

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 351 – Little Wolf

Chapter 351: Chapter 351 – Little Wolf

As Alpha Denzel, Alpha Lawn, Raven, and Alice stepped out, Godic was landing the chopper. He left and arrived so fast that Alpha Denzel was moved by his diligence.

"Take care of them. We shall be back," he said to Godic when he entered the chopper, but Godic could not bear allowing them to leave alone.

Raven had picked up some herbs, and Alice picked up extra clothes. They had suffered hardship before and were aware of what to expect.

The caterers brought them enough food and water, and they were ready for the journey after ensuring that the tent had been closed again.

"Please let me accompany you. What if there is danger and we can't land? Somebody has to be in the chopper."

With the sense in Godic's words, Alpha Denzel readily agreed. "Okay, let's go."

It was the first time the two ladies saw a chopper and were scared in the beginning, but due to the issue at hand, they held hands and hastened after Alpha Denzel.

Arriving at the witchcraft cave, everything looked deserted, but a well could be seen from a distance. It had iron grills on top of it and was locked with a big padlock.

Even if there was no padlock, it would have been impossible for anyone inside to climb out of it, as its walls were rather smooth.

Godic remained in the chopper, but Alpha Denzel, Alpha Lawn, and the two ladies drew close, and out of nowhere, a woman who looked exactly like Valerie and Ashley appeared in front of Alpha Lawn, hugging him tightly.

Not only Alpha Denzel, but Alice and Raven wondered how the woman could look so young when she was middle-aged.

There was no single gray hair among her long silky hair, and she did not look like someone who was suffering.

"Lawn, I knew you would come. It's been so long, but thank you for coming," she said in a sing-song voice. Alpha Denzel felt something odd.

Alpha Lawn exchanged glances with Alpha Denzel, and without a word, he pushed the woman violently and slapped her hard. The woman staggered backward, holding her burning cheek, which was as red as Alpha Lawn's enraged eyes.

"Lawn, why are you doing this? I thought you came for me." She sounded so offended, and Raven and Alice were confused.

The woman looked like Luna Valerie and her sister, Ashley, so they could not understand Alpha Lawn's reason for being so ruthless.

"I came for Alma." His voice was devoid of emotions, and there was no room for negotiation with his request.

Looking around awkwardly, the woman asked him, "Did you forget? I am Alma."

Alpha Denzel had no idea how Alpha Lawn discerned that this woman was not his mate, though he suspected it.

He soon got his needed answer when Alpha Lawn spoke up. "If you were indeed Alma, then you would not have called me Lawn."

It meant there was some kind of pet name he used for his Luna. The color drained from the woman's face, met with the cold glare from Alpha Lawn as he asked again, "Where is Alma?"

"It's been so long, Lawn, how could I remember?" She maintained her stand, and Alpha Lawn took a step forward, and she took several ones backward.

"If you are indeed who you say you are, then you would have known that there are just some things that can never be faked. What is the promise you made to me?"

Back then, Alma had insisted that he called her by her pet name and promised to never call him by his real name.

Tears fell from the woman's eyes, but Alpha Lawn ignored her and rushed to the well to see an old woman at the bottom.

There were just a few strands of black hair in the mass of gray on her head. Her hands and fingers looked wrinkled, and so were her cheeks and forehead.

She lifted her head weakly when a sudden darkness blocked the light that was cast into the well.

The four people watching down saw the dark image shiver, but her eyes lit up with joy. "Big bad wolf, is that you?"

Alpha Lawn's heart broke, and tears fell from his eyes. "My little wolf, it's indeed you."

His hands reached for the padlock, and he was clueless on how to unlock it. A growl was heard as the figure in the tunnel changed to that of the one outside of it.

The only difference was, Alma looked famished with bruises all over. Either her wolf died or was too weak to heal her anymore.

Her hair was dirty, and the well stank. A movement behind them cast another shadow, and turning around, a large python was headed their way.

"No," Alice yelled, and her hands reddened. It was clear that she was in pain, but her eyes were fearless as the python advanced in her direction when she began to run away.

She had to move the python from the others so she doesn't hurt them, and that required a great deal of power.

"Try to get her out. I have to help Alice," Alpha Denzel said hastily.

Alpha Lawn nodded his head. "Please be careful." The padlock was huge and ancient, and Alpha Lawn was having a hard time breaking it.

Alpha Denzel ran in the direction of the python as Raven did all she could to help Alpha Lawn break the padlock. Seeing no way out, Raven ran back to the chopper.

"Sir, can we get a hammer and a rope?" She asked Godic politely. The guy frowned, feeling like an old man.

"Call me Godic. I don't have a hammer, but I can get you something heavy." He first threw the rope at her before he picked up a huge plier from a toolbox and gave it to her.

Raven thanked him before she ran back to the well, but seeing what was going on with the python, her heart stilled.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 352 - Our Son-in-Law Is Very Tough

Chapter 352: Chapter 352 - Our Son-in-Law Is Very Tough

Raven was unsure whether she should go help Alpha Lawn or Alpha Denzel, but what kind of help could she possibly provide? Alice's hands were burning red, yet the python showed no signs of weakness.

Alpha Denzel attempted to divert the python's attention from Alice, but his efforts were in vain. There were no sharp instruments in sight, and he feared harming Alice if he tried to physically attack the python or shift.

This was no ordinary python; it was a spirit. Alpha Denzel enjoyed engaging in battles of wits with spirits, but this one took a different form before he could even begin.

It was completely unexpected and he wished he had brought Valerie along. Her powers would have helped a great deal.

"Alice, move away!" he yelled, but Alice's eyes remained closed, her hands pressed together, burning so intensely that her skin was peeling off.

Alpha Denzel felt disheartened as he shook her by the shoulder, but she seemed as immovable as a monument. He attempted to lift her from where she stood, but the petite girl felt as heavy as a rock, unyielding.

Raven felt helpless but handed the rope and pliers to Alpha Lawn, who eagerly received them. If he could only rescue his little wolf quickly, he could then assist Alpha Denzel.

"Little wolf, I will get you out," he assured her, but Alma was worried. She was angry for rejecting most of the meals given to her because she wanted to die to prevent the old witch from feeding on her beauty.

The old witch provided her with the best meals, so she would live long and healthy but Alma rejected most of them.

Her punishment for rejecting the food was to be locked in the well.

If she had eaten well, she would have been stronger, but how could she have known that help would come?

She used to have hope, but that changed when she saw a video of everything that happened after she was kidnapped.

Alpha Lawn thought she was dead and would never try to find her.

"She will kill you," Alma warned him, but Alpha Lawn had faith in Denzel's abilities. freewebnovel.com

"Our son-in-law is very tough," he said confidently, causing Alma to ponder.

'Son-in-law?' the middle-aged woman thought to herself. It meant that one of her daughters had already found their mate. She had no idea how many years had passed since she was held captive.

Had it been so long that her daughters were now adults? She thought only a few years had passed, not this long.

In fact, she had stopped hoping, stopped expecting. The sound of metal crashing against the other was so harsh in her ears that she shivered, covering both sides of her ears with her hands.

"It's been so long, and yet these metals do not rust," Alpha Lawn cursed, his hope dwindling after repeatedly hitting the metal padlock without any sign of it breaking.

Normal padlocks would have been destroyed by now.

"Claudia said they were enchanted," Alma's voice echoed from the distance between the bottom and top of the well. Claudia was the name of the old witch.

Alpha Lawn was sweating profusely. Raven had no idea how to break spells, and Alma was too weak to do anything.

"If it's enchanted, then we'll need Alice's powers," Raven thought aloud. But when Alpha Lawn turned to look at Alice, he couldn't bring himself to do it.

"No, we have to find another way." Then a thought crossed his mind. "Alma, do you know of any weaknesses in Claudia's powers? She transformed into a python."

Alma was afraid of dying just as her mate brought her hope. Was this how the Moon Goddess intended to punish her after all these years of suffering?

To see her mate come to her rescue but be unable to save her? "Unless there is someone with magic. If Claudia dies, the padlock will break."

Alpha Lawn felt a slight sense of relief. He had to help kill Claudia quickly. "Alma, I have to help them kill Claudia. I'll be back."

Turning around, he heard a weak voice from the well. "There's another problem. If Claudia dies, this whole place will collapse before I can get out."

Alpha Lawn felt helpless, and Raven, physically weak, could only rely on one person: the one who flew the chopper.

"Let me get Godic to help us," Raven said and ran to the chopper. As soon as Godic saw her through the cockpit, he got down and hurried towards her.

"What's the problem?" he asked eagerly, bending over to avoid the strong wind from the spinning rotor blade.

"The steel won't break," Raven said, fear evident in her eyes.

Godic tried to remain calm as he thought of a solution. He didn't return to the chopper, leaving the engine running as he followed Raven. Remembering Claudia's warning, she turned to inform him.

"She said that if that witch dies, this whole place might collapse."

Godic was already considering how to move the chopper and still allow others to join him.

This was why Alpha Denzel preferred helicopters to private jets. They could land anywhere and were more suitable for situations like this.

"I have an idea. Bring the rope."

As Raven ran to get the rope, Godic sat in the chopper and moved closer. Due to the blades, there was a limit to how close he could get.

"Throw the rope," he instructed, and Raven complied.

As soon as he caught it, he anchored it to the landing skid before getting down from the chopper and running towards her.

Godic had no doubt that Alpha Denzel and Alice would defeat the python, so his only concern was getting them on the chopper before the landslide began.

Reaching the well, he took the pliers and struck the padlock repeatedly, but even with all his strength, it remained intact.

"It's enchanted. Can you help Alpha Denzel and Alice?" Raven asked tearfully. She must have been exposed to harsh conditions all her life, but this was her first-time facing death so closely.

Godic didn't know how either, but suddenly, they heard the sound of the padlock opening.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 353 – She's Too Weak

Chapter 353: Chapter 353 – She's Too Weak

Earlier, Alpha Denzel was unable to move Alice, and with the python not changing direction or even looking his way, he had a feeling that Alice was somehow controlling it.

When he stood in front of Alice, all movements stopped, but the burn was becoming worse. The python did not try to attack him when he stood in front of Alice, meaning she was the target.

'What do we do?' He asked Brutus, who was equally helpless.

'We fight werewolves and not spirit pythons. Give the girl a chance,' Brutus suggested, but Alpha Denzel had no idea if Alice would really succeed at this and could not allow anything bad to happen to her.

'What if she doesn't make it? It would be our fault,' he pointed out to his wolf, but Brutus has always been fearless.

'I'm ready to take the blame. What about you?'

'Same,' Alpha Denzel agreed.

On the same page with his wolf, Denzel moved out of the way, and as soon as that happened, the fire burning in Alice's hand transferred to the python.

Alpha Denzel was shocked by what was happening. Alice knew what she was doing, but the fact that she was burning so much without anything he could do to help her pained him so much.

The python vibrated for a while, its tail wagging defenselessly before it turned charcoal black.

Alice fell on the floor, unconscious, and Denzel quickly carried her in his arms. When he looked in the direction of the well, he was disappointed that Alma was still trapped in there.

"What's going on?" He yelled, his voice dominating the sound of the rotor blade and engine sound.

"She can't hold the rope firmly," Godic answered, adding, "she's too weak." Alma's hands were shaking and could not firmly grasp the rope, so Godic was afraid she might fall if he began to pull up the rope.

Denzel wanted to drop Alice in the chopper before coming back for Alma, but a crack like the sound of an earthquake was heard, sending fearful shivers into all those present.

"What is going on?" Denzel asked, not knowing the extent of the powers of the witch to cause an earthquake even after her death.

Raven replied. "This whole place is going to collapse."

Alpha Denzel changed direction and ran to the well. Seeing the rope anchored to the landing skid, he ordered. "Godic, put her in the chopper and move it."

He entrusted Alice into his hand, but Godic was worried as the side where the python laid before broke. An old unrecognizable woman lay there. That was Claudia's real form; after exchanging so many lives with hers, the souls of those women had all been liberated.

Alice's powers had done a lot to Claudia that she would not be able to recover from, but then, Alice might be unconscious for days.

Claudia was dead, but the things she did had to be undone. When the next part broke and slid away, Claudia's old wretched body fell with it, to wherever it was going under the earth.

"Everyone, join the chopper," Denzel ordered, his eyes red. He couldn't lose anyone as that was not his style.

Godic obeyed and ran to the chopper with Alice in his arms and Raven following him, but Alpha Lawn refused to go. This was his mate, so if death was coming, then it had to take them both.

"I'm not leaving Alma," he said defiantly. Alpha Denzel was beginning to have a headache. freewebnovel.com

This was not the time to argue about these kinds of things when there was so much at stake.

The resolve in his eyes transformed to hastiness as he spoke. "Dad, please trust me."

Alpha Lawn trusted him and did not say anymore, rather running towards the chopper, just as another landslide occurred. Alma's weak scream from the bottom of the well could be heard, but Denzel grabbed the tip of the rope and jumped inside the well.

There was no water, and no one could tell if it was due to the nature of the land or also because of Claudia's spells. At this moment, they were happy there was no water because if that had been the case, then Alma would have died from the cold.

There were tears in Raven's eyes, afraid Alpha Denzel and Luna Alma might die due to the speed of the landslide.

Godic equally wanted to wait a while, but the side where the chopper was parked was beginning to slide, so he began to fly the plane after buckling Alice safely.

"Godic, can't you wait a while?" Raven pleaded with him, afraid of leaving Alpha Denzel and Luna Alma behind.

Godic's eyes were red as tears formed in them, but this was the best he could do. "If I delay anymore, everyone would perish."

He was flying the helicopter higher, but all eyes focused on the well, as it became smaller and smaller with every level they climbed. Godic flew over it, going higher till he felt a weight.

With the tip of the rope in the well, only one person could hold onto the rope. "I think I got them," he said with hope as he caught sight of Alpha Denzel shooting up with dust all over his body. The black suit he wore turned brown, and so were his hair and face.

His one hand held the rope, and another one wrapped tightly around the fragile woman.

Alpha Lawn's eyes lit up when he saw the woman in his arms, grabbing tightly to him. Godic put the helicopter on auto-drive and went to pull them up.

Alpha Lawn and Raven were both afraid of height and were also not knowledgeable of how these machines worked.

Having recovered from motion sickness a while ago, another one kicked in, and Raven felt like puking. As such, she closed her eyes tightly.

Godic pulled up Alpha Denzel and Luna Alma inside the chopper alone before Alpha Lawn got to them.

Alma was unconscious due to the shock, but Denzel was so grateful for Godic's presence, help, and thoughtfulness. "Thanks, Godic," he said with relief, as Godic went to sit at the pilot's side.

When Denzel saw Raven, he did not know whether to laugh or ignore her. "Raven, you can open your eyes now."

She opened her eyes, looking embarrassed, but as soon as she saw the unconscious woman, her eyes lit up, and she geared into action.

However, she stiffened slightly when she saw a familiar mark on the middle-aged woman's arm.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 354 - What is food for the dead?

Chapter 354: Chapter 354 - What is food for the dead?

"Alpha Lawn, does Luna Alma have a birthmark?" She asked seriously, trying to recall where she saw the mark before.

Denzel was suspicious of the question she asked and equally questioned her. "Where is the mark?"

There was a mark behind Luna Alma's wrist like a sword tattoo. "Oh, that. She used to be the best sword warrior in her pack and was given that tattoo."

Robin sighed with relief. Perhaps it was not what she thought it was. "Can we clean her up a bit? I have to rub some herbs all over her," she asked, looking at the woman who was covered in dust.

Alpha Denzel, who used to take his hygiene so much into consideration, was equally covered in dust but for the first time, neglected any kind of care for himself, rather focusing on the people he was protecting.

"I will wash her," Alpha Lawn said, but Denzel knew there was no bathroom on this chopper. It was just a toilet and a washbasin.

"Godic, we need a swim," Alpha Denzel said, and Godic nodded his head. As soon as they saw a river, he landed at the bank.

Alpha Lawn carried Luna Alma into the river and bathed her, using the toiletries they carried along, but Denzel dived deeper and by the time he came out, he was clean and fresh.

When they were onboard the chopper, they never made any more stops. Raven had already prepared the herbs by the time Alpha Lawn was done and began applying them to Alma.

The difficult part was giving her the oral ones because she was still unconscious, but thanks to the first herbs, Alma regained consciousness but was too weak to speak.

After Raven gave her the oral one, she fell back into a state of unconsciousness as Raven said, "All we can do now is wait."

Alpha Denzel stared at Alice's unconscious form, hoping she would wake up anytime soon. The scary part was, she was still red.

That girl had destroyed Claudia with her powers, and he honestly wished there was any help he could offer her.

Unfortunately, they had been through this before, and Alice would be fine after a good rest. This was the worst burn she faced, and it crawled to her face and upper body.

With two people being unconscious, no one had the appetite to eat at a time like this.

Even Alpha Lawn, who had a phobia for heights, instantly got over it. Alpha Lawn kept his gaze on Alma with tear-filled eyes.

The fact that all these years, she was in torment while he lived and had the best necessities of life.

Only if there was a clue of her being alive or if he had dug into the matter much more than he did on that day.

With everyone on board, Alpha Denzel made a call to the pack as soon as they were in a coverage area.

"Val, everyone is safe, but Alice is unconscious from using her powers. We found your mother too, but I must warn you. Her situation isn't good."

Valerie broke down instantly, but before she could speak, the line had disconnected. The network was unstable due to the high and low sea lands.

At the reception, Valerie could not focus on anything, checking the time and worried about them, especially Alice.

She had used her powers again from the time she used it to save the pack. Valerie felt guilty.

When they rescued Alice from the Black fur pack, they promised to not use her powers but had to go back on their words over and over again. freewebnovel.com

She knew that Alice would never complain no matter how much it hurts, making it very painful to see her like that.

"Val, you have to let me go. The old witch Claudia would kill them." Eileen's voice interrupted her thoughts as the voice never returned to that of Scarlet.

The real owner of the body finally revealed herself, and Valerie was thinking of the worst kind of punishment to give her.

Eileen was so ruthless, and no one could blame any of the Lawns for being equally ruthless in handling the matter.

"With Denzel there, I doubt it," Valerie responded calmly, never intending to let Eileen in on what Denzel said.

From all indications, the witch was dead, and all that mattered was the recovery of those injured.

Eileen felt helpless in the situation, knowing partly that her punishment would be too great if Alpha Denzel and his team returned.

She was hungry but could only inhale the aroma of all the dishes being served.

With her hands and feet tied together, there was no means of escape for her, but as she thought about all the pleasures she enjoyed as Scarlet, she began to regret all that she did.

Given the chance, she should have lived a better life, as the moon goddess had even gifted her a mate.

"Please, can I have some food?" She finally lowered her pride and asked, but funny enough, everyone in attendance laughed.

"What is food for the dead?" One of the members of the Evergreen pack mocked. "It would just be a waste," he added, and Eileen felt her throat dry.

Everyone in attendance wanted a piece of her, and if given a chance, she could even be butchered by them.

"Everyone makes mistakes. Tristan. We are in this together, but you have been fed. Are you so heartless?"

The food tasted bitter in Tristan's mouth, as even he did not know what kind of fate awaited him. "I only knew you as Scarlet. You are the one who brought the idea of us eliminating Alpha Lawn. I only spoke to the warriors, but everything else was planned by you."

Eileen laughed bitterly. "Do you think they would spare you? You better help me to escape."

"I know they won't spare me, but it's high time we face our punishment. I rejected Luna Valerie, and Alpha Denzel has raised her status so high, she is out of my league, and I don't dare to even look her in the eyes.

Tristan was so full of regrets, but it was too late.

"Luna...I mean Alpha Val," Orion said from where he sat, and Valerie could feel him trying to invade her senses.

The guy was indeed powerful by having a mind gift. How, ever, he managed to infiltrate her mind; she could not tell, but this was not looking good.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 355 – Fire and Water

Chapter 355: Chapter 355 – Fire and Water

"Get out of my head," Valerie responded to the voice, but nobody could hear her except Orion.

A Mindlink could only be between pack members, and Orion was not a pack member, so Valerie could not deem it so.

Also, he was trying to take control of her mind, but she wondered exactly what he wanted to achieve with that.

Whatever powers Orion had must be so strong but were still no match for an Alpha wolf with special powers.

"Alpha Val, you are a very beautiful and strong woman. We have a lot in common and can control the world together. Just say I'm in aloud. No one would understand, but our powers would join together."

Valerie could feel an annoying headache accompanying every word that proceeded from his mouth, as if something was piercing through her mind.

It was even trying to control the words that would come out of her mouth, but she could also feel Astrid trying to resist this mind attack.

If Orion succeeded, there was no doubt he could be able to control Valerie like a puppet. "You better stop trying the mind-controlling game. It won't work," Valerie said aloud, all attention turned to her.

Nevertheless, with her glare on Orion, they partly understood who she was referring to but could not understand what she meant by it all.

Caught, shame covered his face, and the connection broke because of the great resistance.

"Val, eat something." Ashley dished out food for Valerie, but she did not have the appetite. Ashley herself had not eaten but was more concerned for Valerie.

The latter refused politely. "I won't eat until they return."

How could she eat when she hadn't done any work? Those who did all the work must be hungry and tired now.

Still, she was glad to have stayed behind. If not, Orion could have used the same trick he used on her on somebody else, and end up creating a problem or even taking over the pack.

The emcee and the Alpha King continuously came up with interesting activities to entertain the guests and take their minds off the wait.

Everyone knew that once Alpha Denzel started something, he would end it the same day.

Tristan could not tell where his faith laid as Scarlet turned out to be something else.

She was still on the floor whereas everyone else ate and drank as if she did not exist.

When mealtime was over, the DJ released a selection of songs that caught their interest. Most people began to dance with their partners, and the unmated werewolves and she-wolves danced with each other.

It was late, but no one was eager to leave, waiting to hear the outcome of Luna Alma. Valerie had been silent with the information she had, and aside from supervision, she was indeed not enjoying her own coronation reception.

Luna Fernanda and Alessia stood by Valerie. She had all the support in the world this time, and though some of the Alphas wanted the opportunity to attack the pack, none of them dared to do so with such a strong network.

'Alpha Val, I can hear the sound of a helicopter from a distance,' a Mindlink flooded Valerie's mind from the gate for the first time since her coronation.

A direct Mindlink from a pack member at a time like this was divine. Before she could respond to the Mindlink, a heavy engine sound was heard, and Valerie murmured.

"They are here."

She rushed outside when it landed and saw her father carrying her mother, covered in herbs. "Oh goddess, what happened?" A flood of emotions was swaying her here and there.

Valerie did not know whether to be happy her mother was found or be saddened by her condition.

It was a blend of emotions squeezing her heart.

"Long story. Alice is unconscious," Alpha Denzel hugged her and said. He missed her so much, and for a moment when he felt trapped in that well with Alma, he thought he would never see her again.

It was just good that Godic had anchored the rope to the landing skid, which forcefully pulled them up when the chopper went up.

"I can help her," Valerie said. Alpha Denzel was slightly skeptical. "Are you sure? She overused her powers and might need days of sleep."

Valerie knew she got this. If she had the powers from the lake, which was water, and Alice had powers that caused burns, then that was fire.

"No," Valerie said and stared at the frail woman in Alpha Denzel's arms. "Hold her tight," she instructed.

Alpha Denzel obeyed, and Valerie's pupil changed into the shape of a raindrop. The clouds gathered, and the rain poured, only on Alpha Denzel and Alice.

A strong cough escaped Alice as if she was choking on the water and she tried to free herself with force.

Valerie's eyes returned to normal, and the rain stopped. Denzel grabbed hold of Alice tightly and watched her skin return to its former glow, looking as perfect as before.

"How is that possible?" Denzel asked, confused. This was great news, meaning that Valerie could find a way for Alice to use her powers without getting burned.

Valerie smiled, glad to have followed her instinct. What she did not know was if she could help her mother to recover faster, but the fact that Alice was well lifted a heavy burden from her shoulders.

"We depend on each other. The water quenches the fire."

Alice got back on her feet, wet from the water, and so was Alpha Denzel who had carried her before.

"Luna Valerie, Alpha Denzel, what happened?" Alice asked excitedly, filled with renewed strength. She had no idea of exactly how she got better, but everything that happened before remained fresh in her mind.

"We shall talk about it later. You all look famished. Have you not eaten?" Valerie asked worriedly. Alpha Denzel shook his head, having no appetite for food.

"Two people were unconscious, so there was no time. Raven left with your mom and dad, so we can get the maids to serve her there. Let's finish up here."

Surely, Raven and Alpha Lawn would not be able to return for the reception, but Alpha Denzel had to end things. freewebnovel.com

Though he wore casual clothes, he could not bother changing into formal attire. Valerie nodded her head in agreement.

"It's time to bring justice to the victims."

She suddenly recalled something and alerted Alpha Denzel. "Orion tried to get into my mind."

The expression on Alpha Denzel's face, could burn the sea.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 356 - Val, you don't have to watch this

Chapter 356: Chapter 356 - Val, you don't have to watch this

As soon as Alpha Denzel entered the tent with Valerie, the music was turned off. Murmurs broke out, and everyone went back to their seats.

Looking tired, Alpha Denzel had no intention of taking up much of their time. Orion looked like he wanted to pee in his pants.

Counting his sins, he knew a man like Alpha Denzel would never forgive him. Then again, another thought crossed his mind.

What if he used his powers to manipulate Alpha Denzel's decision concerning him? Seducing spirits could be powerful in that area.

The thought warmed his heart, and he began to think about how to implement it.

Spartan walked up worriedly to Alpha Denzel, followed by Luna Fernanda and Alessia. Ashley also stood by Valerie's side as the guests waited for news.

Alpha Denzel looked tired, and Ashley felt guilty to question him, but luckily, Alessia did so on her behalf.

"How did it go?"

"Everyone is safe, but Luna Alma needs a lot of rest. Alice and Raven are at the packhouse," Alpha Denzel summarized.

The relief sighs on their faces were heartwarming, as Alpha Denzel was comforted by the fact that his friends were more than his enemies.

Alessia was about to ask about Godic when the latter entered after checking a few things on the helicopter. Everyone had left him, but it was understandable.

However, his fatigue disappeared when Alessia wrapped her arms warmly around him. It felt good to be in the arms of his mate once again.

Most of the people in attendance were very tired after dancing so much. "Val, did you see mom?" Ashley asked curiously, hinting at knowing her mother's condition.

It seemed strange to her that after so many years, they were going to be reunited with their mom.

"Not clearly. Dad already took her away," Valerie said with a sorrowful expression.

Having been starved at a party, Eileen wished the ground would open for her to enter. This was the first time she was denied a basic necessity like food or water.

Alpha Denzel walked towards her as he told Valerie, "Val, you don't have to watch this. You and Ashley can go to the pack house."

This was Valerie's coronation, and he felt she should not witness anything barbaric, but Valerie equally raised the fact that her fellow Lunas were there.

"We are not the only she-wolves, but why don't we keep her where she kept mom?" Valerie asked with a painful look.

Eileen made their mother suffer for eighteen years without anyone knowing or even thinking of rescuing her.

Alpha Denzel explained, "The place was destroyed after Claudia's death. Val, I never felt so close to death like I was today." He shivered slightly at the mention of his own words. The thought of never seeing Valerie again was the most painful of it all. freewebnovel.com

Valerie could only imagine exactly what happened, but Alpha Denzel wanted her to have a better understanding to not feel pity for her enemies.

"Val, your mother was in a well, locked with iron grills. Her condition was terrible, and she was too weak to even grab hold of a rope. Aside from that, the grills were enchanted, and the padlock would not open."

Tears filled Valerie's eyes. She imagined it as if her mother had been kept in a cage. "So how did you get her out?"

The guests equally had sympathetic looks on their faces, and their anger towards Eileen multiplied, but they were curious in knowing more.

Luna Valerie's coronation was both amazing and sorrowful. "I had to go in there, and the moment I caught her, everything was falling apart."

This was the first time Alpha Denzel exposed his inner fears, not only to Valerie but even to strangers.

"Val, I was scared. I was just imagining how you would feel if you found out I died in that well with your mother, but luckily, Godic had anchored the rope to the landing slide, and that was what saved us."

Valerie smiled and hugged him. Godic has always been trustworthy, be it in Vegas or the pack, treating his Alpha, don, and brother-in-law like his blood relative.

"I felt better when I heard Godic had gone with you. I knew he would always watch out for you," Valerie said honestly.

When she pulled away, Denzel forced a smile and revealed, "But I have to warn you. Your mother might have more terrible stories to tell you. That witch impersonated her, and after your father made her out, she turned into a python. I'm so happy you were able to help Alice."

Another terrible moment during the rescue was watching Alice's skin burn and being unable to do anything about it.

He had felt useless at the moment until he realized Alice was in control of whatever she was doing.

"Thank you so much, Denzel. I don't know what I would have done without you, but what do we do with her?" Valerie glared at the woman who was the epitome of their problems on the floor.

No wonder she always looked different. Valerie and Ashley were two years apart in age but looked almost like twins.

Whereas, Scarlet looked as if she were from different parents.

"Obviously, she can't continue living. Her rival is alive," Alpha Denzel said thoughtfully.

As much as he would have loved to keep her alive just to continue torturing her, he also thought about getting vengeance for Alma, who was the victim of everything that transpired.

Even without asking, Valerie guessed what he meant. "Wait, why don't we wait a few days for my mom to get better? She suffered the worst," she suggested.

Her mother should witness the torture of her stepsister. Only if she would have the mental capacity to watch.

Valerie knew that such suffering could even cause her mother to lose her wolf. If that be the case, then her healing would take much longer than anyone expected or wanted.

Anger darkened Valerie's gaze. "Warriors, beat her," she ordered. Eileen's screams filled the room when she was kicked from all angles, she began bleeding from the mouth and nose, but no one took pity on her.

Valerie's next move crushed Eileen's soul.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 357 - Val, I took care of you, remember?

Chapter 357: Chapter 357 - Val, I took care of you, remember?

Eileen was so battered, she groaned from the pain. She had lost the strength to scream, especially since she had not eaten.

"Eileen, I would never allow you to have a peaceful death. Even after your body is cremated, you will never forget the torment you will face in this pack."

Valerie would make sure of it. Every day she would watch her mother's recovery and ensure that Eileen felt the loss and despair her mother had experienced in that so-called well in the middle of nowhere.

"Throw her in the dungeon without food or water," Alpha Denzel ordered. Eileen, who was beginning to heal slowly, started pleading with Valerie.

"Val, I took care of you, remember?"

Disgust etched on Valerie's face as she responded to the hypocrite she had known as her aunt for all these years.

"My mother would have taken better care of us if you had not done what you did." She glared at the warriors, and Eileen's leg was lifted with her body dragged on the floor.

