna Valerie. Accepting us in your pack is the greatest reward you can give us. It's beautiful here, and I already feel safe."

Valerie felt something off. "Why were you banished from your pack?" She asked, Denzel took the words from Raven's mouth. freewebnovel.com

"They were born rogues. Their Alpha slept with their father's mate, so he killed him. That was how he was banished from the pack," Denzel tried to recall the full story and summarized it.

Relieved that these two had not committed any crime, Valerie began to look around, thinking about their accommodation. "We have..."

"Burke already arranged a house for them," Alpha Denzel spoke, knowing what she wanted to say and at the same time, took her worries away.

However, Valerie was still afraid because she made him upset, and this time, she could not even discern the kind of punishment he had in store for her.

If only she had not allowed the past to consume her so much and trusted Denzel, just as he trusted her, she would not have been in the hole she was in now.

Then again, the way she took it out on Ashley and slapped her. If Denzel had not stopped her, she would have done worse.

Nevertheless, she knew that just like her, Ashley was very kind-hearted and would forgive her after an apology and a good meal, but Denzel would not go back on punishing her.

"Of course. You two are welcome. I will have the maids prepare something for you to eat."

Knowing that Alice would be sleeping, she could not also do it because she wanted to speak to her father, but Raven spoke to her stunned.

"You can give us the groceries. We shall cook ourselves. No need to burden anyone."

"There are enough groceries at the house," Burke said, ready to take them there. They were the reason he hadn't gone on patrol yet.

"Thank you for accepting us, Luna Valerie and Alpha Denzel. We promise to be of good behavior."

Alpha Denzel nodded his head and reminded them. "You shall swear to the pack during training tomorrow. Go eat and have a good rest. Burke would take care of everything you need."

As they were about to enter the pack house, they saw Alice running towards them with fear in her eyes. "Alice, I thought you were in your room. What are you doing out so late?"

Chapter 321 - Luna Valerie was pregnant

Chapter 321: Chapter 321 - Luna Valerie was pregnant

Alice was still panting, so Alpha Denzel suggested, "Let's all go inside. It's getting cold out here."

Somehow, he was still observing the two rogues he brought in and could not trust them immediately.

"That is good. Father looks tired," Ashley added her voice as she smiled at Valerie, the latter's head lowered in regret.

They had a lot to catch up on, but now, Alice seemed to be the greatest object of concern for them.

Burke left with Raven and Roy, and when he showed them their temporary house, they were stunned.

"Your house is being built, but you can live here until it's ready. It used to belong to me before I was appointed as the beta."

"This is amazing. Is the pack house as beautiful as this?" They could not imagine anywhere more beautiful than where they were, though the outward appearance of the pack house was more attractive than the outward appearance of this house.

Burke smiled at their innocence. "You'll see. There is enough grocery in the fridge, and this is the kitchen. I got you both some clothes and toiletries too. Luckily, it's a two-bedroom house, so you both have a room to yourselves."

Raven and Roy did not know the use of a fridge, as they never used one in their community. There was not even stable power.

Roy went to the room Burke said was his for now and laid on the bed. A tear rolled down from the corner of his eyes.

If there was heaven, then this was it. All his life, he slept on cartons on the floor. Burke had not even realized that Roy was no longer with them and said to Raven.

"Raven, I had Alice decorate your room. See if you like it."

"Alice? The girl who..." she was surprised to be treated like a real pack member. Having heard from her father about the divisions in a pack, she only wanted to serve as an omega.

"Yes, and she's very special to me, including the Alpha and Luna," Burke explained but not in detail.

"Please help me to thank her. I've never seen anything so beautiful in my life," Raven said honestly. Burke was glad that they loved it.

Indeed, even the house their father lived in as a rogue Alpha was nothing to write home about.

"Then you are welcome. The Evergreen pack is filled with all the most beautiful things you can find."

Raven was eager to repay this kindness by being helpful to the pack. "Beta Burke, I'm very good with herbs. I can help at the clinic, hospital, or whichever place."

Burke agreed with her, but it was also not in his place to call the shots.

"You took care of Alpha Lawn, so indeed, Alpha Denzel would not refuse when you tell him or, better still, tell Luna Valerie."

He knew that Alpha Denzel would not refuse Luna Valerie anything. "I will do so," Raven readily agreed, as Burke said.

"I will come and take you to training tomorrow."

He was almost at the door when Raven spoke behind him. "Beta Burke, what are these?" She asked. Burke turned around with raised brows.

"This is a fridge. You keep things inside for a longer time." He opened it, and Raven marveled at all the groceries in there.

"You can warm food with the microwave, cook on the stove." He took them through how to use all the electrical gadgets before returning to the pack house, eager to know what happened to Alice.

Valerie prepared something light for her father and Ashley before sending her father upstairs. Due to his condition, he was already tired, so they reserved the talk for tomorrow.

Also, she was interested in what happened to Alice. Ashley stayed with Valerie and Denzel as they questioned Alice. "What happened?"

Alice was confused to see two people looking alike. She had observed them quietly and was afraid of asking about it.

When Valerie realized what was happening, she explained. "This is my big sister, Ashley, and that is my father." She pointed upstairs where she took her father, and Alice's eyes widened, remembering that Alpha Lawn had been murdered.

Seems he did not die, and she could foresee the horrible fate awaiting Alpha Tristan, but that was not her business at the moment.

"Oh, it makes sense, but Luna, I went out a bit because I was trying to use my powers without being injured."

"Did it work?" Alpha Denzel asked with interest. He was saddened when she passed out the last time after using it.

"Yes, but I passed out and just woke up."

Alpha Denzel sighed, knowing she had to work harder and cautioned her.

"Don't ever leave the pack alone again, do you understand?" Alice nodded her head. At the same time, Burke returned, and she said,

"I had a dream. It was terrible."

"You had a dream when you passed out because of using your powers?" Alpha Denzel asked seriously. She eagerly nodded her head and began to narrate the dream.

"Yes. In the dream, Luna Valerie was pregnant, but in the ninth month, the pack was attacked by the underground rogues. They were hired by multiple Alphas, and because of their powers, our warriors were falling."

She focused her gaze on Valerie and narrated further. "In the dream, you had great powers but could not use it because you had been warned by the moon goddess not to or you lose the baby. But, you could not see your pack members die anymore and used it."

"Then what happened?" Valerie and Alpha Denzel asked together. They remembered the warning from the moon goddess through Astrid.

"We won the fight, but you began bleeding. That was when I woke up from the dream and realized that I was still in the bush. A snake almost bit me."

The dream did not end at a favorable place for Valerie and Denzel, as that explained the fate they might encounter.

Before Denzel could ask about it, Valerie quickly asked, "A snake? Aren't the woods treated?"

Denzel smirked, knowing how she feared snakes. "Not those outside the pack. It's a means of sending intruders away, but Alice, how effective are your dreams?" Alpha Denzel asked seriously. freewebnovel.com

Chapter 322 - Fellow Alpha

Chapter 322: Chapter 322 - Fellow Alpha

"Alpha, I hardly dream, but if I do, then they are bound to happen. That is the reason why I was scared right now," Alice said honestly. Denzel understood that the Moon goddess was just giving them a reminder.

As always, she would find a way to speak to them, even if she could not come in person.

Ashley was greatly disturbed for her sister, but upon hearing Alpha Denzel's words, she was greatly relieved.

"Alright, we create our own destinies. I can't wait for my mate to get pregnant, and when she does, we shall protect the baby together. I think everybody needs to rest. No one is missing training tomorrow except Dad."

He paused and asked, "Burke, did you send the letter to Scarlet and Tristan?" Preparations for the coronation and the invitations were the only things the packs were talking about now.

For the largest pack in Northern America, no one would dare to miss such an event, though the timing was short.

Burke was glad to have done his part and was happy that Alice's fear was just a dream and nothing Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie could not handle.

"Yes, Alpha. I had it delivered."

"Okay. Good night, everybody." Alpha Denzel's voice was warm, but his words were unrefusable, so everyone obeyed, retiring to their rooms.

Valerie wanted to speak with Ashley, but just as Denzel said, it was very late, so she decided to hold off until tomorrow.

Feeling ashamed, her head lowered when she went to the room with Denzel and wanted to apologize, but Denzel went to the bathroom without inviting her like he usually would.

She went to join him, but the door was locked. He had kept up a good image downstairs, but now, he had nothing to hide.

"Denzel, open up. We have to talk," Valerie spoke behind the door, but he only responded coldly.

"Not tonight. I also need to rest for training tomorrow."

This was the first time he rejected her, and it was not sitting well with her. She waited in front of the door until he came out with a towel wrapped around his waist.

Valerie gulped. The man looked so delicious even when he was upset. It was really an interesting sight she could not resist, but when she tried to touch him, he dodged her.

Valerie's hand froze in midair as she asked with a confused look on her face, "Denzel, what is going on?"

Denzel did not speak to her, having realized that his previous ways of punishment before only encouraged more misbehaviors and was certain that after this lesson, she would change for the better.

He also hoped that she would begin to wholly trust him. By the time she came out of the shower, he was fast asleep. This was strange, or could this be the punishment he talked about? Valerie began to think about everything going on.

Her expectancy of another punishment awaited her was to be another excessive BDSM ways of punishment but not the cold war kind of thing. It was more painful to take.

She went and laid beside him, resting her head on his chest, but he did not hold her like he usually would. Nevertheless, he did not push her away.

Since he already fell asleep, she allowed the matter to rest. However, Valerie could not sleep through the night, as Astrid kept disturbing her. Brutus had withdrawn, and she wasn't liking it.

'You made him upset. You should apologize. I told you he wasn't cheating on us, but you went ahead to cause trouble.'

Valerie wholly agreed with her wolf this time and was greatly remorseful. "I would apologize as soon as he wakes up."

Astrid ensured to steal Valerie's sleep, making her wake up earlier than usual for training. She dressed in her training outfit and laid beside Denzel, waiting keenly until his eye snapped open.

"Good morning, my love," Valerie beamed, but Denzel's expression was cold, and he did not respond.

About to lift himself from the bed, Valerie pressed him down. "Darling, I'm in the wrong. Please forgive me." freewebnovel.com

Denzel stared at her. It wasn't the first time. Her insecurities were going overboard, and he feared that if things were not set right, they could destroy their relationship.

Still, he could not get over her trying to leave him earlier. She would have run away if he had not arrived when he did.

What would he have done without her? Even if she did not trust him anymore, then what about the coronation? He was doing it for her, and she should have known by now that he was nothing close to Tristan.

His gaze was neither cold nor warm. "Earn it."

Valerie pursed her lips, lacking ideas. "I don't know how."

Denzel shrugged but did not say anymore, as he went to the washroom to freshen up for training.

At the Yellow Stone Pack, a mail arrived for Alpha Tristan. "It's from the Evergreen Pack," the warriors said to Alpha Tristan, who sat in his swivel chair, trying to take care of some urgent matters.

There hasn't been peace at the pack ever since Valerie left, and he was losing sleep every day because of it.

"Go ahead," he said to the warrior without lifting his head to meet his gaze as the warrior began to read what was written on the invitation.

"Greetings, fellow Alpha Tristan and Luna Scarlet, the Evergreen Pack is having the happiest time of its existence, as we invite you to celebrate with us the coronation ceremony of our extraordinary Luna, Valerie Lawn."

"This ceremony would also be an opportunity for business partnerships, and every pack would be given equal opportunity at this time. It would only be your loss if you refuse to attend. With partnerships like this, we insist that every Alpha attends with their Luna. Your Fellow Alpha, Denzel."

Tristan wanted to see Valerie again, but not when she was getting coronated. It would only confirm to him that he lost her forever.

"Is it a good idea to attend?" He asked his beta, Hugo. The latter agreed.

"I think it is. All packs Alphas and Lunas would be there."

Recalling all the humiliation he suffered, Tristan analyzed the circumstance and revealed. "But there is a problem."

Chapter 323 – Alpha, They Are Rogues

Chapter 323: Chapter 323 – Alpha, They Are Rogues

"Alpha, what problem could it be?" Beta Hugo asked. Tristan smiled bitterly, recalling all the embarrassment Scarlet caused him at the Black Fur pack.

Their ordeal lasted on the lips of those guests for a long period of time, and he was sure they had still not forgotten about it.

His beta was more concerned about the development of the pack rather than the Alpha's pride.

He never cared about how Luna Valerie would feel when betrayed, so why should Beta Hugo care how embarrassed Tristan might be at the coronation?

"All the Alphas know my story with Scarlet. How would I even qualify for any opportunity?"

"But having received an invitation from Alpha Denzel himself, won't it be worse if you turn it down? Luna Valerie might be upset with Luna Scarlet, but they are still sisters," Hugo pointed out.

Valerie was so kind to them when she was the Luna of the pack, but they all turned against her the moment Tristan brought out those unverified pictures.

"Also, your absence can make him stop other Alphas from buying from us. If that happens, then we shall have no income at all," Hugo reminded him.

The pack was now struggling financially, and any break in supplying tea to other packs would cause them to starve.

There was a lot of money, but it was also locked out of their reach.

"Okay, let me talk to Scarlet. I doubt she would want to go, and the timing is too short, but I will think about it." freewebnovel.com

Hugo thought about the situation and agreed. "Luna Scarlet has stayed indoors ever since that incident. You have a point that she would not be willing to attend."

Thinking about what they might lose if they refused to attend, Tristan accepted defeat. "Let me go talk to her."

Ever since the incident at the Black Fur pack, Scarlet and Tristan slept in separate rooms and hardly saw each other.

There were no longer funds for her beauty treatments too, leaving her hateful of herself. Scarlet sat at the corner of her bed, lost in deep thought when she heard the knock on the door.

Only the servants brought her food and came to clean her room. It was not time for either of those, so she wondered their reason for coming in again.

"What do you want?" There was no warmth in her voice when she answered the door.

There was no response, but the door was rather pushed open as Tristan stepped in. The sight of the woman on the bed, which used to interest him before, now only abhorred him.

"There is an invitation letter for Luna Valerie's coronation. We have both been invited."

Charlotte stiffened for a moment, and a tear dropped from her eyes before she remembered one thing. She took Valerie's position in their pack and lost her position in the Black Fur Pack.

Now, Valerie was going to be coronated as the Luna of the biggest pack there was. Everyone would be there. All the Alphas and Lunas. If she refused to attend, then they would think she was jealous of Valerie.

Indeed, she was, but this was equally her only chance to redeem herself. Then again, after rejecting Tristan and being rejected by Ludwig, Charlotte hoped to find her second chance mate.

"Alright. We shall attend, but when?"

She had to try some natural beauty treatments to look her best. Tristan was surprised by the way her mood brightened by the news, feeling that she had some tricks up her sleeves but could not care anymore.

She already rejected him and the pack, but since it had not been announced, he had no choice but to attend with her.

"It's in four days."

"What? I have to undergo some beauty treatments." Charlotte stood on her feet, her vigor returning.

She had to look her best in case the moon goddess blessed her with another mate. Tristan was rather disgusted.

"That is your business," he said and walked out on her.

At the Evergreen pack, everyone arrived early at training, especially when Alpha Denzel had arrived first.

Having been away for about three weeks, they were happy to see him, as his presence brought the pack the needed security.

The surprise was the new faces attending training for the first time, and they began to murmur when Valerie arrived with Ashley and Alice. Even as she had tried to come with Denzel, he told her to wait and bring Ashley along.

Valerie also needed to check on her father, resulting in Denzel making it to the training room earlier than her, though she woke up and freshened up before him.

It was also obvious that he was avoiding her, but she just had to find a way to prove to him that what happened last night would never happen again.

Burke had gone to bring Raven and Roy, but Alpha Denzel had a very important announcement to make before beginning everything.

With a lot of guests to be hosted at the pack house with visiting Alphas coming in soon, he could not bear for anything to go wrong or for information about Ashley to be sent out before the time.

That would result in Tristan and Scarlet not attending the coronation, which would ruin Denzel's plans.

With pack members having friends and loved ones in other packs, he quickly warned them.

"Everyone, no information about our pack should travel out of here until after the coronation."

Burke arrived with Raven and Roy, and somehow, one of the pack members recognized them, angered by their presence as he yelled.

"Alpha, they are rogues. What are they doing here?"

The mention of rogues caused the other pack members to stare at the twins with disdain, making them cower in fear of being sent back to the rogue community.

After all, Alpha Denzel would not sacrifice the happiness and security of his pack members for two rogues, right?

Chapter 324 - Revealing Secrets

Chapter 324: Chapter 324 - Revealing Secrets

Skol boldly stepped forward, oblivious to the fact that his words had upset his Alpha.

He was simply exposing the two rogues in case they were trying to deceive the Alpha and Beta.

However, Alpha Denzel's request caught him off guard and almost made him pee in his pants.

"Skol, please tell everyone how you became a member of this pack," Alpha Denzel said, causing Skol to look embarrassed.

He hadn't expected it to come to this. How could Alpha Denzel ask him to reveal this secret?

"Alpha, I only thought you didn't know they were rogues, but since you do, I have nothing against them."

Having let the cat out of the bag, Alpha Denzel was not ready to let him off the hook so easily.

If Skol had confided in him about Ray and Raven, he wouldn't have resulted in this means of resolving the matter, realizing that his plans had been ruined.

Alpha Denzel was embittered, never allowing born pack members to know, who the non-birth pack members were.

Due to that everyone received fair treatment with no one looking down on the other.

"I had no intention of exposing them as rogues because they never committed any crimes. Their father was kicked out of the pack for avenging his mate. But since you've made the announcement, you should also share your story."

Alpha Denzel was forced to explain the situation due to the unexpected revelation, and the warriors sympathized with Ray and Raven.

Some have equally been in that situation but the moment Skol mentioned it, they began giving Ray and Raven scornful looks.

Alpha Denzel despised hypocrites. Not everyone was born into the pack; circumstances brought them together. This raised questions about justice and how some Alphas could get away with bad deeds just because they were Alphas, which was unfair.

That was a matter left to be addressed another day among Alphas and not like this but right now, Alpha Denzel had to make the pack comfortable for each member.

Skol was filled with remorse, but it was too late. "Alpha, please spare me. I will treat them as my brother and sister."

Alpha Denzel took a deep breath and exhaled. Since someone had exposed another's secret, he couldn't allow the offender to keep enjoying the secrecy.

"I want you to tell the pack your story, and don't waste time. Training starts in twenty minutes, and you have only five minutes before I kick you out of the pack."

Skol smiled bitterly, not wanting to revisit his past. "My parents were rogues, and they attacked the East pack fifteen years ago. I was just six at the time, and my mother hid me inside a well."

Most people at the training session were shocked, but Raven and Ray felt more at ease, knowing they weren't the only rogues to join a pack.

"The rogues were winning the war until the old Alpha arrived, and everything turned against them. My parents died in the war, but Alpha Denzel heard my cries during the pack's cleanup and asked his father to bring me here. We agreed not to tell anyone about it," Skol concluded his story.

