Chapter 401 – Touching Moments

Chapter 401: Chapter 401 – Touching Moments freewebnovel.com

Luna Valerie woke up after a few hours, feeling rejuvenated. The sleep had restored her energy, but she was disappointed not to see Alpha Denzel beside her.

Sighing, she went to freshen up in the bathroom but ended up taking a shower and wearing a pair of jeans and a turtleneck.

Stepping out of her room, she heard the door to the Alpha Chamber open, and Ashley stepped out, also changed and refreshed.

"Val, are you alright?" Ashley asked worriedly. Valerie smiled and responded, "Of course. How about you?"

"I'm good, but you fainted, so I was disturbed," Ashley cleared the air. Valerie sighed. "That was because I was tired. I never rested when I went to Vegas and had to return immediately to not miss the coronation."

Ashley was very grateful, and remembering what the pack members had in store for Valerie, Ashley encouraged her.

"I heard a moonlight party is ongoing. Why don't we join them?"

Valerie was still curious about where Denzel was, not knowing if she should mindlink him but somehow felt like spying on him from a distance.

"Do you know where Denzel went?"

Ashley shook her head. "No. And I'm curious about Idris's whereabouts too."

The packhouse was too quiet because of the exciting activities, so they decided to join, as well as look for their men.

They could hear the party sounds, which they followed to the moonlight party. But before they joined, they saw two men standing isolated.

"There they are," Ashley exhaled when she saw the two Alphas chatting warmly. It was something heartwarming, and she could not keep her eyes off her man.

With Valerie, they ambled close enough to hear exactly what they were chatting about, with their gazes on the partying pack members.

"We need to celebrate the women the Moon Goddess gave us, Denzel. I will get some glasses and champagne," they heard Alpha Idris saying, their hearts warming to his words as Ashley interrupted.

"You two are celebrating without us? How rude?"

The two men were flabbergasted when they turned in the direction of the voices. "Val," Alpha Denzel said with a warm smile, hastening in the direction of his Luna and wrapping his arms safely around her waist.

Alpha Idris equally embraced Ashley, wondering how long they had been up and standing there. But pulling away, he thought it better to go for the champagne when multiple voices surrounded them.

The party had been redirected in their direction, and Valerie was elated to see the pack members beaming with so much joy around her, instantly feeling at home.

"Luna Valerie, thank you so much for saving us," the pack members bowed in reverence. Valerie was touched.

Alpha Denzel always felt at home at the Litha Moon pack, which she felt was only because of Luna Fernanda. But after this, she was certain that it wasn't just about Luna Fernanda but also the welcoming pack members.

"It's nothing. Your Alpha and Luna would have done the same for me, and trust me, they've done a lot for us. Go back and party more," she said to them. But instead of leaving, a road formed in the middle of them, showing a girl holding gifts on a tray.

The girl walked the path they created between them to Valerie, but reaching there, an elderly woman spoke in her stead.

"This is our first mineral produce since Alpha Idris introduced new businesses. A ruby necklace. Please accept it as a token of appreciation."

The Litha Moon pack members' way of showing appreciation was different from any pack she had ever been to, but in this case, she could not accept the gift.

"I really appreciate this gift, but I can't take it. You are all my family because you have my sister, and I love Luna Fernanda like my mom."

The pack members were disappointed that she rejected the gift, but one of them made a suggestion.

"Luna Valerie, do you like music and dance? We were working on a choreography to welcome our Luna during the coronation but couldn't use it because of the underground rogues. Would you like to see it?"

Valerie was excited about this one, and Ashley was amazed that they had this whole surprise planned for them. The rogues had indeed done a lot of harm.

"Well, we can't wait to see it," Valerie said excitedly, one of the girls ran to get chairs for them and Alpha Idris went to get the champagne, serving it to them when the music played out and the choreographers danced under the moon light.

It was beautifully crafted, especially the part where the kids, not more than five years old, performed some acrobatics here and there.

It brought tears to Alpha Idris' eyes as he remembered that the warrior who taught them those moves was among those who were killed by the underground rogues.

Nevertheless, he was grateful that he got to experience their talent even after their death.

The sound of applause and standing ovation jolted him back from his trance, and he clapped for the dancers.

Looking at Valerie's excited face, he was glad that she was happy. Valerie blew them a kiss.

"Thank you all so much. This feels like home because the love you have shown me makes me feel at home."

They happily ran back to continue their party, leaving the two Alphas with their Lunas. Alpha Denzel suddenly suggested,

"Someday, we shall come here for a vacation."

Alpha Idris and Luna Ashley were thrilled, and Valerie readily welcomed the idea, asking, "Can we visit the cottage once more before leaving?"

Not knowing much about how the cottage worked because he never devoted time to it, Alpha Idris knew exactly who to ask.

"Don't worry. I will ask my mom, and I know she won't refuse."

Alpha Denzel had a smirk on his face, and they chatted more over glasses and bottles of champagne into the wee hours of the morning before going to bed.

By the time Valerie woke up the next morning, it was as if she had been transported to a completely new world, as everything looked different. What did Alpha Denzel have up his sleeve again?

Chapter 402 - Anything for Their Women

Chapter 402: Chapter 402 - Anything for Their Women

Alpha Denzel woke up as soon as Valerie fell asleep, meeting with Alpha Idris and Luna Fernanda.

"Ashley is asleep, so we can do as you have said," Idris said to Denzel.

"Same with Valerie. We have to finish everything before they wake up," Denzel agreed, Luna Fernanda had a sweet smile on her face.

She loved it when the men showed so much love to their women and could not wait for everything to be completed.

Reaching the cottage, Alpha Denzel's jaws dropped. He had not had time to do anything extraordinary at the cottage at the Evergreen pack ever since moving Luna Valerie there, but what Luna Fernanda did was just spectacular.

"Aunty, how were you able to change a lot in such a short space of time?"

The middle-aged woman smiled profoundly. "Ever since Idris got serious with the pack business, I had to do something better with my time.

It was great to know that Idris being of good behavior resulted in something like this.

"Let's go in since you are preparing surprises for your women," Luna Fernanda beckoned them, Alpha Denzel was marveled by all the varieties of flowers in little pretty vases artistically arranged in interesting positions.

"Valerie would love this," he exclaimed, Idris was also thrilled. "And so would Ashley."

"If everything is acceptable, then I will take my leave," Luna Fernanda said, none of the two men said anything until she was almost at the door.

"Do you have some paints and a brush? I want to paint her," Alpha Denzel said, Idris was shocked but Luna Fernanda smiled, remembering her late sister who equally loved to paint.

"Of course, there is, but I just never thought you had enough time to do that."

"Try me," Denzel said, Idris felt left out.

"I'm not good with painting, so you have an advantage over me." Sorrow laced his voice, but Denzel chuckled, not immediately saying anything.

When Luna Fernanda brought the paintings and left, Idris was surprised that Denzel was rather painting Ashley first, it gladdened his heart.

With the sisters looking alike, he would not have known if not for the coronation gown Denzel painted. It was the same one Ashley wore for the coronation.

"Denzel, you have no idea what this means to me."

"Whatever would make your woman happy, I will help you with it if I can. You don't have to let her know that I painted it."

Alpha Idris understood the meaning quite well.

"I have an idea. What if they wake up here?" Denzel asked, Idris smirked but remembered something and asked.

"But you have barely begun Valerie's painting."

A smile thinned Denzel's lip. "It's all part of the plan." Idris kept his queries to himself, wondering what Denzel was up to.

Quietly, they carried their women in their arms with the duvet, bringing them to the cottage and laying them gently on their various beds.

Idris kept the large painting right where Ashley would see it the moment she opened her eyes and went to keep Denzel company.

He could not help smiling upon seeing Denzel painting the sleeping Valerie, bringing a huge contrast between the two paintings.

Idris was glad that even if Ashley saw Valerie's painting, she would never suspect the same artist did hers.

They were both beautiful but also unique. "I would have never believed you had such great talent," he said to Denzel after they were left in the quietness of the dawn.

Everything felt serene, and it was as if they were in a different world with no fear of wars, attacks, or problems.

It was too early for the birds, but the dew enhanced the beauty of the flowers, with every drop that settled on them.

Alpha Denzel loved greens, for which reason the Evergreen pack was known for it, but Luna Fernanda took the cottage to another level.

Each time she worked on it, it felt as if her late sister was right there by her side, for which reason she loved to do it.

"I never thought I'd ever paint again after mom died, but Valerie was able to change all that. Because of her, I began painting again, and she's also good at it."

Idris was slightly envious of how Denzel and Valerie shared a common passion but remembered that he also did not know Ashley so much. There must be a lot she was good at, which he had no idea about.

"Let's get breakfast ready before the sleeping beauties wake up. They used a lot of powers and need to rest more but should also eat," Denzel said, Idris felt ashamed.

"But I don't know how to cook."

Thanks to his mom's presence, he always had everything easy, but Denzel was not going to leave it that way this time around.

"That is why you have to learn. Don't always rely on maids or your mother. Time changes." freewebnovel.com

"You are right. I will learn from you and hopefully, from my mom and Ashley in the future."

The two cousins went inside but into the kitchen to ensure that breakfast was ready before their women woke up.

After some time, Valerie woke up to the smell of fresh roses all around her, and though the texture of the bed was the same as the pack house, the interiors were all different.

Her mind instantly blanked out when she tried to recall what happened last, and the only thing she could remember was sleeping on the same bed with Denzel at the packhouse.

Somehow, she felt as if she was at the cottage but could not discern which. The interior of the cottage at the Evergreen pack was different, and she remembered that of the Litha Moon pack.

It was also different. This felt like how people fantasized the ethereal realm, but the painting of herself made her heart stop.

The color of the bed, her exposed lingerie under the duvet, and her messy hair on the bed rather gave it an all-sexy appeal.

'Denzel.' Joyful tears burned the corner of her eyes at the thought of that cold man.

She quickly put on casual clothes from the closet, but when she opened the door, the aroma of breakfast wafted through her nose, and she heard male voices.

Her joy abounded when she heard the things they were saying about her and Ashley...

Chapter 403 - It's not just about us

Chapter 403: Chapter 403 - It's not just about us

Idris was basically watching Denzel make some eggs benedict and passing him a few kitchen tools here and there.

Due to it being a surprise for their women, Denzel did not want anything to go wrong and could only give Idris some education here and there.

Something seemed to be weighing heavily on Idris's heart due to what happened yesterday, and he asked suddenly.

"Denzel, have you ever wondered what would happen if you lost your woman in a war?"

The question caused Denzel to stiffen. He knew that Idris was asking because he was afraid. It was because of what happened yesterday.

What if Ashley and Valerie did not have powers? What would have happened to everyone?

These kinds of questions hardly got answers, but Denzel felt in his heart that nothing happens for nothing.

Something like this was bound to happen, so the moon goddess ensured to make preparations in advance.

It was not the way anyone expected it to be, but it still happened anyway. "I can't lose her in a war. It would rather be me."

For as long as he was alive, he would never watch his woman die but rather take her place, was what he meant.

If it happened after his death, then that was understandable.

Idris sighed. "I have been thinking a lot. I never felt so happy and complete until Ashley came along. It's been just over a week, but trust me, it gets better every day."

This kind of feeling was not new to Denzel, so he had the perfect answer for it. "That is the meaning of being in love. You have no idea how I felt when Valerie had to leave for Vegas alone."

"I know the feeling. You were like a walking dead all that time, but I just did not tell you to not get you upset."

The two laughed before Denzel suddenly spoke up while brewing some coffee.

"You know what, every day of my life, I would be happy as long as Valerie was happy."

"Same here," Valerie said from the entrance. Idris smiled and walked out of the kitchen. Moments like this needed privacy, and he knew not to ruin it.

"You look so beautiful," Denzel said. Valerie's cheeks pinked. Having enough rest sure enhanced her beauty.

"Thank you, but you look exhausted. You should rest after eating," Valerie said, embracing him in the process. "Thank you for the painting. I love it and will take it along."

Denzel's brows raised at her words, since he had no plans of taking it. The cottage was not open to the public, and Luna Fernanda would not mind keeping that room specifically for them.

"You don't have to. I can paint more for you at the cottage."

Valerie's eyes lit up at the mention of the cottage. "Luna Valerie transformed this place. How about I do the same upon our return?"

She felt like carrying the cottage with her, but since that was not possible, she had to make good use of what she had at the Evergreen pack.

"You know I won't stop you. Besides, we are training more people into leadership positions, so very soon, you will have a lot of time to yourself."

Denzel was planning for the future and would not like Valerie to stress herself out when she gets pregnant, especially. For a one-time opportunity, he was going to make sure that when it happens, he gives her all the necessary support.

"Yeah, that's true, and I would want to visit Alessia too."

Then she remembered Adira and instantly became self-conscious. "Denzel, what if I don't get pregnant? What if I can never give the pack a pup?"

Tears welled up in her eyes as her fears set in. Even if she got the chance, she would have to forgo her wolf and her powers throughout that period, making her afraid because of what happened yesterday.

The underground rogues would return, and she would need her powers to help Alice defeat them if they so returned.

Denzel pulled her into his arms. "Don't worry about anything. Whether or not we have a pup, I will always make sure to make you happy."

Valerie knew he meant it but worried for her pack. It would be selfish for her not to try, but what could she do?

It did not matter so much, and she did not worry much about it before, but remembering that Alessia already got pregnant, which she unfortunately lost, and then Adira, Valerie began to worry.

"Denzel, what about the pack? It's not just about us."

Denzel already had a solution to that. "Alessia is also an heir, so her child could still take over the pack. Don't worry about such things. I'm not selfish to just want everything for myself, and the most important thing is that you are happy."

Denzel was also afraid of the future, should Valerie get pregnant now. He would have wished that those idiotic underground rogues made an appearance soon enough before it happened.

As such, he would put the safety of the pack above his desire to have a child with her. Either way, if it so happened that Valerie got pregnant now, he would still be happy.

No matter what, he would find a way to defeat those monsters when the need arose. "I love you so much, Denzel. I can't believe how much I've fallen in love with you."

Valerie could not believe how different Denzel was from other Alphas, especially with the level of pressure he carries.

Denzel was overwhelmed with joy every time she confessed her love for him. "I should be the one saying that, but I don't want breakfast to be cold."

Valerie's stomach grumbled instantly due to the amount of champagne she drank last night, about to express her agreement with Denzel, a familiar voice beat her to it.

"Yes, and some of us are starving." It was Ashley, and beside her was Idris with a guilty look on his face for interrupting Valerie and Denzel, but Ashley was too happy because of the painting.

They sat around the small dining table, feasting on the breakfast Denzel made when Ashley suddenly felt nauseous.

"I will use the restroom," she said with Idris in tow. Both Valerie and Denzel had worried looks in their eyes.

"Is she alright?" Valerie asked no one in particular. Denzel was suspicious of something but wondered how Valerie was going to take it.

Chapter 404: Chapter 404 - I'm so proud of you

"I think I should go take care of her," Valerie said, rising to her feet, but Denzel restricted her by holding her hand.

"Her mate is with her, so what exactly are you going to do?" Amusement laced his tone, and Valerie sat back in her chair, still worried until Ashley returned, looking exhausted.

"You look like you ran a marathon," Valerie observed aloud. Ashley yawned and sat back in her chair with Idris beside her.

"I've slept a lot, but I don't know why I still feel so tired," she yawned again. Valerie and Idris were disturbed, but Alpha Denzel was smiling from ear to ear.

"It wouldn't be bad to stop by the pack hospital for a checkup, who knows?" He shrugged. Ashley stared suspiciously at him.

"Denzel, if you know something, out with it. We are in-laws, so no need to worry about offending me or anything like that," Ashley said. Denzel replied.

"I'm surprised your mate is playing ignorant. With your level of experience running a pack, can't you guess when your woman is pregnant?"

Ashley wanted to jump but paused. "Denzel, I will go take the test first. I don't want to celebrate prematurely."

She dragged the stunned Idris out of the cottage without another word as Denzel focused his gaze on Valerie.

"You should be happy for your sister."

A tear fell from Valerie's eyes. "I am, but you can't blame me for being jealous, right? She only moved here over a week ago, and she's already pregnant. You and I have been trying for months, and yet..." she choked on her last words.

Denzel stood up and carried her to the garden, knowing the ambiance would cheer her up. It did.

"This is awesome," she exclaimed, forgetting that she was sad a moment ago. "Luna Fernanda is rocking it here. Goddess, I wish I had the time to do so much to our cottage."

Denzel grimaced at her words. "You know that you can do anything if you want. I will be there to take care of the rest."

Valerie smiled and leaned against his chest. "Don't blame me for spending nights and days in the garden and don't miss me."

Denzel laughed. "Miss you? How would that be when I would be wherever you are? You can't run away from me in the name of beautifying the garden."

Valerie wrapped her arms around his neck, joy, warmth, and admiration filling her. "You know what? I never quite understood why you could not punish Tristan, but now, I'm also happy for it."

"If he had not rejected me, how would I have known that someone like you had so much love? The only problem was him trying to kill me, so he deserved the punishment he got. If not, no one would have even given him attention."

Denzel was all joy, about to respond when she spoke up again. "I won't feel jealous again. I have you, and that is enough for me."

It was not just Denzel but also his wolf, Brutus, who got it this time, and there was a synchronization of peace between them.

This was all Denzel wanted from her. He wanted her, whether she gave him a pup or not. As such, he was not envious or jealous of anyone.

He had Valerie, and that was enough for him. Though not getting the same, he could still not be upset nor tell her, only hoping that one day, she would get the message and love him unconditionally.

"I've been dying to hear this from you," Denzel smiled, instantly lifting her in his arms and carrying her to the bedroom.

"I hope you have the right amount of energy for a beast like me," he cooed in her ears, dropping her gently on the bed and quickly filling the gap between her thighs with his body.

Valerie eagerly wrapped her slender legs around him, kissing him hungrily before flipping him and climbing on top of him.

"You think you are a beast, but I'm hornier than you at this moment." She pulled her dress over her head, at the same time a knock sounded on the door.

"Val, Denzel, are you there?" They heard Ashley's voice from the doorway. Valerie dropped on Denzel's chest, slightly annoyed as she responded.

"Yeah, coming." Then she spoke seriously to Denzel. "This isn't over. We'll continue when we get home."

They were supposed to leave for the Evergreen pack today, so that was what she meant. She picked up her dress from the floor, slipping it on again, but Denzel was even more desirous of her than she was thinking.

"I can't wait," he smirked before getting off the bed. As soon as the door opened, they were met with the beaming Ashley.

"It's true. I'm pregnant," she announced with Idris beaming beside her before she spoke in admiration to Denzel. "You are so smart."

She kept jumping up and down, unable to contain the shock. She hadn't even gone to the hospital but met Luna Fernanda halfway, returning to the packhouse to take the test. This was unexpected and the best news so far.

Luna Fernanda had dozens of test kits, not for her usage but rather for the pack members. Knowing that everything was fine at the cottage, she did not return with them anymore.

"Well, congratulations. Our families are just getting bigger," Denzel pinched her cheeks playfully, and she giggled like a kid.

Valerie embraced her sister, her love increasing and all the jealousy from before gone. "Congratulations, Ash, I'm so proud of you."

Ashley was so over the moon. "Thanks, Val, the pack is very exciting too. Strangely, I love it here and no longer wish for the wild life. Being responsible is much better."

It was great to know that someone like Ashley accepted the pack responsibility she once ran away from.

"I'm so glad to hear that," Valerie answered, happy for her sister.

The couples returned to the packhouse where Denzel and Valerie were ready to take off. The atmosphere changed instantly.

Not only for Luna Fernanda, Idris, and Ashley but also for the Litha Moon pack members. As soon as they heard about the departure, they came to present their departure surprise, which gave Valerie just what she needed.

Chapter 405 – Do you want to hear it?

Chapter 405: Chapter 405 – Do you want to hear it?

"Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie, you don't want gifts or we would have given you many of them," a teenage girl said. Valerie chuckled, wondering what they were up to.

The teenage girl looked so innocent and beautiful with her blonde hair, that they hung onto her every word.

"We, the members of the Litha Moon Pack, would love to have you again but before you leave, my little sister has a message for you."

She moved to her right, revealing a shy girl in a white dress and pretty white shoes, her hands wrapped behind her back.

Luna Fernanda remembered the girl. She had suddenly developed special powers, and Luna Fernanda planned to keep an eye on her, but things got busy with the coronation.

Now, he wondered what exactly the girl was up to. The little girl strode to Valerie in quick little strides. Valerie was enchanted by her beauty, lowering herself to her level.

"You are so beautiful," Valerie said. "What is your name?" she asked. The girl giggled and held Valerie's hand.

"You are the most beautiful Luna Valerie. My name doesn't matter, but I want to pass a message to you."

It was stunning the way the shy girl suddenly developed boldness, speaking as if she was in charge or knew perfectly well what she was doing.

"In the next four months, you shall be pregnant, and your son would be stronger than his father, but something terrible would happen. You must never lose hope."

"Not again," Valerie said, remembering that this seemed like the third time she heard something like that.

If a warning was sent down continuously like this, then it must be terrible, but she constantly remembered Denzel's words and faith. At the same time, the girl continued to speak.

"Remember, the moon goddess would not give her strongest battles to her weakest warriors. She gives them to the strongest because they can handle it. There would be no challenge too hard for you to overcome and..." She started at Alpha Denzel and smiled. "He loves you."

Then she yanked her hand away shyly and began walking back. Valerie called and tried to test her. "Can you repeat what you just said? I missed some parts."

The girl smiled, but her look was vague, seeming clueless about whatever Valerie was asking her. "What?"

"You don't remember?" Valerie asked, not disappointed but wanting to know the root of the girl's powers. "What is your name?"

"My name is Flower, and that is my sister," she pointed at the teenage girl who began the whole thing, then let out a cute smile before adding. "You are so pretty, Aunty."

Valerie would have thought she was insane if there was nobody here, but it only confirmed that the moon goddess must have spoken through the girl.

At least she had a timeline now, which made her happy that in the next four months, she would be pregnant with her pup.

At this moment, she was no longer afraid of the challenges that might come with them, knowing she would be more than capable of overcoming them.

"Thank you," she said to the little girl who smiled and ran off. Then she thanked all the other pack members, hugging her sister and Luna Fernanda, before she and Denzel finally left the Litha Moon Pack.

Arriving at the Evergreen Pack, Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie were amazed to see how things had progressed. Everyone was doing their duties so well that one would not notice the Alpha and Luna had been absent.

Burke had handled the pack quite well with Dorothy and Gandolf, making their Alpha and Luna happy.

Valerie and Denzel went to check the Omega's community, and it was almost completed and looking splendid. In a month's time, the omegas would be able to occupy it, for some renovations to go on at the safe house as well.

"This is surprising. How could they work so fast?" Valerie asked. Denzel smiled, glad the pack members were doing this.

"I guess they wanted to please us and let us know they are capable."

"Indeed, they are," Valerie smiled and hugged him, before saying, "can we go to the cottage now? I'm so desperate."

"Anything for you," Denzel said and began to lead her away. Reaching there, it was not so bad but needed more attention.

"I will get some gardeners to help me so I'll be staying here for a while."

"We shall stay here together until everything is done. You can work on the garden after training while I take care of administrative matters."

"That sounds like a good plan," Valerie agreed. However, Alpha Denzel had not forgotten a few things.

"I hope you did not forget your promise," he cooed in her ears. Valerie smiled, her body responding to him.

"How could I? When I want you so much?" She smiled flirtatiously. Denzel lifted her in his arms. "Now you have to pay for turning me on so much," he groaned, hastening to the bedroom.

Valerie giggled and wrapped her arms around him, knowing that their nights would always be erotic with the peace they were currently enjoying.

For the next few weeks, she devoted her free time to the cottage, beautifying and turning it into a place of relaxation for herself, Denzel, and special guests.

The garden was too sacred for them because of the memories attached that they could not allow just anyone in it.

A month later, Valerie stood in front of the cottage. The majority of the work was done, and now, she had to wait for all the new flowers to grow.

Nevertheless, it did not take away their excitement at seeing its early stages. Denzel even took a picture of it and sent it to Luna Fernanda, who insisted on spending a vacation there in a few months to come.

Denzel and Valerie did not have a problem with it, even encouraging her to bring Idris and Ashley around.

A few months passed, and the omegas community was launched. There was a lot of excitement and so many fun activities to open the community to the omegas.

The twins Valerie saved before were so excited when they saw her, still referring to her as Aunty Flora, even though knowing that Valerie was the Luna. Valerie and Denzel laughed when they remembered their early days and how Denzel came about the name Aunty Flora.

As the omegas' rooms were being allocated to them, Valerie received a call, and after hanging up, she was filled with mixed emotions. "Do you want to hear it?" She asked Denzel.

Chapter 406 – Val, I'm pregnant

Chapter 406: Chapter 406 – Val, I'm pregnant

Back in Vegas, Alessia took her symptoms seriously the moment she woke up.

It was not nausea this time but frequent urination. After the last time, she researched a lot about pregnancy symptoms, not wanting to make the same mistake again as before.

Having already taken a couple of pregnancy tests, she had some test kits at home.

Godic was still asleep when she went to the bathroom to take the test, and she screamed from excitement, causing him to jump out of bed and run to the bathroom with the sleep cleared from his eyes.

"Aless, is everything alright?" Godic asked worriedly but soon relaxed when he realized she screamed from excitement and not from pain or anything of that sort.

He always loved to see the beam on her face every morning and was happy to have kept it that way.

"And may I know what..." he was asking when his eyes landed on the test kit in Alessia's hand, and his sentence was cut short by the two red lines.

"You are pregnant?" He could not contain his joy at the realization, lifting her into his arms like a baby. Alessia was facing him because of the way he carried her, so her legs and arms wrapped around his hunky body.

"Yes, Godic, I'm pregnant again, and this time, I would take very good care of our baby, I promise," she said with teary eyes.

It was not easy to get over her miscarriage, so this was a great comfort for her at this moment, but Godic gently countered.

"No, we shall take very good care of him or her together, and then you might have to return to the pack. It would be good to be close to our kind, and though pregnancy might take longer, you would also give birth faster."

In the werewolf community, pregnancy took ten months for the baby to be birthed, but their labor was not as long as that of humans, and due to their wolves, the pain was half less, so Alessia had to weigh her options carefully.

"I honestly don't mind going through the nine months here and a painful labor. I can endure it," she assured him. Then she kissed him on the lips and revealed her true intentions. "I just don't want to leave your side."

Godic was still worried about it, feeling that they needed a second opinion.

"Alright, but we should still discuss it with Denzel, if you know what I mean," he insisted. Alessia beamed.

"I have a better idea."

She dialed Valerie's number and put the phone on speaker, instantly announcing. "Val, I'm pregnant."

Valerie was over the moon, instantly responding. "Oh, goddess, this calls for a celebration, and you need to be close to the pack. I think I would talk to Denzel to work out something, but how are you doing? Do you need anything?"

Valerie had already gotten over her desperation to have a child of her own and was very happy for Ashley.

"I have everything I need, but I'm also fine here with my mate. I might return to the pack in my seventh month, but that is not confirmed," Alessia revealed, Valerie stunned.

Every she-wolf would love to have their pup in the pack where it would be easier, but somehow, Alessia was choosing the most difficult way.

"Do you love Vegas that much?" Valerie asked in an amused tone, Alessia responded honestly.

"With my mate here and so many human friends, it's very interesting, and not forgetting the fact that Denzel's biggest businesses are here, making more money for the pack."

Alessia cared so much about the finances of the pack, though they were self-sufficient, but the income from Vegas was what gave the pack all the extreme excesses.

Valerie understood where Alessia was coming from and did not pursue the matter further. "I'm glad to hear all these, but should you change your mind, please don't hesitate to let me know."

"I know I won't change my mind, but for your concern, sure."

Alessia was about to end the call before remembering something and saying. "You can inform my brother on our behalf."

Valerie ended the call, seemingly excited as she asked Denzel, who was waiting to make sure that every omega was comfortably housed with extra rooms remaining.

Valerie was filled with mixed emotions. "Do you want to hear it?" She asked Denzel, his brows creased, but he smiled.

"Sure, what are you hiding?" He pinned his gaze on her, making her heart flutter a little.

No matter how long they knew and lived together, he always made her stomach giddy whenever he stared at her like that.

Knowing that the news was going to excite him so much, Valerie did not hesitate in sharing it. "You are going to have a niece or nephew soon."

As expected, the look in Denzel's eyes was priceless, his excitement obvious. Valerie knew that if Denzel had a baby girl, he might just spoil her rotten.

As such, she hoped the moon goddess would give them a boy, since she would only have one chance.

Denzel would be hard on a baby boy than a girl. His question interrupted her mind. "Is it Alessia?"

Valerie glared at him, annoyed by the question. "Who else? We already know about Adira and Ashley's pregnancies, so who else could it be?"

Denzel laughed and pinched her nose. He was in a very good mood because of the sweet news and wanted to crown it with a celebration before he begins to think about any adjustment needing to be made.

"That calls for celebration, and it also means they would have to move to the pack," he said. There was no need to think about that part because he wanted an easy birth for Alessia, but after the conversation Valerie had with the latter, her lips pressed together.

"I think you should ask them about that part." The deliberation continued when Denzel's phone rang. His eyes widened instantly. "Are you sure?"

Chapter 407 – A Beta Coronation

Chapter 407: Chapter 407 – A Beta Coronation

"Denzel, I have something to tell you," Alpha Lawn spoke from the end of the line, and Denzel was curious.

"I'm listening."

"I'm going to have a beta coronation," the middle-aged man revealed from the end of the line, and Denzel frowned slightly.

"Are you sure?" He asked, and before Alpha Lawn responded, another question popped out. "Who are you coronating, and what happens to Hugo?"

Given that Hugo remained loyal even when he was appointed by Tristan, Alpha Denzel felt that he did not deserve to be discarded just like that. However, Alpha Lawn had news for him.

"I was coming to that," Alpha Lawn hinted before he explained carefully. "Hugo went to the Lichen pack to represent me during the death of their Alpha and found his mate to be the daughter of the Alpha who just passed away."

The Lichen pack was among the smallest packs in North America but strangely received attacks. None of the rogues dared to attack that pack because their old Alpha was quite strong.