Her silent cries did nothing to appease the angry people in attendance at the reception, and her injuries were severe, requiring medical attention to heal properly. But it was clear that no help would reach her.

Valerie's gaze focused on Alpha Tristan after Eileen was out of view. Strangely, Tristan no longer showed fear, having come to terms with the fact that this was the day he was going to die.

"As for you, Tristan, it is clear that you are no longer the Alpha of the Yellowstone pack, and no gathering would be needed for that. Denzel, what do we do with him?" Valerie asked curiously, and everyone was stunned by Alpha Denzel's response.

"Val, I know you want him dead for all he did to you, but I'm rather grateful to him. You would still be with him if not for his rejection, and for that, I can't think of punishing him."

Initially, all he felt towards Tristan was pain, anger, and bitterness. However, after all the joy Valerie brought into his life, he kept asking himself the same question over and over again: what would have happened to him if Tristan had not rejected Valerie.

Valerie was not pleased with this response and asked him, "What about what he did to my father?"

Alpha Denzel shrugged, already having an answer to the question.

"It's obvious that everything was planned by Eileen. Tristan was just trying to appease the woman he loved."

Everyone was shocked, as no one would have guessed that Alpha Denzel, of all people, would be so lenient in a matter like this.

Valerie did not intend to go against his wish but was not pleased to let Tristan go just like that.

"So, you think we should just let him go?"

Tristan's eyes lit up with hope, thinking Alpha Denzel would save him, but he was disheartened by the response.

"Far from it. I would have gladly let him go if he had not ordered your execution." Alpha Denzel's eyes suddenly darkened, and Luna Valerie's heart warmed. For a moment, she thought Denzel had lost his mind.

"How about we execute him too?" Alpha Denzel suggested. If he had not been there to rescue Valerie, she would have died from execution, so it was up to Tristan if he would have someone to stand in to save him.

Tristan's heart sank. He should have ordered Valerie to be sent to the dungeon but instead ordered her execution.

That was because they feared the pack members finding out the truth and seeking justice for her.

Tristan's mistake was too significant, and there was no excuse strong enough to save him from execution.

His response amazed the couple and everyone present. "I deserve it. You don't have to feel bad about it. Luna Valerie would have been dead if Alpha Denzel had not saved her that day."

The glares directed at Tristan were ones of confusion. Some people began to think he deserved a second chance for owning up to his mistakes, but no one could find a strong enough explanation to spare him from execution.

As long as Alpha Denzel was involved, it was an eye for an eye, and no one could oppose it.

Having accepted his punishment, there was no point in beating around the bush. But an important person was missing in this whole situation, and Alpha Denzel would never usurp any Alpha's authority.

"Your judgment is passed, but I am not your Alpha. If Alpha Lawn had not returned, I would have executed you already. But since he has returned as the Alpha of the Yellowstone pack, I will leave the matter as it is for him to be the final judge. Throw him in the dungeon too," he instructed.

Tristan was hurled away, but Alpha Denzel suddenly recalled something and said to everyone present.

"I remember vividly that he also caused my Luna shame and humiliation. I want him beaten to a pulp."

Before the words even left his mouth, five warriors gave Tristan the beating of his life while recording it to send to his former pack members.

They might not know the full story until they saw Alpha Lawn, but this was enough to let them know that Tristan would no longer be allowed to return to the pack.

Tristan was in immense pain, and his wolf shrank away, leaving him to himself since his wolf had warned him.

At that moment, he felt like a helpless human, making the pain worse with healing far from him. Worse would be the fear of waiting for his execution.

It was impossible to escape or heal from the dungeons of the Evergreen pack due to the coatings of wolfsbane on the thick, cold walls of the dungeon.

Alpha Denzel's attention settled on Orion. "What were you trying to do?" he asked with a low growl, and Orion's heart sank to his stomach. How stupid of him to have tried to invade Alpha Denzel's mind like he did with Luna Valerie?

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 358 - How do you know it isn't the moon goddess?

Chapter 358: Chapter 358 - How do you know it isn't the moon goddess?

"Alpha Denzel, this is all a misunderstanding," Orion began to beg.

His powers were ineffective over the couple, which meant there was something stronger keeping them together.

"Rope," Alpha Denzel ordered as he marched towards Orion. His gaze was scary, and whoever stood close quickly gave way.

He was not going to waste any more of his guests' precious time. The fury in his voice was a warning to Orion that he had gone too far.

"A misunderstanding is when you beat up and almost killed my sister-in-law?" Not even a kid would believe such a cock and bull story.

Alpha Denzel had endured it for so long; it was now time to release all the pain and bitterness he held in.

Ashley was touched that Alpha Denzel was avenging her, and Alpha Idris was very happy about it.

He had not forgotten and planned to remind Alpha Denzel, but this only proved that Alpha Denzel would never forget the people who stood by him.

A kick sent Orion to the floor. "Alpha, the rope." Burke threw the rope to him.

Godic looked at Burke with a smile; this was what he used to do before, but now, his responsibilities in Vegas were greater.

Alpha Denzel caught the rope and with a swing, it wrapped around Orion's neck. Pulling hard, Orion was smashed on the floor face down, his gums and nose already bleeding.

Luna Ahuma did not know how to help Orion, afraid that Alpha Denzel and the other Alphas' anger would be directed towards her.

"Please, Alpha Denzel, she was never the target."

Alpha Denzel was even more enraged, and pulling on the rope, it tightened around Orion's neck, and those around quickly gave way.

"So, my Luna was the target. You almost killed Ashley and are now telling me it was what you wanted done to my Luna?"

Fuck! Orion, realized too late that he had made a mistake. Silence would have been better for him than trying to plead his case.

Most people who were only hearing now what he had done knew that the man on the floor had a death wish.

Alpha Denzel pulled the rope tighter, making Orion choke on it after being strangled.

Orion did not want to die, so with his last breath, he summoned the deceiving spirits, but they seemed afraid of Alpha Denzel, refusing to appear.

He was choking, and Denzel was only waiting for him to take his last breath when the rope suddenly tore, with Orion struggling for air on the floor.

"What is going on?" Alpha Denzel was confused, and so was Luna Valerie but she was not willing to let things be. Orion almost killed her sister and did not deserve to live.

"He's using some kind of powers. Let me handle it."

Her pupil formed the shape of a rain drop as she was about to use her powers when an image appeared.

"The moon goddess," they murmured, everyone going on their knees, with the exception of Valerie and Denzel.

There was something fishy. "What do you want here?" Denzel asked, but the response caused him to suspect that it was not really the moon goddess but another impersonating spirit, though her back was turned, and no one could see her face.

"Aren't you tired of the killing? How could you turn a beautiful day into one of bloodshed?" The feminine voice was calm but resonated power.

"Out of my pack," Denzel yelled, his anger out of control, but his guests panicked.

"Alpha Denzel, do you not know the moon goddess? Do you want to die?" The Alpha King chastised him.

Every werewolf revered the moon goddess, but Alpha Denzel was not only disobeying. He was disrespecting her.

"Denzel, I brought your Luna a coronation gift," the woman said, adding, "you can all relax."

Everyone sat back in their chairs, but Valerie and Denzel remained standing with their hands joined together.

"We are not accepting it," Denzel said, his gaze dark and glued to the man on the floor. No one, including the moon goddess herself, would be able to stop him from shedding that man's blood.

Alpha Denzel would never forgive him.

"Denzel, don't you want your Luna to give you an heir?" The woman asked, and the people in attendance broke into murmurs.

"How could we have forgotten? Alpha females do not have wombs and cannot give the pack a pup."

The person spoke in a way that made it difficult to discern if she was speaking for or against Valerie.

Those who envied the Alpha wolf earlier suddenly felt more relaxed at the fact that Valerie would not be able to give the pack an heir.

Denzel's enemies smiled. They might not be able to fight him themselves, but their children would. Only Denzel and Valerie's DNAs would be able to form a pup as strong as them.

"I said leave," Alpha Denzel growled, his anger burning. Spirit or not, it did not mean he would not try to kill it off, especially when it was on the verge of ruining his day. "It doesn't concern you, you deceiving spirit."

Everyone saw the panic in the woman's eyes and began to understand Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie's reasons for not bowing to her, but before anyone could ask, Denzel disentangled his hand from Valerie, his claws elongated, and he hastened to the man on the floor.

His claws dug into the back of Orion as he lifted him up, his claws digging deeper with blood dripping on the floor. Orion was screaming from excruciating pain, and the woman who claimed to be the moon goddess was covered in fear.

"If you came to save him because you gave him your powers, it won't work. No one touches my family and lives to tell the story."

Alpha Denzel was so furious, his expression turned ugly, but everyone was amazed by his great sense of discernment.

"How do you know it isn't the moon goddess?" Alpha King Spartan asked in shock, staring at Alpha Denzel like some kind of a god.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 359 - Who gave you so much power?

Chapter 359: Chapter 359 - Who gave you so much power?

"It's not the first time she has tried to play such stupid tricks on me," Denzel said, making sure to expose Orion in front of whoever empowered him.

frēewebnoveℓ.com

All that was left of her were silent groans. As the spirit was about to speak, they saw chains on her hands, legs, and neck, but there was nothing holding her.

The ways of the spirit were different from those of humans. Even so, they could see that the woman was restricted, and the moment she turned to face them, they knew she was not the moon goddess but a deceiving spirit.

The moon goddess would not have allowed anyone to see her face. Now, they looked at Alpha Denzel with greater respect.

Alpha Denzel felt the presence of the real moon goddess but, not wanting to be stopped, his other claw tore Orion's throat before his body hit the floor.

Luna Ahuma was stupefied. The Luna and Alpha of the Evergreen pack were not ones to be trifled with.

Satisfied, Alpha Denzel instructed one of the warriors. "Get rid of the body. The moon goddess is here," he announced, and everyone was amazed when a woman appeared with her back turned to them.

Nobody dared to try looking at her face, as legend said whoever did so would die. Denzel had done that and was unconscious for a long time.

It was not of interest to him to try seeing her face again.

The moon goddess did not address Denzel but rather the chained spirit. "Goddess of deception, I warned you. There are repercussions for trying to be me when you are not me."

For a long time, the moon goddess had been subdued, and many had fed on her powers to cause trouble, but this time, it was all over.

The expression on the face of the goddess of seduction showed that she was indeed surprised to see the moon goddess.

The ethereal realm was filled with activities, and the moon goddess was always busy, but somehow, she managed to make time for tonight, making it to the reception to deal with the goddess of seduction.

Unable to break free from the spiritual chains, the goddess of deception yelled, even as the back of the moon goddess was turned to her.

"Let me go."

"No. You have caused enough damage. I hereby condemn you to eternal bondage for a thousand years. The chains shall remain with you," the moon goddess declared ruthlessly, and the goddess of seduction was shocked.

She not only operated among werewolves but also other creatures, so if the moon goddess bound her, then how would she be able to appear to those other creatures?

"You can't do that. You don't have the right." Pain resonated from the voice of the goddess of deception, but the moon goddess had news.

"You gave me that right by impersonating me several times." Each of the goddesses and gods operated in different categories, but the moment any of them trespassed terribly on the other, it would open them up for attack and defeat.

The moon goddess wisely used this rule against the goddess of deception to keep her bound for a thousand years.

"My children would still work in my stead," the goddess of deception boasted, but the moon goddess was not perturbed.

"Agreed, but they shall never be as powerful as you."

The moon goddess did not care for those little children of the goddess of deception, as they were not half as powerful as their mother, even with their powers joined together.

"The goddess of deception would avenge me," the goddess of deception said, trying to comfort herself, but the moon goddess had news for her.

It was because of her and her children that Denzel became who he was. If they had not interfered in the lives of the moon goddess's creation, things would have been far better, and a lot of killings would not have happened.

Selene, the moon goddess's only concern was for them to stop impersonating her.

If they were able to do that, she would not have a problem with them. It was just that Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie were strong, having minds of their own, but others have fallen because of such spirits.

"For as long as she doesn't take my form, Denzel would recognize her, but if she takes my form, she would also be chained," the moon goddess said seriously, and the goddess of seduction paused and thought for a while.

"What? Who gave you so much power?"

The moon goddess was powerful, but she was not all-powerful. There were higher-ups. Selene vividly explained it to her.

"I always had it, but it was stolen from me by the goddess of the lake. Valerie took it from her, and because she used it to save her pack member, I grew stronger."

"I don't understand," Valerie interfered in the battle among spirits.

"Come here," the Moon goddess said softly. Valerie stood behind her and did not try to look her in the face.

"For over a thousand years, the powers from the lake were used for evil, and that weakened me. Astrid is my sister, and when you summoned her in the water, she took the powers with her because of your kind heart."

Valerie was touched. Because her wolf died, the Moon goddess had sacrificed so much to appease her by sending her sister, Astrid, to protect her.

"If you had not forgiven Denzel, you would not have had her." Selene was impressed by the strength of their love, even when the mate bond was taken from them. "With every challenge you overcome after they are thrown your way, your powers would grow stronger."

Valerie looked displeased. All she wanted was to have a pup for the pack and live the rest of her life in peace.

Wars were part of their nature, but that did not mean there was no longing for peace. "So, you mean there are more challenges on the way?"

Selene was honest with her. "I'm afraid so, and what Alice said was right. A great war is coming. I hope you make the right choice."

Recalling Alice's horrendous dreams, Valerie did not want to be faced with such choices. "Can't you prevent it?"

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 360: Chapter 360 - Blessed by the Moon Goddess

No one could see the Moon Goddess's face, but they could tell from her voice that she was equally frustrated.

If she had her way, she would make the life of her children perfect but there were other gods watching from the ethereal realm.

"I'm afraid not. It's your destiny. You have an Alpha wolf and strong powers. It's not for sitting under the summer hut drinking mocha. But don't worry. You have Denzel with you as well."

If only Denzel knew that his previous disagreements with the Moon Goddess were due to the challenges she faced in the ethereal realm and the fact that her powers had temporarily been taken away.

There were battles she fought for her children that they would never know of. Though knowing that Denzel had a grudge against her before, it did not stop her for still loving him as her strongest creation. freewebnovel.com

"You know what we want," Valerie reminded her. They had everything: love, power, wealth, and family, but they needed an heir.

With Valerie not showing signs of being pregnant, she was afraid Denzel would one day grow weary of her or be pushed to the wall to take a surrogate.

Having an Alpha wolf had its pros and cons, Valerie was now thinking about.

If she had known, she would have delayed the coronation until after she got pregnant, but now that she was announced to the world, there was so much expected of her, especially with giving the pack an heir.

"Denzel already said that you create your own destiny."

In other words, they could have their heir and still overcome all their challenges.

Selene's voice resonated through her thoughts. "I love what you have become, Val, but now, I have to go."

The Goddess of Deception was afraid as she was being dragged away by the Moon Goddess. No one could see what she was going through.

"No, don't take me. I won't go with you," the Goddess of Seduction cried but disappeared with the Moon Goddess as her voice faded with the wind.

The voice of the Moon Goddess echoed, even when they could not see her anymore. "You must face punishment, but the Evergreen pack would forever be blessed."

Denzel smiled, and so did Valerie, as they joined hands together. All was not lost. "She blessed us. Did you notice?" Valerie asked with childish excitement. Denzel thought that she looked adorable.

"We have always been blessed," he kissed her on the cheek. Pulling away, he wrapped his arms around her. "It's a sure sign that nothing and no one would be able to defeat us."

Valerie leaned into his chest as he instructed the warriors. "Cremate this body."

He was referring to Orion's corpse. Then he turned to Burke and instructed, "Burke, please make sure our guests are comfortable."

The members of the Evergreen pack were already retiring to their homes, and those who had been received at the pack house earlier had equally left, so it reminded those who arrived this morning.

Their packs were not far, but still, it was too late for them. A few of them decided to leave, as they had not planned to sleep over and had not brought their daily necessities.

The fraction that was left behind to be hosted was still overwhelming. This was a day Burke knew that all the guest rooms in the pack house would be filled to the brim for the first time, and the catering company would have to serve everyone breakfast after they wake up, as it was already morning.

He was happy for the fraction that decided to leave, escorting them to their cars with the help of Ashley, Luna Fernanda, Alessia, and the Alpha King.

As they were about to leave, Valerie recalled something after seeing two familiar people and revealed, "What about the warriors, Darius and Sun?"

The two warriors froze in place. They were initially happy that everyone had forgotten about them, but not Valerie.

Those who brutalized her during her first coronation had been taken care of by Alpha Denzel and Godic earlier on, but these two were still breathing free because they had not taken part in brutalizing Luna Valerie.

At that time, they were assigned to be welcoming the guests.

If they had told Alpha Lawn what Tristan and Scarlet planned, they would have been rewarded by choosing to betray their Alpha.

"Beat them and throw them in the dungeon. Alpha Lawn would pass the final judgment," Alpha Denzel declared.

There were no worries. Videos would circulate on how the people in the dungeon were dealt with later.

Darius and Sun were being dealt with when Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie left.

As they approached the pack house hand in hand, Alpha Ludwig hastened to Alpha Denzel, and what he said made Alpha Denzel sad.

"Alpha Denzel, there is something very important I want to discuss with you."

With all the guests being hosted at the pack house, he was sure to not see Alpha Denzel at the time he would be ready to leave, or Alpha Denzel might just not have the time, so this was the best opportunity.

"Go ahead." Alpha Denzel stopped and said to him as Valerie went ahead to the pack house, eager to see her mother.

With a slight nervousness, Alpha Ludwig gathered momentum to let it all out. "That girl, Raven, is my second chance mate."

Sorrow dulled Alpha Denzel's eyes. He had good plans for Robin and also liked the fact that she was gifted.

"How could you know? She will be seventeen in a week," he pointed out. Ludwig finally understood the reason why Raven did not recognize him.

A smile stretched his lips. He was ready to wait and was glad that Charlotte had messed up. Who knew that he would have married a transmigrated version of Luna Valerie's auntie?

"That is why she doesn't recognize the bond, but I hope you won't stop me from taking her with me? She's mine," he said possessively.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 361 - Come back after one year

Chapter 361: Chapter 361 - Come back after one year

With the involvement of a mate bond, Alpha Denzel had no right to stop him but was greatly saddened.

It felt as if this was some form of repayment for taking Alice from the Black Fur pack. In Raven's situation, he wanted to keep her under his wing and train her, being valuable to the pack, but he still had a little time to teach her how to be an asset to her pack with all her gifts.

"I won't stop you from taking her if she turns eighteen, but as for now, she is still underage. Come back after one year."

Alpha Denzel's voice hinted that there was no room for negotiation, but Alpha Ludwig was displeased, as he wanted his mate under his watch.

"Alpha Denzel, please. I promise to take good care of her."

Now he was getting Alpha Denzel upset. He had no right over Raven until she turned eighteen.

Besides, there was no way Alpha Denzel would be able to tell Raven she was Alpha Ludwig's mate, so what reason could he give to let her go?

Even if he had a tangible reason, he was just not ready to do so. "Alpha Ludwig, in case you don't know, Raven was born rogue. Her parents are still rogues, so what are you going to do about that?"

The revelation left Alpha Ludwig stunned. Alpha Denzel did not allow him to recover before walking away.

Alpha Ludwig stood there in a stupor. Revealing that Raven was born rogue would make the pack members disrespect her.

Swallowing tightly, he had to agree with Alpha Denzel for Raven to stay until she turned eighteen. That way, he would introduce Robin as a former member of the Evergreen pack.

That would earn her even greater respect. As much as Alpha Ludwig hated it, this seemed to be the best option so far.

The long day caused the pack house to be in peace as most of the guests had already retired to bed by the time Alpha Denzel got there.

He already knew where Valerie would be and went to knock on her father's door.

Alpha Lawn stepped out and guessed Denzel was coming to check on Alma, so he quickly gave an update. "Raven just left. Alma is still sleeping."

Hearing Raven's name, Denzel was quite saddened by the acceptance that her time spent at the Evergreen pack would be a short one.

However, the only thing he could do for all of Raven's help would be to make the Black Fur pack better for her.

With that, he would have a meeting with Alpha Ludwig, giving his conditions within that one year before Raven's departure.

"And Valerie?" Denzel asked. Alpha Lawn frowned a little but soon guessed that perhaps Denzel had not gone to his room yet.

"I did not allow her and Ashley to see their mother yet. It's late."

Nodding his head, Denzel replied. "Alright. I will see you tomorrow." He just hoped that Alma would regain consciousness soon.

With enough healthy foods, exercise, and Raven's herbs, she would be well, but those can only be done after she regains consciousness.

By the time Denzel got to his room, Valerie had showered and was already asleep in bed. He showered and joined her, wrapping his arms around her.

News about everything that happened at the Evergreen pack already took over the packs, especially the Yellow Stone pack. Everyone there was very nervous.

Beta Hugo was equally edgy due to how nobody questioned the death of the old Alpha. Could they not have searched for the body before agreeing to coronate Tristan as Valerie suggested before?

Tristan had only agreed to do that after the coronation, and secondly, no one stood by Valerie when she was wrongly accused.

They knew the old Alpha was going to punish them, but the rumors about Luna Alma made it scarier.

Since no one had seen her yet, they could not tell her condition after so many years. However, they could still smile in the midst of the storm for the fact that Alpha Denzel was now like family to them. freewebnovel.com

They shamelessly savored the fact that he was mated to their Alpha's second daughter. And then, there was another ally, Alpha Idris from the Litha Moon pack.

Not only would they have the Litha Moon pack but also the Evergreen pack as allies.

Beta Hugo came up with a suggestion and had a meeting with the pack members during training.

"We have all heard that Alpha Lawn is back. It would not be right for us to not go see him before his return."

Most of the younger pack members agreed with the exception of some of the elders. "Beta Hugo, you are right. So, what do we do? Will the elders in the pack go?" One of the pack members asked, hoping that the journey would appease the old Alpha before his return.

They could not help being afraid of being punished because Alpha Lawn was fierce. "No, I have to go myself, but I will need somebody to watch my back and the pack."

"It's not advisable," one of the elders said. "None of the Alphas are here, so what if an attack happens in your absence?" He asked. Beta Hugo was lost for words, mired in confusion.

When Beta Hugo thought through the words of the elder, he knew it was the right thing to do.

The mistake Tristan made all his life was the fact that he never listened or took advice from the elders.

"Okay, let's wait for the Alpha's return. Rogues like to attack packs without Alphas, and I'm just a beta, making it already risky, and leaving the pack would be worse. Even the Alpha would be upset with me."

Back at the Evergreen pack, Alpha Idris could not sleep alone, knowing that his mate was in another room. Not leaving much to be desired, he went to knock on Ashley's door. "We have to talk."

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 362 - There is only one problem

Chapter 362: Chapter 362 - There is only one problem

"We need to talk," Alpha Idris said seriously, expecting her to come up with an excuse he was certain not to accept. However, Ashley surprised him by opening her door wider and inviting him in.

He had every right to be there and there was no need for her to be ashamed of having her mate in her room.

"Please, feel free to sit on the bed," Ashley urged him on. "We are mates, after all." She felt a sense of obligation to her mate, but her mind was clouded with worry.

Alpha Denzel had informed her that her mother was not in good condition, but she was yet to fully grasp the seriousness of the situation, mentally preparing herself for the inevitable.

Alpha Idris did not expect her to make it so easy for him, but he appreciated her straightforwardness. He also understood the turmoil she was going through and felt the need to come to an agreement with her.

"I'm willing to stay until you are ready to leave with me, but we can't be in separate rooms. The bond is..." Ashley's lips silenced him before he could finish his sentence, and he felt a surge of excitement as he savored her scent.

The kiss was passionate but did not last long before she pulled away.

Any Alpha would want to mark their mate when they found each other, completing the mate bond. freewebnovel.com

"You can move in with me, or I can join you, Mate. There is only one problem," Ashley said, leaving him mesmerized.

Surely, she also desired to mark her mate and complete the bond, but only when she had a clear mind.

With that kiss, Alpha Idris was willing to do anything for her. The mate bond was a stark contrast to seeking intimacy from women who weren't your mate. He regretted his past actions but was grateful that he had changed before it was too late, thanks to Alpha Denzel.

"What is the problem?" he asked earnestly, and Ashley was honest with him.

"I'm not in the mating mood because I'm worried about my mother. Can we just wait until she gets better?"

Alpha Idris did not object but made one request. "As long as we share the same room, I don't mind."

Ashley kissed him again, and their foreheads touched. No more words were needed as they understood each other.

Hours later, most of the guests were awake, freshened up, and ready to depart.

The catering company had prepared breakfast packages for them due to their long journeys.

Those who wanted it also had lunch included. Denzel, Valerie, Burke, Dorothy, and Gandolf were busy ensuring that the guests' last moments at the pack house were enjoyable.

Alessia and Godic supervised the pack's security during this time, ensuring everything was flawlessly executed.

Adira and Troy were among the last to leave, while Sparta and Fernanda decided to stay behind to visit Luna Alma, as they were friends with her.

Alpha Lawn had remained in his room until noon when Raven, unable to wait any longer, knocked on his door to apply the herbs on Luna Alma, following Denzel's instructions.

"I was just about to call you," Alpha Lawn said as he opened the door, and Raven smiled.

"Is Luna Alma awake?" she asked politely, and Alpha Lawn nodded in affirmation, much to her relief.

"Yes, and she's very hungry."

Raven was thrilled that the herbs had worked on the middle-aged woman, as was Alpha Lawn. Everyone who heard the news shared in the excitement.

"I've already prepared her breakfast," Valerie said and hurried to the kitchen. When she brought the food, Alpha Lawn closed the door and met her at the entrance, causing a frown to appear on her face.

"Could you please wait here? She's going through trauma and can't handle seeing too many faces," Alpha Lawn explained his unexpected request, adding, "She's used to Raven for now."

"I understand," Valerie forced a smile and agreed. The most important thing was for her mother to recover.

When Raven entered, she greeted Luna Alma politely, who was looking better than before. The moon grass had worked its magic, and Raven was certain that Luna Alma's wolf was awake, even if they hadn't communicated yet.

"Mom, how are you feeling today?"

Luna Alma was taken aback, not recognizing the face from the previous day. "Are you my child?" she asked, unable to recall the familiar face.

Raven shook her head. "No, I am a member of the Evergreen pack. I came to help you with herbs to awaken your wolf and aid in your healing."

She couldn't directly ask if Luna Alma's wolf was awake, as it might come off as disrespectful.

Satisfied with the response she received, she continued, "My wolf has been asleep for so long, but she woke me up this morning."

Cough.

Cough.

Raven smiled as Alpha Lawn attended to Luna Alma. She looked like Valerie, but due to her recent struggles, she wasn't in the best condition.

Her hair was unkempt, but Raven knew that with a few days of care, Luna Alma would improve, and a little beauty treatment would restore her youthfulness.

Compared to Luna Fernanda, Luna Alma appeared thirty years older, despite being in the same age bracket.

"This is warm. Valerie made it herself," Alpha Lawn fed the congee to her. After a few spoonfuls, Luna Alma's eyes lit up with hope.

"Valerie? My daughter? My little Val? What about Ash? Has she stopped stealing sweets?" Her mind was still focused on the past when her daughters were young.

Alpha Lawn chuckled sadly, remembering how Ashley couldn't resist sweets and would sneak them if denied. "Alma, both of your daughters are grown now. Should I call them?"

Luna Alma felt self-conscious about her appearance and the scent of the herbs. She didn't want her daughters to see her in that state.

"No, not like this. Is Scarlet there too?" she inquired, and Alpha Lawn hesitated, unsure of how to respond.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 363 - She's so disciplined

Chapter 363: Chapter 363 - She's so disciplined

After some consideration, Alpha Lawn decided to be honest with her, especially since Scarlet was already in the dungeon.

"Yes, she is here, but there is much you need to know, so take this and get better first," he continued to feed her the congee until she could not take in any more.

Looking at how her skin texture had improved from how wrinkled it was the first time, even after she changed to her real form, she was still not as good-looking as this.

Alpha Lawn was certain that just like himself, his mate would also be restored to health.

"I was starved for months, and I don't know how I survived. I just can't eat as much as before," Luna Alma complained bitterly, lacking an appetite for the food she desired so much. Alpha Lawn was pained, but the culprits were either dead or in the dungeon.

There was no need to worry now. "I want to shower," Alma said with excitement. She couldn't remember the last time she had one and felt so dirty, even though she had been cleaned. freewe6novel.com

It was also a relief to have a roof over her head. All this time, she thought she was at the Yellow Stone Pack, and the room decors had just been changed over the years.

"Please drink the herbs since you had some congee," Raven suggested politely, interrupting their conversation. Gaining their attention, she added, "After that, you can shower before I apply the herbs."

Alpha Lawn took the concoction from Raven and fed it to Luna Alma. The frown on her face showed the liquid had come into contact with her mouth, but she was able to drink it all because she had tasted worse things in the bid to survive.

"Big bad wolf, I haven't showered in a decade. I should really be stinking. That old hag used my beauty so much. She would sleep with young men to gain more powers."

Luna Alma's voice had been patchy yesterday, but today it sounded better. Her wolf being awake was Raven's mission, which she accomplished.

This meant that within a few days, the middle-aged woman would be fine. "When you are better, we shall all be ready to hear the story," Alpha Lawn comforted her, but her only insistence was on having a warm shower after almost two decades, which seemed to her like a few months, as she had lost hope and stopped counting.

"Okay. Come help me shower." Alpha Lawn carried her to the luxury bathtub. Raven was relieved. She wrote the instructions on how the herbs must be applied and left before Lawn and Alma returned.

"Where is the girl? She's so disciplined," Alma observed. She saw Raven as very young and was not expecting such a level of smartness from her.

"She must be waiting with the rest, and she took care of me too when I was sick," Alpha Lawn said, giving the details, but Luna Alma was curious and asked him.

"Tell me, did you ever get married?" She felt better after having the shower and was glad when the sheets were also changed.

Now she felt like herself and loved the scent of the fragrance of the shampoo.

"Didn't I tell you? You are the only one for me, Alma," Alpha Lawn said seriously. Alma smiled profoundly.

"Bad wolf, I don't like the scent of the herbs. I need fresh air. Can we sit under the moonlight and talk like we used to?" She recalled and asked. After taking the morning concoctions, her memories were fast piecing together.

Alpha Lawn thought it was a good idea and a good place for them to hear her story. He also guessed that Denzel or Valerie would not refuse. "Yes. I will make the arrangement."

Alpha Lawn went out after applying the herbs for Alma and spoke excitedly. "Alma was to see everybody under the moonlight."

The expressions on the faces from hearing the news were priceless, as Valerie anticipated. "That should be in a few hours. We shall make some snacks and drinks to carry along."

She remembered the homemade drinks her mom used to make and decided to make some.

By the time Alpha Lawn returned to the room after applying the herbs, Alma was fast asleep.

