

Chapter 285

But back then, without any evidence, all he could do was watch the rumors spread, watch George sent to prison, powerless to stop it.

Autumn felt a sharp ache in her chest. She took a sip of coffee, then asked, "Was my uncle sent to prison because someone was pulling strings behind the scenes?"

She already knew the Lewis family had manipulated the case. What she couldn't understand was why they had chosen to side with the Far family.

Was it really just because Jasmine's mother was Luna's aunt?

But George was her uncle, Richard's brother-in-law. How could he turn his back on family and help destroy him?

"Yes." Charles nodded.

Autumn's chest ached even more. She asked hoarsely, "Was it the Lewis family?"

When Charles nodded again, Autumn shut her eyes. Two streams of tears slipped into her coffee.

Selena burst out angrily. "How disgusting can they get? To crush their own brother-in-law like that—are they even human?"

"That whole Lewis clan must be insane. It's bad enough they sided with that mistress and her daughter, but to do this to their own family? They're out of their minds."

No amount of cursing felt strong enough. What that family had done completely shattered her understanding of decency. It was revolting.

Suddenly Autumn opened her eyes, red and burning. "It was Richard. Ten years ago, Simon was still in high school. He hadn't taken over the Lewis Group yet, he didn't have that kind of power."

Selena finally put the pieces together, then launched into another tirade. "But your uncle was his brother-in-law! How could he do that? No loyalty at all!"

She had met Richard a few times. He had seemed so mild, so decent. Who would have thought he was capable of something so ruthless?

Maybe some people were just masters of disguise—one face in public, another in private. It was sickening.

Thinking that, Selena gently wiped Autumn's tears. "Autumn, don't be sad. Evil never lasts. They'll pay for it sooner or later."

Suddenly something struck Selena. She grabbed Autumn's hand, her voice rising with excitement. "Autumn, I remember—your uncle once saved Keith. You can ask him for help."

"With the Sinclair family's power, crushing the Lewis family would be effortless. As long as Keith steps in, everything will be twice as effective with half the effort."

The Sinclairs were the most powerful family in Northhaven. Compared to them, the Lewis family was nothing.

If Keith learned what George had gone through, there was no way he would just stand by.

At that, Charles looked at Selena with sudden seriousness. "Selena, are you certain? George really saved Keith back then?"

"If the Sinclairs were to step in, then yes—there might be a real chance to overturn the case. And if they took it upon themselves to investigate, even better."

If that was true, then George's case might finally see justice.

After all, the people who had suppressed it back then could never match the Sinclair family's reach. 1

During the original investigation, they had run into constant roadblocks. The opposition had even paid trolls to smear George online.

Later, they abused their influence to throw him into prison, destroying what little evidence they had managed to gather.

Selena nodded, then turned to Autumn. "Autumn, this time you'll have to ask Keith for help. Without him, the case won't stand a chance."