He was also independent and never associated much with any of the packs. It was understandable that Alpha Lawn had not gone himself, and even Denzel had sent Hugo to represent him.

Well, that was just the way packs operated. You can't reap where you have not sown, and the support you give to other packs is the support you get in return.

"Their Alpha died too young, and his daughter isn't strong enough to lead the pack. She also can't join ours because that would destroy her pack."

The understanding was clear, but Denzel still confirmed it. "So Hugo is going to be the Alpha of the Lichen pack?"

"Exactly," Alpha Lawn responded from the end of the line, and Alpha Denzel was glad. Nowadays, he hardly received news that made him upset, as other packs were either being wise or afraid of starting anything.

Alpha Denzel's good mood did not mean he would overlook or let anyone who tried to attack his pack or any other close to him off the hook.

"That sounds like good news to me," Alpha Denzel agreed from the end of the line, but Alpha Lawn had some more explanations to do.

Yeah, and I know he would excel at it, so I want to make my good friend, Gerald, my beta since he's been in the pack house and has been giving his support immensely."

"Well, that is a great choice, so I have nothing against it," Denzel said. For someone who took Alpha Lawn in when he did not even have the means of taking care of him, there was no better person deserving of the beta position than him.

Alpha Lawn asked again. "So, do you think we should hold a beta's coronation or should we send a letter? I asked him, and he said he chose the letter because he doesn't like the crowd, but I felt that I should honor him."

Alpha Lawn's desire made sense to Alpha Denzel, but he could also not agree about the honor bit. "You choosing him as a beta is already a great honor. I agree that sending letters is a fine idea."

Alpha Lawn was satisfied and relieved at Denzel's analysis, suggestions, saying with gratitude. "I knew I could count on you. Both Alma and Calister agreed on the same things."

Alpha Denzel could not wait to get back to the ongoing handing over ceremonies. "If that is the case, then congratulations on your having a new beta."

"Thank you," Alpha Lawn responded before ending the call.

The Evergreen pack was having one of its happiest times of handing over the rooms, which were built in apartment styles but not too tall to use elevators.

One of the regular pack members asked. "Alpha, are you going to renovate the pack members' houses too?"

Alpha Denzel suspected that something like this might happen, but the pack members were more than the omegas, so something like that would take a lot of time.

Also, their living conditions were already very comfortable. Then again, if Alpha Denzel changed the style of houses, that would also make room to accommodate new pack members and future generations.

"I'm still thinking about it. It all depends on how long the time of peace continues and how we are able to avoid liabilities."

The pack member could not take no for an answer, saying with gratitude. "Thank you, Alpha, we shall be expecting the renovation," he said, Valerie laughed, and Denzel chuckled.

Seemed that no matter what, he would have to do something special for the pack members as well. However, the omegas had been the ones who suffered for long and deserved this at the moment.

Months passed and the herbs had grown so well. Raven had structured it in a way that whenever the hospital had a case, they would find the herbs suitable and faster for the healing process, reducing the use of orthodox medicine.

She and Ray were running shifts between the Yellow Stone and Evergreen Pack to plant more herbs, and fortunately, they were doing a great job.

Alpha Denzel had constantly thought about Raven's leaving and had helped her and Alice with combat training through these peaceful moments. But now, something important came to mind when he said to Valerie, "I want to visit the Black Fur pack with Raven. Do you mind or want to come along?"

Valerie yawned and, being in a sitting position before, she laid on the bed. "It's better for the two of you to go alone. It's peaceful here, so I can do with some more rest," she said and went back to sleep.

Alpha Denzel frowned a little, asking, "Are you alright?" For the past two days, she kept sleeping more than necessary and kept complaining that her time for sleeping was not enough, blaming Denzel for constantly waking her to attend training.

"Yes, I'm fine, I just need a little more rest," she yawned again. Denzel had a plan, alerting Alice and Dorothy to keep an eye on her.

He left with Raven, and upon reaching the Black Fur pack, the young woman's reaction stunned him.

Chapter 408 - A new Alpha

Chapter 408: Chapter 408 - A new Alpha

"Good day, Alpha Denzel, I will inform Alpha Ludwig about your arrival," the security at the gate spoke politely, Alpha Denzel shook his head.

Everything would be ruined if Alpha Ludwig found out about his presence, as the motive for this visit was to find out if every report Ludwig sent was true or just forged.

Alpha Denzel had been engaging Burke to attend meetings on his behalf, making him spend little to no time at the Black Fur pack.

Slowly, he was equipping Burke to work independently without him, reflecting how the pack was managed without it being obvious that Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie had been away.

"No. This is a surprise visit. If you inform him, you will be in trouble," Alpha Denzel warned sternly, suddenly putting on his cold aura, the security man cowered at his words and deep penetrating gaze.

Then he stared at Raven, who was taking in the appearance of her surrounding including the ambiance of the entrance of the gate.

There were flowers, that were still at the nursing stage but it was clear that should they grow, the entrance of the Black Fur Pack would be very beautiful.

The totem of the Black Fur Pack, which was a black wolf, was also neatly carved on top of the large gates with the pack's name also carved underneath it.

This was also the only pack that had their warriors at the gate in charge of security wearing black uniforms to differentiate them from other pack members.

"Yes, Alpha Denzel," the security man nodded his head nervously and pressed the automated button for the gate to open.

Automated gates were not there previously at the Black Fur Pack but Ludwig seemed to have picked a lot from the Evergreen pack, and tweaked them to suit the black fur pack's preferences.

Alpha Denzel smiled, seeing that his decision to give Alpha Ludwig a second chance was not in vain.

As much as he always had his disagreements with the moon goddess, she seemed to be right in her ability to pair mates 99% of the time.

It was just due to selfishness that most people loss out on what she wanted to give them.

In Alpha Denzel's situation with Valerie, he equally got the greater understanding during the last coronation that the moon goddess had her own battles to fight even as she took care of her creation. freewebnovel.com

"Alpha, this pack isn't so big but its' quite artistic and beautiful," Raven observed, a smile on her stretching her lips, bringing out that innocence she always carried with her.

The corner of Alpha Denzel's lips curled up slightly. Indeed, Alpha Ludwig had done beyond his expectation in just a few months.

Alpha Denzel could not tell if Ludwig was just being lazy at the beginning or if he genuinely had no idea of how to manage a pack because he worked under a selfish Alpha, who was not willing to teach him how to be a leader.

Most of the developments were still under work in progress but Denzel could already guess how the end was going to look like.

This made him understand how powerful finding one's mate was. He could relate, as it was the same way Valerie changed him from the cold and aloof man he was to a man with the heart of gold.

"Will you like to live in this pack?" Alpha Denzel suddenly asked, Raven was taken aback by the question, fearing if it was because of her open appreciation of the pack.

Then remembered the life she had at the evergreen pack and shook her head.

"No matter what, I will always choose the Evergreen pack over any other. It isn't just about the beauty but my wonderful family."

Even during the time she spent with her parents at the Yellow stone pack, and all the love she received from both them, Alpha Lawn and Luna Alma, she still felt attached to the Evergreen pack.

"You treat me like a kid sister and sometimes a father. Luna Valerie does same. Alice is like a sister to me and the pack members are awesome. I can't sacrifice that for anything in the world," Raven concluded.

Most people stared at her, as she reminded them of Alice, the invisible girl. It was strange that only after her departure, did she become visible in their eyes, especially when she returned with Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie.

However, Raven had made her first appearance with Alpha Denzel so, the respect and fear bestowed on him was like a shield over Raven, especially when they parked the car after crossing the gate and began making the rest of the journey on foot.

Alpha Denzel pondered over her words, glad, but also knowing that the inevitable was bound to happen, especially when Ludwig was fulfilling his part of the bargain.

In the beginning, Alpha Denzel had put him to the test to justify the reason he was undeserving of Raven but who knew that Alpha Ludwin would change this much?

He was like a new Alpha no one ever heard of and Alpha Denzel would not be able to stop him when the need arose for him to bring Raven to this pack.

"What is if you find your mate in this pack?" He asked, but felt saddened when he saw the sorrowful look in Raven's eyes.

She was a little distraught but then she remembered the jade necklace and smiled a little.

At least Alpha Ludwig was very nice to her. "In that case, I won't have a choice but the Evergreen pack would always be on my heart and I would always get to visit right?"

"Anytime, but we are just talking and you are already getting emotional," Alpha Denzel pointed out, Raven smiled a little but her response stunned him.

"That's because I know anything can happen."

The moon goddess was always full of surprises and Raven knew that so well, for which reason she could not refuse such occurrence.

Alpha Denzel was glad that Raven was open minded. He directly went over to the areas Alpha Ludwig pointed out developing in the agricultural sector to stop the pack from importing groceries from other packs but was greatly amazed by what was happening.

Chapter 409 - Alpha, Luna Valerie fainted during training

Chapter 409: Chapter 409 - Alpha, Luna Valerie fainted during training

The omegas were busy working on the farmlands and at the moment, Alpha Denzel wanted to give the pack support in the area of farming equipment.

There were no supervisors like they were in the other packs. As to how Ludwig managed to excite them to do the job wholeheartedly, it was just a sign of his leadership qualities on exposure.

Unlike the human world, the packs did not have much equipment so Alpha Denzel had always shipped from the human world to the packs.

There were also no factories as their strength was more than that of humans, aside from the fact that they relied heavily on nature because of their wolf forms.

And the only way to make their wolves comfortable was creating for them, more forest reserves.

The farmers were murmuring at the sight of Alpha Denzel but what amazed him even more was the man who seemed to be doing some supervisions himself.

Due to how he blended with the farmers, it took time for Alpha Denzel to make him out.

He wore a hat due to the hot summer sun and due to the murmurs, he turned around and his heart stopped at the sight of Alpha Denzel and Raven.

Raven especially, looked so tough, even with her innocent face unwavering. It was clear that the girl had been taking her training seriously, for which reason Ludwig was impressed about how she was going to be an asset to her new pack.

"Alpha Denzel," Ludwig paused and smiled at the woman by Alpha Denzel's side. Raven," Alpha Ludwig removed his gloves before shaking hands with Alpha Denzel and Raven.

Denzel must not have told him about this visit but Alpha Ludwig expected it. He had come to know Alpha Denzel well enough to understand how unpredictable he could be.

That unpredictability put him on his toes to work harder, with or without Alpha Denzel's presence.

"Alpha Ludwig, I decided to pay you a surprise visit and I hope you don't mind," Alpha Denzel said, Alpha Ludwig shook his head.

"No, I don't mind. It's just that everything around are work in progress and there is still a lot to do per the plans we have developed for the pack. My beta, Liam is taking care of training today because I wanted to be here myself."

Alpha Denzel was glad that Ludwig also learned to use his workforce, especially his beta, so he wouldn't burden himself with each and everything.

"This is a very large farmland."

"Yeah, it's such a shame it was wasted before but you really opened my eyes to all these. My business in Vegas is also picking up so hopefully, we will be one of the richest packs in the next three years."

Raven listened to the conversation keenly but could not immediately guess that all the changes this pack was undergoing were because of her.

"I'm glad things are going well but what about the rogues?" Alpha Denzel asked. Mostly, wars were the greatest tools to destroy a man's handiwork.

Alpha Ludwig sighed and responded.

"There haven't been any attacks for a few months which has helped tremendously but one of the warriors suggested that we set secret traps around the bothers. That would slow down any attacker and give us an advantage over them."

Raven could not help but notice how Alpha Ludwig spoke with novelty and also realized that Alpha Denzel was honest in everything he said to Alpha Ludwig.

Where there was a need for adjustment, Alpha Denzel said so directly and where there was a need for a compliment, he did it so warmly.

"Everything I've seen so far is impressive but what are your plans for that area?" Alpha Denzel pointed at about a five acre of land a distance away and Raven already imagined planting some moon grasses there but this wasn't her pack.

"Well, it was initially for beautification but after some deliberations with the team, we decided on using it for a kids playground and we can also have a park for more kids activities," Alpha Ludwig revealed, Denzel's eyes widened.

It was just a week that he sent Alpha Ludwig to Godic in Vegas and he already came out with something so brilliant.

None of the packs had playgrounds or children's parks but Alpha Ludwig explained it further.

"After trainings and school, I don't think their childhood should be taken from them. This should be a reminder for them to not be ashamed of being kids."

Raven equally loved the idea, as her childhood had also been taken from her because of where she lived growing up.

Throughout his Alpha Denzel's chat with Alpha Ludwig, it as if he was talking to a stranger. Due to the nature of werewolves, Alpha Denzel never thought about bringing kids playing grounds to the packs.

However, Alpha Ludwig's explanation made a lot of sense. From the ages of nine and below, none of the kids would have gotten their wolves and were more like normal human kids, except that they began their training early.

As such, a werewolf even at the age of three, would be far stronger than a human around that age before they got their wolves.

"In my honest opinion, Ludwig, this is impressive. Keep it up and can I see your packhouse?" Alpha Denzel asked. that was the last place he was going to visit before returning to the Evergreen pack.

Alpha Ludwig was grateful for the compliment but stiffened at the request, especially when Raven was there.

"Its under renovation so my beta and I moved to one of the guest houses. I can still show it to you if you insist on seeing it."

Weighing his options, Alpha Denzel decided to see it, just in case he had any contributions to make to its betterment.

"Alright, let's go," Alpha Denzel said, the three of them began to walk towards the pack house but Raven seemed to gain so much attention.

Just as they reached the pack house and before Alpha Denzel could offer any contribution, his phone rang and seeing the caller, it was Dorothy so he answered it.

"Alpha, Luna Valerie fainted during training."

Chapter 410: Chapter 410 - Someone, Call Alpha Denzel

After Alpha Denzel left the pack, Valerie dragged her tired self out of bed to the training room.

Strangely, she felt light-headed and all she wanted to do was go for another round of sleep, but it was unlike her to sleep when she had training to lead.

"Luna, are you okay? You look pale," Alice said, worried as she and Dorothy had been instructed to watch Valerie closely.

Even if she had not been told, Valerie's demeanor spoke volumes about her mood.

Dorothy sensed something was wrong through Alice's question and the way their Luna was indeed pale. It was as if her Alpha wolf had left her alone.

"Luna, Alice is right. Please let me take you back," she politely suggested, but Luna Valerie was slowly getting upset.

Valerie was never weak, and the way they kept patronizing her was not going down well with her. Her emotions were spiraling out of control by the way Alice and Dorothy were making her feel like she had grown weak so suddenly.

The two ladies were too young in that aspect, not knowing how to handle such cases but were also the closest to Valerie.

"I said I'm fine. Take your positions," Valerie said in annoyance, turning to Burke as she instructed.

"Burke, make sure you take care of Denzel's group from yesterday. I will take care of the she-wolves."

"Yes, Luna," Burke replied with a worried expression, also discerning that their Luna was not herself.

She was not one who easily got upset but seemed irritable today. 'Could she be missing her Alpha? No way. It wasn't the first time Alpha Denzel left her in charge,' Burke thought to himself.

When training began, all their doubts disappeared into thin air by the way Valerie led the team. At the moment, they had to agree that she was indeed fine.

Her training on defense was exquisite, so they soon forgot about how pale she was looking and continued with the training nonetheless.

Midway through training, Alice was the first to notice that their Luna had lost consciousness because she never took her eyes off her.

This was the first time Alpha Denzel specifically entrusted them to give their Luna extra attention, meaning there was indeed something wrong.

"Luna, can you hear me, please?" Alice asked in a teary voice and tried to use her powers to bring her back into consciousness, but strangely, her powers would not work on Valerie this time.

Her hand was behind Luna Valerie's neck as she tried to revive her. When none of her actions seemed to work, she began to panic, as the she-wolves helplessly surrounded their Luna.

Worried, Alice screamed, "Someone, call Alpha Denzel."

Her shriek caused everyone to direct their attention in their direction. Burke and Dorothy quickly ran to their side.

Dorothy quickly pulled out her phone and dialed Alpha Denzel's number.

"Alpha, Luna Valerie fainted during training."

The color drained from Alpha Denzel's face, and he internally cursed himself for making this journey when he began suspecting this a few days ago.

Valerie always felt okay, going about her duties passionately, so he felt it was going to be like those days. Never did he imagine things getting out of hand.

Also, knowing that she might not be able to use her powers or her wolf when pregnant, he was determined to be by her side through it all, for which reason he wanted to make this trip now.

Subsequently, it would be easier for him to believe the reports Alpha Ludwig sent to him and would not have to make this trip again.

"Is Alice there?" Alpha Denzel asked. Dorothy gave the phone to Alice before saying, "She's here."

Alice spoke as soon as Dorothy gave her the phone in a panicked voice. "Alpha, she's not responding to my powers. I think she needs hospitalization."

Alpha Denzel was cursing himself internally. He should have made this trip earlier, especially when the prophecy had specified four months' time.

"Tell Burke to get her to the hospital. I'm on my way." After ending the call, he turned to Alpha Ludwig.

"I have to go in wolf form. Be good. My car is parked at the gate. Bring her for me." He was indirectly telling Ludwig not to try anything stupid while Raven had still not come of age, knowing how crazy the mate bond could drive anyone.

He was about to shift when Raven stopped him. "Alpha, please, I can make some herbs for her speedy recovery."

Ludwig was stunned at the revelation. So, his mate had the gift of herbs? No wonder Alpha Denzel was protective of her. For a moment, he felt like he had just gotten Alice back.

Having the gift of herbs meant that his pack would be among those swimming in good health.

"Alpha Ludwig, kindly get someone to drive the car to my pack. Here are the keys." He hastily gave his car keys to Alpha Ludwig, saying to Raven, "And Raven, I will shift and carry you on my back."

Without waiting for a moment, Alpha Denzel shifted, his clothes shredding with it, before he lowered himself and Raven fearfully climbed onto his back.

His charcoal black fur was menacingly scary, but she knew he would not hurt her.

When Alpha Denzel dashed into the woods with Raven on his back, Alpha Ludwig felt lonely. But recalling the fact that Raven would soon turn eighteen in a few months, his longing heart finally felt at peace.

After instructing one of the warriors to send Alpha Denzel's car, though he strongly wanted to do it himself, he returned to what he was doing before.

Due to the strength of the mate bond, it was better for him to stay away from the Evergreen pack until Raven turned eighteen in a few months' time.

At the Evergreen pack, Alpha Denzel arrived, mind linking Burke. 'Where is Luna Valerie?'

'In your room, Alpha,' Burke responded from the training room. He had to take charge of all the training sessions.

Raven had hastened ahead after asking the whereabouts of Luna Valerie before Alpha Denzel shifted and wore emergency clothes. But when he arrived, he froze at the door.

Chapter 411 – I think she’s pregnant

Chapter 411: Chapter 411 – I think she’s pregnant

Earlier, when Alice ended the call with Alpha Denzel, a familiar person rushed to her side, whom she had forgotten was equally gifted as Raven.

"I think she’s pregnant. I know some herbs that would give her strength," Ray said seriously. Having carried an Alpha through a long journey, a Luna was nothing in terms of weight.

Before Burke could counter, Ray already carried Luna Valerie carefully and rushed her to the pack house.

After setting her on the bed, he rushed to get some herbs and after pouring the concoction into a wet towel, he pressed it to her nose, making her sniff as she slowly regained consciousness and drank a minimal amount of it. Once awake, she placed a demand.

"I’m hungry."

Valerie felt embarrassed to have fainted during training, but all the people in her room only showed care.

They were not thinking what she was thinking, but that did not make her feel too good either.

Alice took the cue of her being hungry, rushed to the kitchen, and made her some chicken soup.

Valerie was enjoying her soup with Ray monitoring her closely, Alice by her side to crack jokes, and Dorothy waiting for any signs to alert Alpha Denzel.

She seemed sorted with trusted people around to take very good care of her, being grateful for the herbs as they soothed her discomfort.

However, she could still not help wishing that Denzel was around. She wanted to be cuddled because of the temporary loss of her wolf, but since no one could give her that at the moment, all her desires were directed at the soup she was drinking.

Raven rushed in, but seeing her brother, she slowly relaxed and asked him, "how is she?" She had forgotten to have trained her brother in knowing a lot of herbs, which came in handy when the need arose.

"As you can see, she's fine. I used the herbs you taught me," Ray said, smiling profoundly at his sister, who smiled back but did not want to interrupt Luna Valerie, as she seemed to be enjoying her soup.

Alpha Denzel entered the room and froze when he saw the way Valerie was busy with the bowl of soup on the tray in front of her. Also, as soon as he saw Ray, he understood the boy had helped with herbs.

Internally, he laughed, having forgotten that Ray was there. He had even forgotten that Raven could help if she had not reminded him.

That showed the depth of his worry when he found that his mate and Luna had fainted.

Everyone excused themselves as soon as Alpha Denzel approached the bed, and it was just the two of them in the room, left to themselves.

"We shall be outside in case you need us," Ray said, being the first to excuse himself. Denzel took the bowl of soup from Valerie and sat beside her.

"Let me help you." He scooped the soup into the spoon and fed it to her gently, but somehow, Valerie felt ashamed to hold his gaze when she accepted the soup.

She missed him so much but could not help the level of shame creeping into her chest. "I caused you embarrassment."

A frown creased Denzel's face, revealing the depth of confusion flooding through his mind. "What are you talking about?" He asked seriously. Valerie forced a smile and said,

"Fainting during training."

She already knew that Denzel knew about it, and due to the level of faith he had in her, it worried her that she let him down.

Alpha Denzel shook his head and gazed at her with admiration. "You are the strongest she-wolf I know. I never expected you to go for training."

The fact that he had no idea what she-wolves went through during pregnancy increased his respect for them.

No matter how he tries or wishes, he would never be able to carry pregnancy, so the best he could do was to be there for the carrier, taking very good care of her.

"Do you think the warriors would laugh at me?" Valerie suddenly asked after swallowing another scoop of soup Alpha Denzel fed her.

It felt good that they were left alone once more, and she was happy for his presence.

"They wouldn't dare. Besides, they love you too much for that," Alpha Denzel pointed out. Valerie agreed.

The pack members loved her, just as much as she loved them. "You are right, but just so you know, I'm back to being human again."

It would be a lie for her to say that she did not miss her wolf and her powers, but she was also glad to be carrying the pack's pup.

"We've been through that before," Alpha Denzel reminded her, excited about the fact that they would soon be parents, but Valerie stated.

"I'm weaker than before."

Alpha Denzel smiled and kissed her on the forehead. The bowl was empty, so he carried the tray, playing with the empty bowl on top of the nightstand.

"That's because you are carrying an extraordinary pup. He's feeding on every part of your body to gain strength."

His voice was so soft, touching the depth of her heart. "How do you know it's a he?" She asked curiously, since she had also wished for the same.

Exhaling, Alpha Denzel stroked her hair as he spoke. "Because of what I have in store for him. I can't do that to a female pup."

He remembered the training his father gave him when he was young, and for a moment, he thought the man hated him. Not until he began to face his peers in a fight that he realized that his father did him a lot of good.

"Denzel, it's not easy," Valerie yawned, wishing for another round of sleep as Denzel encouraged her.

"I know, and that is why I'm here."

"But Denzel, Ray..." Valerie was saying, but Denzel interrupted her, guessing what she wanted to say, and his words marveled Valerie.

Chapter 412 - Planning Ahead

Chapter 412: Chapter 412 - Planning Ahead

"Yeah, he's learned so well. The moon goddess is wise," Denzel said. Valerie was surprised that he was no longer upset with the moon goddess.

"She did not take Raven and just leave us empty," Alpha Denzel explained. Valerie recalled something and asked,

"That reminds me. How did it go with Ludwig?" Another yawn escaped her, but she was still eager to hear it.

"Better than I thought. He was like a completely different person," Alpha Denzel said honestly. Luna Valerie smiled.

"I'm happy to hear that, but can you let me sleep?" She turned away from Denzel, hugging her pillow tightly.

Denzel laid beside her, wrapping his arms around her waist. "Your body needs it to form the baby." He kissed her on the forehead before watching her sleep.

Alpha Denzel knew that a lot had to be put into perspective for the successful delivery of their pup, so he went to meet all the pack members.

"You all know that our Luna is pregnant, and I don't want a situation where she would be forced to face any war. So, from now onwards, all external affairs concerning the pack would be handled by Burke," Alpha Denzel announced. They did not seem surprised since Burke had already begun doing so.

"Gandolf and Dorothy, much would be added to your responsibility as well. Ray and Raven, you should see me in my office after this meeting," Alpha Denzel said seriously before addressing all the pack members again.

"You all know what happened at the Litha Moon Pack. Those underground rogues might come again at any point in time, so everyone should be well prepared. What I want is for you to be smart and sensitive. Should you see or notice anything strange, you should quickly mindlink me."

The pack members nodded their heads after discussing briefly among themselves to understand that they all understood the instruction. freewebnovel.com

"Alpha, have you been able to figure out a way of defeating these underground rogues without powers?" a warrior asked, seeming afraid.

Alpha Denzel felt helpless at the moment, knowing that even if Ashley had her wolf, her powers would not work because they fed their strength from Valerie.

"I'm still researching it, which is why I need to have this meeting with Ray and Raven. Alice, join them, and if anyone senses having a strange power, come directly to me."

The pack members nodded their heads, and Alpha Denzel wished that somebody would step out with positive news of having some special powers, but he was dismayed that there was nothing like that.

After hearing about what happened at the Litha Moon Pack, the Evergreen pack members have been afraid, recalling that the next underground rogue attack would be at the Evergreen pack.

However, their fears did not last long, knowing their Alpha would come out with a solution to keep them safe.

In Alpha Denzel's office, the three people sat in front of him as he began to question them. "Ray and Raven, we shall need strong herbs to make our warriors repulsive to the underground werewolves."

The twins' brows raised, as they never thought about an herb like that but were determined to find it when Alpha Denzel added, "There should also be herbs to help with injuries in case some warriors get injured. They shall be needed as soon as they fall."

The twins took note of that as well. Raven answered, "We shall get to it right now but will need to go with some warriors into the forests out of the packs to get some of them."

They already made out the uses of all the herbs discovered in the pack but figured they would not be enough.

It was time to get some more of it. "You don't have a problem with that. You can go with as many warriors as you want."

Then he focused his attention on Alice. "Alice, our Luna would not have her powers throughout her pregnancy, so we have to go back to finding how you can use your powers without getting injured."

Alice was saddened but nodded her head. It was far easier when Luna Valerie was there on that day to soothe her injuries with her powers.

"I will start working on it, Alpha," Alice said with determination. After the meeting ended, Alpha Denzel had another one with his fellow pack leaders.

"Since the pack warriors would take instructions from us when there is a war or anything, I want you to understand how the underground werewolves operate. If you heard that they eat our kind, it's not a lie."

Alpha Denzel did not want to scare them but rather to make them understand what they are fighting against.

"It happened right in front of me, and there just isn't one of them but quite a lot."

"Alpha, how do we defeat them then?" Burke asked, slightly afraid, upon hearing that their Luna lost her powers.

It meant that should this attack happen at a time like this when their Luna would not be able to help, then things were going to be unpredictable.

"That is what I am coming to. I already tasked Raven and Ray with finding us herbs that would make us repulsive to them. The good thing is, these underground rogues are really slow.

"One, we can get something slimy to delay them further or to even make them fall, which would give us an advantage over them. Imagine we become repulsive to them, and they also end up on the floor."

The leaders were smiling at the plan but not surprised. Alpha Denzel has always been smart, coming out with unimaginable solutions.

Alpha Denzel explained further. "What you would have to do is to help me guide the warriors on what to do at every point in time. I'm thinking of more ways, but this is it for now. I have to check on our Luna," he said, glancing at his watch.

Alpha Denzel did not want Valerie to wake up feeling hungry but also remembered something very vital he should have done before calling for the meeting, instantly getting to it.

Luna Valerie did not wake up until the next day but never felt the same gain.

Chapter 413 – Is the pack’s pup trivial to you?

Chapter 413: Chapter 413 – Is the pack’s pup trivial to you?

Luna Valerie realized that the room she woke up in was not the pack house but the cottage, as she could tell from its texture. "Denzel," she called out, but there was no response.

The room was dark, so she reached out to the switch. After turning on the light, she noticed that Denzel had changed the curtains to thicker ones to block the sunlight and ensure she had a better sleep.

Pushing the curtains apart, she squinted at the harsh sun rays, indicating it was midmorning or afternoon.

Valerie found a note on the nightstand with a casserole that read, 'Went for training but made you breakfast. Please eat up, and I will be back soon. Love, Denzel.'

Valerie was delighted as her stomach grumbled, feeling weak from not having eaten after sleeping for so long.

Not only had she lost her wolf and powers, but she also felt weaker than a human due to the life she carried inside her belly. freewebnovel.com

For a human to nurture a werewolf in her womb was not an easy task but that was exactly what Valerie was going through and Alpha Denzel seemed to be the only one who understood her completely.

She quickly opened the casserole and was met with the tantalizing aroma of seafood vegetable soup.

Unfortunately, the aroma did not sit well with her pregnancy hormones, causing her stomach to churn. She closed the casserole quickly and rushed to the toilet, emptying the contents of her stomach.

After finishing, she felt even weaker, realizing Denzel was gone for training, and she would have to make breakfast herself.

Despite the situation, she found solace in the fact that everything her body was going through was out of love for her unborn pup, Denzel, and the pack.

Gratefully, the scent of different flowers comforted her, as she was relieved not to have a negative reaction to them.

Valerie loved the cottage and was glad that her pregnancy hormones did not hinder her from enjoying its beauty.

As she opened the door, she was greeted by another aroma and could hear movements in the kitchen. Her heart warmed when she saw Denzel making her some chicken vegetable soup.

"Up already?" Denzel asked without turning around, and Valerie rolled her eyes, amused by his comment.

"Did you just return from training?" she asked, noticing he was still in his training clothes. Denzel turned around to face her.

He had not seen her earlier but only felt her presence. Her question made him realize there was still a strong connection, even with her wolf temporarily gone.

"Yeah, I returned to see you sleeping and did not want to wake you. Did you like your breakfast?" he asked with concern, wiping his wet hands with a napkin and walking towards her.

After a brief kiss, he lifted her and sat her on the kitchen worktop. Valerie felt guilty for not being able to eat what he had prepared for breakfast after all the effort he had put in.