When Alma woke up, her skin tone had changed a little, which was also a great improvement, but due to wanting to see the moonlight, the next application of the herbs was delayed.

Valerie took charge of arranging chairs around the firewood Denzel arranged to keep them warm. After everyone sat around the fire, Alpha Lawn and Alma walked in, arm in arm.

It brought back so many memories to Ashley and Valerie about how their parents loved each other so much, always appearing at pack functions together.

Valerie's eyes were teary as she ambled to them with Ashley. "Mom."

She hugged her mother in a big hug with Ashley.

Alma only had memories of the five, two going on three, and the baby she left behind. Now, they were old, but as soon as their bodies collided, their familiar scent caused her to shed tears.

"Mom, I stopped stealing sweets," Ashley confessed. Alma stroked her hair gently, their tears streaming down their look-alike faces.

The three women shed tears in each other's arms as Alma asked again, "where is Scarlet?"

Alpha Lawn told her that Scarlet was there, so why wasn't she in the family gathering to welcome her?

Valerie and Ashley pulled away, Ashley went to sit beside Idris and Valerie, Denzel.

Alessia and Godic were happy this was happening today, as they had to return to Vegas tomorrow.

Denzel wanted to introduce Alessia to Alma, since she would be living in Vegas for long.

Tonight, Alessia and Godic planned to let out their wolves for the rest of the night but Alma's question got everyone saddened, not knowing how to reveal it to her, but it had to start from somewhere.

"Alma, do you remember your stepsister, Eileen?" Alpha Lawn asked nervously. It was time to reveal everything and punish the people in the dungeon.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 364 - Tell us everything

Chapter 364: Chapter 364 - Tell us everything

Alpha Lawn gradually relaxed at Alma's response. "Don't mention that evil name. She sold me out to Claudia."

Alma could never blame Alpha Lawn for not coming for her sooner. Claudia had already informed her that she had been declared dead in the pack.

"I'm glad you know that bit. But Eileen had another deal with the witch," Alpha Lawn revealed and continued.

"She transmigrated into Scarlet and used her to do a lot of evil. She stabbed me in the heart, and if not for this girl and her brother, I would have died. Then she took Valerie's mate, Tristan, from her and ordered her execution."

Alma was shocked and at a loss upon hearing all this. Thinking she was the only one suffering and that Alpha Lawn must have even ended up with Eileen, it turned out to be a different story altogether.

Not only did her heart ache, but it was also filled with worry as she asked, "How did you survive it?"

Alpha Lawn pursed his lips and smiled bitterly. Everyone had returned to their seats, and it was quite saddening to hear all this.

She suffered, and so did her family, but Valerie's words comforted her somehow. "Denzel is my second chance mate. He saved me."

Alma frowned a little. "So, you mean Eileen is alive but in Scarlet's body?" She wished to have the strength to kill the witch herself but was still recovering, and her body was still very weak.

Nodding his head, Alpha Lawn responded, "Exactly. In the dungeon."

Alma's teary eyes roamed her surroundings, and she saw both strange and familiar faces. She was beginning to understand that this was not her pack.

"Is this our pack? Is that Luna Fernanda?"

Luna Fernanda stood up and walked towards her as she spoke. "Yes, it's me and Alpha Spartan. We both came here for Valerie's coronation. You could not attend this one, but I believe you will attend that of Ashley."

Alma was so happy that aside from all the bad news, there was also a lot of good news. Denzel had saved her life, so she knew he was a good man, and Ashley also found her mate.

The Moon goddess still gave her happiness after everything. Alma's pains were replaced with happiness.

The two middle-aged women hugged each other and broke into tears as Spartan spoke from where he sat.

"I'm now the Alpha King, Alma. Just as you predicted."

When Alma said it, he did not believe it, but with time, he began to accept the heavy responsibility before it was even bestowed on him.

"You deserve it, and your mate?" Alma asked when Luna Fernanda returned to where she sat before.

"She had to stay back. Somebody had to take care of the office and pack," Spartan said. Alma smiled in understanding. Then she looked around with a joyful heart.

"Thank you all so much. My son, Denzel. I thought I was dead in that well, and such bravery. Can you come closer?" Alma pinned her gaze on Alpha Denzel, admiration and respect filling her eyes.

For a moment, she thought all was lost and just had to be grateful for the fact that she saw her mate for the last time before giving up the ghost.

Her hope resonated when she saw the young determined man hanging on a rope, but just as his arms wrapped around her to pull her up, everything began collapsing on them.

Darkness took over her, she knew that was the end but woke up safe and sound.

When Alpha Denzel stood from his chair and walked close, Alma stood up and hugged him. It made Denzel miss his mother so much.

"Thank you very much for everything. You look strong. Are you an Alpha?"

Everybody laughed. "That is Alpha Denzel," Alpha Lawn said, the name rang a bell as Alma pulled away and stared at him for a long time.

"Denzel was the son of the Alpha of the Evergreen Pack."

"Yes, that's me, and this is the Evergreen Pack."

Alma smiled profoundly. It all made sense now, as she pieced it all together. This was not her pack, and that was why everything was so different.

For a moment, she thought things had improved in her pack, but for now, she had to prepare for the worst, especially after hearing about all that had happened in her eighteen years of being away.

"No wonder. Thank you very much."

"No need to thank me, mom, we are all family now," Alpha Denzel assured her. She was so moved by his strong gestures of love, sympathy, care, and strength.

"It's true. Come here, everybody." Alma opened her arms, and they all gathered together in a group hug under the moonlight; it was so magical.

When they pulled away, everybody returned to their chairs, and Valerie served the snacks. "So, that is Alpha Idris, Luna Fernanda's son and Denzel's cousin. He is the Alpha of the Litha Moon pack and is mated to Ashley," Alpha Lawn said.

Alma was slightly guilty. "I'm so sorry, Fernanda, I did not quite recognize him."

Luna Fernanda waved dismissively. "Don't worry. I'm even happy that you recovered fast."

"I have no idea what those herbs are. They are so good," Luna Alma replied, staring admiringly at Raven. "Is that your brother?" she asked, Raven smiled and replied.

"Yes, my twin brother, Ray."

"Wonderful." She pointed at Godic. "And you are?"

Godic smiled and responded. "I am Godic. Denzel's brother-in-law. I also take care of his businesses in Vegas, and his only sister is my mate."

"Wow. So, everyone around here is family. I'm so glad to be a part of it all." She sipped on the drink. "Mmmm, this Strawberry Limeade tastes like I made it."

Valerie and Ashley smiled. "We tried to recreate the taste, mom," Ashley said, Alma nodded her head in appreciation and bit on the cookie.

"You two learned so well, though you were both so small. You grew so well. Lawn, you've done an amazing job," she congratulated her husband who only smiled at her as she stared at Alessia.

"You must be Denzel's sister. What's your name?"

"Alessia, mom," Alessia responded and added. "But they all call me Aless."

"Aless, you are so stunning, just like your brother." Everyone laughed, and Valerie asked, as they continued to savor the snacks.

"Mom, tell us everything. What did the witch do to you?"

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 365 – How She Survived

Chapter 365: Chapter 365 – How She Survived

Alma felt a deep sense of sadness as she recounted her ordeal. "I honestly can't remember everything, and I'm grateful for that. It was after the doctor insisted that I was experiencing complications and that your father should excuse us."

Her voice trembled with emotion as she turned to Alpha Lawn. "Are those doctors still around?"

"No. I banished all of them when they informed me that they cremated your body without consulting me."

A small smile appeared on Alma's lips. "Thank you. I knew I could trust you."

"After you left, he injected me with something, and I fell asleep. When I woke up, I found myself at the witches' coven, with my lower abdomen bandaged and in excruciating pain. My wolf was furious, saying she tried to wake me to stop them, but I couldn't hear her."

"The pregnancy was gone, so I knew they had removed the baby."

A tear rolled down Alpha Lawn's cheek. "I should have followed my instincts and tortured them instead of banishing them."

Alma reassured him, "It's too late, and you don't have to feel guilty about anything. I just wished you had come for me."

"I encountered many witches, all envious of my beauty, wanting to trade with me, but Claudia was different. She claimed she was the one who brought me and that I belonged to her. Initially, I was confined to a small room, but when I refused to eat what they offered, she transferred me to the well."

Alpha Lawn was filled with sorrow, wishing he could turn back time to be there for her.

"So, you didn't eat anything?"

"I did," Alma replied with a bitter smile. "Only after weeks, and it would be just a bite of stale bread. I hoped that by refusing to eat, she would let me go or that you would find me eventually. But Claudia taunted me, revealing how she and Eileen orchestrated everything."

"She claimed I was dead to the pack, which fueled my determination to die. I would go for months without food, but I was still beautiful, so she would exchange my beauty whenever she pleased. Whenever she aged, she would return my skin to me."

Everyone was puzzled, and Valerie asked, "Why would she do that?"

"A witch can never maintain a body that isn't hers. Only the true owner can keep it healthy. The exchanges were always painful, and since I wasn't eating well, she wasn't getting what she wanted. At one point, she tried to turn me into a witch and started giving me contaminated food, but I refused to eat," Alma explained.

"How did you know it was contaminated?" Ashley asked.

"She would chant on it in front of me. According to her, the spell wouldn't work without my knowledge. Her friends abused me because they couldn't have me. They would drop snakes and other poisonous creatures into the well."

Everyone was horrified, especially Valerie, who had a fear of snakes. "What did you do, Mom?"

Alma smiled. "I learned to survive. I knew I was going to die anyway, but I always reminded myself that I was a strong Luna. During those times, I would shift, kill the animals, and eat them."

"Raw?"

"Do you have a way to start a fire?" The group was deeply moved, and Alpha Denzel's eyes welled up with tears.

"The well would sometimes fill with water, and I would drink from it. During winter, I would stay in wolf form due to the cold. The other witches were angry because Claudia became more powerful than them, and no matter what they threw at me, I refused to die."

It was a painful memory for Alma, but her time in the Evergreen pack was slowly erasing the past.

"How did you lose your wolf?" Alpha Lawn inquired, and Alma lowered her head, shaking it.

"I can't recall the exact date, as I stopped keeping track. But that time, the well was filled, and we managed to swim out. I had a chance to escape, but one of the witches caught me. I fought with her and killed her."

Alpha Lawn wasn't surprised, knowing Alma's strength.

"Unfortunately, I wasted too much time killing her, and Claudia caught up to me, taunting me about my fearfulness."

"She locked me in a room filled with wolfbane, and it was a choice between my wolf dying or leaving to return only when I found freedom. She wanted to stay, but I couldn't watch her die, so I forced her to leave by shutting her out completely."

Alpha Denzel was impressed by Alma's strength in saving her wolf for later.

"That was a wise decision," he remarked. Alma smiled and continued,

"True, but Claudia was furious and forced me to eat, which I refused. I knew that upsetting her would send me back to the well. I had learned to survive and knew that even without my wolf, I could, but I couldn't allow myself to eat her food and turn evil."

The atmosphere grew emotional, and Alpha Lawn embraced Alma. "I'm so proud of you, my little wolf."

"Thank you. So, when she sent me back to the well, those animals became my friends. Strangely, it never snowed, the well never filled with water, and the sun was never too hot. Without my wolf, I wouldn't have survived, but that's when I knew the moon goddess was watching over me."

Alpha Lawn sighed. "Alice already killed Claudia, but you can seek revenge on Eileen now."

"Oh, Alice. Are you the one with powers?" Alma asked, looking at the girl with tears in her eyes.

"Yes, Mom."

"Thank you very much," Luna Alma expressed her gratitude. Alice smiled and replied, "No need to thank me, Mom. Luna Valerie healed me."

Alma suddenly realized something. "Were you injured?" She asked, feeling guilty.

"Don't worry about it. Her power is fire, and I gained an Alpha wolf after losing my Luna wolf. I managed to harness the powers from the lake."

Luna Alma's eyes widened. "You must be very powerful now. How did you lose your wolf?"

Alpha Denzel took responsibility. "It was my fault. My best friend was secretly targeting my family and loved ones. I didn't know it was him, so I was afraid he'd harm her too. I had to reject her right after Tristan's rejection, causing her to lose her wolf."

"You don't have to explain further. You've already shown yourself to be a wonderful person. Can I see Eileen now?" Alma asked with a steely gaze. Alpha Denzel stood up and led her, saying,

"This way..."

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 366 - But you claimed to love me

Chapter 366: Chapter 366 - But you claimed to love me

Tristan, Eileen, and the warriors had been in the dungeon since last night without food or water.

Tristan, especially, was very upset.

All this would not have happened if he had just waited for his mate. Even with that, he had a second chance and could have just accepted his mate, but how was he so blinded to have given in to Scarlet, who was now something he could not give a name to?

"Eileen or whatever. Why did you get me into this mess? The moon goddess was not fair by allowing me to fall in love with you," Tristan hit his head on the cold rocky floor as he spoke, but his wolf quickly healed him before a drop of blood touched the floor.

Eileen, who was only thinking of a way to escape, wished that Claudia had not been killed so she could have another deal with her.

With no possibility of freedom for her, she was angered by Tristan's childishness.

"Don't blame the moon goddess for your own lust. She gave everybody a mate, but you decided to lust after my beauty."

Tristan scoffed, his face twisted with disgust. If he was the type of person who lusted over beauty, then he would not have fallen for Scarlet or rejected Valerie.

There was a big contrast between the two. Scarlet was always weak and not so attractive, but Valerie had presence, beauty, and power. Something must have been wrong with his brain when he rejected her, or he must have become foolish because he already mated with Scarlet before finding his mate.

"You are not even as beautiful as Valerie."

Eileen was hurt by his words and pointed out in an offensive tone. "But you claimed to love me."

Shaking his head, Tristan was wondering how things turned out like this. "You must have used a charm. There is something wrong," he said with certainty. Eileen was furious.

She had grown to love the body she possessed, but seeing Alpha Lawn was too shocking, she lost control, and her real self took over.

Even if she was not Eileen, she was too sure that Alpha Denzel would have still killed her later.

"There was nothing wrong. I was accepted as human, and the moon goddess equally gave me a mate."

"Then why did you show yourself?" Tristan asked with a confused expression. He had stopped hurting himself because of how his wolf kept healing him. Troubling his wolf with his problems was not a good thing.

"Because technically, Scarlet is already dead. I had her body, and she had my spirit. She wasn't even allowed to live and would have died, so I had to use her body."

"I still blame the moon goddess," Tristan said furiously.

Even at the Yellowstone pack, Valerie was out of his league, but finding out they were mates, she was so humble, ready to give him the Alpha title to be his Luna.

She never offended him in any way, and even when she was desperate to search for her father's corpse, she still believed that Tristan would help her, agreeing for the coronation to take place. freewebnovel.com

Regret filled Tristan's heart as he kept thinking about how he lost such a wonderful woman for this trash.

"You should have broken up with me after finding out Valerie was your mate, so don't blame it on me," Eileen said in annoyance at his self-righteousness.

"Is there a way we can escape from here? There are no warriors," Eileen suggested, but Tristan was not surprised. She has always been clueless about the pack's administration.

"To escape from the dungeon of the Evergreen pack? I would also like to know if you find a way," Tristan sarcastically replied. Thus, there was no way of escape from this dungeon.

He should have eloped to the human world with the money his beta brought from Alpha Denzel, but he never suspected that something like this was going to happen.

They lay on the cold floor in the blankness of what would happen to them when Eileen jolted awake by the sound of footsteps.

With death close to her, her senses were very active. "They are coming."

Tristan remained lifeless on the cold floor, but the warriors stood upright. Regret was so heavy in their hearts, knowing there would be no way to argue their cases.

If they had obeyed the order of an Alpha in the wrong, it would have been better for them than obeying that of a warrior against an Alpha.

Pack members were supposed to respect and obey their Alpha, but these ones rather betrayed him. Eileen panicked when she saw the familiar face. "Alma, you survived."

The people in the dungeon tensed up at the sound of iron when the grills to the entrance of the dungeon were being opened.

"The voice is like that of Eileen, but the face does not look familiar," Alma said, and everyone understood what she meant.

"The body I possess belongs to the one who should have been your third child, but since you are alive, you should let me go," Eileen's boldness placed her demand.

Ever since Alma's father married Eileen's mother, she was filled with envy towards Alma for her intelligence and beauty.

While Alma loved her unconditionally, she kept planning evil against her.

"You rather sound ridiculous," Alma smiled mischievously. The pain in her heart for all that Eileen had done was burning red, she did not want her to catch a break.

"My son, can you have your warriors prepare firewood for cremation? Can everything be recorded?" She asked Alpha Denzel, since he was the Alpha of the Evergreen pack.

She wanted to do this in front of her pack members, but then, what if a miracle happened and they broke free before she reached the Yellowstone pack?

Though there were four people in the dungeon, their spirits already left by reason of Alma's words.

"We already have some ready and of course, my beta has a habit of recording everything." Alpha Denzel assured her, and Alma smiled. Her next words caused the eyes of those in the dungeon to pop out from shock.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 367 - You Heartless Luna

Chapter 367: Chapter 367 - You Heartless Luna

"Good. I want her to be cremated alive," Alice felt that Luna Alma was just as ruthless as Alpha Denzel, recalling how Alpha Denzel dealt with a witch at the Black Fur pack.

In Alma's case, she was not dealing with witches, so this seemed like the highest level of punishment.

Tristan and the two warriors had no idea if the same fate would befall them, but it was clear that today was their judgment day.

Eileen was enraged. "Alma, I am your sister. How could you be so heartless? The moon goddess gave you everything, including a good father and mate. I had nothing, and Lawn would not look at me even when I confessed how much I loved him."

Alma was furious, but her expression remained calm. "Step-sister. We are not related by blood. If I were your sister, you would not have done the things you did to me. My only mistake was going against Lawn to have you come with us. I should have obeyed when he refused."

Alpha Denzel did not have to be told, as he could read the woman like a book. Faintly, he could guess that Valerie's fierceness not only came from her father but also her mother.

"Burke, get her," Alpha Denzel instructed. The dungeons were locked again as Eileen was being hurled out amidst her screams.

"Let me go. You heartless Luna."

Eileen kept screaming until the warriors tied her to the already prepared cremation firewood.

Seeing someone hugging her brother tightly and another girl covering her face, Alma turned in the direction of Raven and Alice. "You young ladies should not witness this."

The two ladies did not refuse, nodded their heads, as they were afraid. Their hearts were not strong enough to witness such things, despite the harshness they faced in life.

Ray escorted them to the pack house, but they could hear Eileen's screams on their way, not daring to look back.

"Pour the fuel," Alma commanded, and as Eileen's body and the firewood were being soaked with fuel, she requested from Burke.

"Give me the lighter."

As soon as Burke obliged, Alpha Lawn held her hand in his.

"Little wolf. Are you sure you don't want me to handle it?" Alpha Lawn asked, fearing that this might be too much for her, but Alma refused his help.

Once upon a time, Alma nursed a problematic seed called Eileen by taking her under her wing. She had grown into a tree of destruction and needed to be cut down really quick.

"I was helpless when I was taken away. She tried to kill not only you but also Valerie and myself. I owe this to you all," Alma said with determination, and this time, Eileen knew there was no way out.

She began to plead for mercy. "Alma, please. I regret everything, and I'm sorry."

Eileen looked pathetic on the firewood but did not earn the pity of any of the people present.

Alma could see through her like a transparent glass, pointing out. "Dishonesty is like a thick smoke in your heart, and you know what? It stinks."

Eileen was furious. Alma had seen through her pretense. She was not genuinely sorry but just looking for a chance to live. About to curse Alma, the firewood went up in flames.

Alma had lit it, and even with the heat accompanying it, she did not move an inch, determined to watch Eileen burn into ashes.

Not even her piercing screams were enough to elicit anyone's sympathy. Valerie was glad that the harsh life her mother faced had not changed her resolve.

Eileen's screams soon died, and everyone knew accompanied by her screams that soon died, and everyone knew there was no longer any life remaining in her.

"What about the three people in the dungeon?" Alpha Lawn asked as they watched the burning firewood, but Alma's response made their hearts stop.

"Feed them with Eileen's ashes and banish them. Since they ate from her cup of wickedness, they should live with the trouble that comes with it."

Feeding a werewolf with the ashes of another was the worst form of condemnation. The three would never even fit among the rogues. They would live in misery and die young.

They waited until the fire went out when the warriors packed some of the ashes on a large metal tray to the dungeon. The ashes were still hot, and the truth was not hidden from them.

"I planned to execute the three of you as Tristan wanted done to my Luna, but Luna Alma has a better idea," Alpha Denzel said coldly, Tristan lowered his head in shame.

"I deserve whatever punishment you have for me," she said sincerely, not expecting the kind of punishment going to be meted out to them.

"If you so mean what you say, then it should not be hard for the three of you to finish the ashes on the floor. Those are your Scarlet or should I say, Eileen's remains. She was cremated alive, so compared to you, which is better?"

The three people on the floor were looking like ghosts upon hearing that Eileen had been cremated alive. Their hopes were completely destroyed.

Tristan gathered courage and asked a question. "If you are equally going to cremate us alive, then why make us eat it?"

"You are not going to face the same punishment as Eileen or whatever because your sins vary. Alpha Lawn is here to banish you."

It did not sound good but was better than being cremated alive. They might no longer belong to any pack, but at least they won't suffer such a harsh death but rather a slow one.

The three of them began eating the ashes, and Ashley felt nauseated. When she turned to Valerie's direction, the latter had her head buried in Alpha Denzel's chest.

Ashley found it funny, but when she tried to find a way to avoid the scene, Alpha Idris pulled her into his warm embrace, and her arm wrapped around him.

When the three people were done, Alpha Lawn made a declaration. "The three of you are no longer members of the Yellowstone pack. I, Alpha Lawn, hereby banish you with effect from now."

The three accepted their fate, not knowing what was going to happen to them with all those ashes inside their belly. They were never the same, wanting to die, but Tristan had just one request.

"Please..."

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 368 - Let's Allow Them to Enjoy the Rain

Chapter 368: Chapter 368 - Let's Allow Them to Enjoy the Rain

"Please, can we get water?" Tristan asked, forgetting that the order had already been passed.

If he had made the request before the judgment was passed, then the consideration would have been made, but at the moment, it could be considered too late.

There was lightning in the sky, and the sound of thunder was heard. The wind picked up speed, and the rain began to pour.

The weather did not show any sign of impending rain, so this was unexpected.

"We don't offer hospitality to outcasts," Alpha Denzel said in response to his request for water eagerly, eager to leave to avoid the rain.

"Warriors, throw them out of the pack," Alpha Denzel commanded. They were dragged on the floor, head down under the gazes of the few warriors who were on patrol, trying to take cover from the rain.

It had begun to pour heavily, and with the backs of the three men on the floor being dragged out of the pack, this was like a miracle to them. They opened their mouths to receive the rain, trying to rinse the metallic taste of the ashes from their mouths.

It was important whom one paid obeisance to as a master. If these had not tried to please Scarlet, their lives would not have turned this bad.

Alpha Lawn carried Luna Alma in his arms and began running to the pack house. Everyone looked on in awe. It was so romantic. Alpha Denzel was about to carry Valerie, but she refused.

"We are two strong couples. Let's look out for casualties. This is growing into a tidal wave."

Alpha Denzel did not refuse and said to Luna Fernanda and Spartan, "We shall do a few rounds. You can go ahead."

The middle-aged couple walked leisurely in the rain, admitting that it felt so good. Ashley and Alpha Idris joined Valerie and Denzel in checking out the welfare of the pack members.

"Val, do you remember when we were younger?" Ashley said and dashed into the woods, not afraid of the storm.

"Of course, I do," Valerie said and chased after her. It was just as when they were little. The two Alphas exchanged glances as the wetness of their hair from the rain dripped on their faces.

"I don't know about you, but I'm not leaving my Luna in the woods at a time like this," Alpha Denzel said and dashed towards the direction the two women went.

Alpha Idris did the same, chasing fervently after him.

Luna Valerie and Ashley's laughter could be heard above the sound of the rain, making Alpha Denzel suddenly halt. Alpha Idris stopped beside him.

"Why did you stop? Don't tell me that you gave up so soon."

Alpha Denzel wiped the rain from his face, which was soon replaced. "This is the happiest I have seen and heard her. Let's allow them to enjoy the rain."

Idris did not refuse but had a suggestion. "Why don't we sprint around the pack and come back to join them?"

"You are right," Denzel agreed. The two sprinted around the pack, stopping to help a few stranded pack members.

They must have woken up due to the heavy storm and were grateful for their Alphas' help. They reached the new Omegas community development, and Alpha Denzel was impressed by all the ongoing works.

Valerie and Ashley kept running through the woods like little kids when Ashley suddenly stopped.

She was completely drenched in the rain, and Valerie stopped beside her. "What's the matter? The pack is huge."

"This is where Orion and his men brutalized me."

Valerie frowned imperceptibly. "Then let's look around. I'd love to know how they had access to the pack."

In spite of the thundering storm, the two went in search of any outlet Orion and his men must have used.

Orion might be dead, but they forgot to get his men, so this was suddenly important. Denzel and Idris finished their rounds, ensuring that everyone was safe in their houses before heading back into the woods.

If the two women were still being children, they planned to join them. As they say, opportunities like this do not come very often.

They reached where the two women were joyfully playing in the rain a few hours ago, but there was no sign of them.

"Val," Alpha Denzel yelled, his voice above the sound of the rain and loud enough for them to hear, but there was no response.

"Ashley," Alpha Idris yelled, but there was no response. freewebnovel.com

Alpha Denzel tried a mindlink. 'Val, where are you?' It went through but was soon disconnected. Alpha Denzel frowned. His heart suddenly filled with worry.

"She's not allowing me to connect with her," he said aloud. Idris was equally worried. Sadly, Ashley was not privy to the mindlink, not being a member of the Evergreen pack, and they did not have their phones with them.

"What do we do now? I'm not leaving without Ashley," Idris said seriously. Denzel agreed.

"Leaving without them is not an option."

The two of them continued running, screaming the names of the two women. The rain began to decrease in force as the two men continued searching around.

By the time they realized, they were at the borders of the pack, but Alpha Denzel remembered something and said, "I think I know where they are."

He charged into another direction, and Idris followed him, trusting his judgment. When he saw the cottage a distance away, he asked while running, "Denzel, how come you have this same cottage like mom has in our pack?"

This was the first time he came to this area of the pack. Denzel replied, "You should ask Aunt Fernanda."

The two of them stopped as the rain was picking up speed once again. "There is no sign of them. Even the cottage is dark. Hey, don't you have people to take care of it?"

He saw how the cottage had been left unattended. Denzel was slightly guilty. "I will get someone to take care of it.

"So where could they be?" Idris asked. Denzel began walking in a different direction.

"I can feel her close." Walking a little, he saw a fabric tied to a tree.

"Isn't this a piece of Ashley's fabric?" Alpha Denzel asked. Alpha Idris's heart thumped.

"And this is a piece of Valerie's fabric," Alpha Denzel replied, suddenly feeling uneasy. Suddenly, he could feel fear from the bond.

"They are in danger..."

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 369 – Can Your Powers Work in the Rain?

Chapter 369: Chapter 369 – Can Your Powers Work in the Rain?

Alpha Lawn and Luna Alma arrived at the pack house, drenched from the rain. Raven was waiting with a flask and a small bowl containing herbs.

Seeing Alpha Lawn carrying Luna Alma in his arms, she smiled profoundly. It was beautiful, something she had never seen with her own parents.

"Raven, you're still awake?" Alpha Lawn asked as they reached the entrance.

Raven smiled. "I had to give you this."

With Luna Alma in his arms, Raven opened the door for him but waited at the entrance until Alpha Lawn had placed Luna Alma in the shower room before returning to her.

"Why are you standing there? You should come in."

Raven obeyed and approached him, beginning to explain clearly.

"Alpha, please let Luna Alma drink and apply this on her skin. This should be the last one, and from tomorrow, she will no longer need it."

Alpha Lawna was grateful. His little wolf had recovered faster than expected, thanks to the moon grass Raven used.

"Thank you very much."

"Goodnight," Raven said and left, just as Luna Fernanda and Spartan arrived, equally drenched. After a few exchanges with Raven, they each went to their rooms.

Burke had not returned, but the storm was heavy, and the pack house was quiet. Even the maids had retired to bed, as had Alice.

Raven was ready to go home, so she called her brother to come pick her up. As they were talking on the phone, Burke came in.

"I hope you aren't calling your brother. I will take you home."

He went to get an umbrella for her, but none for himself. He was already drenched.

Burke did not reach his former home, now Raven and her brother's home, when a mindlink zapped through his mind.

It was Alpha Denzel. 'Get me ten warriors and come with them to the cottage.'

Luna Valerie and Ashley had discovered the exact location where they suspected Orion had entered the pack.

"Do you know where the tunnel goes? Should I go check?" Ashley asked, about to slide inside when Valerie stopped her.

"Wait." Ashley paused and stared at her, simultaneously wiping the rain from her face.

Valerie looked at the amount of water coming out of the tunnel. "It could be flooded, and no one knows we are here."

"So mindlink Denzel and tell him," Ashley suggested, Valerie revealed,

"I disconnected his mindlink because he might stop me."

Ashley pursed her lips. They were already drenched, so she did not care about going through a flooded tunnel, as long as it yielded results.

"Let's leave a clue, just in case we are not able to make it back on time."

Before Ashley could ask what kind of clue Valerie meant, the latter tore the hem of her dress and tied it to a tree. Ashley did the same, just in case Valerie's fabric was not visible.

"Great. I will go in now," Ashley volunteered, but Valerie refused. "It's my pack. Let me face whatever danger is in there."

About to slide inside, they heard footsteps through the rushing waters. "Let's hide," Valerie said, looking around for a safe place when a familiar voice spoke from a distance.

"No need to hide."

Valerie turned around and forced a smile, knowing that her plans were ruined. "Denzel, what are you doing here?"

Alpha Denzel pulled her into his arms. "Why did you disconnect the mindlink? I was so worried." His voice was so soft, guilt welled up in Valerie's heart. She hadn't thought about his feelings when she did that.

"I'm very sorry. We were trying to locate the entrance Orion used to have access to the pack. He must have had some powers, but I doubt he could just appear and disappear here."

A realization hit Alpha Denzel suddenly. "Your powers. Can they work in the rain?"

"Let me try," Valerie said in assurance. Due to the sound of the heavy rain, the sound of raindrops was not heard, but all the water gathered around them, forming an arrow that pointed to the tunnel.

Valerie cursed herself internally for not trying to practice her powers in the rain, having wasted all this time.

"Alice. I wish I could practice with her. If I am able to stop her from getting injured, then we could use her powers to protect the pack."

Alpha Denzel thought it was a laudable idea but cautioned her.

