

Chapter 61 - Returning to my rejected mate

Zane's Point of View

I let my wolf run as hard and as fast as he can, hoping we can out run the pain in my chest.

It keeps playing over and over in my mind. She's pregnant.. Shay is pregnant with our pup.. And because of this stupid fight we might never even be able to hear the pup's heartbeat.

My heart constrict thinking about it and the pain in my chest just intensifies.

I should've tried harder to talk her out of it. I should've dealt with my father.. Maybe then she wouldn't have felt she needed to prove something to him. If he didn't challenge her.. If he didn't have it out for her.. None of this would have happened. This is all his fault..

I don't know how long I've been running but I can feel my wolf getting tired, we slow down near the river and we drink some water before he gives me back control. I feel someone trying to reach me through the mindlink, and my heart starts to race in my chest. I shift back, and start looking for clothes while I open my mindlink, hoping it isn't bad news.

'Sorry I don't want to bother you. Your mother dropped Zayde off with me and Amy. She's on her way to the hospital now. We'll keep him with us for the night.'

Ryan says the moment my mindlink opens.

'Thank you. I'll stop by later to say goodnight to him.'

'Anytime man, you know that.'

He goes quiet and for a second I think he closed the mindlink but then he speaks again.

'How are you doing? Megan told Amy that Shay is pregnant.. How are they doing?'

'I feel lost Ryan.. This is partly my fault. I should've tried harder to talk her out of this. Now.. Because of this fight. They both are in critical condition. Shay needs a blood transfusion, Dan will supply the blood needed.. Lesley told me their first priority is to save Shay, because if she dies, there is no hope for the baby.. But even if she pulls through.. They are not sure if the baby will survive this.'

I try to swallow the lump in my throat and I feel the tears prick my eyes.

'No. Don't even go there. This is not your fault Zane, so put it out of your head. If anyone is to blame here it is your father okay? Not you. Shit man.. I don't even know what to say.. Is there anything we can do?'

'You're already doing it by looking after Zayde.'

'I'll let you get back to your mate. Let me know if there is anything you need.'

'Will do.. Thank you Ryan.'

'Of course. That's what friends are for right?'

'Right. I'll let you know when I'm on my way to come see Zayde.'

'Alright. And Zane?'

'Yeah?'

'Stay strong. Your mate is stubborn and strong, she isn't going to give up this easily. And as for the baby.. The moon goddess wouldn't bless you two with a child just to take him or her away like this.'

'Thank you Ryan. I'll keep that in mind.'

I say ending the mindlink and making my way back to the hospital.

As I enter I see Jake and Megan coming from the cafeteria, also making their way back to the waiting area.

We nod at each other and in silence we make our way over to the chairs and sit down, waiting for any news about Shay and our baby.

My mother, who was silently talking to Sarah comes over to me and sits down next to me, putting one of her arms around me and hugging me.

"How are you doing?"

I sigh and shrug.

"I don't know. A big part of me blames myself. I kept feeling uneasy about this fight.. I should've tried harder to stop her. Or I should have confronted dad. I should have done something. Anything. I keep failing her and now we might lose our baby because of it."

"You didn't fail her Zane. None of this is your fault. She wouldn't want you to blame yourself."

I don't answer her, because no matter what anyone says I still think I am partly to blame for their current condition.

"Where is dad?"

My mom sighs, running a hand through her hair.

"Jake stopped us before we got to the waiting area and advised your father to leave. I agreed with him and I sent your father away. I thought it would be better for all of us if he wasn't here right now, as did Jake."

I hear the catch in her voice.

"Good. I don't want him here and I don't think we should be in the same room right now. I'm sorry. I know he's your mate.. And you love him.. But if we lose this baby.. All of this is his fault. He is the one who challenged Shay. He made her feel like she had to do this to prove herself to him. He started all of this. Even if I partly blame myself, the bigger part blames him. I don't think I would be able to forgive him if we lose this baby."

I say softly and she squeezes my hand.

"I know, baby. I don't think I will be able to forgive him either."

She says and smiles at me sadly and I pull her to me to give her a tight hug. Eventhough I hate my father right now, my mother didn't do anything wrong and she's hurting.

We stay like that for a while, my arm around my mother and her head against my shoulder. We sit in silence, just needing the comfort the other provides.