"I..."

"Wait, you don't like it, right?" Denzel already sensed it. He did not look offended, but Valerie still felt remorseful.

However, she was surprised when he picked up a small diary. It was new, and she wondered what was in it.

"I called a human doctor for a few tips, which I discussed with our pack doctors. They confirmed it would be good for you to take some vitamins as the human doctor suggested," Denzel revealed. Valerie was touched by his thoughtfulness.

"Also, if any food makes you nauseous, do let me know. The human doctor said that could happen a lot in the early stages or throughout the entire process."

Valerie's heart warmed at Denzel's words, and she honestly responded, "True. I could not consume the seafood because it made me queasy." It was easier to say now because of the information he provided.

He made her feel that she was not alone in her pregnancy journey, and they were in it together.

Denzel crossed out seafood on his list in the diary and said,

"Thanks for telling me. I will research more on healthy food without seafood. There might be other things you might not like, so I will keep trying different varieties until we find what you like best."

Valerie worried that Denzel was giving her too much attention and might neglect his pack duties because of her.

Concerned, she suggested, "Denzel, there is so much to do in the pack. You shouldn't be spending time on trivial things like this."

However, her choice of words accidentally upset Denzel, and he did not take it lightly.

"Trivial? Is the pack's pup trivial to you?" Denzel's stern voice made her shiver slightly.

Alpha Denzel was usually kind and gentle with her, but his other side was always intimidating, no matter how accustomed she was to his softer side, though she saw less and less of his hard and cold side.

Quickly, she apologized. "Sorry, I just feel that the pack needs you more."

Alpha Denzel pressed himself between her thighs, cupping her face with his hands.

"You are my pregnant mate, so you need me more than the pack at this moment. Now try this, and let's see how it makes you feel."

His mood shifted back to warmth, and Valerie did not refuse the offer. She ate from the spoon he held out to her, smiling dreamily.

"I love this, but make it a little spicy," she said. Denzel smiled and added more spice to the soup for her.

After finishing her meal, they showered together, and Denzel took her for a walk inside and around the garden.

"Do you want any more changes made? How are you feeling? The human doctor said to listen to your body more," Denzel advised her.

Valerie felt he was doing everything right, but there was still something crucial missing, making her wonder if he still felt the same way about her.

After some thought, she decided to ask him about it.

Chapter 414 – You don't feel attracted to me anymore

Chapter 414: Chapter 414 – You don't feel attracted to me anymore

Valerie cleared her throat and spoke shyly, ensuring that her gaze was anywhere else but Denzel's.

"Denzel, do you still feel attracted to me? After being pregnant, I realized that your attitude towards me has changed," she revealed.

He no longer touched and teased her sexually like before, making her disturbed. If this was happening during the early stages of her pregnancy, then she had no choice but to wonder how it would be during the latter stages of her pregnancy.

Denzel halted in his tracks, then turned her to face him. When she tried to lower her gaze, he lifted it with his finger, his gaze boring into hers.

Somehow, he had already prepared himself to not take some of her words during her pregnancy seriously, but this seemed to disturb him greatly.

However, his unreadable expression made it difficult for her to comprehend if he understood what she meant, but gladly, he did.

"If you are talking about sex, then you are right," he said honestly, and Valerie's gaze became teary. So it was true. He no longer felt attracted to her.

Valerie was already hitting his hard chest until he safely caged her two hands into one of his.

With her movement restricted, she began to divulge everything in her heart.

"I'm just a month pregnant. My bump has not even shown, and yet, you don't feel attracted to me anymore. Is it because I'm no longer active?" She asked in a teary voice, and Denzel was beginning to have a headache.

He was constantly afraid because of her lack of strength these few days, but these negative thoughts already filled her mind.

"Val, you got it all wrong to think that I don't feel attracted to you. I rather respect the fact that your body is undergoing a lot of changes, and the least I could do is give you support and not be selfish."

Valerie froze when she heard his reason and quickly wiped her tears. So it wasn't because of her but rather, his respect for her.

Still, she saw a problem with his decision. "But you took that decision without my consent," she revealed, and Denzel forced a smile and tried to comfort her.

"What exactly do you want, Val? You know that I will do anything for you," he said honestly, and Valerie pouted, and he laughed.

"Denz, I want to feel sexually needed," she said honestly, and Denzel laughed, but before she knew it, she was lifted in his arms as he turned around and began walking back to the cottage.

She panicked at the lust oozing from his eyes, pointing out. "I thought we were going for a walk?" Valerie tried to wiggle out of his arms, but his grip around her only firmed.

"I changed my mind." Since she did not want him controlling herself around her, he was going to show her exactly how much he wanted her in every area of both their lives.

"Now you are scaring me." Valerie's heart rate picked up speed, but Denzel was far from showing her mercy.

"Well, I subdued all my desires just so you could rest, but since you don't want that, then I guess I just have to give in." He placed her gently on the bed and began to undress himself. Valerie panicked, feeling he was doing it because he was upset.

"Are you sure that you were feeling attracted to me?" She asked seriously, and Denzel smirked and replied seductively.

"I just have to show you. After all, the worst that can happen would be for you to sleep for days." His lips pressed against hers, earning a loud moan from her, and he began to undress her.

With their bodies joined together, her feverish skin was even hotter, earning a groan from Denzel.

"Your body feels so warm, and I don't want to separate from you, at least not tonight." He covered her pink nipple with his lips, and Valerie whimpered from the desire that seemed to have tripled because of her hormones. This was the quickest release she ever had in her life.

"Denz, I want you inside me," she whispered against his ears, wrapping her arms around his hard, naked body.

Denzel thrust into her without warning, and she squirmed. "Ah, harder," she requested, since he was holding back like she was something fragile.

Denzel stared into her eyes. "Don't try to prove too tough. It would hurt me for something to happen to you after this, especially the pup."

He was holding back with his thrust, afraid of causing havoc, but Valerie insisted. "Trust me, this is what my body needs. Please, Denz, don't hold back."

Denzel bit his lower lip thoughtfully, but the next moment, his lips swallowed hers as he began to slam into her. She kept moaning into his mouth as he kept unleashing himself into her.

Funny enough, she was enjoying it and looking rather excited, flipping him around and climbing on top of him.

Denzel was amazed by her level of strength. He was not considering her as his Luna with an Alpha wolf at the moment, but rather, his human mate with a pup.

However, the more she rode him wildly, the more energetic she became. When releasing, she could press herself tightly against him and cry from her excitement, but right after, she would begin riding him again as if her life depended on it.

Seeing this, Denzel flipped her around, taking her from the back on all fours and not holding back. His thrusts were hard, his penetrations deep, that when she rode him.

"Denz, I'm tired, you have to release," she began to pant and plead, and Denzel's hand snaked around to the front as he squeezed her nipple.

A cry of pleasure escaped her as he buried his face in the crook of her neck, sucking deeply and ensuring to leave a hickey. His other hand held her slender waist in place as he continued to slam into her.

Valerie broke down as tears flooded her eyes when another wave of release flooded her, blended with Denzel's groans as he also released finally.

They dropped to the bed, kissing briefly before sleep stole them, but this time, Alpha Denzel was the last to wake up and could not believe his eyes when he saw Valerie.

Chapter 415 - Wonderful News

Chapter 415: Chapter 415 - Wonderful News

"Val, you're up already?" Denzel squinted his eyes to make sure he was seeing correctly. Valerie had a smile on her face, feeling more energetic than she had in the last few days.

Who knew that her mate getting intimate with her would help to nourish her demanding pup?

Denzel's gaze left her confused. She couldn't understand why he was so surprised by her increased energy.

Or was it because she was already dressed in her training pants? That must be it.

"Are you surprised? It's just too early to go for training, so I decided to read a book. As soon as it's time, I will go with you to training," Valerie removed her gaze from the book as she spoke but kept in mind the paragraph she was reading before.

"But why the sudden change? You seemed so weak before," Denzel said thoughtfully, rising to a sitting position. He was still naked, and somehow, Valerie was already in need of him.

She blushed through smiles. "I don't know. Perhaps my mate was needed to keep our pup strengthened, or it might be a male pup who wants to be just like his dad."

Alpha Denzel was glad to be of help, but if this was what it took for their pup to grow stronger than him, then he was more than willing to satisfy his erotic desires until it wasn't needed anymore.

He walked around her, but reaching where she sat reading a book, he bent over and lifted her in his arms. The book dropped onto the chair she sat on before.

"If that's the case, why don't we do it again?" Alpha Denzel said, his lips meeting hers to prevent her from objecting.

Valerie wasn't even in the mood this time around until their bodies collided. Their moans and excitement were all they needed before they allowed sleep to take over, waking up at the exact time training was supposed to begin.

Though energized, Alpha Denzel kept a constant watch over Valerie, ensuring that there were no surprises when they arrived at the training room.

There, everyone was happy to see that the Luna was fine and even led the training all by herself.

Denzel couldn't believe that her wolf had left her temporarily from the level of energy she used to lead the team.

When training was over, Raven hastened to Valerie's side.

"Luna, I was about to bring you some special herbs to nourish our pup," she said. Valerie smiled and stroked her hair. "It's not too late."

She trusted Raven's herbs more than any other vitamins to be provided to her. "Then I will bring them to the cottage," she said with a smile.

For as long as Luna Valerie agreed, she was going to deliver the herbs every morning to make sure that she was well nourished throughout the pregnancy.

"Luna, I'm so glad you are fine," Alice said, but Ray was only smiling in a corner. When Valerie saw him, she called him over.

"Ray, thanks for the last time." Valerie hadn't forgotten that Ray was the one she woke up to see when she was blinded by the intense darkness.

Ray smiled and responded. "It's my responsibility, Luna, you don't have to thank me."

With their Luna around, training was very interesting that day, and with everyone's support, Valerie's pregnancy was a smooth one until four months later when pleasant news reached her ears.

"Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie, my Luna, Adira, has borne the pack a cute son, Brunco." Alpha Troy sounded like the proudest Alpha in North America. No one could blame him, as anyone would have behaved that way upon hearing such wonderful news.

The news was like a pad of joy for Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie, who were listening to the excited Alpha on the phone speaker.

"This is wonderful news," Alpha Denzel replied before something else came to mind, making him ask.

"Are you planning to announce him anytime soon?"

Luna Adira was resting from her post-labor pains, so Alpha Troy was the one sending all the information.

"No, Alpha Denzel. Adira and I have agreed to break tradition to keep his identity hidden for a while," Alpha Troy replied. Alpha Denzel was glad that he had grown wise.

A lot of Alphas who announced their pack's heirs tended to have greater battles to fight in the future, with their enemies targeting the heirs during attacks.

Many heirs have been lost due to all these. "Whatever you think is best is indeed the best for the child," Alpha Denzel responded calmly. Alpha Troy was grateful that Alpha Denzel understood his reasons without asking many questions or trying to convince him to change his decision. freewebnovel.com

"Thank you, and we wish Luna Valerie all the best in her remaining moons," Alpha Troy said honestly, about to end the call when Valerie spoke up.

"Don't hang up yet. Can you put Adira briefly on the line?" She asked. There was a short pause before Alpha Troy responded.

"Let me try. Oh, she's even awake. Here, Luna Valerie is on the line," they heard him say from the end of the line.

Adira was excited, much to Valerie's surprise, as the latter seemed to have just woken up from bed. Well, it could also be because of the new addition to their pack, so Valerie asked seriously.

"Adira, how was it? Some said it's painful, but I want to know from your experience." She sounded nervous, making Adira want to laugh.

Valerie seemed a little different from her pregnancy stage than when she wasn't pregnant.

"Val, it's better that you only think about it when it's that time for you. As for now, please focus on taking very good care of your pup," Adira advised. Valerie understood.

"It only means that it's not easy, but I do understand it fully." Another thing she feared was the labor pains, but her friend had just gotten through it.

Valerie was slightly nervous, being in her fifth month, but when she entered her sixth month and received a call from her mother, it wasn't hard to deduce exactly what had happened.

Chapter 416 – I Gave Birth to Twins

Chapter 416: Chapter 416 – I Gave Birth to Twins

The packs had been peaceful ever since the underground rogue attack, so Valerie was not expecting any negative news.

"Val, Ashley gave birth in the shower," her mother said excitedly. Ashley's labor and delivery were among the fastest anyone ever witnessed, and her mother continued to speak with the same height of excitement.

"Val, I wish you were strong enough to come to this pack. Ashley has a son, Cairo. Your father already spoke with Denzel, and he refused to allow you to travel," Luna Alma said with remorse.

She was there and was capable of taking care of her pregnant daughter, but as far as Denzel was concerned, pregnant women were fragile, and he was not going to endanger Valerie through any means.

The pack was the safest and should be left so.

"I'm so happy to hear that, Mom. Can you let Ashley send me pictures or videos?" She wanted to ask Ashley about the labor but feared getting the same answers as she did with Adira.

"I will do that later because she's sleeping now, so please allow her a few days."

"No problem, Mom," Valerie said with joy. She could not travel now, but as soon as the baby was born, she was sure to travel as much as she wanted to visit all these wonderful babies.

"How about you?" Her mother asked worriedly, but her response put the elderly woman at peace.

"Very energetic. It's my second trimester, so everything is just as it should be," Valerie responded honestly, and the old woman chimed.

"Great, I will find time to come see you."

Though she visited the pack when she heard about Valerie's pregnancy, she still felt like she had not done enough for the family.

"Ashley needs you more at this moment, so it's fine. Myself, I'm also doing good," Valerie replied, wiping her worries away.

Valerie was strangely happy but could not discern why. It was not just because Ashley delivered her pup safely but something she could not put a finger on.

The air was cleared a month later when her joy was made complete. Well, the reason for that strange joy a month ago was made evident.

"Val, I gave birth to twins," Alessia announced excitedly. Valerie could picture her jumping up and down, wondering where she got all this energy when she delivered twins.

"A boy and a girl. Can you believe that?" Alessia could not stop expressing her excitement, just as Valerie gave her the patience of a tiger, even as Alessia continued to speak. freewebnovel.com

"These humans do scans to see what is in the womb but were not able to catch my twins. Val, I'm not exaggerating, but the boy looks like Denzel and the girl like Godic. I feel like I suffered for nothing. Their names are Genna and Grant," Alessia expressed with a heartbreaking sigh.

Valerie did not believe it until Denzel showed her a picture of the babies which Godic sent to Denzel. Speechless, Denzel spoke up as he waited for Valerie to recover from the shock.

Alessia was not exaggerating because the babies were exactly as she described them.

"They have to be introduced to the pack," Denzel interrupted, Alessia paused for a while before responding.

"Well, Godic and I want them to have more human experience until their teenage years. Don't worry. We shall train them well."

Valerie was suddenly feeling nostalgic, saying, "Alessia, I feel like I'm losing you."

Alessia chuckled and quickly responded. "No, you aren't, but it's difficult for me to switch back to the human world after leaving the pack, so I thought to leave it so."

The understanding finally settled in as neither Denzel nor Valerie thought about something like that happening to them. "My nephews would miss out on the pack," Denzel said, but Alessia explained it even more.

"Well, you have to also remember that it's very hard for children to keep secrets. They would be too young to understand that our world must be kept secret and go about telling their peers about our pack and whatnot."

As Denzel went into deep thought, Valerie had recovered from her shock from earlier, exclaiming.

"Wow. Our brains are functioning differently because I never thought about it that way."

"We just understand the human world better because we have lived here longer," Godic said from the end of the line, Denzel and Valerie no longer had anything to discourage them.

After ending the call, Valerie asked Denzel. "Do you agree for it to be so for them?"

Denzel thought for a while before a sigh escaped him. "What else can I do? Right now, we have an heir so there is no need to worry."

The understanding was made clear to Valerie, as she asked, "If we didn't have an heir?"

"Then they would be forced to return," Denzel shrugged. It was good that the moon goddess gave them a backup and just as Alessia said, Grant looked so much like Denzel.

"You are so heartless," Valerie punched him on the shoulder, Denzel shrugged, not too disturbed.

"When it comes to pack matters, there is no better way."

"Sure, I get it perfectly," Valerie finally agreed with him.

As the days passed, they soon landed on a few days to Alice's birthday. Valerie was in her ninth month, but since their pups took ten months in the womb in contrast to the nine months humans used, she still had one month to go.

Her energy level was not top-notch, but she was still more active than those of her kind.

Valerie developed a love for the sun, and her bump had become huge, being her ninth month.

Every day, she prayed earnestly to the moon goddess to let her deliver before any war, especially when she began to lose her energy in her third trimester, and preparations ongoing for Alice's birthday celebration.

Her appetite had increased, and so was her bump. Denzel never went a day without getting intimate with her, but this time, the weight on her belly caused her to be a little slower than she was before, with fatigue slowly slurping in.

It was close to her delivery date, and yet, she was having another blissful moment in bed with her mate when the dreadful war sirens were let out, causing Valerie's heart to fall into her stomach.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 417 - You can't stop me, Denzel

Chapter 417: Chapter 417 - You can't stop me, Denzel

Valerie was on top, lost in bliss, as she always did ever since reaching her third trimester due to her now large bump. But just as she was close to her release, the war sirens interrupted the moment.

"Fuck," she cursed, blatantly annoyed but greatly disturbed for her pack. All the erotic desires gushing through her and Denzel instantly died.

The fact that the warriors at the gate did not send a mindlink meant there was a bigger problem, and everybody needed to be warned at once, which they did not have the power to do.

Denzel knew it but was still very gentle in his movements towards Valerie, carrying her off him gently to the side of the bed. He began to put on a shirt, picked up her panty for her as he spoke and quickly helped her to wear them.

This stage made it difficult for her to bend, so he needed to do that for her even if there was a war knocking on their door.

"I will carry you to the safe house as fast as..." A mind link finally dropped before he completed the sentence, and his eyes rolled to the back.

'Alpha, it's the underground rogues.'

The mindlink was from Burke, and Alpha Denzel could feel the fear in his voice.

Losing her wolf, Valerie could not sync at this moment with Alpha Denzel, but his paling expression was enough to let her know that things were terrible, and she began to hasten in putting on her clothes.

The only thing that would earn that kind of reaction from Denzel was the underground rogues.

"I'm fighting with you," she said seriously, interrupting the mindlink. Alpha Denzel ended the mindlink without responding, as he glared at her.

In moments like this, he could not allow for any form of negotiation, his only concern being her safety.

His wolf took over due to the statement she made as he growled, "don't even dare to disobey me this time."

Well, that could not scare Valerie when there was a war. Valerie was too willful to be discouraged and could not be afraid of him. Not at a time like this.

"You can't stop me, Denzel, this is my pack too," she said sternly. Denzel thought about another way. This was Valerie he was dealing with, and force would not work on her.

She was also his mate and Luna, but the most important part being that she was heavily pregnant.

He mellowed at her words and spoke softly, trying to negotiate the terms with her, to make her see and have a good reasoning about everything.

"I know, but you are carrying the pack's pup, and this is the underground rogues we are talking about. You can't shift, remember?"

Valerie froze slightly, as she had forgotten that she could not shift and yet, she could not just sit there and do nothing.

"That does not mean I'm going to cower in fear. I stand with my pack." The determination lacing her voice oozed out of her, making Denzel afraid.

He was suddenly scared of losing her and his pup due to her delicate condition, but since he could not discourage her, he thought of another way.

"Alright. Come with me, but let me get Alice."

The two hastened out of the cottage, seeing that the warriors were already putting into action all they put in place in preparation towards the fighting of these creatures.

The slimy substances prepared were being spread on the floor. Alpha Denzel was impressed when they drew closer, but Luna Valerie began to puke due to the repulsive herb the warriors emitted.

It was not easy for the warriors to drink and cover themselves with the substance Raven and Ray prepared, but being for their protection, they accepted it.

Alpha Denzel had his portion in a plastic container, but due to how the content repulsed Valerie, he could not use it in front of her.

"Val, please, it's better you go to the safe house. Let me take you there," he said after Valerie finished emptying the content of her stomach. She reluctantly agreed.

If she continued standing there, she was sure to be weak from emptying everything in her stomach. She finally agreed after trying different means but not able to stand close to any of the warriors.

The grounds were also slimy, which she knew were all mechanisms of slowing down the underground rogues but was quite easy for the warriors to maneuver because of the boots they wore.

"Take me to the rooftop of the pack house," Valerie decided. From there, she could watch everything happening even if she could not join the war.

Alpha Denzel thought for a while. From there, he would also be able to see Valerie, so he agreed.

Lifting her bridal style in his arms, he dashed to the packhouse, climbed the stairs, and reached the rooftop.

His speed was as if he was in his wolf form but had not even shifted. After a peck on the cheek, he left her with two warriors who stayed at a distance because of the repulsive slime Valerie could not endure.

Dorothy and Alice already led the children, the elderly, and the weak to the safe house before returning to the battlefield for further instructions.

This was nothing they ever saw but had heard about because it happened at the Litha moon pack before.

The movements of the underground rogues were very slow, and the moment they took a step, they slipped and fell, but the warriors were in for a shock.

'Alpha, they are very fast with crawling,' Burke informed through mindlink. Alpha Denzel's gaze darkened dangerously.

He meant to slow them down and not to speed them up. Mind linking his warriors, he gave another instruction.

'Shift and follow my lead.'

They had no idea what Alpha Denzel had in mind but did as told. Alpha Denzel was thinking about the next move when a mindlink flew into his mind from Burke.

'Alpha, what do we do next?'

Fear had erased their ability to think straight.

Chapter 418 – Alpha, She's Going to Die

Chapter 418: Chapter 418 – Alpha, She's Going to Die

Alpha Denzel's first plan failed, but he was not going to give up. This was the first time something like that had happened, but they still had time because the underground rogues seemed to find it hard to find a way around the warriors.

They could not eat them, which meant they were hungry, and the safety of the warriors meant Alpha Denzel had a little time to think before the rogues decided to kill the warriors they could not eat.

'It's time to use your claws.' Denzel had already shifted before giving the instruction, so he went ahead to demonstrate as he continued to communicate with them through the mindlink.

'Target their eyes and blind them.'

The pack of shifted werewolves roared and ran towards their enemies from their Alpha's lead, but falling on their backs, the underground wolves seemed prepared for defense this time, making it difficult for the warriors to get their eyes.

As soon as they felt the weight on their backs, the slime made it easy for them to turn and throw the warriors off them.

This seemed like a mission impossible for many of them, and only a few like Alpha Denzel himself met the target, but these rogues were defending themselves better than the last time.

After what those two women did, they also prepared more and came back stronger. The styles of flipping to their backs and throwing off the werewolves riding them were in sync.

Some of the falls were disastrous, but they were glad to not have been eaten, which was a result of the repulsive herb they drank and smeared on their bodies.

The underground rogues were getting upset, as if whatever made the Ever pack warriors repulsive to them was also causing their stomachs to churn.

Ray and Raven were leading the team of emergency services to apply the herbs for quick recovery, and the fallen warriors were quickly getting back on their feet.

Alpha Denzel was glad to see this but still wanted means of getting rid of the underground rogues.

Those monsters showed no signs of leaving any time soon. Those he blinded were rolling around in the darkness, blocking the path for warriors, and they needed weapons to kill them completely.

Alpha Denzel could only use a weapon in human form, but due to the size of the rogues, it would be a bad idea to fight in human form, as they had to make themselves smaller than they already were in the sight of these giants.

As the leader he was, fast thinking was one of the things to get a war going. 'Change of plans,' he mindlinked the warriors who were ready for another instruction.

It came faster than they expected but was also the first time Alpha Denzel gave such an order during a war. 'Retreat, everybody,' Alpha Denzel mindlinked, and he waited until the warriors were in safety.

In normal times, they would fight to the death, but this time, he seemed to be protecting the lives of his warriors rather than his eagerness to end the rogues.

His heart sunk when he witnessed one of the warriors stubbornly fighting one of the rogues and ended up being swallowed but was soon vomited out.

It was either the mindlink had broken off and he did not hear the instruction, or he was in a position that made it impossible for him to leave so fast.

Luckily, he fell right beside Raven and received a healing herb stuffed into his mouth. "Try sipping the juices if you can hear me," Raven screamed in his ears, and as soon as he obeyed, he was brought back to a state of consciousness.

The underground rogues had already crossed the slimy traps and were getting back to their feet, so Alpha Denzel settled on using his last resort before it was too late.

He could not endanger the lives of more warriors when there was a way around it. He mindlinked Alice, who had been on guard and itching the whole time to try using her powers.

'Alice, use your powers.'

A relief sigh escaped her when she began to use her powers. Everyone watched in amazement when fire from nowhere began to burn the rogues, their painful growls gave the pack warriors joy as they tried to run back to their underworld.

However, due to the slimy traps, they stumbled, falling over each other, as the fire mercilessly burned them.

Alpha Denzel was thinking of the next move because the rogues were taking too long to die.

If they were able to escape alive, then there would be the probability of them returning again, especially when they have not been able to feed.

The moment he turned to see for how long Alice could hold on, Burke was already screaming.

"Alpha, she's going to die."

Alpha Denzel jumped and pinned Alice on the ground, trying to stop her from losing her powers any longer, but as usual, she was already in a trance.

Her whole body was so hot and red, he could feel himself burning from it.

"Alice please, you have to stop," he roared, but the petite woman on the floor could not hear anything.

Everyone was now worried as the attention was taken away from the rogues to Alice.

"Raven, can you quench her heat?" Alpha Denzel asked worriedly, but for the first time, Raven did not have a solution and was feeling helpless and pathetic.

"I don't have a herb for it right now. It will take time, and we might lose her."

Alpha Denzel could not give up on Alice. If he decided to use her, then he had a plan on how to save her in case things went south.

"Burke, you have to do something," Alpha Denzel said, a tear dropped from Burke's eyes when Alpha Denzel got off Alice but carried her from the floor.

Burke was his mate, and though it was still remaining with a few days for Alice to get her wolf and know this, Alpha Denzel could only depend on the mate bond, hoping that Burke would be able to do something.

Burke was afraid and saddened when he said, "Alpha, I can only knock her out, but that would mean her powers would no longer work."

He stared at the rogues whose growls were shaking the pack.

"Do it," Alpha Denzel instructed.

Raven's life was more important than winning this battle. Then he remembered Valerie and looked up, but she wasn't there.

Burke was about to knock out Alice, but someone held his hand firmly, and when Alpha Denzel saw it, his heart sank into his stomach.

Chapter 419 – Val, what did you do?

Chapter 419: Chapter 419 – Val, what did you do?

Valerie was disturbed the more she kept watching everything keenly from the rooftop. Her pup was continuously kicking so hard, as if he wanted to come out of the womb to complete the fight.

Valerie had previously enjoyed hard kicks, especially in the dead of the night and sometimes awoke Denzel to feel them too.

Their pup would mostly calm down the moment Denzel rested her hand on it, but this time, there was nothing to calm him.

Her endurance from the kicks, and her emotions from the ongoing war, made her afraid that she might go into labor at any point in time.

The underground rogues seemed undefeatable, and she could not watch her people die, especially when she saw what was happening to Alice.

"You all should go," she instructed the warriors Denzel left her with, but they were reluctant, confusion registered on their faces, but she roared further.

"Alpha says..." One of them was saying when Valerie thundered impatiently.
"Now." freewebnovel.com

The warriors wanted to mindlink Alpha Denzel but thought of rather hiding away to see what she wanted to do.

Thinking they had left, Valerie knelt on the ground with her hand lifted in the air, her large bump in front of her.

Her voice was a loud demanding cry but not loud enough to shadow the noise from the warriors and underground rogues.

"Oh, Moon goddess, I want to heed to your warning but as much as I try, I can't watch my people die. At this moment forth, I want you to take my pup and give me back my powers," she vowed, the warriors cried from where they were hiding.

No matter what, they trusted that their Alpha will find a way to get them out of the sticky situation, but now, the pack's pup had been sacrificed for the welfare of the warriors, bringing in a new fear before they even got over that of the war.

Valerie felt soulless when she felt a strong wind blow, but the next moment, the sound of raindrops was heard, and Valerie rushed down the packhouse before running towards Alice with the warriors coming out of their hiding and running after her.

The sound of footsteps closing in on her did nothing to stop the Luna of the Evergreen pack from running with her large bump.

The pup kicks made it worse, but she just would not slow down or stop. Before Burke could knock out Alice, she held his hand firmly. "I will handle it."

Burke could not be happy or sad. Alice might be saved, but what about the underground rogues?

They just could not eat the warriors, but it did not mean that they could not kill or injure them.

Three warriors were already dead, and Alpha Denzel was fighting some of the rogues on his own, so Burke complied.

Seeing Valerie, Alpha Denzel's heart sank when the sound of raindrops filled the pack. The burning stopped briefly, so the rogues finally saw Valerie, and the leader pointed at her. "You!"

They did not understand the underground rogues' language like Luna Fernanda did, but this was their guess, which they felt to be it.

The underground rogue leader had fear in his eyes but was aiming for her when Denzel's wolf, Brutus jumped, his claw grasping the branch of a tree before he landed on the neck of the rogue leader, his claw sunk into his eyes, as dirty blood dripped onto his face.

A terrible growl caused the other underground rogues to panic from fear, but amidst screams, the shook Alpha Denzel off violently, causing his back to hit a tree before he fell.

Well, the rogue leader could no longer see Luna Valerie, but with all that going on, Valerie was able to relieve Alice, and the latter awoke from her trance.

"Go on, I got you," Valerie encouraged her to use her powers again. Alice was confused because of her Luna's condition, but the certainty in Valerie's eyes was a great assurance.

This time, Alice used her powers without limit, the underground rogues toppled over each other, crawling themselves back underground to save themselves from death, except the few who died from the burn.

The heat was so intense, some of the trees were beginning to burn when Valerie instructed.

"Thanks, I can take it from here."

Alice stopped using her powers and stepped back as the pit the rogues came out from was being flooded with ice.

The fire was too dangerous, so if Alice continued to use it, she might end up burning down the pack.

Valerie was ensuring to send enough ice for the underground rogues to freeze to death, but they were equally working fast on the portal to seal it quickly to prevent any more of Valerie's powers having any effect on them.

Ice was a more subtle way to cause death, which would have zero effect on the pack and its members or leaders.