"Don't forget that we are now fighting against spirits. If she uses her powers to protect the pack, then the invader would try to get a stronger one to match or overcome hers. It's better for us to make them think that our defenses have been lowered. Let's go."

"What about the tunnel?" Valerie asked seriously, Alpha Denzel took a deep breath and explained.

"I already know where it leads. It's a secret exit we use to escape in case we can't win against the enemy, but for decades, I only used it to come to you as Ryker."

Ashley was confused and asked, "Who is Ryker?"

Valerie chuckled and explained it, and Alpha Idris was filled with admiration for Alpha Denzel for having gone to such lengths to win the love of his life.

"So, are you going to leave it? Only Orion died, but his accomplices could inform their allies about it, endangering the pack."

As much as Alpha Denzel wanted to keep it for emergencies, he had to agree with Valerie that it was very dangerous.

"You are right. I will call some of the warriors to come and help me seal it."

Alpha Denzel quickly mindlinked Burke. It took close to thirty minutes before they arrived. "We have to fill the tunnel."

The warriors dashed into the woods to find whatever useful things they could. The rain stopped, and by the time they were done sealing up the secret exit, it was already dawn. Exhausted, they retired to sleep as soon as their bodies touched the bed.

Hours later, Alpha Denzel's phone rang, awakening him from his sleep. Checking the caller ID, it was Beta Hugo from the Yellow Stone pack.

Alpha Denzel panicked slightly, knowing that Hugo would not call him if there was no problem.

"Hello," he answered the phone, but the news from the other end caused the phone to drop from his hand to the bed, his gaze darkening with anger as it surged through him.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 370 – You did this?

Chapter 370: Chapter 370 – You did this?

"Alpha Denzel, our pack is under rogue attack, but I don't have Alpha Lawn's number," Beta Hugo said over the phone.

Indirectly, he was asking for Alpha Denzel's help, knowing that the latter was obligated to do so because this was technically his Luna's pack.

Alpha Denzel quickly lifted himself to a sitting position as he began to ponder.

Alpha Lawn had just recovered, and Luna Alma was doing the same, so how could he inform Alpha Lawn about this?

"I'm coming," Alpha Lawn said and ended the call. Valerie was awake by the time he finished dressing up.

"Where are you going?" She asked, disappointment lacing her voice. It was not wrong for her to want her mate by her side a little longer after all they had been through.

They hardly spent quality time with each other alone, except when they were in Vegas. Pack responsibilities were much more, so it was well understood but did not take away the fact that she still craved for her mate.

Their response sent her heart racing. "The Yellow Stone pack is under attack."

Valerie stood from the bed and began to put on clothes hastily. "I should come with you." This was a matter involving the former pack, and now that Tristan was gone, Denzel should not refuse, right?

"I will go with Idris, Burke, and a few warriors. Please ensure the smooth exit of Godic, Alessia, Luna Fernanda, and Alpha King Spartan."

Those were the responsibilities of Denzel, but this was a bigger problem, and she could not allow her father-in-law to go into war so soon.

Being family, this was equally his responsibility, and he knew that if Fernanda and Spartan were away, they would insist on helping.

As a man who was used to doing things alone before, it was amazing how much help he had now, but then, these people had their packs, and Alpha Denzel did not deem it right to keep them any longer.

"Alright. Please update me on how everything turns out," Valerie readily agreed. Rogues were a small matter for someone like Alpha Denzel, but it was not the same for Beta Hugo.

Denzel agreed and mindlinked his team before going to Idris's room and knocking on his door. He hoped that Ashley would not be the one to open it, and it so happened that she wasn't the one.

"Come with me. The Yellow Stone pack is under attack."

Alpha Idris was in his pajamas and wanted to go change. "Let me wear something comfortable."

Alpha Denzel recalled something and stopped him. "No need. We are going in wolf form."

During wars, there would always be more than enough emergency clothes around, so there would be no difficulty in getting some clothes from there.

By the time they stepped out, Burke and the warriors were already there, waiting for him. Alpha Denzel found it worthwhile to train Burke on such matters so that with time, he could be sent on external assignments.

Dorothy could also help in Burke's place but would equally be loaded with more responsibilities with time.

"We are going in wolf form." As soon as Alpha Denzel gave the instruction, they all shifted and ran out of the pack.

Traveling through the bush in wolf form was shorter than using a car on the main road, so they soon arrived.

To their surprise, the rogues were quite a lot, but the biggest surprise was seeing the warriors of the Black Fur pack there. Though in wolf form, Alpha Denzel was able to make them out, especially Alpha Ludwig.

The warriors were just four, meaning he had not come for the purpose of fighting but had just been entangled in the war.

Joining the fight, the rogues were depopulating fast. They had come in their numbers at a perfect timing, not expecting so many Alphas to be around.

The rogue leader was suddenly nervous when more of his men were continuously falling. This level of defense was strong and unexpected.

Initially, they stood at an advantage, and a lot of the Yellow Stone warriors were already injured because there was no Alpha, but soon, Alpha Ludwig arrived, and worse, two more Alphas had joined.

He had no idea what Alpha Denzel's wolf looked like, but from the level of defense, it was certain that he was the one.

None of the rogues' blows or kicks could even touch him.

Beta Hugo and the warriors of the Yellow Stone pack were happy when Alpha Ludwig arrived, thinking Alpha Denzel had sent him, but Alpha Ludwig had just come to follow up on some pending business when he got caught up in the whole thing.

The rogue leader and the few survivors tried to run but were apprehended. When Alpha Denzel drew closer, his anger boiled.

"Fusion, you did this?" After all the warnings and discussions, he did not expect this from him.

Fusion was tongue-tied as Alpha Denzel ordered, "Tie them up."

He had planned that before Alpha Denzel would know it, he, Fusion, would have been declared the Alpha of the Yellow Stone pack, but things took a different turn.

However, he also forgot that even if that happened, someone like Alpha Denzel would never allow him to have that victory for long.

Alpha Denzel took some of the emergency clothes and after wearing them, he ambled to the three people on the floor.

"You must have seen Tristan, and he must have told you Alpha Lawn was at my pack, so you spearheaded this attack."

He knew the brain behind it was Fusion and nobody else. There was no way around it this time, so Fusion could not also deny it, in spite of the fear swelling in his heart.

"It's not wrong for me to try getting a pack for myself and friends."

Alpha Denzel's gaze darkened dangerously. "You got over two hundred rogues killed, and you call them your friends? How many did you leave behind?"

Fusion realized his foolishness. All his allies were killed because of this sudden attack. "It's just the rogue Alpha and his mate. They refused to join us."

Alpha Denzel shook his head, but his next words caused Fusion to wallow in permanent regret.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 371 - I'm not as smart and strong as you

Chapter 371: Chapter 371 - I'm not as smart and strong as you

"Fusion, Raven and Ray are doing very well and I wanted to consider giving you people a second chance but after this, there is no more mercy for committing a crime as a rogue."

Fusion never believed it when Alpha Denzel said he would come back to give them a chance and he did not think Alpha Lawn would also take them in because of their previous behaviors.

Therefore, with the money Alpha Denzel gave them, they used it to finance and equip themselves for this attack.

It was such a pity that there was no more room for regret or repentance for rogues. Pack members could be banished into being rogues after committing a crime but rogues were only deserving of death.

Everyone was shocked when the heads of the three rogues fell at the same time. Alpha Denzel's movement was so swift and they as well knew that he only kept getting better by the day.

His bloody claws soon disappeared afterwards. With all the rogues down, the warriors began shifting and omegas brought them clothes.

So much damage had been caused to the already dying pack and Alpha Denzel knew his help would be needed in rebuilding it. It was not just a matter of money but human resource and equipment.

The Evergreen pack had more than enough of that and would greatly render their support to their sister pack.

The yellow stone pack members were celebrating their victory when Alph Denzel turned to Alpha Ludwig. "We have to talk."

Alpha Idris engaged Beta Hugo in organizing the cleanup of the pack to beta Hugo's gratitude.

Though a beta, he had no received a good training, as Tristan was not experienced either but as to whether the Alpha Lawn would maintain him as the beta of the pack, he had no idea.

Alpha Denzel intended to go visit Alpha Ludwig at the Black Fur pack but since they met here, there was no point in waiting until then.

"I have been thinking about your mate thing, Alpha Denzel recalled when they moved away from the crowd to a quieter place.

Alpha Ludwig was slightly nervous and quickly said, "Yes Alpha Denzel, I understand that I have to wait until she turns eighteen." He already accepted that fact, though it was hard.

There was no way he would have marked or mated with Raven but to have her close was equally not a bad idea.

"It's not only that," Alpha Denzel began to explain. What he could not give Alessia because of Conrad and his parents, he wanted to give Raven and Alice, and that was mentorship.

"Raven has been exposed to a harsh life but it never made her bad. Now, at the Evergreen pack, she has had a taste of good life and no one would want something lesser than what they already had."

Alpha Denzel saw the confusion on Alpha Ludwig's face and asked directly. "Are you sure you can give her same? Your pack isn't that strong in both human resource and finances."

Alpha Ludwig smiled awkwardly. It was true but after visiting a lot of packs, he was willing to take his to the next level.

Also, the fact that Alpha Denzel gave him another chance after he messed up so many times meant he saw something unique in him.

Whatever it was, Ludwig was determined to make the best of it by making it shine. "Alpha Denzel, we are willing to be better in everything," he said but froze by Alpha Denzel's response.

"Good. I want to see your pack's resources double in a year by this time. Not only that. I desire to see a stronger and smarter workforce including the area of your warriors."

Alpha Ludwig knew it was going to be hard but it was not impossible. Also, he would need help as he himself was not so capable.

The good thing was the fact that he was not ashamed of admitting his mistakes and seeking help.

"Alpha Denzel, I'm not as smart and strong as you but can you help me?" humility glowed all around him, making it difficult for Alpha Denzel to refuse.

He had said this to test his resolve and this proved that Alpha Ludwin was the type who would do anything for his mate.

Also, if the moon goddess mated him to Raven, then there was something special of the union. If Alpha Denzel was going to let Raven go, then Alpha Ludwig would have to work hard.

However, for Raven's sake, he was obligated to help Alpha Ludwig one last time, just so Raven would have one of the best packs to call her home.

Not forgetting the fact that, Alpha Ludwig had taken the initiative to help the yellow stone pack before Alpha Denzel's arrival.

This also meant that all was not lost. There was still something in him, that needed to come out. freewebnovel.com

"I two days, I will send Burke to come take a report on my behalf," Alpha Denzel said, Alpha Ludwig was glad that he was willing to help and asked.

"What should it entail?"

"Your daily, weekly and monthly expenditures, imports and exports, assets and liabilities. I would also have you record your training and then I can think about how to help you," Alpha Denzel concluded.

Warmth filled Alpha Ludwig's heart. "Thank you very much. I will get to it now. I was here to follow up on some business but let me go and get this done."

Alpha Denzel watched Alpha Ludwig and his men drive out of the pack before relaying everything to Beta Burke. That way, he could add it to his plans.

While others may think that working with Alpha Denzel was so demanding, Burke saw it as the opportunity of getting better. This was how Alpha Denzel trusted Godic with little things and with time, the man became his right-hand man.

"Thank you for trusting me, Alpha," he said with gratitude. Alpha Denzel nodded his head and said, "let's go back."

About to leave, beta Hugo and the pack members gathered around them. "What now?" Alpha Denzel asked in annoyance.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 372 - I didn't do it for you

Chapter 372: Chapter 372 - I didn't do it for you

"Alpha Denzel, everyone wants to say thank you for sending Alpha Ludwig over and also coming to help us," Beta Hugo said, the pack members were eagerly nodding their heads.

"Yes, Alpha Denzel, thank you," they chorused, but Alpha Denzel felt nothing. As he stared at them, his mind was clouded by the state in which he saw Valerie that day.

The culprits were gone, but all these people watched it as a form of entertainment.

If not for his father-in-law, Alpha Denzel would not have come. "I didn't do it for you," Alpha Denzel said coldly, beckoning his team to leave with him.

As they were about to shift, Beta Hugo spoke up again. "Alpha Denzel, please, can you help us send a word to Alpha Lawn?"

A scoff escaped Alpha Denzel as he glared at them. "Whatever you want to say to him, just wait until he returns."

Without another word, they shifted and dashed into the bushes, leaving the members of the Yellow Stone Pack perplexed.

They knew their mistake, just as they knew that Alpha Lawn would not be so kind.

At the Evergreen Pack, Valerie had just escorted Alessia and Godic to the chopper, witnessing their departure before doing the same to Luna Fernanda and Spartan.

It was just a few days together but felt like they had been together all their lives.
freewebnovel.com

Family was a very beautiful thing. Luna Fernanda did not want to leave without seeing her nephew and asked.

"Where is Denzel, where did he have to go so early?"

Her curiosity did nothing to move Valerie into divulging anything, and she only replied.

"You know how emergencies happen. We shall be there for Ashley's coronation anyway."

Those magic words did exactly what they were meant to do, as she saw Luna Fernanda smile in understanding and expectation.

"You are right about that. I can't wait to see you."

After a kiss on either of the cheeks, the two prominent people left with different cars, heading in different directions.

"Val, where is Denzel?" Alpha Lawn asked as soon as Valerie returned, Ashley was also just coming out of her room.

She was sleeping before Alpha Idris left and was wondering where he had gone if he was not downstairs.

"I can't find Idris. We slept together but he seemed to have disappeared." She whined like a lost child, and Valerie thought it rather funny by the way she was looking for a full-grown man as if he were some kind of a baby.

"He went out with Denzel. Let's make breakfast."

Valerie saved her the stress and was already headed to the kitchen as she spoke, so Ashley followed her, feeling as if the pack house suddenly tripled in size due to all the missing faces.

The pack house suddenly felt empty.

They were both surprised to see that Alice was already in the kitchen, as if someone had chased her out of bed, but the fact that she looked cheerful left no cause for concern.

In the course of cooking, Luna Alma descended the stairs and headed straight to the kitchen. "What are you making?" She asked with interest, scrutinizing the environment and all the ingredients.

"Pancakes," Valerie replied. Luna Alma did not like the raw pancakes they were making.

"Let me handle it," she said seriously. Valerie felt she hadn't rested enough and would need to rest some more.

"Mom, don't worry," she tried to assure the middle-aged woman who was as willful as a three-year-old.

"You might never get to enjoy my cooking again because we have to return to our pack tomorrow."

A sense of loneliness overwhelmed Valerie. It was okay when it was just her, Denzel, and Alessia.

Alessia left, and she slowly adjusted. Alice came along, and now, they had more people to call family, and they were leaving once more.

If she had a way, she would have made them stay, but she knew that was not possible. "Okay. We shall sit and chat while you do all the cooking."

The middle-aged woman was delighted, but looking around, she curiously asked. "Where is Denzel and Idris?"

If she mistakenly dropped a hint, her mother would insist on returning to the Yellow Stone Pack immediately.

She even looked more stunning in one of Valerie's white dresses, and these were moments when one could not tell the difference between Valerie, Ashley, and their mother.

"He will be back soon," Valerie replied, but the woman looked around and realized that more faces were missing, but she remembered Godic saying he would be leaving for the human world.

"Where is Raven?" She asked curiously, wondering why the sweet girl was not in the pack house, but Valerie responded with a smile as she watched her mother cook with love.

"She's at home, but I will get her and her brother to join us for breakfast."

Alma was still displeased, asking. "Why isn't she here in the pack house? There are so many rooms, but if you don't mind, I can take her with me."

Valerie knew that Alpha Denzel would not be happy about that arrangement, as he had made a promise to Raven's parents.

"I will discuss with Denzel to move her to the pack house, but I doubt he would allow her to leave with you."

"And she can share my room," Alice added. Her room was so large; it sometimes felt lonely.

Not having had a sister before, she saw Raven as one because they were of the same age bracket.

"That's not a bad idea," Valerie agreed as Alma turned to Ashley.

"Ashley, you don't have to come with us." She wanted her to be abreast of her new pack, but Ashley was far from agreeing to it.

"Mom, there will be a lot to do at the pack. The last time I went there, it was not in perfect condition." Not wanting to give her mother the chance to refuse, she quickly asked.

"But where is dad? I'm even surprised that you came downstairs before him."

Valerie could swear that she caught her mother's cheeks turn pink, wondering if...

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 373 - I'm only doing it for my Luna

Chapter 373: Chapter 373 - I'm only doing it for my Luna

Valerie could swear that she caught her mother's cheeks turning pink, wondering if... Oh, how could she forget that they were middle-aged and still needed their libidos satiated?

Valerie was just not expecting it to be so soon.

She was about to tease her mother some more when her father's voice rang from the living room.

They could hear his footsteps, meaning that he was descending the stairs.

"Alma, is the food ready?"

The muffled aged woman's cheeks pinked even more. After using so much energy last night, they needed food, and Alma had gone ahead to make breakfast, only to be caught up with the three women already in the kitchen.

Valerie stared at her mother, watching her cheeks turning into deeper shades of red before Alpha Lawn appeared at the entrance.

"Big bad wolf, just stay in your room, will you?" Alma's voice suddenly lost authority, and Valerie had clarity on something.

Love could turn even the strongest and fiercest of women into a teenager.

Ashley caught it too but could not be as diplomatic as Valerie, asking directly.

"Mom, dad, did you..." Valerie clamped her hand over Ashley's mouth and looked in Alice's direction.

Only then did Ashley refrain from what she wanted to say, but her curious gaze never left that of her parents.

Valerie instantly changed the direction of the conversation as the aroma of pancakes wafted through the kitchen.

"I will come with you to the Yellowstone pack, so what would you do to the pack members?" She asked, and the middle-aged man replied seriously.

"They shall all be punished."

Valerie probed further. "What kind of punishment would that be?"

"It would depend on the state of the pack, but that reminds me. Can you get me a team to help me refurbish the pack house? I can't, and I know Alma can equally not get over Eileen's presence at the pack house and most probably, our room."

Valerie understood his reservations. Tristan and Eileen had used that room, the bed, and all. It was hard to imagine, but in that aspect, she lacked exactly what to instruct.

"Let me ask Dorothy. She is in charge of the Omega's community and would be able to get some of the experts to do some changes."

"No need," Alpha Denzel's voice rang through the kitchen. He was in emergency clothes with Alpha Idris and Burke.

The other warriors had already left for their homes.

Valerie went to hug him and asked, "how did it go?"

"I will tell you everything, but let me inform some experts to go take care of the pack house. If you want the whole pack worked on, that would take longer but can still be done."

Alpha Lawn and Alma were grateful for Denzel's help. They could also accept his help with the pack house but not the pack itself.

The explanation was perfect, and no one questioned it.

"You can go ahead with the pack house, and I will pay you later. I don't want anything that would remind me of those two. As for the pack, the members would rebuild it themselves. We shall be there to supervise them."

Allowing others to build the pack in which the members destroyed with their own hands would only make them lazier.

Alpha Lawn wanted them to learn. "I will arrange for them to be here in an hour. You can tell them everything you want, and they will take your measurements for your clothes too," Denzel added, everyone was moved as Alpha Lawn replied.

"Please don't forget to send the bill to me."

Denzel shook his head. "I'm only doing it for my Luna, so there is nothing to pay for."

Knowing he would have done the same if he were in Denzel's shoes, Alpha Lawn did not refuse the kindness.

"Thank you."

With everything settled, Denzel suddenly revealed.

"Dad, Fusion and the other rogues are dead. You can bring the rogue king and his mate to your pack easily now."

Alpha Lawn knew there was more, asking. "What happened? Was it the storm?"

Denzel shook his head and pursed his lips. "No. They attacked your pack this morning, and your beta alerted me, but there was one Alpha there already."

"The rogue attack was led by Fusion, so I killed him," Denzel said nonchalantly, and Alpha Lawn was upset.

"The idiot doesn't know when and how to put a break on it. Thank you very much."

Ashley was suddenly upset. "Val, you lied to me."

Not denying it, Valerie replied jokingly. "I don't regret it. You would have caused mom and dad to panic by the way you went crazy looking for your mate."

Idris was touched but reserved his comments. Raven and Ray joined them for breakfast, and by the time they were done, the experts had arrived.

After taking Alpha Lawn's instructions, they left. Alpha Lawn and Luna Alma stayed three more days before the pack house was ready.

A lot had been done, including fumigation, and Alpha Denzel instructed for every furniture, cooking intensive, and whatnot to be changed.

All workers in the pack house were to leave for their homes, and Alpha Lawn would call those he wanted to work with upon arrival, but the pack members were aware that Alpha Lawn would be arriving at any time.

When Alpha Lawn was leaving, he had one request.

"Can we take Raven and her brother along? I saw her from the window planting herbs with her brother."

Alpha Senzel refused. "Then you can understand why I can't let her go, but she's mated to Alpha Ludwig, so I have to ensure that his pack has improved."

Alpha Lawn could not help feeling envious. "She's not even eighteen, and her mate already found her. Some of us suffered to find our mates," he said seriously, but his tone made it sound funny.

Alpha Denzel could relate from that angle. "Well," he looked to his left and right, lowered his voice and spoke.

"Burke is also mated to Alice and is waiting for her to turn eighteen."

Alpha Lawn was amazed. "I must say that these girls are blessed."

"But their men have waited for so long," Alpha Denzel pointed out, and Alpha Lawn agreed.

"That creates a balance."

Burke was to take charge of the Evergreen pack alone for the first time, as everyone else left for the Yellowstone pack.

The members panicked when they saw Alpha Lawn and Luna Alma, together with the rest of the family. Alpha Lawn's declaration made them weep.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 374 - How can I be sure that I can trust you?

Chapter 374: Chapter 374 - How can I be sure that I can trust you?

Everyone was gathered in front of the pack house to welcome Alpha Lawn, but only sorrow laced their faces.

It was not because they were sad to see him, but rather because of what they did to Luna Valerie, blinded by Tritan and Scarlet's scheme.

Even if it wasn't directly them, it happened right in this pack, and they should have intervened, which they did not.

What happened to Luna Valerie, could have as well happened to any of them and yet, no one stood up for each other.

"Alpha, you are welcome back," Beta Hugo said, but Alpha Lawn's expression was cold.

"I heard that Tristan made you the beta, but do you deserve it?" Alpha Lawn asked. Beta Hugo lowered his head, not knowing if it was a trick question.

The pack members were more surprised to see Luna Alma in her full grace because of how long it had been. How was it possible that the dead was brought to life?
freewebnovel.com

Eighteen years to be precise, but she was not happy to see her pack like this, wondering how the pack house was before the renovations.

At the moment, it was similar to that of the Evergreen Pack.

Ashley was also there, and so was Alpha Idris. It was a complete set, making the pack members shiver, especially with Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie's presence.

"Alpha Lawn, I was appointed as beta, so I don't know if I meet your criteria, but I'm ready to step down if you appoint anyone else," Beta Hugo said.

Alpha Lawn's brows slightly raised. He could see that Hugo was already overwhelmed with the position.

"Wasn't Tristan your best friend? How can I be sure that I can trust you?" He asked seriously, Beta Hugo smiled bitterly.

Being interrogated in front of the pack was embarrassing, but he felt like the old Alpha was trying to punish him.

"The fact that we were very good friends did not mean I agreed with everything. I offered suggestions, but you understand that a beta can never force an Alpha to take his suggestion, right?"

Beta Hugo might be overwhelmed, but it turns out he wasn't foolish.

"If that be the case, then suggest a punishment you would equally partake in."

Alpha Lawn was testing him. If he chose a difficult punishment, then Alpha Lawn would pin the blame on him, but if he chose a lighter one, then Alpha Lawn would triple it.

However, it amazed all sundry that Beta Hugo did not fall for the trap.

"Alpha, I can suggest rewards for good deeds, but suggesting a punishment is tantamount to suicide. I beg to refuse."

Ashley smiled. If Tristan had listened to his beta, he would have been able to change his fate, but he did so when it was already too late.

At the initial stages, he had refused until they were in a financial crisis.

"Alright. This is my verdict. From this day forward to the next three days, no pack member above the age of eighteen shall eat or drink anything. This is your punishment for romancing injustice and not fighting for your Luna."

Silence ensued. Due to the scarcity of food, they had not been eating well already, but now, they were going to avoid food entirely.

"Yes, Alpha," their saddened voices chorused, but Alpha Lawn was not done.

"That does not mean you are exempted from work. Everybody would join in rebuilding this pack. Thankfully, we have help from the Evergreen Pack, but most of the manpower is going to come from us."

Hearing about rebuilding the pack, their excitement returned. Everyone loved to be part of the best pack, and ever since Valerie was taken away, the Yellow Stone Pack continued to fall from grace to grass.

It would be amazing to return to their former glory. Cheers suddenly broke out. "Yeeeeeeaaeah, Alpha Lawn is back."

Everybody standing beside Alpha Lawn laughed, excluding Denzel, as Alpha Lawn reminded them.

"I hope you did not forget to starve yourselves." An Alpha's order could never be disobeyed so even if he did not set anyone to watch over them, they would not dare to refuse or cheat.

"Alpha, it already wasn't easy for us. Food was so scarce, we barely had enough. We were selling more than we stored to get money, which doesn't come to us. We thank the moon goddess for bringing you back to us," one of the warriors said honestly.

It was pitiful. Yet, Alpha Lawn did not revert on his punishment. He knew that after serving the punishment, their lives would be full of bliss.

Then he turned to Hugo. "For some reason, I have decided to maintain you as the beta of this pack."

Beta Hugo felt like he was seeing stars but was filled with gratitude. "Thank you, Alpha, I will do my best."

After dispersing everyone, Alpha Lawn said to Hugo, "Come, take us to the vault."

Beta Hugo was confused. "Alpha, there is no vault in this pack. It's just a safe, and that is close to the finance office."

Alpha Lawn frowned imperceptibly, but Valerie stepped in. "Dad, I only made the pack aware of a safe. The vault remains unmoved. You know where that is."

Even Alpha Denzel was surprised. He equally had no idea that the Yellow Stone Pack had a vault. The Ever-green Pack had it, but only Alpha Denzel and Valerie knew about it.

They usually moved the money from the safe there for long-term keeping. "The password remains the same," Valerie said.

It felt like a dream. "Val, if I get you correctly, then the money in the vault remains intact."

"Exactly, including what's in the safe. Tristan pestered me for the passcode to the safe, but I wonder what he would have done if he knew there was a vault."

This came as a huge relief as Alma patted Valerie on the shoulder. "I was never desirous of a male child when I had you after Ashley. You two have proven to be the best daughters any Alpha and Luna could ever have."

They went to open the vault, and it was just as Valerie had said. Everything, including the pack's minerals, remained intact.

"When everything is over, we shall celebrate," Alpha Lawn announced. They later sat down around a round table to discuss the various developments, and Alpha Lawn suddenly made a request he feared Denzel would not grant.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 375 - This woman cannot be our Luna

Chapter 375: Chapter 375 - This woman cannot be our Luna

"My son, I need a favor," Alpha Lawn said, and to his amazement, two people responded.

"Anything," both Denzel and Idris replied. Luna Alma smiled deeply. They now had two sons-in-law, which made things even more interesting.

Alpha Lawn had to get used to the changing future. "Ah, Idris, thank you for reminding me, but I was referring to Denzel."

He was pleased to have alliances with both packs. It meant his pack would grow stronger over time.

"Anything, dad," Denzel replied. Alpha Lawn pressed further.

"Just remember your promise that you would do anything." He remembered that Denzel had initially refused to let Raven move into the Yellowstone pack, so was this an indication that he was now willing to do so?

Denzel suddenly felt trapped. His father-in-law was using the wisdom of old age, but Denzel was not going to give in due to his loyalty to Raven.

It was the same loyalty he knew Alpha Lawn felt, but once he had decided to make Raven a pack member, he had no intention of going back on his word.

"For as long as it doesn't involve Val, Raven, or Alice, I can consider it."

He phrased it that way to have an escape route if Alpha Lawn made a similar request.

The middle-aged man chuckled, not surprised that Denzel did not fall for his trick.

"You are indeed smart. It's about Raven. I wanted to reserve a portion of land for her to plant some herbs here for us. She could train someone to watch it and wouldn't have to be here by herself."

Alpha Denzel had already considered this. The herbs healed them faster than the medications given at the clinic and strengthened their wolves, using their strength to heal.

The hospital treatments focused on symptoms. "That is not a problem. I will arrange it."

"I need another favor," Alpha Lawn said immediately. Alpha Denzel gave him his attention, but before the middle-aged man made his request, Denzel partly guessed.

"Is it about the rogue King? I can bring him to you. Raven and Ray would visit frequently."

If the rogue Alpha joined the Yellowstone pack, there was no way Alpha Denzel would prevent Raven and Ray from coming.

Besides, they were now allies. "Yes, it's about him," Alpha Lawn agreed. Alpha Denzel beckoned to Valerie. frēewebnovël.com

"Let's go and bring him. After that, we can go home."

Valerie did not refuse, as she had always been eager to see the rogue communities. In this case, the rogues in this particular community were dead, with the only survivors being those who did not join the attack.

Still, it did not dampen her enthusiasm to see what it was like. "Sure, let's go."

As they left, Alpha Idris was also eager to take his mate home, asking, "Dad, do you need Ashley for anything? I need to introduce her to the new pack."

There wasn't much happening at the Yellowstone pack except for the experts trying to find a way to use pack members as human resources for the development project.

"When is the coronation, if I may ask? I have to be there a day ahead, so I want to know in advance," Alpha Lawn proudly said.

After all they had been through, there were still many good things happening in their lives.

"It can be in a week," Idris said. Ashley nudged him with her elbow and took over the conversation.

"Come on, Idris, there is a lot to do here. Please, let's make it a month."

"A month would be perfect for me," Alpha Lawn agreed, in case Idris insisted on a week.

"I guess I don't have a choice. A month it is," Idris agreed.

Ashley and Idris arrived at the Litha Moon pack to a very warm welcome. Being acquainted with Luna Fernanda already, she was only meeting Alpha Rick, Luna Fernanda's mate, for the first time after arriving at the packhouse.

The maids eagerly attended to them, as Alpha Rick hugged Ashley. "Welcome home, my daughter. Fernanda already told me the good news."

Ashley's heart warmed as if her father were hugging her. "Thank you, dad. I'm glad to be here, and your pack is indeed beautiful," she acknowledged.

Aside from the Evergreen pack, the second most beautiful one for Ashley was the Litha Moon Pack, as it held many similarities to the Evergreen pack.

"It's your pack now. No need to be courteous," Alpha Rick smiled at her while pouring her a drink.

The news had already spread around the pack, and due to Luna Valerie's coronation, everyone had heard about Ashley.

Having her there made it feel like Luna Valerie, and they were very excited. Perhaps Ashley might even have some powers of her own. Alpha Idris called a meeting with the pack members to introduce her.