Everyone was shocked, as even the warriors who had participated in the war hadn't mentioned it.

Skol had been given a family and raised as a pack member since then. "Now tell me how you are different from them," Alpha Denzel requested, still intimidating despite his calm demeanor.

"I'm no different. I'm very sorry," Skol apologized sincerely.

"Go back to your position," Alpha Denzel finally released him before turning to the remaining warriors. "Now, does anyone have any other reason why these two should not join our pack?"

"No, Alpha," they roared in unison. Valerie was impressed, falling even more in love with her mate.

She had seen a potential problem when Ray and Raven were picked on during their first day of training, but Denzel handled it cleverly.

Not even she knew the secrets behind each pack member. There were too many for her to remember, as she hadn't been there from the beginning.

"Raven and Ray, step forward," Alpha Denzel spoke kindly.

The twins obeyed, and Alpha Denzel asked them, "Are you ready to join this pack? Remember, you will have responsibilities as well."

The twins were grateful for how they were treated, feeling undeserving of it. But with Alpha Denzel, once he took on a responsibility, he never went back on his word.

Therefore, it was his responsibility to take care of the twins.

"Yes, Alpha Denzel, we are ready to join this pack and pledge our support," Ray said, but Alpha Denzel disagreed with the response.

"You may be twins, but you can't speak for both of you."

Raven smiled in understanding and spoke first this time. "I, Raven Ada, pledge my support to the Evergreen pack, to protect it with my life, even as I enjoy the privileges of being a member."

Ray followed suit. "I, Ray Ada, pledge to support the Evergreen pack, to protect it with my life, even as I enjoy the privileges of being a member."

"Burke," Alpha Denzel called out. Burke stepped forward with a glass, and Alpha Denzel's claw elongated as he slashed his palm, allowing drops of blood to fall into the empty glass.

"You two should share."

Raven sipped from the glass before offering it to her brother. As he sipped, a shrill cry escaped Raven's throat, followed by her twin brother's.

Burke helped stabilize them as the pain subsided. Their minds were now connected through a new mind link.

"Congratulations on becoming members of the Evergreen pack," Alpha Denzel spoke to them through the mind link.

"Thank you," they both responded through the same means as Alpha Denzel addressed the warriors. "Welcome the new members to our pack."

Raven and Ray were welcomed by their fellow pack members when a mind link zapped through Alpha Denzel's mind.

"Alpha, Beta Hugo from the Yellowstone Pack is here," Alpha Denzel stiffened instantly.

Chapter 325 - Val, I hope you understand that...

Chapter 325: Chapter 325 - Val, I hope you understand that...

'Alpha, Beta Hugo from the Yellowstone Pack is here,' the warrior at the gate said. Alpha Denzel stiffened instantly, wondering if Alpha Tristan suspected something.

It was wise to not leave any clues that could make them run away or miss the function. Alpha Denzel believed in an eye for an eye, hitting where it hurts the most.

'Tell him to wait. I will send someone to come and meet him.' Alpha Denzel disconnected the mindlink and called Burke over.

Valerie had been the right person since she was the Luna, but the fact that it was her coronation made it impossible.

She could not leave the pack or walk around leisurely. After today's training, she would not have the opportunity to show her face in front of the pack until the coronation day.

These were all ways to add suspense and anticipation to the D-day.

"Go to the gate and meet Beta Hugo. Address his concerns and tell him it's rather unfortunate that no one can be allowed into the pack until the day of the coronation," Alpha Denzel said to Burke.

"Yes, Alpha," Burke smiled and responded, as the warrior's eyes glued on Valerie and Ashley.

They looked like twins, especially when Valerie had given Ashley one of her training attires.

There was just a slight difference in their skin tones, with Valerie's skin slightly lighter than Ashley's, due to the harsh life Ashley suffered at the rogue community.

Even the twins had a much darker skin tone since they were born rogues.

"Like I said, everything we talk about today remains here. That is our Luna's elder sister, Ashley Lawn. The last surprise would be in a few days, during the coronation."

That's why Alpha Denzel decided not to introduce Alpha Lawn to them yet, and he was just as excited as the people they invited for it.

Certain that none of their meeting halls would host it, their plan was to host everything in the middle of the pack, with the hope that the weather would be favorable to them.

The warriors, with excitement and anticipation, went to welcome Ashley and commented, "You look like twins."

"That's what people say," Ashley replied with a smile.

"It's time for training, and our Luna is in charge," Alpha Denzel's voice cut through their excitement.

Valerie's stunned eyes met his, but he quickly looked away, giving her the room to lead. Alpha Denzel merely took a step away when another mindlink zapped through his mind, but this time, it was from Burke.

'Alpha, he insists on seeing Luna Valerie.'

At the gate, Beta Hugo was disappointed to see Burke instead of Alpha Denzel. He wanted to see Alpha Denzel to plead with him to see Luna Valerie.

"I'm sorry, but we can't allow any visitors in the pack during the preparations for the coronation," Beta Burke spoke politely. Beta Hugo equally pleaded.

"I'm also begging you. It's very necessary."

Not wanting to create any conflict for the beta to carry home to discourage Tristan from attending, Burke thought carefully of a way.

"Tell me what the problem is, and I will know whether or not I can make the consideration."

Embarrassment flung Beta Hugo, and his face shone with disapproval. "No. I can't tell you. It's a secret."

Burke sighed. He knew that the Alpha did not want to let Beta Hugo into the pack because of Alpha Lawn and Ashley, so he quickly mindlinked Alpha Denzel.

The response was prompt. 'I'm coming over.'

With Valerie in charge of training, Alpha Denzel had nothing more to worry about and drove to the gate since it was quite far from the training center.

"Beta Hugo, to what do we owe this visit?" Alpha Denzel asked as soon as he stepped out of the car. Beta Hugo felt intimidated and took a step back.

It was clear that when one had an honest and dignified Alpha, it permeated around the pack and its members as well.

"Alpha Denzel, thank you for agreeing to see me. A snowstorm hit our pack last night, and all our products are frozen in the snow with nothing to sell."

Beta Hugo swallowed nervously before gathering the courage to continue with his request.

Alpha Tristan should have been the one to come but feared he would not be given any form of attention, and having reached this point, there was no turning back.

"Your invitation seemed rather mandatory, so our Alpha has asked if Luna Valerie would be kind enough to give us the code to the safe."

He coughed awkwardly as his gaze met that of Alpha Denzel's expressionless face.

"You know, Luna Scarlet has to look good for her elder sister's coronation. Our Alpha cannot also leave the pack in its current state for the coronation and..."

Alpha Denzel found the request annoying and rather cut in. "I can't convince her to give you access to the safe, but I can give you money to cater for your immediate needs."

Beta Hugo smiled, unaware that Alpha Denzel's only purpose was to get them to the coronation.

There would be nothing more for him to do on that day, but he had to make sure that every Alpha who saw Valerie's humiliation would also witness her honor and rise to greater fame and dignity.

"You are so kind, Alpha Denzel."

"Burke, give them some money," Alpha Denzel said and drove away. Burke did as told, and when Beta Hugo received the money, the amazement sent the message that Valerie no longer held a grudge against her sister, Scarlet.

A few hours later, training was over, and returning to the pack house, Valerie headed into the woods, dragging her elder sister along and sending fearful shivers around the latter.

She had no idea that Alpha Denzel had been spying on her, wondering what she was up to.

Ashley was equally afraid of her junior sister, as she was not at the same level of strength she was when Ashley left the pack.

Valerie had received training from the best, so Ashley would not be able to defeat her in a fight.

"Val, I hope you understand that I have nothing going on with Alpha Denzel," Ashley said, searching through her junior sister's eyes for any signs of conviction.

Chapter 326 – The Sweet Sound of Laughter

Chapter 326: Chapter 326 – The Sweet Sound of Laughter

Valerie stared at her elder sister for a long time, her eyes turning moist before she suddenly wrapped her arms around Ashley.

"I'm so sorry for everything and thank you for taking care of papa."

Stunned for a moment, a long sigh of relief escaped Ashley before she equally wrapped her arms around her sister. "Val, you scared me."

Last night was brutal, and she thought Valerie was going to continue from where she began because Alpha Denzel interfered then. It was great to know that Valerie had finally understood the situation, just as Ashley hoped for.

Alpha Denzel realized it wasn't what he thought and left his hiding spot. Valerie pulled away and stared at Ashley intently.

She trusted Ashley so much and was glad that things were not as they seemed. It would have destroyed her if things had turned out like that of the Yellow Stone Pack.

"Did you think I was going to harm you?" Valerie asked, remorseful and guilty about jumping to conclusions.

Alpha Denzel and Ashley had not hugged or been in an intimate position when she saw them, and yet, she concluded they were having an affair because he kept his meeting with Ashley from her.

"Well, you did slap me and wanted to do worse. I should thank your mate for helping me out last night," Ashley said honestly.

Though she knew Valerie's actions were due to betrayal, it was still hard to think that Valerie did not have anything against her.

Valerie held her hand and led her to a log. They both sat, and she began to explain. "I was just scared that what happened with Tristan was going to happen again, but I'm so happy to see you."

Just as expected, Ashley's thoughts were confirmed, and she was also worried for Valerie, regretting leaving them alone to pursue her personal interests.

"I'm sorry for not being there at that time, Val, but Alpha Denzel isn't someone you can doubt. I mean, he looks at no other woman, and you both mated and marked each other."

Valerie did not seem convinced and pointed out, "He met you at the club before, and your rejection of him got him upset."

Ashley smiled bitterly. Valerie was happy but was still clinging to the past. If she was unable to let the past go, how would she be able to move into the future and enjoy what it had for her?

"And he hadn't met you then," Ashley squarely pointed out as well. Valerie knew she had to let go of the chains of the past. Her coronation would be in three days, and it would be the right time for her to have a new beginning, both mentally and physically.

"You have a point," Valerie said with guilt in her eyes. The fact that she shared a striking resemblance with Ashley pinned the greatest fear in her that Denzel might just see them both as the same, but he was not that kind of person.

If not for her, his focus would have been on his pack and businesses. He gave his all to her because she was his mate.

"Val, take good care of your man and make him happy. It's not easy out there. I've experienced it all, and you don't get such men being loyal to one woman, especially when they are exposed to so many in the human world."

She paused to swallow and continued. "The Alphas based there. Do you know what they have done and are still doing?"

She could not help remembering all the threesomes she witnessed with those dons and the things they did to women before returning to their packs and playing innocent.

"Denzel has always tried his best to protect me by every means, but I sometimes feel scared because of how I trusted Tristan. The mate bond was not enough, and he fell for Scarlet, who was not even his mate," Valerie pointed out, but Ashley was upset this time and said directly to her.

"If you keep thinking about Tristan, then you won't find happiness. He is an asshole who would soon receive his punishment. The only person Alpha Denzel ever loved was his mate, and she died. I am very sure that if you were not his mate, he would not even look at you."

Valerie almost agreed except, "But he looked at you."

Ashley was lost for words. So, her kid sister felt unsecured because of that insignificant incident.

She explained it patiently to Valerie. "He had a track record of dancing with women at the club. I would have been just one of those."

Valerie remembered that Denzel had said the same. He usually danced to release himself from the stress, but everything ended there.

He never danced with the same woman twice and never had anything with them outside the club.

Nevertheless, he always paid hefty for just a dance. "I get it, but I made him upset, and I don't know how to make it up to him. At first, he used to punish me in other ways, but this time, he kept giving me the cold shoulder," Valerie confessed. Ashley stared sympathetically at her.

"Oh dear. Do you not know how to seduce your man?"

Valerie blushed. "You seem more experienced," she observed. Ashley smiled at her mated sister's innocence.

"Well, I took on a few jobs in the human world and dated a few guys, but they were all humans."

"Give me a hint," Valerie said eagerly. Ashley whispered something in her ears, and they both giggled.

Satisfied that she had a way to make it up to Denzel and had also overcome her insecurities, Valerie held out her hand to Ashley, who accepted it and also rose to her feet.

"Now let's go cook and keep papa company."

Arriving at the pack house, they were amazed to hear the sweet sound of laughter coming from inside the pack house.

It seemed strange the voices embedded in this level of laughter, as those men were usually always cold.

Chapter 327: Chapter 327 - Recalling an interesting past.

Alpha Denzel returned from training and immediately went to Alpha Lawn's room, knocking on the door.

"Dad, it's Denzel."

The door opened with Alpha Lawn dressed casually. He seemed to have woken up not long ago and had already showered.

His voice carried warmth at the sight of Denzel. Being in the pack house alone was enough to restore his energy. "Denzel, is training over yet? Where is Valerie and Ashley?"

"Training is over and Valerie is having a talk with Ashley. Dad, let's go downstairs, and I'll cook for you."

Denzel led the middle-aged man proudly away. With Alpha Lawn and Luna Fernanda in his life with Idris and Ashley, he felt like he had a family again.

Ashley and Alpha Lawn's presence was enough to bring joy to the pack house once more.

"You can cook?" Alpha Lawn asked behind Denzel, surprised that someone like him could be serviceable in the kitchen.

Denzel smirked but was not used to boasting. "I will give you a chair in the kitchen, and you can sit and watch."

Alpha Lawn did not refuse, happy that Valerie found a good man. "I love that. I haven't eaten good food for a long time because I was always in and out of a coma."

"I know, and that is why I'm making you something nice. How about Iris stew?" Denzel pulled a chair for Alpha Lawn, and after he sat, he thought about Denzel's preference, wondering if he was just bragging or could indeed man it.

"Are you serious? I never ate that since my mate died. She made the best of the best." A sad smile lined the corner of his lips as Denzel replied warmly.

"I won't compete, but I will try my best."

Alpha Lawn loved the response. Denzel was more polite than he expected. It was clear to Alpha Lawn that Denzel was treating him like he would his real father.

"I hope Val did not upset you further," he asked when Denzel was peeling the potatoes with his back facing him.

Glancing at his father-in-law, his attention returned to the meal he was cooking. "No. But I have to punish her a little," he said honestly.

Alpha Lawn understood it was the way of Alphas but wondered. "Is it the traditional..."

"No." Denzel did not allow him to finish and interrupted. "I tried that before, thinking she'd be upset, but she rather loved it. I am giving her the cold shoulder this time."

"And is it working?" The middle-aged man asked, loving the fact that Denzel was only doing this to make his relationship with Valerie better.

It would have been very embarrassing if the pack members were around that day.

"I guess."

Alpha Lawn sighed and began to recollect a few things. "That reminds me of her mother. Valerie is more of her than my two other girls. I guess that was the reason I kept being so hard on her. That woman was so tough."

Denzel loved hearing about the past and did not interfere in the narration. Though he was cooking fast, his ears were attentive to everything the middle-aged man was saying.

"Her mother was always insecure and uncomfortable even when I'm training any she-wolf in the pack."

"So, what did you do about it?" Denzel asked with interest, Alpha Lawn smiled, already inhaling the aroma of the dish he was preparing. Denzel was one of a kind, skilled at whatever he does.

"I pretended to do what she thought I was doing," Alpha Lawn revealed, Denzel turned to look at him as if he just heard the greatest joke of the century.

"No way," Denzel laughed." freewebnovel.com

Laughing in return, he continued to narrate the story. "Yes. I gave her all the clues that I was cheating like buying roses and letting her see them and yet, not giving them to her."

"And what happened?" Denzel asked curiously, as he chopped some other vegetables.

"She kept following me around, so I prepared one of the rooms romantically and decided to teach her a lesson."

Denzel's mind went to the usual paying a girl to act as a mistress. "Did you use a she-wolf to act like you were cheating?"

"No. I was afraid she might feel attracted to me and cause me problems, so I downloaded the record of female moans and began to play it," Alpha Lawn revealed, Denzel was marveled.

This man knew how to avoid trouble and still get what he wants. "No, you didn't."

Alpha Lawn nodded his head and explained further. "I did, and I also put her wig on a stick and dressed it in her clothes like they do to scare crows. You know, I made a beautiful one." Denzel laughed, imagining the whole thing play.

"Oh goddess, this scarecrow is gonna die," he laughed, Alpha Lawn's laughter blended with his.

"I tell you. So, I hid under the duvet, and she barged into the room with a dagger."

"I hope you didn't get hurt," Denzel asked, knowing Valerie would have done worse.

Alpha Lawn laughed. "I was careful but increased my moan with that of the recording. I forgot to mention that I had also decorated the said room with the very things I used to incite her jealousy. She screamed my name. Lawn, I'm going to cremate you both today. She pulled the duvet, and the wig fell off the scarecrow. You should have seen her face."

Both men were laughing so hard that the maids wondered if they inhaled a laughing gas. Alpha Denzel never remembered laughing so much in his life, and so did Alpha Lawn.

This middle-aged man was so full of tricks, and it was easy to imagine how much of his relationship he enjoyed.

Valerie was indeed just like her mother, and she happened to appear just at the right time with Ashley tailing behind her.

"Dad, Denzel, why are you two laughing so much?" Valerie asked, the two men kept quiet instantly. Knowing it was her case that triggered the conversation, both men were looking everywhere but her.

Chapter 328 - An awkward request

Chapter 328: Chapter 328 - An awkward request

"Laughter is medicine, and brunch is almost ready. What are you ladies doing? Get the table ready, will you?"

Denzel's words, though soft, were strong enough to take their minds off what was being discussed as he planned his own form of punishment.

Ashley was curious about how the change of environment affected their father, though happy looking with Denzel.

"Dad, how are you feeling today? Do you want Raven to come and check on you?" Ashley asked. The middle-aged man shook his head.

"I feel better than I ever was since the treatment. I think the environment matters in healing as well."

Ever since arriving at the Ever-green pack house and reuniting with Valerie and Denzel, his body was filled with some strange kind of energy.

Had Denzel not insisted on him not stepping out of the pack house until after the coronation, he would have insisted on joining them for training.

Even now, he used some of the indoor gym appliances earlier. "That is wonderful," Ashley said, but Valerie recalled something and suggested,

"I have to get Burke and Alice, but why don't we bring Raven and Ray to have brunch with us today? I would never have seen you again without them."

After being informed that those two rescued his father, Valerie thought of ways to show her appreciation to them and was happy with how Denzel handled the issue of their being rogues that was revealed earlier at training.

Alpha Lawn's mood instantly turned sorrowful as he recounted that unfortunate day. "Those two are angels. Raven would have never been able to carry me alone, and she happened to be there with Ray at the right time."

"Will you tell us what happened? Denzel can mindlink them to come over," Valerie said seriously, desperate to hear the full story of what exactly happened to her father.

Denzel went ahead with the mindlink as Alpha Lawn responded. "With this delicious-looking food, I would have to eat first before recalling the sorrows of the past."

The aroma was too enticing, and everyone liked a warm meal. What if the food turned cold after his narration of such an old, painful story?

Everyone laughed, but there was a tinge of sadness to it, instantly changing with the presence of the four people who arrived almost at the same time.

Raven and Ray stood at the entrance as if any step would stain the luxurious maple wood floor. Everything in the pack house was beyond words.