About ten minutes later Lesley enters the waiting room, her eyes falling on me instantly as she makes her way over to where we sit.

I stand up nervously and meet her halfway.

"Is she okay?"

Lesley nods at me, giving me a small smile.

"For now, yes. She is out of danger for now and she is sedated, to help with her healing. But her wolf is awake.. I think that her wolf protected the pup and is still trying to help it. That's why the Luna isn't healing as she should. I think it would help her and her wolf if you were near them. A mates proximity helps with our healing. I think all of them would benefit from you being close by. Would you like to see her?"

I nod my head so fast the tears just fall down my face. She's okay.. I close my eyes for a minute just thanking the Goddess for watching over Shay.

"What about the baby?"

Sarah asks and my eyes snap open, looking at Lesley. She sighs shaking her head.

"I'm sorry. But it is still too early to tell."

Sarah gives her a small smile and nods.

"I understand thank you doctor."

Lesley nods at her before looking at me again.

"Would you like to go see her now Alpha?"

I nod and follow her to Shay's room.

"Just push the call button if you need anything and a nurse will come right over."

I nod at her again.

"Thank you Lesley."

She gives me a small smile.

"Of course Alpha."

She turns and walk away, leaving me on my own.

I take a deep breath and push open the door to Shay's room.

Chapter 62 - Returning to my rejected mate

Zane's Point of View

I slowly open the door to Shay's room. My eyes takes a minute to adjust to the dimly lit room and I make my way over to the bed.

I can't explain the relief I feel when I see the rise and fall of her chest. She's breathing and she's alive.

I smile as I slowly brush the hair from her face and tuck it behind her ear. I give her a peck on the forehead and I revel in the sparks that course through me, assuring me my mate is still here with me and our son.

I look around, spotting a chair. I grab it and place it right next to her bed before I take a seat. I pick up her hand and entwine my fingers with hers. I bring our hands up to my mouth and kiss the back of her hand gently.

"Hi little mate. It's me. I don't know if you can hear me.. But I'm going to talk anyway. I've missed you. I know it hasn't been that long but still. You know, you scared the hell out of me right? I thought I was losing you. God.. I don't know what I would do if I lost you."

I shake my head and close my eyes to try and keep the tears at bay. I put her knuckles to my mouth and kiss her softly taking a deep breath.

"I don't know if you know this but you are pregnant baby."

I gently put one of my hands on her still flat belly.

"Soon we could have another little wolf. Wouldn't that be amazing? Just hang in there for me, okay? Be strong for the both of you. I know you can both pull true. Can you just imagine how excited Zayde will be if we told him there is a baby on the way?"

Despite the lump forming in my throat I smile to myself and shake my head, thinking about our son's reaction. I move closer to her stomach, and tap it gently.

"Hi there, little baby wolf. I'm your daddy. If you can hear me, please hold on for us okay?"

A few tears escape down my face as happiness and fear flows through me. I was happy to know our pup was in there eventhough I was terrified of losing our pup.

"Daddy loves you and mommy, so much.. Just make it out of here little wolf and I promise you, nothing and no one will ever harm you. Not under my watch."

I slightly lift out of my chair and place a kiss on her stomach, sending a quick prayer up to the goddess asking her to protect our baby.

I sat back on my chair. Talking to both of them but I kept feeling restless and I couldn't relax, so I gently got onto the bed next to her and pulled her into my arms. My entire body relaxed feeling her against me and I close my eyes. I could feel myself starting to fall asleep, I didn't fight it and just allowed sleep to take over.

"Alpha, Alpha."

I frown, hearing someone call but I don't want to open my eyes just yet. I pull Shay closer to me and then I feel someone shaking me, calling me once more.

"Alpha! Wake up."

My eyes snap open and I look for the source, my eyes landing on Lesley and she gives me an apologetic smile.

"I'm sorry for disturbing you, but I just need to check on her vitals and get her ready for the transfusion."

I nod, slowly getting off the bed and taking my place on the chair again. I take her hand in mine, my finger circling her palm as I watch Lesley going over the monitors.

"Is everything okay?"

She nods at me, writing on her pad.

"Everything seems okay for now. She's stable and still sleeping but her wolf seems to be awake still. Taking care of the pup I suppose."

"Can I stay with her?"

I ask hopefully but Lesley shakes her head.

"No, I'm sorry. That won't be possible Alpha. But I will be right there to watch over her. I'll let you know if anything happens."