"This is my beta, Victor, and that is his mate, Ocean." He introduced a blonde hunk and a blonde she-wolf to her.

Ocean's excitement knew no bounds as Alpha Idris said, "Ocean, Victor, meet our future Luna, Ashley."

"We've been waiting to meet you for so long." Ocean hugged Ashley, as she had been waiting for the chance to meet her ever since Luna Fernanda revealed it.

"I'm here now, and I'm looking forward to getting to know you guys better," Ashley said politely, hugging her back.

Alpha Idris finally introduced her to the pack members. "Today is the happiest day of my life, and I believe it is the same for all of you because my mother can finally retire."

The pack members broke into laughter as he continued. "I found my mate, Ashley, and in exactly one month, she will be the Luna of this pack."

Everyone was joyful and excited, except for a few, and intermittently, the wonderful atmosphere was disrupted by a peculiar she-wolf's voice.

"This woman cannot be our Luna. Not after all she did in Las Vegas."

Ashley's heart skipped a beat as the voice sounded familiar. As the pack members moved aside to reveal the owner of the voice, Ashley's fingers clenched, and the smile faded from her face.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 376 - I'm the Bad Girl

Chapter 376: Chapter 376 - I'm the Bad Girl

"Mahira, what are you doing here?" Ashley asked with a surprised look. Mahira walked to the front and lifted her hand, about to slap Ashley when Alpha Idris caught it, his gaze dark.

"How dare you try to hit her? Your future Luna?" His voice dripped with venom, but Ashley was in a daze, as she had not even tried to defend herself.

When Alpha Idris was a bad boy, Mahira was one of his playthings, so naturally, she was envious of Mahira.

With her head lowered, Mahira spoke up. "Alpha Idris, you would not make her your Luna if you knew the kind of woman she is."

Alpha Idris knew that everyone had a past, and he also knew that Ashley was fun-loving, which was why she left the pack for Vegas.

Whatever she did there did not matter to him, as they had already spoken about it. He had hinted about his past before accepting Alpha Denzel's help, and though he had not gone into details, Ashley equally did not care.

"Now that is where you are wrong. Whatever she did in Vegas remains in Vegas. What matters is her life after we both discovered we were each other's mates."

Mahira was not buying that and went ahead to reveal. "Alpha, are you saying that you would make a sex worker who not only slept with multiple men but also forced younger women into it a Luna?"

"You got it all wrong, Mahira, I had good reasons for everything I did," Ashley cut in, turning emotional, but Mahira was far from giving up and was about to speak when Alpha Idris cut in again.

"I said the past is in the past." His Alpha tone thundered through the pack, but Mahira only turned pitiful.

"Alpha Idris, if you care about the she-wolves in this pack, then this is not the kind of Luna to give us."

About to respond to Mahira's drama, Ashley cut in. "Mahira, let's go talk somewhere. I will explain everything to you. If you dare to speak lies about me in front of my pack, I would have no choice but to banish you."

Mahira laughed, but it was filled with mockery, confidence radiating through her that the person who would be put to shame was Ashley and she was undeserving of the position of a Luna.

"Alpha Idris, it's well understood that Alpha Denzel is your cousin and his Luna is her sister. Of course, you would close your eyes to the truth because you want to protect a so-called harlot and even make her your Luna."

Ashley was enraged. "Be careful what you call me, Mahira. If you know me well enough, then you would understand that power means nothing to me. If not, I would not have left it all."

At this juncture, the pack members' interest had peaked, and Alpha Idris was concerned about the honor of his mate, as things like this quickly traveled to other packs.

The two women spoke so fast that he got no opportunity to chip in his opinion.

"Ashley, if you are indeed innocent of all that I am about to reveal, then let my head be cut off my neck and fed to the vultures," Mahira declared, and the pack members panicked.

"Are you sure you really want it that way?" Ashley asked.

This was something that pressed so much on her that she never wanted anyone to know, but with her dignity trashed in front of her mate, his family, and pack, Ashley had to endure it all and tell the truth.

Mahira felt victorious, as Ashley had no idea of what she was planning. She put forward.

"Before we continue, why don't you call your sister and brother-in-law on the phone? Tell them that you have been accused and should you be found guilty, your head would be cut off your neck and fed to the vultures?"

She was making sure that if Ashley was caught in the trap, not even Alpha Denzel or Luna Valerie would be able to save her, and the Litha Moon Pack would also not be guilty of her blood.

Alpha Idris did not want to lose his mate no matter what after waiting for so long and quickly countered. "I forbid such a thing from happening."

"I second it," Luna Fernanda added her voice.

"I also agree with Idris," Alpha Rick added his voice, but Ashley already dialed Valerie's number and put it on speaker.

"Ashley, guess where we are?" Luna Valerie's excited voice rang from the end of the line. Ashley forced a smile and asked,

"Is Denzel there?"

Valerie noticed that something was off and was instantly serious. Ashley had not answered her question but rather asked about Denzel.

"Yes, he is. Is there a problem?"

"Please put the phone on speaker." Alpha Idris was about to snatch the phone from her.

"Ashley, please let me handle this."

Ashley dodged his hand that was about to hold the phone as Alpha Denzel's voice was heard.

"Ashley, what's going on? Is Idris misbehaving?"

Those who heard his voice were touched. Due to Alpha Denzel's nature, it was always touching when he showed care.

Ashley smiled sadly. "No, on the contrary, I'm the bad girl."

"I think Idris is experienced enough to handle you," Alpha Denzel said, recalling how they met in Vegas.

Ashley was a wild chick, and he was realizing that in his life, two women gave him the worst embarrassment, and those were Valerie and Ashley.

Valerie slapped him in front of his warriors, and Ashley embarrassed him at the club. Perhaps he was cursed to be embarrassed by two sisters.

As he reminisced over the past, it was rather funny, but what Ashley said next broke his heart, and he instantly reversed the car, even as they were close to the rogue community.

"I want you both to know that I have been accused, and if I am found guilty, my blood should not be demanded from any member of the Litha Moon Pack. This is my decision."

Ashley switched off the phone, and her claws elongated as they pierced through her palm, her blood dripped on the floor, confirming her oath.

She stared at Mahira and asked, "Did you forget? The earth must bear witness to this vow. Drop your blood."

Mahira laughed, removed a dagger from her pocket, and stabbed herself in the palm, allowing her blood to drip. "Confirmed. But just so you know, I have witnesses."

She snapped a finger, and four girls Ashley had known in Vegas ran to the front. Her heart stopped instantly as she realized that she had been trapped.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 377 - Don't be afraid. I trust you

Chapter 377: Chapter 377 - Don't be afraid. I trust you

Alpha Idris's phone rang, and when he saw Alpha Denzel's number, he panicked but answered it.

"Idris, if anything happens to Ashley, I will kill you," Alpha Denzel said. The line died soon after, but Idris knew that if it happened, he would even kill himself before Alpha Denzel arrived.

The vows must have already been taken, but should the ball turn against Ashley, he would rather give his life for hers.

Alpha Denzel parked the car as he ended the call and said to Valerie, "We better go in wolf form. I would let Aunt Fernanda meet us with clothes."

Valerie thought about her powers. If she could control the lake and the weather, then why can't she travel with it?

"I think I have a better idea," Valerie said as she joined her hand to that of Denzel. When he heard the sound of raindrops, he knew she was upset, but strangely, water filled the car, and yet, they were breathing normally and were not wet.

It was not normal water, and he was yet to understand just how her powers worked.

"What's going on?" Alpha Denzel asked. Valerie smiled. "Just close your eyes." As soon as he obeyed, they disappeared.

At the Litha Moon Pack, the sound of raindrops was heard, and everyone looked into the sky. "It's going to rain," they murmured, as they saw a cloud form.

Ashley knew it was Valerie, as she had experienced her powers before. As the rain poured on just a portion of the pack house, Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie appeared, everyone shocked except Luna Fernanda.

With an Alpha wolf and the powers from the lake, she was expectant of more surprises to come their way.

"How did they do that?" Some of the pack members asked with confused expressions, not having answers to their questions.

"Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie have grown even more powerful," others observed. freewebnovel.com

It was obvious that they had traveled with the clouds to arrive as fast as they could.

"What's going on here?" Alpha Denzel asked, his expression stoic as Valerie ran to her sister's side.

"Ashley, how can you say things like that? Are you crazy?" She chastised her sister, but Ashley seemed in a daze.

So many things she kept hidden for years weighed heavily on her heart. Mahira had just resurrected them all with this challenge she put across.

"Luna Valerie, Alpha Denzel, with all due respect, Ashley has a confession to make. She sold young girls into prostitution and slept with countless men."

"She killed innocent people, and I have proof of it all. She already vowed with her blood that if this were true, then her head should be separated from her neck and fed to vultures."

When Valerie got the clear understanding of what Ashley had brought on herself, she was worried and thought of a way to get her out of the situation, but Alpha Denzel's response stunned them.

"I hope the same would apply to you. If you have witnesses, then the same applies to them."

The four girls around Mahira paled instantly, especially when Ashley had said before that she had a good explanation for her past actions.

It was okay for them if Mahira's head was the only one on the line, but things were suddenly taking a different turn with Alpha Denzel's arrival.

He was always known to complicate matters, but in this case, he was certain that Ashley was innocent because if she had done those things in Vegas, Denzel would have known.

Information like that was never kept from him, and Alpha Denzel knew all the people who dealt in such things, having their allies in Italy, New York, and other states and countries.

Valerie knew that Denzel loved these kinds of games, but this was her sister's life on the line.

"Denzel, we should rather stop this from happening," Valerie said in a panicked voice, and Idris agreed.

"Denzel, please, we shouldn't let it happen."

Luna Fernanda and Alpha Rick agreed with Valerie, but only Denzel stood by Ashley. "Oh yes, it's going to happen. Ashley, what do you have to say?" He asked in a soft tone.

Her depressed mood was already heart-wrenching.

Ashley broke down for the first time in her life, and though it was not in Denzel's personality to hug a woman who was not his, he was the only one who understood her at this moment.

He went around and embraced her; she cried even harder, her tears wetting his shirt. "Thank you for trusting me, Denzel, I didn't do it," she sobbed. "But it hurts when I think about it."

Alpha Denzel discerned that it was not so simple, and for a moment, tears blurred his vision. Yet, he did not allow it to fall.

"I'm here now. Don't be afraid. I trust you."

His words gave Ashley the exact confidence she needed, and for a moment, Idris was jealous of the fact that he could not give her the trust and confidence Denzel gave her.

Denzel seemed to know Ashley better than Idris, her mate, and Idris was determined to change that. At the moment, it was too late, but he would make it up to her.

"It's just unfortunate that I don't have my witnesses here. She has hers," Ashley said, referring to the four girls around Mahira.

For his mate's happiness, Alpha Denzel would do anything. After all, if anything happened to Ashley, Valerie would never be the same again.

Alpha Denzel was about to call Godic to bring a helicopter when Valerie spoke seriously.

"Give us their addresses. We shall get them."

Her powers would enable her to travel to any part of the world unless it was winter. It rarely snowed in Vegas, so she knew she could make it back in time.

Idris gave Ashley a pen and paper, hope resonating through him as she scribbled a few things on it before giving it to Valerie. However, there was a big problem.

"Please tell them that Ash needs help, but they are all humans." Humans could not be allowed in the packs, making Mahira's lips stretch, a smile tugging its corners.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 378 - Moment of truth

Chapter 378: Chapter 378 - Moment of truth

Ashley had resigned herself to the fact that she had lost her chance of gaining her sister and brother-in-law's support, but Valerie remembered that Denzel had dealt with a similar situation before.

It was when Alpha Conrad had kidnapped a human girl to manipulate one of the pack members.

"Don't worry. We can wipe their memories afterward," Valerie assured her. She couldn't go alone since Denzel knew Vegas better than she did.

Also, if they sent Godic to retrieve the girls, it might take longer as he would have to move around with a car and chopper.

Valerie could reach Vegas in less than a minute, but locating the houses on the list and convincing the girls might take longer.

"Denzel would be able to find their addresses faster," Valerie said, forcing a smile.

Situations like this always arose, especially when the Luna was from a different pack. She-wolves from the Alpha's pack would often try to make things difficult.

"We will be back soon, and nobody moves. I suggest you get chairs because this matter must end today," Denzel said in an Alpha tone. Mahira's girls shivered, but she remained resolute.

"I will get a chair," she said after Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie left the same way they had arrived. But before she could get the chair, Alpha Idris stopped her.

"You are not going anywhere. Warriors, get chairs for everybody."

He would be damned before he allowed Mahira to escape after embarrassing his mate. If it turned out that Ashley was indeed innocent, he would enjoy doing as Mahira herself had proposed.

The warriors brought chairs for everybody, and they all sat except Ashley and Idris. He embraced her and said seriously, "No matter how everything turns out, I will never allow anything to happen to you."

Certainty resonated in his voice as he spoke.

It hadn't been an hour, and some people were already yawning from boredom when the sound of raindrops caught their attention.

They sat up nervously, and this time it wasn't just Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie who appeared. A group of girls and two men accompanied them.

Everyone was stunned, realizing that the Alpha and Luna of the Evergreen pack were now imbued with a special and unique power.

It would be impossible for any pack or rogue to defeat them. One of the men accompanying them quickly rushed to Ashley's side.

Ashley pulled away from Alpha Idris, and the two embraced each other. Jealousy gnawed at Alpha Idris's heart, but he soon relaxed as the conversation unfolded.

"Albert, what are you doing here?" Ashley asked in shock.

"Don said you needed help. After what you did for my wife, I insisted on coming with her just to see you. What is this place called? I don't even know how we got here."

All he remembered was joining a group hug with Don and his wife.

"Don't worry. It's enough that you are all here."

As Ashley spoke, a group of girls and another man swarmed around her, hugging her in a group hug.

"Ash, you never said goodbye, and I could never reach you on the phone," one of them said after pulling away.

Ashley felt slightly guilty as she sighed. "It's a long story. Warriors, bring them chairs and some drinks and snacks too. They must be hungry."

"No, we are not. We are more concerned about why you are here," one of the girls said, beaming with excitement at seeing her heroine once more.

She was Albert's wife.

Albert's curious gaze roamed around the unfamiliar faces until it finally settled on a familiar one.

"Mahira," he said and walked up to the girl who had a cold glare on her face. "What are you doing here?"

Ashley was surprised that they knew each other but did not stop Albert from speaking with Mahira.

"Albert, it's good that you are here. Remember the woman who sold your wife into prostitution and killed the girls who refused to do her bidding? That is Ashley. And here you are, all over her, the despicable woman."

The smile froze on the faces of the girls, including Albert. "How on earth did you get such information?"

"I saw her on the day we escaped. She was happily servicing two men."

Disgust filled the eyes of the people present as they began to look at Ashley differently, but Valerie's eyes were filled with painful tears.

Albert smiled bitterly. "What you saw was correct, but that was not the whole story. Ashley took the place of my wife that day, and to make it real, she had to do what she did to get those men to trust her. Only then did they allow their bodyguards to leave before she got the chance to kill them."

Mahira felt awkward. "What are you talking about?"

"Mahira, you should not have jumped to conclusions because of that," Albert said with a pained expression.

Mahira shook her head. How could things turn against her? "Impossible. It was her. Don Calvin confirmed it."

Albert scoffed. "Don Calvin? Of course, he would say anything against her because she killed his two sons. They were raping underage girls and forcing them to do all manner of disgusting things. I wish I could kill him myself, but his protection is great."

"Someone should explain this whole thing from the beginning," Alpha Denzel's voice cut in.

Ashley smiled bitterly. Her girls sat around her as she began to narrate everything from the end to the beginning.

"Val, do you remember the time you called me, and the line died?" Ashley asked. Valerie nodded.

"Yes, I remember. That was when Alessia brought me a phone after I had stayed for almost a month at the Evergreen pack," Valerie recalled.

Alpha Denzel realized that just as he suspected then that she might contact someone with the phone, she indeed did so. He was just glad it was Ashley.

"Your call was what stopped me from going after Don Calvin. I felt that the pack needed me, so I decided to come and help you. Then I could go back to deal with him, but when I saw Dad, my priorities changed."

Mahira was beginning to get uncomfortable, as were her girls. Valerie asked Ashley, "Now we want to hear everything from the beginning."

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 379 - Moment of Truth II

Chapter 379: Chapter 379 - Moment of Truth II

"Before I decided to spend the rest of my life in Vegas, I had visited a couple of times in advance and fallen in love with the place. It was during one of those visits that I met Alpha Denzel," Ashley recalled, but the humans among the group were somewhat confused.

"You mean Don Denzel. Why are you calling him Alpha?" Albert asked, and the rest of the humans nodded in agreement. They wanted to know the meaning of the title, as they were yet to get an answer to where this place was.

freewebnovel.com

Ashley knew that by the time they would return and wake up from sleep, they would not remember any of this, so she gently said to them,

"Don't worry. We shall come to that later. When I arrived in Vegas, I just wanted to enjoy the fun side of life. My dad had disowned me but did not take away my trust fund, so I had enough money to spend," Ashley began to recall.

"But after some time, I got bored and decided to find a job. On my way to an interview one day, Sylvia snatched my handbag."

One of the human girls who sat beside Ashley agreed. "That is true. I am Sylvia, the one who snatched her bag."

One of Mahira's girls could not stop herself from asking. "You are Sylvia? I thought you were dead?" She asked in horror, and Sylvia shook her head.

"No. Ashley suggested that we do that to keep me safe." She stared at Ashley in admiration.

She had saved their lives by sacrificing hers, and if not for Ashley, they would have been dead or found themselves in worse situations. Some had even left for other countries and cities outside the United States.

The girl was already shivering, looking around with fear in her eyes. Alpha Denzel was not liking the interruptions, already thinking about how to deal with Don Calvin.

"No more interruptions. Continue the story, Ashley," he encouraged her.

If he had known this before, another Don would have been added to his list when they last visited Vegas, but it was all good.

Valerie's powers would enable them to leave and return within minutes.

Ashley nodded and continued as told. "My money, cards, and everything was in the bag, so I could not let it go, giving her a wild chase. I caught up to her, but she did not have the bag with her. Agitated, I beat the hell out of her until she began to confess."

"According to her, she had lost some drugs meant to be delivered and had to pay for them, so petty theft was her only way of getting the money. I was saddened by her story when she mentioned that a lot of her friends were in similar situations and were being sold into prostitution in New York."

Ashley sighed. "So that was when I decided to help her. We came up with a plan, so I had to pretend to be a desperate girl to carry drugs for Don Calvin's two sons, El and Alan."

"I would plan with the girls, and we would get into a fight. They would pretend to die from the fight, and I would get people to retrieve them before their bodies were deposited at the Mortuary."

"I ensured to give them enough money to start a new life in other cities after that, so my money was running low."

"However, El and Alan became suspicious of me, so I had to lie low. But when Claire, Albert's wife, was being abused that day with two more underage girls, that was when I decided that enough was enough," Ashley said in a firm voice.

"I caused a commotion, giving them the opportunity to escape. But I knew that if I escaped with them, we would forever be on the run, so I decided to end it by offering myself in their place."

Bitterness laced her voice as she recalled the pain she had to endure on that day, just to take their attention off the girls. Her teeth gritted together.

"My virginity was taken in the most painful and harsh way, so do you think I was wrong to kill them? All I wanted was for their bodyguards to leave because if I tried anything in front of them, they would call for backup, and those would be Don Calvin's men."

"That was how I had to service two men, and after that, I killed them. So if you think that I'm undeserving of Alpha Idris or the Luna position because of this, then you are right."

Mahira did not know where to hide her face when all gazes pinned on her. Ashley killed no girl, and neither did she sell them into prostitution. She was the one who saved them by sacrificing her most precious asset.

"No. It can't be true. If you indeed killed those men, you could not have been alive. Don Calvin would have killed you," Mahira complained, and Ashley forced a smile.

"You are right about that, and that was the reason I was on the run. I finally had the opportunity to swap with one of his whores, but that day, my sister's call came through, and I couldn't waste any more time. I had to drop my quest for vengeance and return. These are some of the girls I rescued. If you don't believe me, then ask them."

The hateful glares pinned on Mahira made her extremely nervous but her girls were already shivering. Valerie was embittered that her sister went through so much in the human world.

The other guy who accompanied them spoke up.

"She did not just save the girls. I was one of the people sent after her, but I was shot on the way, and she saved my life. That is why I came. Until now, she has no idea I had been sent to kill her, so what is all this about? Will somebody tell us what this place is?"

Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie exchanged glances, and a few showers fell from the sky. All the humans fell at the same time.

"Since the truth is out, we shall return them and come back. Don't pass judgment before our return," Denzel said seriously.

The humans were taken back to where they were brought in. One by one, they were delivered to their houses, and by the time they woke up, they could not even remember meeting Don Denzel and his wife.

"How do we find Don Calvin?" Valerie asked. Alpha Denzel dialed a number on his phone. After a few words, he ended the call.

"He's in Italy, but I have sent assassins to do the work. They would send the report in a few days."

Valerie smiled at the feedback, wishing she could see Alessia, but she could not spend more time due to the judgment meant to be passed.

As soon as they appeared at the Litha Moon Pack, Mahira skillfully began shedding tears, kneeling before Ashley.

"Please, Ashley, I was wrong. You won't let them kill me, will you?"

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 380 - A great reward for her kind heart

Chapter 380: Chapter 380 - A great reward for her kind heart

Ashley was too broken from remembering her painful ordeal. This was something she had kept inside, the reason she was finding it hard to mate Idris, though he was the rightful owner.

The pain of that ordeal was just unbearable. After something like that had been squashed in the open, she could not say she was ashamed, since she did it to save the life of those girls but could also not say that she was proud of how she lost her virginity.

Words failed her as she stared at the woman in front of her. "Let me ask you a question," Ashley spoke with a faraway look in her eyes.

"If it had been proven that I was guilty of what you accused me of, would you have allowed me to live?"

Shame dominated Mahira's expressions. The pack members were already against her and her witnesses looked soulless.

"I..." she was about to speak when Alpha Idris cut in.

"Even if Ashley decides to forgive you and let it go, I, Alpha Idris would not allow it. I would make sure that you are served with the punishment you proposed yourself."

Mahira's wails broke out, and so did that of her so-called witnesses. Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie soon arrived as Alpha Denzel spoke seriously.

"You called us here as witnesses. It's time for you to face your punishment."

Mahira and her girls' wails could be heard everywhere around the pack but Alpha Denzel was adamant.

Mahira should not have brought up anything about an event that happened in the human world to the pack in the first place.

"Idris, do you want me to do your job for you? I can, but if I do it, then you are undeserving of my sister-in-law," Alpha Denzel said seriously, annoyed that Alpha Idris had not passed a judgment against Ashley's accusers.

Whereas Alpha Idris could not accept the accusation of cowardice thrown at him.

"The only reason for the delay was because we were waiting for you. Warriors, feed their heads to the vultures and cremate their bodies."

This was one of the worst forms of death any she-wolf faced but Mahira was the one who brought it up.

"No, please have mercy on us," Mahira and her girls wailed but none of the pack members took pity on them.

Having laid their beds, they had to lie on it.

Their heads were separated from their bodies within a twinkle of an eye, causing a mess as their bodies were taken away for cremation.

Their heads were hanged on the trees for the vultures to feed on, just as they wanted it done to Ashley.

Ashley showed no amusement on her face after her enemies were brought to justice. Valerie went to comfort her.

"I know how hard it was for you but you did the right thing. If I was caught in the same situation, I would have done the same. I don't think that Idris has anything against you, and I'm proud to have you as my big sister."

Valerie's words warmed Ashley's heart, the two of them embraced each other. After pulling away, Alpha Denel added his voice.

"You are a very brave woman, Ashley. Please keep it up." He wiped the tears from her eyes and just like that, he and Valerie left with the sound of raindrops.

Alpha Idris pulled Ashley into his arms after dispersing the pack members. It has been a long day with unexpected twists but Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie soon appeared again.

Alpha Idris and Ashley turned in their direction as Alpha Idris asked. "Did you forget something?"

Valerie smiled and replied. "I want to give her something."

Ashley's eyes widened questionably when Valerie ambled towards her, wondering what she wanted to give her.

Valerie was not holding anything to match her statement so Ashley asked her. "Did you forget anything?"

Valerie shook her head, a smile at the corner of her lips. "No. I figured I could share my powers with just one person. Do you want it?" She asked.

It would be unwise to force her powers on Ashley if she did not want them. Someone else might be willing to.

Ashley was shocked. "Are you kidding me? You can share your powers with me?" She could not believe it, though she desired it but Valerie confirmed it to her.

"My wolf says so." Astrid was a compensation for all that Valerie went through so she was quite powerful, with the ability to reward the good and punish the evil or wrongdoings.

Ashley felt a surge of excitement as she asked, "but why?" If Valerie could share her powers with just one person, would it not be best that she shared it with any of her pack members?

In a case where Valerie decided on Vacation, there would be someone with similar powers to protect the pack but she decided to give it to Ashley.

They might be sisters but the fact remained that they were both in different packs now.

"Astrid said you deserve it because of your kind heart," Valerie explained her reason for sharing her powers with her, adding, "you would need it to protect your pack."

Ashley wiped a joyful tear from the corner of her eyes. "Of course, I accept it."

Valerie's heart was filled with gladness, the fact that Ashley was the one. She held Ashley's face with both her hands.

"Look at me and don't blink," she instructed. The moment Ashley obeyed, a silver light from Valerie's eyes permeated through hers, Ashley fainted but before her body touched the ground, Alpha Idris caught her.

Worry shone in Idris's eyes but Valerie explained it calmly to him.

"She would sleep it off," Valerie said before she disappeared with Alpha Denzel by the same means they came.

Alpha Idris carried Ashley to his room, watching over her for over thirty minutes, until her eyes snapped open. "Who are you?" she asked in a husky voice, Alpha Idris froze instantly.

"You don't remember me?"

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 381 - Am I not handsome enough for you?

Chapter 381: Chapter 381 - Am I not handsome enough for you?

Ashley rubbed her temple. "I have a headache. Can I have some water?" Idris quickly poured her a glass of water and fed it to her before saying,

"Valerie said you would sleep it off, but how are you feeling now?"

Ashley forced a smile, remembering everything clearly. She felt a slight discomfort, which could be attributed to the new waves of power swimming through her veins.

"I feel so funny, but after drinking the water, I kind of feel better."

Alpha Idris was glad but still had a major concern, asking seriously. "Are you sure you don't remember me?" It was difficult to accept that she couldn't, but Ashley smiled at him.

"Did you believe that?"

A chuckle escaped him as he nudged her. "You silly girl. You scared the hell out of me."

Ashley laughed, finding her frustration amusing. "I loved the look on your face when I said it."

"So can you try using your power?" Idris asked curiously, determined to know how it works.

Ashley stared at the drinking glass, and it was instantly filled with water. Alpha Idris picked it up, but pouring it out, the water suspended in the air.

He wondered what could be done with suspended water. This did not seem interesting to him, so he asked directly.

"Is that all? You can't use that to help anyone."

Ashley smiled, and the next moment, Idris was suffocating. It was as if the water was rushing down his lungs, and the very air he was breathing was being denied to him.

Unexpectedly, the air began to fill his lungs once again when he thought all was lost, and Ashley would not know that she was hurting him.

Panting, he asked her. "What the hell is that?"

Ashley chuckled. "Did you not ask about the effectiveness of my powers?" It felt good to use this kind of power on her stronger opponent, but then, what if she received the powers in exchange for her wolf.

She quickly communicated with her wolf, Lilian. 'Are you there?'

'I won't die yet,' came the quick response, her excitement increased. Her wolf was not affected, and she got special powers as a gift from her junior sister.

She had to call Valerie to thank her, but it was already late. Excitement flung Idris upon confirming this.

"This is amazing, and it would be good if you could do it to a lot of people at once." He imagined Ashley using these powers in a time of war against many enemies.

Alpha Idris was lost for words. Being on Denzel's team was the best thing that happened in his life.

"I will practice that later, but now, I want to shower," Ashley said nervously.

Back at the Evergreen pack, Idris would be out of the room before she woke up, so it was easy for her to go shower, but now, she suddenly felt shy when it was just the two of them.

Idris knew she was still avoiding him but could not allow this to go on. Her past must have been terrible, but it was time to let it go and embrace a wonderful future together.

"Ashley, we need to talk."

Ashley guessed it was about the mating thing and was even nervous. After what she faced the last time with those brothers, she had decided never to let any man in, but her mate found her, and that was her destiny.

"Is it about the confession? I honestly wanted to tell you, but..." Alpha Idris cut in before she could complete her sentence.

"Look, don't think that I will ever judge you based on whatever happened in your past. I have my rotten skeletons too, and what matters is the future ahead of us."

Ashley remembered that the first time they shared a room, he had told her about the kind of life he lived before Denzel put him in order, but that was not Ashley's worry.

She thought for a while and spoke honestly. "Thank you, but sex is painful."

Alpha Idris shook his head. He was a master of that with tons of experience. "No, it isn't. It's because you gave it out unwillingly. It was your first time too," he pointed out. Ashley was still not convinced, asking,

"Can you give me time?"

Alpha Idris was dying to have a taste of her but could also not force her. Still, there were many ways to kill a cat, so he said to her.

"Sure, I will, but let's shower together."

Ashley's cheeks crimsoned as this was exactly what she wanted to avoid. "Must we?" She used to hear girls talk about how they seduce their men and all and had even suggested it to Valerie but now that it was her turn, her vigor disappeared.

Seeing how reluctant she was, Idris wanted to give up, but his wolf was unwilling. They wanted to bear the mark of their mate and claim her as theirs too.

"We are mates, remember?"

Knowing the rules of the mating bond, Ashley could not refuse. "Okay."

A sigh of relief escaped Alpha Idris, and he ambled to her. Slowly, he began to undress her. "I will help you take off your clothes."

Ashley shivered at the feel of his hand on her skin. It made her hotter than she ever felt and kept wondering what exactly was happening.

When her bra loosened around her breast, she quickly covered it with both hands, feeling embarrassed, but Idris only shook his head. It was just a matter of time before she got comfortable with him.

Her eyes closed tightly, her shivers increasing, when he pulled down her panty. She was extremely nervous, and the next thing she knew, she was lifted in his strong arms.

"Open your eyes, Ash, am I not handsome enough for you?" Idris asked teasingly, her cheeks burned, climbing to her ears. Reluctantly opening her eyes, she felt enchanted when they bore into his darkened gaze. freewebovel.com

"Trust me, Ashley, you would be asking for this every day by the time I'm done with you," he said before entering the shower room.