"Wow," Raven's lips formed an 'o' as she exclaimed. Everyone laughed once more as Alpha Denzel spoke kindly.

"Keep staring, Raven, and you would miss the only chance you might get to enjoy my cooking."

Raven thought that the house they were hosted in was the most beautiful, but now she understood the difference between a pack house and other houses in the pack.

This was beyond her expectation, and she felt unworthy to even take a step. How grateful she was to be given the opportunity to see the other side of life.

"Alpha Denzel cooked?" Alice's shocked voice was loud enough to bring Raven and Ray out of their trance.

Throughout her time of being at the packhouse, she was never opportune to see Alpha Denzel cook or even taste his food. This sounded very strange to her, with so many maids around.

Burke had equally heard before the arrival of Luna Valerie that Alpha Denzel prepares his own food but never had the opportunity to have a bite.

This seemed like a lucky day for everyone at the table with the exception of Luna Valerie, who had been privileged to enjoy Denzel's cooking.

"I heard he does cook, but I never got to taste it myself, so I'm also very interested," Burke said, as they rushed to take their seats at the table.

Raven and Ray were still looking around the dining room. The glistening chandelier hung above the dining table, the luxurious furniture, and exceptional decor were all things she was never opportune to see in her life before.

It was not just an honor to be opportune to dine at the same table as their Alpha, but he also cooked the food.

Raven and Ray were grateful for the opportunity to see what a pack had to offer and were determined to behave well to never return to the life of void they were in before.

Those who committed crimes in packs were just foolish to do so and were merely oblivious to the harsh life of a rogue out there.

Perhaps if they knew, they would not dare to offend anyone and be banished.

Valerie soon dished out the food and was glad Denzel had cooked in excess. If not, their guests would not have had enough, but the taste of the food beat their expectation.

"Wow, how can it be so good? It's so perfect, just like..." Alpha Lawn was speaking when two voices instantly cut in.

"How mom used to do it," Valerie and Ashley said together. This was the first time Denzel had prepared Iris Stew in a very long time, so it was equally the first time Valerie had a taste of his making such a dish.

It brought back so many memories, igniting mixed emotions inside of them. They tried to forget Scarlet, but it was hard when she was equally grafted in those old memories.

Still, they ensured not to mention that cursed name. This was their perfect family, and Scarlet was now an outcast. Her name was like a bitter pill to anyone who heard or mentioned it.

"If it tastes like your mom's, then it must be good," Denzel said with satisfaction, but Valerie and Ashley's eyes were moist.

There was a longing in their hearts that no one could understand. That longing drove Ashley to make a request she instantly regretted.

"Good? This is perfect. I miss my mom. Can I get a hug?" Ashley asked Denzel. Valerie stiffened when her eyes met with Denzel's.

Chapter 329: Chapter 329 - His only mistake was love

"I'm sorry. I was just overwhelmed with emotions," Ashley soon came to her senses and apologized. Then she continued to eat without another word.

It was difficult to understand why she made such a ridiculous request, but it was just because of how she felt a moment ago. Alpha Denzel brought back memories of her mother, making Ashley miss her so much. It hurt that her mother wasn't there.

The atmosphere turned awkward after that, with no one speaking anymore, but the most remarkable thing was the way everyone cleared their plates.

"Thank you, son, you really made my day," Alpha Lawn said, relieving the air of awkwardness from a moment ago. Alpha Lawn trusted Ashley, knowing she would never betray her sister, but he trusted Denzel even more, that he would also not betray Valerie.

In Denzel, he saw his young self. Not the strength but the power to love and respect the mate bond. After Alpha Lawn lost his mate, he pledged to never love another, for which reason he destroyed his chances of having a second chance mate.

After all, he already had three daughters, having no issues with whom to take over the pack. In Denzel's case, he would equally do the same if he had an heir from Valerie and had even sworn to never want another mate except her.

If Valerie died, then his reign was equally destroyed. Denzel would never love another. The only thing Alpha Lawn could not discern was if Valerie could also trust Denzel the same.

Denzel smiled not knowing what his going on in the mind of the elder and responded.

"You have no idea how much I want you to stay here with us, but we both know that isn't possible. You have to return to the Yellow Stone Pack when everything is over."

Burke and Alice cleared the table and went to wash the dishes as Alpha Lawn raised a concern.

"But they saw Ashley. Won't news go around and prevent Tristan and Scarlet from making it to the coronation?"

Denzel had already thought about that. After the cleanup in his pack involving Alpha Conrad, he was certain that no one would dare to do anything to warrant their death.

"No. I already cleaned my pack of traitors. Everybody is loyal, and I already told them that nothing about the pack should go out."

Alpha Lawn was relieved by Alpha Denzel's words as Valerie asked him. "Dad, can you tell us now about how everything happened?"

The middle-aged man smiled bitterly. "If only I had known I was being tricked."

Flashback

"Dad, I'm ready to go on your morning inspection with you," Scarlet said to her father early in the morning, looking bubbly. The middle-aged man was rather surprised.

"Since when did you begin taking interest in pack matters? I know each of your strengths and weaknesses and would never force you into what you aren't capable of," Alpha Lawn spoke to his youngest daughter affectionately.

Scarlet's smile refused to fade as she hooked her arm to her father's, ensuring that Valerie does not see them together.

"Dad, I might not be strong like Val and Ashley, but there are still things I could learn from you."

Alpha Lawn frowned and chastised her. "Did I not tell you to not mention Ashley's name again? She put her personal desires above the pack and is not worthy of it."

Scarlet looked away and smiled. When she faced her father, her face was rather filled with concern. The contrast was spellbinding.

"I understand, dad, let's go before the sunrise. I will come back to help Valerie with the office matters."

Alpha Lawn felt that his younger daughter was suddenly becoming responsible and could not help being proud of her.

"I'm glad that you are becoming responsible."

When they reached the car, Scarlet suggested. "Dad, I might come back earlier to help Valerie, so I would rather use my car and you go with the warriors."

Thinking that her daughter was merely being thoughtful, Alpha Lawn agreed and left with two warriors. Driving out of the pack and checking the exteriors, Alpha Nick stepped out of the car to walk deeper as usual, when one of the warriors, Sun, hit him on the head with a stick.

Unknown to him, they had been in cahoots with Scarlet. Alpha Lawn's eyes blurred, as he was weakened by the betrayal. This was his own warriors whom he trained and having an Alpha wolf, his healing was fast, and he punched Sun, sending him into a state of unconsciousness.

But just as his fingers elongated to end his life, the second warrior, Dairus, equally hit him in the same spot on the head, sending him into a state of unconsciousness.

Before everything turned dark, he saw Scarlet walking through the bushes towards him and felt that she would be endangered.

"Scarlet, go back," he said with his last breath before everything went dark. Due to his wolf trying to heal him, he could still hear the voices in his unconscious state.

"I think he's dead. We hit in a delicate spot, so he won't be able to survive," Dairus said, but Scarlet did not believe it because her father had just spoken before losing consciousness.

"He just spoke to me. How can you call him dead?"

Her father was shocked, realizing that she was behind it all. His wolf was doing a good job in trying to heal him, but he knew that to survive, he had to feign being dead like the warriors were thinking.

"Those were his last words. He's not breathing, and we can't feel a pulse," Sun, who had just regained consciousness did not check when he woke up to see their unconscious Alpha on the floor but Scarlet was still unconvinced.

"He must have had internal bleeding, but I still doubt that he's dead. Give me a dagger."

Sun was slightly reluctant, wondering if Scarlet wanted to hurt him. "What for? You aren't going to kill us, are you?"

"How could you think that? My father and Valerie are stumbling blocks, you are not."

Satisfied with the response, Sun passed a dagger to her. Alpha Lawn was heartbroken by his youngest daughter's words, weakening him to the core and breaking his fragile heart.

The same heart was pierced by the sharp dagger in Scarlet's hand. His eyes opened to stare his youngest daughter in the eyes.

His eyes, though looking betrayed, were still filled with love. "Why, Scarlet? Aside from loving you, I never offended you in any way."

Guilt dulled Scarlet's eyes, and she escaped from the scene. By the time Alpha Lawn woke up, weeks later, he was in a strange place, permeating a strange smell, and being offered some green concoction to drink.

"That is what happened." A tear dropped from his eyes as he pointed at Raven.
"She was the first person I saw after waking up.

Every eye was teary after the narration as Burke and Alice had joined after washing the dishes. Valerie asked in a teary voice. "Raven, did you see anything?"

Chapter 330 - When I Get My Pack Back

Chapter 330: Chapter 330 - When I Get My Pack Back

"I was hunting for game with my brother when we heard footsteps."

Flashback.

"Are you sure we'll get anything today? I'm already hungry," Raven complained after not having a meal the previous day.

Sometimes hunting was good, but other times it wasn't. About to take another step, her brother held her back.

"We are close to the borders of the Yellowstone pack. Be careful, lest we are mistaken for trespassing and vehemently get killed."

They would not have come this far if their expedition was fruitful.

"Then let's lay flat until we detect the movement of any animal," Raven suggested. That position helped a lot in case they were being spotted by a wild animal.

They could easily play dead to escape those carnivorous animals, and having been taught survival skills by their parents, they only communicated with their eyes and heads in the bushes, hoping that Alpha Lawn's warriors would not see them.

"Shhhhhh," Ray placed his forefinger on his lips when he heard voices, as he planned for them to crawl to a distance before getting on their feet and running away, except that the conversation took a rather interesting turn.

Raven was the first to spot Alpha Lawn on the floor, covering her mouth to prevent any sound from escaping.

"Let's help him," Raven whispered when they heard footsteps fading away. It was clear that the Alpha had been betrayed by his own pack members, but these two were not capable of winning any fight against those warriors.

"Get rid of the body or bring it as proof that he was attacked by wild animals," they heard a female voice say, halting their movements.

"It means he's dead. Let's get out of here before the good warriors pin this on us," Ray said, but Raven was reluctant, looking at the cliff on which the lifeless body lay.

"I don't think he's dead. Dad said Alpha wolves are not killed easily unless beheaded, their throat torn, or their heart removed."

"But he was stabbed in the heart and is bleeding too much," Ray countered, afraid of the worst.

If they were caught, how could they defend themselves? They were all their parents had. "He won't survive it. Besides, we don't have a hospital," Ray reminded Raven, seeing how determined she was.

"Please, it's my gut feeling that he'll live. Alpha wolves are strong. Let's go a little far away, and I will get some herbs to stop his bleeding."

Ray gave in. "If you insist, then I will carry him on my back." The two left with the Alpha on Ray's back before harsh footsteps were heard.

"He was here, where did he go?"

"With his injury, he can't escape. Maybe a wild animal took him away."

"We don't know that for sure, so what do we tell Tristan?"

"That we cremated him or a wild animal ate him."

"Cremation is better," Raven and Ray heard, as they moved further and further away without hearing any more.

Not having eaten the previous night, Ray toppled over a few times, and the back of his shirt was soaked in blood.

"Rav, I'm getting tired. Did you forget we haven't eaten throughout yesterday?" Ray was panting due to the weight on his back, and his body was just too weak.

Raven was worried as they had not even gotten close to their community yet. "Wait here, let me get the herbs to stop the bleeding."

Ray watched out for wild animals and people. They had to hide along the way until the bleeding stopped.

"It won't be safe for you to carry him on your back anymore. I will hold his legs."

That was how they reached the rogue community, exhausted, and famished.

End of Flashback.

"That is how we got him to the rogue community," Raven concluded. Everyone was saddened. The only reason why Scarlet succeeded was that she was loved by her father.

It was just the same trick used on Valerie. If not for Alpha Denzel, she would have also been executed there and then after being battered and humiliated in front of the pack.

Everyone wanted to know the kind of judgment to befall her, and though Tristan was equally behind it, it was not yet known.

"And how were you able to convince them to accept him?" Valerie asked, her heart filled with gratitude for her father's saviors. Denzel had proposed taking them into the omega community.

"My dad did not rest. He assured them that Alpha Lawn was a very good Alpha, but no one should spread any rumor that he was alive, lest his assailants come to finish him off. It was during the times he went in and out of consciousness that he told us who was behind it," Raven recalled.

"Since then, my father went to look for food for us with Ray, allowing me time to take care of Alpha Lawn. No packs hired our community for any attacks, so things were quite difficult, and due to how expensive some herbs were, the treatment was delayed until Ashley found us."

Alpha Denzel made a mental note on how to help the rogue king and his family for taking care of his father-in-law.

"When she exhausted her savings, she helped with farms here and there with Ray to either get food or money to support us. Her coming was a blessing. So, that was how we were surviving until Alpha Denzel found us. Then money was no longer a problem, even when we were robbed a few times."

Raven was not intrigued with a reward. The chats she had with Ashley explaining her life with the pack and all piqued her interest. Now, she was glad her dream of being a member of a pack had been fulfilled.

Valerie was saddened that her father and sister had to go through all this, including burdening Raven's family without informing her.

"Ashley, why didn't you contact me?" Valerie asked worriedly. She had missed Ashley so much, but they lost touch, and she promised to call when she reached the pack.

"Dad said to not let you know, but everything is well catered for now. No need to worry." Ashley escaped the details.

"Raven and Ray, when I get my pack back, you two would come with me," Alpha Lawn said. Valerie and Denzel exchanged glances as Denzel made a surprising suggestion.

"Excuse me, everyone. Val, please come with me," Alpha Denzel said.

There were things he needed to discuss with Valerie, even though he knew she would readily agree to them.

They went a little away, speaking in hushed tones before Denzel returned with Valerie and revealed.

"If it's okay with you, Alpha Lawn, we can merge our packs. Not in the form of having the same Alpha but in terms of support. Cross-travel and mating within the packs would be without permission. After all, we are one big family."

Alpha Lawn was stunned but revealed more. "Also, you would have our support in rebuilding your pack in terms of trade and commerce."

He knew that with Alpha Lawn's return, Valerie would want to visit her pack and might even spend days there if she wanted.

As such, he had to make it comfortable for her. At the moment, he was focusing on the future, though they had immediate issues to resolve with her.

Alpha Lawn did not want to take advantage of Alpha Denzel's kindness. His protection of Valerie was enough for him, and now that he was back, he could put things in perspective.

"Our pack is not as strong and wealthy as yours. I also heard that due to poor management, things are going really bad."

Denzel smiled, not understanding the reason why his father-in-law was being too courteous.

"I know the state of the pack, but I refused to help because Valerie did not ask me. Also, they all turned against her when Tristan betrayed her, so they deserve to suffer."

Alpha Lawn understood Denzel's point, but for as long as he planned to take over his pack, he had to equally make the life of the pack members comfortable.

"I agree, but they are lucky that I'm back. For as long as I'm there, I can't allow them to continue suffering. Also, the financial standing is very low."

That's why he did not want to be leeching off the hard work of the Evergreen pack.

Valerie smiled and revealed to her father's stun. "There is a lot of money in the safe, Dad. I just refused to give them the passcode. Once everything is over, I will give it to you and Ashley."

The middle-aged man rubbed Valerie's shoulder from where he sat, and she leaned in, hugging her father fully, though in a sitting position.

"Val, you are indeed a treasure."

Alpha Lawn was prepared to start over, but who knew that things were better than he thought?

He could not help being proud of how Valerie had survived as well as saved up the pack's finances. If that had not been done, Tristan and Charlotte would have both squandered it all.

The news was so sweet to Alpha Lawn; it immediately enhanced his handsome features, that had been hidden due to the trauma and harsh life he went through at the rogue community.

"It's late," Denzel checked his wristwatch and spoke. They had spoken for so long, no one realized that time had elapsed.

"Burke, come to think of it, these two would not be among the omegas. They are already promoted to the rank of a full pack member," Alpha Denzel said, referring to Raven and Ray.

Burke agreed after having listened to their story, but Raven felt undeserving of it. Whatever she did was purely from her heart.

"Alpha Denzel, isn't it too much? You already gave us a very good place to stay."

Denzel smiled and replied with gratitude. "Don't worry. If not for you two, how would I have had my father-in-law here? You deserve the best, and as for your parents..."

Alpha Denzel wanted to bring them to the pack, but Alpha Lawn felt he already did so much and did not want to burden him anymore, taking the words out of his mouth. frēewebnovel.com

"Don't worry about them. I already planned to take them in, but you have to help me with getting them out of that community when the time is right."

Valerie frowned slightly at the request, feeling as if she had forgotten something. "What do you mean by helping you to get them out? Do they need special permission?"

"Val, the rogues were insisting that we take them all with us. It was not easy to get your father out," Denzel said. Valerie remembered the time her father introduced Raven and Ray, saying,

"I think my father explained that before."

"Yes, he did, and I think everybody is tired. Alphas would be arriving in the next two days, and Val, you don't get to attend training tomorrow." He wanted her to hide from the pack for a while, and a superb entry, but Valerie was insistent.

"I have to. Please let tomorrow be the last for me. Raven and Ray, if you need anything, please don't hesitate. We owe you both a lot," Valerie said softly. Raven's eyes were moist, feeling undeserving of all the praises showered on them.

"Thank you, Luna Valerie, but as we said, you have given us more than we deserve."

Alpha gave the order for everything needed to make them full pack members to be given to them.

It was good he did not announce his previous decision of hosting them in the omega's community, as knowing the full story changed everything.

"Oh, Burke, get them phones tomorrow and put them on a monthly salary."

"Yes, Alpha," Burke replied with a smile. Every good done to the likes of Alpha Denzel never went to waste.

It felt like an honor, having the two people who saved the Luna's father in their midst. Valerie added.

"We shall constantly invite you to have dinner with us. If not for most of the rooms being for guests, we would have taken you into the pack house, so feel free to come whenever you want."

Ray and Raven were overwhelmed with joy, but the only people missing were their parents. However, since Alpha Lawn promised to bring them in later, they just had to wait patiently.

Later that night, Valerie used her greatest learned skills to seduce her mate, hoping to get things back to the way they were, but Alpha Denzel equally had a score to settle with her.

Chapter 332 - Sleep

Chapter 332: Chapter 332 - Sleep

Valerie had gone ahead to shower due to what Alpha Denzel did last night. Certain that he would not let them shower together because he was still upset, she had hers first to buy herself enough time to prepare.

By the time Denzel came out of the shower with just a towel around his waist, desire glistened in his eyes when he saw Valerie in the red lingerie and knew she was purposely trying to seduce him.

Swallowing tightly, Denzel went to the closet to put on his pajamas, but Valerie playfully pulled away the towel around his waist, and dropped it on the floor.

Denzel stiffened. When it came to Valerie, Denzel would always feel weak, especially during times like this when he did not want to get intimate with her.

"What do you think you are doing?" He sounded aloof, trying his best to not let his libido spiral out of control.

Valerie's fingers caressed his chest, and he feared losing control but continued to take his stand against her temptations.

She tiptoed and pecked him on the lips. "I want you to make love to me, or I would make love to you. Either way, we are going to make love tonight."

frëewebnøvel.com

It was a command he could not refuse, but Denzel did not want to use sex to solve his problems again.