"How long will it take?"

"It takes quite a while Alpha."

I sigh but nod. I sit there just holding her hand until they wheel her out.

I slowly make my way back to the waiting area and everyone gets up when they see me.

"How are they?"

My mother and Sarah asks at the same time. My mother comes over to me and hugs me. I hug her back tightly before pulling away and looking at all of them.

"She's still asleep but her vitals are okay and she's stable. They took her for the transfusion. Her wolf is still awake, taking care of the pup."

"That's good right?"

Megan asks and I nod.

"I think so. They said the transfusion is going to take a while. I want to go check on our son. Would you mind staying here and letting me know if something happens?"

I turn to look at my mother and she shakes her head.

"Of course not. We'll be right here."

I give her a quick peck on the head.

"Thank you."

I turn to look at Jake and Megan.

"You two should probably head back to the packhouse. Thank you for being here but it's been hours and you are pregnant yourself Megan. Go get some dinner and get some rest."

Megan goes to argue but I shake my head.

"That wasn't a request. Jake take your pregnant mate home and take care of her. You can always come back again later."

Jake looks at her.

"He isn't wrong baby. Please, I promise you we can come back when you're all rested."

She sighs and nods.

"Fine, but I want to know the minute something happens."

She says looking at my mother and Sarah and they both nod at her.

"Your rooms are all set up too, if you want to go take a shower and rest."

I say to Dan and Ashley.

Dan shakes his head to decline, but the moment he looks down at his mate and sees how tired she looks he nods his head standing up.

"I guess we'll take you up on that room."

"Come on. We'll all go get some dinner and then we'll show you to your rooms."

Jake says motioning Dan and Ashley to follow them. I nod at him, silently thanking him before looking at Sarah. She gives me a small smile.

"I'll stay with Diana until you come back. There is no way I'd be able to sleep anyway. Go see your son."

I nod at them before heading out of the hospital.

'Ryan?'

'Zane? Is everything okay?'

'Yes, everything is fine. They took Shay for the transfusion. Is Zayde still awake?'

'Yes, we are currently still watching Bluey. He has already eaten and has been bathed.'

'Thank you. I'm heading your way now.'

'I'll put the kettle on.'

I smile.

'Thank you, coffee sounds great. I'll see you in five minutes.'

I cut of the mindlink and make my way to their floor.

Before I can even knock Amy opens the door and lets me in.

"How are you doing?"

She asks, squeezing my arm and I give her a small smile.

"Okay, they are both still here so that is all that matters."

She smiles back at me and nods.

"That is all that matters. Come in. I got a plate ready for you, I'm guessing you haven't really thought about eating."

I shake my head.

"No, I haven't. Thank you Amy. For everything."

She waves her hand.

"Don't worry about it. You're family. We're happy to help."

I follow her into the kitchen, she hands me my plate and gives me another smile.

"You can head on through to the living room. Ryan and the boys are in there. I'll be there in a minute with the hot drinks."

I nod at her, taking my plate and head to their living room.

"Daddy!"

Zayde yells, getting up and rushing over to me as soon as he sees me. He hugs my legs and I pat his head, smiling down at him.

"Hey buddy, you having fun?"

He nods his head with a big smile.

"Yes! We're watching Bluey!"

Suddenly the smile disappears and he frowns.

"Uh oh.."

He mumbles, biting his lip nervously and I frown.

"What's wrong buddy?"

"Mommy said no Bluey.. I didn't mean to be bad. Do you think she'll be mad at me?"

He asks looking at me with big eyes.

I smile at him and shake my head.

"No, I think she'll be okay with it."

He nods and looks behind me.

"Where is she? Is she still at the hospital? Grandma said she got a little hurt at training?"

My heart constricts again but I ruffle his hair.

"Yeah buddy, she's still there. The doctors are still making her all better."

"Can I see her?"

I shake my head.

"No, I'm sorry Not tonight. It is late and she is sleeping now but we can go see her tomorrow if you want to?"

He nods and smiles.

"Okay daddy. Do you want to watch Bluey with us?"

"Of course I do! And while we watch Bluey and I eat my dinner you guys can tell me all about your day?"

Zayde and Jason both nod at me with big smiles before starting to tell me about everything they did today.

Amy brings in the hot drinks and we all listen to the children.