Adjusting the temperature to a comfortable one, he took the bathing shampoo and wet his hands, forming a lather, which he gently rubbed on her skin. When he reached her breast, he took his time to massage both breasts together, expecting her to stop him, but rather, an audible moan escaped her.

"Arrrh, Idris, what are you doing to me?"

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 382 - Much Better Than You Can Imagine

Chapter 382: Chapter 382 – Much Better Than You Can Imagine

A smirk formed on the corner of Idris's lips, his fingers flickering over her hard nipples with the lather. Ashley felt wetness between her thighs that was not from the lather or water.

It was a sensation that made her desire her mate, something that she never experienced with those two brothers who had dealt with her.

"Trust me, Ash, you would enjoy this," Idris said, his voice filled with desire as his hand caressed between her thighs. Rubbing between them, another moan escaped Ashley as the lather massage continued down to her thighs and legs.

Idris turned the faucet, allowing the shower to wash away the lather but at the same time, he slipped a finger into her tight walls. Ashley squirmed, a fresh desire overwhelming her.

Her fingers rested on his head as she stroked it. Idris smiled, pleased that she was enjoying it, and said, "Open your legs wider, please."

Ashley wanted to ask why, but only a moan escaped her as his finger went deeper into her core, his lips pressed against her nipple.

Her arousal was strong, it took over the atmosphere. "Ahhhh, I feel strange." Her breath was strained, and she moaned deeper.

"This is how it should be, Ash, that is your first release," he educated her, just as she groaned louder, her release coating her fingers.

Idris took her lips and opened the shower, and they kissed passionately under it. As soon as they were done, he carried her to the bed after cleaning her with a towel.

"Ash, I promise it won't hurt," he assured her. She believed him this time, expectant of something similar to the pleasure he had just given her but it was even more.

Their lips met, and their hands joined together. Idris moved down a little and kissed her clitoris. She whimpered, grabbing the sheets tightly.

By the time he penetrated her, she was screaming his name. "Idris, I love you."

"I know, darling, I love you more and would show it to you I would give it to you in several ways every day." His thrusts were filled with all the desires he had buried from the time he decided to abstain from sex until finding his mate.

freewebnovel.com

After releasing deep inside of her and collapsing to the side, Ashley climbed on top of him, kissing his neck as her teeth sunk into it.

Just like that, she marked him as hers.

Alpha Idris endured the sharp pain like a man, and his teeth sunk into her neck as well. The feeling and exchange of the bond's completeness, gave them a sweet sleep for the first like newborn babies.

At the rogue community, Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie arrived at the once-populated place that was now deserted.

Going straight to the rogue Alpha's house, there was nobody there.

"It doesn't seem like anyone lives here," Valerie observed. Denzel was confused. "Where else would he be?" Denzel asked rhetorically, looking around curiously for any clues.

"Do you think we should go in and check?" Valerie asked. Alpha Denzel was slightly reluctant.

"Let's look around first."

The two of them checked around the community, but there was no sign of the occupants of the house.

When they entered the house and searched the bedrooms, there was still no sign of the two people.

Disappointment engulfed Alpha Denzel as he feared something bad must have happened to them.

"Does he have a phone? We could call," Valerie asked. Alpha Denzel remembered that the rogue Alpha did not have a phone.

If he did, he would have contacted his children by now. "No, he doesn't. I will send someone to come and check again later, but I'm just sorry to disappoint Dad."

There was a saddened look on his face, as he guessed how empty and regretful Alpha Lawn would feel.

Perhaps they should have taken him along when they took his children with them.

Valerie was equally disenchanted, hoping to meet the couple who took in her father. There was nothing to hope for at the current state of the place, so they quickly left.

However, hope found them when they saw two familiar figures close to their car, seemingly waiting for them.

They had returned from their unsuccessful hunting for food to sleep on empty stomach when they saw a luxury car and were determined to know who owned it.

Perhaps, they could beg for some food or money to get some.

Alpha Denzel quickly made out the man, as he had never seen the woman before. "That's him."

"Alpha Denzel," the rogue Alpha approached them with a look of surprise on his face. "Is Raven and Ray fine?" He asked worriedly. Alpha Denzel smiled faintly.

"Much better than you can imagine. I don't know if you heard the good news, but Alpha Lawn reclaimed his pack and also reunited with his Luna. You are now invited to be a member of the Yellowstone pack."

The rogue Alpha and his mate were too shocked to express their joy. "I honestly did not think that he meant it when he promised making me a pack member."

"Well, Alphas don't lie. He would have only changed his mind if you had joined Fusion's attack. If you must know, he and all those involved are dead."

The rogue Alpha did not seem surprised. "I'm not surprised to hear that. I already knew they did not stand a chance. Here, my mate, Callister, but she loves to be called Lister for short."

It was easy to know that she was his mate because of her striking resemblance to Raven. She had the same petite features.

"I see where Raven took her resemblance from," Alpha Denzel observed. They all laughed.

"Yes, I guessed you would say that, but Ashley, how have you been?" He asked. Both Valerie and Alpha Denzel smiled.

"This is my mate and Luna, Valerie. Ashley is mated to Alpha Tristan of the Litha Moon Pack, so she already left but would be coronated in a week. You will see her there."

The couple was beyond happy. "Alpha Denzel, we can't express our joy, but how do you make out your Luna and her sister? I could never make them out," he said honestly. "It's a pleasure to meet you, Luna Valerie."

"The pleasure is mine, and I want to thank you for what you did for my father. If not, we would not have known that my mother was equally alive. Do you have anything to pick up? Mom already made arrangements for everything you'd need," Valerie revealed.

If not for her father's presence, Eileen would not have revealed the truth.

"I don't think there is anything valuable for us to need at the pack and I'm very happy to hear about your mother," the rogue Alpha said emotionally.

His dream to be a member of any pack died, and he only expected and wanted that for his children. Since that dream came through already, he did not mind dying a rogue.

However, the moon goddess smiled at him to give him a second chance at being a pack member, so he would not die a rogue.

This was beyond his expectation.

"It's already getting late, so let's go now," Alpha Denzel said.

The rogue Alpha and his mate could not hide their joy throughout the journey. It felt too good to be true, but Alpha Denzel would not lie to them.

Reaching the borders of the Yellowstone pack, their anticipation grew. No one had spoken in the car since they sat, and they were surprised that the pack was still alive.

"Is there a special event going on? They all seem to be awake at this time," the rogue king observed, thinking aloud.

"They are undergoing a punishment because of what they did to Valerie. Alpha Lawn has punished them to not eat or drink for three days but work their asses off. With one day gone, they still have two days left."

The rogue king smiled. "I see."

When Alpha Denzel pulled over in front of the pack house, they were surprised to see that Alpha Lawn and Luna Alma were still awake and personally came to receive them.

"Mom, Dad, you should be resting. Where is your beta? He is younger and should have continued the supervision in your place."

Alpha Lawn laughed. "You think I'm awake because of them? I wanted to see my old friend before going to bed," he revealed with a heartwarming laughter.

When the rogue king stepped out of the car with Callister, Alpha Lawn went to hug him.

"Oh, Gerald, it's good to see you again."

The rogue King, Gerald, was surprised by this warmth and especially the fact that Alpha Lawn hugged him when he was so dirty-looking, also knowing that he smelled terribly from lack of shower for weeks.

There was no constant flow of water, and the rain was their best friend. If they didn't get it, then they would have to use the little saved up for drinking and sometimes cooking.

Tears welled up in his eyes. "Alpha Lawn, you have no idea how grateful I am."

"You deserve it for taking me in and protecting me in my worst moment."

Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie left, leaving the older generation to catch up on their short time together.

Three days later, it was Raven's birthday, so Valerie was using Alice's help to prepare a surprise, but everyone was amazed when Raven received three extra surprises.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 383 - It Depends on the Kind of Gift

Chapter 383: Chapter 383 – It Depends on the Kind of Gift

The day before, Alpha Denzel was all smiles when he received Alpha Ludwig's report from Burke.

Ludwig had put the report together, stating how preparing the comprehensive report had opened his eyes to the things he was doing wrong as a leader and had already put measures in place to improve.

It was clear that he had not allowed his beta to do it, or else he would not have seen those red flags. The suggested measures were equally good, so Alpha Denzel sent him training videos as well to help him improve in that area.

However, there was another note attached to the report which read,

'Alpha Denzel, tomorrow is Raven's birthday and I have a gift prepared, but I need your permission to give it to her. It's an old Jade necklace my mother gave me, and since I'm very busy now with the various changes in the pack, I would just like to spend a few minutes at your pack to give it to her.'

Alpha Denzel thought it wise to discuss something like this with his Luna, and thankfully, she was with him at the office.

"Val, have I told you that Raven is Alpha Ludwig's mate?"

Valerie's brows raised with surprise. "I'm just hearing it," she said honestly, thinking it was a wonderful pair if Ludwig changed for the better.

It was understandable that adjusting to the position and title of an Alpha was not easy for him, but Denzel had always tried his best to help.

Remorse laced Alpha Denzel's tone. "I'm very sorry about that. There has been too much pressure, being the cause of the oversight." He really meant to tell her, but how could he not forget when trouble kept knocking on his door every now and then?

Valerie was not surprised, as Denzel was not a god. He had his human side, and the past week had been overwhelming.

"I'm not blaming you. I understand how the pressure is, but I can't help feeling selfish. I'm going to miss Raven a lot, but the Black Fur pack has its shortcomings too."

Alpha Denzel agreed, having thought of all that.

"Yeah, that's why I assigned Burke to be reporting on their activities, and there is a considerable improvement. If they keep it up, I will go visit them with Raven in the next six months to get her opinion," Alpha Denzel revealed. Valerie was impressed.

Alpha Denzel would not just throw Raven away because the Moon goddess paired her with Alpha Ludwig.

"You sound like a father, but that's exactly what you are: The father of the pack, and you take good care of everyone."

Alpha Denzel could not accept the compliment because he felt he hadn't reached the target he set for himself.

After putting Godic in charge of his businesses in Vegas, he wanted to devote time to training and bringing out more geniuses, but mostly, problems would steal him away from the pack, not allowing him to achieve all that.

"I'm trying my best, just as you are also doing your part. Thanks a lot for spending a lot of time at the Omega's community to ensure the changes are all effected."

Valerie's presence did a lot to hasten the project as the Luna. The contractors mostly worked overtime whenever she discovered a mistake or something new.

Alpha Denzel was certain that by the time they would be done with the omega's community, even the normal pack members would want to relocate there.

With time, he planned to redevelop the pack as well. Every time he traveled to Vegas and saw something that would be good for the pack, he always tried his best to get it there.

"As your Luna, I will be nothing if I don't do that," Valerie shrugged.

Being a Luna was not just about titles but caring for the well-being of one's pack members.

Alpha Denzel was happy and satisfied to have her and went ahead to ask directly. "Do you think it's a good idea for Ludwig to send a gift for Raven?"

Valerie massaged her temple. With the party being a surprise, she ceased inviting Raven to the pack house to take care of it. Tomorrow was the D-day, and everything was ready.

"It depends on the kind of gift," she mused. Alpha Denzel explained it all.

"He said it's his mother's old Jade necklace, and he wants to bring it himself."

Valerie could not fight against what the Moon goddess had joined together, but due to her experience from how Alice was neglected at the Black Fur pack even as their protection depended on her, it made her reluctant.

"If he is trustworthy, then I don't see anything wrong."

Alpha Denzel smiled in understanding. Trustworthy was the right word to use indeed.

"Well, I'm still testing him, and if he messes up this time, I won't hesitate to kill him." That would be the only way to free Raven from that bond, before she even comes to know about it.

"If that be the case, then you can allow him to come," Valerie said, prepared to also keep an eye on Ludwig this time around.

Having his Luna's confirmation, Alpha Denzel allowed Alpha Ludwig to bring his gift.

The next day, Valerie and Alice went to Raven and Ray's house after everything was ready and knocked on the door.

Ray was the one who answered the door and quickly let them in since it was not the first time.

"Where is your twin sister?" Valerie asked as she looked around.

"In the kitchen. I will get her." Ray went to the kitchen to get Raven.

As soon as Raven returned with Ray, they were amazed to find glitter papers in the air.

"Happy birthday, Raven and Ray," Valerie and Alice screamed from excitement. Raven and Ray were both shedding joyful tears.

No one had ever made a big deal of their birthday before. "Thank you, thank you," they kept saying, missing their parents, as Valerie smiled at them.

"Don't thank us. We have a surprise for you at the pack house. You guys should go dress up and come back."

The twins went to their separate rooms and returned looking dazzling. They went to the pack house blindfolded, and when the blindfold was removed, they were crying from joy.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 384 - Take Good Care of It

Chapter 384: Chapter 384 - Take Good Care of It

The party was a major surprise as both siblings had never celebrated their birthdays, but there was more to their first birthday party.

The cake alone was out of this world, and the décor of the pack house was top-notch. One might think it was Alpha Denzel's birthday, but that man never liked to celebrate himself.

He never liked parties. Still, Raven and Ray had done something worth rewarding, and Alpha Denzel still felt that they had not been rewarded enough.

Some of the pack members were there, as well as Alpha Denzel, Burke, Gandolf, and Dorothy. That was not even the surprise, but the familiar faces they missed so much.

"Mom? Dad?"

The twins rushed together, throwing themselves into their parents' arms. This was the best day of their lives.

Gerald and Calister almost did not recognize their children. Their skin looked brighter and healthier, and so did their hair.

It was a huge contrast to how they left the pack, and dressed in a tuxedo, Ray looked like a fine gentleman, Raven was like a ray from the sun, so beautiful to behold.

"You two look amazing," Callister wiped a joyful tear from the corner of her eyes before turning around to thank Alpha Denzel.

"Thank you so much, Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie, for taking such great care of them."

"They are wonderful kids, making it easy," Alpha Denzel smiled. He was happy with the change in their appearance too.

"Mom, dad, are you going back?" Raven had tears in her eyes as she asked, her parents shook their heads.

"No. We are now members of the Yellowstone pack," they revealed with excitement, more joyful tears fell from their eyes.

"Oh goddess, this is amazing," Raven said, with a joyful heart. Ray was lost for words.

"Hey, did you forget me?" Alpha Lawn asked, Raven and Ray hugged him and Luna Alma.

"Thank you, Alpha Lawn and Luna Alma. We don't deserve to have you here?" Ray said, Luna Alma waved dismissively.

"Oh, we would have been dead if it weren't for you two. You deserve all the happiness in the world, and Alice already sent the gifts to your room."

Raven recalled coming here with Alice and Luna Valerie but looking around, Alice was nowhere to be found.

It meant she had left right after coming with them to go deliver the gifts. Raven was so excited to see them, not remembering when she ever received gifts from anyone.

There was an Alpha she had seen before who kept staring at her. Raven had successfully avoided his gaze, but then, he spoke up, saying,

"I heard from the last time I was here that your birthday was today, so I came to deliver these gifts to you both."

He knew that Raven had a twin brother during Valerie's coronation and in order for things not to be awkward, prepared a gift for Ray as well.

"Happy birthday, Ray." He gave the gift he prepared for Ray to him, and he itched to open it.

"Thank you," Ray said excitedly.

To assure Alpha Denzel that he harbored no ulterior motives, Ludwig did not add his gifts to those Alice sent to their house but presented it before them to be opened in front of everyone.

Well, with Alpha Denzel on his neck, he was growing wiser by the day. "Please open it," he encouraged Ray, the latter opened it, his jaws dropping.

"A wristwatch?" He wanted to say he never had one but had seen some pack members wearing it, and that was how he knew what it was.

However, he thought of how embarrassed his parents would be if he said such things. "It's so nice and looks very expensive. Can I put it on?" He asked, everyone laughed.

Alpha Ludwig volunteered. "Yes, it's yours, and let me help you with it."

Ray relaxed as Alpha Ludwig tightened the wristwatch around his wrist. Being a proud moment as this was the first time he wore a wristwatch, Ray was smiling like a fool.

"I love it and would forever cherish it. Thank you, Alpha Ludwig."

Luna Valerie and Alpha Denzel exchanged glances. Only if Ray knew that Alpha Ludwig was his future brother-in-law.

"It's nothing, and here. Raven, this is yours." He ensured not to add that it used to belong to his mother, in order not to create suspicions.

Raven opened the gift and was amazed. "It's stunning."

There was so much Alpha Ludwig wanted to say, but wisdom took over, and he knew it was better to be quiet. "I'm glad you like it. Let me help you with it."

As he was about to wear the necklace for her, Raven stopped him, as she gazed at Luna Valerie as if asking for her permission.

Remembering that she could use mindlink, she asked, 'Should I take it? Isn't it too expensive?'

Coming from an Alpha, she knew it would be expensive and wondered if it was right to take it.

Luna Valerie responded through mindlink. 'Sure, take it. Just take good care of it,' she added.

The necklace was precious to Ludwig, and even as he tried to prove himself worthy of Raven, Valerie was not heartless to not let Robin know the value of it.

'Alright, thank you.'

She wanted to ask more but thought to direct that question to the giver of the gift. "Are there strings attached?" She asked, Alpha Ludwig was slightly nervous.

No one was going to bail him out this time, so he mustered courage, saying, "it's a birthday gift. Just wear it all the time is the only condition."

Raven chuckled, and everyone laughed as she said honestly. "Thank you very much. I would wear it always."

Alpha Ludwig's heart warmed that his eyes turned moist. "Alright. I should leave now. There is so much to do at the pack."

Raven looked disappointed. The party had not begun. No one had eaten anything, and he was leaving already. Why did it seem as if he only came to deliver the gift?

"Why are you leaving so soon? There's so much food and drinks."

Alpha Ludwig stared at Alpha Denzel, not meaning to overstay his welcome. "I..."

Before he uttered whatever he wanted to say, Alpha Denzel's voice cut through...

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 385 – Good News

Chapter 385: Chapter 385 – Good News

It was a joyous occasion, and on Raven's birthday, Alpha Denzel couldn't bear to see her sad. The jade necklace looked beautiful on her, and she seemed to really like it.

"Alpha Ludwig, stay for a few hours. Your pack isn't going anywhere, and you're not the only one who can save it," Alpha Denzel said, and only then did Ludwig relax.

"Okay. I will stay."

Raven smiled, and her smile seemed to take his breath away. It was enchanting, giving him the determination to work harder.

He decided that even after bringing the pack to the level Alpha Denzel had motivated him to, he would continue to elevate it further.

The party continued with much excitement, making it a memorable one for the twins. During the celebration, Valerie received a call from Ashley.

"Val, thank you so much," Ashley said joyfully on the line before reminding Valerie, "I sent a gift to Raven. Has she seen it?"

Ashley wanted to attend the party, but she had just arrived at her new pack, and her coronation was scheduled in a few days.

There was much to learn about her new pack before the big day. Luna Fernanda had always been like a mother to her, but there were things Ashley needed to handle herself before taking over from Luna Fernanda.

Valerie glanced in Raven's direction. She was dancing with her twin brother, radiating more happiness than Valerie had ever seen on her face. This was what Valerie wanted for the teenage girl.

She had brought them happiness by saving their father, and now Raven deserved her own happiness.

Valerie hoped that this happiness would continue and that Ludwig wouldn't ruin it. Ludwig was watching Raven and her brother from afar, not daring to approach them. Being allowed to stay was already more than enough for him.

"I don't think so. All the gifts have been moved to their house, so she should see it after the party. But why were you thanking me earlier? Did I do something special?" Valerie asked Ashley over the phone.

She sounded clueless, but Ashley wasn't surprised. What Valerie had done for her was amazing, but Valerie saw it as just another thing and wasn't too concerned about it.

"Val, I can use my powers for many things. I've been practicing with Idris since I woke up this morning."

Valerie, who hadn't experimented much with her powers except when necessary due to her busy schedule, was very curious.

"Tell me more, and I'll see if I can do the same."

It would be exciting to discover that she could do more with her powers than what she was currently doing, and Ashley shared her experiences.

"Val, I used my powers to fill a glass with water, but when I poured it out, the water suspended in the air. And guess what?"

"What?" Valerie asked eagerly. Ashley continued, "The water stayed suspended in the air."

Valerie's excitement waned at the end of Ashley's explanation. "That sounds like you've been playing around."

There was nothing intriguing about being able to suspend water in the air if it couldn't save lives.

Ashley giggled on the line. "I knew you would say that, but that's not all. I used it to suffocate Idris. Then this morning, I tried it on the warriors during training, and guess what?"

"It worked?" Valerie guessed correctly, excited by the revelation. How wonderful it would be to suffocate enemies during a battle and spare her warriors the stress of fighting to the death.

"Yes, it worked on all of them, and the best part was they had no idea I was behind it." Ashley was laughing like a fool.

Valerie liked the idea but wasn't sure if she could do the same.

"That's a great discovery, but can you try to see if you can travel with it? If you can, then it means we can do the same things," Valerie suggested as Ashley asked,

"How do I do that?"

"First, you have to imagine where you want to go and how you want to get there."

Ashley closed her eyes on the line, letting her imagination run wild, but she soon expressed disappointment.

"Alright. Let me see if I can get to the party right now," she said. After a few seconds, she spoke up from the other end of the line.

"It's not working for me."

Valerie wasn't surprised, as she had also tried the things Ashley had mentioned, but none of them worked for her.

"Alright, but do you hear the sound of raindrops when you use your powers?" she asked. Ashley's response was immediate.

"No, I don't."

"That explains it. It might be from the same source, but I guess we are empowered to use it differently."

Ashley was still happy to have some powers to assist her pack during attacks. Since they had different powers, they could always support each other in times of need.

"That must be it, but I'm so grateful. This will greatly help my pack, and I can help if you need me."

Valerie smiled. It was true. So far, four packs were in a strong collaboration, with one more waiting to join.

Troy and Adira were already on board, as were Idris and Alpha Lawn. If Ludwig improved, it would bring these three packs together.

"It's worth it, knowing you'll always be safe. If you had this during Orion's attack, he wouldn't have survived," Valerie reflected on the phone, and Ashley agreed.

"You're right, but I have to hang up now. Luna responsibilities aren't easy, and preparations are underway for my coronation in a few days."

Valerie smiled in understanding. Ashley never took pack responsibilities seriously before so this could too much for her.

"Don't worry. I'll be there a day before with Denzel." She couldn't wait to join Ashley at the Litha Moon pack.

"Great, see ya."

Valerie lowered her phone as strong arms wrapped around her waist, and a familiar scent filled her nostrils.

"Val, I have good news."

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 386 – We Love It Here

Chapter 386: Chapter 386 – We Love It Here

Valerie felt slightly shy after Denzel's display of affection at Raven's party but turned to face him.

Alpha Denzel seized the opportunity and kissed her on the lips. Valerie shyly responded to the kisses, her embarrassment worsening when everyone began clapping for them.

"Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie are exceptional. Luna brings out the best in Alpha," one of the pack members in attendance said aloud, and the rest agreed.

"It's true. Alpha used to be so cold, but now he's mostly warm."

They were such a beautiful couple to behold, but Valerie had not forgotten Alpha Denzel's words and asked seriously, "What is the good news?"

A smile thinned Alpha Denzel's lips as he revealed, "Don Calvin was murdered in his car a moment ago by my assassin."

He showed her the proof on his phone, and Valerie's joy heightened. Ashley deserved justice, and she was grateful to Denzel for giving it to her.

"That's indeed good news. We need to celebrate when evil is brought to book," Valerie retorted, looking around for one of the waiters to serve her a glass of champagne when Alpha Denzel spoke up.

"You are right, but we need to celebrate more when rewarding the good," he reminded her. Valerie agreed, a smile blooming on her face.

"You are right."

"It's time to cut the cake, and the birthday twins are requesting the presence of Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie."

The two went to join Raven and Ray in cutting the cake, together with their parents, Alpha Lawn and Luna Alma.

Who could imagine that former rogues would have this great opportunity? Well, things like this only happen as a result of selflessness.

They drank and ate, danced, and enjoyed all the fun activities.

Just as they arrived, the guests began to leave one by one when everything was over. It turned out to be a saddening moment for everybody.

Nothing lasted forever, and there was always a time for everything.

"Raven and Ray, I hope you remain loyal to the Evergreen pack. I have seen that you are well taken care of, so though I'm happy, free, and capable now, I still think that it's best for you to stay here," their father said, and the twins agreed.

"Yes, Dad, we love you, but we love it here. This pack is amazing, and Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie have been so good to us," Raven said.

Their mother could not hold back her joyful tears. They had once given up on ever being pack members again, but then their children appeared with a dying man.

Who knew their lives were going to turn around because of this singular act?

"Alright. We shall leave now, but Alpha Lawn promised us phones. As soon as we receive them, we shall begin to call you."

The twins were neither happy nor saddened. They all got comfortable homes to live in, and none of them missed the life they had before.

They were also grown, not desiring to live with their parents when they have been able to live on their own under the Alpha and Luna's supervision so far.

As soon as they left, somebody else spoke up. "Alpha Denzel, I am very grateful for this opportunity. I hope that you come to visit us anytime soon," Alpha Ludwig said confidently.

Since there was nothing to hide, he would welcome Alpha Denzel to his pack at any time, with or without prior notice.

Alpha Denzel nodded his head, and they shook hands as he advised. "When you gather enough resources and don't know where to invest, just give me a call," Alpha said.

Ludwig left with a smile on his face, certain that the future was going to be brighter than the past.

Raven and Ray returned to a room full of gifts; it was the best day of their lives.

The next day, Alpha Denzel began to structure all trainings, taking advantage of the massively improved warriors.

He would have to devote more time to the weakest. Some of those turned out to be the strongest as soon as they shifted or got a hint of exactly what was going on.

Being slow did not mean that one was useless in the Evergreen pack. Everyone blossomed at different times and seasons.

"Raven, you shall no longer join the group training but have a private one rotated between me and Val. When you are not training, you shall focus on the herbs as well as teach your brother to take over whenever you are not around.

"Val and I shall be attending Ashley's coronation, but as soon as we return, you shall spend a month at the Yellowstone pack planting and teaching them about herbs."

Raven was very happy since her parents were at the Yellowstone pack, but Ray felt a little left out without his twin sister. However, Alpha Denzel was quite sensitive and explained the second part.

"Within the one month, you would come here for a week and would be replaced by your brother."

The twins smiled at each other, happy they would both get to spend some time with their parents at the Yellowstone pack.

"That is fair. Thank you, Alpha Denzel," Ray said honestly.

Training continued, and Alpha Denzel was now producing more leaders, putting them in charge of smaller groups.

With time, he would be able to leave training in Burke's hands, so he could schedule one-on-one training later for all the warriors.

There was also something very different going on. There was more happiness than sternness among the warriors, making it all seem like they were one happy family.

Alpha Denzel recalled that Valerie and Alice were in the woods and decided to check on them. It was necessary for him to equally understand the strength of their powers, so he decided to pay them a surprise visit since they would be leaving the next day for Ashley's coronation.

Reaching the woods, he almost mind-linked the whole pack to open all the waterways before understanding what was going on.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 387 - My Powers Aren't Working

Chapter 387: Chapter 387 - My Powers Aren't Working

"How does your power work?" Valerie asked Alice as they entered the woods. Denzel had allowed them to practice on their own for the first time, so Valerie wanted to give him the benefit of the doubt.

Alice smiled and revealed, "It obeys every internal command but has dire consequences."

She made sure not to hide anything this time, so Valerie could help her in any way she could. That would also help her to use her powers more effectively.

"How do I know when you are hurting?" Valerie asked, and Alice explained,

"It usually begins from my hand. The moment it starts turning red, then it's hurting. More like burns."

"How does it hurt?" Valerie inquired, needing the details. They stood facing each other but with no particular direction in mind.

"Like I'm roasting my hand in fire," Alice described. Valerie felt guilty and saddened for all the times she used her powers.

How could such a young woman endure so much just to see others smile?

It increased her desire to help Alice, to put a stop to all the pains she felt whenever she used her powers.

"Then let's try something. You use your powers on anything, and I will see if I can help you quench the effect of it."

Alice was gladdened by Valerie's words and quickly obeyed. "Okay, let me try setting a fire."

Alice closed her eyes and joined her palms together. Valerie saw the movement of the leaves on the tree and the heat before the leaves caught fire.

Then she focused her attention on Alice's hands. As soon as they began to redden, Valerie began to channel her energy to soothe it for her.

Alice was lost in what was happening, and the energy kept increasing as Valerie's powers soothed her discomfort in using her powers. They both had no idea they were burning down the woods until Alpha Denzel arrived.

"Enough," he yelled, and Valerie withdrew her support.

Upon reaching the woods, Alpha Denzel almost mind-linked the whole pack to open all the waterways before understanding what was going on.

Alice's powers caused the fire, and Valerie was quenching her burns to prevent her from getting injured, forgetting that they were equally destroying the greenery of the woods.

If Alpha Denzel had not arrived on time, he would not have been surprised to see everything turn to ashes.

Valerie was the first to halt the channel of her powers before Alice recovered when she felt a sudden heat.

It was not too hot to burn, but due to the coolness she was enjoying, it made the pain intense even when she did not have any burns.

"Are you going to quench the fire?" Alpha Denzel asked. Valerie looked around in shock.

"Oh no." Instantly, the sound of raindrops filled the atmosphere, and it began to shower only in the woods, quenching the fire, but the greenery was destroyed.

Valerie was remorseful. Due to her ability to control where and how her powers worked, she thought it would be the same for Alice, which was not the case.

The more she channeled her powers, the more fire she caused. Valerie apologized.

"I'm sorry. I wasn't looking."

Alpha Denzel was not upset, nodding his head in understanding of what transpired and also realizing that he should have been there to guide them since these were two powerful people testing how they could help each other with their powers.

"I know. You were focused on her health, which is equally a good thing." His voice was soft, but Valerie still took responsibility.

"But now the greens are destroyed." She looked around, her heart sinking due to the mess they caused.

"They will grow again," Alpha Denzel assured her before staring at Alice and asking, "How did it go?"

"I'm so sorry. I didn't realize I was causing so much damage. I felt no pain," Alice said with remorse. She was happy before to have found a good way to use her powers but was now feeling guilty.

"Then it worked," Valerie said, and Alpha Denzel sighed. "So, it means that whenever she is using her powers, you could use yours to soothe hers," he agreed that the blend of powers had worked.

"Yes. We just have to keep it that way for now," Valerie said, hoping that with time, they would be able to find ways for Alice to use her powers solo without getting burned.

However, Alpha Denzel revealed a chilling impending problem that caused Valerie to rethink the temporary solution.

"But if you get pregnant, you won't be able to use your powers and might not even see your wolf until after giving birth."

Valerie stiffened at the thought. It meant that Denzel had taken all the warnings seriously, though he brushed them aside from the onset.

He meant to tread with caution from every warning they received from different sources, including Alice's dreams.