"I'm not in the mood," Denzel said, about to walk past her when Valerie went on her knees and took his phallus in her mouth. She kept her eyes glued to his the whole time, trying to catch his reactions, which he was hiding so well except that his phallus kept hardening in her mouth.

Excitement rushed through his blood vessels, making him curse loudly. "Fuck, how could you do this?" He totally lost control when he was trying so hard not to.

"Just shut up and enjoy, my love," Valerie paused and said, looking even more seductive by the way she said it.

"Mmmm," Denzel groaned as his length continued to enlarge in her mouth.

Unable to hold it any longer, he lifted her from the floor, pressed her against the wall, and thrust into her. Valerie's body shivered from the passion stimulated through her body from how hot he looked when turned on.

The force he used and the way he continued to swell inside her, she wrapped her legs and arms safely around him.

He was so hard, and so were his thrusts. Valerie equally responded to them with vigorous eagerness as their lips met, his thrusts harder, stimulating multiple releases from her at once.

By the time Alpha Denzel came wildly, they were both panting, as he warned her seriously. "Don't do that again."

Valerie was not upset, having gotten what she wanted. "Why? Didn't you enjoy it?" She said teasingly, picking the towel on the floor and wrapping it around his waist.

"It's not about that," Denzel went to get his pajamas and began to put them on, but Valerie's expression was rather serious at this moment.

It seemed that something was indeed wrong that she had no knowledge of. "Then what is it? You are going to give me the cold shoulder a few days before my coronation?" She was not liking this.

The fact that the intense lovemaking was not enough to solve their problems, but Denzel began to explain it to her.

"Val, we should not solve our problems with sex. What if we have problems at a time we can't have sex? Then what happens?"

Valerie was upset and began hitting his chest hard, but he stood there, unshaken like a rock. "You said you've forgiven me, but it doesn't show in your actions."

Denzel held her two hands and pulled her to his chest. "That's because you keep saying that you trust me when your actions speak differently," he said seriously, Valerie saw the pain in his eyes, and remorse filled her heart.

"So how can I make it up to you? This cold shoulder is really hurting me," she choked on her last words, and Denzel felt pained but remained unmoved.

It was necessary for him to totally win her trust. "If you trust me, then prove it. Don't judge me by what Tristan did to you."

Valerie rested her head on his chest. She knew how hurt he was every time she felt insecure but found it hard to keep her words the moment little triggers popped up.

This time, she wanted it to be different between them. "I have learned my lesson, and I promise that this time, things would be different."

Denzel wanted so much to have her trust and was willing to believe her again. "Are you sure?" His arms wrapped around her as he asked, Valerie was certain that this time, nothing would make her insecure.

After all Denzel had done for her, there was no way he would dare to cheat on her or put anyone else before her.

"You will see. I've really changed," he said with certainty, and somehow, Denzel was moved to test her. After her coronation, he knew that the demand for her would be even higher when they find out the kind of wolf she has.

"Be careful with your words, Val," his tone was stern but filled with warmth.

Valerie felt helpless and vowed. "Denzel, I promise that I have changed, and I hope you could also trust me the same."

"You know that I do," Denzel said seriously, Valerie smiled. It was up to her to equally keep to her words.

Denzel was determined to test her trust in him during training the next day, saying, "Alright. We shall see, and it's good you decided to show up for training tomorrow," he kissed her on the forehead, but Valerie knew there was so much hidden in his words.

"What do you mean by that?"

Denzel smiled but did not respond. It would be best if he left no hints. "Sleep."

By the time Valerie woke up the next morning, everything was quiet. Denzel was not by her side. Remembering she had promised to join training, she quickly freshened up and ran out of the pack house to the training ground.

Upon reaching there, she froze when she saw who Denzel was training with.

Chapter 333 - Learning to trust the hard way.

Chapter 333: Chapter 333 - Learning to trust the hard way.

"Val, you are here. Why not take over? I have something to show Ashley," Alpha Denzel said gently, joining his hand with Ashley's as he dragged her away. Valerie was stunned.

Denzel and Ashley were leading training together when she arrived, and though Denzel had promised not to smile at any woman, he smiled at Ashley. Right now, he held her hand and pulled her away.

This was unlike him, as the first time she suspected them, there was not any kind of bodily contact.

By the time Valerie awakened from her trance, they were nowhere in sight. Something strong inside her wanted her to follow them, but she decided to follow the advice of her wolf and not do so.

'I don't sense that our mate is cheating on us. Let him be.'

She suddenly recalled last night. Denzel was trustworthy and never did anything to warrant her distrust. It was the same with Ashley. They both loved her and not the likes of Scarlet.

Also, if they were really up to something, then they would not do so publicly. Tristan and Scarlet never did anything to hint that they were even acquainted when they betrayed her.

"Everybody, gather around. We are changing the training routine for today," Valerie announced as all the warriors gathered around her.

Denzel might not be there, but she still had Burke, Gandolf, and Dorothy. She wanted to use this opportunity to spot out leaders among the bunch.

"Experienced warriors are going to help the amateurs today. If you have any areas of weakness, call for help from any of the experienced warriors and myself, Burke, Gandolf, and Dorothy would observe and see if you are doing it correctly.

She looked around for the twins who rescued her father, determined to train them to be among the best.

"Ray, Raven, don't hesitate to ask questions. And you, Alice, over here, we train for battle so whatever you do, imagine if the enemy was right in front of you."

To her utmost surprise, the warriors began gossiping. "Luna doesn't mind that her sister is flirting with the Alpha. I trust our Alpha, but can our Luna's sister be trusted?"

"The Luna does not seem to care. Maybe it isn't what you think," another warrior retorted, a third voice spoke.

"I love our Luna. Maybe we should warn her."

Valerie heard what they were saying but did not take it to heart. Last night, she promised Denzel that she was going to trust him, so if she was going to be a fool for love one more time, then she would do so, as Denzel was deserving of it.

The warriors were surprised that she did not chastise, encourage, or stop them from spreading rumors, be it false or true. Everyone began doing their bidding, as one of the female warriors could not stand it anymore and approached her.

"Luna, don't you think you should check on the Alpha? He left with your sister, but after what Scarlet did, I won't trust anyone if I were you."

Due to the level of care permeating from the voice of the warrior, Valerie was not rude to her. "There's no need to be suspicious. You should all focus."

Another female warrior added her voice, seeming afraid of losing their Luna to betrayal once more.

"Luna, we don't want history to repeat itself. Your sister is clingy to our Alpha. We don't like her."

Valerie was getting annoyed, and her voice grew stern. "Ashley is nothing like Scarlet. You are reading her actions wrongly, and Denzel is not someone who can easily be swayed."

Shame covered the faces of the warriors inciting her to cause trouble, but Valerie continued training as if those warriors had not appeared to persuade her to cause trouble.

However, Burke was concerned and approached her midway. "Luna, this is not my business, but Alpha and your sister left for quite a long time. Can you go check on them?"

His expression was unreadable as Valerie stared at him. As the beta, she was quite disappointed to hear this from him. freewebnovel.com

It was as if he did not know his Alpha. "Burke, Denzel is not a baby. Besides, I'm the Luna with an Alpha wolf. Unless he wants to be kicked out of his own pack, he would not dare to cause me any embarrassment."

Burke stiffened slightly before a faint smile stretched his lips. Valerie's discovery of knowing who she was must be the last piece of the puzzle, and he was certain that nothing or no one was capable of intimidating her.

Unknown to Valerie, everything said was being recorded by Burke as he smiled faintly and sent the recording to Alpha Denzel.

No one dared to speak about Alpha Denzel and Ashley or incite Valerie to cause trouble anymore.

When training was over, Denzel and Ashley had still not returned, but Valerie was least disturbed. The responses she gave to everyone who tried to remind her about Denzel and Ashley improved her level of trust for them.

Valerie invited Raven and Ray over to the pack house again. Raven sat on a kitchen stool, learning from Valerie as they hardly cooked a good meal at the rogue community.

Alice was helping Valerie as Burke used Ray's help to supervise the maids in organizing the rooms for the guests.

From tomorrow, the pack was going to be very busy with all the preparations as the things ordered would begin to arrive.

Valerie went to get her father when food was ready, and as she descended the stairs with her dad, Ashley entered with Denzel. Both of them were still holding hands as they walked around and sat next to each other at the dining table.

Alpha Lawn had a panicked and disdainful look in her eyes as he saw Denzel with Ashley.

Unable to hide his displeasure, he spoke audibly. "Val, I don't like what I'm seeing. You have every right to be upset," the old Alpha said, as he stared intensely at Valerie, inciting her to speak up.

Chapter 334 - I Want to Make Your Sister Jealous

Chapter 334: Chapter 334 - I Want to Make Your Sister Jealous

Earlier, Denzel woke up early and went to Ashley's room. He had not slept peacefully, as he feared Valerie's insecurities becoming a big problem in their future relationship.

Denzel wanted this little weasel cleared before the coronation and had no choice but to seek Ashley's help.

"I need a favor," he said in a hushed tone to Ashley at the entrance of her door.

Ashley had already dressed up for training and was just waiting for Valerie to wake up so they could go together, not expecting to see Alpha Denzel.

She was rather confused as to what favor he was talking about. "What about?"

"I want to make your sister jealous," Denzel said directly. Ashley hesitated. "Why me? You can use any girl in the pack."

Denzel shook his head and explained seriously. "That would not work. She is more powerful than any she-wolf here and could easily intimidate them, aside from the fact that she knows I'm attracted to only her."

"With you, she has a special concern because of our first meeting in Vegas, so what do you say? I can pay if you don't mind." freewebnovel.com

"You don't have to pay. I just have to know why you want to make her jealous. If your reason is worthwhile, trust me, I will consider it," Ashley curtly responded.

All she wanted was Valerie's happiness after all she had been through, so until she was sure this was for Valerie's good, she would not dare to oblige.

"She said last night that she trusts me. I just want to ensure that she meant her words and not create another drama the moment she sees anything suspicious."

Ashley sighed. If this was to strengthen their relationship, then she was willing to do it. "So, what is the plan?"

"You just have to flirt with me during training and do as I tell you."

There was nothing fishy about the deal, so Ashley agreed. "I was waiting to attend training with her, but I guess the plan would have to change now."

The two left for training together, and strangely, Valerie was late. Ashley was beginning to think that she might not come and asked Denzel. "Are you sure she'll come?"

"She won't miss it." There was certainty in Denzel's voice, knowing that Valerie would not miss her training for anything in the world if she promised to be there.

It was not long before Valerie arrived, as Denzel said a few things to Burke before she reached the training ground.

Denzel held Ashley's hand and said they were going to check something, leaving the rest to Burke.

The latter caused one of the warriors to incite the others when training was ongoing, sending the recording to Denzel.

Denzel roamed the developments at the omegas' community with Ashley, and as soon as they were done, they headed back to the pack house after listening to the recording from Burke.

"She has passed the test. Should we stop?" Ashley asked. Denzel thought for a while and replied.

"Let's keep it up for tonight and see her reaction. If she really passes this test, then I would be most certain that nothing would ever come between us ever again."

At the entrance, they joined their hands together and walked in, the same time Valerie was descending the stairs with her father.

The aroma of the dishes wafted through their nostrils, and Denzel knew it was Valerie's cooking.

If she indeed cooked for him, then it meant that she was not upset, which seemed like good progress.

His Luna with an Alpha wolf was improving on her insecurities after all. "Val, sorry I couldn't help. Denzel took me round the omegas community," Ashley apologized when she reached the entrance but did not disentangle her hand from that of Denzel.

Valerie did not have any hard feelings but could not help Ashley's addressing Denzel without a title. Since when did Denzel give her that privilege? Or were they so close?

Valerie wanted to know and asked directly. "Are you calling him by his first name now?"

Ashley smiled awkwardly. Denzel had indeed not given her permission to do that but only did so as part of the game.

"Come on Val, isn't he my brother-in-law? He insisted that I call him by his first name," she lied.

Valerie stared at Denzel and seeing no disapproval in his eyes, she forced a smile.

"Sure, you have the right. Food is ready, let's go and eat," Valerie walked slowly with her father as she spoke.

"Okay," Ashley said and walked with Denzel to the dining table, as they sat together.

Alpha Lawn, upon remembering their discussion last night, guessed that Denzel was trying to kill the insecurity in Valerie, thereby deciding to worsen matters.

"Val, I don't like what I'm seeing. You have every right to be upset," the old Alpha said, as he stared intently at Valerie, inciting her to speak up.

A breeze of awkward silence permeated the air before Valerie shook her head, stunning everyone with her response.

"Dad, you are overthinking it. Denzel sees Ashley as his sister Alessia. He can never have feelings for her."

Denzel took Valerie's father as his own, so it was the same with her sister, Ashley. Valerie convinced herself that Denzel did not see Ashley in that way.

When Denzel heard her words, his heart warmed greatly. It seemed they had finally reached the level of trust.

"You mean you aren't jealous?" Denzel asked her. Valerie shrugged.

"Why should I be? Ashley embarrassed you at the club, and you love me. There can't be anything between you two."

Denzel was in a daze, loving her more, as she helped her father to the chair and began dishing out the food when everyone settled down.

"Thanks for trusting me, Val. I was just trying to test you, and you passed. Ashley will keep you company tomorrow. You guys can undertake the most expensive beauty treatments," Denzel said.

Everyone could see the satisfied look on his face when he happily ate his food, but this night, it was his turn to have a surprise for Valerie...

Chapter 335: Chapter 335 - I just want to celebrate my mate

"I will retire to bed first. Ashley, can you tell Val about all we did today? I'll need an hour," Denzel said with a wink.

It took time for Ashley to process and understand Alpha Denzel's words, which was after Valerie stood up to follow him.

"I'm coming with you."

She was thinking that Denzel would go to bed early and did not want to hang out with her sister this evening. It was a fact that family mattered but Valerie longed for her mate in the night.

Denzel could not tell her why he did not want her to come with him, rather giving Ashley a look, she stared at her sister and said,

"I've been wondering where Ray and Raven are living. Can we go see together? Please don't say no. We haven't talked much today."

Using Ray and Raven, Valerie did not refuse since Alice was doing the dishes and Burke was busy with preparations for the coronation.

Calls were still being made to ensure that the people contracted to put the venue of the event together were cooperating and well informed.

Ashley kept Valerie away until she received a text message from Denzel. You can bring her back.'

Rav and Raven's excitement had done so much in keeping Valerie there, as their happiness made her happy.

By the time they returned, everyone had gone to bed so Ashley went to her room and so did Valerie.

Everything was dark when Valerie opened the door, met with the sweet scent of different oils but before she switched on the light, she was lifted into strong arms.

It was refreshing for the romance to return into their relationship but Valerie wanted to know what Denzel had in his sleeves. freewebnovel.com

"Denzel, what are you doing?" Her voice was soft as she stared desirously at him. He rebuked her last night but tonight was completely different.

"You'll see."

A chuckle escaped him as he lifted her gently to the shower room and dropped her gently in the bathtub, before returning to the bedroom since he already had his shower.

By the time Valerie was done, thinking Denzel would be sleeping, he was awake to her amazement and the lights were on, only dimmed.

Valerie was covered in a towel robe and everything she saw was amazing, she understood where the sweet scent came from, especially after seeing the massage bed, scented candles, and rose petals.

It was clear that Denzel had taken the pain to do everything himself without involving anyone and Valerie felt giddy for his taking time out to do this after a hectic day.

"What's going on?" She asked curiously, Denzel smiled and walked to her, clad in just his boxer shorts. He already showered, taking the scent of their shampoo.

He kissed her exposed neck from the back, his hands slipping into her towel robe, as he gently removed it.

His hot breath fanned her ears, reddening them and making her shiver from the excited jolts it sent spiraling through her body.

"I just want to celebrate my mate." His voice was intoxicatingly desirous but he had no intention to have sex with her.

All he wanted was to make her relax and sleep well like she deserved.

Lifting her in his arms once again, he dropped her gently on the massage table, as she turned her back to him, asking curiously.

"Do you know how to perform a massage?"

Denzel chuckled. "What is the use of a question when we can find an answer to by experimenting it right here?"

It was amazing to have Alpha Denzel back to his old self, even better than he was before. Valerie pointed out. "You have changed suddenly."

"That's because you passed the test. Now that we trust each other completely, nothing can come between us."

A smile blossomed on Valerie's face as she felt the lukewarm liquid on her back, followed by a firm palm, as it began to move around her back, the scent of the oil consuming her.

Denzel's fingers were like that of professionals, as he gave her the massage of her life, leaving her wanting more of him than just the massage he was giving her.

"It's good and relaxing Denzel, thank you very much."

"You earned it so this is my reward," Denzel said softly, massaging her thighs and calf.

"What if I want more?" Valerie said in deep pants, turning to face him. She took his hand and kissed the back of it.

"I will do anything for you, my love," Denzel encouraged her, ready to do what ever it took to make her happy.

"Then make love to me," she demanded. It was not in the plan but he had no reason to refuse her.

"I did not intend to do that today but since you asked, I won't refuse."

When Denzel finished with the massage, he carried her to the bed and this was the first time he made love to her so gently like something fragile.

It felt different and so good, Valerie never asked him to go hard or wild. They each expressed their love without a rush to satisfy their libido.

The delay, only made it better, bonding them deeper, and opening the door to the next phase of their lives."

Valerie had the best sleep of her life, waking up at almost noon, as she began her beauty treatments with natural oils with Ashley.

By the time they were done, Alice had prepared dinner for everybody but that night, Denzel was busy on patrol, trying to put in all security measures for the coronation.

Another day passed and the professional organizers of the event arrived to put the venue in order. Valerie and her family made themselves scarce, relying on Alice and the maids to attend to them.

A day before the coronation, Alpha Denzel was woken up from his sleep by a mindlink. 'Alpha, the Alphas are arriving for the coronation.'

Alpha Denzel quickly asked through mindlink. 'Which Alphas have arrived?'

Chapter 336: Chapter 336 - It's called beauty rest.

Alpha Denzel was surprised that Alphas were arriving so early in the morning.

Usually, the packs far away would set off around this time or later and arrive in the evening, or some even late at night.

Others would arrive in the morning, which was why the event was scheduled for mid-morning.

The mindlink from the warrior at the gate clarified everything. freewebnovel.com

'It's Alpha Idris, Alpha Troy, Luna Adira, Luna Fernanda, and the Alpha King Spartan.'

Denzel quickly got off the bed after pecking Valerie on the cheek.

He had to receive them himself, as their presence meant support.

These were his most trusted allies, and he was amazed by their early morning surprise.

It warmed his heart that they drove through the night to arrive in the morning to give them all the necessary support.

He quickly replied to the mindlink. 'Let them in.'

There was no training today due to the coronation tomorrow, and looking at Valerie, Alpha Denzel smiled.

Tomorrow, she would be privy to the mind link, and any power hidden in her would also show forth. Those lakeside rogues have not seen anything yet.