The temperature of the pack cooled down as well, and the entry of the underground rogues closed up. All that remained was the mess and the slime from the attack and defense against their enemies.

The pack roared with joyful sounds, forgetting the condition of the person who saved their lives, but the warriors assigned to Valerie could not jubilate with them, knowing what she had done.

Hearing no word from their Alpha, the warriors discerned something amiss, and they turned to his direction to see him running towards his Luna with fear in his eyes.

Alice was closest to Luna Valerie, and she almost fainted when she saw the blood between Valerie's thighs, as she tried to mask the pain.

She fell right into Alpha Denzel's arms, the moment he got close to her. With him, she did not have to force herself to be strong, but rather, the vulnerable pregnant woman she was at the moment, and a tear fell from his eyes when he partly guessed what was happening to his Luna.

"Val, what did you do?" He sobbed, remembering all the warnings they received, three times in total. "How did you get back your powers?" He asked worriedly, his gaze darting with fire towards the warriors he assigned to her.

"What exactly happened?"

Chapter 420: Chapter 420 – Yet another bargain for the life of his pup

The warriors shook, even as one of them forced himself to remain calm and responded.

"Alpha, she told us to leave her alone, and as the Luna, we could not refuse her orders. But we hid away and heard her saying to the moon goddess to take her pup to give her back her powers."

Fear sprang through him just at the sight of Alpha Denzel. His gaze was so piercing that the warrior wanted to disappear. freewebnovel.com

He knew he was going to be punished, but in a case like this, he felt like his life did not matter anymore as long as Alpha Denzel was able to find the right solution to this problem.

The excited mood of the pack members ceased instantly, and Alpha Denzel was lost for words. He knew how stubborn Valerie could be, and not even he could control or make her do anything she did not want.

No one initiated cleaning the pack or cremating the few corpses on the floor.

Valerie made the ultimate sacrifice for the safety of the pack, meaning they were going to lose their pup, or had they already lost him?

No one had the answer, but bleeding was a sure sign of a miscarriage.

Alpha Denzel lifted Luna Valerie in his arms and began to hasten to the pack hospital, hoping that it wasn't too late. His greatest fear was the sight of his pup dead in his arms when birthed.

A part of him told him that their pup might survive, but his wolf kept cursing him for allowing this to happen.

Denzel had blocked him out, but his harsh words still lingered in his mind. 'You made it easy for your enemies to have an edge over you.'

How did he make it easy when all he was doing was defending and saving his pack and its members?

"Alpha, are you taking her to the hospital? What if we try some herbs?" Raven asked, pulling him out of the confusion in his mind.

Alpha Denzel stopped in his tracks and stared at the pale, heavily pregnant woman in his arms. How could she feel so peaceful after what she had done?

Alpha Denzel had never felt so afraid and helpless in his life before, and he could not be upset with Valerie for taking such a decision.

For someone who took a vow to protect the pack with her life, it was the right thing to do, but the pup was equally a member of the pack, and they all had to be protected.

"Val, you should not have done this," Alpha Denzel said softly, about to answer Raven's question when Valerie responded weakly, her soft gaze meeting his, as she felt the life of her pup draining out of her.

The moon goddess granted her wish, so it was time to do her part as well by letting go of their pup.

Her greatest joy was the fact that Alessia was also an heir. Her son could still become the Alpha. Thus, Valerie was not selfish.

"A wicked leader would not mind seeing his subjects die and ruling over the ashes, but a good leader would give his or her life to the subjects before ruling over them. Which are we?" She asked before closing her eyes to allow sleep to steal her once more.

Alpha Denzel got the message clearly, knowing that they had lost it all. However, their pack and its members were safe, so Alessia's son, Grant, would train to be the Alpha of the Evergreen pack.

"Raven, I appreciate all your help, but there is nothing anyone can do."

Raven could not accept it. She must have lost the means to help Alice, but there was no more pressure, so why would she watch her Luna suffer if she had not tried all other means?

For the first time, she was so upset with her Alpha, and her words were not soft. "If you are certain there is nothing anyone could do, then you won't go to the hospital, will you?"

Her question took Denzel by surprise, and even with the hardness of her voice, he could not bring himself to be upset with her.

The fact was, they both cared about the same things, but Alpha Denzel accepted his loss. "I don't want to have hope."

The pack members were terrified to see their Alpha like this. The loss must have been too great on him to make him give up like this, but Raven was not ready to let them extract the pup from her Luna's womb without giving it her best shot.

"Your hope keeps all of us alive, Alpha Denzel. You can't give up on the heir of the pack."

Indeed, Alpha Denzel did not want to lose his pup, and anytime Raven gave him hope, he was never disappointed.

If she said it wasn't possible, then it would not be, but anytime she tried something, it worked. "Okay, follow me."

Alice remembered the dream she had, feeling there was something she could also do about the situation.

"Alpha, can I come too? I don't know, but since she saved me with her powers, I could plead with the moon goddess."

Alpha Denzel stiffened at the mention of the moon goddess. Any time she was summoned, seducing spirits would follow, except she made the appearance herself.

"There are consequences, Alice. I don't want you to go through all that," he said seriously. He always got what he wanted, but it was never easy.

Alice did not care for what price she had to pay but knew she had to do it no matter what. "She saved my life and that of the pack. It's the least I can do."

Alpha Denzel wanted to refuse, but the warriors already added their voice. "Yes Alpha, she saved our lives. We should all intercede on her behalf."

Alpha Denzel was moved when all the pack members went on their knees. Burke went to get a chair for him, and he sat on it with Valerie on his lap, his hand resting safely on her bump.

She was still bleeding, but he decided to have hope once more, to make yet another bargain for the life of his pup.

"Ray, please get some moon grass and the vitamins grace. Add a little bit of weeping love grass to it," Raven said, but her twin brother froze.

"Weeping love grass? Are you sure about this?"

Chapter 421: Chapter 421 - It's too late for that

Weeping love grass, when used on a pregnant she-wolf, could heal any problem the pregnant woman had without side effects but could also affect the love life of the she-wolf, making her repulsive to her mate.

Raven was already aware of this, but since the moon goddess was going to be summoned, she hoped that the side effects of the weeping love grass would not affect their Luna.

"Please do it, Ray."

Ray didn't ask any more questions and ran off, as it was easy to gather all those grasses since they had planted them months ago. There was no herb that the Dark Moon pack did not have.

Even the poisonous ones had other benefits and were planted with caution for the pack members.

Some were planted in small quantities and others in large quantities. Soon, Ray returned, and as Raven prepared the herbs, Alice summoned the moon goddess.

"Goddess of all werewolves, Serene, show yourself to save your own," she cried, and all the pack warriors remained on their knees.

The pack members who had been sent to the safe house before had all joined them with their knees on the ground.

The light from the moon was bright, almost equivalent to the sun, indicating the presence of the moon goddess, but she did not appear as expected.

Only her voice was heard, which most people thought was a good sign. Her appearance, when summoned, would surely leave a curse behind.

The familiar voice echoed through the pack, causing heads to spin around curiously.

"Don't beg me. Your Alpha has the solution to every problem. He never obeyed the rules of the ethereal realm even when it involved his mate, so what do you expect from me?" Selene asked.

Alpha Denzel was about to respond, but Alice beat him to it, afraid that he might anger the moon goddess.

Also, she was the one who summon the moon goddess, and hence, had to take responsibility, even if it meant sacrificing her powers. But would Selene accept such a sacrifice?

"Selene, our Luna saved the pack, and it wouldn't be fair for her to lose her pup, the heir of the pack. If it pleases you, then take my powers and let our Luna live."

Alpha Denzel was moved to tears. It seemed to him that the love and kindness shown always came around, but there was yet another surprise.

"You can take me and my twin brother's gifts instead of hers. Our Luna and her pup matter most," Raven said, but there was more.

This time, it was not just one voice.

"Please, Selene, take something from each of us, but not the pup or the powers of those two selfless she-wolves," the warriors pleaded in unity, still on their knees.

There was another moment of silence before her voice was heard once more.

"It's true that good deeds deserve rewards, and your willingness to save your Luna's pup has touched the ethereal realm. But your Alpha has the solution. One must lose something to gain something."

Alpha Denzel thought he understood Selene's echoing voice, and instantly spoke up.

"Selene, if this has to do with her powers, you can take them back."

Yes, they could live without depending on them, but Selene's response was unexpected.

"Those rogues aren't dead and would return because they also did not feed well. How would you fight them without her powers? They escaped before she could completely destroy them," Selene revealed, but Alpha Denzel no longer seemed afraid.

The repulsive herb worked, so next time, they could work on some poison. That idea did not come previously, but it did now, meaning they could defeat those rogues without Alice or Valerie's powers.

"I don't have a problem with them. I will find ways to end them for good," Alpha Denzel said with determination.

He had constantly saved the lives of his pack members, so why should he allow his pup to die just like that?

The scales were finally falling from his eyes, as he returned to who he used to be, never settling for less.

"Don't forget, Denzel, that those underground rogues are also my creation. They have been confined there with no chance to die because of a sin they committed. Their very existence is a curse, and the only reason they are forced to come out is due to hunger."

The revelation stunned everyone. No one wondered why the underground rogues were hard to kill, but when they saw the giant one still on the floor, their hopes returned.

If they could kill one, then they could kill all, but at this moment, they had one focus: their pup.

"Curse or no curse, I will kill them for invading my pack. But as for my pup, I want him back. Valerie's only mistake was exchanging his life for her powers, so take back her powers. We don't need them anymore."

Before now, they had always gone to war or defended the pack without any powers, emerging victorious.

"You have an alternative, so why are you sweating over this pup?" The moon goddess asked. Only Denzel understood, as no one else knew that Alessia had birthed twins.

"If you wanted me to settle for that option, then you would not have given us the chance to carry our own pup. Just take back the powers because I won't let you have my pup."

Now the conversation got personal, with only the Alpha and the moon goddess knowing what they were talking about. Denzel's voice was so stern, unafraid of offending the moon goddess.

"It's too late for that. Her powers can no longer be taken because she only used them for good. After birthing her pup, both her wolf and powers will return stronger."

Alpha Denzel stiffened, and went into deep thought. If Valerie was no longer with her wolf and powers, then it meant her pup was not dead.

Also, the moon goddess spoke about after she birthed her pup. So, what did it mean when Alpha Denzel knew that the moon goddess would not just make it so easy for him?

"What is the catch to this juicy offer?" He asked.

Chapter 422 - How are there blood stains?

Chapter 422: Chapter 422 – How are there blood stains?

Alpha Denzel could feel the tension of everyone present under the moonlight. They genuinely cared about Valerie, and that was heartening.

"Your pup has his destiny in his hands, but like I said before, he must never climb a hill or mountain. Nevertheless, if he does and faces the consequence, there would be nothing that can stand in his way."

That did not sound bad to Alpha Denzel.

This was the first time the moon goddess said something that was devoid of fear, and for always wishing that his son would be stronger than him, Alpha Denzel was not going to stop him from climbing any mountain to prevent him from learning whatever consequence there was.

If he feared challenges, he would not have been where he was at the moment, and his son would have to create his path, the only advantage being that his father and mother would be there to give him all the needed guidance like they did for other pack members and warriors.

Now, after realizing that Valerie's powers only returned temporarily to fight those rogues, Denzel was quite relieved.

"Thank you," he finally said to the moon goddess, not expecting to get a response because of how busy the goddess was but did so.

"Well, she earned it through her selflessness. If she had decided to protect her pup and watch the pack perish, things would have turned out differently."

Everyone was relieved and could feel the moon goddess smiled at them. However, she managed to make them feel safe after scaring them so much before was still strange to them.

The moon darkened after that, meaning the moon goddess was gone, and instantly, Valerie began screaming from intense pain, and it was as if her stomach was burning, so Raven fed her the herbs.

The moment she swallowed it, something began to happen, and even Alpha Denzel noticed it. Her pup was kicking so hard, Valerie was exhausted.

"Does he understand that his kicks are beginning to hurt?" She asked, Alpha Denzel chuckled. Placing his hand on Valerie's bump, he spoke to his pup in the womb.

"Hey kiddo, your mother's body is undergoing a lot of stress right now. Can you not make it too hard for her than it is now?"

Oddly but satisfactorily, the kicks stopped abruptly.

"This is amazing. You should be doing that more often for us, but wait, are you naked?" Valerie suddenly asked when she felt his hardness around her, Denzel cursed internally.

Due to everything that happened, he forgot to put on clothes after shifting, but it did not seem anyone noticed it anyway.

They had all been so focused on getting their pup back. Burke handed Alpha Denzel the emergency clothes and said,

"I will supervise the cleaning."

Before he took a step, Alpha Denzel stopped him. "Wait, I have something to say to everyone."

Seeing that he was about to wear the emergency clothes, everyone turned their backs to him. During wars, no one gave attention even when anyone walked around naked, but in this case, the war was over, and their Alpha was getting dressed.

Valerie stood up to give him space but noticed the blood stains on his thighs and hers. Her pants were also stained.

"What happened? How are there blood stains?" she asked, not remembering anything from before.

Alpha Denzel dressed up quickly before snatching an emergency cloth from one of the omegas to help her change. Due to her condition, the least he could do was to render his support for her in interesting ways.

"Did you forget how you exchanged the life of our pup for your powers?" Valerie was stunned, but the memories began rushing in one more time.

"How is it that he's kicking? I felt him still the moment my powers returned."

Alpha Denzel was looking around, and following his gaze, she wondered how the warriors were involved in this.

After going unconscious after the bleeding, she was not privy to all the conversations that ensued with the moon goddess.

"I will tell you later, but as for now, we need to thank the pack members. Alice here summoned the moon goddess, and everyone was ready to sacrifice something, just so our pup would live."

Valerie's eyes turned glassy upon hearing that all this had been done in her presence, and yet without her knowledge.

She loved them from the depth of her heart, and knowing they loved her too, made it all worth it.

"Thank you all for standing together to protect our pup. This defines the love and bond that we share as a pack, and I'm happy that you are all learning so well," Alpha Denzel said, the pack members were all smiles, not knowing what to say.

He turned his attention to Raven and Alice. "And your both wanting to sacrifice your powers and talent is equally touching," Alpha Denzel said, the two smiled, only happy that the heir of the pack was fine.

"Luna, you need rest. Those herbs must have made you energetic, but you will break down if you don't rest well."

"I will make sure she gets the needed rest," Denzel smirked before lifting her in his arms, and he said to Burke.

"The pack is in your hands."

Burke was so happy to be entrusted with such great responsibility and would ensure that the pack was back to its former glory. He recalled something and asked Raven. frëewebηovel.cøm

"Can we get something to wash that substance out of our system?"

Raven chuckled. A lot of water will do. Remembering something, she whispered something in Burke's ears, which made Alpha Denzel frown and ask suspiciously.

"What are you two discussing? I want to hear it."

Luna Valerie seemed interested as well since Burke already had a mate. No one wanted problems to arise from pack members bonding with each other outside the mate bond.

"I want to hear it too," she added her voice, Raven was sweating hard.

Chapter 423 - The Truth or Not?

Chapter 423: Chapter 423 - The Truth or Not? freewe6novel.com

Burke and Raven's body language and demeanor left a lot to be desired from both of them.

Alice was not interested at first, but with the Alpha and Luna interested in whatever conversation the two had going on, her interest piqued as well.

"Raven, what is going on?" Alice asked, since Raven was her best friend. They had bonded together so much for living in the same pack, and Alice slept in Raven's house a few times, as did Raven in the pack house.

Raven forced a smile. It was not in her nature to lie, but she had to do so this time to protect the surprise they had for Alice. Clearing her throat, the perfect lie sprang out.

"There is a new antidote my brother and I are working on, but we will need a lot of warriors to help us with a lot of seasoned herbs. Well, it was meant to be a surprise for the Alpha and Luna, as it could help with your burns, but since you asked, I had to tell you," she said. Burke sighed with relief.

Raven's explanation was not a lie. She was indeed working on herbs for Alice but had still not found a perfect one yet.

The ones she tried before did not work out, making her frustrated sometimes.

However, that action of Burke releasing a relief sigh pricked Alpha Denzel's sensitivity, and he called Burke aside to interrogate him further.

"Raven is not telling the whole truth. I can feel it, so what are you two hiding? Don't forget that Alice is your mate." Alpha Denzel did not mince words, and his expression was stern.

Burke forced a smile. Indeed, Alpha Denzel was very sensitive to all those he cared about, so Burke spoke honestly.

"Yes, Alpha. I told Raven to help me with a surprise for Alice."

Alpha Denzel smirked but was glad it wasn't what he thought it was. "Oh, is it really pertaining to the burns?" He inquired; Burke glanced at Alice before responding.

"Well, Raven has already been working on that without any positive news yet. This is like a party within a party. I want her to enjoy her day before finding out we are mates."

Alpha Denzel was relieved it wasn't what he was thinking and discharged him. "Alright, away from here. I thought it was something important."

Burke laughed and signaled Raven that everything was fine. Alice was the only one lost, but seeing her Alpha and Luna leave without questioning further or glancing at her, she gave up.

"What do they have going on?" Valerie asked when Denzel walked a distance after carrying her in his arms. He seemed to enjoy doing it a lot and always did so flawlessly.

Valerie did not worry for him because he had the strength. She also loved his ways of showing that he loved and cared for her.

"It wasn't what we both were thinking. This is Burke's surprise for her on how he wants to make an appearance on her birthday, but I have another way of making it easier for him," he smirked. Valerie was interested.

"Which way is that?" She asked as Denzel continued walking towards the cottage and not the pack house.

For as long as Valerie loved it there, he did not mind leaving there with her.

"Well, I intend to make him miss out on the surprise birthday party we have for Alice. I want to see if she will be interested in seeing him on her birthday," he replied thoughtfully. Valerie's arms around Denzel's neck tightened after she recalled everything that happened during the war.

Everyone tried their best to protect the pack, but Alice was the only one who got injured in the process.

"I only have one wish for Alice on her birthday."

Alpha Denzel smiled sadly. "I do too, but somehow, I prefer not to mention it to not be disappointed if it doesn't happen."

Valerie could relate and responded, the sad smile still lingering on her face. "That is exactly how I'm feeling too. Expectations hurt."

"So, let's put them all aside and not have any," Denzel said, feeling that their expectations might be the same.

He walked to the cottage after in silence, only their breathing and the cold breeze could be felt but was okay for them.

Valerie kept her gaze on his handsome face, blushing with it. Alpha Denzel was known to be very attractive but also a monster.

Who knew that she would be the one to bring out the human side of him? He was everything she ever dreamed of in a mate and even more.

The point was, he gave her the happiness she did not expect.

At the cottage, he carried Valerie into the shower and lifted the faucet before he began to undress her.

"What's that for?" Valerie asked, not expecting it. Her hand pressed against his, halting his movements. He could have allowed her to remove her clothes first, right?

These kinds of things only meant that Denzel was up to something, which was obvious in his smirk as he spoke teasingly. "I just remembered that you love the rain. Doesn't this remind you of that day?"

Valerie was lost for words. She remembered the day she and Ashley played in the rain like they used to do as kids, surprised that Denzel was capitalizing on it but allowing the warm water to drench the emergency clothes she wore before removing it.

"You sure have weird ways of making me smile," she chuckled. Denzel smirked.

"Well, I wanted to thank you for making the ultimate sacrifice, but I was honestly scared of losing either of you." His gaze darkened at the latter part of his words, but Valerie reminded him.

"Did you not say that we create our own destinies?"

A chuckle escaped Denzel as he watched the shower washing Valerie's silky white skin. "You have no idea what you do to me when you talk like that."

The darkening desire in his eyes caused a shiver to run through her, even with the warm water cascading on her.

Chapter 424: Chapter 424 - Thank you for always being there for me

She could feel his burning gaze on her as she wiped the water off her face, which was soon replaced by the shower.

She watched as Denzel removed his emergency clothes as well. "Do you have any idea what is going on inside me right now?" His voice was husky but sexy.

Only Denzel could evoke a thousand and one emotions in her.

She picked up the shampoo, poured an amount into her palm, and began forming lather with it, which she rubbed all over her skin, even as it was washed away by the shower.

Sometimes, she felt unattractive because of her huge bump, but the way Denzel looked at her was a clear indication that she was a sexy, heavily pregnant woman.

"That you are horny and want to be fucked hard and without mercy?" Denzel said exactly what she wanted, making her eyes widen as he explained. "I can smell your arousal."

His gaze on her was filled with strong desires that he had to control to not hurt their pup in the process.

Denzel knew the perfect way so Valerie was the least afraid of him, wrapping her arms around his neck and pressing her hard nipples against his chest.

Her voice filled with pleasurable desires. "You are always on point, Denz, but before anything. There is something very important I want to tell you."

Her momentousness got Denzel disturbed. "What is the problem?" He asked seriously, wrapping his arm around her waist but ensuring not to press her too tight for the sake of the bump.

"I have a feeling that my days are numbered," Valerie said nervously, knowing how painful the process was going to be.

Well, it was easier in the pack, but Alessia went through with it, even with twins in the human world.

However, Valerie felt like a human at this point without her wolf, so Denzel understood her fears perfectly.

"That is obvious. Are you afraid?" Denzel asked as he went down on his knees with the shower pouring on them and kissed her stomach, sucking gently on it.

Valerie's fingers dug into his silky wet hair, a moan escaping her as she urged him on. "No, but I want a water birth when the time arrives," she revealed through moans.

It was something she saw during their time in Vegas, desiring to have the same.

Denzel had heard of it, though not knowing the details, but knew there was nothing impossible involving her.

"I will make the provision for it," Denzel said after a little thought, not wanting his sweet moment to be ruined by the conversation, and it warmed Valerie's heart, knowing they were in sync with each other.

"I think I'm ready, Denz, just give me what I want, but my nipples are sensitive," Valerie warned through pleasurable moans.

"Is that so?" Denzel's husky voice rang from below, her body feeling feverish with it. "Let's see how they'll respond to my touch," he said hungrily, eyeing her hard pink nipple.

That look made her vagina tighten with a need for Denzel's hard cock, as she soon felt the wetness from within.

"Arhhhh," Valerie gasped when Denzel sucked her sensitive nipples. It tripled the pleasure, making her juices gush out. She parted her legs for him, but Denzel pressed her against the wall of the shower room to prevent any slip or fall.

With their intimate moment distracted earlier, he wanted to make up for it. His finger slipped into her core, and he groaned. "Goddess, I can't wait anymore."

Valerie agreed, feeling the same, as she turned her back to him, bending over and using the faucet for support.

Denzel massaged her buttocks with lather, moving to her torso and all over her breasts. She was melting in his arms like ice.

"Denz, please do it now," she cried when he kept rubbing the tip of his hard cock around the entrance of her pussy.

He thrust inside her, instantly pressing the faucet to stop the flow of the shower, to avoid any slip in case he got carried away with pleasure.

His thrust began slow, earning soft moans from her, and she did not make a demand, knowing his strength as he kept increasing the pace slowly, her moans increasing with it.

"Yes," she moaned, "Yes."

Denzel caressed her breast and stomach before wrapping his arm around her waist and thrusting harder.

The position sent his hard cock rocking her G-spot, earning cries of pleasure and multiple releases from her.

Her last release was blended with a roar from Denzel as he released with her, turning the faucet once more.

After some more romance, they went to bed without a desire for food but just for each other.

Valerie slept as soon as Denzel finished drying her hair, which he always insisted on doing ever since she reached her third trimester.

There were kicks in the night, but with Denzel's hand on her bump, the kicks gradually reduced, and Valerie slept peacefully.

The next day, Denzel was about to sneak out of bed to make breakfast, but Valerie clung tightly to him. "Let's just be like this."

Moments like this were priceless, so he never refused her. An hour or so later, her stomach growled, so they made breakfast and ate together.

What made moments like this special was not just because Denzel was there, but the sacrifices he made to be there with her.

There was a lot to do in Vegas and the pack, but he had to trust people to take care of it all, just to be the partner she needed.

"Thank you for always being there for me," Valerie whispered after breakfast, when they were taking their usual walk around the garden.

"It's the two of us in this, remember? No need to thank me." In other words, they were carrying the pregnancy together.

A few days passed, and it was Alice's second birthday at the pack, but unlike the first, this was going to be her eighteenth birthday.

Burke was the most excited of all, but to avoid ruining the birthday surprises, Alpha Denzel sent Burke on an official duty that would make him return in the evening to complete whatever surprise he and Raven had for Alice.

Raven and Ray helped to punch every surprise to perfection when Alpha Denzel took Alice on a casual walk as soon as she woke up. He and Valerie had returned to the pack house just to ensure that the party was as perfect as planned the night before.

For some reason, Alpha Denzel took Alice to the lake to have her first shift but did not think that both he and Alice were ready for what awaited them.

Chapter 425: Chapter 425 - I sense an Alpha wolf close by Alice, you have to try shifting now. If it doesn't happen today, don't worry. It will only mean you are a late bloomer, so we will try again once every full moon," Alpha Denzel said softly.

He did not want to rush her or anything, and besides, there was no urgent need for it if not for her recognizing her mate.

Alice smiled. Just as her mates were shifting and getting their wolves, this was her greatest wish as well, but she felt lost for a moment.

"How do I go about it?" She asked innocently. Alpha Denzel was lost for words. Usually, they just try, so he did not know which cue to give her.

"Maybe you should try communicating with your wolf first through mindlink." Then he remembered something and rather suggested.

"You could as well look into the lake. I advise you to remove your clothes since we don't have any emergency ones here, and don't worry, I'm not going to watch or anything. I will turn around and walk away. If you are successful, just growl to alert me. If not, just put your clothes back on and call my name."

Alice understood the instruction and nodded her head, wishing she had come with Luna Valerie because of how shy she felt around her Alpha but understood why Alpha Denzel had to come along instead.

Luna Valerie was pregnant and would not hesitate to use her powers if anything goes wrong.

"Okay. I will remember the cues," she agreed.

Alpha Denzel was not expecting her to refuse anyway. Not saying anymore, he did just as said, turning and walking away.

Alice was left alone by the lake but comforted herself in the fact that Alpha Denzel was not too far away and would come to her aid if she called for him.

Still, she was lost as to what to do at the moment, dumbfounded and disturbed, before taking an interest in the lake and staring into it.

Her image appeared inside the lake, and she smiled. She was beautiful, hoping to find her mate soon. freewebnovel.com

At the thought of her mate, she remembered Beta Burke. He was kind and gentle, always being there for her and teaching her a lot of things.

He was at least five years older, which felt like a minus, but all things being equal, he was a strong and handsome warrior, hunky and smart.

Sometimes, she felt like a villain for her happiness at knowing that he hadn't found his mate.

Alice cursed herself internally, thinking of how to handle her disappointment if Beta Burke was not her mate or if he found his mate later.

Would she be jealous? Yes. Her hand touched the water when her attention shifted to the task Alpha Denzel gave her, causing her image to disappear.

Sighing, she stood on her feet but was instantly interrupted by a voice that seemed to come from inside her head.

"Alice."

Alice was dumbfounded, feeling like she was dreaming. She looked into the lake again, but before she could register what she was seeing inside, pain began to rip through her body, as if it no longer belonged to her.

It was gushing and even more painful than she felt with her burns. A shrill tore from her throat, and she expected Alpha Denzel to come and save her, but he didn't, or maybe he left her to her fate.

Just as Alice felt the pain subside, it suddenly grew worse, this time focusing on her bones. She could feel them breaking, and the pain was excruciating. She thought she was going to die when suddenly, her fingers began to extend, and a golden fur began to form on her skin.

The understanding was now clear to her, and at the same time, the transformation was completed, and her wolf spoke again.

'Alice, I'm your wolf. You can call me Aliya.'

'Aliya? You are my wolf?' Aliya was both excited and surprised, feeling a whirlwind of emotions sweeping through her.

'You sound surprised. Were you expecting somebody else?' Her wolf asked, slightly disappointed, but Alice explained.

'No. I just was not expecting it to be so painful every time I shift.' She was thinking about the pain she would have to endure each time she went through a shift and also wondered why the warriors never complained during shift training.

'No. That pain is just for the first time. Henceforth, you shall be able to shift without pain.'

Alice finally relaxed, happy to not endure such pain forever. 'That is great. I have to alert Alpha Denzel. Do you know where he is?' She suddenly recalled that she passed her test and was eager to get her Alpha's remark.

'I sense an Alpha wolf close by. Why not mindlink him?' Aliya said, and Alice did not refuse.

'Sure,' she replied and mindlinked. 'Alpha, I shifted. My wolf's name is Aliya.'

Alpha Denzel came out of where he was waiting and was amazed by the transformation. Alice Why did he not think about it before?

Golden wolves were rare, just like Luna wolves. They also carried fire, but then, could it be possible that her wolf could stop the burn that resulted in using her powers?

'You have a legendary wolf, Alice. Congratulations.' Even through mindlink, she could hear the pride and happiness coating her Alpha's words, which made her joyful.

'Thank you, Alpha. Can I shift now?'

Alpha Denzel recalled that first shifts never lasted and kept the question he had for her aside. 'I'm leaving. You can shift and put on your clothes before calling me again.'

Alice obliged, and as soon as she shifted, she put on her clothes and excitedly called out for her Alpha.

"Alpha Denzel, I did it," Alice said excitedly. Alpha Denzel smiled. "Yes, Alice, congratulations and happy birthday once more."

"Thank you, Alpha."

They were about to leave when Alpha Denzel remembered what he wanted to ask before.

"Can you try using your powers to see if it will still hurt?"

Alice stiffened slightly before smiling nervously. "There is no harm in trying."

Chapter 426: Chapter 426 - Let's go now, or we'll be late

Alpha Denzel was glad she had agreed and was not so anxious to join her peers because it was her birthday.

This could take a lot of time, but it was very important to him because of the burns. Raven was trying but had still not provided the solution.

In less than a month, she would turn eighteen, which meant she would be leaving the pack, which she was unaware of.

Alpha Denzel would be happy if Alice could use her powers without any negative effects, but he cautioned her seriously.

"Just make sure you don't burn down the woods." Another way of using one's powers brilliantly was the ability to manipulate it and not the other way around. Alice giggled and did as told.

Instead of channeling her powers to the woods, she directed them at the lake, and it was beautiful to see the fire floating on the lake.