"Then we have to find a way for her to use it without my help. I will keep thinking about something," she said thoughtfully.

The night Valerie did not sleep well, thinking of a better way to help Alice in using her powers.

However, that did not mean that she could escape from the desires of a naked Alpha beside her, giving in to a very passionate night.

And a few days later, the Litha Moon pack was blooming with activities.

Alpha Denzel left with his Luna, but strangely, their car broke down on the way.

"I always had the car serviced," he complained in annoyance. Valerie smiled. "It's still a machine, so this isn't unexpected."

Even a brand-new car can break down, so Valerie did not see it as a problem.

"Right. I will call Burke to bring us another car. After all, the coronation is tomorrow."

Valerie had a smile on her face. It was as if Denzel had forgotten what her powers could do.

"We could still travel by another means," she said, trying to use her powers, but strangely, they did not adhere to her wishes this time.

"What's going on? My powers aren't working." Fear registered in her eyes.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 388 - All gorgeous

Chapter 388: Chapter 388 - All gorgeous

It was the strangest thing Alpha Denzel had ever heard. Powers were permanent as long as one had them, so this was not making sense to him.

"What do you mean your powers aren't working?"

"I'm serious. They aren't," Valerie frustratedly said, feeling like she had offended someone but couldn't figure out who.

Denzel's mind raced, searching for solutions as cars passed them on the highway. "Do you remember the last time you used them?"

She had just used them about two days ago to his knowledge, so he couldn't tell if she had used them during any of the training sessions after that.

"After using them to help Alice, I haven't used them anymore," Valerie clarified. Alpha Denzel thought deeply and asked again.

"Can you communicate with your wolf?"

"Let me try."

'Astrid, how are you?' Valerie asked her wolf, regretting neglecting her for a few days now. They used to communicate a lot, but now every pack member wanted a piece of Valerie, including Alpha Denzel.

A dull voice responded. 'Oh, so you remember me now?'

'What do you mean by that?' Valerie asked, guilt welling up in her heart as she pretended not to know.

Astrid explained calmly. Valerie's actions deserved a warning because her intentions were solid.

'You used too much power in the last few days, it made me weak, so I sleep at the least chance. You should be glad there hasn't been a war. You would have been left on your own.'

Valerie was slightly confused at this moment, asking carefully. 'If I understand you correctly, I should not use my powers too much?'

'No. You should not use them for experimentation. Wonderful things can happen if you use them to save others, but not just for experimentation. That is a waste, so sorry. You have to go by car. I won't be able to transport you.'

The meaning was clear to Valerie, and she did not push it further since they didn't have an emergency.

A car could also be brought to them if only they asked, so this made perfect sense to her.

'I understand and thanks for telling me. I'm very sorry, but I was keen on helping Alice.'

'You can help her when there is a war, but don't try to use the powers for experimentation,' Astrid warned seriously.

Valerie felt no warning signs in her body but could have harmed Astrid in the process since she was the one who stole the powers from the lake.

It belonged to the moon goddess, alright, but since another goddess had stolen it, only the moon goddess would have retrieved it, and yet Astrid did so on her behalf.

'I see. I should tell Ashley the same thing since she has been doing the same.'

Astrid did not say anything more, and Valerie's attention shifted to Denzel as she tried to explain it to him.

"Denzel, I guess we have to wait for Burke to bring the car."

"Alright. Please give me the phone," Denzel said, holding on with questions until the problem at hand was resolved.

Valerie picked up the phone for him but paused a little. "Why don't we try again? Astrid is upset because I used my powers for experimentation. I won't be surprised if she's the cause of all this."

Denzel sighed, pressed the start button again, and voila, the engine roared into action. "Now I'm getting scared of you and your wolf. If you have problems, then she's gonna break down our car?"

Valerie laughed. Denzel's expression was serious, but his words were funny, so she explained it to him once again.

"She said I could do wonders in a war, but the powers are not for experimentation."

"Then how do you know the extent to which they can be used?" Denzel asked curiously. Valerie shook her head, though she had a fair idea.

"I didn't know I could travel with them until there was an emergency requiring it. I guess that's what she's talking about."

Yeah, Denzel remembered that they hadn't even talked about it, but she did so by her intuition because Ashley was in trouble.

After careful thought, they both agreed it was unfair to waste such powers.

Arriving at the Litha Moon pack, they were received by Luna Fernanda, and with the Litha Moon Pack being one of the places where Alpha Denzel was always comfortable, it was all joy as they prepared for the coronation.

Valerie had a chat with Ashley when she went to her room. "Val, my powers ceased. Since you were coming over, I didn't want you to panic, which was why I never told you."

Ashley was both worried and afraid that she did something wrong, but it only gave Valerie a deeper understanding of everything that was happening.

"It happened to me too, and it's because of the experimentation. You should stop," Valerie warned seriously, grateful that there were no wars at the moment. If not, they would have had to rely on their wolves and combat skills only.

A relief sigh escaped Ashley, the fact that all hope was not lost, and there was indeed a solution to the problem.

"Oh, I see, but how do I know what to do when the need arises?" She asked, Valerie responded with a smile.

"Your good intention to help would make them do whatever you want them to do."

Ashley nodded her head in understanding, glad that Valerie had a solution beforehand.

"Val, Idris ordered three dresses for me to choose from. They are all so gorgeous; I want to wear them together," Ashley giggled.

Valerie was glad that Idris was spoiling her elder sister and responded as she saw the three stunning gowns.

"Ash, I'm equally confused. Maybe you should close your eyes. I would change the position of the three dresses, and whichever one you touch would be what you wear."

"That is a great idea," Ashley readily agreed. Valerie did as told, and Ashley decided to wear the dress she touched after Valerie changed the positions.

Later that evening, Alpha Denzel's phone rang, and seeing Godic's number, he answered it, but what he heard was unexpected.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 389 – Trust me to handle it

Chapter 389: Chapter 389 – Trust me to handle it

"Denzel, I need your permission to kill Aurora," Godic said, tears streaming down his face as he spoke over the phone. Alpha Denzel was shocked.

Godic had never cried as long as he could remember. Alpha Denzel knew that the only thing that could hurt a man so much was if his woman was hurting, meaning Alessia was in trouble.

Alpha Denzel remained calm, knowing that Aurora was no longer in his good graces. If not for Valerie's kind heart, he would have left her to fend for herself as she was before he met her.

"Tell me everything," he said coldly. Godic was still shedding tears as he spoke, but there was also a determined vengeance in his voice.

"Alessia complained of stomach ache and began bleeding. When we got to the hospital, it was revealed that she was a month pregnant but the poison destroyed it."

Alpha Denzel's hand holding the phone shook, and Valerie noticed. This was his niece or nephew killed before their time.

Denzel's rage was so intense that he found it hard to speak, so Godic continued.

"Denzel, I was so pained that she was poisoned right in our home, so I tortured all the maids, and one of them confessed that Aurora paid her to put the substance in Alessia's breakfast, claiming it was harmless but she just wanted to teach her a lesson." freewebnovel.com

They took precautions whenever they went out, but the home was supposed to be a place where everyone felt comfortable, and yet this had to happen.

"She said she had no idea it was poisonous, but I have no intention to forgive her. I just want to get Aurora to confess everything, so I'm already on my way to her house," Godic revealed.

If it were anyone else, that person would have been dead by now, but with Aurora, he had to first seek permission from his brother-in-law.

Denzel felt something was off. If Aurora was upset enough to attack anyone, it should have been Valerie. However, she had shown remorse after Valerie saved her from Denzel's punishment.

Alessia was his sister, so no matter how crazy Aurora was, she would not dare harm her.

"I'm coming over."

"No, Denzel, I can handle it. I just need your permission to kill her because of how important she is to you," Godic insisted.

The vengeance boiling in his heart was too deep, and if nothing else, the fact that Alessia was Denzel's sister should make Denzel want justice for her.

"Wait. I will get there before you know it," Denzel said, not giving his approval for Godic to do as he pleased.

After Denzel explained everything to Valerie, she agreed that Denzel should go, but by the time the chopper would arrive, it would be too late.

Also, both of them could not leave the coronation. One person had to stay. The only person who would not need a chopper to get to Vegas was Valerie, so she suggested.

"Why don't you trust me to handle it? Aurora seemed different before we left, so what if a greater enemy is behind it?" She asked seriously.

From what she gathered from her experiences so far, things were not always what they seemed to be.

Alpha Denzel agreed with her as he suspected it too, and that was his reason for wanting to handle this himself.

"That is why I told him to wait. He is very upset and might do something he would regret later, but Alessia's condition is also my worry."

Valerie was also pained for the death of the unborn child. Alessia and Godic were not even aware of its existence before it was brutally taken from them.

This was a great evil deserving a greater punishment. The only problem was in who deserved the punishment and who was qualified enough to mete it out at this juncture.

"Denzel, you know that we both can't leave, but I can reach there faster. Can you trust me to handle it? I promise to update you on each step of the way," Valerie said in a hushed tone.

Their not eating like everybody else was already raising red flags, so the worst thing was for them both to miss out on the coronation.

Alpha Denzel had to agree that in this case where only one person could resolve the matter, it was best for it to be Valerie.

"Please try and make it back before the coronation. I know how much it means to you," he said seriously, wishing there was a way for him to be the one, but there was none at the moment, unless they both had to leave together.

"I will try my best," Valerie assured him, glad that he could trust her. Still, she had one concern and asked her.

But are you sure your powers would work?"

Valerie stiffened slightly but soon regained herself. "Alessia is in trouble, so it should work." She was about to try activating her powers when Denzel stopped her. "Wait."

Valerie stared at him with a confused expression on her face, but the next moment, Denzel pressed his lips against hers briefly before creating an excuse for Valerie.

"She has to handle something very important on my behalf in Vegas, but I will be here until her return."

Ashley was not liking this. She had not made a close friend at her new pack yet, so her sister's presence was very important to her.

"Val, please come back soon and don't miss my coronation. I won't forgive you if you do."

Valerie understood it well but felt that Ashley should understand what was going on to not feel embittered.

"Well, someone caused Alessia to have a miscarriage, and she needs me more than you do."

Sorrow dulled the faces of everyone present, and though Alpha Denzel was trying to keep calm as always, they knew he was hurting deeply.

"I knew she was pregnant when I saw her. Oh goddess, please let the person pay," Luna Fernanda said angrily, regret laced Ashley's voice as he spoke.

"Val, I won't be upset even if you don't make it, but please make sure that justice is served."

It was now up to Valerie if her powers would work or not, but things did not turn out the same, increasing Alpha Denzel's worry.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 390 – The Goddess Would Give You Another

Chapter 390: Chapter 390 – The Goddess Would Give You Another

No one heard the sound of raindrops this time, but Valerie had disappeared, leaving Alpha Denzel disturbed.

As much as he was aware of her using her powers or whatnot, he was equally cautious about anything going wrong with it.

"Something doesn't feel right," Alpha Denzel complained, and Ashley smiled knowingly.

"Don't worry. She's fine." She wished to help Valerie, but being unable to, this was the only way.

Her response caught everyone's attention, and Alpha Denzel was no exception, asking curiously.

"What did you do?" Ashley's smile remained throughout her explanation.

"I used my powers to give her a push since I know Vegas. She said before that her wolf was weak, so I felt her powers might not be strong enough until her wolf regains her strength."

Ashley felt that Valerie must be facing challenges with her powers because of having shared them with her, but Alpha Denzel was still confused.

He had no powers and could not tell how they were used unless the user told him.
freeweβnovel.com

"I don't get it."

Ashley thought of the easiest way to get the message through, as everyone around the table was also curious to know her answer to the question.

"I gave her back what she gave, so if she returns, I will have it back, and if she doesn't, then I lost it forever."

Satisfied with her explanation, Alpha Denzel was certain about one thing. "Surely, she would return," he said with confidence.

In Las Vegas, Alessia was dazed to see Valerie in her room, having just arrived from the hospital.

"Val, how did you get here?" She asked with a worried gaze, feeling as if she was hallucinating.

Valerie sat beside her on the bed and embraced her. "My powers help me to travel without any machine, but Ashley helped me this time. Tell me what happened."

Alessia opened her mouth and snapped it shut when the door opened, and Godic entered.

"Aless, who are you talking to? Luna Valerie?" He froze at the sight of Valerie. If this was a joke or a ghost, he was not ready for either of it.

Valerie felt weird with his addressing her by such a formal title and spoke dismissively. "Hold off with the titles. Did you forget where we are?"

"Sorry. Mrs. Denzel, how did you get here?" Godic asked, still amazed by her presence. It was not up to twenty minutes since he explained the matter to Denzel, so this seemed weird.

Valerie equally did not like the title of Mrs. but decided to focus on her mission to be able to leave early enough to make it for the coronation.

"It's my powers, so how is she?" She asked, referring to Alessia. Godic forced a smile and answered.

"We just got home from the hospital, and I was about to leave when Denzel stopped me."

He never thought anyone could stop him from doing or delaying what he planned, but it so happened that his brother-in-law did.

"Rather than going to Aurora's house, why don't we use the maid to get her here or somewhere else? There is no assurance she would be at home after committing something like this."

Godic realized his mistake. No wonder Alpha Denzel told him to wait, but he remembered to have sent some men ahead to get Aurora, except they were not supposed to touch her.

"You are right. I could not think straight after the loss of our unborn child." His eyes were still moist, and Valerie was heartbroken to see a strong man like him like that.

Alessia was trying to be strong, holding back her tears. If only she had known that she was pregnant, she would have been more careful.

Valerie comforted them. "I know it hurts, but the goddess would give you another, and it's about time you do little things for yourself," she hinted. Alessia was the first to grab the understanding.

"Yeah, now I know why Denzel never allows anyone to touch his food or drinks."

The maid was hurled into the room, looking battered, at the same time, Godic's phone rang. Checking the caller ID, it was one of the bodyguards he sent to Aurora's house, so he quickly answered it.

"Don't do anything to her yet," Godic said as soon as he answered the call, but the bodyguard quickly informed him.

"We searched the whole house, but she isn't here." It was just as Valerie suspected, and Godic's teeth gritted together.

"Alright, come back." He was going to go wholly by Valerie's plan. Ah, his unborn child had been taken too quickly; he could not endure it.

Valerie demanded from the maid on the floor who was shivering from fear. Her form was enough evidence that Godic had not been merciful to her, as she looked battered.

"If you want to remain alive, then play by our card," Valerie said coldly. The maid remembered her quite well and began to speak.

"Mrs. Denzel, I will do anything." She feared that Don Denzel might even be around. Valerie did not have time to mince words, saying directly.

"Call Aurora and put the phone on speaker. Tell her that the job is done and that you need your payment. Don't tell her you have been found out."

She knew that if the maid relayed that information, Aurora would remain in hiding and not ever come out.

The maid nodded her head in agreement, her hands shivering as her phone was tossed to her.

She was miserable looking with so many red patches on her face and body. These bodyguards were brutal, not minding that she was a woman.

"Hello, is it done?" A voice that sounded so familiar to Godic answered and asked, Valerie frowned. That did not sound like Aurora's voice.

"Yes, it's done," the maid responded. Godic was attentive, trying to remember the owner of the strange voice.

"I need the details. Is she dead?" The voice at the end of the line asked. The maid felt trapped. This was not the original negotiation they had.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 391 - Good Plan but...

Chapter 391: Chapter 391 - Good Plan but...

The maid began to understand the reason for her torture, and it angered her greatly.

"You never mentioned it was going to kill her. You said it was just to teach her a lesson," she yelled. Valerie signaled for her to calm down.

Which Aurora were they talking about? As the matter stood now, this voice did not sound like hers.

"You make sure she's dead," the female voice said coldly. Godic knew he had heard the voice before but could not remember where or the face.

"What?" The maid was shocked, but Valerie signaled for her to play along, and she asked, "What about my payment?"

"I already told you that I can't do transfers. You have to meet me for it," the woman at the end of the line replied. The maid saw it as the perfect opportunity to let her boss get her so she could pay for her wickedness.

"Give me the place and time, or I'll expose you."

At this moment, she no longer felt the pains from the torture but only the emotional one. The woman on the phone did not seem perturbed about her threat and responded in a nonchalant tone.

"Even if you confess, they won't be able to find me. But because I want her dead, come for the balance."

"Okay, but send me the location," the maid replied. The woman at the end of the line was also cautious, saying,

"But if she doesn't die within twenty-four hours, you would die in her place, and so would your child."

Both Godic and Alessia were just realizing that the maid's child had been used as the bait to get her to do what the woman on the line wanted.

"I won't disappoint you," she said before ending the call. The phone beeped shortly after when she was about to speak.

It was the venue where the maid was supposed to meet the said woman.

"Where did she keep your daughter?" Godic asked, his anger reducing as he began to feel pity for the maid.

Now he wondered how Alpha Denzel was able to keep his mind straight when he watched Valerie's abuse on that fateful day.

Godic knew he had to learn how to control his emotions better to be the best at what he does.

However, whoever caused him to lose his unborn child would never live to tell the story.

"I don't know where she kept her. I only spoke to my daughter on the line a few times after she was kidnapped," she cried. Godic was upset.

"Why did you not come to me?"

He would have found a way to rescue the child, and his unborn child would not have suffered such injustice.

"She said she would kill my child if I ever told anyone about it. That was why I could not confess it. I'm really sorry," she said in a remorseful tone.

Looking at her, she was already a sad sight, and Alessia felt pity for her, despite the loss of her own child.

"What do we do now?" Alessia asked, knowing the situation was more complicated than before.

"Can you let her bring the child along?" Godic asked. The maid's eyes lit with hope as she suggested,

"Do you mind if I send her a text message to that effect?"

Godic stared at the bodyguard holding the phone, and it was immediately given to her. 'Please bring my daughter along, or the last part would not be done.'

A response followed in the next few seconds. 'I will only give you the money, but you will get back your daughter after showing proof that Alessia is dead.'

When she showed the response to them, they only wished they knew the reason this woman was after Alessia.

"Go dress up and put on makeup. If you want your child saved, then you have to do as we tell you. Do you understand?" Godic asked seriously. She nodded her head eagerly.

When she finished dressing up and had put on makeup, there were no traces of torture. She wore jean pants and a long-sleeve blouse.

"When you get there, she should not know that you are involved. Just discuss the money, take it and leave. We shall watch her closely and get her when she tries to leave," Godic explained his plan.

Valerie was only there to guide him into not making a mistake but seeking justice for Alessia. So she asked him, "Why do you want it so? We could get her right there and then."

"If she has others working for her, they could hurt Lindsay's child and use her as a bait to get to free Aurora." freewebnovel.com

He did not want the maid to know that he was in doubt about the said Aurora's identity, and Valerie was glad he was beginning to use his head instead of his heart.

"Good plan, but who takes care of Alessia?"

"I'm coming with you," Alessia said, lifting herself to a sitting position. If she were at the pack, she could have healed already, but it was not the same for the human world.

"No, Alessia, you just had a miscarriage and should rest," Valerie cautioned in a soft tone, but Alessia was adamant.

"I would be more worried if you leave without me. I will stay in the car with a bodyguard, and the rest of you can do what you want to do," she said. Valerie gave up.

"You do as you have said and not try to be a hero. I want you to heal fast to get pregnant again."

Alessia let out a sad smile. "Alright."

After that agreement, they left together. Valerie and Godic sent Lindsay in but were hiding behind the shadows, as Alessia remained in the car with a bodyguard.

Lindsay forced a smile and went to sit in front of the said woman, and indeed, the person they saw resembled Aurora.

However, when they listened to the conversation through the secret speakers they put on her, the voice was different. So how could this be?

"I have a plan," Valerie said with determination.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 392 - I Can Prove It to You

Chapter 392: Chapter 392 - I Can Prove It to You

"My money?" Lindsay held out her right hand to the woman who looked like Aurora and asked as soon as she sat in front of her.

The woman opened her handbag, removed bundles of money wrapped in paper, and gave them to her with an instruction.

"Get the job done, or your daughter will be dead."

Hearing about her daughter almost broke her determination, but she decided to trust her boss and Mrs. Denzel. Lindsay swallowed tightly and took the money. "I will call you as soon as it's done."

She stood up and left, just as she had been told to do. The woman waited for a little while before she stood up and walked out of the restaurant.

As soon as she reached the car park, she was apprehended by two men. "Miss, you have to come with us," one of them said. The woman was about to open her mouth to scream, but it was quickly covered.

They dragged her into the van of a car before releasing her, and when she saw Valerie, confusion brewed in her mind.

The plan was for Valerie to not make it seem like she was doing this because of Alessia, so it was better for Godic and Lindsay to not be involved by now.

"Aurora, after all you've done, I'm surprised that you still remained in Vegas," Valerie said as soon as she saw the woman who looked like Aurora but with the voice of a stranger, she had no idea who.

Valerie was trying to make it seem like she had a score to settle with Aurora, so if this woman looked like Aurora, then she had to pay for what the real Aurora did.

"Did I not tell you that should we ever cross paths again, I would kill you?" Valerie's voice was so stern, the woman shivered.

"What did I do?" She asked seriously. Since the bodyguards had reported that Aurora was not at her house and they had tried reaching her on the phone to no avail.

Valerie could not help suspecting that this woman did something to Aurora before using her image to cause trouble.

"Did you forget my warning to you after you insulted me, oh, Aurora, I gave you the chance to leave, but I still found you, so how about giving you a slow death?"

Fear registered in the woman's eyes as she could tell that the woman before her was not joking.

Then it meant that the real Aurora had stepped on some toes, and she was not going to bear the consequence on her behalf. No. She could not do that.

All she did was to steal Aurora's identity, just so no one would know it was her if things turned sour, and she would not be the one to go to prison but the real Aurora.

"I don't know what you are talking about. Excuse me, who are you?" Frustration took over her demeanor, and her voice sounded pleading. freewebnovel.com

Valerie smiled internally, knowing that she was finally getting somewhere with the whole thing.

"Aurora, stop pretending. Boys, have fun with her before we dispose of her," she ordered. The two bodyguards were slightly confused, not knowing the details of the matter but moved to do as told when the said woman began screaming in regret.

"I'm not Aurora."

Valerie's gaze was not just dark but also intimidating, as she threatened further.

"Do you take me for a fool? Aurora, you and I know that you don't have a twin sister, so what is with all this pretending? Allow the boys to have a little fun. They've been starving for years, and it's not as if you've not done this before."

Fake Aurora had a terrified look in her eyes when one of the bodyguards grabbed her by the arm, about to pin her on the floor of the van when she screamed,

"Please believe me, I'm not Aurora. I can prove it to you."

"Hold on, boys," Valerie said to the two bodyguards who sighed with relief. That was never their style, and their boss Godic never used that style before.

Besides, they had wives and daughters. As such, they did not want to commit such a thing. Valerie had no intention either. If the fake Aurora had not confessed, Valerie would have still stopped and thought of a different means to get what she wanted.

"So, who are you? And why are you impersonating Aurora?" She asked seriously. Having been with Denzel for a while, she sure knew how to be scary.

"Alright, I will tell you, but please promise that you boys would not rape me."

Seeing that she was afraid of that act, Valerie took advantage of it, saying, "well, that solely depends on you."

A few days ago.

Aurora arrived home to realize that things were not as they were at her home. This house was smaller than the one Don Denzel gave to her before, but she was still grateful because she was undeserving of it after how she messed up.

Everything was scattered, but she wasn't wrong. She had company. Two men and a blonde woman.

"Who are you, and what are you doing at my house?" Aurora asked, reaching for her phone and about to call the cops when the two men grabbed and tied her to a chair.

Her attempts to free herself were all in vain, as she kept struggling until fatigue took over.

"What is the meaning of this? What do you want from me?" She demanded from the blonde woman who had a confident smile on her face.

"I want a small favor."

This did not look like a favor. People requesting for favors would do so humbly, but this woman was using force.

With her phone in her handbag, which had been taken away from her, there was no way she could call for help and asked, "What is that?"

Flashback to be continued in the next Chapter.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 393 - Lock Me Up

Chapter 393: Chapter 393 - Lock Me Up

The blonde woman smiled mischievously, much to Aurora's disgust. "I have a substance, and I want you to pour it into Alessia's food."

'Alessia?' The sound of the name sent a cold shiver down Aurora's spine. After the last incident where Don Denzel almost took everything from her, she remembered how Mrs. Denzel forgave her and gave her another chance.

All she had received from Don Denzel and his family was kindness, which she couldn't repay with the back of her hand.

Even with her life at stake, she was no longer afraid to do the right thing. The envy, jealousy, and selfishness within her had all been eradicated by the love and kindness Mrs. Denzel had shown her. She outrightly refused.

"We don't work in the same company anymore, and even if I could, I wouldn't."

The blonde woman didn't seem to take this kindly but decided to give her another chance.

"I need someone close to Godic, and I have reliable information that you are."

Godic had always been lukewarm towards Aurora, but he had been kind to her and protected her when entrusted into his care. He was also Don Denzel's brother-in-law, so Aurora was still skeptical but curious. "What do you want with Godic?" she asked. The blonde woman smiled profoundly and revealed her intentions.

"He saved my life once, and I fell in love with him. I've been in Europe, and I just returned a week ago to find out that he got married to a woman named Alessia. I want her out of his life."

Aurora felt like the blonde woman didn't know who Alessia was and thought of educating her on the atrocity she was about to commit. "Alessia is Don Denzel's sister. Count me out."

The mention of Don Denzel's name caused the blonde woman's bodyguard to take precautions, but the woman was still willful. She wouldn't suffer Don Denzel's wrath unless he found out it was her, which she was determined to avoid.

"You either do it, or I lock you in the basement with a time bomb."

Time bomb? Aurora was scared for a split second before realizing that her life was never truly her own. Don Denzel's men had saved her, and he had avenged her and given her a new life.

Even when she had crossed the boundary and betrayed him to the extent that she should have been killed, he had only decided to take back the things he had given her. But his wife still gave her a comfortable life.

Thinking through this, Aurora felt like she owed them her life, and her death would be worth it in the end.

"Lock me up with the time bomb or kill me now. I already betrayed Don Denzel once, and I never intend to do it again. Godic has also been very good to me, so I can never do that to Alessia."

The seriousness in her words annoyed the blonde woman greatly, but it was not unexpected. The blonde woman had also made provisions for times like this, in case Aurora refused the offer and asked seriously.

"What if I still use your face?" she asked. Aurora was shocked when she brought out a silicon mask designed to look like her face.

Fear crept into Aurora's heart, and she regretted the things she had done that had moved her from the house Don Denzel had given her close to the head office and the shadow bodyguard services he had withdrawn.

Something like this wouldn't have happened if she were still in her former position when Don Denzel had found her.

"What are you planning?" she asked, not hiding the fear that crept into her eyes.

The blonde woman seemed rather amused by her situation and began to explain. "Well, when I'm done with the crime, all evidence would point to you, and the police would arrest you in my place. I already have your fingerprints too."

Aurora was sweating, knowing that something like this would reach Don Denzel, and he would be even more disappointed. "No, you can't do this to me. I'm innocent." frëewebηovel.com

Calmness resonated from the voice of the blonde woman as she spoke unfeelingly. "I'm a desperate woman, and I have to get what I want."

End of flashback.

Valerie was both shocked and afraid when the woman who looked like Aurora finished narrating the story.

The fact that Aurora stood for what was right in spite of her life being at stake was so touching that Valerie couldn't allow her good deed to go to waste.

"So how many more minutes does Aurora have in that basement?" she asked seriously.

The blonde woman looked around, feeling that Aurora would just come to face her punishment for whatever she did, not this woman, having no idea that Valerie was Don Denzel's wife.

"Looking at the time now, she should be gone in the next five minutes."

There was still a life at stake, so Valerie couldn't show concern for Alessia or Aurora, only making it look as if she wanted Aurora to pay for her wrongs.

"Excuse me. I need to use the restroom," Valerie said and rushed out of the room.

There wasn't enough time for her to communicate this to Godic, but the bodyguards had informed those who were sent to Aurora's house earlier, as they waited for the next orders, keeping their attention on the woman in front of them.

Using her powers, Valerie arrived at Aurora's house because she had been there before. Quickly, she rushed to the basement to see Aurora conscious.

She had no idea for how long Aurora had been tied up in this uncomfortable position, but it was good she was unconscious, as she wouldn't know that Valerie was not human and had some special powers.

As soon as she got close to Aurora, she heard the beeping sound. Just a minute remaining, meaning she wouldn't be able to finish untying Aurora before the bomb exploded, and she wasn't sure if her powers would work in the human world, except in transportation.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 394 - I Also Forgot and Set His Car Ablaze with You in It

Chapter 394: Chapter 394 - I Also Forgot and Set His Car Ablaze with You in It

Valerie ran out of options, but she wasn't ready to go down without trying. Covering Aurora with her form, they both disappeared instantly, appearing in front of the house, but the sound of the bomb was loud enough to wake Aurora.

She panicked when she saw her house in flames, not realizing that she was outside of it. "Save me, save me," she began to scream. Valerie frowned a little and went to comfort her.

"Be still, Aurora, you are safe."

Aurora froze when she heard Valerie's voice. Could this whole thing be a dream? The last thing she remembered was seeing the time bomb at thirty minutes and shutting her eyes to lure in sleep.

She had given up hope, waiting to die but also unwilling to look it in the eyes, so she only prayed for sleep to steal her before the bomb went off. But as she tried to move her hand, it was restricted, so she could not pinch herself to confirm if she was still in a dreamland or in reality.

Valerie's voice gave her hope, and she could feel her hand moving around the rope on hers. The rope was loosened from Aurora's hand, and when she tried to remember everything, confusion brewed in her mind.

"What happened?" Valerie thought about the best excuse to give, and since the house was still burning, she was certain that no cameras were able to capture her movements through the house.

"Well, we caught a certain woman who confessed to locking you up in a basement and impersonating you, so I came to see," Valerie narrated, adding,

"You were sleeping when I got here, so I was only able to carry you with the chair. You aren't so heavy," she lied, hoping Aurora would believe it.

To her utmost relief, only tears rained in Aurora's eyes, as the reflection of the burning house was caught in them.

"Thank you so much. I thought it was over, and I was gonna die, but you arrived and saved me. You are such a wonderful person, and I can't forgive myself for all I did to you."

Aurora realized fervently that Don Denzel had a knack for choosing the best of women, oblivious to their world.

In her description, her late sister, Lisa, was a sweetheart, but Valerie was a combination of sweetness, strength, and resolve.

The siren of the emergency services was heard, and some of Godic's bodyguards had also arrived, surprised to see Valerie.

"Mrs. Denzel, how did you get here so fast?" One of the bodyguards asked. Valerie forced a smile, and when she saw a motor rider passing, she pointed at him and said, "When I got out, I saw the motor rider and took a shortcut."

They believed her since there were indeed shortcuts. They just did not know that she knew those routes.