The pack house was always neat, but it was obvious it had been cleaned again. The rooms had equally been prepared, and there were maids in waiting. Alice was helping Burke in every way she could with the arrangements of the pack house, as the professional organizers were handling the pack decorations. Pack members were preparing their attires for the coronation, so practically everyone was busy, including the catering companies in and around the pack. No one would have time to cook, so arrangements were being made with all the top chefs there were.

Aside from Alpha Denzel's coronation, which he was gloomy all through because he had not found his mate, this was the biggest the Evergreen pack and any other pack would ever witness. Alpha Denzel put on casual clothes and went to receive his guests.

"Alpha Denzel," Idris said and greeted with the fist as Adira bowed slightly in greetings, same as Alpha Troy. Luna Fernanda hugged Denzel tightly, exuding the warmth of a mother. "I'm so proud of you," she said in a teary voice. "Wherever my sister is, I know she would also be very proud of you." Denzel was emotional and hugged her tighter too. It felt good to not hide their relationship, and Luna Fernanda was going to be the only mother figure in the pack for both Denzel and Valerie. "I'm so glad you came."

"I wouldn't miss it for anything." When they finally broke from the hug, Denzel looked at all of them with gratitude. "Thank you all for coming so early. You are the people I need most at this moment, and thank you, Alpha Idris and Troy, for having my back when I was away."

"Any time, Denzel," Idris responded with a smile. He looked more responsible and even changed his hairstyle. His hair was also changed from the platinum blonde to its original jet black color.

"Alpha King, I was honestly expecting you in the evening," Alpha Denzel said to the middle-aged man. Also, their coming without any bodyguards showed the level of trust they had for Denzel.

"Well, I began clearing my desk as soon as I received the invitation, so here I am," the Alpha King Spartan shook his hand as he spoke.

"Let's go in. I would have the maids prepare a quick breakfast for us while we talk," Denzel said, knowing he never liked food prepared by others.

Luna Fernanda could not allow him to compromise because of the event.

The maids already wheeled their luggage to their rooms. "Denzel, get someone to help me in the kitchen. I will make breakfast for everybody."

Denzel smiled, not refusing her kindness. He would have starved until he had time to cook if not for her. "Where is Luna Valerie?" Adira asked, and Alpha Denzel smiled a little.

"Still sleeping."

"That's right. She needs all the rest. It's called beauty sleep in case you don't know," Luna Fernanda said.

Denzel chuckled. He knew those few things. Adira was anxious to see Valerie but had no choice but to wait.

"Okay. I will help Luna Fernanda in the kitchen until she wakes up."

"Before then, I want us all to have this talk," Alpha Denzel requested. Alpha Denzel took them to the large luxurious living room and temporarily discharged the maids from their duties.

"You all should excuse us for a moment."

As soon as they left, Alpha Denzel explained everything to them pertaining to Alpha Lawn and Ashley.

"This is good news, but Tristan and Scarlet would have to pay," Spartan said, everyone else agreed, but Adira was still in shock.

"You mean that Ashley is here? Can I see her?" She could not believe it and wanted to see Ashley with her two eyes, having heard that she looked a lot like Valerie.

"I will introduce you. The two of you can help Valerie with the preparations for her coronation," Denzel said.

Adira was bubbling with excitement. Valerie had helped during her coronation, making her eager to reciprocate the kindness.

"I will start making breakfast," Luna Fernanda said, and went to the kitchen.

It wasn't her first time here, but it had been very long, especially when Denzel forbade her before for her own good. Now, Conrad was dead, and there was peace and tranquility.

"That's the first exciting thing I heard you say. I can't stand the men talk," Adira said, running up the stairs.

This used to be her home, but she was now a visitor. Life was indeed filled with uncertainties.

Alpha Denzel discussed the program lineup with the Alpha King since he would be the one guiding the emcee in the things to do.

Then he caught up with Adira to take her to Ashley's room, but even after several knocks, she refused to open the door.

Sensing something wrong, Alpha Denzel forced the door open, but the room was empty, and the bed neatly laid. Ashley was nowhere in sight.

'Burke, where is Ashley?' A mindlink invaded Burke's mind from Alpha Denzel, but the response was disheartening.

Chapter 337: Chapter 337 - They Wanted Val

'Alpha, I have not seen her this morning. She must be in her room,' Burke's voice resonated through the mindlink, and Alpha Denzel panicked.

It was just a few hours before the arrival of some other Alphas, and Alpha Denzel had to ensure that Ashley was found before their arrival.

He just could not let them see her or give them a clue that she was at the pack, or else, news would travel to Tristan and Scarlet.

'She's not? Tell the warriors to begin searching the pack. I will check the cameras.'

After ending the mindlink, Alpha Denzel turned to Adira. "There is a problem."

Adira was concerned and was about to ask what the problem was when he added, "I need you to be alert when Valerie wakes up. Don't let her know that Ashley cannot be found."

"Alpha Denzel, what happened?" Adira was greatly disturbed, trying to find a way to help, but Denzel was equally clueless, and there was no way for him to get answers at the pack house.

"I don't know. I have to check the cameras because nobody knows where she went."

Adira would have loved to go help him, but it would not be healthy for Valerie to know about this.

Worry would not be good for a Luna preparing for her coronation. Taking deep breaths, Adira tried to remain calm and positive.

Better still, she might go help Luna Fernanda in the kitchen until Valerie woke up. "Okay. I will do my best to keep Valerie company and keep her mind away from the incident."

"Thank you," Alpha Denzel said with gratitude. The right team came to him at the right time, making everything seem like a miracle.

He went back to the group of Alphas and said to them, "King Spartan, please stay here in case Alpha Lawn comes out and please don't let him know this. Ashley is not in her room, and no one knows her whereabouts. I'm going to find her."

From experience, the Alpha King sensed a pending problem. "This is not sounding good. I will do my best to keep him company and not make him feel suspicious."

Thinking carefully, Denzel suggested, "You could tell him that I went out with Ashley. Adira can keep Valerie company too."

"Okay, do your best."

Alpha Denzel checked the CCTV footage with Troy and Idris as soon as he got to his office, and his heart sank. "Burke said he knew nothing about it."

In the video, Burke knocked on Ashley's door, and she opened it. It also showed Ashley following Burke into the woods.

"And he is your beta," Alpha Idris observed. Knowing Denzel, anyone thinking of betraying him would only be courting death.

"That is the most painful part," Denzel's fingers balled into fists as he stared over and over again at the footage playing on the computer.

However, Alpha Troy noticed something odd. The last time he was at this pack a week ago, he met Burke, and the guy did not seem like he would do something like this.

"Alpha Denzel, is that how he always looks? I don't know if it's because of the camera, but his eyes look strange."

Alpha Denzel zoomed in on the part Troy was talking about and had the same conviction. "His eyes are rather sea blue, so if there is a reflection of the camera lights, it shouldn't emit a darker color."

"Or was he communicating with his wolf or about to shift?" Alpha Idris, asked.

Alpha Denzel did not have all the answers, but one thing was sure.

"Burke does not have the guts to betray me. He would not dare." He instantly mindlinked Burke to ask if he was under some kind of influence last night.

Or, could it be a seducing spirit? What would they want with Ashley? 'Burke, to my office.'

Burke arrived at the office with Alice, Rav, and Raven. The twins had insisted on helping since they had not been assigned any jobs in the pack yet, so Burke did not refuse.

When he saw the group of Alphas, he greeted politely. "Alpha Troy, Alpha Idris, you are welcome."

"Thank you, Burke," Alpha Idris responded calmly. Denzel went straight to the point as there was no time to waste.

The more things were delayed, the greater danger Ashley was in. "Burke, take a look at this video." freewebnovel.com

Alpha Denzel observed his reaction throughout the time the video played, and though it was filled with fear, the shock component was even stronger.

"Alpha, I know there are cameras. I swear by the moon goddess that I never went to wake Ashley after she went to bed."

Indeed, Burke knew there were cameras, so if he was going to do something like this, he would have found ways to avoid the cameras or even wipe them.

"So, what happened?" Denzel asked. Burke was clueless.

"I don't know. I was exhausted after all the preparations and could not even shower before going to bed. And Alpha, you know how I hate yellow."

Burke made a strong point. He always saw yellow as a feminine color and never had such colors in his closet. The image of him in the CCTV footage wore a yellow shirt.

Alpha Denzel believed that something was wrong somewhere and someone was trying to implicate Burke to make him hurt or even kill an innocent person.

"What is the status of the warriors? There are no cameras in the woods, so I have to depend on them."

Alpha Denzel did not want to go round in circles. The woods were the largest place in the pack, and it could take the whole day if he wanted to search through them for Ashley. As such, he had to rely on the warriors.

"There is no news yet," Burke replied, not understanding what was going on.

"And the time is short. If we don't find her before Valerie wakes up, she would insist on doing so by herself." Alpha Denzel's worried voice cut through.

Alice had heard a few things and could not stand there doing nothing. "Alpha, please let me help," she said. Alpha Denzel had everyone excuse them.

It would not be right to expose her when she did not have solutions to the damage accompanied by the use of her powers. "How will you do it?"

"I will check if there are any spirits. It seems that Burke was impersonated." Alice was certain, and Alpha Denzel believed it too.

If for nothing, for the sake of Alice, Burke would not dare. It must be a spell or indeed impersonation. "How long will it take, and what is the consequence?"

Alice merely opened her mouth when they heard panicked voices outside. "Ashley, what happened to you?" The most among the voices was Burke's.

Alpha Denzel rushed out, and his eyes darkened dangerously. "Who did this to you?" He demanded, his heart burning with rage at the blood form of Ashley.

Alpha Idris, who was behind Alpha Denzel, had his wolf acting strange. "Mate," his wolf roared, Idris was greatly afraid, thinking it was Valerie.

About to apologize, he heard Ashley murmur before she fainted.

"They wanted Val..."

Chapter 338 - Val, you need to hide. They are after you

Chapter 338: Chapter 338 - Val, you need to hide. They are after you

Alpha Denzel's gaze met that of Alpha Idris, who was eager to take Ashley out of Burke's hold but was equally afraid.

He had no idea that this was Valerie's sister and was afraid that Alpha Denzel would dismember him.

"Denzel, I'm really sorry. She's already yours. There must be something wrong with my wolf to be claiming her as our mate."

Confusion shone in Alpha Denzel's eyes as he listened to Alpha Idris's words. "What are you talking about?" He asked seriously, Idris looked lost.

"I'm talking about Luna Valerie and the mate bond thing."

Alpha Denzel finally understood what he meant and explained it calmly to him. "This is her sister, Ashley," he clarified, Idris was stunned.

"You mean?"

Denzel smiled profoundly. "Go help your mate."

He was so happy that Ashley was rather mated to Idris. Their family bond would remain better than if Ashley was mated to anyone out of their circle.

Idris took Ashley from Burke, lifting her in his arms. It was so strange the time he had eyes on Luna Valerie that her sister was his mate.

The most interesting part being the fact that they even looked alike.

Not only Idris but Luna Fernanda would equally be very happy to hear this wonderful news.

However, the excitement was short-lived upon seeing that Ashley was not healing.

If Valerie found out about this, she might insist on finding the culprit before postponing the coronation.

Alpha Denzel was about to speak when Alpha Idris asked, "Who did this to her?" Fury resonated in his voice. "I will seek justice."

Alpha Denzel had a faint smile on his face but did not reach his eyes, and those who knew him well enough could tell it was far from being genuine.

Ashley took her sister's punishment, and Alpha Denzel would fish out the person, even if they hid under the earth.

"She said that they wanted Val. I will get to the bottom of it. Burke, escort them to the hospital."

When Burke obeyed the commands, Raven stepped in front of Alpha Denzel and quickly lowered her head.

"Alpha, I think her wolf is weak. If we use some moon grass, her wolf would be stronger and heal her faster."

Realizing that she had spoken without being asked or addressed, she quickly apologized.

"I'm sorry. I should not have spoken without your permission."

Alpha Denzel did not have time to educate her. Was he some kind of tyrant to warrant her apologies for offering to help?

"Do you have some of this moon grass?"

Raven nodded her head, glad that he agreed. "There were some leftovers from the ones I bought for Alpha Lawn. I will get it, but in the future, you can consider planting some around the pack house."

Raven ran to her house to get the herbs without waiting for Alpha Denzel's response.

Thinking carefully, it would indeed be a good idea to have the moon grass planted in the pack.

Alpha Idris carried Ashley to her room. Luckily, Valerie, though awake, was in the kitchen chatting with Luna Fernanda and Adira.

The excitement in her voice resonated throughout the room, and Alpha Denzel did not want to stop hearing it.

Alpha Lawn was equally catching up on the old times with the Alpha King.

He saw someone being carried downstairs, but Denzel went to distract him before Idris reached the top of the stairs and was shown Ashley's room by Burke.

When the door closed, he summoned Burke and some warriors, instructing.

"Ashley isn't awake yet for us to know what exactly happened, but I am sure there are still traitors in the pack."

Alice could not stand there and watch them try to find the enemy when she could do so easily. By every means possible. She wanted to help.

"Alpha Denzel, it's a powerful enemy. I can feel his presence."

"A he?" Alpha Denzel was thinking of the seducing spirit or that witch with the Lakeside rogues but not a he.

Those powers loved to appear in a female form.

"Most likely, it took an animal form, to enable him into the pack before impersonating Burke to enter the pack house," Alice was using her powers to say when Denzel stopped her.

"Alice, enough."

Denzel saw her hands turning red and shook her by the shoulder.

Alice regained herself. "But Alpha, somebody else could get hurt. They won't stop until they reach the target."

Alpha Denzel was not too worried, only thinking of informing Valerie after the coronation.

"Don't worry. As soon as the coronation is done, Valerie will be able to defeat them."

"Denzel, what's going on, and I heard you went out with Ashley. Where is she?"

Valerie's footsteps were not even heard, so no one knew how much she heard so far, standing beside them.

Raven had just entered with the herbs, drawing her attention. "Raven, how are you and what are you up to?"

Raven glanced at Alpha Denzel and with a slight turning of the head, she knew he did not want Luna Valerie to hear it yet.

"I was playing a game with Alice. She said she knows about herbs, and I wanted to see if she could identify these."

Raven quickly changed the direction of the conversation, pleasing Denzel as he tried to take Valerie away for Raven to go and attend to Ashley.

"Val, can we talk? in private."

Valerie agreed, and Alpha Denzel led her to their room to give Raven the chance to complete what she was about to start.

As soon as they entered the room, he pressed his lips against hers, kissing her deeply for close to five minutes. Valerie was out of breath and gently pushed him away.

"Denzel, are you alright?" His behavior was strange.

Denzel smiled at her. He wasn't going to let anyone stop the coronation.

"I just wanted to remind you of how beautiful you are."

"Thank you," Valerie smiled and said. When they stepped out, she instinctively walked to Ashley's room, and Denzel lost all the tricks to stop her.

Having no choice, he followed her at the same time Ashley was waking up. Her wounds had healed, but Valerie saw the herbs.

About to ask about it, Ashley spoke. "Val, you need to hide. They are after you." Then her wolf roared at the sight of Alpha Idris. Mate?"

Chapter 339 – Destiny is a funny thing

Chapter 339: Chapter 339 – Destiny is a funny thing

Alpha Idris was excited. After Ashley had been treated and with Valerie standing in front of them, the resemblance was even more remarkable.

Now, he was happy to have taken Denzel's advice to stop his affairs with women. How shameful it would have been if he were still the same person he was before.

Ashley would have rejected him the moment she found out. Ever since straightening things with Alpha Denzel, Alpha Idris realized that good things had been coming his way, including finding his destined mate.

"Mine," he responded, taking Ashley's hand in his. "Destiny is a funny thing," he said, and only Alpha Denzel understood due to their previous conflict at the time Idris wanted Valerie as a mate.

Valerie never knew that story and the reason Alpha Denzel sent Adira away. He took advantage of Alpha Idris's request to get rid of her because of how she had turned evil, thanks to Alpha Conrad.

Everything had fallen into place with Adira uniting with her mate and also becoming a Luna.

"Congratulations to you both," Valerie smiled and said, adding, "I guess we were all destined to be Lunas."

Even Scarlet would have still been a Luna if not for her greed. Now she lost everything, and it was all her fault.

Ashley was excited to have found her mate after a long time, but that did not take away the issue at hand.

The fact that someone was trying to harm her sister. Ashley was not there to protect Valerie before but was determined to do so now.

"Thank you, Val, but your life is in danger."

"Tell us what happened," Alpha Denzel said calmly, but once he was able to go through with the coronation, he would find the bastard who almost killed his sister-in-law.

Such people deserved slow, painful deaths. Right now, it was too late to stop Ashley from spilling the beans in front of her sister, but the consoling thing was the fact that she was now okay.

Ashley recalled everything clearly. "Last night, I heard a knock on my door. When I went to check, it was Burke, but he was acting weird. He said I should join them for patrol, and I saw nothing wrong because I couldn't sleep anyway."

Valerie was about to summon Burke when Alpha Denzel stopped her, knowing that things were not the way they seemed.

"He kept walking into the woods without saying a word, and when I insisted on knowing where he was taking me, I realized it wasn't Burke. The person who looked like Burke was so cold, and he refused to tell me his name but insisted that I transfer my powers to him."

Valerie's brows raised, thinking it was another seducing spirit, but it was equally strange how they knew about her powers before they even manifested.

"I told him that I had no powers, but four snakes came out of the earth, and they all turned into men. That was when I realized they had disguised themselves as snakes with whatever powers to enter the pack."

"They didn't believe that I didn't have any powers, saying that they heard rumors of me having an Alpha wolf with powers from the lake."

"That is when I knew they were after Valerie, but I refused to tell them it wasn't me, so they forcefully tried to take me away. I fought with them, and when I realized I might die with no one noticing I was out of the pack house because the man who came for me was not Burke, I told them it wasn't me."

"Then, they began fighting among themselves for getting the wrong person. That was how I sneaked away without them noticing."

Hearing about snakes, Valerie's mood was already ruined. She hated snakes, and her enemies somehow chose what she feared most to disguise themselves.

No wonder they were able to sneak into the pack. The treatment of the woods with anti snakes was not against human snakes, and no one would see them in that form.

How smart. Alpha Denzel wanted to have a clue of who was behind it, asking. "Can you describe them?"

"Very well," Ashley said. "Their leader, that is, the one who took Burke's form, is as tall as you with braided hair. Cornrows to be precise."

Alpha Denzel could not recall any of the Alphas fitting that description, but one thing was sure. The person would never stop, and all these might be a way to get Denzel to go in search of them or postpone the coronation.

Neither of that was going to happen. After tomorrow, the war would begin, but for now, he was just happy that Ashley had healed as quickly as Raven said.

"Alright. We all sleep in the living room tonight. Raven, I will show you a place to plant as much moon grass as you want. I would also get the pack farmers to help you."

