

Chapter 44 : Date Ideas

Ginny had quite a few complaints about Alpha Clark and the amount of attention he paid towards her family. After the phone call with Charlotte, she immediately went to Alpha Clark's house to find him and ask her grievances.

She had been to Alpha's house quite a few times since Charlotte was found to be an Elemental. It was a pack secret and Charlotte was their treasure. As Charlotte's mother, Ginny also had some privileges.

"Miss Ginny. Please come inside." The housekeeper welcomed her inside the house.

Ginny didn't give her a second glance while she took a seat. The housekeeper poured a glass of water for her.

"I will call the Alpha right away." The housekeeper said. Ginny nodded and took the water. She sipped it slowly while slowly rolling with anger on the inside.

Not only did they send their precious daughter away to that pack with a mad Alpha, the said Alpha had no consideration towards Charlotte. She was suffering there!

Alpha Clark came downstairs when the housekeeper announced Ginny's arrival to him. He was accompanied by Luna Esther.

Ginny sat up straight when she saw them. Although she didn't like them that much, she had to show some basic respect for them.

"Alpha, Luna." Ginny greeted them once they were also seated.

"Ginny, what is the matter?" Alpha Clark asked.

"I spoke to Charlotte a while ago." Ginny said, "Alpha, don't you think we should pay more attention to how she is living there? She told me that the Alpha is training her too much and that it is beyond her capacity."

He hasn't even registered her for school there. She will miss out so much if she doesn't go to school. You might have forgotten but she is only twelve."

Alpha Clark knew Roman's personality very well. He was strict with his people and a bit blunt with his words. His dislike towards the Blue Stone pack wasn't concealed from Alpha Clark. During their meeting, he could see on Roman's face that he didn't think much of Blue Stone.

It wasn't new. Everyone thought the same thing about Blue Stone. But this time Blue Stone gave their Elemental to him. That was a considerably big sacrifice. Having an elemental was enough to increase the pack's power by ten folds and they gave Charlotte over to them.

Alpha Roman shouldn't be showing an attitude right now.

"I will speak to Alpha Roman about this. Don't worry, Charlotte knows how to gain favour from others. She will eventually make everyone like her in the southern warrior pack. As for school, it was my mistake not to mention it to him earlier. I will see to it that Charlotte gets to attend the best school in the pack."

Ginny was not fully satisfied with this. However, complaining too much will only bring problems for her.

"I just want what is best for Charlotte, Alpha. I am a mother and I've been separated from my child. Due to this alliance, I sacrificed my daughter and now she is not doing well there. Who should I hold accountable?" Ginny sighed with sadness.

"It will be fine Ginny. In a way, she has gone there for training. Alpha Roman is going to train her to become a better elemental. They have better resources and trainers there. Charlotte is in good hands, so don't worry." Luna Esther reassured.

"Edgar's business is not doing so well either. These days there are not many customers and income has gone down by a lot. There is only a little in hand and we can't do anything. When Charlotte called, I wanted to go to her and see her but it is impossible for now. I am a helpless mother. I don't have the money, nor do I have the permission to meet my own daughter."

Luna Esther and Alpha Clark exchanged a look. They knew exactly what Ginny was trying to say. Luna Esther went inside and a couple of minutes later came back with a small stack of money. Ginny pretended to be surprised and took the money.

"Thank you Luna." Ginny wiped the corner of her eyes and left. She went back home and stuffed the money in a small bag where she kept all the money given by the Alpha. There was quite a lot of it.

The two thousand given to Anaya as compensation was also there. As long as the money was given by Luna Esther, Ginny didn't let Anaya have any of it.

Thinking of that girl, Ginny couldn't help but sneer. She was born to be a thorn in everyone's life. First she took Arnold away from them, then acted all sad and depressed and pretended like they treated her badly and now she was also giving a hard time to Charlotte.

As soon as Anaya was let out of Blue Stone, her disgusting personality came to light. She must have definitely done something shameless because of which Roman is all over her. It was getting unacceptable.

Ginny had to do something about it on her own since it was her own decision to send Anaya over the southern warrior pack along with Charlotte.

The decision was made so that Charlotte would have someone to do things for her, like a little maid. But Anaya's true colors spread faster than she'd expected.

After closing the bag, Ginny started to think of ways to get Anaya back in line. She wouldn't let her child get bullied by someone as worthless as Anaya.

Charlotte didn't stay after the order was given. She expressed his displeasure by stomping away rudely. Roman wanted to call her back and say a few more things to make sure she understood her limits, but since he was with Anaya right now, he decided to wait.

Roman disliked Charlotte and her family for treating Anaya the way they did. If possible, he'd go to the Blue Stone pack and have them punished for their actions.

But he wasn't their Alpha, so Roman couldn't do that. However, what he could do, is get Anaya out of that pack officially and then register her with the southern warriors pack.

Once that was done, Anaya would be safely in his hands. Blue Stone won't be able to claim their rights to Anaya even after knowing she's an Elemental or Roman's mate.

This sounded like a good plan. If it was done properly, then Anaya would be safe in the southern warrior pack and with him.

"Charlotte isn't happy," Anaya pointed out.

"She isn't here to be happy," Roman replied, "She is here to receive the proper training that an elemental should have. If that makes her unhappy, then that looks like a personal problem to me. Can't do anything about it."

"Maybe," Anaya said. She found herself not caring either. All this time, Anaya had to put up with Charlotte because everyone was there for Charlotte but no one for Anaya. Even if she were to express her dislike towards something that Charlotte did, no one would agree and instead, Anaya would be punished.