The fire service was already quenching the fire, and the cops arrived to take their statement, but Valerie had already left with Aurora and the bodyguards. One of them asked her,

"Mrs. Denzel, her house is destroyed, so where do we take her?"

Valerie was about to speak when Aurora said, "I will rent an apartment later, but for now, I need to get a new card and lodge into a hotel."

Valerie shook her head, remembering the confessions of the impersonator. Aurora had refused to do anything against Don Denzel, though it would have been termed as doing it under duress.

It got to the point where Aurora did not even care about her life, so how could Valerie allow her to do as she wanted when Don Denzel had houses scattered about?

"Take her to the first house she lived in. I will speak to Don about it. And she will begin working again at the head office."

Aurora was so moved by the gesture and wanted to thank Valerie but was not given the chance. Valerie had another person to rescue before leaving Godic to deal with his unknown crush.

Since the woman had a crush on him, this was his cross, and he had to bear it while keeping Alessia safe, but Valerie would not leave until she rescued Lindsay's daughter.

Two bodyguards escorted Aurora, one of them driving her to the safe house she lived in before.

It was huge as well with two cars and bodyguards, making her feel like a princess, but Valerie returned with the remaining bodyguards to the van.

"Thanks to you, Aurora is dead, so you have to bear all the torture I planned for her," Valerie said. The woman was stricken with guilt and fear.

"I honestly did not want her dead. I used the time bomb to scare her but forgot to deactivate it."

Valerie's expression was void of emotion as she responded to her. "Let's just say that I also forgot and set his car ablaze with you in it. Goodbye."

She was about to step out of the van when the woman screamed. "Please wait." Valerie stopped but did not turn around.

The woman was looking for a bait to extend her life. She was not ready to die.

"There is a child. A four-year-old. If you kill me, her mother would not find her. She was the reason I came here today."

Looking at her, Valerie felt she was talking to an evil Aurora and demanded, "Remove the mask or whatever you are wearing."

She quickly pulled off the silicon mask, exposing her blonde hair. It felt better for Valerie that she now knew the identity of the enemy she was dealing with. "Much better. Now repeat what you said."

Valerie did not care to get her name, having in mind to eliminate her for what she did to Alessia and also to Aurora.

"There is a four-year-old at my house. If you don't let me go, no one would find her," the blonde woman bargained. It was up to Valerie as to whether or not she would accept the bait...

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 395 - You! You tricked me

Chapter 395: Chapter 395 - You! You tricked me

The impersonator was happy to see Valerie in deep thought as the latter finally said, "If you give me the four-year-old to return to her mother, I might spare your life."

"Might?" the blonde woman asked. "That is not convincing enough. I took her from her mother to help me get the man I love."

Valerie pretended not to care about that part of the story. From the beginning, she made everything seem as though she was an enemy of Aurora and had to keep it that way until she got Lindsay's daughter.

"Okay. Give me the girl, and I will let you go as long as you don't hurt anyone close to me."

Valerie had gotten herself out of the web by that statement, but the blonde woman could not think of anyone she had hurt who was close to this woman.

As far as she knew, Aurora was this woman's enemy, and she did not have any relationship with Alessia or Lindsay.

"Okay. I will inform the caretaker to bring her," she said with relief. Valerie smiled, but her expression was dark.

Calling one of the bodyguards, she instructed, "Give her back her phone."

The woman dialed a number and spoke a few words. In less than an hour, a middle-aged woman arrived with a scared-looking four-year-old girl. Valerie was able to calm her and asked, "Who's your mom?"

"Lindsay," the girl said. Valerie smiled and said to the blonde woman, "You are free to go." She had already sent Godic a text message and only had to wait for the second phase of this whole ordeal.

"Thanks for being honest," the woman said with relief and got out of the van, but she did not reach her car before Godic appeared in front of her.

She was smitten once more at the mere sight of him. "Godic, I'm happy to see you here. How about I invite you out for lunch?" She asked. Godic's expression was cold, making her uneasy.

The man who saved her life was quite warm, so this scared her a little.

This woman almost killed two women, and if not for Valerie, Aurora would not have made it alive.

For that reason, she deserved a very slow death, which Godic's men could handle quite well.

"Lindsay," Godic called out. The latter walked to Godic with Alessia, and the smile on the woman's face froze. The four-year-old ran to her mother.

"Mommy."

Lindsay went on her knees to welcome the girl into her arms, and Valerie said to them, "Godic, I'm leaving now."

She went to hug Alessia and whispered in her ear, "Be careful, but make sure to quickly give me another niece or nephew."

Alessia nodded with a smile, hugging back Valerie. When the blonde woman saw everything unfold, she realized she had been tricked. "You! You tricked me."

Valerie shrugged, not feeling remorse. Her motive was to not get anyone injured, which worked as she planned.

"I said I'd let you go as long as you don't hurt someone I love, but you hurt my sister-in-law, so how can I forgive you?" Valerie asked sarcastically, trusting Godic to handle this matter.

It was just as he asked permission from Denzel to kill Aurora, but with this woman, the permission was already granted.

"Sister-in-law? You are Don Denzel's wife?" The blonde woman was appalled and afraid.

Mrs. Denzel played her so well, and she fell right into the woman's trap. How could she not have known?

Valerie winked. "What do you think?"

She whispered a few things to Godic before hugging Alessia again and entering Godic's car. The attention was redirected, but after alerting Godic and Alessia about her powers, she drove to a safe distance.

Godic would have to get the car himself later to not create any suspicions after she disappeared from it, but Valerie hoped to not find herself in a situation where she would be forced to use her powers again in the human world.

It was only after Valerie was ready to return to the pack that she realized she had not updated Alpha Denzel like she promised, guilt welling up in her heart.
frēewebnovel.com

At the Litha Moon Pack, Alpha Denzel could not sleep, expecting a call from Valerie or her return. He trusted that she could handle everything, but the silence was killing him.

Some Alphas had arrived with their Lunas, making him miss Valerie even more.

Not even helping Idris to receive the guests and put the remaining things in place for the coronation could take his mind off Valerie for even a second.

As such, he went for a walk around the pack, indirectly joining the patrol team. Unable to take it anymore, he dialed Valerie's number, but her phone was switched off, so he tried that of Alessia.

It went through, and she answered it.

"Denzel." Her voice was gloomy, but Denzel understood it was due to her loss and asked with care.

"Alessia, how are you? Is Valerie there? What happened?"

Alessia summarized everything for him. "Valerie is here, and Aurora is innocent. The culprit impersonated her, but Valerie is dealing with it. I'm just wondering how her powers improved so much."

Alpha Denzel's heart gladdened with the fact that Aurora was innocent. It would have hurt him so much for her to attempt something like that.

Good thing he allowed Valerie to give Aurora a second chance, but he was also worried about one thing.

"I hope she isn't using her powers there."

"Well, she used it to transport herself, so what do you expect? One of the bodyguards asked how they were late and never expected to successfully rescue Aurora, but Valerie was already there and had already done the job."

After understanding that Valerie was so busy and also used her powers well, he was relieved and ended the call. "Alright. I'm glad you are fine, but whoever did this to you has to pay."

The next day, guests, family, friends, and Alphas arrived at the Litha Moon pack. Alpha Lawn, Luna Alma, Gerald, and Callister had all arrived.

Troy and Adira made it too, but Adira did not look well. "What is the problem?" Alpha Denzel asked seriously.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 396 - The Best News I've Heard Today

Chapter 396: Chapter 396 - The Best News I've Heard Today

Troy had a worried look in his eyes as he spoke on behalf of Adira.

"She has been like that ever since we woke up. She kept complaining about the speed that it gave her motion sickness."

He could not tell where this was all coming from. This was the first time he had difficulty traveling with Adira, but he had to accept that changes were bound to happen.

Alpha Denzel went quiet, most probably in deep thought. Knowing Adira, she was never afraid of speed.

"That is strange. Maybe you should get her checked," Alpha Denzel suggested. Alpha Troy was about to agree when an elderly voice interrupted.

"Or, she could just take a pregnancy test." She-wolves reacted differently to pregnancy, and it was the only thing pack doctors had no control over.

Whatever happened during pregnancy was deemed normal at the packs, and one had to individually find the best solutions for it.

The mention of pregnancy caused something to stir inside Adira, and she faced Luna Fernanda with interest.

"Sure, I would love to take the test, but how is Ashley doing?" It would be a great honor to carry the pack's heir, but she hadn't seen Valerie around and thought she'd be with Ashley.

However, she could not just ask about Valerie when it was Ashley's coronation. She understood that all the attention must be on Ashley today and nobody else.

A dry smile escaped Luna Fernanda, knowing that this coronation would not be complete without Valerie's presence.

Anyone who saw Alpha Denzel would instantly ask about Valerie, making it hard to get over the fact that she wasn't there and might not be able to make it.

"She's missing her sister, but aside from that, I think everything is alright. Feel free to go check on her," Luna Fernanda said sweetly. Adira followed her to take the test.

Alpha Troy wanted to follow them, but the Alpha King Spartan arrived, and he, Alpha Denzel, and Alpha Idris went to welcome him.

In the Alpha's chamber, Ashley was nervous in her room. Valerie was going to help others, but she wished that Valerie would make it.

When she heard a knock on the door, she thought it was Valerie, and her eyes lit up, but seeing the person, her excitement lessened, blending with sorrow.

This blend of emotions in her was erased partially with Adira's words to her.

"Wow, you look so stunning, but what is that gloom on your face? I thought Valerie would be here with you."

Adira looked around, wondering if Valerie was in the shower or something of that sort.

Luna Fernanda said Ashley was missing Valerie, but Aurora thought it was because Valerie would be going back to the Evergreen pack after Ashley's coronation, but not to meet Valerie's absence.

"Val went to Vegas to sort out an emergency," Ashley explained with a heavy heart. No matter how she tried to look at the bright side, it still felt uneasy to not have her sister there on a special day like this.

Adira tried to cheer her up. "I get why you are sad, but I'm here. What help do you need?" Adira asked, ready to help in any way she could due to her excitement, which did not go unnoticed by Ashley.

"You look rather joyful," Ashley observed and asked. "Is there good news or something?"

Adira could not hide an exceptional news like this from her, spilling the beans. "Well, I'm pregnant," she said excitedly, pushing all the motion sickness and discomfort from the previous times to the side.

Though she still felt them, she no longer dwelled on them anymore. Ashley was happy for her.

"This is the best news I've heard today, but here." She handed over the diamond pins to Adira. These things were usually done by a most trusted person, and in Valerie's absence, Adira was the one she could trust to do it.

If not, then her mom or Luna Fernanda, but it was more fun when people around the same age did it for one another. "Help me with the pins. I kind of still massaged the hope that Valerie would come."

Adira helped with the pins as she encouraged Ashley. "No one wants to be by your side more than her. Have some faith, Ash."

As carefree as Adira said it, it worked on Ashley like magic, and her smile returned.

The ceremony began, and still there was no sign of Valerie until Ashley was called upon.

"I guess I have to rejoice in the fact that she's saving lives," Ashley said with a forced smile. Adira had lost all ways of making her get over her desire to see Valerie.

"That is a good motivation," she agreed, escorting Ashley to the event's auditorium.

When they stepped out of the room and reached the stairs, somebody appeared in the living room. It was the exact spot she had disappeared from, and Adira was scared.

"What is that?" She asked curiously, ready for a fight as Ashley smiled and responded proudly.

"It's Valerie. That's her new powers. She travels with the clouds."

Adira was wiping her eyes severally at the sight of Valerie, even as Ashley hugged her. "Thank goddess you made it. I'm so happy."

Valerie had a smile on her face, glad to have not missed it, but she looked tired. While everyone rested, she was roaming the streets of Vegas on a rescue mission.

"I was afraid of disappointing you, but I guess things went according to plan," she said with a smile. One could hardly notice the tired look in her eyes, but Ashley thought of making her happier by revealing the trending news.

"Yes, and oh, Adira is pregnant."

Valerie's eyes widened with profound excitement as she hugged Adira tightly. "Wow. I'm so happy to hear this," she said joyfully. The three women embraced each other in a group hug and were about to leave together when Ashley suddenly stopped and faced Valerie.

"Val, there is a problem."

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 397 - You two make the perfect couple

Chapter 397: Chapter 397 - You two make the perfect couple

The smile was wiped from Valerie's face, replaced by a frown, as she quickly looked around, not seeing anything too deep a problem.

"What is the problem?" She asked with a worried expression, Ashley's demeanor was stern, making even Adira confused.

"It's you," Ashley said, Luna Valerie's brows creased with greater confusion.
"Me?" freewebnovel.com

Valerie wasn't getting it, no matter how long she thought about it, most probably because she was tired and with time not being on their side, Ashley made it easy for her.

"Hurry and go change," Ashley nudged her, Valerie stepped out of her trance and quickly ran upstairs.

She had completely forgotten to freshen up and change from her casual clothes as well but could not let it affect Ashley so she spoke from upstairs.

"Take the lead. I will meet you there."

However, Ashley did not obey Valerie's words, rather going back to help her sister change from the casual jean pants and blouse she wore before.

Valerie made her happy by making it so the least Ashley could do was delay the event just a little bit.

By the time they were done, Luna Fernanda had to rush in to check Ashley's reason for delaying the guests but seeing her with Valerie, Luna Fernanda was exhilarated.

"Val, you made it," she pointed out, Valerie smiled with joy. "Yes, mom, I did."

Luna Alma had equally caught up, happy to see both of her daughters together and ready. "Oh, Ash and Val, I'm so proud of you both."

"Mom, today is Ash's day so no need to include me." Valerie was making sure not to steal her elder sister's limelight, even when Ashley did not care about it.

Joy took over the atmosphere, as Valerie and Adira walked ahead of Ashley. As soon as Alpha Denzel saw Valerie, his manners flew out of the window and he broke protocols by running to her side.

In his all-black suit, he looked ravishing but Valerie was slightly guilty for having kept him in the dark, after realizing how much she had been missed.

"I'm sorry. Everything happened so fast, I" Before she could complete the sentence, Alpha Denzel's lips crashed onto hers in a deep passionate kiss, attendees could not hold back taking pictures of one of the romantic moments of Alpha Denzel.

The last time they saw him being so romantic was during Valerie's coronation but who thought that someone like him could do something like this?

"It doesn't matter that you couldn't call. Having you back is more important than anything else."

Valerie was so touched by his words that she leaned in for another kiss which lasted until Alpha Lawn cleared his throat audibly to alert them of their location.

Youth of nowadays were so different from those of old. Someone like Alpha Denzel even forgot his manners when his excitement kicked in but guess what? He had no regret.

Valerie smiled shyly after pulling away but Alpha Denzel was rather unmoved, leading her to their chair.

Even when he was unsure about her return, he still reserved a chair for her, right next to his.

Alpha Troy had equally led Adira to their chair, asking anxiously, "how was it? Positive or negative."

He had fiercely been awaiting that news and could not believe that Adira had forgotten to inform him.

Adira thought to prank him a little and responded. "Negative."

Troy's expression dulled but he smiled. "Okay then I will send you to the doctor when we get home to find out the reason for your being like this.

Adira smiled and replied. "Just kidding, I'm pregnant."

"Yeah, I'm going to be a dad," Alpha Troy yelled unconsciously, Adira was so embarrassed but everyone began clapping for them with heartwarming messages.

"Congratulations. You two make the perfect couple."

Alpha Denzel was also very happy for them. This news meant there was going to be more allies for them in the future. A pup meant the era of a new generation.

Ashley finally made her entry for the ceremony to begin and as usual, onlookers began to panic.

"I don't see any difference between the sisters. They are both so stunning," one of the attendees said, another one agreed.

"Indeed. Alpha Idris is so lucky to have the sister-in-law of Alpha Denzel. This means he also has the support and protection of the Evergreen pack."

Her voice stemmed from jealousy, even at the joyful moment.

Majority were still genuinely happy for them as another person countered. "Did you forget that Alpha Denzel and Alpha Idris were cousins? Even if this union did not happen, the Litha Moon Pack would still have Alpha Denzel and the Evergreen pack's support."

A lot of people agreed with his statement but did not voice it.

Such things only spiraled chaos sometimes and most people loved peace, which they did not want to lose.

Sadly, most of the Lunas were not in Valerie's united group and could not be happy for the strength they were seeing.

Some of them wanted to be close to Valerie but it was too late. They had done too much harm that made it difficult for them to be trusted.

Whoever was not Valerie's friend in her worst time could not be in her best time. The time she lost her wolf was when she needed friends but they were never there for her.

Ashley and Idris completed their exchange of vows and just as they finished with the blood covenant, and were about to take their seats to prepare for refreshment, a strange noise was heard and the ground began to shake as if there was an earthquake.

"What is going on?" Ashley asked with resolve.

No matter what it was, this was her pack and she had to defend it but Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie were already on their feet, searching for the source of the noise but when they saw it, even Alpha Denzel felt fear for the first time.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 398 – A Good Solution

Chapter 398: Chapter 398 – A Good Solution

Terror registered on their faces as they gawked at the intruders. This was not looking good, and there was no hope that anyone could fight these creatures.

They had been mentioned in werewolf history with pictures, but none of the people around had ever seen them in person like they were doing now.

Luna Fernanda's heart sank into her stomach, but her attention was directed at the women, especially the pregnant ones.

These creatures would not harm children, but the elderly were not exempt, making it precarious.

"All pregnant women, run to safety. The warriors will guide you to the safe house," she said over the microphone she took from the emcee.

Some of the pack members and guests began to do as told, but Adira could not accept it. They needed all the forces to contend with this enemy, and she was not a coward. Never was, never would be.

"No, I will fight to defend the pack because I'm here," she said fiercely. Alpha Troy felt hopeless as he did not want to lose his pup before it was even born.

The smoke of fear in the atmosphere was so intense that Alpha Denzel was forced to agree with Luna Fernanda when he saw the rogues coming out from under the earth from the window of the auditorium.

The underground rogues were huge like giants but were also very slow. The warriors outside were already running for cover, and some had shifted, but even with their wolves, they could still not match the height of these predators.

The pack members were only soaked in the fact that Alphas from all packs around North America were there and would help them in this fight.

However, it was clear that they were not easy to contend with. Remembering Adira's pregnancy, Alpha Denzel added his voice to that of Luna Fernanda, his mind made up to not allow anything to happen to the unborn child.

"Adira, run to safety for the sake of the child. The underground rogues appear once in a century and do not rest until they have fed." His voice lowered as he added the worst part.

They haven't fed in thousands of years, which makes them more dangerous than before. Adira shivered at the thought of what these creatures fed on.

"What do they feed on?" she asked, her eyes widened when she heard a shrill from one of the warriors. One of the underground rogues carried and ate him raw.

Alpha Denzel hated to see his warriors die even in a war, and being in this vulnerable state, his anger burned.

Still, he needed to plan so they wouldn't lose more warriors. The threat approaching them made him forget the fact that this was not his pack and Alpha Idris was the one to give the orders.

"Oh no, what do we do?" Adira asked, not willing to go into hiding in the face of a war like this. Alpha Denzel's response was very simple.

Half of those in the auditorium had already left for the safe house, including some of the werewolves, but Alpha Denzel could not stop them nor force them to fight because he could not guarantee their safety.

"Follow them to the safe house." Then he remembered that Luna Fernanda knew about the history of most of these creatures.

She would surely have something to say about how to defeat them. Thinking about this, Alpha Denzel quickly asked her.

"Aunty Fernanda, do you remember the details about them?" Everyone discerned the fear in his voice. Alpha Denzel was not afraid for himself but for the innocent people who might end up as lunch or dessert for these monsters.

Luna Fernanda tried to recall them from the last history book she read. "Their last appearance was a thousand years ago, and they wiped out ninety percent of the werewolf race. Their only weakness is how slow they are, but once they get close, no one can defeat them. We all have to run to safety."

Running was not Alpha Denzel's style, and he could see that it took quite some time for the underground rogues to make it to the surface of the earth, and a step took between thirty seconds close to a minute.

To defeat the enemy he had not seen, fought, or defeated before, he needed to study the way it operated to capitalize on its weakness, but retreat was not in his dictionary.

"No. We have to send them back," Alpha Denzel said with resolve. He was not one to kowtow to anything, not even the hideous creatures approaching them.

Valerie found her dress restricting, as she did not plan to shift. Those who made that mistake were eaten faster than those who hadn't. So far, they watched five warriors who wanted to fight the creatures end up in their stomach instead.

Quickly, she tore the hem of her gown and the sides to make her movements easy, then removed the stilettos.

When Ashley saw this, she did the same, and so did the she-wolf warriors. This seemed to be the greatest war they were ever going to fight in the history of their existence.

This was not a pack or an Alpha against the order but the natural cause of the werewolf origin taking place.

Valerie was thinking of how she could use her powers to defeat these creatures, not wanting any more warriors to lose their lives for her sister and his mate to rule over sand.

"I can find a temporary solution, and we can think of a permanent one later or have time to summon the moon goddess to show us how."

With the moon goddess being an ethereal being, she sure would have the solution to this, but why did she not appear at her own accord when she knew her help would be needed?

"That sounds like a good idea," Alpha Denzel agreed before asking. "But how?"

The creatures were now close, and they were certain that in the next two minutes, their auditorium would crumble from just their weight.

Adira thought for a moment and ran in the direction the others went for the sake of the baby in her womb, and as funny as it looked, no one could laugh.

Valerie thought about the temporary solution, but before she spoke up, Ashley came up with an idea that gave them hope.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 399 – Luna Valerie Fainted

Chapter 399: Chapter 399 – Luna Valerie Fainted

"What if you make the ground slippery for them, and I can open it for them to fall back in," Ashley said with resolve. Valerie agreed, but for a moment, someone came to mind.

"That is great, but we have to get closer to them. I wish Alice was here..." She quickly stopped, not wanting more people to be aware of the girl's powers. Luna Valerie was certain that Alice's powers would have defeated these creatures.

They sure were not fireproof, and even if they were, Alice's fire was not ordinary. Luna Valerie could not forget how those powers burnt the woods so deeply that by the time she finished quenching the fire with her powers, the woods of the Evergreen pack were no longer the same.

Alpha Denzel also smiled at the thought of Alice. Her powers would have indeed conquered these monsters faster, but now they had to focus on what they had. How to get Valerie and Ashley close to the monsters while making sure that they do not get hurt.

"I will shift and carry you on my back," Alpha Denzel said. Alpha Idris could not help taking part of the responsibility as well.

"I will do the same," he supported.

They could get their women as close as they wanted, then escape with them before it was too late. These women might even focus too much on their powers and forget how much danger was ahead of them, so that would be the time to deliver them.

Their plan this time was not to attack but on how to escape. The four of them went out after agreeing on a few things. As the two men shifted, the two women climbed on their backs, holding tight.

They needed their wolves' speed but could also not use their powers if they shifted. Ashley already began using her powers to crack the earth, dust filling the air like a cloud, and the look of fear in the one eye that sat in the middle of the face of the monsters.

Seeing them like that was heartwarming, as they felt hope that they were doing the right thing.

Valerie's powers began to work on the weather, and as soon as the rain began to pour only on the underground rogues, they growled in anger.

The sound was deafening as they made a move to capture the two women riding on the werewolves but rather slipped and came tumbling down, making the ground shake violently.

Their movement was like an earthquake, and the two Alpha wolves found it difficult to stabilize themselves but did not fail their Lunas.

"Ashley, please try harder. The ground must open wider to make them fall faster into it," Valerie spoke hastily, intensifying the rain and making the ground slipperier.

The four of them were drenched, and the few warriors around were running to safety, glad to see the monsters being defeated as they struggled to maintain their postures. freewebnovel.com

Their size made it hard, and their falls were great. Those who had not yet made it fully to the earth fell right back into the open ground. This method was only going to work in sending them back but would not completely destroy them like Valerie wanted.

However, she was stunned when one of the underground wolves pointed a finger at her and said some words she could not understand, though knowing they were not good. The sound of it, shook the place.

Luna Fernanda, who was seeing the whole thing unfold from the windows of the auditorium like the others were doing and also understood what the underground rogue said, quickly ran to them.

History became so real to her today than it ever was in her years of living.

"He said that he hadn't eaten and would have you for his next meal," Luna Fernanda said to Valerie.

That rogue seemed like the strongest, and even with his body on the slippery floor and a force pulling him into the open ground, he was still not ready to give in but ensured to mark Valerie very well.

Alpha Denzel shifted instantly upon hearing the translation of the underground rogue's threat.

How could that happen when he was still alive? For as long as he was, that monster would have to eat him first.

More of the underground rogues began to fall into the open earth, causing the warriors of the Litha Moon pack to cheer for victory. A warrior met Alpha Denzel and Ludwig with emergency clothes but waited until Alpha Idris shifted before giving him his.

Alpha Denzel was addressing the underground rogues due to the threat, and Luna Fernanda gladly passed the message.

"Bring it on, but next time, do it at the Evergreen pack. She would be ready for you."

He knew that over there, Alice would be able to use her powers with Valerie's help and not get burned, but the rogue spoke again in that strange language which Luna Fernanda interpreted.

"Her scent is strong, and we shall find her."

Alpha Denzel scoffed, glad that the monster took his bait but knew what to prepare for. If no one destroyed the underground wolves completely, they would come back to destroy the werewolf race, and he was not going to allow that.

He would make sure that they do not get a second chance at life and would also not only rely on Alice but prepare other equipment for the war.

The last underground rogue fell into the open earth before Valerie stopped the rain, and Ashley sealed the earth, but Valerie soon fainted, and Alpha Denzel knew why as he quickly caught her in his arms before her body touched the ground.

The cheers increased from all angles, but Alpha Denzel could not celebrate, looking at the saddened look in Idris's eyes after he shifted and put on his clothes.

The warriors they lost pained Alpha Idris as they were some of his best, fearless ones at that.

"Don't worry, Idris. The war would be brought to our doorstep next time," he said, carrying Valerie to the room he lodged.

Alpha Idris turned to Ashley, gratitude replacing the pain he felt before due to how fearless his Luna had been, and his words warmed her heart greatly.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 400 – Party under the Moonlight

Chapter 400: Chapter 400 – Party under the Moonlight

It was her first day of coronation, and Ashley proved beyond a reasonable doubt that she was capable of handling the challenges of the pack.

"Thank you, Ashley. We have to thank Luna Valerie and Alpha Denzel properly when Luna Valerie regains consciousness."

Ashley responded tiredly. "Yes, we have to."

The battle was not easy, and the level of powers used drained her considerably.

Alpha Lawn and Luna Alma were the proudest parents at the event due to how their two daughters saved the pack with their Alphas.

Alpha Idris discerned from the bond that Ashley was tired. She was not the clingy type, so this required haste.

"I will take you to bed and take care of the rest," he said. Ashley did not refuse his kindness, especially when she had not even mentioned it.

That was the great thing about the mate bond and marking each other.

Alpha Idris lifted Ashley in his arms bridal style, about to hasten to the pack house when the pack members and warriors surrounded them.

The guests and all those in attendance had joined, as if they were aware of something that both the Alpha and Luna did not know about.

Ashley tiredly opened her eyes to see all the pack members kneeling in reverence of her.

This was the closest they had come to death when other warriors were eaten raw. They were not ungrateful and would show Valerie her reward before she left for the Evergreen Pack.

Ashley's heart warmed, and it made it all worth it that she did not, for once, think about her safety when she decided to defend her pack.

She whispered to Alpha Idris. "Please let me stand on my own."

Alpha Idris obeyed, and Ashley addressed the pack members, at the same time Adira returned from the safe house.

"You all don't have to do this, really. This is my pack, and it's my responsibility to defend it. Rather, let's wait for my sister to wake up, and then we can do this together for her."

The responses were not what she expected. "We understand what you are saying, Luna," one of the warriors who spearheaded this said, the others nodded their heads in unison.

"But we still have to show our gratitude. Everyone could have gone into hiding, but you decided to take the risk, so we thank you and will ensure that you enjoy your stay in this pack to the maximum."

The rest cheered on. Due to this bravery, the fears looming over the pack were gone.

"You should all enjoy the refreshment. I will take her to rest a bit," Alpha Idris said and supported her once more to the bedroom.

The warriors and pack members broke out into cheers, and the clouds gave their showers. Most of them were prepared to have a moonlight party at the midnight hour after the refreshment.

No one except maybe their guests would be able to sleep.

Alpha Denzel watched Valerie sleep like a baby. Ever since getting her wolf back, this was the first time he saw her so tired and decided to leave her to rest.

Stepping out of his room, he was met with Idris, asking, "Is Ashley alright?"

"Yes. She was just exhausted. How about Valerie?"

"Sleeping. I'm going for a walk."

Alpha Idris thought for a while and suggested. "Why don't you wait for me to sort out the guests, and we can go for a walk together. This is our first time losing warriors and being denied their cremation because they served as meat for their predators," Idris said sadly.

Denzel understood the feeling. It was the same as whenever he equally lost a warrior and patted Idris on the shoulder.

"Everything will be fine. Having the chance to cremate fallen warriors or not, the feeling of loss remains the same."

Alpha Idris nodded his head, knowing that was also another truth.

He attended the reception, but both he and Denzel ate nothing. They could not also drink anything because their women were not with them, and due to Adira's condition, Troy insisted that they leave early. freewebnovel.com

Some guests left after the refreshment, but those having to drive long journeys stayed behind to rest and begin the journey before the break of dawn.

At midnight, the moon gave its light, brighter than anyone they had ever seen, a clear indication that the moon goddess was on their side and blessed them.

Alpha Idris and Denzel smiled when the pack members partied under the moonlight but did not join them.

Even some of the guests who claimed to need rest for the journey had woken up because they slept too early, joining the party.

The two Alphas talked as they waited for the party to be over before going back to bed.

"If anyone had said a day like this would come in our lives, I would not have believed it," Alpha Idris said. Alpha Denzel agreed.

"Same here, but I'm glad for all this. For someone like me, happiness seemed to be too far to reach but still found me."

Idris smiled as they gazed at the moonlight, wishing their women were there to experience it with them.

"Honestly, I never thought I would ever see a soft side of yours. You were always too cold."

Denzel smiled. Those were the times he felt empty and afraid of any other of his loved ones dying.

"You would have been worse if you were ever faced by an enemy like Conrad," he chuckled. Idris laughed.

"That guy was something I don't have words to describe, but also, I wonder why you stopped drinking."

Alpha Denzel recalled how he could drink and smoke like a chimney before but without knowing, he quit smoking too.

Pain might lead to so many things, but joy equally healed. "We need to celebrate the women the moon goddess gave us, Denzel. I will get some glasses and champagne," Idris said when a familiar voice cut in.

"You two are celebrating without us? How rude?" The two men were flabbergasted when they turned in the direction of the voices.