"Thank you, Alpha Denzel. You don't mind if I include other herbs, right?" She asked excitedly. Alpha Denzel shook his head.

"Not at all."

Valerie recalled something and asked him. "If we all sleep in the hall, then what about the Alphas?"

Alpha Denzel sighed deeply and thought of another way since he did not want whatever power they were using to take another form.

For as long as they were together, it would be easy to detect if there was an intruder.

Also, in the living room, he could be able to monitor whoever comes in and goes out.

"I almost forgot. You two should sleep in the same room with your dad, and none of you should come out no matter what. I will personally welcome all the Alphas and Lunas myself."

Valerie was not liking the arrangement. Ashley, Adira, and Luna Fernanda would all leave as soon as the coronation was over, so this was her chance to spend the most time with them.

"With dad around, it won't be fun. Why not allow Raven and Alice to join us in another room with Adira? My dad should not be disturbed, and lest I forget. Luna Fernanda can give us motherly advice. I'll get the maids to add an extra bed in the Luna's chamber. That would do for us."

The Luna's chamber was just as large as the Alphas, so Denzel did not mind for as long as it wasn't his room.

That place belonged to only him and his Luna. "You ladies can have all the fun you want. I advise that you eat early and keep off the pack house activities until tomorrow."

Later that night, the Alphas began to arrive, but some were unexpected, and neither did they expect Alpha Denzel to be the one to welcome them. Things were about to take a different toll.

Chapter 340: Chapter 340 - Even an omega holds more value than you.

"Alpha Ludwig, I wasn't expecting you so early," Alpha Denzel said honestly, but Alpha Ludwig felt he owed Alpha Denzel for all the help he had received from him.

"Well, I didn't want to get tired by the time I arrive here tomorrow, so I decided to set off early. For all you've done for my pack, I had to give my utmost support."

Alpha Denzel was pleased that Ludwig knew how to honor him.

"You are welcome. Burke, please usher him to one of the guest rooms," he instructed. Burke obeyed, beckoning the warriors in waiting to carry Alpha Ludwig's luggage to the pack house, with Ludwig following him.

The next couple to arrive were Alpha Napoleon and Luna Cassy.

Alpha Denzel, not too happy that they came early, but since a letter was sent to them, he could not refuse.

Also, since they were among the people who talked down on Valerie during Troy and Adira's coronation, it was good they were there to witness her shine.

He instructed Burke to usher them to their rooms before addressing the next couple.

"Alpha Bodie, Luna Latifa, you are welcome."

The two were equally received, but when Alpha Denzel saw the couple following them, his anger soared.

These people were coming with invitations, so there was no need for the warriors to alert Alpha Denzel of their presence.

"Luna Ahuma, and you are?" Alpha Denzel quickly blocked the entrance when he saw the man fitting the description of Ashley.

His timing was just right. A time when Alpha Denzel would not be able to call Ashley to perform an interrogation, but no evil person he set his eyes on would be able to escape from him.

Since this man wanted Valerie's powers, he wouldn't give up easily, so there was more time.

"Orion, the soon-to-be Alpha of the Lockheart pack," the man introduced himself with a cold smile.

Alpha Denzel took notice of the name as he added, "Luna Ahuma's Alpha and mate were murdered in the human world, if you haven't heard."

Alpha Denzel scoffed, as Luna Ahuma was the mate of the late Alpha Viggo, whom Valerie did justice to.

"Is that so?" Alpha Denzel pretended not to know, exuding a cold and unwelcoming aura, different from how he welcomed the others before now.

This man was the reason he had to do all this himself when Burke should have been the right person to handle it.

"Well, since you are not yet an Alpha, you are not welcome here. Go rent a hotel."

Alpha Denzel was not good at holding it in when the enemy was this close, but he still kept his composure, waiting for Ashley's confirmation.

Not only Orion, but all his accomplices must face Alpha Denzel's wrath.

"What if I'm the beta?" Orion asked daringly. He deemed himself more powerful than Alpha Denzel because he had a deal with the goddess of deception.

That was where he got his powers from.

"I know the beta, but who are you?" Alpha Denzel asked, belittling him intentionally to anger him. "Even an omega holds more value than you."

Orion was so furious that his pupils dilated, but Alpha Denzel maintained a cold glare on him as he asked.

"Alpha Denzel, are you insulting me?"

"What do you think? Do you have what it takes to accuse me?"

Alpha Denzel was so direct, Orion was very upset. His powers were not strong enough to work on an Alpha yet, so he had to rely on impersonating those of the lower ranks.

Sadly, Alpha Denzel was unexpectedly there, destroying his chances of taking the form of any of the pack members living in the pack house.

"I am soon to be the Alpha, and here is your invitation to attend my coronation."

He took the card from Luna Ahuma and gave it to Alpha Denzel, but the latter refused to accept it.

"I won't attend, so I won't accept it. Luna Ahuma is not even on good terms with my Luna, so I would not let you both in." freewebnovel.com

Luna Ahuma's head lowered, not expecting Alpha Denzel to be so petty. After the disgrace she faced with her friends, he was still humiliating her.

"Please, Alpha Denzel, it's late."

"I don't care," Alpha Denzel retorted when he suddenly stepped back upon catching from the corner of his eyes, another unknown man trying to bypass him to Burke, but Alpha Denzel blocked his path.

"And you are?" He asked coldly. The man turned to the side to introduce the woman beside him, since he was not as bold as Orion.

Nevertheless, Alpha Denzel figured they were in cahoots with each other.

"This is Luna Bellatrix. Her Alpha was murdered, and I'm her second chance mate and soon-to-be Alpha. We received the invitation and arrived early."

A menacing glare from Alpha Denzel caused him to shiver. "Did her invitation include an accommodation arrangement?"

"Is there something like that?" The man asked with a confused expression, understanding that some invitations had accommodation arrangements attached, whereas others did not.

"Alpha, it's all clear at the gate. I think the rest would be arriving tomorrow," Burke reported in a hushed tone behind Alpha Denzel.

"Good. Call Alpha Troy and Idris for me," Alpha Denzel said, not bothering to speak in a hushed tone.

"Denzel," Idris said when he arrived as Denzel instructed him.

"You and Alpha Troy should accompany these unwanted guests out of the pack. The warriors would help you."

Alpha Denzel did not want to move away from the pack house, lest another accomplice of theirs transforms himself and sneaks in.

"Alpha Denzel. This is embarrassing," Orion said with pain in his eyes, but Alpha Denzel did not hide the truth from him anymore.

"You should have left when I told you to, and oh, I am looking out for snakes, cats, mice, I mean, anything that is not a human or a wolf, would be killed as soon as it crosses this environment."

The three men, together with their warriors, froze as Alpha Denzel added. "You should thank your stars that I can't shed blood before a coronation. You know what you did, and even if you hide under the earth, I will find you."

Now that they understood that Ashley had survived after her escape and informed Alpha Denzel, they could no longer play the self-righteous game.

But neither were they ready to give up. Rather, they would develop another strategy, but now, the shame was too much to bear.

They walked out of the pack, and Luna Bellatrix comforted them.

"We can still make it to the coronation tomorrow. I want to see what Luna Valerie would look like."

She could still not get over the way Valerie and Adira dealt with them at Adira's coronation.

Chapter 341 – An Unexpected Surprise

Chapter 341: Chapter 341 – An Unexpected Surprise

Everyone had different intentions for attending the coronation, but the pack house was now closed, and there were no calls or messages from any Alphas on the way.

Not having time to entertain the guests, they were only served with food and drinks before retiring to bed.

Rest was needed for everybody to look good the next day, and after all the guests retired to their rooms, Denzel, Burke, Idris, and Troy slept in the living room, just in case any of Orion's friends lingered in the pack unknown to them.

Big events like this attracted a lot of troublemakers, and though a lot of measures were put into place to ensure maximum security, things could still go wrong sometimes.

The next day, which was the coronation day, the Evergreen pack was booming with good music. It was so loud, permeating through all the corners of the pack as a reminder that there was a very important event about to happen.

It was also a wakeup call to some people, especially the warriors who spent the night on patrol, ending up oversleeping.

The center of the pack had been transformed overnight and was looking exceptional by the professional decorators.

There were decorative flowers and other fancy decorative items used inside the tent canopies, making it look like a large, endless glamorous auditorium.

With everything arranged to take place in the tent with no one moving around the pack, the seating did not take the usual theater arrangement but rather the ballroom style.

It was huge enough to even take the pack members, and the decors and lights made it mind-blowing like that of a fairy tale royal wedding.

Even if it rained, it would not distract the occasion. More Alphas were arriving and were being received by Alpha Troy, Idris, and Beta Burke.

Their presence would prevent anyone using charms to not succeed with it, and due to that, they woke up early to take care of this bit for Alpha Denzel.

In the pack house, Alpha Denzel awoke all the guests, ensuring that they dressed up and left for the event but stayed behind to keep guard of the pack house himself.

Alpha King Spartan also went to the event center when the emcee arrived. Alpha Lawn had dressed up and was also ready.

Due to the excitement, no one was hungry, but of course, some snacks would be served during the occasion before the buffet lunch.

"You ladies are all looking stunning. Raven, you and Alice look like princesses. How are you?" Luna Fernanda asked, admiring the girls who had similar qualities.

Aside from their petite frame, they both had special talents, one in herbs and the other in powers with daring consequences.

"I'm sixteen and would be turning seventeen in a week," Raven was more excited than she had ever been in her life.

She wondered why people did wrongs warranting them to be banished when packs were filled with love and acceptance.

It was not the same in the rogue communities where everyone was left to fend for themselves. There were no laws, meaning no security too.

"A week, and you never told anyone," Valerie chastised her, Luna Fernanda added. "I hope you find a very good mate one day."

Finding one's mate was the dream of every girl in the werewolf community. Since the time was getting close, Luna Fernanda discharged everyone.

"Alice and Raven, you can leave with Adira. I want to have a word with Valerie and Ashley."

Adira smiled. Last night was awesome with Luna Fernanda's presence. It felt like a mother with many daughters, and they laughed, ate, drank, and told jokes.

If not for the coronation, and the fear that Valerie might have dark circles under her eyes the next morning, no one would have slept.

She was just glad that Luna Fernanda treated her like a daughter, unlike how she was constantly suspicious of her when she lived with her at the pack house.

Adira only had herself to blame for those times.

"Yes, Luna Fernanda. And Valerie, you really look like the queen of the occasion," Adira said.

Valeria recalled something and informed her. "Please tell Denzel to wear black. He looks good in it."

Her cheeks stained red when she remembered the first time she saw him. He captured her heart, only to break it. Then he worked his way into possessing her heart and succeeding at it.

When in black, he commanded an aura that was just too hard to resist.

Adira had even opened the door and saw Denzel downstairs.

"He must have read your mind. He wore black and looks like the god of war. Kidding, he's good looking, hot, and domineering."

The three ladies laughed and left together as Luna Fernanda said to Valerie and Ashley.

"You two are born Lunas. Ashley, we shall be leaving together and would get to talk a lot."

Ashley shook her head, knowing that exposing Scarlet and just going to be the beginning. Rebuilding the pack was another thing she could not allow her father to do alone.

"No. I would have to help my father first so I won't be leaving immediately. I hope you understand."

Luna Fernanda felt selfish, having forgotten a very important piece of the puzzle. She quickly offered an honest apology.

"Sorry. I forgot that bit." Her attention shifted to Valerie as she would be leaving tomorrow. Even at her age, she looked stunning in the off-shoulder navy blue glitter gown she wore.

"So, Val, you should understand that you are now the mother of the pack whenever Denzel is around but when he's away, you are both the mother and father."

Valerie knew that much as Denzel already explained it to her. The advantage of her situation was due to the fact that she began playing the role of a Luna even before finding her mate.

"Yes, Auntie Fernanda. I just wish Alessia was here." She missed her sister-in-law so much as the times she spent away in the garden with Alessia mostly by her side drew them close.

This was her big day, and it wasn't fair for her to miss it. Valerie had wanted to ask Alpha Denzel to send Alessia over but due to the weight of the businesses, lost the courage.

However, a familiar voice responded to her words. "And who said I was going to miss it?" Alessia asked jokingly and froze at the door at the sight of Ashley. "Are you twins?"

"Alessia? How come you are here?" Valerie was filled with so much excitement; it was hard for anyone to understand.

Chapter 342: Chapter 342 - Why Are They Closing All the Exits?

Seeing Alessia only meant that Denzel went above and beyond to make Valerie happy on this special day, making her heart swell with joy.

Finally, it seemed that all her family and loved ones were together in one place.

There was only one person missing, and that was her mother. Valerie hoped that wherever she was, she would be smiling because her daughter faced the most terrible betrayal and came out better.

"Denzel allowed us, but we have to leave tonight, right after the coronation. He knew we couldn't miss it for anything," Alessia revealed. Valerie was shocked that Denzel allowed Alessia to leave the business, but how could Alessia be here alone?

"So, did you come with Godic?"

"Yes. You look stunning, and who is your look-alike?" Alessia asked, smiling at Ashley. She already guessed she could be family.

"Ashley, my elder sister. Did you forget?"

It suddenly clicked that Ashley was the woman in the video. She sure has some guts.

"Has Denzel resolved his matters?" Alessia asked teasingly, recalling how Valerie had to pay for her elder sister's sins.

"Yes. Everything is fine," Valerie assured her, and the two embraced each other.

"It's a pleasure to meet you, Ashley." Alessia embraced Ashley after pulling away from Valerie. Ashley embraced her, pulling away as she inquired.

"Mine too. Alpha Denzel's sister, right? You are so stunning."

Alessia blushed but frowned a little. "You still address him by his title? Come on, you are family. Call him by his first name and don't let him intimidate you."

Everyone laughed as Alessia went to embrace Luna Fernanda. "Mom, you look so gorgeous."

"Thank you, Aless. I hope we talk for a bit before you leave. Are you pregnant already?" Luna Fernanda asked suspiciously. Alessia smiled and shook her head.

How she wished she was. "No, but I'm trying very hard. I want to have a son or daughter who looks exactly like my mate," she said and ran out of the room.

She had brought so much excitement just with her presence, and Luna Fernanda saw it as a cue to join the occasion as well.

"I should be leaving too. I guess you both would make the entry together."

Downstairs, Alpha Denzel waited for a signal, which came soon after Luna Fernanda left. Only a few maids remained with Alpha Lawn, Valerie, and Ashley.

'Alpha Tristan and Luna Scarlet are here with two warriors, Dairus and Sun.'

"It's time," Alpha Denzel murmured as he ended the mind link. Good enough, they came with the warriors who helped to accomplish their plans.

At the luxury tent, the guests were bewildered by everything, especially with the decor.

"This is the best outdoor event tent I've ever seen. Alpha Denzel knows how to raise the margin," one of the Lunas said. Her Alpha gave her a glare, feeling less.

Expecting to have some peace, another one took up the comment.

"He must love Luna Valerie so much to put this up for her. How lucky she is to be loved by such a powerful man."

"This place looks like heaven. Luna Valerie should be grateful to Alpha Tristan for rejecting her," the first Luna said to the hearing of Scarlet and Tristan, who were sitting in front of them.

Godic stood close to them as Alpha Denzel had assigned him with a responsibility.

"Yes. I heard that the Yellow Stone Pack faced a lot of problems because of that. I'm surprised they are still surviving," the gossip continued. Scarlet wished she hadn't come.

These Lunas wanted the favor of the Evergreen Pack, so their focus was to sabotage Scarlet.

"Yet, Luna Scarlet still looks so expensive. She must have spent the pack's fortune on her outfit alone."

All attention focused on Scarlet's expensive dress, and sadly, she could not even lift her head in the heat of the moment.

These Lunas were after her, and her presence felt like a mistake. How would she attract her second chance mate this way?

Even if he were here, he might just reject her like Alpha Ludwig did.

"Yes, that outfit must be very expensive, but I would not show myself here if I were her. Do you remember the embarrassment she faced at Alpha Ludwig's coronation?"

The gossips heated up, making Scarlet uncomfortable.

"It's such a shame she can't even go to support her sister."

Scarlet was moved to tears due to the gossips but could not utter a word, swallowing her shame.

During Valerie's coronation, she had been by her side only to turn against her. Not getting the opportunity this time made her feel left out.

Valerie said she had forgiven her but had not allowed her into her world or even asked for her support.

For a moment, Scarlet was tempted to leave before it was too late, but the warriors were already closing up the entrances to the tents.

"Why are they closing all the exits?" she asked worriedly. Tristan replied in annoyance.

"How would I know? It's their event, and they are free to do what they like."

Showing up with Scarlet was torture to his soul, and he had to forcefully endure it since Scarlet's rejection of her pack had not been announced.

Scarlet was uneasy but kept the rest to herself.

There were round tables of six to ten, but there were also reserved tables. This was the biggest event, and yet, it was so comfortable with waitresses moving around with glasses of wine.

On one of the reserved tables sat Luna Fernanda and the Alpha King Spartan.

"I am honored to welcome all of you to the coronation ceremony of our famous Luna Valerie," the emcee began to address them.

The pack members were already excited and began cheering for their Luna as the emcee continued to speak.

"Distinguished Alphas and betas, warriors, pack members, ladies and gentlemen. My name is Ken, and I'm your emcee for today's occasion."

"Without much ado, I wish to introduce the host and the coordinator of the event, who is none other than our Alpha King Spartan."

Some of the Alphas were not happy because the Alpha King rarely attended the coronation these days, leaving that duty to his other officials. But they heard that he even came the day before and was even playing the role of the host.

Spartan went to the podium, dressed in his ceremonial suit.

"Thank you all for coming, but this event cannot start without the presence of some prominent people. I wish to welcome, as a special guest of honor, the father of Luna Valerie, Alpha Lawn."

The hall broke out in murmurs, and Scarlet paled.

Chapter 343 - Is there even a better word to describe her beauty?

Chapter 343: Chapter 343 - Is there even a better word to describe her beauty?

The shock was so intense that no one could bring themselves to clap. "Isn't Alpha Lawn dead?" One of the Alphas asked in disbelief, and the others nodded in agreement, too stunned to speak up.

Even the pack members of the Evergreen pack had been unaware of this development.

The Alpha King smiled and revealed, "I was just as surprised when I encountered Alpha Lawn at the Evergreen pack. Only he can provide the details of his survival, but our focus today is on his second daughter, Valerie."

Most people quickly realized that Alpha Denzel had his reasons for keeping this information hidden until now.

The mystery surrounding Alpha Lawn's disappearance had not been resolved, indicating that his death was likely a planned murder.

Tristan began to feel foolish. It dawned on him that Alpha Denzel had lured them here for a specific purpose. No wonder he had even provided them with money. It was a trap.

He stood up abruptly. "I need to use the restroom." His plan was to escape and not return to the Yellowstone pack either.

The only solution, since he lacked money and Scarlet's affection, was to go rogue.

But Godic intervened, pressing his head down and forcing him back into his seat. "No one is allowed to leave, and no one else can enter until the event is over. It's for security reasons." freewebnovel.com

Orion also wanted to leave. He had come for Valerie, but Alpha Idris and Troy kept a close eye on him.