I stick around until the boys fall asleep.

"Thank you again for this, it means a lot."

I say looking at Amy and Ryan when we are standing at the door.

They both shake their heads at me.

"You need to stop thanking us. We've told you. We're happy to help. You just focus on Shay and the baby. We got Zayde covered. Just let us know if anything happens."

Ryan says and I nod.

"I will. Goodnight guys."

"Goodnight."

They close the door as I turn and leave. I make my way back to the hospital slowly. Halfway there I stop and stare up at the sky taking a deep breath before sending up another prayer.

"Please Goddess, keep them save."

I run my hand down my face and continue on my way to the hospital.

I have a feeling it is still going to be a long night.

Chapter 63 - Returning to my rejected mate

Zane's Point of View

The transfusion lasted a few hours but Shay was finally transferred back to the recovery room.

We were all back and gathered in the waiting area when the doctor come over and explained that she is responding to the transfusion and that slowly but steadily her vitals were picking up. She informed us that Shay was no longer sedated but would still need a few hours to rest. She also mentioned that there were no further complications with the baby but also no improvements, and that they would continue to monitor the situation. All we could do right now is to wait and see.

My heart constricts as the possibilities of what could still go wrong run through my brain and I try to block it out.

About two hours later I sigh as I lean my elbows on my thighs and run a hand over my face. I stare at Shay on the bed. She still hasn't woken up and my mind keeps running all the scenarios over and over again.

Sarah and my mother both come in to the room and stand beside me. My mother places a hand on my shoulder.

"Why don't you go grab something to eat? Or go take a shower?"

"I don't want to leave her.."

"I know but maybe go check on Zayde? You did promise him he could see her today. So go get something to eat with your son, take a shower and then both of you could come here."

I think for a minute and nod.

"Yeah, that's a good idea. Maybe having him here would help her."

Sarah nods at me with a smile.

I get up, lean over the bed and give Shay a short peck on the head.

"Let me know the minute something happens okay?"

"Of course we will. Now go see your son."

Sarah says, gently pushing me out the door.

"And please take a shower. You look and smell like a corpse."

My mother adds her two scents and I smile, shaking my head as I make my way out of the hospital. I smell my shirt and pull a face. My mother has a point. A shower doesn't sound to bad. I look at my watch. I have more than enough time to shower first and then I'll go get something to eat with Zayde before we go to see Shay.

After my shower I mindlink Ryan.

'Good morning. Where would I find you guys?'

'Morning. We're heading to the dining hall for some breakfast. You want to join us?'

'I'll see you all in five.'

I say before shutting of the mindlink, pulling my shirt over my head and making my way to the dining hall.

As soon as I enter the chatter in the dining hall dies down and everyone is looking at me.

'What's going on?'

'They all want to know about Shay. I told them they had to wait for you. Sorry, we just got here. I was about to mindlink you.'

Ryan replies through the mindlink and I sigh but nod.

'Amy? Could you take the two boys to the kitchen for some ice cream or something? I don't want Zayde to hear about everything.'

Amy nods at me and I see her whispering to the boys who immediately jump up and make their way into the kitchen.

As soon as they are gone I turn to the pack.

"Good morning everyone. As you all know there was an incident yesterday after the fight. It seems your future luna is pregnant."

The murmurs start and I hold my hand up, silencing them.

"It is still very early in the pregnancy and the fight caused a tear in her uterus. They have the bleeding under control and she is responding well."

I try to swallow the lump that suddenly formed in my throat and take a deep breath before clearing my throat.

"Unfortunately we are not sure of our pup's survival. We ask that all of you pray with us. That is all for now. If there is any news we will let the pack know."

Everyone nods and I hear the murmurs start again but I don't bother listening. I make my way to the buffet table and start making myself a plate before I go to sit down next to Ryan.

"Sorry about this. But they were all wondering what was going on."

I shrug.

"It's fine. We would've had to tell them at some point."

"How are they doing today?"

"Shay isn't being sedated anymore but she still hasn't woken up. And the pup.. well there's no news. They are monitoring the situation."

Before Ryan can reply Amy and the boys come back in.

Zayde smiles widely when he sees me sitting at the table.

"Look dad! We got waffles and ice cream for breakfast. And I have bacon!"

I smile back at him.

"That looks delicious. Did you say thank you?"

He nods.

"I did, right aunt Amy?"