Alpha Denzel wished that Alice's training with Valerie had been done at a place like this. They would not have burned down the woods, but now, they were all grown and beautiful looking again.

"Good, are you in any kind of pain?" He asked worriedly, though not seeing any sign of it. freewebnovel.com

He was not expecting a response since Alice usually went into a trance during moments like this but surprisingly got one.

"No, Alpha. In fact, I feel no discomfort at all."

Alpha Denzel was finding it hard to believe her until she rolled a ball of fire in her hand and threw it in the direction of a rock. When it hit the rock, the fire quenched.

Then she rolled another and another, forming three different balls of fire, and threw them in different directions.

Since Alpha Denzel did not stop her, she continued to send more balls but was also capable of quenching them before they caused any form of havoc.

Alpha Denzel was amazed by just watching her doing her thing. After a while, she was juggling the balls of fire like a magic display.

Alpha Denzel had seen things like that in Vegas during magic shows and wondered if those things those humans did were just tricks or if they had some strange powers attached to them like that of Alice.

Suddenly, all the fire quenched at once, and nothing was burned. Not even a smoke was seen. "Did I do well?" Alice asked, a proud smile on her face, and Alpha Denzel clapped for her.

"I must say that you did perfectly, but I'm wondering if your powers have the same effect as before."

Confusion twisted Alice's face slightly. "I don't understand, Alpha. Are you saying that because I did not get burned or burn down anything, my powers aren't strong enough?"

Alpha Denzel did not refuse nor accept, determined to know the strength of her powers. "It won't hurt if we test it, right?"

"On who?" Alice asked. Nothing around them could feel except the two of them, and since she was the one with the powers, the only option was her Alpha, which she did not dare to suggest.

'On him,' her wolf answered on his behalf. Alice smiled nervously but left with no choice, she informed Alpha Denzel. "My wolf is saying to test my powers on you."

Alpha Denzel frowned imperceptibly, and Alice took a step back, retracting her words at the same time.

"Maybe not. She said I only got burned because she wasn't there, but now, she is capable of protecting me from being burned.

The explanation made sense that Alice would no longer get burned because of her wolf, but he was still determined to know if her powers carried the same level of strength as before.

"Okay, then, try your powers on me. Like, burn down my shoes."

Alice took a deep breath, being greatly nervous to carry out the command. Perhaps she should warn him. "Your feet will get burned."

"I'm a fast healer," he assured her. Alice bit her lower lip thoughtfully, and Alpha Denzel noticed that even her eye color had changed.

"But your shoes would not return."

"Just do it," Alpha Denzel instructed sternly, and mind-linked Gandolf to bring him a shoe, but before the mind-link was completed, he began to feel pain like fire on his feet.

The trainers he wore began to burn, and so did his feet. He wanted to tell Alice to stop but was still interested in knowing for how long he could endure the pain until a male voice yelled.

"Alpha, your feet are all gone."

Gandolf jogged from the training room when he received the mind-link but was surprised to see the feet of his Alpha burning.

Alice stopped using her powers, and fear shone in her eyes when she saw what she had done. Alpha Denzel could not stand on his feet anymore and was supported by Gandolf.

"I'm sorry. I wasn't thinking."

Alpha Denzel shook her head, not understanding why she accepted blame when it was not her fault.

"No. It's not your fault," he assured her, but a shudder ran through her, visible on her face when she saw new feet begin to form in place of the burned ones.

Alpha Denzel was equally marveled, but then, if he has continuously been mating with a powerful woman like Valerie, it was obvious that some of her powers were swimming inside his blood and causing this miraculous healing.

He took the trainers from Gandolf and put them on. There was no pain like when he was getting burned.

Now, he was certain that Alice's powers were strong and without any form of side effects.

"Let's go now, or we'll be late," he beckoned Gandolf and Alice. Alice did not know what they were going to be late for but hastened in Alpha Denzel and Gandolf's direction.

Thinking they were going to the pack house, she was amazed that Alpha Denzel was rather walking to the training room, and when Alice reached there, everyone was there except one person.

Chapter 427 - Come, I want to show you something

Chapter 427: Chapter 427 - Come, I want to show you something

The pack members and warriors had special ways of celebrating each and every birthday, depending on their rank and age.

Eighteenth birthdays were usually the biggest for every pack member. For those with living parents, it was often celebrated at home.

In Alice's case, her strong support for the pack, along with the transformation of the training room, made the celebration special. Even in their training attire, everyone looked their best.

It was exciting for Alice to see the effort the pack members had put into this celebration after meeting her wolf for the first time.

Alice, still in her training attire, heard the voices of the excited warriors, which warmed her heart as the warriors began to sing "Happy Birthday," Alice noticed someone missing and felt a pang of disappointment.

How could he not be here on this special day for her? Did he find his mate? Alice was troubled but tried not to show it as she responded to the birthday chorus, eager for it to be over, so she could go search for him.

"Congratulations, Alice, did you get your wolf yet?" One of the warriors asked. Alice smiled and replied,

"Yes, I did. I will join you for wolf training next time."

She was uplifted by their joy as they lifted her in the air. Her laughter filled the room, momentarily pushing Burke out of her mind.

With training over before her arrival, food and drinks were served, and Alice cut the cake with Raven and Ray by her side.

Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie watched Alice closely and noticed that she was not completely happy, despite the celebrations.

The best part of discovering your mate is feeling a pre-existing attraction to them before the mate bond is revealed.

Only Luna Valerie and Alpha Denzel noticed that Alice felt that attraction for Burke, as she left the warriors after the celebration and kept to herself.

"Are you looking for someone, birthday girl?" Luna Valerie asked, looking stunning in a loose, white floral dress.

As expected, a strong arm was wrapped around her waist as if she were going to run away with the pup in her belly.

Alice could neither lie to Luna Valerie nor Alpha Denzel, so she spoke honestly.

"I haven't seen Burke anywhere. I'm just wondering if he's fine."

Luna Valerie wanted to clap for her, and with these kinds of unions, their joy was complete because both Alice and Burke were pack members.

In Raven's case, there would be some kind of sadness attached to the joy because she would be leaving for another pack.

Alpha Denzel had not even dropped a hint as he and Luna Valerie were still thinking of how to accept their loss from that angle.

Then again, what if they had not accepted Raven into this pack? How would Alpha Ludwig have found her in the rogue community?

Everything was clear that the moon goddess had everything planned, and all of them were just like actors in her production.

"I think he's fine. He has been sent on an errand and will be back in a few days," Luna Valerie said, amazed by the shock and gloomy look on Alice's face.

"A few days?" Alice was unhappy, but Valerie exchanged glances with Alpha Denzel before they both nodded their heads in unison.

Satisfactorily, even without the mate bond, Alice was drawn to Burke. It was not just because they both lived in the packhouse but also because of something special between them.

Something the pack members were about to find out, be it today or tomorrow, depending on how everything goes.

The party ended, and Alice was sad, not because of the party but because Burke did not show up, and from what she deduced from everything Luna Valerie said, she will not see him for a few days.

Alpha Denzel left with Luna Valerie, as did the other warriors when Raven said to Alice,

"Come, I want to show you something."

Alice was only missing Burke, knowing that not even all the gifts piled up in her room would be able to take her mind off from seeing him.

As such, she did not ask any questions and instead followed her. Raven stopped at her house and helped Alice with a quick shower and a new set of clothes but did not tell her they were from Burke.

However, the change of clothes made Alice suspicious, and she inquired, "Why did you make me change? Where are we going?"

Raven held her hand and replied, "It's a surprise, and my only job is to get you there."

Alice frowned in confusion but, due to the trust she had for Raven, continued to follow the latter, wondering why Raven gave her such a sexy dress to wear.

This was the first time Alice wore a dress that flaunted her curves, and she wanted her crush to see it, except that he was not there, or maybe someone was not telling her the whole truth.

Under the moonlight, under a single tree, there was a table for two with expensive wine, food, and drinks. A man sat on a chair with his back turned, dressed in a gray suit. His stature resembled Burke, but his haircut was different.

Alice felt strangely drawn to this person, wondering who he was. This was not a mere attraction but the mate bond. When she turned to the side to ask Raven, she was nowhere to be found, as if she had just vanished into thin air.

Her curiosity drove her to the person, and the more she walked to him, the greater and faster her heart beat for him.

Then the aroma of her favorite dishes made it even more difficult for her to resist, and she was glad to have not eaten much during the party, aside from the fact that it was all because she had not seen Burke.

Just as she was about to tap him on the shoulder, he turned around, and their gazes met. Her heart leapt, and she clung to him. "Burke?"

Chapter 428 - I'm glad it's you

Chapter 428: Chapter 428 - I'm glad it's you

Joyful tears fell from Alice's eyes upon learning that Burke had gotten a new haircut because of her. He rocked it too, but her greatest joy was the fact that he was her mate.

"Alice," Burke pulled away to admire the dress on her. With his back turned earlier, he missed the opportunity to see the dress well, like he was doing now.

The moment he saw it, he knew it would look good on her and quickly purchased it.

From now onwards, she was going to be his responsibility, and he planned to buy her even more beautiful things, though Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie had already bought her a lot of them.

Earlier, when he arrived from the assignment his Alpha gave him, he was glad that Alpha Denzel had taken Alice out to help her with her wolf, and that she would not see him. freewebnovel.com

Since he already had plans with Raven, he quickly mindlinked her to meet up with him and gave her the dress to be given to Alice.

Raven thought it was just a birthday gift, unaware that Burke and Alice were mates.

"You look beautiful," Burke said honestly, gazing into her blue eyes. Alice's rare condition of hazel and blue eyes was gone, and now only the blue was seen.

Everyone had gotten so used to it that most people did not even notice the change, but Burke did. His arms wrapped around her again.

"And you look handsome," Alice replied, knowing Burke was five years older. It meant that he must have felt the mate bond then, so she asked curiously.

"So, have you known all along that we were mates?"

Burke nodded. "You have no idea how I always waited for this day, Alice. The moment I set eyes on you, you were mine, but I had to wait until your wolf awakened."

Alice was excited, feeling all her fears die with his soft words. It was her all the time, the only woman in Burke's life, just as she wanted.

How blessed she was to have found her mate in the Evergreen pack. Sometimes, she feared finding her mate in another pack and having to leave, but that did not happen.

"I'm glad it's you. I really am." She looked so cute when she spoke like that, and Burke noticed a lot of childishness in her, which he knew would be broken through mating and marking.

His lips met with hers like he had practiced doing a few days before now, and the feeling was better than he imagined his first time to be.

No wonder warriors who found their mates never got enough of them. Burke was eager to have a taste of his mate after living with her under the same roof for so long.

Now he understood why Alpha Denzel refused to have him share a room with Alice when she moved in.

Being his first time, he wanted to give her the best and did not want any setbacks. He removed his blazer and covered her shoulders with it.

"It's getting cold. Please have a seat." He pulled a chair for her, and Alice sat, but her gaze was pinned on him.

Burke was worried about the sudden change in the weather, wondering what in the pack's name was going on.

Having heard about weather changes when a great person was to be born in a pack, he was tempted to think that his Luna was in labor, but per the schedule, she still had a month to go.

Alice's attention was completely different from that of Burke, focusing on everything in front of her.

The weather was the last thing on her mind when she had the only man she loved in front of her.

A few things were beginning to make sense to her, like how Luna Valerie told her a white lie, making her ask.

"Does Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie know that we are mates? I'm asking because Luna Valerie said you were going to be back in a few days."

Burke chuckled as he poured a glass of wine for her. "Yeah, they sure do." Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie had equally helped him to plan this surprise.

Alice smiled shyly. "So, she was teasing me all along." Her cheeks pinked with her words. Burke felt like the luckiest beta in the world.

The likes of Alice were mostly mated to Alphas because of their unique powers, but he, a beta, happened to have such a great woman as a mate and could not keep his happiness in check.

In fact, he had to quickly mark her before anything went wrong. He had begun to uncover the dishes when the snow suddenly began to set in.

His teeth gritted together as he rendered an apology to the thrilled Alice, who did not seem to care even a bit about the snow.

"Sorry we have to leave for the pack house," Burke said apologetically, before he mindlinked a few warriors to help him move the items to his room.

Alice was disappointed because this was very romantic. However, she understood that the weather was not being fair, and she had to agree with Burke to move everything elsewhere.

Rising to her feet, she was amazed to be swept into Burke's arms like he had seen his Alpha doing a lot of times.

If anyone wanted to learn how to be both tough and romantic, the right person for that training was Alpha Denzel himself.

This was the first time she entered Burke's room, though he entered hers a couple of times and would have been surprised to see her pictures there if he had not told her that he knew it all along.

No wonder he never allowed her in here, as it would have created a lot of suspicions in Alice's mind.

Dinner was moved in there, and the snowstorm was quite heavy. The Evergreen pack was known for tsunamis, so snowstorms were rare, but they still prepared for it and were not troubled by its invasion.

In times like this, everyone was indoors, as no one would try an attack under such conditions. Burke dropped Alice gently on the bed, and as soon as the warriors helping him left, he asked her a question that caused everything in her to freeze.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 429 - 249 - Luna Valerie? I hope she's alright

Chapter 429: Chapter 249 - Luna Valerie? I hope she's alright

Burke felt stupid right after asking the question. "Do you mind if we mate first?"

Just like him, Alice was equally naive in such matters and would take time to adjust, so he quickly changed the topic of discussion.

"Sorry. I mean, how did your training go?" He asked. Alice regained her composure from the earlier discomfort caused by his question, did not expose him, and answered.

"I can use my powers without getting burned."

Burke was dazed but very happy about it. This was unbelievable but also the best news he had heard in a long time. "You don't mean it."

He couldn't forget how Alpha Denzel tried every possible means to resolve this issue, including their Luna passing out because of using her powers to heal Alice from the burns when she was not supposed to do so.

"I do, and my wolf's name is Aliya," Alice announced excitedly. Burke was over the moon as he carried her to the chair and began to uncover the dishes.

Each dish was carefully picked from the ones he had seen her enjoy during breakfast, lunch, or dinner. From that aspect, he knew her very well.

"I'm so proud of you," he said with amazement, his gaze fixed on her. Alice suddenly became shy, lowered her head, and took solace in the appetizer before her.

The moment she took a bite of the appetizers, her excitement gave way. "Burke, this is so good, just like the ones Luna Valerie makes."

Alice knew that Alpha Denzel never allowed Luna Valerie to cook alone ever since she went far into her pregnancy, so how could Burke have made something like this?

"Would you be surprised if I told you that she made it because it was your birthday?"

Happy tears formed in the corner of Alice's eyes, but she did not wipe them as she thought about Luna Valerie and Alpha Denzel.

They gave her all the love she had lost for years since her parents died. "I can't believe Alpha Denzel allowed it in her condition."

Burke showed her a video from his phone. "Well, Raven said that he helped her to make it."

Alice cried even more from appreciation and wondered if Luna Valerie had gone to cook after she left her alone at the party.

From the dress she wore, it seemed so, and Alpha Denzel was patiently waiting for her, doing every little thing that did not require expertise.

"Before meeting Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie, I heard a lot of scary things about Alpha Denzel. I realized they were true, but he did all those things with very good intentions," Alice recalled.

"As for Luna Valerie, I have always loved her from the moment I heard her name, and seeing her in person, I loved her even more. My instincts were right when I wanted to join this pack. The moon goddess gave me back my family through them."

Alice was very emotional, and Burke wiped her tears with his thumb.

He was equally amazed when Luna Valerie insisted on helping with his surprise in the area of cooking and was highly grateful for the favor shown to him, especially for the fact that Alice loved Valerie's cooking better than anybody else's.

Unlike other Alphas and Lunas, Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie gained loyalty from pack members due to the love they gave.

"Well, Alpha Denzel was very hard to understand in the beginning because he never talked much, never explained much, until he brought Luna Valerie."

"That night, he did not allow anyone to touch her when he carried her out of the car himself to the cottage. It was strange to me how he was so worried about a person he claimed to hate."

"It was later revealed that he pretended to hate her, but even then, the changes were visible. He began to spend more time at the pack and talked more, explained more. That was how we began to understand and fall deeper in love with him. He was so complicated," Burke explained. Alice smiled.

"I understand now the power of the mate bond, and I hope that Raven soon finds her mate."

Raven was her best friend, so she wished for Raven to have the happiness she had found in her mate.

Burke was instantly saddened, and Raven noticed it. "You don't want her to find her mate?" Her expression was unreadable as she asked. Burke forced a smile.

"I already know who her mate is, and that's what makes me sad."

Raven was selfless, so it pained Burke that she was going to leave soon. Alice was confused.

"She has a mate? How did you know?"

Burke did not hide it from her since they were mates. "Well, I don't have proof, but why would Alpha Ludwig travel all the way here just to attend her seventeenth birthday party and also gift her a jade necklace?"

Alpha Ludwig never did that for anybody else, not even Alice, who had used her powers to protect his pack.

Even on Alice's birthday and now, he never showed up. Alice thought it through. The more she did, the more sense it made to her.

"No wonder Alpha Denzel sent her to visit the Black Fur Pack. Oh, this information has ruined my mood," she said honestly, afraid of the distance that would come between them.

Burke had already thought about it and psyched himself up for the unavoidable changes that were about to happen.

"Well, pack members leave all the time due to the mate bond, so don't worry yourself because of this."

"You are right. I'm even a transfer member," Alice recalled. "Who knows, Raven might find greater happiness at the Black Fur pack," she agreed.

Burke was getting impatient when their romantic dinner turned into sweet gossip. "Well, can we stop talking about all that? I want to mark you already," he purred. Alice giggled.

After this conversation, she felt much more comfortable around him, not seeming afraid of the mating process anymore.

Burke's lips were about to meet hers when they were distracted by a scream. "Luna Valerie? I hope she's alright," Alice panicked and rushed out of the room.

Chapter 430 - Oh Denzel, My Water Broke

Chapter 430: Chapter 430 - Oh Denzel, My Water Broke

Earlier, Luna Valerie and Alpha Denzel had returned to the pack house, planning to go back to the cottage the next day.

Valerie wanted to catch up on sleep after waking up early to make a surprise dish for Alice and returning later to complete it.

It wouldn't have been a problem if not for the fatigue setting in due to the stage she was in. Still, she was happy for everything she did, imagining Alice's reaction when she tasted the food.

"I hope she liked the food I made her," she smiled as she cuddled Denzel, who kissed her on the forehead.

Recalling how the issue with Alice's injuries when using her powers was resolved by her wolf, he decided to share the news with Valerie, knowing it will make her happy and calm.

"You don't have to worry about Alice anymore. She can use her powers without getting injured," Alpha Denzel revealed.

Valerie's mood brightened greatly, and it radiated through her voice as she kissed Denzel on the lips.

"That is a wonderful birthday surprise. The moon goddess has been fair to us after all."

She realized that every challenge that came their way resulted in something even better or bigger.

As such, she was not afraid of whatever their son would go through, knowing it will be the key to bringing him the happiness he deserves.

Denzel agreed, "Yeah, she gives us blessings wrapped with struggles, and I'm really glad at the way things are falling into place."

Alice will be able to use her powers without fears if those rogues showed their faces again. More importantly, Valerie would also have her powers back after delivering their pup and will not need to use them to heal Alice.

Both of them could defend the pack in different ways against such atrocities, so Alpha Denzel had no doubts that the future was indeed brighter than he thought it to be.

Then he recalled Raven and felt a little saddened. However, he was not selfish to allow his happiness to dominate hers.

Besides, Ray was still a member of the Evergreen pack and was now abreast with all the herbs.

He was also a strong warrior, just like her twin sister, so all was not lost. He only hoped that Raven will be there to help Valerie through her labor before her birthday in a month.

"Are you not scared about whatever is going to happen with our son?" Valerie's voice cut through his thoughts as she asked, recalling the last warning from the moon goddess.

Alpha Denzel smirked. If his son was going to have any weakness, it will be his mate.

"If he's going to be stronger than me, then he is more than capable of handling any challenge coming," he responded confidently.

"I agree," Valerie said, rubbing her bump. She still had about four weeks to go, and the more she thought about it, the greater her fears of the pain that came with it.

Whichever way, she was determined to go through it and not drown in all the pampering Denzel gave her to make her vulnerable with him.

She climbed on top of Denzel and kissed him briefly on the lips before gazing admiringly at him.

"You look gorgeous and sexy," Denzel said, his hand resting under his head. Pregnancy indeed looked good on Valerie.

The baby pink transparent lingerie she wore complimented her greatly, especially the split in the front that exposed her bump.

Denzel's gaze lowered to the lace panty that matched the lingerie and gulped, feeling aroused, and began grinding against her.

Valerie teasingly pressed her cunt against his hard cock, a moan escaping her as she rubbed her belly. Instantly, there was a kick.

"He's kicking again," she said excitedly. Denzel lifted her from the top of him, placing her gently on the bed with her back turned to him, and began to rub her bump, feeling the hard kicks for himself.

He kissed the crook of her neck and noticed she was sweating. That was strange because the weather was very cold.

A snowstorm was ongoing, but they could relax because it was better than the rain. The only difference was there would be a lot to do after the snowstorm, unlike rainy times when checks were done in the rainstorm.

"I can't wait for him to come out of there," Denzel cooed in her ear, but a frown contoured Valerie's face as Denzel asked worriedly, "Are you alright?"

Valerie's head was spinning, and she was not feeling pleased like she did during intimate moments. "I don't know. I feel uncomfortable."

Denzel stood up and lifted her to a sitting position. "Let me get the pack doctor."

He was about to mindlink the pack doctor when Valerie distracted him by holding his hand.

"What about Raven?" She had grown more comforted around the girl than the pack doctors, wanting her to be around, but Alpha Denzel was disturbed.

"We don't know what is wrong with you. Let the doctor diagnose it first," she advised as Valerie said,

"It could be the baby coming."

Alpha Denzel stiffened. Pup pregnancies were ten months, so how could she be in labor? "You still have a few weeks to go. It might be something else, so I'll get the doctor."

Valerie shook her head. "Humans carry their babies for nine months, and don't forget I'm human now. Anything could happen."

It was true. She didn't have her wolf, so things could indeed be very different for her. Then Alpha Denzel recalled her request and asked her.

"Did you not say that you wanted a water birth? Besides, Raven and not a midwife."

That's a doctor or midwife was needed at this moment to help her out. Alpha Denzel was nervous by the way Valerie had paled.

It was clear that she was trying to mask the pain by being calm, but he knew it wasn't easy for her.

Valerie stood up and felt warm liquid between her thighs. "Oh Denzel, my water broke."

Chapter 431 - You don't have to be scared

Chapter 431: Chapter 431 - You don't have to be scared

Alpha Denzel quickly wrapped his arms around her. "I will carry you to the hospital."

Trying to comply, Valerie held him back. "Yes, I was hoping to get something for the labor pains," she said honestly, hoping that Raven would be able to provide her with some herbs to alleviate the pain she was experiencing.

The pain she was enduring at the moment reminded her of the time she walked on coals. There was no hope of her wolf healing her, and at this time, there was no hope for her.

She had to rely on her human strength to go through the labor, a pain she had no control over. Alpha Denzel took deep breaths to calm himself.

"Alright. I will call both Raven and the pack doctor and midwives over."

Valerie never liked the hospital environment, and the initial plan was for her to deliver their pup at the cottage. However, since they were stuck in the pack house during a snowstorm, their pup would be delivered there and then.

A few minutes after the mindlink went out, Raven was the first to arrive because she lived closer to the pack house.

Not even the snowstorm could delay her in making it on time, as she quickly rushed to Valerie's side. "Luna, Are you okay?"

She knew her question sounded stupid as Valerie did not look okay, but she was inexperienced in situations like this.

"I think I'm in labor. Is there anything to manage the pain?" Valerie was taking deep breaths, just as the midwives had taught her during the few times Denzel made them check on her to ensure that she was on track.

"Yes, there is," Raven said, lowering the backpack she had brought along but suddenly stopped. Valerie was getting upset due to the pain she was going through, asking in annoyance.

"So, what are you waiting for?"

Alice hesitated before revealing. "Luna, it will slow down the labor process. It's your first time, meaning it would take time, so if you add that herb to it, you might end up delivering your pup in three to four days."

Raven analyzed her abilities. Humans took longer to deliver their first baby, so if her Luna could not endure the pain, then things were bound to be different.

Valerie was now breathing through her mouth and exhaling out of her nose. "Is there a way to make it faster?" She knew of her ability to endure pain if she put her mind to it, but Raven hesitated once more before responding.

"Yes, but that also means the pain would increase."

She was hoping that her Luna would just endure the pain and get it over with between eight to eighteen hours, but she was amazed by Valerie's choice.

"I will bear it. I want it faster," she said with determination as Denzel countered. "You can prepare the herbs, but we have to be sure she's really in labor and..."

He paused when he heard a knock on the door. It was the pack doctor and two midwives. Denzel was glad for the timely intervention, as he wanted to ensure that Valerie was indeed in labor before allowing anything to be given to her.

The doctor checked on Valerie and smiled. "She's dilating. You can set up," he informed the midwives and began to set up the tub as she had requested.

Provisions were made a month ago for any emergency like this, so as soon as Alpha Denzel's mindlink zapped through, they moved with everything needed.

It was amazing how none of them allowed themselves to be hindered by the snow.

Denzel gently lowered Valerie into the warm water before Raven brought the herb to her, and after just a sip, her discomfort increased, though comforted by the warm water.

"I feel worse," she said honestly as the labor had been induced. Faster meant increased pain, and there was nothing more Raven could do except to encourage her.

"Sorry, but that means the labor will quicken."

Valerie was sweating in the warm water, her pains doubling with it. Denzel was rubbing her back and bump, doing whatever he could to help, wishing he could carry the baby for her.

"It hurts more because your wolf isn't with you," the doctor encouraged her, having delivered a lot of pups. He knew that their Luna's case was different and only hoped there would not be any complications.

"She's a strong woman. She will make it," Alpha Denzel said confidently. Valerie walked on coals without her wolf, and since she knew the consequences before opting for this method, Denzel was certain of a positive outcome.

Two hours passed, and Valerie could not take it anymore, a shrill tore from her throat.

A knock was heard on her door, and Alice barged in with Burke, both of them freezing at the door.

"Sorry. I thought my help was needed," Alice said nervously. Hearing the scream, she knew something had happened but had no idea Valerie already had help.

"No, our Luna is in labor. Both of you should go enjoy yourselves," Alpha Denzel forced a smile and dismissed them, but Alice did not want to leave, though shy about Alpha Denzel using the word 'enjoyment.'

How could he expect them to mate when their Luna was in so much pain?

"Are they mates?" the doctor asked, Raven was equally surprised and desperate to know. Then she suddenly remembered something.

"Is that why you told me to give her the dress?"

"He bought it?" Alice asked, amazed by Burke's kindness since she was still wearing the dress.

The conversation distracted Valerie from the pain until she felt a strong movement inside her belly. She groaned with her face beaded with sweat.

"Arrrrrhhhhh."

The doctor quickly checked her dilation again. "Splendid. She's already ten centimeters dilated. Luna, you have to push harder," the doctor encouraged her, but when his eyes met with Alice, he wanted to laugh.

"Alice, you don't have to be scared."

Alice was as pale as a ghost. Alpha Denzel hugged Valerie from behind, his hands resting on her bump, but what happened next brought tears to their eyes.

Chapter 432 - Val, you have to see this!

Chapter 432: Chapter 432 - Val, you have to see this!

Alpha Denzel kissed the crook of her neck, making her relax as much as possible before another contraction kicked in.

They worked together as a team, as if he knew exactly what she was going through. His gestures were in sync with what she needed at that point in time, and his words were the fuel.

"Let's do this together, my love." He felt the tightness of her belly, her nervousness, pain, and everything. She might not have her wolf, but he easily put himself in her shoes.

This was his mate, the only woman he ever had in his bed. If anyone knew her better, then that was Alpha Denzel.

Knowing how intense her pains had gotten, he tried every means to relax her, including reminding her of her strength.

"I remember that woman who walked on coals and killed all those men even when her wolf died. We can do this, right?" He asked in deep breaths, Valerie nodded her head, forcing a smile.

She knew she could do it, and besides, she was not alone. Everyone present was there because of her, to ensure that everything goes smoothly.

Alpha Denzel was timing the contractions, and when another one was yet to kick in, he encouraged her.

"Okay. Let's give this our best shot, right?"

"Yeah," Valerie said through painful pants, Alpha Denzel sighed. "Take a deep breath and let's do it together."

Valerie took a deep breathe, the same time the contraction kicked in, using the pain to push so hard, the pup sprang out but was quickly grabbed by the doctor, who had been on high alert.

Never had he seen any she-wolf deliver so fast and bravely. The Alpha and Luna indeed made a very great team.

Alice fainted instantly, but being with Burke, he held her, looking as pale as a ghost himself. They were not even close, only watching everything from the entrance where they still stood after entering the room.

This whole thing made Burke feel that he had a lot to learn in taking good care of his mate.

Alpha Denzel was so exceptional, and his way of helping deliver the pup showed a lot of experience.

However, everyone knew that this was his first pup, meaning that he had researched a lot and applied the knowledge at the right time.

Their Luna delivered as a human, but it was faster than that of she-wolves, thanks to Raven's herbs, Denzel's support, and her own stubborn bravery.

"Congratulations, Alpha and Luna, the pack's pup is here," the doctor announced when the cry of the pup filled the air. Everyone had joyful tears in their eyes when he was being cleaned.

Alice had regained consciousness through Raven's help, and Burke quickly recovered from the shock.

As the pack's beta, he had a responsibility to perform at a time like this and quickly did so, spreading the message through mindlink.

'The pack's pup is here. To the pack house, everybody.'

Burke had read from the pack's constitution that this was supposed to be done as soon as the pup was birthed.

He never witnessed it done but still remembered the steps from what he read. Alpha Denzel knew about this and lifted Valerie from the tub when the pup was being cleaned and dressed.

The doctor took care of the placenta and everything else but was covered with a curtain. Denzel was always cautious about exposing his woman's nakedness, creating privacy for everything to be done.

Raven was also on high alert but did not know that part about introducing the pack's pup since this was the first pack she ever joined.

However, when she noticed that Valerie wanted to sleep, she quickly gave her another herb.