If he had known, he wouldn't have returned so soon after what had happened the previous night.

Alpha Lawn entered gracefully, dressed in a white suit purchased by Denzel.

He appeared younger and healthier, thanks to his stay at the pack house and the nutritious meals.

Everyone was taken aback as he bowed slightly and took his seat near Luna Fernanda.

Scarlet couldn't bear to look at her father, her stomach churning with fear. She tried to get up, but a warrior blocked her path.

"Sorry, no one is allowed to leave, and only three more people are expected to enter."

Scarlet realized she had fallen into a trap.

"I am also pleased to announce that Alpha Lawn's first daughter, Ashley, is here with us, but she will be making her entrance with her sister, the Luna. So, let's first welcome the Alpha who is like a son to me, Alpha Denzel."

Applause filled the room as the guests realized why there was no program listed for the event.

Alpha Denzel was clearly hiding something. He walked in with Alessia, and the atmosphere grew tense as he took his place on the stage, awaiting his Luna.

Alessia sat at the table with Luna Fernanda, and the pack members were delighted to see her, unaware that she wouldn't be staying for long.

"With a standing ovation, let's welcome Luna Va..."

"Wait!" Alpha Denzel's voice interrupted, causing the Alpha King to pause. He was proud to make this announcement, as Valerie had only grown stronger despite their challenges.

"My Luna lost her wolf before and was gifted an Alpha wolf. In my absence, she will be known as Alpha Valerie Denzel, but in my presence, she has agreed to remain Luna Valerie Denzel."

Alpha Denzel didn't have a surname, as his reign marked the beginning of a new generation. Having an heir was crucial during his time.

"You heard the Alpha, so let's welcome the Luna with an Alpha wolf, Luna Valerie."

The Evergreen pack members cheered and applauded, while the visiting Alphas and Lunas were too stunned to react.

Some even had their jaws drop at the surprising news. The Evergreen pack had become the strongest and would now be ruled by a powerful couple.

Orion seethed with anger as he sat next to the envious Luna Ahuma. "How can Luna Valerie be an Alpha now?"

She couldn't believe it, but Alpha Denzel wouldn't lie. His gaze remained fixed on Orion as Ashley made her entrance.

"Wow," the guests marveled, and Alpha Denzel chuckled, while Alpha Idris looked at Ashley as if she were the most beautiful woman in the world, his mate.

"That isn't my Luna," Alpha Denzel declared, causing a stir in the luxurious event tent. Despite the resemblance, he could always recognize his Luna.

"That is Ashley, the first daughter of Alpha Lawn," the Alpha King announced as Ashley stood beside her father.

Scarlet could only hope for the ground to swallow her whole or a massive tsunami to disrupt the event and spare her the embarrassment.

Her father was alive, which meant her secrets would be exposed. But the most painful part was the family reunion unfolding before her, making her feel like an outsider.

As the attention focused on Valerie's entrance, Scarlet contemplated making a quick escape. If she could run fast enough, no one would catch her.

After slipping off her four-inch stilettos, she attempted to rise but was pushed back down by Godic, who had been assigned to watch over her and Tristan.

"You're blocking the guests' view."

Scarlet put on a flirtatious smile, noticing a mark on Godic's neck but unaware that he was Alpha Denzel's brother-in-law.

"I just need to use the ladies' room."

Godic smiled, though his eyes didn't reflect the gesture. "It's too late. Luna Valerie is about to make her entry, and all distractions must be minimized." He firmly pushed her back into her seat as the Alpha King made another announcement.

"I would also like to inform you that there would be another coronation because Ashley is mated to Alpha Denzel's cousin, Alpha Idris."

Everyone, especially Alpha Idris and Luna Fernanda, were so excited. Four warriors walked in and stood at the aisle with their heads bowed, as Valerie appeared at the entrance.

Alpha Denzel smiled so broadly in front of the crowd for the first time, it was so magical. "She is the one we have been waiting for."

Valerie began to walk the aisles with the white tail of her gown sweeping the red carpet. "She looks like the moon goddess. Is there even a better word to describe her beauty?"

The murmurs took effect once more.

Scarlet had tears in her eyes with her head lowered through it all, and so were those three despicable Lunas who tried to bully Valerie before. No coronation in the history of the werewolf community has ever compared to that of Valerie.

Orion's gaze was like that of a bottomless pit, as he thought about how to interrupt the coronation, especially when Alpha Denzel's equally dark gaze, pinned on him.

Chapter 344: Chapter 344 - I promise to be your man alone as your mate

"We have to find a way to disrupt the service. This coronation must not happen," Orion said to Luna Ahuma, confusion stabbing her mind as she stared at him.

"What are you talking about? Isn't this the reason why we came?" She had no idea she was being used by him to achieve his selfish desires.

Orion did not want to tell her, but Valerie was already walking down the aisle, and it would be too late if he didn't act before it happened.

With this, he had to come clean and began to explain it to Luna Ahuma for her understanding.

"If Luna Valerie is coronated, she would become the most powerful Luna of all times, including ancient origins."

Still surprised, Luna Ahuma asked, "how did you know? Were you just using me? Are we really mates?"

Orion was more and more frustrated. "I will explain it to you later, but cause the distraction, and you'd be happy you did."

"Alright, fall down and pretend you fainted," Luna Ahuma suggested.

When Valerie walked the aisles, Alpha Denzel could not resist her and broke protocols.

He walked to meet Valerie halfway, causing laughter among the people in attendance. Valerie's steps were too slow for him, coupled with the fact that the tent was quite huge.

He lifted her in his arms, bridal style, the tail of her gown forming a heart shape, which the designer did not even know would happen.

Everything seemed so magical as Denzel walked gracefully to the stage, carrying his Luna bridal style with her arms wrapped around his neck.

"You are the most beautiful woman in the world," he said honestly, and everybody agreed as Spartan beckoned the people in attendance to sit in their chairs.

Spartan was amazed to be seeing this side of Denzel but agreed that he and Valerie deserved to be happy.

"Without much ado, we shall proceed with the vows since our Luna is already here. If you must know, Luna Valerie is the only Luna of our time to assume the title even before finding her mate and being coronated."

Everyone laughed except Tristan and Scarlet, as he continued to say. "Luna Valerie Lawn, I would only use the name Alpha Denzel gave if you accept the conditions."

Valerie nodded her head in agreement, and he continued to speak.

"Luna Valerie, do you agree to become the Luna of the Evergreen pack in the presence of Alpha Denzel and be the Alpha of the pack in his absence?"

"Yes, I do," Valerie readily agreed, her gaze locked with that of her man, as she dazzled under the sparkling decorative lights.

The hairpins in her hair were all diamonds, and even her stilettos were decorated with diamonds. The white gown she wore enhanced her features remarkably, making it hard for anyone to take their eyes off her.

"And do you promise to protect this pack and its members, settle disputes fairly, and give maximum support to your Alpha?"

Valerie nodded her head again. "Yes, I do."

"And finally, do you take this cold man not only as your Alpha but also your mate, and vow to love him only, throughout the days of your life?"

"With all my heart," Valerie answered.

Applause sounded throughout the tent as everyone expressed their joy. Burke brought a knife, but Denzel rejected it as the Alpha King said to him, "the rest is up to you. I will wait for your cue."

Alpha Denzel cleared his throat and began to speak. "Val, from the onset, I always loved you but I hurt you so much. Do you forgive me?" freewebnovel.com

Valerie's smile did not waver as she responded. "It was never your fault, and I already forgot about it."

Denzel smiled at her and began to say.

"I promise to be your man alone as your mate, to stand by you at all times, to love, cherish, and support you in all your dreams and aspirations. I also promise to listen to you at all times and make you the happiest woman in the world."

Then his fingers elongated, but before he could cut himself for her to taste his blood, a shrill tore from one of the tables.

"Please help, he just collapsed." It was Luna Ahuma pointing at Orion on the floor, and Valerie had a feeling she was up to something.

The warriors rushed to check on him as Luna Ahuma continued to scream. "He would need medical care. Let's take him to the hospital. Is it too far from here? Please help me. I don't want to lose my mate."

She was crying like a baby but Alpha Denzel was greatly angered, knowing they wanted to ruin the occasion.

"Is he really your mate?" Alpha Denzel asked from the stage, and everywhere went quiet. "I don't see a mark on your neck or his. If you want to lie, at least do so with some sense."

Embarrassment washed over Luna Ahuma; she wanted to hide and wished she had not agreed to this plan. Alpha Denzel was so ruthless with his words.

Quickly, she came up with a response. "Alpha Denzel, we just found out yesterday, and due to this event, we could not mark each other."

She hoped her lie would save her face, unaware that it would only compound her problems.

"Alright, but for whatever reason you want to ruin my special moment, just bear in mind that there are consequences to such actions."

Luna Ahuma was numb, wondering how Alpha Denzel could read their minds or figure out that they were indeed faking it.

Did he have some powers too? The way a young Alpha like him behaved like an old experienced Alpha was so scary, and Luna Ahuma found herself stammering this time.

"A...Alpha Denzel, can we please take him to the hospital? I don't want to lose him, and you know our coronation is coming soon. It's not easy to find a second chance mate," she sobbed some more.

Chapter 345 - Congratulations

Chapter 345: Chapter 345 - Congratulations

Somehow, she managed to buy the sympathy of the people in attendance since most of them did not know her true colors like a few people at the event.

She was surprised when Alpha Denzel called someone. "Raven, can you do us a favor and check on his condition?"

At a time like this, he could not use just any of the medical teams, fearing they might fall for whatever charm Orion had.

For someone gifted with the knowledge of herbs, it would not be easy for whatever charms Orion carried to work on her.

"Yes, Alpha," Raven said from where she sat with Ray, but as soon as she stood up, Alpha Ludwig's wolf roared internally,

"Mate."

However, the fact that his wolf had not said it loudly meant that Raven was underage, which meant he would have to discuss it with Alpha Denzel later to take Raven away.

It was interesting that after losing someone as special as Alice to the Evergreen pack, he would also get someone else in exchange.

Seeing Alice, she was more beautiful than he ever saw her, and Alpha Ludwig felt ashamed and undeserving of her at the pack.

All her beauty was hidden under her suffering, but with Raven, he would amend his ways and treat her like a queen, since she was his second chance mate.

When Raven reached where Orion lay on the floor and was about to bend, Alpha Denzel instructed.

"Wait."

Raven paused and waited for the next instruction, which shocked everyone. "Burke, stab him in the heart."

Everyone was terrified. It would be bad luck for blood to be shed during a happy occasion like a coronation when the ceremony was not completed, so what was Alpha Denzel up to?

Murmurs broke out, most of them directed at the Alpha King to stop Alpha Denzel from what he was about to do.

However, the Alpha King was calm. "Denzel knows what he's doing. This occasion is special, and for security reasons, no one must go out so how can we take him to the hospital?"

"So, you'd rather kill him?" One of the Alphas asked, the Alpha King smiled.

"Alpha Einstein, everybody here has healing abilities. The stab would be like a shock to wake him, and he would heal on his own. If his healing delays, then this gifted lady would use her knowledge of herbs to heal him," the Alpha King explained, adding.

"You all know that Alpha Denzel is not good at expressing himself. Isn't it?" He asked Alpha Denzel, the latter was stunned.

"How did you know?"

A chuckle escaped Spartan. "It's just simple logic, but I don't know why they couldn't piece them all together.

Alpha Denzel smiled, glad there was someone who understood him without his having to explain.

"Burke, go ahead," Spartan encouraged, Burke reached for a dagger and lifted it. Before it came into contact with Orion's skin, he rolled to the side.

Those upset with Alpha Denzel before felt ashamed for sympathizing with Orion. "You weren't sick but pretended. You wanted precious time," one of the pack warriors said, Alpha Denzel spoke rather calmly.

"Gerald, sit down. The ceremony must not be interrupted. We shall handle him after."

The color drained from Luna Ahuma's face, knowing she would not be accepted. Alpha Denzel was eager to complete the most important part of the ceremony, so what was an invisible person like Orion to him?

There was a time for everything, and this was not the time to deal with the likes of him. His finger dug into his wrist this time and not his palm, cutting through as a red liquid became visible.

Valerie grabbed his wrist and pressed her lips against it, not allowing a drop of his blood to touch the floor and also knowing that he was the kind who healed very fast.

As soon as the blood she swallowed descended down her throat, pain shot through her entire body, but she tried to not let out a scream, enduring it like the strong woman she was.

Still, her body vibrated violently, and Alpha Denzel pulled her into his arms comfortingly until the pain subsided.

The moment it was over, his lips sealed hers, everyone applauded, as voices rang in her mind.

The Alpha king made the declaration as soon as Alpha Denzel pulled away from the kiss. This was the second time he broke protocol.

"I hereby declare Valerie Lawn as Luna of the Evergreen pack in the presence of Alpha Denzel and Alpha in his absence. Her name is now officially Luna/Alpha, Valerie Denzel."

The applause and sounds of cherish could crash one's eardrum, as Alessia rushed to the stage to hug her.

"Congratulations, Val, I'm so happy to be here."

"My sweet sister, congratulations," Ashley joined and hugged her too, Adira, Alice, Raven, and most of the pack members, Lunas, and Alphas all came to congratulate her.

Valerie smiled so much that her jaws ached, and the waiters went around serving drinks and sweets.

Alpha Denzel was equally receiving congratulatory messages. The cold and aloof man equally found his happiness today, majority were happy to witness the occasion.

Alpha Lawn stood up, and as soon as she approached her daughter, everyone moved away.

Valerie threw herself in her father's arms, as they hugged tightly. "You are such a good girl, and you made me so proud," he said, all gazes focused on Scarlet.

Her heart sunk into her stomach like that of Alpha Tristan, but the two warriors who accompanied them were equally afraid.

When Alpha Lawn pulled away, he took the microphone from the Alpha King and began to speak.

"My second daughter Valerie has been coronated, and I can't wait for the coronation of my first daughter, Ashley. It's time for refreshment, but I just want to take a little of your time.

Alpha Denzel held Valerie's hand and led her to their reserved chair so gently, as if she was a baby.

This was the time for him to relax and enjoy the show, but something strange began to happen.

The sound of water like raindrops was being heard by everybody, but the tent was so transparent they could see outside.

It was slightly sunny. Still, the moment Alpha Denzel locked eyes with Valerie, he knew exactly what was happening.

Chapter 346 - I can see the raindrops in your eyes

Chapter 346: Chapter 346 - I can see the raindrops in your eyes

"How are you feeling?" Alpha Denzel asked, care lacing his voice, as he expected something like this.

The coronation was supposed to activate Valerie's powers, as they were not meant for her but rather the pack and anyone who might need it.

He saw the change in her eye color, the cornea turning as clear as water.

Valerie could not keep to herself, feeling slightly feverish and cold.

Then her emotions were equally soaring high, she had no control of it and the sound of the raindrops kept increasing.

"Denzel, I feel strange but I don't know what is happening. I feel like I need fresh air."

That was what she was thinking but Denzel knew it was far from that.

The silent ways she could spy on people and the change in the color of her eyes with the increasing sound of the raindrops left a lot to be investigated.

Denzel held her hand, pulling her gently from her chair, and guiding her to sit on his lap, jaws dropped.

It was surprising to see that the cold man was rather a mate pamperer.

The softness of his eyes and voice, as he spoke to his Luna, not caring about all the people present, made the she-wolves, including the mated ones, question the depth of true love.

It would have been okay with anyone but no one expected it from Alpha Denzel.

He spoke to the hearing of only Valerie. "I really hope you can control it. It must be your powers. I can see it in your eyes."

Valerie's eyes widened, wishing there was a way to see what Denzel was talking about.

"How does it look?"

Their gazes locked as Denzel vividly explained it to her.

"I can see the raindrops in your eyes. It must be connected with your emotions so how exactly are you feeling?"

If he knew what she was feeling, then he could help her to control it.

Valerie leaned in, speaking into his ears but the sorrow lacing her voice caused his heart to ache.

"Everything about the past is coming back and I feel so upset."

She could remember everything as if they were happening in front of her.

Even the pain from the assault and brutalization were all real to her at this moment.

Denzel had the understanding that she was scared and afraid because of all that she recalled.

The ultimate factor being that she was angry and wanted revenge.

If not for her father, he would have allowed her but Alpha Lawn had to finish what he started before anything else.

Therefore, Denzel decided to help her control all those uncomfortable emotions permeating through her body.

"We have to learn what to do with your powers later but try being happy. Everyone is watching you. Let's see if it can be controlled."

Valerie rested her head on his strong shoulders like a spoiled brat. "How can I be happy when Tristan and Scarlet are here?"

She felt the pain as if it was happening at that very instant, Alpha Denzel felt it through the mate bond too and sought ways to curb it.

"You can be happy for the fact that I am here and so is your father, Ashley, and Alessia. Everyone is here because of you. Perhaps, if you tune your anger to gratitude for the fact that Tristan's rejection bonded you to me, it wouldn't be so hard, would it?"

Valerie pulled away and held his soft gaze. His words numbed her pain instantly and she could feel all her anger dissipating.

"I love you, Denzel," she said, the sound of the raindrops gradually subsided until no one could hear it anymore.

Alpha Denzel smiled at her, as everyone wondered, what exactly happened. Where from the sound of the raindrops and how did it stop?

Only Alpha Denzel understood it all "There, you did it and that's why I love you so much."

Valerie shook her head "No. We did it."

Everyone began to clap for them. "This is a match made in the ethereal realm." Luna Fernanda had tears in her eyes as she spoke, emotions arose, as Denzel held Valerie to his chest.

In his absence, she could be a mighty Alpha but for as long as he was there, he would be her protector and her lover. In his arms, she would melt and enjoy the warmth emitted from him, admitting that it made her feel like a baby.

Orion was looking like a walking dead. It was too late for him to steal Valerie's powers but he also found himself in the lion's den.

How foolish was he to have come here?

"Scarlet is the daughter in whom my soul loved," Alpha Lawn's voice was heard from the stage, Scarlet became weak on her knees.

If she was not sitting on the chair, she would have fallen to her knees and Tristan was no better at this moment.

"Daddy, I'm so sorry," Scarlet cried from where she sat, not daring to go near her father.

Confusion brewed in the mind of the attendees, not understanding why it wasn't a happy reunion for Scarlet and her father, just as it was for Valerie and Ashley.

"I just want to know why." Alpha Lawn sounded calm and most people were confused. They had wondered why Scarlet had not gone to welcome her father or sit at the table with him.

However, they could only pin it on her grudge with Valerie but Scarlet's expression left a lot to be desired.

"Dad, I'm sorry. I was so scared." She looked like a zombie from the way her tears washed her makeup.

A scoff escaped Alpha Lawn as he asked her. "Scared of what?"

"That you would hate me if you found out about me and Tristan," Scarlet confessed, hoping that her father would have pity and forgive her but this revelation only made Alpha Lawn angrier.