Today, for the first time, someone agreed with her when it came to their opinion of Charlotte. This was a huge relief to her. Now Anaya won't have to put up with Charlotte all the time. Just like Roman said, Charlotte isn't special at all.

Anaya was feeling motivated and brave. She wanted to talk more and build their relationship a bit better. She was about to say something when another voice interrupted her.

"How long are you two going to sit here?" Easton said from behind.

Anaya was startled at the sudden appearance of Easton. She didn't even notice him! Roman turned around and gave him a stinky look.

"What the hell, Easton!"

Easton tsked, "I've been watching you two for a while. You have just been sitting like this for so long. How boring."

Roman had a rare red blush on his cheeks.

He couldn't help the awkwardness when it came to making advances and when he was called out like that for being boring... It was really unbearable.

Anaya and Roman were both trying to take a few steps forward but they didn't know how to.

Anaya looked away and had her hair fall around her face to hide the blush.

Easton saw the two behaving like a sweet couple who recently found love and felt his teeth ache from the sweetness. It was a bit too much.

"Why are you here anyway? Just go on a date already..." Easton complained.

Roman turned to Anaya and said, "I'll be back in a second."

Anaya could only watch as Roman got up and chased Easton around until neither of them could be seen.

Whatever happened to Easton after that was due to his own choice of words and the wrong timing. Then he was dragged over to the training area by Roman.

Anaya laughed a little. They were new to this, scenes like these would happen more often. But it was fun. Learning together and growing together was good too.

The kids ended their training with a few rounds of stretching, then ran back home. Anaya was taken along with them and the Alpha Beta pair were left behind.

Roman eyed Easton from the side and saw him sulking.

"What are you pouting at?" He snapped.

"You hit me! You hit me so badly that it's hurting!" Easton complained, "Did I say anything wrong?! You both should just go out on a date and deal with your awkwardness!"

Roman knew it too. They won't get anywhere like this.

"So," Roman cleared his throat, "Do you have any ideas?"

Easton was rubbing his arm where the Alpha almost twisted it. When he heard Roman ask about date ideas, he nearly tripped on thin air. He tapped his ears. Did he go deaf? Was he hearing things?

"What did you say?" He asked just to make sure he wasn't mentally exhausted and hallucinating.

"Don't be a pain, Easton," Roman warned.

"I just wanted to make sure I heard it right. After all, asking for date ideas isn't like you." Easton said and added in a whisper, "It clashes with your personality."

Roman pretended like he didn't hear it, "And? Don't you have any?"

"I have many." Easton grinned, "Just say what kind, I'll give you plenty of ideas."

Roman and Easton talked about date ideas all the way home. Anaya was in the kitchen drinking water and the kids rushed to take a shower. Roman and Easton went to the study room to discuss more about a good date.

"Give me some good ideas, those are all rubbish," Roman said.

"Look, you are asking a bit too much from a single man. I am suggesting based on the movies I've watched and people I've seen," Easton admitted.

"You are useless..."

Easton was thoroughly offended and was about to explode, "What -"

A ringing made Easton stop. Roman picked up the study phone that was ringing.

"Hello?" Roman answered.

"Hello Alpha Roman, this is Alpha Clark from Blue Stone pack."

Roman raised his eyebrows and looked at Easton, "Oh? Alpha Clark."

"I wanted to thank you for your assistance after the rogue attack. The warriors you sent over are very efficient. If it wasn't for you, then Blue Stone would have been long gone." Alpha Clark said in an attempt to butter up Alpha Roman.

"We have an alliance after all. That's what I should do," Roman blandly remarked.

"Yes, yes, the alliance was a good decision after all." Alpha Clark brought up the topic of Charlotte, "How is Charlotte doing in the Southern warrior pack? Her mother has been worried about the girl and keeps on asking if she is fine."

"What will happen to Charlotte when I am here? Do you think I will harm her?"

"Of course not Alpha Roman. Is Charlotte enrolled into school yet? Her mother didn't want Charlotte to skip her education. Education is a vital part of a person's life. It would be a pity if she missed school there."

"Don't worry, Alpha Clark, I am working on it," Roman replied. He thought of something else too and tapped his fingers on the desk while smiling, "Thanks for reminding me of this."

The phone was hung up after a few more formal words. Easton was waiting for the call to end to ask what the call was about. He could have easily heard everything but it was rude to listen to an Alpha's phone call like that, so Easton did not make a habit of it.

"Alpha Clark wants me to enroll Charlotte into a good school. We did call the school about it, right?"

Easton nodded, "Yes, the school where the kids attend. Everything is already in place, Charlotte can start in a few days since the semester just began."

Roman nodded, "What about Anaya? She just turned eighteen."

"She should have passed high school at this age. Now it's time to attend university." Easton frowned, "But without the basics, she wouldn't be able to go further."

"What if we get her a home tutor?" Roman suggested, "Anaya won't be comfortable in the school environment anyway. I was thinking a tutor would be able to teach her the basics and then let her enroll in the University in our pack."

"Sounds like a good idea. But will Anaya agree?" Easton asked.

"I'll talk to her about it."

A/N -

Today's update is a bit early because I have yet another test in about 10 minutes :)

Feeling dull and lazy today, so I guess I'll be sleeping a lot after the test. I might forget to upload after the test so I am doing it now.

< Chapter 44 Date Ideas

+5 Points

Hope y'all are having a better day!

Lots of love,

Skylar

XOXO

Comments

Vote

 LUCK DRAW >