"Luna, this will help you to heal faster, even before your wolf returns." Valerie's sleep will be long and peaceful, but after waking up, she will feel refreshed with no pain at all.

'I'm already here, and I must say that I missed you a lot,' Astrid said. Valerie smiled faintly before responding to Raven.

"She's already here." Then she said to Astrid.

'I must confess that I missed you a lot, but Denzel took care of everything.' Thinking of it, Alpha Denzel took the position of her wolf, and now, she felt a lot better than before.

Astrid was excited to be back and was not surprised by the news Valerie gave. 'I knew he would. Our mate is exceptional.'

Burke finished his part and alerted Alpha Denzel immediately about it. "Alpha, the pack members are here."

"For what?" Alpha Denzel knew but did not want to take his pup out in the snow when he was born human.

Werewolves had a strong resistance to the cold, but he could not say the same for a pup who did not have his wolf yet.

"Alpha, according to the pack's tradition, the pup must be announced by the Alpha as soon as it's born under the full moon. Today is a full moon."

"But it's snowing outside," Alpha Denzel reminded him. Burke was a little confused. Since when did the Alpha begin to care so much about the weather or was even limited by it?

"It should still be done," Valerie said weakly.

If today was not the full moon, then it would have made sense to wait, but at this time, there was no need to do so, and the pack members were already gathered and waiting for this.

"Alright, if you say so," Alpha Denzel agreed.

The pup was dressed in very warm clothes, so Alpha Denzel carried him in his arms. As soon as their bodies came into contact, the newborn pup smiled.

A tear fell from Alpha Denzel's eyes. The love between them was so strong, it broke him.

Never did he think of loving a male pup so much, but this one made him do so. "I love you so much. If your mom agrees, then you shall be called Denver Denzel."

"Sounds good to me," Valerie said weakly before drinking the herbs Raven made her and closed her eyes to sleep.

Denzel did not want to disturb her anymore, but reaching outside, Alpha Denzel's voice echoed around the pack house, jolting Valerie from the sleep that almost took her.

"Val, you have to see this!"

Chapter 433 – Pups Grow Fast

Chapter 433: Chapter 433 – Pups Grow Fast

The snow was not ordinary, and it showed in the ambiance of the pack right after the Luna birthed the pack's pup.

This was the welcoming of Denver Denzel because it stopped snowing, and there did not seem to be a trace of it. Like some kind of magic, the snow mysteriously disappeared, and the weather was perfect under the full moon.

The moon shone brightly, and the moment Denzel lifted Denver above his head, the moon temporarily changed to red before it suddenly regained its color once more.

The pack members bellowed with joy at the sight of the bawling newborn. Denver's cries to them were a sure sign that he was happy to meet his pack members.

"Pack, our heir has arrived and shall be called Denver Denzel," Alpha Denzel announced delightfully.

The bellows and applause increased with his words, and a glow formed around Valerie when she appeared at the frontage of the packhouse, supported by Alice and Raven.

The herb was meant to make her sleep, so she was feeling drowsy.

However, she soon regained strength from her wolf, who was empowered by the moon, and joined Denzel in the loose plain white dress she wore.

"This is magical," she whispered after Denzel lowered his hand and passed Denver to her. Once in the comfort of his mother's arms, he went quiet like he was not the one bawling before.

Alpha Denzel was glad she could make it, signaling to Alice and Raven to leave Valerie for him. He could take care of both her and their pup.

"No love, it's a sign that this boy here is going to do so many wonders that the world is not ready for. The snow was because of his labor, and now, the moon shines like the sun after turning red a while ago."

Alpha Denzel knew these were all sure evidence that Denver was mightier than him. As such, he will face a greater challenge but will pull through like a true Denzel family born.

Slowly but surely, Denzel understood the ways of destiny and time.

Messages were flooding into their minds through mindlink, and Valerie was responding to all the congratulatory messages before she went inside to breastfeed her pup, falling asleep with him by her side.

Denzel carried and placed him inside his cot as he laid beside his Luna. No matter the situation, Denver would have to be in his cot for Denzel to sleep beside his Luna.

The room had been cleaned and arranged as everyone had retired to bed, but it was not long before Denzel was awakened by Alice's scream.

A smile stretched his lips. In Burke's room, he was not taking chances at all, and Alpha Denzel hoped that very soon, Burke and Alice would also have their pup soon.

Burke had agreed to give Alice some time, but when he happened to barge into her in the shower room, all his defenses broke.

Poor Alice had her virginity ruthlessly taken away by her mate but was the first to also mark him as hers.

Due to the bond, the latter part of their lovemaking was more enjoyable, and Alice ended up going more rounds after being marked and mated with the first time.

However, the pack house was never the same again after the arrival of Denver Denzel. The pup cried a lot at night, mostly to suck, leaving Valerie so exhausted each time.

The maids could not complain, and Valerie refused the services of a nanny.

"Pups grow fast, and very soon, they become independent. We won't get this moment back, so let's just enjoy it the best we can."

Denzel nodded. His sleep was equally ruined, and the breast that used to be his comfort was now taken away by his pup, but it was okay.

It felt like a loan since his pup needed it more, but the only problem was his sleep. He had training tomorrow, so he had to rest a bit more.

"Okay, I will rest on the couch. You two should feel comfortable on the bed," he winked before changing his bed position, but Valerie was not liking the idea.

"We three can still share this bed."

"Love, I know that, but we might end up sleeping on Denver, and I might be in your way," he yawned, but Valerie pouted.

"No. Denver will go back to his cot, so you should sleep on the bed."

Denzel did not refuse, going back to the bed and soon drifting to sleep.

When Valerie woke up the next day, she was on the phone for hours. At first, it was her parents before Ashley, Adira, and Alessia.

By the time she was done speaking on the phone, breakfast was ready, and Denzel was patiently waiting for her. He wanted her to eat before he leaves for training.

"Aunty Fernanda said this is very good for lactating mothers to increase the flow of your breastmilk," he explained as he opened the utensil.

It was oatmeal with some nuts in it, and Valerie frowned a little. "You added something else," she noticed.

Denzel shrugged. "You have trust in Raven, so she gave me some herbs to add to it. Are you tired now?" Denzel asked teasingly. Valerie smiled, and as soon as she sat down, the cry of Denver could be heard from upstairs.

Denzel was already running up the stairs, feeling like they needed a nanny. Perhaps, they could have that discussion again later.

"Eat, I will take care of him until you are done, and then, you can give him breastmilk."

Valerie agreed with the plan but was amazed by Alpha Denzel's gentility towards their pup despite not having enough sleep last night.

Well, she had to eat because the boy could suck.

"Good morning, Luna," Alice said when she approached Valerie. "You look stunning this morning."

Valerie forced a smile. She did not feel stunning this morning but rather tired as she had to wake up several times to breastfeed Denver. Then she noticed the mark on Alice's neck.

"You've been marked. Congratulations."

Alice smiled shyly. "Thank you, Luna."

Weeks passed, and Denver was growing a bigger appetite each day, and thanks to the right dishes and herbs, Valerie was meeting up with the demand.

Raven's birthday had also arrived, but she noticed the Alpha and Luna were not as happy for her as they were for Alice. So what exactly was the problem?

Chapter 434 - I Don't Want to Be Some Luna

Chapter 434: Chapter 434 - I Don't Want to Be Some Luna

Raven followed Alpha Denzel quietly as he led her into the woods to have her first shift. It was clear that there was so much on his mind, and Raven could not guess if it was because of her or anything else. freewebnovel.com

Ray had also gone to test his first shift with Burke, and Raven wondered why Alpha Denzel did not pair her with her twin brother.

If only she knew how much he wanted to make a last memory with her. He and Valerie had sleepless nights, not just because of Denver this time but rather...

However, when Alpha Denzel began to respond to her questions with the shortest possible answers, she could not take it anymore, asking,

"Alpha, is there a problem? You can tell me, please."

She was behind Alpha Denzel, so he forced a smile before beckoning her to quicken her pace. Soon, everything would be revealed to her, and she would understand it better.

It was not in Denzel's place to explain all that to her. "There is no problem, Raven. Today is your birthday, and a lot awaits you."

This was not Alpha Denzel. He usually spoke with so much confidence, but this time, he seemed to be holding something back, or he was not telling her the whole truth.

"But you don't look happy. I saw how excited you were about Alice, but it's not the same with me. Luna has also been like that towards me for a few days now. Burke and Alice stare at me as if they lost something," Raven analyzed, her voice was so teary, it saddened Alpha Denzel's heart.

Nevertheless, he wondered how Burke and Alice knew about it. If they didn't, then why were they also saddened?

He swallowed the need to delve for more information and rather comforted her. "Raven, I love you just as much as I love every one of my pack members, perhaps even more."

Yes. The love he had for both her and Alice was the same as he felt for Alessia. That was the reason why her leaving was hurting him badly.

Raven had grown smarter, thanks to Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie. She had also grown tougher and was now mature looking.

It was not hard for her to discern that something was missing in all that her Alpha was saying.

"Alpha, I know that you love me, but that does not answer the question about why you look so sad when you should be happy for me. I am hoping that Gamma Gandolf will be my mate, so I will remain in this pack forever," she said with a sweet smile. Alpha Denzel's eyes stung with tears.

Yet, he did not allow his emotions to get in the way. Indeed, he also wished the same, but things turned out differently.

It did not mean it was a wrong match because the moon goddess was very wise. "You got it all wrong, Raven. I am happy for you, and so are Valerie, Alice, and Burke. Everyone is happy today, and because it's your and your twin brother's birthdays, you will see what will happen after your first shift."

Raven smiled. She believed and trusted her Alpha but was saddened that he had not addressed her desire to have Gandolf as her mate, so she could remain at the Evergreen pack.

"Okay, Alpha. I believe you," she said. Denzel knew he was going to miss her. She was so pure and honest, full of love and care. The pack had their trust in her ability to heal with herbs, and she was always the first point of call before the pack doctor.

Denzel had not gotten over his grief but was wondering how he was going to break the news to the pack members when the need arose. He was also certain that Alpha Ludwig would be here soon, though he hadn't called.

They had reached the best part of the woods where it was safe to shift, so Alpha Denzel urged her on.

"I have emergency clothes here so you can go ahead and shift. Imagine having your wolf and try to speak with her through mindlink like you do with me or any of the pack members," Alpha Denzel explained after having done this with Alice.

"Yes, Alpha," Raven smiled and instantly tried to communicate with her wolf, who was supposed to be awakened by now.

However, she rather began to feel immense pain all over her body. It was a pain she could not explain, but her body was suddenly covered with white fur, a tail developing at her backside.

A growl tore from her throat, accompanied by the ripping of her clothes, as her claws elongated, accompanied by hind feet. A gigantic wolf stood in front of Alpha Denzel, and sadness increased.

"A Luna wolf?"

He could not believe it. How did Ludwig get so lucky? Then again, the moon goddess must have been repaying him for his loss of Alice.

Also, Ludwig had really changed within the time span Denzel gave him and was well deserving of Raven.

'Raven, I am Luna Twilight, your wolf.'

'If you are my wolf, then why call yourself Luna? Do you want to be banished? There is just one Luna in this pack.'

Raven was afraid of getting herself into trouble, but her wolf explained it to her.

'What I mean is, I am a Luna wolf. Meaning, you are destined to be a Luna.'

Raven was afraid. It was impossible for her to be a Luna at the Evergreen pack, and she was not willing to leave.

'I don't want to be some fucking Luna.'

'Raven, you can shift now. I left the emergency clothes so call me when you are done changing,' Alpha Denzel's mindlink interrupted the discussion between her and her wolf.

'We shall talk about this later, but don't let my Alpha know about it,' she warned seriously, thinking of how to hide her wolf, but her wolf chuckled.

'He knows already, but you have to shift. This is your first time.'

Raven shifted, feeling sad, as she put on her clothes. She'd rather be a regular pack member and remain in the Evergreen pack than some Luna and relocate to another pack.

"Alpha," she called out, but when Alpha Denzel turned around, his eyes rolled to the back, meaning he was mind-linking someone.

It was Burke. 'Alpha, it's about Ray. You have to see this,' Burke mind-linked in an urgent tone.

Chapter 435 - Alpha, you aren't going to banish me?

Chapter 435: Chapter 435 - Alpha, you aren't going to banish me?

"Where are you?" Alpha Denzel mindlinked back, Burke responded. "Close to the woods around the cottage."

Alpha Denzel stared at Raven and smiled after ending the mindlink. "You have a powerful wolf. Go home and change. Alice will come and get you."

Slowly, he was beginning to accept reality and was genuinely happy for her. Raven would make a great Luna with all the skills she had acquired at the Evergreen pack.

She shared her knowledge of herbs and received combat skills in return, as well as wisdom in managing a pack because she was always around the leaders of the pack.

With all these skills combined with her Luna wolf, she was going to be a great asset to the Black Fur Pack, making it one of the strongest contenders among all packs.

Already, the finances of the pack were now buoyant, and everything about it had been transformed.

As such, Alpha Denzel was convinced that Raven would be able to protect herself and her pack. That way, he would also not be too worried about her.

Raven saw that Alpha Denzel was in a hurry, most probably because of the mindlink, and did not stop him.

"Yes, Alpha," she reluctantly agreed, though there was so much she wanted to tell him, beginning with the fact that she did not want to be a Luna of another pack.

Alpha Denzel arrived to see Ray shivering. It was clear that he had overstayed his first shift and was suffering its effects.

"Why did you let him stay for so long in his first shift?" Alpha Denzel asked, slightly upset.

He also realized that the emergency cloth Ray wore was not enough, so he removed his shirt and quickly wore it for him, telling Burke, "Remove yours."

Burke immediately complied while apologizing. "I'm sorry, Alpha. I was too shocked and wanted you to come and see his wolf."

Staying too long in one's wolf form for the first time after a shift could result in the person becoming sick.

Alpha Denzel's attention was still on Ray. "Are you feeling better?"

Ray was wearing all the clothes given but was still shivering, so Alpha closed in on him, pulling him close to his body to share his warmth.

When Burke saw this, he was amazed and equally pressed his body against theirs. It was not long before Ray began to sweat from the heat.

"I feel better. Thank you, Alpha."

Alpha Denzel and Burke pulled away before he asked Burke, "So, tell me the problem now."

"Alpha, Ray has an Alpha wolf."

Alpha Denzel was speechless. He was going to lose Ray too. Nevertheless, it dawned on him that this was the payment of the moon goddess for the injustice their father suffered when he was banished from his pack.

Well, before Ray would leave, he must find his mate, which had not happened, so he still had some time to spend at the Evergreen pack.

"Alright, he shall begin Alpha training soon."

Ray's mate might either be an Alpha's daughter who had no brother to take over the pack, or a young Luna who must have lost her Alpha in a war.

No matter what form it was going to take, Alpha Denzel knew that somebody must learn how to use the herbs, and the only name which came to mind was Alice.

With her golden wolf, she would be able to learn very well and blend the knowledge with her powers.

Ray and Burke were shocked. Most Alphas would feel threatened if his pack member had an Alpha wolf, but to Alpha Denzel, it only made him greater.

How beautiful it would be to have Alphas he trained being loyal to him? That would only increase the number of Alphas he could trust or count on when the need arose.

Ray thought he was going to get banished. "Alpha, you aren't going to banish me?"

"For what?" Alpha Denzel frowned a little. "You don't determine your wolf, and it's evident that you will be leaving after finding your mate."

Ray did not seem happy with the last part, asking curiously. "But what if I don't want to leave? Can the moon goddess change my wolf?"

He loved the Evergreen pack so much, but Alpha Denzel had news for him.

"Trust the moon goddess, Ray. Everything you learn is for the future. There must be a pack out there without an Alpha and might be needing someone as great, honest, strong, and resilient as you. Be proud of who you are."

Ray smiled, surprised that Alpha Denzel did not support his wanting to stay. "Yes, Alpha. Thank you very much."

As the three walked back, Alpha Denzel remembered something and said to him, "Run home and change. Then you can meet us at the training arena."

Ray obeyed without another question, and reaching home, he was stunned to see his sister. "Raven, you look like a princess, just as you always wanted."

There were joyful tears in Raven's eyes. "You should get dressed too. Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie sent these to us."

Ray saw the tuxedo on the sofa and without a word, he picked it up and ran to his room to shower before putting it on.

"We must wait for your brother," Alice said to Raven, forcing her spirits up.

She had been waiting for them to deliver and ensure they wore the outfits prepared for them by the Alpha and Luna.

When Ray stepped out, both Alice and Raven's jaws dropped. "Now you look like a real-life prince," Raven said. Ray laughed as he remembered something and asked,

"How did your first shift go?"

Raven sighed and glanced at Alice. "It went well, but I got a Luna wolf. I still want to discuss with Alpha Denzel if I could change it. I just want to be here."

Alice was happy for her wolf, but Ray shook his head. "He won't let you change it. I tried."

"What kind of wolf do you have?" Raven asked with interest, her twin brother replied.

"An Alpha wolf."

Alice lost all hope but forced a smile. "Before you leave, teach me about herbs. I will be very interested to learn, but for now, let's not miss the main event."

The three went to the training arena, and as soon as Raven reached there and saw the man her wolf was so untamed about, she did not know whether to laugh or cry.

Chapter 436: Chapter 436 - Mine

Alpha Denzel went to freshen up at the packhouse. Valerie had just finished supervising the setup and had returned to change as well.

She had already finished with Denver, who looked ravishing in his cute tuxedo. "How is it that he looks cuter than me?" Alpha Denzel said playfully when he came out of the shower, kissing Denver on the lips.

"I heard that our mini selves should always be a better version of their original," Valerie shrugged. "I would have called you a failure if our pup was less good-looking than the father."

Denver smiled, but the next moment, Denzel's hair strands were wrapped around his little fingers.

"Ouch, why are you being so mean?" Denzel screeched, and Valerie laughed. "That's because you left before he woke up."

Denzel managed to free himself and lifted Denver in his arms. Only a towel was wrapped around his waist, so Valerie took a quick picture of them.

"You two look amazing. Now I'm going to shower."

Denzel chuckled and kissed Denver on the forehead this time as Valerie went into the shower room.

"You know what buddy, you will soon begin to understand the responsibilities in this pack and around the world. Then you won't be upset when I'm not with you."

Denver smiled, and Denzel placed him in a sitting position while he dressed up.

"So how did it go?" Valerie asked from the shower room, and Denzel responded. "Ray has an Alpha wolf, and Raven has a Luna wolf." He was amazed by Valerie's excitement.

"I always knew they were special, and now we shall have two more packs we can trust."

"You are right about that, but they both did not seem happy."

There was a few seconds of silence, which went unnoticed because Denzel was dressing up, and Denver seemed fine by himself.

"That's understandable, but it only means we did our job in giving them happiness. With time, they will adjust to their new packs but will always be welcome here."

Denzel loved her analysis and did not say anything more. By the time he was done, Valerie was out of the shower, and a mindlink came through.

"Alpha, Alpha Ludwig is here."

Alpha Denzel did not hesitate in his response. 'Let him in.'

"I will go meet Ludwig," he said as he kissed Denver once more on the forehead and Valerie on the lips.

Dressed in a black shirt and pants, he carried that intimidating aura with him once again, but Valerie's attraction towards him only increased.

"I love you, Denzel."

Alpha Denzel froze at the door and turned around. "Careful Love, Denver is here." If not, he would have gone at least a round before leaving her.

Valerie giggled as he added. "You know I love you more."

Denzel went downstairs to see that not only Alpha Ludwig but also Raven and Ray's parents, Gerald and Calister, had arrived.

"Alpha Denzel, thank you for inviting us," Beta Gerald said politely. Alpha Denzel shook his head.

"Beta Gerald, don't be so courteous. They are your children, so you have every right to be here. Welcome."

"Thank you," both Gerald and Calister said as Calister asked, "Where is Luna Valerie and Gerald?"

"They will be down soon," he said, just as Burke was descending the stairs, having also freshened up.

"I'm happy to inform you that your children have Alpha and Luna wolves. As such, they would find their happiness elsewhere." The couple did not seem excited about their children leaving the Evergreen Pack, but Alpha Denzel continued.

"Burke would take you to the arena. I need to have a word with Alpha Ludwig."

As soon as the couple left with Burke, Alpha Ludwig spoke up. "Alpha Denzel, thank you for everything."

He was dressed in a black tuxedo with a huge bouquet in hand. "Well, your mate had her first shift today, and lucky for you, she had a Luna wolf. Since she's leaving with you, we would have to help with her wolf training, but aside from that, all her other skills are perfect."

Alpha Ludwig was stunned. He thought Alpha Denzel would make it difficult for him, but that did not seem to be the case.

"Thank you so much, Alpha Denzel. I promise to bring her to visit as often as she desires."

Alpha Denzel was not concerned about that. His focus was rather on something else.

"You can't relax because you have Raven. You have to maintain the standard your pack has reached now," he said seriously. Alpha Ludwig smiled and revealed.

"Alpha Denzel, I won't even dream of lowering the standard of my pack. A few Alphas visited recently, wanting me to partner with them, but I refused."

"Why is that?" Alpha Denzel asked, surprised that Ludwig rejected such an opportunity, but his response stunned him.

"Well, I was rather looking at partnering with you if it isn't too much. I mean, my warriors are very capable, and our businesses are successful. Our network recently rose into the billions, and it's all thanks to you."

Alpha Denzel smiled. With Raven there, he had to accept it, even if he did not want to. "We shall talk about it later. Raven must not arrive before you."

Alpha Ludwig smiled at the mention of Raven, and Valerie was also descending the stairs with Denver.

Alpha Denzel went to take Denver from her before admiring her beauty. Seventy percent of her pregnancy fat was already lost, but with or without it, she was always a stunning woman.

"You look beautiful, my love." Denzel kissed her on the lips, and Alpha Ludwig looked away shyly, already headed to the door.

Arriving at the arena, Alpha Ludwig was amazed that Alpha Denzel put up something so amazing for a mere pack member.

To Alpha Denzel, this was a send-off party, so it had to be bigger than all the birthday parties ever held in the pack.

The pack members kept wondering the reason for Alpha Ludwig's presence, but it wasn't long before the understanding hit home.

Alice appeared at the entrance before paving the way for Ray and Raven, but everyone was shocked when Raven's wolf thundered, "mate."

Shock registered in her eyes as she was filled with mixed emotions when Alpha Ludwig responded with tear-filled eyes. "Mine."

However, what no one expected was Raven turned around and ran out of the entrance...

Chapter 437 - My wolf is messing with my mind

Chapter 437: Chapter 437 - My wolf is messing with my mind

"Oh no, I should go after her." Valerie was about to chase after Raven when Alpha Denzel stopped her.

Being a nursing mother, no one knew when Denver would start bawling for her. The pup could really suck and therefore needed his mother close to him all the time until he begins to take in solids.

"Let me handle it." Alpha Denzel gave Denver to Valerie and chased after Raven. The party went from excited to sad, and Ludwig felt at a loss, not knowing what to do.

All he wanted was the chance to make his mate happy, but it seemed to him that his mate did not like him, and since he did not know her much, he was confused as to what to do.

She had not outrightly rejected him, so that was a good thing. Perhaps, she only needed time to come to terms with the fact that they were mates.

Alpha Denzel was amazed by how far Raven had gone within the short time when he began to chase after her. Those legs must really be fast, thanks to all his training, or she was just too upset.

When he finally saw her image in the dark, he was certain to have caught up to her and roared in his Alpha tone. "STOP!"

Raven stopped immediately, and her legs wobbled from fear as she turned around and sat on the floor.

She sounded miserable. "Alpha, I don't want to go. Can't I stay here? I can reject him."

Alpha Denzel walked towards her and extended his hand to her. When she grabbed it, he ordered, "let's walk."

Raven obeyed, and they walked through the pack, under the street lights. Everyone was at the party except a few warriors stationed to ensure the security of the pack.

"Do you hate your mate?" Alpha Denzel suddenly stopped and asked. Raven thought carefully, and strangely, she was still wearing that jade necklace Alpha Ludwig gave her.

Right now, her emotions were all over the place, but she was seeing things clearly as well.

"Alpha, you knew he was my mate, so why didn't you tell me?"

Everything began to make sense to her. Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie's behaviors over the last few days, including that of Alice and Burke.

They knew she was going to leave, and it saddened them. She thought they weren't happy for her, but it turned out they were just as miserable by then as she was now.

If only her mate was not an Alpha, she would have convinced him to join her pack instead.

Alpha Denzel addressed her accusation calmly. "You didn't grow up in the pack, so I have to explain it to you. No one is supposed to tell the other they are mates, even if one recognizes the bond."

"It could result in chaos. Assuming I or Alpha Ludwig had told you, you could have rejected him because you weren't feeling the bond, and that could bring severe consequences," he explained.

Seeing her confused expression, he explained it further. "Then again, if you reject him now, you shall never have a second chance mate because he did nothing against you."

Fear shone in Raven's eyes at Alpha Denzel's last words. She wanted to have a mate and have an amazing pup like Denver in the future but only wished that her mate was a member of the Evergreen Pack.

"But I don't want to go," Raven cried. "This is my home. I want to stay here."

Alpha Denzel was moved but explained to her softly. "We don't determine where we want to be. Only the moon goddess does."

Raven did not agree with him and challenged, though in a respectful way.

"But you stood for your destiny. You never agreed with everything the moon goddess gave you."

Alpha Denzel let out a frustrated sigh but was not upset. Raven was one of those he went very hard on because of the future ahead of her. freewebnovel.com

However, she was also among the few who tasted his softness and complete trust.

"Raven, everything I did was for my mate. When I rejected her, it was to protect her, and when the moon goddess wanted to take her from me, I had to fight for her. If you reject Ludwig, then you are being selfish," he said honestly.

He didn't like the idea at first, but Ludwig proved himself worthy.

"But it's because I want to help this pack," Raven insisted. Alpha Denzel shook his head.

"The Black Fur Pack needs you, or the moon goddess would not have made this match. Ever since Ludwig told me you were his mate, I tried to make it difficult for him. I gave him tasks, hoping he won't be able to accomplish them, so I could leverage on it to keep you here, but guess what?"

"What?" Raven asked, stunned by the revelation. With the way Alpha Denzel was insisting on her accepting her mate, she had no idea he had done all that for her.

"He performed beyond my imagination, and that only means one thing."

"What is that?" Raven asked, too shocked to say anymore.

"That he loves you. He became a better person because of you, and I hope that you also do your part to make him reap the reward of every sacrifice he made for you."

Raven recalled all the work in progress projects she saw at the Black Fur pack and the way Alpha Denzel seemed to be in control of it.

It never occurred to her that it was all because of her. "I never thought about ever starting over. I thought I would be mated to someone like Gandolf or any of the warriors, so I could remain here."

Alpha Denzel was moved, but the right thing had to be done. "That did not happen. You are destined to be a Luna, so let me ask you one last time. Do you love your mate or not?"

If despite feeling the mate bond, she felt no attraction or love for her mate, then she will have a good reason to reject Alpha Ludwig, though Alpha Denzel was hoping for something different.

'Don't. You can't reject our mate,' her wolf screamed in her mind. She was frustrated.

"My wolf is messing with my mind," she said honestly. Alpha Denzel insisted.

"Be true to yourself, Raven, do you love him or not?"

Chapter 438 - My Little Man

Chapter 438: Chapter 438 - My Little Man

Raven searched her heart, finding no reason to hate Alpha Ludwig. Her wolf might just kill her if she dared to reject him.

Well, she couldn't see that as a bright future since their wolves were just horny and fierce creatures when it came to love and war.

The only person she could trust to know Alpha Ludwig's character was Alpha Denzel. Therefore, she was honest with him.

"I love him, but I don't want to leave. Can't I have both?"

Alpha Denzel smiled, feeling relieved as he advised her. "No, Raven, life is all about sacrifice. Ludwig made his, and now you have to make yours."

Raven sighed, feeling better after having this conversation with her Alpha. "Okay, but before we return to the party, can I ask for a favor?"

Alpha Denzel had a rule concerning promises, and from that perspective, no one was exempted from it. "I can't make any promises without consulting my Luna."

Raven smiled, hoping that one day her love for Alpha Ludwig would grow to the level of Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie.

"I know, but will Luna Valerie permit you to go with me?" She asked with pleading eyes. Alpha Denzel already had an answer to that but did not reveal it immediately.

"I would ask her, but if everything is okay there, you have to promise that you won't be sad anymore," he said seriously. Raven smiled and replied wholeheartedly.

"I promise."

"Alright. Now let's go see your mate," Alpha Denzel beckoned her in the direction of the arena.

So much had been done for her, and she almost ruined it. Still, something weighed heavily on her heart as she asked.

"And if I accept him, will you attend my coronation?"

Knowing that even Valerie would not want to miss that occasion, Alpha Denzel responded without a second thought. "I won't miss it for anything."

Raven beamed. "Thank you, Alpha Denzel, I will never forget all you have taught me and the kindness you've shown me."

"That is enough for me," Alpha Denzel replied as they walked back to the party. Raven's presence had him missing Alessia so much.

When they returned to the arena, Raven's eyes were puffy, but a smile lingered on her face as she walked to Ludwig and accepted the bouquet he presented to her with a heartfelt apology.

"I'm sorry. I was just too shocked."

Alpha Ludwig glanced at Alpha Denzel, amazed by how fast things had changed. He was thinking of giving her as much time as she wanted to accept the bond, but it seemed that the surprise he had for her would not be ruined after all.

"I promise you, Raven, that if we go to my pack and you don't like it there, you can return here or even reject me."

She was his mate, but that did not mean he was going to force her into accepting him. He loved her enough to let her go if she was not comfortable in his pack.

"You promise?" Raven could not believe it, but Alpha Ludwig nodded and replied.

"With all my heart."

The party took off from there, and Alpha Ludwig presented a gift to Ray as well. Then a proper introduction was made between him and Raven's parents.

He exchanged a few words with Alice, and the atmosphere returned to its joyous state with a lot of dancing, drinking, eating, and anything entertaining.

When the party was over, Alpha Denzel was having a discussion with Valerie when Raven returned from packing her stuff with the help of her brother.

She also changed from the princess gown Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie sent to her but still took it along.

She loved everything she got from the Evergreen Pack and could not let go of any of them.