"This is what it was all about?" He was greatly disappointed, flagging it down. "So, you sent those warriors to..." he paused when he saw the two of them trying to hide their faces. "They are even here."

One of the Alphas, Alpha Calypso, stood on his feet, unable to contain the suspense anymore.

"Alpha Lawn. We are confused here. Are you saying that Luna Scarlet, Alpha Tristan, and these two warriors orchestrated your death?" freewebnøvel.com

As the understanding was sinking in, everyone geared up, about to pounce on Scarlet and Tristan.

Alpha Lawn's expression was grim. "I don't know about Tristan, but my own daughter, whom I love so much, stabbed me in the heart."

The first reaction was shock that permeated through the atmosphere as all attention focused on Scarlet.

Alpha Calypso could still not believe it and asked for clarity. "Alpha Lawn, are you saying she betrayed you, or did she actually stab you in the heart with a dagger?"

There was no pity in Alpha Lawn's eyes as he glared at his last daughter. "Before she arrived, those two already hit me into a state of unconsciousness, but I could hear everything they said." frēwebnøvel.com

The two warriors wished they had not come. For something like this to happen in a pack like this meant death.

"She was the one who stabbed me last. In the heart because she wanted me dead," Alpha Lawn said coldly, the glares on Scarlet were like daggers.

It was as if they were going to kill her with their eyes. She turned to her side where Tristan sat.

"No. Tristan is the one who arranged everything. He was the one who paid the warriors."

Not surprised due to how their love turned bitter over a month ago, he could not stand for her either.

"And you brought the idea. We are in this together so don't pin it all on me," Alpha Tristan yelled. Ashley could not sit down and listen. Rising to her feet, she added her voice.

"Then you set up Valerie, brutalized, disgraced, and almost executed her because of your stupid affair? Scarlet, I wonder what the color of your blood is."

Even if Tristan would betray Valerie, it was well understood, but not Scarlet. As to whether her tears were real, no one could tell as Scarlet cried. "I was naïve. I'm sorry."

Ashley did not come for excuses but justice. "No, Scarlet, naïve people don't hurt others. You are a traitor and a murderer. You betrayed your family."

Ludwig was thanking his stars for rejecting Scarlet. Who knew what embarrassment he would have been facing by now?

"Ashley, our relationship has been hell," Tristan begged, hoping that would gain them some sympathy, but they were far from having it, just as no one had sympathy for Valerie. "The moon goddess already punished us enough."

Ashley scoffed. "Did I hear you right?" She asked mockingly. Valerie was still coiled in Denzel's arms as if the matter did not concern her.

During that time, she stood alone among the hundreds of pack members and all the guests who had come to attend the coronation.

Her desperate cries were met with sneers. Today, she not only had the man she loved by her side but also her father and elder sister standing up for her, so what did she have to do?

"You could have pursued your love interest without offending anyone but chose to take people's lives. For as long as you are alive, you have not been punished enough," Ashley declared.

"Yes, yes, yes," those in attendance were screaming, cheering them on. They all agreed that Scarlet and Tristan should be punished.

It was the same as when the pack members turned against Valerie. Tristan and Scarlet were facing their portion of the pain and shame they caused her.

At least they had each other when Valerie had no one. "Please, have mercy, I'm your blood too," Scarlet cried, her father smiled bitterly.

It was not enough that he almost died because of Scarlet. She had gone ahead to almost execute her sister.

So, what if the moon goddess had not paired Valerie with Alpha Denzel at that moment?

"After what you did, I have the understanding that family isn't only those related by blood but those who love unconditionally. I hadn't had a lot of rapport with Alpha Denzel or even visited the Evergreen pack after the death of his parents, but to make Valerie happy, he made so many sacrifices."

He recalled how everything Denzel did was because of Valerie. It was clear that he loved her and would do anything to make her happy.

"Not to talk about the twins who saved my life. Raven and Ray. They never knew me and were rogues but knew how to love. Their parents accepted me and took care of me," Alpha Lawn recalled aloud.

Due to Denzel calling out Raven earlier, eyes focused on her, but only the Evergreen pack members knew about Ray.

Alpha Lawn was not done and continued to speak.

"When Ashley found out about my condition, she dropped all her dreams to stay at my side. She, whom I had disowned because you told me that she said she hated the pack and preferred the human world." Ashley and Valerie were shocked. No wonder their father was so ruthless by then, thinking Ashley disrespected the pack.

"I never said that," Ashley quickly said, a wedge of shame formed on Scarlet's face as Alpha Lawn continued to speak.

"I discerned that from all the sacrifices you made," he replied to Ashley before his attention went back to Scarlet.

"So don't you dare preach to me about blood. I, Alpha Lawn, order the execution of Scarlet and Tristan."

Both Scarlet and Tristan's cries blended together. "Noooooo."

However, a calm voice spoke, and strangely, it rose above the screams. "Please wait."

Everyone focused on Raven as Alpha Lawn's gaze softened. "What is the problem, Raven?" He asked so softly, Scarlet was jealous.

This was how her father used to treat her, but she seemed to have been replaced.

"I suggest that you banish them to suffer like the rogues," Raven suggested. Many people agreed except those who really knew how the rogues operated.

"It's a nice idea, sweetheart, but these two do not deserve a second chance. They would lead a lot of attacks if given the chance," Alpha Lawn explained to her. Scarlet understood that today would bring their death.

"So, you are going to kill us," she said with a strange resolve, wiping the tears from the corner of her eyes.

"Just as you wanted Valerie dead," Alpha Lawn agreed, but Scarlet suddenly burst into laughter.

"What if I told you that your Luna did not die and is alive?"

Chapter 348 – Please Take Me with You

Chapter 348: Chapter 348 – Please Take Me with You

"What if I told you that your Luna did not die and is alive?" Scarlet asked sarcastically.

It was not only Alpha Lawn who noticed the change in her voice, but also Ashley and Valerie. They observed the shift in her tone, reminiscent of one of their late aunts.

"Why has your voice changed?" Alpha Lawn inquired. Valerie moved away from Denzel, signaling that things were taking a different turn.

Scarlet appeared furious, her eyes piercing. "I loved you so much, but you chose Alma over me."

"Eileen?" Alpha Lawn asked, taken aback by the voice.

Alma was his mate and the Luna of the Yellowstone pack who had passed away during childbirth. Now, Alma's stepsister, Eileen, who had persistently pursued Alpha Lawn without success, claimed that her late stepsister was still alive.

"You got that right, Lawn. What did you think? That my death on the same day as my stepsister, Alma, was a coincidence? No. I loved you too much to not be by your side. Because of how you treated me, I made a deal with an old witch to seek revenge."

Eighteen years ago

Alma, Valerie's mother, lost her mother on her tenth birthday. Her father married Eileen's mother, who already had Eileen from a previous relationship.

The two girls grew up together, and when Alma turned eighteen, she met her fated mate, Alpha Lawn. When Alpha Lawn went to seek her parents' permission to take her with him as his Luna, Eileen sneaked into his room that night.

Alpha Lawn was asleep, but the unfamiliar scent woke him up. "Eileen, what are you doing here?" He was displeased and Eileen's heart ached that he was not pleased to see her.

"I have loved you from the moment I laid eyes on you. Please take me with you," she pleaded. Alpha Lawn was furious.

"If you don't leave this instant, I will ensure that you are banished and never see your family again."

She knew he had the authority to do so because her stepfather was not an Alpha. Alma came from a humble background but was destined to be a Luna.

"Okay, I will go. Can I visit some other time?"

"After what you have done, no," Alpha Lawn firmly refused. In his youth, he was one of the most sought-after Alphas—young, strong, wealthy, and powerful.

Realizing that Alpha Lawn respected the mate bond too much to betray his mate, Eileen tried to find other ways.

"I'm sorry. I don't know what came over me. I won't bother you anymore, and please don't tell my stepsister."

The next day, Alma surprised everyone when it was time for her to leave with her mate.

"Lawn, Eileen will be lonely. Can she come with us?"

"No," Alpha Lawn rejected the idea, but Eileen persisted to the point of no return.

"I don't know anyone in your pack. I will feel lonely when you are busy with Alpha duties and won't be able to see you often. Eileen will keep me company during those times."

Alpha Lawn was not pleased, but making his Luna happy was his priority. Eileen was wise enough not to cause any trouble during her stay at the Yellowstone pack, being a good aunt to her nieces when they were born.

With time, Alpha Lawn assumed that she had moved on from whatever obsession she had for him. However, it bothered him when Eileen stayed in the pack for four years without finding her mate and suggested that she returned to her pack but Eileen refused.

Alma was already pregnant with their third child, and when she went into labor, Alpha Lawn stayed by her side.

"We will get through this, just like we did with Ash and Val," he reassured her, wiping away her tears.

"Lawn, I don't think I can make it this time. My wolf is weak," Alma said weakly.

It was strange that she did not sense that something was amiss with her blood. "Don't talk like that. You will make it," Alpha Lawn said firmly.

However, there were complications, and the doctor asked him to step out.

As he was about to leave, Alma grabbed his hand and said, "Promise me, Lawn, that if anything happens to me, you will never find another mother for our children."

Alpha Lawn paused and stared at her. Fear suddenly gripped his soul, and he felt like he was losing her.

"Please don't talk like that, Alma. But I promise that no other woman will take your place. I vow to be bonded with you until eternity, and nothing can separate us."

Unbeknownst to them, Eileen was eavesdropping behind the door. The declaration made her realize that even if she went ahead and killed her stepsister as the witch had instructed her, she still would not have the man she loved.

Therefore, she harbored resentment toward her stepsister, opting for the second option—to subject her to a life of torment for the rest of her days.

When Alpha Lawn kissed Alma and left the room, Eileen struck a deal with the doctors. While waiting, Alpha Lawn received news that Eileen had fainted.

Led to the ward to check on Eileen, he was informed that she had passed away. However, a piece of good news followed.

"Congratulations, you have a third daughter."

Alpha Lawn was most concerned about his mate. "How is our Luna? Can I see her now?"

"Alpha Lawn, we are very sorry, but we discovered too late that she had contracted a contagious disease and had to be separated from the baby. She did not make it," the doctor apologized.

Something inside Alpha Lawn shattered at that moment. "It can't be true. I want to see her body now," he demanded. The doctor explained to him.

"Alpha, if you also contract this disease, your children and the pack will be at risk. We had to cremate the body."

"No," Alpha Lawn yelled as he grabbed the doctor by the collar. "If you don't show me her body this instant, I will kill you."

To be continued in the next Chapter.

Chapter 349 - You Deserve to Die

Chapter 349: Chapter 349 - You Deserve to Die

The doctor stiffened, having run out of options. "Please come with me." He led Alpha Lawn to the back of the hospital where cremations were usually conducted.

"I am very sorry, but those are her ashes."

Alpha Lawn collapsed to his knees on the ashes, shocking the pack doctor with his declaration. "You and the entire medical team are banished."

The doctor froze. "Alpha, what are you saying?"

"If you respected me as the Alpha, you should not have cremated her without my consent. I will get a new medical team. Warriors, strip them, and get them out of here."

It was too late for the doctor to reverse what had been done. The real body of the Luna had already been sent away, and he had already taken a vow to not mention it, or the wicked witch would drain the life out of him.

Alpha Lawn was so saddened that the only warmth he felt was when he saw his children, who would not stop asking.

"Daddy, where is mommy and our baby sister?" Ashley asked. Alpha Lawn knew he had to stay strong for them.

End of Flashback.

"You said that Alma is still alive. Where is she?" Alpha Lawn asked seriously, ready to go search for his mate.

It's been eighteen years without knowing her whereabouts or whatever suffering she was undergoing.

Alpha Lawn felt like he hadn't done enough for her, but Scarlet, whose true self manifested as Eileen, was angrier.

"All you care about is Alma. Even when I sacrificed my life to possess your last born to enjoy your love, I still had to share it with those two." She pointed her forefinger between Valerie and Ashley. "I could never really have you to myself."

Alpha Lawn had three children, and though he always tried to be fair in his treatment of them, it was still clear that Ashley and Valerie were more favored because they looked like their mother.

Scarlet was so different, and the reason was now clear to everyone. She was Eileen's spirit transmigrated.

It was also the reason why she harbored so much resentment towards the once peaceful family.

Alpha Lawn felt played, and the revelations crippled the occasion. It was as if everyone in attendance had been bound with a spell of silence, but Alpha Lawn broke it.

"Eileen, no matter what you do or become, you will never win my heart."

"I know. I tried to separate you by making you hate Ashley, but you all came back together like one big family. Then I fell in love with Tristan and decided that I didn't need you anymore, so I tried to erase all of you, but somehow, you all still survived."

By the revelation, Alpha Lawn had hope that Scarlet was in there, untainted, and was just a victim of everything going on.

"What have you done to Scarlet? Let her go," he demanded, but Eileen laughed.

It was a bit hard for Alpha Lawn to be speaking to Eileen through the body of his daughter, but he was in for another shocking revelation.

"Alma miscarried your last child, but she was scared you'd be too sad if you heard it. When she confided in me, I took advantage of the situation."

"What exactly did you do?" Alpha Lawn was losing hope. Did it mean that he never had a child named Scarlet, and all along, he had been taking care of his mate's stepsister in another body?

"I told her to have sex with you, and that night, a witch helped me to enter her to be born as your child when she was in labor. That is how you all thought I was dead because my soul left my body and possessed hers."

This was too much for everybody to take. This betrayal was way beyond anyone's greatest imagination.

Alpha Lawn could not accept it as he recalled. "But we cremated your body. You never should have been able to live on." He was certain about that.

Cremation disconnected them from any chance of being reincarnated.

"That is the perfect way. If my body had been preserved, then my soul would have reunited with it, but since you cremated it, this body became mine from the onset."

The explanation paralyzed Alpha Lawn as he realized there was no way Scarlet would be delivered.

If Eileen was killed, she would take Scarlet's body with her, but thinking deeply about it, Scarlet did not even exist, and Tristan felt like he was equally played.

However, his stupidity lay in the fact that he rejected his mate. A growl escaped from Alpha Lawn's throat.

"You deserve to die."

Eileen was unmoved. If she could not have the man she loved, then she had to make his life a misery.

"If you kill me, you will never find Alma."

Alpha Lawn shivered slightly as he thought of a way. If his Luna was alive, then he had to get her back, but what if...

"You are lying to me."

Eileen shook her head, feeling victorious. "Did you forget what happened when the doctors told you that she died? Her body was not found." frēwebnovel.com

Alpha Lawn shook his head as he recalled vividly. "They said she had a contagious disease and already got rid of the body."

"But they did not let you see," she pointed out. Alpha Lawn did not know if it was right that he banished that team of medical doctors, but he took long steps towards where Eileen stood and demanded furiously.

"Where is Alma?"

Her response made her motives suspicious. "Only I can take you there."

Alpha Denzel could not allow this transmigrated human to control them, stepping into the matter because of how everyone seemed to be in a daze.

The revelations were too shocking. "We won't allow you to trick us here. Eileen, Scarlet, or whatever you call yourself."

Eileen's fury was directed at Alpha Denzel, since Valerie still sat on his lap.

"Alpha Denzel, everything happening today is your fault. You should have allowed us to execute Valerie, and all this would not have happened."

Alpha Denzel's glare was so cold, his voice icy. "Fortunately, she is alive as you can see, and this matter is very much my business."

Suddenly, the sound of raindrops was heard, and Eileen began suffocating. Valerie was too angry that her wolf took over but was using her powers.

"Val, at least let's find your mother first. Don't do it now," Alpha Denzel said seriously, hoping that it wasn't too late.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 350 – Bind her and throw her in the dungeon

Chapter 350: Chapter 350 – Bind her and throw her in the dungeon

"Eileen, tell us where Luna Alma is," Alpha Denzel demanded as soon as the sound of raindrops stopped.

He knew it was going to be a long night as events like this would not be organized again for a long time.

This had to end exactly where it began. These Alphas were all there when Valerie suffered the humiliation and had every right to be here to see it end.

He mindlinked Godic. 'Go and bring the chopper.' For as long as Godic was in the pack, the mindlink was active, and if Godic went with a warrior, he could be back in less than thirty minutes or even alone, he could leave the car there and still make it around that time.

As such, Godic was the only person allowed to go out of the tent after Alpha Denzel mindlinked the warriors.

Most of those in attendance were too stunned to notice the extent of Valerie's powers, but Orion was taking every cue.

"If I don't lead you there, the old witch would kill you all," Eileen said breathlessly.

She was transmigrated into the body of the one who should have been Alpha Lawn's daughter, so if Scarlet was physically weak, then so was Eileen.

The only way for her to survive was to follow them on the journey and find a way to run away if given the chance.

Sadly for her, she could manipulate Alpha Lawn but not Alpha Denzel. When he approached her, she shrank back in fear.

"I will say it for the last time. Where is Luna Alma?" Alpha Denzel's all-black formal attire, even on his Luna's coronation, only made him more intimidating.

"I told them to imprison her in the well by the ancient witches' cave."

A shrill tore from Ashley's throat, and Valerie was choking on tears.

The well close to the ancient witches was not a place for a human or she-wolf to dwell. There was hardly enough space to even lay down, and one had to curl up, enduring all the wickedness accompanied by the forces of nature.

Be it the harsh sun in the summer or the snow in the winter, there was just no covering, not to talk of the reptiles that might come to visit as and when they liked.

Alpha Lawn sank to his knees, knowing that Alma would not be able to survive it, and the sound of raindrops filled the room.

"How can you be so heartless?" Alpha Denzel asked rhetorically, while he mindlinked Valerie to distract her due to how Eileen was suffocating.

'Please be patient. As soon as we have your mother, we shall give her the most painful death, or take her to that well permanently.'

Again, his encouragement worked, and the sound of the raindrops ceased. Then Alpha Denzel ordered some of the warriors.

"Bind her and throw her in the dungeon. I will be back."

Alpha Lawn was already up on his feet as Eileen was being apprehended. He chased after Denzel. "Son, you can't go alone."

Valerie had calmed down due to the warriors binding Eileen's hands and legs. She equally hastened to Denzel, as he calmed his father-in-law.

"I have to. I can't endanger anyone. She is my mother-in-law, so I owe this to my mate. I will bring her back before you know it."

"How will you do that, Alpha Denzel?" Eileen asked mockingly. Valerie walked over and slapped her so hard, she toppled over and fell because of her hands and legs that had been bound.

Another kick landed on her stomach and another one on her back. Eileen groaned from pains from both angles, as no one saw when Ashley joined Valerie.

Their long gowns were pulled up, as they gave the woman on the floor the worst kicks of her life.

"You aren't even ashamed," Valerie hissed. If not for Denzel, she would have killed Scarlet or Eileen or whatever her name was right now.

"No. Please no. I wanted to warn him," Eileen spoke breathlessly from the cold floor she laid. Her hair was scattered, and her makeup ruined.

Right now, she was a terrible sight to look upon, and no one felt any atom of pity for her.