She smiles at him and nods.

"Yes you did sweetheart."

He looks at me.

"See I did."

He says with sass and I just shake my head.

"Well if you're good and eat all of your food we can go see mom in the hospital."

"Really? Is she awake?"

He asks excitedly and I give him a small smile, shaking my head.

"No buddy. She is still asleep but maybe if she hears you she'll wake up from her nap."

"Can I tell her I had waffles and ice cream for breakfast?"

"Of course. You can tell her anything you want. As soon as we are both done eating we can go see her."

Zayde nods vigorously and shoves a big bite into his mouth.

"Hey, now. Don't rush your breakfast, you might choke. Just eat like a normal person not a starving wolf."

I say shaking my head at him. He looks up at me with one eyebrow arched and I can't help but smile. When he does that he looks exactly like Shay.

"I am a normal starving wolf."

Ryan chokes on his eggs and Amy starts to laugh.

"Zayde.. Just eat your food."

I say with a smile, shaking my head at his sass.

After breakfast we make our way over to the hospital with Zayde telling me about everything he and Jason did since they woke up, which isn't a lot but I listen and react excitedly nonetheless, because every small thing is still big to him.

"I can't wait to see mommy. I miss her."

He suddenly says and I smile at him.

"I know buddy. And she missed you to?"

"Is she still mad that I was mean to her?"

"No of course not."

He nods, looking very serious.

"Good. But I still think we should get her some flowers and a chocolate."

I smile at him and ruffle his hair.

"You are so smart. That is a great idea. Come on, let's make a little detour. We can go pick some flowers and buy a chocolate before we go see her. What do you think?"

He nods excitedly.

"She would like that."

Half an hour later Zayde and I finally make it back to the hospital. As we near Shay's room an alarm suddenly sounds and people start rushing down the hall to Shay's room.

"Daddy what's going on?"

"I'm not sure buddy."

I say rushing down the hall, seeing my mother and Sarah standing in front of the door to Shay's room.

"What happened?"

Sarah turns to me, with tears falling down her face.

"Her vitals dropped and she started bleeding again. They are trying to stop it. They won't let us in."

"Take Zayde."

"No Zane, you can't go in there."

I ignore my mother that is trying to stop me and I try to hand Zayde to her but he won't let me go.

"No daddy. I want to stay with you."

I look down at him and I see the fear in his eyes. I hug him tightly to my chest.

"Of course you can stay with me. I'm sorry."

The alarms suddenly stop and I'm not sure if it is a good or a bad thing.

Zayde looks up at me.

"Is mommy okay daddy?"

I shake my head.

"I'm not sure buddy, please stay with your grandmas so daddy can go find out what's going on."

He nods reluctantly but allows my mother to take him.

As I'm making my way over to the door of the hospital room Shay is in Lesley steps out and my steps falter.

From the look on her face I immediately know the alarms stopping doesn't mean anything good.

Chapter 64 - Returning to my rejected mate

Zane's Point of View

Five weeks after (the hospital).

I open the door to our apartment and nothing but silence greets me. I make my way to the kitchen pouring myself a glass of water.

I open my mindlink to Amy

'Hi. How is Zayde doing?'

'Hi. He's good. We're in the park with your mother.'

'Would you mind watching him for ten more minutes? I just got back from training. I just want to grab a quick shower.'

'Sure, we're still waiting for Ryan anyway.'

'Thanks Amy. See you in ten.'

I sigh and crank my neck. I finish a second glass of water before I slowly start to make my way down the hall to our bedroom.

I hesitate to open the door but I quietly pull the handle and push the door open.

It takes my eyes a minute to adjust to the dimly lit room and I let my eyes roam around the room, landing on the shape laying on top of the bed. I slowly make my way over to the bed.

I crouch down next to the bed watching Shay's peaceful face as she sleeps. I push her hair from her face and give her a quick peg on the forehead. She sighs and rolls over onto her back. My eyes move down to the barely visible bump and I gently rest my hand on top of it. I close my eyes and listen. I hear Shay's steady heartbeat and I focus, listening past her heartbeat and I hear the fast comforting thump of our pup's heartbeat. Peace fills me and I softly kiss her stomach.

"Hi little wolf. I can't tell you what I feel everytime I hear the little thump of your heart. It fills me with peace to know that you are here with us and safe."