Coming to this pack with nothing, she was leaving with so many things. Her parents were so happy for her, and she hugged Alice, her brother, parents, before kissing Denver on the forehead.

"I'll miss you so much, my little man," there were tears in Raven's eyes when Denver's tiny fingers wrapped around her forefinger.

The two got along quite well, and even as a baby, it was clear that Denver got the message.

He was smiling brightly at her, making her smile through tears. "I love you so much," she whispered and kissed him on the cheek before hugging Luna Valerie.

"I will always love you, Luna Valerie. You've been everything to me."

Valerie wiped her tears with her thumb, even as she held Denver in one arm. "I will never stop loving you, Raven, and you shall always be welcome here. If you face any challenge, remember that you have the Evergreen Pack behind you."

Raven was smiling, but the tears refused to stop. Her heart was in the Evergreen Pack, but she was destined to be somewhere else. "Thank you."

Raven was staring at her Alpha Denzel, hoping he would keep his promise to go with her. "Alpha..." She was about to ask when Alpha Denzel's voice cut in.

"We are running late. Let's go," he said. Raven beamed excitedly. "Thank you."

He had already discussed with Valerie, and she already had it in mind to let him go with her. Being Raven's first time, she needed her pack's support, but Alpha Denzel also had to ensure that everything was done as Alpha Ludwig proposed.

Raven felt safe with Alpha Denzel there. If she did not like the Black Fur Pack, it would be easier for her to return. When her things were being loaded into the car, Ludwig was forced to speak.

"You don't need all that. I already bought everything you need." He wanted her to feel at home as much as possible, getting everything she needed in place for her, but Raven had something very important to tell him. freewebnovel.com

With a smile, she let it out. "Thank you, but these are memories," she said. Ludwig smiled in understanding. "I understand."

There was more to it than he thought. Arriving at the Black Fur Pack, it was not just Raven, but even Alpha Denzel was shocked. "Ludwig, are we lost?"

Chapter 439 – I Can Take Care of My Mate

Chapter 439: Chapter 439 – I Can Take Care of My Mate

The walls of the Black Fur pack were covered with climbing wall plants, making the pack look small and cozy from the outside.

The frontage of the pack was decorated with neatly trimmed lawns, spelling out the name of the pack.

A huge fountain sat at the pack's entrance where security men rested. The fountain was designed like a black wolf, with enough space inside for a bed and washroom, accommodating four warriors.

It served as both a security post and a fountain, but the most astonishing feature was the large sculpted head of a black wolf on top of the gate, with water flowing out of its mouth to connect to the fountain at the security post.

Everything was painted in black with white flowers surrounding them. The completed pack was a stark contrast to what they had seen six months ago.

The transformation was breathtaking, and even though it was late, pack members had lined up, eagerly waiting for their Luna.

Raven was stunned by the appearance of the Black Fur pack, unable to compare it to the one she had visited before.

Alpha Ludwig wore a smile, pleased by the shocked expressions on Alpha Denzel and Raven's faces.

They had to park their cars at the gate and wait to be brought in later due to the pack members lined up to welcome their Luna.

It was very late, yet they were alert and excited to see their Luna, which made Raven realize that Alpha Ludwig had informed his pack about her arrival.

Her heart filled with joy at their beaming smiles, and even children aged six and above were present.

A tall man with long hair tied in a ponytail approached them and respectfully bowed his head.

"Welcome, Luna. My name is Liam, and I'm Alpha Ludwig's beta," he introduced himself before adding, "the pack members couldn't sleep without welcoming you first."

He then turned to Alpha Denzel and said, "I'm sorry, but I hope you don't mind our tradition of welcoming our Luna first. Alpha Denzel, you are welcome."

Alpha Denzel already knew about the tradition and was not offended. "Of course, it's the right thing to do."

Raven was speechless as they continued to wave and throw confetti on the path she walked. This was unexpected, especially considering she was born a rogue.

However, it began to sink in for her that this was the price for all her sufferings in the past. She was innocent and yet was born a rogue, so this was an honor bestowed on her.

"Our Luna is stunning," one of the pack members said, cutting through her thoughts as she glanced in their direction.

"Indeed, and she looks kind," another one exclaimed. Raven smiled but was too shy to look in their direction, so she lowered her head.

"Lift your head, Raven. A Luna's head is never bowed," Alpha Denzel said. She quickly lifted her head, beholding the beauty of the pack before her.

The pack members were still shouting positive things that made her acceptance of Alpha Ludwig worth it.

"Our Luna is from the evergreen pack. See, she's being escorted by Alpha Denzel himself."

It made the pack feel safe that Alpha Denzel was on their side because of Raven, making her even more admired.

"I heard that our Luna has special skills with herbs," another one said. Raven chuckled, wondering how there were always truths in the rumors that spread around the packs.

Still, what the next pack member said amidst the cheers and confetti made her cheeks crimson.

"We hope she gives us beautiful pups like herself."

Those words made her nervous because she was going to be marked and mated with, when she didn't even know how to kiss.

Even among rogues, she was protected by her father, and at the evergreen pack, Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie were very strict on wrong mating, so there were never such cases around the pack.

Alpha Denzel's face was expressionless, but internally, he was happy for this. No wonder the packs were already trying to gain Ludwig's partnership.

The transformation was amazing, especially the different colored trees planted along the driveways. They were not fully grown but still radiated immense beauty through the walkways.

Arriving at the pack house, there was another feast waiting, and Raven was happy when the servants served their meals, each of them bubbly.

As usual, Alpha Denzel did not eat, only sipping wine, as he called Valerie on the phone to check on her and Denver.

Beta Liam was all over Raven, introducing and explaining various delicacies of the Black Fur Pack to her.

Raven's simple mind did not drive her into thinking negatively, but Alpha Denzel and Ludwig were more mature.

When Alpha Denzel glared at Alpha Ludwig before glancing at Beta Liam, Alpha Ludwig quickly pressed his hand on that of his beta.

"It's enough, Liam. I can take care of my mate," he said sternly. Raven stiffened when she saw the looks in both Alpha Denzel and Ludwig's eyes.

Liam forced a smile. "I'm sorry, Alpha. She reminds me a lot of Alice. I just felt like doing for her what I was not able to do for Alice."

Raven already knew that Alice was originally from this pack but had no idea what she went through.

Not meaning to sow a seed of discomfort inside her, Alpha Denzel did not allow the details of that matter to be brought to light.

"Well, Alice was not your Luna, but Raven is. As such, you should treat her as a Luna and not some kid sister," Alpha Denzel said seriously. Beta Liam forced a smile before nodding.

"You are right," he said. Then he turned to Raven. "Luna, please help yourself."

Alpha Ludwig began passing things to her, placing them within her reach. Things were a bit awkward between them, but Alpha Denzel knew it was just a matter of time.

"Alpha Denzel, I will show you to your room first," Alpha Ludwig said when dinner was over, but Alpha Denzel refused the offer.

"No. Let Liam take me. You should take care of your Luna."

Raven looked around nervously, partly guessing the hidden intention in Alpha Denzel's words.

"I will show you to our room," Alpha Ludwig held his hand out to Raven, and she nervously accepted it.

"Alpha Denzel, please, I will show you to your room," Beta Liam said. Alpha Denzel obliged. He liked the room, but it felt lonely without Valerie, so he went out for a walk.

There was just one problem. As soon as he stepped out, he saw Alpha Ludwig pacing back and forth, with an anxious look in his eyes.

"Tell me, what happened?" he asked. Alpha Ludwig was quite nervous.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 440 - Such an Asshole

Chapter 440: Chapter 440 - Such an Asshole

A few minutes ago, Alpha Ludwig walked his mate, Raven, into their room.

Everything was great and better than she imagined it to be, but she was scared and nervous, withdrawing her hand from Alpha Ludwig.

It seemed that all her courage was derived from Alpha Denzel being around her, and now that she was alone with Ludwig with the doors closed behind her, reality began to hit home.

Things were never going to be the same again, and she would never get to sleep alone in her bed the way she liked.

She would constantly have to share her bed with not just anyone but someone of the opposite sex who was also the Alpha of the pack.

There was also the thought of having great responsibilities of the pack on her shoulders as well as satisfying the needs of an Alpha.

Ludwig felt a silent rejection in her action as he turned to face her. "You don't want to bear my mark?"

He could wait for the mating until after the coronation, but he so badly wanted her to bear his mark.

Disappointment laced his voice, shining in his eyes. It was just too hard to ignore. Raven lowered her gaze, her heart thumping.

"I don't feel ready," she said in almost a whisper.

'You fool. Why do you do that? This is our mate. You better take off your clothes or I will take over and rip them off you,' her wolf bellowed in her ears, but for the first time, she shut the horny creature out of her mind.

Just this morning, she woke up feeling happy that it was her eighteenth birthday, and just in the evening, she was supposed to warm an Alpha's bed, not knowing if she was going to enjoy it.

"It's okay if you don't feel ready," Alpha Ludwig said, but his gaze had turned very dark. It was clear that he was battling his wolf.

At that moment, he looked so fierce, Raven was creating a distance between them, so he quickly walked out to not scare her any further.

'You shouldn't have left. You are such an asshole,' his wolf cursed him. He retorted, 'It's your fault. You scared her.'

'She would not have been scared if she had not shut her wolf out. I could not reach her,' his wolf complained.

If Raven's wolf was active, she would have made her bolder, but she had to shut out her animalistic side.

'You have to understand that we can't mark her tonight,' Alpha Ludwig retorted. He was pacing here and there as he communicated with his wolf.

This night was meant to be special, as he had to make a formal introduction in the morning before Alpha Denzel's departure.

If Raven had borne his mark, it would have strengthened the faith of the pack members in their relationship.

'How will you control it with both of you sleeping in the same room?' His wolf asked, but Alpha Ludwig already had a way around that.

'I don't intend to. I'm sleeping in one of the guest rooms because we already gave Alpha Denzel the Luna chamber.'

That room has always been used to host very important guests, but his wolf was not in sync with him.

'I suggest you go back and try again.'

Alpha Ludwig was not in agreement with his wolf's suggestion. As an Alpha, his words should carry power.

'I'm an Alpha. I told her it's fine, so it's better we go for a run. Both of us will feel better.'

About to dash into the woods, Alpha Denzel appeared at the entrance of the door.

"Tell me, what happened?" he asked. Alpha Ludwig was quite nervous.

If he told Alpha Denzel, he feared sounding selfish, as someone like Alpha Denzel would advise him to be patient. After all, he was among one of the most self-disciplined Alphas who did not mate immediately after meeting his mate for the first time.

"She isn't ready, so I wanted to go for a run and sleep in another room. It's not a problem at all," Alpha Ludwig forced a smile, but Alpha Denzel's expression was stern.

"She's not ready? What is that even supposed to mean? Did you try to touch her, or did you just discuss it?" He asked, feeling that the problem was partly from him.

Alpha Ludwig had to man up to his Luna, as it was clear how much he loved her. All he wanted was to make her happy, but that did not justify his not putting in much effort to mark her.

"We discussed it," he said honestly. Alpha Denzel smiled, but it didn't reach his eyes.

"If Raven does not give in before I leave, things would be tougher between you both. You better go in there and get it done because I want to see a mark before I leave tomorrow."

He knew that if their bond was not sealed, Raven would never feel at home and would continuously distance herself from her mate.

"But..." Alpha Ludwig wanted to argue, to explain that it will feel forced, but Alpha Denzel already thought about it and elaborated further.

"Be gentle and caress her. You don't have to give her the impression that you are going to mark her."

After saying these, Alpha Denzel felt like he was growing old, though he was just nearing his early thirties.

So much responsibility and being a big brother to most of the young Alphas all increased his level of maturity by a hundred.

Alpha Ludwig was stunned, feeling as if he was being tested, so he did not move until Alpha Denzel asked him.

"What are you waiting for? Go now?"

Alpha Ludwig was at a loss, but his wolf was already excited. 'Alpha Denzel is such a good Alpha. I'm liking him better than you.'

Ludwig pursed his lips and did not respond to his wolf. By the time he returned to their room, Raven was lying under the duvet with only a small portion of her hair showing.

He nervously went to have a quick shower and laid beside her, but as soon as he lifted the duvet, he froze.

Two times rejected Luna, the desire of all Alphas

Chapter 441 - I am here to help you

Chapter 441: Chapter 441 - I am here to help you

After Ludwig left following Raven's rejection of intimacy with him, her wolf returned to torment her even more.

'You got our mate upset. You can't be a Luna with this attitude.' A Luna had to be smart in both helping the Alpha take care of the pack and making him happy.

When it came to their mates, loyal Alphas were all the same, feeling intense attraction towards their mates and wanting to mark them immediately.

It was only those who had mistresses that would seek gratification elsewhere.

Raven was shocked to hear Twilight's voice, knowing how she had kicked her out of her mind. 'I locked you out, so how is it that I am able to hear your voice again?'

'Don't forget that you had your first shift today. You aren't strong enough to lock me out for long. You don't even know how to control me,' her wolf Twilight barked in her mind.

Taming a Luna wolf was not as easy as that of ordinary wolves, so Raven was going to need some help.

She was already thinking about how to tame her wolf to do her bidding, but Twilight already read her mind and answered her.

'The only person who can help you is the one you sent away. He's our mate, so why is it so hard for you to bear his mark and mate with him? Sex is sweet, you know?'

Raven could not believe she was having this conversation with her wolf. It felt so weird.

'I need time to adjust,' Raven said again, feeling nervous. Every she-wolf was always eager to meet their wolves on their eighteenth birthday, but was this part of their excitement?

Raven never recalled thinking in this direction because she had been so busy planting herbs, supplying them to the hospitals, and preserving those that could be preserved.

'The earlier, the better. How do you expect him to explain to his pack members tomorrow when they see you without a mark on your neck?'

Twilight's question caused Raven's strong resolve to crack. Indeed, she could not make the pack think that there was something wrong between her and Ludwig when she just needed time.

Ludwig was an Alpha, having made so many sacrifices for her. The more Raven thought about it, the more she felt he did not deserve this.

If for nothing at all, it was her responsibility to make him happy, just as he made her ever since her arrival.

Everything he had done for the past eleven months was all because of her. 'It's true. I messed up, but I can't ask for help from Alpha Denzel. I'm too shy.'

If she were at the Evergreen Pack, she would have sought help from Alice, but now, Alice was too far away, and Raven knew she would be disturbing Alice's sleep if she called her right now.

'You don't need Alpha Denzel's help to resolve this. I am here to help you,' her wolf said seriously, taking charge of the situation.

'How interesting. So what do we do now?' Raven asked, ready to do whatever it took to complete her mate before the break of dawn.

'Let's shower and wait for him, naked,' Twilight suggested. Raven's face was as red as tomatoes. Her wolf was either going to make or unmake her, but after messing things up herself, she had no choice but to accept her wolf's suggestion.

After her shower, she lay in bed naked as her wolf suggested but felt so embarrassed that she covered her whole body with the duvet.

'He's still not back. What if he doesn't return to sleep in this room?' Raven asked her wolf, feeling anxious and guilty.

'Then we will have to go out there to look for him. It was all your fault,' Twilight pointed out, not willing to give up on this special night.

Raven hoped it wouldn't come to that. She prayed silently that somehow, Ludwig would come back and not sleep in a different room.

When she heard the sound of the door open, she was filled with both excitement and anxiety.

'He's back, but what if he sees me as a deviant? I hope you are right, Twilight, or we shall lose the respect of our mate.'

Raven saw women who tried to seduce men as shameless, never thinking she was going to be one of them.

Nevertheless, those men were not those women's mates. The thought partially relieved her from the guilt she was feeling before.

She soon heard the sound of the shower as her wolf responded. 'If he sees us as perverts, then he's not deserving of us.'

If they were to seduce someone else, then that would be an offense, but with Ludwig being their mate, they had every right to seduce him.

Soon, the side of the bed dipped, and Raven's nervousness increased when the duvet was lifted off her. She opened her eyes to meet Ludwig's and lowered hers shyly.

"You came back," she said, pulling Ludwig out of his shock.

After what transpired between them earlier, he thought she was too shy, but seeing her naked sexy body, everything changed.

"Yes, I'm just surprised that you are naked when you need time." He pushed strands of hair on her face to the back of her ears. "Will you blame me for my inability to resist my mate?"

Ludwig leaned closer and cooed in her ears; she could feel his warm breath as she stared shyly at his naked muscular chest.

The only thing he wore was boxer shorts, so Alice equally felt seduced. However, she thought about apologizing for her childish behavior earlier.

"I...I wanted to apologize for earlier. I was just nervous."

Alpha Ludwig was both surprised and happy to hear these words from her. After thinking of all the ways to seduce his mate tonight, she turned out different from earlier.

"Are you saying that you aren't nervous now?" He asked softly, and Raven swallowed tightly. freeweβnovel.com

"I am, but I won't be able to get over it until I bear your mark," she said boldly. Alpha Ludwig was stunned. Did he just win a lottery?

"Do you mean you are ready to bear my mark?" He asked seriously, his heart pounding in his chest for her not to refuse.

Chapter 442 - You need a lot of rest

Chapter 442: Chapter 442 - You need a lot of rest

Raven decided to act more mature because of the responsibilities on her shoulders, as her wolf explained to her.

Luna wolves were bold and strong, not afraid to speak their minds. "Yes, my Alpha, I am ready."

Alpha Ludwig felt his heart leap with joy, and his wolf was super happy. He smiled affectionately at her and corrected her.

"Call me Ludo, Rav," his lips pressed against hers. She felt it rather strange and yet enjoyable.

The name he mentioned rang sweetly in her mind, and she was going to use it without hesitation.

Parting her lips slightly, they were invaded by his tongue as he explored every inch of her warm mouth.

Being her first time, she tried to keep up with the pace of the passion between them. Before she knew it, her body desired more of everything he was doing, and her fingers began to caress his naked back, making him groan.

Raven looked so innocent but was acting so maturely in bed. Ludwig loved it and was grateful to have taken Alpha Denzel's advice to return.

Pulling away from the kiss, he began exploring every inch of her soft, delicate skin, earning moans from her before her first release kicked in.

Ludwig's finger caressed the entrance of her pussy, feeling her wetness even before his middle finger thrust into her.

Raven whimpered, a loud moan escaping her as he pulled out his finger, replacing it with his tongue.

Her legs spread wider as the sensation overtook her senses. Her wolf was right. This was more enjoyable than she ever imagined it to be, but tears soon formed in her eyes, sliding down her cheek when something huge broke through her cunt without warning. She screamed from the pain.

Ludwig halted his actions, realizing how carried away he had been due to her response to everything he was doing.

"I'm sorry, but the pain is only felt once," he assured her, wiping tears as he kissed her passionately.

The moment she began to respond, his thrusts intensified, and another release was barging in. However, he allowed his elongated canine to sink into her neck at the moment, making her a shivering mess.

He turned his neck towards her, and she sank her canine into it, claiming each other as another release flung in. But this time, that of Alpha Ludwig blended with it.

Dropping on top of her, Raven was breathless for a moment but felt something missing. She instantly lifted herself to a sitting position, covering her chest with the duvet.

"What's the matter?" Ludwig asked, worry lacing his voice. Raven was worried because she did not feel some of the things she expected after the mating and marking.

"We marked each other, but I don't feel a mind link."

A relieved sigh escaped Alpha Ludwig as the understanding sank in, so he asked her. "Can you also not feel my emotions? You look tired and should rest."

He did not want to pressure her, but she was too willful. "I can feel your heartbeat and your love, but why can't I feel the mind link?" She asked. Ludwig smiled at her, recalling that she was rogue-born.

One year was too small for her to know everything, so he had the responsibility of teaching her more, especially about the Black Fur Pack.

"That's because your bond with the Evergreen Pack isn't broken yet. Will it be alright for me to send letters for you to be coronated in a week?" He asked seriously.

Having marked and mated, nothing stopped them from announcing their relationship to the world.

"Will that repair the mind link?" Alice asked eagerly, knowing the mind link was a key component of being a pack member.

"As soon as you take the vow, the mind link will be disconnected from the Evergreen Pack and would work here."

Raven was satisfied with the response but remembered all that her wolf said. "Okay, but my wolf is a Luna wolf, and I have the gift of herbs."

Ludwig knew all that but was glad that she still mentioned it. A great asset she would be to their pack.

"I will help you with your wolf, and that is the reason you need a lot of rest. As for your gift, just mention anything you need, and it's yours."

"A huge land to plant herbs and a few gardeners are all I need," she said and paused. "But..."

"What is it?" Ludwig was worried again but was filled with excitement when she asked. freewebnovel.com

"Can we do it again, Ludo?"

He smiled and covered his body with hers, glad that she desired him as much as he did her. "As much as you want, Rav," his lips covered hers again.

The next day, Alpha Denzel spent hours on the phone with Valerie as he waited for Raven to wake up.

He was ready to go but wanted to see her before leaving, as well as sign the documents for the partnership and know the date of the coronation.

His jaws dropped when he saw Raven and Ludwig descending the stairs. The mark was clear, and Raven leaned her head against Ludwig's shoulder. They looked like a loving couple, and Alpha Denzel could tell that it was not faked.

Seeing Alpha Denzel, Raven smiled shyly and went to him. "Alpha, I like it here, and I accepted my mate."

Alpha Denzel was relieved. "Then I can take my leave now. Ludwig, I'm ready to sign those documents."

Alpha Ludwig could not be happier. With Alpha Denzel's constant postponement of the conversation, he feared the worst, but this was good.

"Yes, Alpha Denzel," Ludwig rushed to his office and brought the documents. After the signing, Alpha Denzel waited for Raven to be officially introduced to the pack before he left. But arriving at the Evergreen Pack, he was informed that Denver was napping.

He still wanted to see his pup, but as soon as he opened the door to his room, he lacked the words to describe what he saw.

Chapter 443 – Mysterious Denver

Chapter 443: Chapter 443 – Mysterious Denver

It was impossible for the smartest of pups to crawl at such an early stage, but Denver was walking towards his cot all by himself. As he turned around and saw his father, he sat on the floor and pretended to be asleep.

Such an act was too significant for someone his age. Alpha Denzel could not tell if he was dreaming, but Denver never moved again after that, no matter how long Alpha Denzel waited for that miracle to happen again.

Alpha Denzel feared for Denver's strength but was even more afraid of a calamity befalling him if his senses and cognitive abilities were this exceptional.

"I saw what you did, son. You don't have to hide it from me," he said playfully, but Denver's eyes were tightly shut, as if he had been sleeping for a long time.

As to how he was able to switch so quickly, it baffled his father's imagination.

Alpha Denzel carried him from the floor into his cot, and through it all, the pup showed no sign of being awake or having been awake for the past few hours.

This was strange, and Alpha Denzel did not know whether to be happy or sad about it. Being the only one to see this, he knew that whoever he told would think he was insane.

Even Valerie would not believe him and might think he was too stressed out and perhaps hallucinating. After some thought, he decided to keep this to himself but keep a close eye on Denver.

The little one was too mysterious, which could be both an asset and a terror. "How did it go?" Valerie asked as soon as she entered the room, pulling him out of his thoughts.

Alpha Denzel smiled and tore his gaze off Denver. "Everything went perfectly. With time, we can take a tour around the packs."

Valerie loved the idea. "I can't wait, but was it as beautiful as you showed me in the pictures?"

It felt too good to be true, though she knew Denzel would not lie to her.

"Just as it was," he agreed, her brows raised with admiration. "Then Ludwig has exceeded my expectations."

"Same here, and Raven is very happy," Denzel assured her. Valerie felt something different about him.

Alpha Denzel never liked to be celebrated but ensured to celebrate others. He placed everyone's happiness above his, making Valerie realize something she could not keep to herself.

"Thanks, Denzel, for being a father to everyone even at this age."

He was so young and yet so responsible. Even with Denver, he always ensured to make time for the pup, no matter how busy he was.

It was just as he arrived. Not even hearing that Denver was sleeping was enough to keep him away from the pup.

"Am I that old?" Alpha Denzel asked with a frown. He felt that way when he had to guide Ludwig, an Alpha, through how to tame his mate, and now, Valerie was mentioning it.

"In physique? No, but in maturity, yes," Valerie explained in a candid way, adding. "Sometimes, I feel like I'm mated to my grandfather," she said, Denzel's brows raised.

Valerie smiled and ended her observation. "Just because of how smart you are."

A sigh of relief escaped Alpha Denzel at the last part. No one wanted to be or look older than they actually were, so that was a good analysis coming from her.

"I don't know if this is a compliment..." Alpha Denzel was saying when Luna Valerie wrapped her arms around his neck, making him bend to her height.

Their gazes locked, their bodies pressed together for a while in admiration of each other before Valerie finally said. "It's a compliment because you are the wisest Alpha I've ever known."

Another frown twisted Alpha Denzel's face, wondering why Valerie was desirous of torturing him with all these words. How could she not consider her father in the statement she made?

"Did you forget Alpha Lawn?" Denzel asked. Valerie smirked, still not ready to retract her statement.

"I said what I said." Her lips were about to meet with Denzel's when his suddenly glanced at the cot and pulled away.

Valerie frowned, feeling rejected, but Denzel walked around her to the cot. "I was thinking that we move him to his room."

After what he witnessed today, he was never going to share his room with Denver. Intimate moments were private, but it was okay before since they never went past kissing after Valerie delivered.

"He gets hungry quickly. He should be here," Valerie politely refused with her reason, hoping Denzel would understand, but no.

"Trust me, Val, it's not right. That guy is too smart for his age," Denzel tried to drop a hint, which did not seem to be working.

"What do you mean by that?" She asked seriously. Denzel sighed, thinking of the easiest way to couch it, but there was none.

"For this once, just obey me without questions, please?"

Valerie held his gaze for a while but finally succumbed to his request. "Alright, you win, but please activate a monitor with a camera, so we can know when he's awake."

Denzel agreed, and after moving Denver to his room, Denzel returned to his, and loomed over Valerie, who lay on her back on the bed.

"So, are you going to tell me the state of the pack?" He asked casually. Valerie shrugged.

"There's nothing to tell. It was just the way you left it."

"Did you miss me?" He turned to his side to face her. Valerie turned to her side and also faced him in a sideways position.

"More than you could ever think of," Valerie said, as their lips met. Denzel was so fierce with his kisses, having missed her for so long. freeweβn°vel.com

"Is it safe?" he asked her. Valerie nodded. "I feel fine, so I guess it's cool, and besides, Denver isn't here."

Denzel pulled her shirt over her head, just as he removed his, but as soon as their bodies pressed together, the little man in the other room began to cry for attention.

"Why do I feel like he's doing this on purpose?" Denzel asked through gritted teeth, but soon, the cry suddenly stopped, making him even more worried.

Denzel felt strange, so he whispered to Valerie. "Please stay here. I will go check on him."

Reaching there, someone else beat him to it, but he was met with another shock.

Chapter 444 - Did you see that?

Chapter 444: Chapter 444 - Did you see that?

Alice had been feeling uneasy of late but failed to tell anyone to avoid worrying them. If it got worse, she might just get some herbs from Ray.

Alice would begin learning about the herbs after a few weeks as Ray was working on a manual for it, to make it easy for pack members to study the craft if they so desired.

Alice was lying on the sofa with Burke doing some pack checks when she saw Alpha Denzel move Denver to another room.

Ever since Denver was born, he shared a room with his parents, though there was a room decorated and furnished to suit him.

The strange thing was, the moment she laid eyes on Denver in his father's arms, her discomfort ceased, so she went to the kitchen to grab some snacks, settling on a banana.

Seeing Alpha Denzel return to his room after leaving Denver, she wanted to go shower and added some extra bananas before making it to her room.

However, just as she reached the door, she heard cries from Denver's room and went to check on him.

Denver was sitting in the cot, not sleeping, making her wonder if the boy was not sleeping before.

She was certain that he was sleeping before, so there was no way Alpha Denzel would have put him in a sitting position in the cot.

Confusion brewed in her mind since Denver had not reached the stage of sitting by himself. However, seeing the tears in the pup's eyes, she dropped the banana on a table and lifted the pup in her arms.

The closer he was to her, the more comfortable she felt, but he tried to move away from her, struggling in the direction of the bananas.

Alice was confused, feeling that the little boy was just curious about what that was or thought it was some kind of a toy since the Alpha and his Luna never introduced him to toys.

Werewolves were not trained like humans. With Denzel in one arm, she tried to demonstrate that it wasn't a toy but a banana, peeling one and bringing it to her mouth.

She was frightened when the pup snatched the banana from her hand and began to munch on it. Seeing him with two incisors in his mouth already, she almost dropped the pup when Alpha Denzel entered the room.

"Alpha, I'm sorry. You might not believe me, but he snatched it from my hand. I never meant to give it to him."

Alpha Denzel would have been suspicious if not for what he saw earlier. "I believe you," he said, but Denver only focused on the banana, seeming to enjoy it a lot.

"Hand him over," he said to Alice, but when she tried to give Denver to his father, the pup refused to go to him, wrapping her little arms around Alice's neck.

"Denver, I'll take you to my room," he said and tried to take him, but Denver's grip around Alice only tightened.

Alpha Denzel knew that he had to study his son even more, but since he was comfortable with Alice, he would let this time pass.

"If you need rest, you can bring him to me," he said to Alice, who smiled and asked. "Can I take him to my room? I want to nap, but I will watch him."

Alpha Denzel was skeptical. It was not Denver he was afraid for, but rather Alice. He still had not been able to put words into Denver walking at just one month and feeding himself bananas, but somehow, he felt the need to tell Valerie about it.

"You can take him to your room, but watch him. His behavior these days is a bit strange."

"I noticed it too, but his closeness calms my discomfort," Alice said, making Alpha Denzel frown slightly as he asked,

"Are you pregnant already?" He glared into her eyes and noticed the change in her scent. It was the same scent Valerie, Ashley, and Adira carried when they were pregnant. "Of course you are."

Alice was shocked but also slightly embarrassed. "Alpha, how would you know?" She asked curiously, Alpha Denzel smiled a little.

"Experience. You can still go for a check," Denzel suggested, Alice was happy but could not understand something, asking.

"Then Alpha, why does Denver's presence ease my discomfort?" She was not certain since she herself never experienced this discomfort until Raven left yesterday.