That day, a month ago. My whole world almost collapsed. Shay's vitals suddenly plummeted and she started bleeding again. Her heart flatlined and she was gone for two minutes. They managed to get her heart started again but they said we lost the baby.

Shay woke up a day later and we had to tell her what happened.

I would never forget the look of pure anguish on her face when she heard about the baby.

For three weeks it felt like I basically lost her as well. She fell into depression. She withdrew from everyone, even Zayde. She wouldn't eat. She barely slept. And when she did manage to sleep I would wake up to her crying in her sleep. She blamed herself and was convinced I hated her.. Even told me she would understand if I wanted to reject her.

I finally convinced her that I wasn't going anywhere and that we could always try again. My mother and Sarah took turns staying with her, helping her through the depression and slowly she started to come out of the room again, interacting with us. And about two weeks ago I noticed her slightly gaining weight around her stomach, at first we thought it was just because she was eating a lot more now that she had her appetite back but soon she started having symptoms. She was dizzy and had headaches. She started feeling more tired than usual. She complained about feeling nauseous and didn't always want to eat. Saying certain things made her feel nauseous. I was scared that she was falling back in to being depressed.

I made her a doctor's appointment and practically had to carry her to the hospital.

Lesley ran a few tests but couldn't find anything wrong. As a last resort she took some of Shay's blood to have it analyzed. A day later she asked us to come back in. She told us about something called vanishing twin syndrome, a phenomenon where one twin is miscarried, often before anyone even knows there were two. She explained that she suspects that is what happened and had Shay lay down for a ultrasound.

And there we saw it, as clear as day. Two sacks. One empty and one with a tiny baby in it. Lesley turned on the sound and the sound of our baby's strong heartbeat filled her office.

I think back to that day and smile as the memory play in my mind.

I was still staring at the monitor in shock when I heard a sob from Shay. I looked at her, concerned but she was smiling.

"I'm pregnant."

She whispered and looked up at me.

"I'm pregnant Zane. We're going to have a baby."

She said as she started to sit up, tears still streaming down her face but she had this big goofy smile that made me smile aswell.

I nodded at her.

"Yeah, baby. We're going to have a baby!"

I cupped the back of her head, lowered my head to hers and kissed her. Pouring everything I had into the kiss. Shay wrapped her arms around my neck and kissed me back just as passionately.

I don't think my heart has ever felt as full as it did that day. The feeling of hearing your baby's heartbeat for the very first time.. There's nothing like it.

"I hope you are being good for your mommy. She has been through enough. I can't wait to see you grow in her tummy and I promise I will be there with both of you every step of the way. I can't wait to hold you in my arms."

I kiss her stomach again. I feel something brush my hair and I look up at Shay, staring at me with a beautiful smile.

"Sorry did I wake you?"

She shakes her head, still running her fingers through my hair and I revel in the sparks running over my scalp.

"No, it's okay. When did you get in?"

I look at my watch and quickly get up.

"About ten minutes ago. Sorry baby, I got to go take a shower, I promised Amy I'd be there ten minutes to pick up Zayde and I got distracted by the little one."

"Go shower. I'll let her know we're running a bit late."

I smirk at her and wiggle my eyebrows.

"Well since we're already late how about you join me for the shower?"

She laughs and shakes her head shooin me away with her hand.

"Go away sweaty man! Go take your shower we need to go pick up our kid."

"Fine, your loss."

I shrug and give her a quick kiss before I make my way to the bathroom. Stripping out of my clothes and turning slightly to stare at her. I smirk when I see her biting her lip before she quickly gets out of bed, pulling her dress over her head.

I swallow, as her breast come into view. I've always loved her big breast but I can't get enough of them since she's gotten pregnant. She smirks at me as she sees where my gaze landed. She slowly makes her way over to me and I can feel myself getting erected.

She walks up close to me wrapping one arm around my neck while the other hand softly wraps around my manhood and she starts to stroke me slowly.

"I guess you can just send her a quick mindlink. Another ten minutes won't be the end of the world."

I smirk at her.

"That's my girl."

I send Amy a quick mindlink, letting her know we're running a bit late. I hear the smirk in her voice when she answers but I don't reply, I cut of the mindlink before I pick Shay up and start to kiss her passionately.

She immediately responded wrapping her legs around my waist and she starts to grind against me as we make out all the way into the shower.