Alpha Denzel glanced at his son and said the only thing that came to mind. "Perhaps you are pregnant with a female pup."

He could feel an attraction between Denver and the pup Alice carried, but the rest was still a mystery to him. Why did he think it was a female and not a male?

Perhaps it was because of how he felt with Valerie's pregnancy when he predicted it to be a boy. Everything about that of Alice was the direct opposite.

Alice was beaming. "I've always wanted a girl with long hair and blue eyes."

Alpha Denzel pursed his lips together, unwilling to say more. "That should be discussed with the moon goddess, not me."

Alice was still excited when she went to her room, telling Burke everything that happened when he returned.

They took the test, and she was indeed pregnant, but that night, Denver refused to leave Alice's side, even when Valerie went to get him.

"Luna, it's alright. I can move his cot here," Alice smiled and said, Burke agreed. "Yes Luna. The pack belongs to Denver anyways. He can sleep wherever he wants."

Valerie was yoked with confusion and pain. "You don't understand. My breast is engorged because he refuses to suck. He must be hungry, so why won't he suck?"

Alice was slightly guilty and revealed, "he's been eating banana and papaya a lot."

Valerie did not believe it when Denzel told her, but hearing it from Alice, she felt she was going insane.

"But he hasn't begun solids, why did you give him?" She was disturbed that the pup would develop stomach problems, but before Alice responded, Denzel took the words out of her mouth.

"She did not give him anything, Val, that's what I've been trying to tell you. As long as he's fine here, let's check on him tomorrow."

Valerie stared at her son, but the expression on his face caused her to panic. "Did you see that?"

Chapter 445 - Knowing More About Denver

Chapter 445: Chapter 445 - Knowing More About Denver

"What are you talking about?" Alpha Denzel asked. Valerie stared at Denver again, but the expression from before was completely gone.

For a moment, she thought she was seeing things incorrectly, but that did not seem to be the case. She was certain of it.

That pup was strange, but he was also hers, so she could not just brush it aside. Valerie hoped that Denzel would believe her so that together, they could seek help for their pup.

"He smirked at me. I swear, I saw it," she said, knowing that no one would believe her, but Alpha Denzel did.

It would have been unbelievable if he had not experienced the mysterious characteristics of their pup as well.

This development was progressing too quickly, and they were afraid that he might deteriorate too fast as well.

"I didn't see it, but trust me, I believe you," Denzel replied to her in a hushed tone. Her heart warmed at the fact that he didn't think she was going crazy.

Nevertheless, they could discuss the rest in private, so the only problem was how to let Denver feed since his refusal was causing Valerie engorgement.

"So, what happens to the breast milk?" She asked helplessly. Alice suggested, "Luna, why not pump it for me to feed him?"

She was enjoying her time with Denver, as the cute pup was not giving her any trouble at all.

"Good point," Valerie said, returning about an hour later with two bottles of breast milk, diapers, and some wipes. But to her shock, Denver consumed all the two bottles in one go and in less than ten minutes because he was being fed by Alice.

Denzel and Valerie returned to their room, and Valerie pumped some more breast milk, sending it to them before preparing to go to bed but realized something odd.

Denzel was bringing out some old books he hadn't read in a long time.

Most of those books were for research purposes and were supposed to be in the library or office, but Denzel kept them on his shelf for fear of losing them.

It was not as if any of the pack members were thieves, but if there was a bad nut among them, a lot of harm would be caused before they even realized the book was missing.

These were not like their day-to-day books, so Denzel's sudden indulgence in them meant something very important.

"What are you looking for?" Valerie asked worriedly. Denzel kept searching the pages. "I want to know our pup better, so we know how to treat him better too."

Valerie confirmed that her suspicions about their pup's behaviors were true. "Are you thinking that he's different?"

"Yes, very different. And if he's going to have your powers as an addition, then no one would be able to control him if we don't find his strengths and weaknesses."

It was strange that after all their experience, they still had to research a lot to know exactly the kind of pup their DNAs produced.

"Now I'm getting scared," Valerie said nervously. Denzel's arms wrapped around her waist, and he kissed her on the forehead when she continued to explain the reason for her fears.

"I almost passed out when Alice said he ate bananas and papaya."

After some thought, Denzel felt the need for Valerie to know about what he found out too, asking, "Will you believe me if I tell you that I saw him walking earlier?"

"No," Valerie shook her head. This was too much for her, and her fears only increased with the information.

"Yes, he did. And I don't know how much more he is hiding," Denzel said seriously. Valerie thought about their history books and all that she learned growing up.

A shiver ran through her when she suddenly asked, "Denzel, could he be the mysterious Dark Wolf?"

Alpha Denzel smirked, hugged her tightly, then pulled away. His attention returned to the book he was looking for earlier. "That's what I'm trying to confirm."

The understanding was growing deeper inside Valerie's bones, and she began to join the search for the particular history book Denzel was searching for.

"But legend says the mysterious Dark Wolf was just a myth."

"It's the same thing they said about the Luna Wolf before, but then, a woman named Diana had it before you and now, Raven," he reminded Valerie. "If our pup is showing signs of what history terms as a myth, then we have to take the right measures in bringing him up."

"True. I will help. Which of the history books are you looking for?" Valerie asked after checking a few titles and dropping the books because they had no clues in them.

"The ones about the traditional wolves," Denzel hinted. Then he remembered something very important. "Only Aunty Fernanda has the complete book of the werewolves. I do hope, though, that I will be able to get something here."

If he failed to get what he was looking for, then he would have no choice but to travel to the Litha Moon Pack for it.

No matter the situation, he was going to research more about his son to understand him better. It was his responsibility as a father and Alpha.

"What about this one? Secret of the Ancient Wolves?" Valerie found a book with a blue cover and lifted it up. Denzel smiled a little and instructed.

"Check the content and see if there is anything about the mysterious Black Wolf."

Valerie quickly did so, her hands shaking slightly. "There is." freëwebnovel.com

Alpha Denzel felt like he was getting close to what he was looking for but could not help feeling nervous about it.

Halting his search, he looked around carefully. "Great, let's find a relaxing position first."

"The bed is the most relaxing place, but I hope you won't cause trouble," Valerie said teasingly. Denzel could not believe how her mind could still be so naughty when they were trying to find something so important.

Then again, he could not blame her because assuming he got the information he wanted about their pup, he would have indeed tried to get intimate with her.

"I will, but after getting what we both want," he said honestly. Valerie chuckled, liking his honesty.

Chapter 446 – That is his cross

Chapter 446: Chapter 446 – That is his cross

"Alright, it says here that the mysterious black wolf is a myth, but legend has it that when two Alpha wolves mate with either of them having special powers, the mysterious black wolf can be formed."

Now everything was making sense to them. If Valerie still had her Luna wolf, then they would not have had this challenge.

Already, they knew what kind of wolf Denver was going to have when of age, but Alpha Denzel wanted to be sure of his suspicions to not put a round peg in a square hole.

"There should be more," Denzel said, his back leaned against the wall with Valerie leaning against him.

Their position was intimate, but their minds were far from that at the moment.

A lot of people would be glad and proud to have a powerful pup, but only a few knew about how much hard work goes into it. Nothing good comes easy. At least they learned that lesson very early in their lives.

Pups are supposed to be trained and molded into the kind of Alpha the pack expected, but no pup left on their own ever grew to be responsible.

They always turned out as vagabonds. Valerie was reading from the next paragraph, and Denzel listened intently.

"This has never happened before, so there is no record of anyone having it. However, it isn't impossible either."

Denzel thought for a while and asked her, "So, what are the signs of any werewolf having the mysterious black wolf?"

Valerie flipped the pages and continued reading, amazed by the discoveries herself.

"Mysterious black wolves are just as the name sounds. Mysterious. The secret is, they are super powerful and strong but also very shy. Their level of shyness causes them to do things in secret, but when angered, they tend to reveal themselves before regretting it."

Alpha Denzel thought deeply. Was Denver hiding his abilities because he was shy? The boy never looked like he was afraid of anything, let alone being shy, but he was pulled out of his thoughts when Valerie continued with her reading.

"The mysterious black wolf is a great lover and is very sensitive. They don't fall in love easily, but when they do, it's for eternity. It's also said that they can sense a pup even in the womb, growing a profound attachment to it if they feel a connection."

Everything was now cleared up, and they could understand Denver's behavior. He was indeed a mysterious black wolf.

"Is that why he's so close to Alice now? Is he in love with her?" Valerie asked thoughtfully but remembered that Denver loved Raven as much before.

The only exception was the way he did not want to leave Alice's side, and that only began last night.

If it were what they were thinking, then it should have begun earlier than this.

"I think it's the pup she's carrying. Denver must be sensing it and is already bonding with her from the womb," Denzel thought aloud, Valerie gasped from complicated emotions.

"Could that be his mate?" In his situation, it did not matter where he found his mate in the future because he was going to be an Alpha.

"Not necessarily, but keep reading," Alpha Denzel calmly said, Valerie obeyed.

"The mysterious black wolf can fall in love without the mate bond, and when he does, it becomes an obsession, and he would not allow anyone to take her from him, unless..."

Valerie paused, swallowing tightly at the last part, but Denzel was very curious, as he tried to read it for himself.

"Unless what?"

They ended up reading it together. "Unless the one whom he falls in love with rejects him for another."

They both went silent after reading that part, guessing what that could mean. "It seems to me that our son is going to have a tough love life," Valerie said aloud, remembering their own struggles from the beginning.

Denzel had to be mean to her, just to save her life, which brought a lot of conflicts between them.

"Let's look at his strengths," Alpha Denzel said, and Valerie began to flip the pages again as there was so much information about this mysterious creature, whom they claimed does not exist.

Or, could it be a prediction about the life of the mysterious black wolf? Was that the reason why the ethereal realm did not want them together in the beginning?

"The mysterious black wolf is a discerner of thoughts, does not want to be seen when doing anything, good or bad. He loves the dark and can see through it as if it were day. When fully matured, it turns the bearer in his human form into being very cold and unapproachable, except for those he loves."

"Does it say anything about his mate?" Denzel asked, wishing that Denver would have a destined mate and not be forced to choose anyone.

Valerie was saddened when she read that part. "Yes. But because of their immense strength and power, they are mated to weaker beings like the weakest of humans, but their love is capable of injecting strength into their mates to make them stronger than expected."

Denzel did not seem worried for his son at all. If it were him, he would not care for how weak his mate was, so that did not seem like a problem to him.

"That is his cross. I won't worry my head over it, but I just hope that he won't be a danger to the pack."

Valerie smiled. "I guess this would make you happy, but before I read it, I need a cup of ice cream."

Denzel frowned. "No way you are gonna do that to me. I will get you the ice cream, but complete that book."

He tried to snatch it from her, but she pushed it under her buttocks and sat on it.

"You think I can't carry you? Don't forget that even with pregnancy, you were as light as an egg," he chuckled, and Valerie laughed.

"It means I was quite heavy. If not, you would have mentioned a cotton or feather."

She removed the book and opened it. "I will read it, but you have to make a promise if you are not getting my ice cream for me..."

Chapter 447: Chapter 447 – All I Want Is a Passionate Night

Denzel had intended to get the ice cream for Valerie after everything but was curious to know the second option.

"I can't deny you anything even if I try," he chuckled, nibbling on her neck. Valerie ran her fingers through his hair from behind, saying dreamily.

"All I want is a passionate night. Can you do that?" She asked. Denzel chuckled. Their desires were always in sync, and that satisfied him a lot.

Except for the times Valerie thought that Denzel was cheating on her when she refused for him to touch her by creating the excuse that she wasn't in the mood, she always wanted him as much as he wanted her after the air was cleared.

Denzel proved himself to be not only smart, wise, strong, intelligent, powerful, and handsome but also a very loyal partner.

Their attraction to each other was amazing, and even when faced with challenges, they never neglected their desires unless it was extremely necessary, like after Valerie had Denver.

She needed to stay away from sex for a few weeks for her body to completely recover, and after that, due to Denver's constant presence in their room, they never went past kissing.

"You know I can do more than that." Denzel's voice suddenly turned desirous. Valerie smiled in response, eager to read the last part of their research material to finally have sex for the first time after birthing their pup.

"Okay. The conclusion of the page says, the whole story about the mysterious black wolf is a prophecy. This wolf has no weakness in strength and would always protect his pack from predators, most preferably, alone."

Valerie saw this as good news, but Denzel's thoughts were once again out of the window. There was still something beating his imagination.

"Wait, what does it mean by alone?" Denzel asked, but Valerie had already closed the book, ready to get laid.

"That is all there is to the mysterious black wolf. We have to watch our pup closely and figure out the rest for ourselves." She leaned her head backward to observe the look on his face.

Denzel's desires skyrocketed the moment their eyes met. "Yes, I agree." He kissed her gently on the neck, and it was as if all her nerves responded at the same time.

"And your promise?" She asked eagerly, hinting that she wanted him wild and not gentle. Denzel smirked. Whenever she wanted him like this, he did not have to apologize for being too hard.

"You didn't think I'd forget, did you?" His fingers dug into the insides of her thighs. She leaned back, spreading her legs wider, her voice filled with a need that only he could give her.

"That depends on how weak you make me. I want to have a good rest," she said honestly. Sex was one of the ways of getting better sleep, and this was the first time since Denver was born that they were going to sleep in the room alone.

Therefore, they had to seize the moment. "Then you are in safe hands," Denzel said, but the next moment, Valerie was in ecstasy as his finger thrust into her core.

A loud moan escaped her as he covered her mouth with his other hand from behind before slipping a finger in.

Valerie sucked his finger, even as her waist moved in sideways and upward rhythms to welcome the finger holding her inner thighs before it slipped inside her warm, wet cunt.

It wasn't long before she had a first release from his finger thrusting in and out of her. She bit his finger in her mouth from the intense pleasure, whereas Denzel did not even flinch.

Shivering from her release, the teeth patted, releasing his finger from her mouth, and he instantly pinned her on her back as Denzel thrust inside of her, his manhood hard and thick, enlarging inside her tight walls.

Though already horny and having had a first release already, it was slightly painful, but Denzel stopped right as she released a painful moan and began to flicker her nipple with his tongue, earning a soft moan from her without spilling breast milk.

"Arrrrhhhh Denzel, I missed you so much," she said dazedly, drowning in the pleasure he gave her.

"You have no idea how much I missed you," he sucked her neck as he began to gently thrust in and out of her. Another moan was about to escape her when he covered his lips with hers, thrusting hard and fast, allowing her to moan inside his mouth as he hit her in the right angles, just as she wanted.

She lost control of the number of times he made her release, and her legs felt like jelly from the different styles and positions.

Valerie was just as tired as she wanted when he dropped on top of her, with a growl that showed how much he missed these times with her.

They slept naked in each other's arms, not having a care in the world, thanks to Denver's attraction to the pup in Alice's womb.

Valerie woke up the next day, feeling energized and wanted by her mate even more, especially when they had two rounds of morning sex before she pumped some breast milk for Denver.

"Do you feel any discomfort?" Denzel asked with concern, but Valerie smiled and embraced him. freewebnovel.com

"No, I feel great, and I want us to do this again tonight."

Denzel felt proud of his performance and assured her. "That's why I'm yours. You don't need permission to use my body anytime you want," he smirked. Valerie laughed.

Things moved smoothly with Alice carrying Denver with her to training. The little man would watch the warriors training keenly, not crying or causing any distractions.

He wouldn't even eat during those times until training was over. Pups were not allowed in the training rooms, but Denver was different.

His calmness and the curious way he watched the movements left everyone in awe. Throughout the hours of training, Denver would not make a sound, making everyone forget his presence.

A day before Raven's coronation was when a problem arose. Alice was supposed to leave for the Black Fur Pack to help Raven with her coronation, but the little man was putting on some stubborn attitude that began to scare her...

Chapter 448 – The Strange Connection

Chapter 448: Chapter 448 – The Strange Connection

"Denzel, what do we do? He won't stop crying," Valerie complained as she tried to soothe the bawling Denver.

He was struggling in her arms, stretching his arms towards Alice, who was packed and ready to leave for the Black Fur Pack.

Worry nudged her heart, and for a moment, she thought about waiting to leave together with Luna Valerie and Alpha Denzel tomorrow.

However, she made a promise to Raven that she was going to come on the night before, so how could she disappoint her best friend?

Also, she was curious to know all that had happened at the Black Fur Pack ever since her leaving.

Tomorrow was the day of the coronation, so she only had today to familiarize herself with her old pack once more.

"Give him to me." Denzel took Denver from his mother, but the cries only worsened. The little man refused to calm down, and he wouldn't eat as well.

Denzel and Valerie knew exactly why, but they couldn't restrict Alice because of that. It would be too selfish of them.

Alice needed to have her life and even time with her mate, but Denver was uncontrollable. He was equally too young to be left on his own.

"Just go, Alice. He will calm down eventually," Denzel said. Alice was disturbed and told Denver, "I will be back tomorrow."

The pup did not seem to care about whatever anyone was saying, his bawling getting out of hand.

Alice mustered the courage and walked out of the door with Burke but suddenly fell into Burke's arms by the time they reached the living room.

"Are you okay?" Burke asked worriedly, surprised by how the color had instantly drained out of her face.

"I feel the same unease I used to feel before. I haven't felt it in a while, and I'm so dizzy too. Burke, I don't think I can make it to the Black Fur Pack. Do you think that Raven will be mad at me?" Alice was so uneasy and in pain.

Ray, who had come to drive Alice to the Black Fur Pack, was disheartened seeing her like that. Denver's cries could still be heard from Alpha Denzel's and Luna Valerie's room, making Alice guilty.

"I will explain to Raven. She won't be mad at you, but let me see if I can get you some herbs."

Alice knew it was going to delay the trip and did not want that. Taking care of Denver, she never felt this discomfort and was tempted to make a suggestion to Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie, hoping they would agree to it.

"Wait. I will talk to Luna Valerie and Alpha Denzel first," she said. Ray paused and turned to face her.

"Are you sure?" It was clear that she was not well, but only Burke could feel exactly what she was going through, and nobody else.

"I'm positive," Alice said weakly. Burke carried her upstairs as Ray waited in the living room.

When they knocked on the door, Alpha Denzel was disturbed when he opened the door to see them in the midst of trying to calm Denver.

Alice was also so pale looking that it worried him. "What is wrong with her?"

Alice could not tell if it was the closeness, but strength began to return to her body, and she said to Burke, "It's alright. You can put me down."

"Are you sure?" Burke was skeptical because of how weak she was a moment ago, but she assured him.

"Yes. I'm better. Alpha, do you mind if I take Denver along? You and Luna are coming over tomorrow and could bring him some more breast milk."

Alpha Denzel could not allow Denver to travel alone with Alice and Ray. He was an heir and could be prone to attacks.

Alice would end up using her powers to save him, and though with a golden wolf, who knows the kind of harm it could bring?

"I don't think it's a good idea, but why do you say so?"

Alice swallowed tightly but did not feel the need to keep what she was feeling from her Alpha and Luna.

"Alpha, Luna, it's strange, but the moment I was separated from Denver, my discomfort kickstarted again.

"Oh," Denzel said as he stared at Denver, who had stopped crying at the sight of Alice but still had tears in his eyes. His frail arms were stretched towards her once more, and she took him in her arms, kissing him gently on the forehead.

"What would I do without you, Denver. I feel fine now."

Burke could not understand what was happening. He enjoyed all the time spent with Denver but had a feeling that this was more than the naked eyes could see.

"Alpha, why does she feel sick when away from Denver?"

Alpha Denzel and Luna Valerie exchanged glances before Alpha Denzel explained. "I think there is a connection between Denver and your pup. Until your pup is born, we just have to continue observing."

Burke did not know what to think. Perhaps he would have to wait until, just as Alpha Denzel said. "So, what happens to Raven's coronation?" He asked, and Valerie made a suggestion.

"I should go with Alice and Ray. You and Burke can make it early tomorrow morning."

Raven had made so much impact that everybody wanted to attend, but some people had to be left behind to take care of pack matters.

Alpha Denzel knew that not only Denver but Alice and Ray will be safe because of Valerie's presence. She had her powers and an Alpha wolf.

"Alright. But you have to inform me about everything that goes on there until we get there," Alpha Denzel said seriously, Valerie smiled.

"You know I will. Ashley and Adira are all attending with their pups so Denver will be happy there."

Alpha Denzel was calmed by the news, and since their bags were packed for tomorrow, Valerie got ready and started the journey.

A few hours after they left, Alpha Denzel called Valerie to check on her, but she was not answering the phone. Worried, he called the two warriors escorting them, and one of them answered.

"Alpha, we were attacked on the journey."

Chapter 449 – Obsessed with Making It Better

Chapter 449: Chapter 449 – Obsessed with Making It Better

A growl escaped Alpha Denzel at the news that someone had dared to attack his Luna and pup. No wonder he felt uncomfortable when he couldn't reach them.

However, he felt no pain or anxiety, knowing that Valerie was in charge of the situation. But he still couldn't accept being away from them at a time like this.

For him, trouble should find him, not his family and pack. "Where are you? I'm coming over," he said, but the warrior quickly spoke up.

"I don't think that will be necessary. Our Luna already took care of everything." There was calmness in his voice that equally relaxed Alpha Denzel.

"You mean nobody is hurt?"

"No, Alpha. She warned that no one comes out and took down the ten rogues all by herself."

There was no surprise in his voice, as he had witnessed his Luna taking care of more dangerous situations before.

The only surprise was that they were sent to protect the Luna and everyone, but the Luna was the one protecting them all.

It was better for them to stay in the car for her to handle the rogues than for them to fight together and risk hearing that Denver was missing or something like that.

"She's capable, but tell her to..."

Alpha was about to say that the warrior should tell Valerie to call him when the call waiting sound of his phone began to beep. Seeing Valerie, he ended the call with his warrior and answered hers.

"Val, are you alright?"

"Yes, just a couple of rogues, but I took care of it. Everything is fine, and we are heading to the Black Fur Pack," she updated him. Alpha Denzel was glad.

"Okay. Let me know when you arrive, but if I don't hear from you after an hour, then I'm coming over."

Due to the time they left the Evergreen Pack, they should have arrived at the Black Fur Pack within Alpha Denzel's estimated time.

"You don't have to. You shall most certainly hear from me," Valerie said seriously. It felt good to have someone care for them. freewebnovel.com

She arrived at the Black Fur Pack and was let in without informing the Alpha, and Raven's excitement tripled at the sight of her.

"Luna!" She yelled and threw herself into Valerie's arms. She was expecting Raven but not Luna Valerie herself.

"Raven, you look delightful and regal. The Moon Goddess does not make mistakes," Valerie exclaimed. Raven smiled shyly, feeling flattered.

"Yes, Luna. Ludo is amazing," she said, her eyes glinting with excitement.

Alpha Ludwig welcomed Luna Valerie politely. "Luna, you are welcome."

"Thank you, Alpha Ludwig. Your pack is beyond the pictures I saw. You did great, and I see how Raven is already busy with herbs."

Alpha Ludwig smiled. He was used to compliments from other Alphas and Lunas, but those from Luna Valerie and Alpha Denzel made him extremely happy.

"Thank you, Luna. Raven has been a wonderful woman, but I have you and Alpha Denzel to thank for her. She told me everything about her life."

Valerie smiled, knowing what he meant, and tapped him on the shoulder. "There is always a reason for everything. I can't wait for tomorrow."

Ludwig smiled and turned to Alice. "You are welcome back, Alice. This will always be your pack."

This pack formerly survived on Alice's powers, so she was always welcome at the Black Fur Pack and would always be treated as a pack member.

"Thank you, Alpha Ludwig. A lot has changed, and I'm very happy to see it myself," Alice said politely. Ludwig could not take all the compliments.

"I have your Alpha and my mate to thank for that. If Alpha Denzel had not threatened to not release Raven if I did nothing about the pack's condition, nothing would have changed."

"Now, I'm just obsessed with making it better and better for everyone," he said seriously. But Alice and Raven laughed as Raven hugged Alice.

"I miss you so much, and I knew you won't let me down. Hey, little man, I missed you a lot," she said, taking Denver in her arms.

Denver stared into her eyes, but after a short while, his gaze lowered to something interesting.

Adira and Ashley were already there with their Alphas, surprised that Alpha Denzel allowed his Luna to travel without him accompanying her.

Also, their pups seemed excited for each other. Alice was free this time when the pups were left on the living room floor as the adults caught up on old times.

"Denver should join his cousins," Ashley said, following Denver's gaze.

Only Cairo was his cousin, but due to the closeness, she knew the pups were always going to be close, irrespective of blood or DNA.

The relationships between their parents were going to be one of the greatest tools to bond them for life.

Raven dropped Denver gently on the maple wood floor before saying to Alice excitedly.

"I can't believe you all came so early to help me prepare."

Before Alice could respond, Raven hugged her brother. It was clear how much they missed each other, having been together all their lives.

Pulling away, Raven remembered something and spoke excitedly to the three Lunas in front of her.

"You should all come and see. Ludwig has a special place for me, and I believe you'll all like it."

She was about to call one of the maids to bring varieties of fruits and drinks when Ashley stopped her.

"If it's a special place for you, then we shouldn't be there."

Raven laughed. Ashley has always been courteous, so she explained. "Well, he said it's mine, so I get to decide who I want there."

Ashley was more relaxed after hearing this as they followed Raven through the back door to the backyard. But what they met was a small garden set up like a living room.

The greens made it all so stunning, and as they made themselves comfortable, Raven asked the maids to bring them the things needed.

"This is a nice concept. I should do something like this in my backyard," Adira said. But before anyone could respond, the scream of the three men inside the living room reached their ears, causing them to panic as they hastened to the living room.

Chapter 450 - Your pup can walk already?

Chapter 450: Chapter 450 - Your pup can walk already?

Ray had no choice but to join the men, even without being an Alpha because the warriors had all grouped themselves together outside the pack house.

It confused Ray as to where to be at the moment since his training and responsibilities after the discovery of his wolf had changed.

Alpha Ludwig had a special liking for him despite the five years age difference because his twin sister was his mate and soon to be Luna.

"So, Ray, did you find your mate yet?" He asked casually, Alpha Troy and Idris seemed interested as well.

"No, and I wish I don't," Ray said honestly, the two Alphas were surprised, as they had the same things in common.

They either suffered for their mates or waited to the point of giving up on their mates. Alpha Troy was in the situation where his mate was being used against him by his Alpha.

Alpha Ludwig womanized for years and his pack suffered for it because he did not find his mate when he turned eighteen.

If not for his mother and Alpha Denzel, his pack would have been utterly destroyed.

"Never say never. It took me a long time to find my mate and I almost gave up," Alpha Idris said, supported by Alpha Troy. "Same here and even after I did, my Alpha would not let me be with her."

He was saddened but saw himself lucky when he recalled the events between his Alpha and Alpha Denzel.

That experience was something he never wanted to go through in life again. "Finding your mate early delivers you from the worry of never finding her."

Ray understood their points but felt misunderstood. Just like them, he would have been happy if he had a normal wolf and would continue being at the Evergreen pack but things were going to change for him.

He might have to shoulder responsibilities he knew he was not prepared for. "I understand you both because finding your mates will never cause you to relocate from your packs but mine would."

As the two Alphas thought about the response, it could only be geared towards one thing. "Wait a minute, what kind of wolf do you have?" Alpha Idris asked, Ray replied. "An Alpha one."

Now they understood his lack of enthusiasm in finding his mate and it was all understandable because of the kind of Alpha he had.

"Wow, congratulations young man. You are destined to be an Alpha. I know Alpha Denzel would not make your training easy," Alpha Ludwig laughed, recalling all the training videos Alpha Denzel sent to him.

It worked greatly in transforming the strength of his pack so it was all worth it. "Well, it intensified after the discovery," Ray agreed.

Both Alphas knew that Alpha Denzel was not selfish. However, he would not want Ray to disgrace him for whichever pack he was going to head.

The moment anyone hears that Ray was from the Evergreen pack, the expectation from him would quadruple.

"That's the Denzel I know," Idris said, they all laughed but Ray was a bit shy because the two men were older.

He would have been more comfortable in holding casual conversations with Alphas around his age.

Then they looked around but the women were nowhere to be found and yet, the pups were doing their own things.

Alpha pups were never trained with toys and were allowed to experiment with whatever caught their eyes under adult supervision.

Alpha Troy's pup, Bronco, was trying to show off his early walking skills. Being humans at this age, they were supposed to begin walking by nine to ten months for Alpha pups, then ten to eighteen months for regular pups.

Whereas seven months down the line, he was taking steps already. His parents' encouragement was clear in the way he was doing it excitedly, though his steps were not fast and steady.

Whenever he took a step, his parents would cheer him on so he was quite fast for his age.

"Your pup can walk already?" Idris was amazed as he said to Troy but the latter was equally amazed for Idris' pup, Cairo, who was trying to catch up with the support of the furniture.

With the two pups competing against each other, Denver was feeling that his fast development was normal, as well as thought himself to be of the same age as the two pups.

As such, he did not feel shy, rising to his feet and walking hastily and steadily without support, the two Alphas including Ray who had no idea of the things Denver had done exclaimed together,

"What?" They were already screaming for their women.

"Ash."

"Adira."

Both Idris and Troy called at the same time but four women rushed into the living room and when Valerie saw her son walking like a pro, she held the door for support.

Denzel had said it but he was only thinking it to be baby steps. Now, she was lost for words but quickly, she took her phone and videoed everything, sending it to Denzel.

It was clear that being among her peers took away Denver's shyness. Perhaps they could test him with peers around a year or two older.

The pups could feel that the temperature in the room had changed and as if they had been pinched, they all began to bawl at the same time.

"It's your fault. Why did you have to scream?" Ashley chastised the three men as she rushed to gather the pups in her arms.

The three Alphas were still finding it hard to recover from the shock, their mouths agape.

"I think they should be fed and cleaned up. They will have a good sleep."

"You can keep them all in the same room. I will take care of them," Alice suggested, Adira countered.

"But Denver is so young. He will need his mother."

"Denver chooses to sleep in Alice's room so I just pump some breastmilk for him," Valerie smiled and said, Ashley thought about the question eating her mind, just as Adira was finding it hard to hold it in also.

"Are you going to tell us what special food or training you give this boy?"
