

After divorce, Ex-wife Revealed Identities

Chapter 581

Just then, a slender figure stepped out of the elevator, followed by a man carrying a fruit basket walking behind her step by step. Raiden paused and looked towards that woman.

"Miss Hogan?"

It was Sabrina Hogan - , the youngest daughter of Lucille Hogan who served as Aettosa Kingdom's famous Secretary of State - what brought her here?

Sabrina wore an elegant black dress reminiscent of Audrey Hepburn style matched with white cashmere coat outside; paired with boots which were spotless clean and eye-catching.

The simple yet powerful black-and-white combination gave off refreshing vibes.

Especially since she was extremely beautiful; her features carrying a mixed-race feeling, those enchanting eyes very attractive. She wore diamond earrings on both ears emitting dazzling light under corridor lights

Raiden thought inwardly, Aettosa Secretary of State's daughter was indeed top-notch socialite worthy enough of a good reputation!

He greeted her, "Miss Hogan, it's good to see you again."

"The old Mr. Bennett is one of the founding fathers of H Rovirsa. He fell seriously ill and we felt obligated to come visit," Sabrina glanced at the driver behind her and he immediately handed over a fruit basket to Raiden.

Raiden quickly took it and said, "Thank you, Miss Hogan."

"I'm here on behalf of Aettosa to pay our respects. Not only that, but also on behalf of my mother who sends her regards," Sabrina spoke with an official tone.

Despite being in her early twenties, she had learned all the mannerisms required for politics from following Secretary Lucille every day.

"Thank you for your mother's concern as well as Aettosa's," Raiden replied politely.

"You don't have to be so formal, Mr. Bennett," Sabrina remained indifferent. "It's what I should do."

She glanced at the closed door of the hospital room and said, The old Mr. Bennett's situation is not optimistic this time!" "Yes... he has been in a coma all this time," A trace of worry appeared on Raiden's face, "I hope I can be rescued."

"If there is anything I can do to help please let me know," Sabrina was very polite in her offer.

"I majored in medicine and my mentor is Ms. Wolfe. Over these years I've studied at H Rovirsa Medical University under Ms. Wolfe's guidance."

"Of course," Raiden nodded eagerly feeling grateful that Aettosa's Secretary of State thought highly enough of him.

Sabrina sighed deeply saying: "Ms. Wolfe told me that the old Mr. Bennet's situation isn't looking too great this time around; not only has he been unconscious but there could also be bleeding or clotting forming within his brain which could lead to life- threatening complications if surgery isn't performed soon."

Being Ms. Wolfe's apprentice along with being the daughter of Aettosa's Secretary of State made everyone regard her highly already.

Hearing how detailed she was explaining things now made the Bennet family even more fond of her than before. Their eyes were glued onto her like they couldn't get enough.

Jazlynn walked over wanting to hold onto Sabrina's arm but hesitated out of fear before asking softly, "Did Ms. Wolfe say what are my father's chances of surviving if surgery is performed?"

Sabrina had a hint of pride on her face, as well as the haughtiness that was unique to Aettosa's socialites.

She didn't even consider Jazlynn important enough to pay attention to, but still said casually, "Maybe three or four percent." "Oh my god, then what about my dad..." Jazlynn couldn't help but exclaim in shock.

Sabrina became even more arrogant. "Ms. Wolfe said that if the operation was performed immediately, there might be a three or four percent chance of success. Even with those odds, there's no guarantee he'll recover fully and he might even end up paralyzed."

She grew impatient and added, "I don't know what the Bennett family is waiting for. Why haven't you signed the consent form for surgery? What are you waiting for? Are you joking around with the old Mr. Bennett's life?"

She sneered at the rest of the Bennett family and continued,"Besides, when people get old they're bound to have serious health problems sooner or later. I heard Master Jonathan is looking for some famous doctor; I hope he hasn't been tricked by someone."

Sabrina spoke with admiration and recognition towards Alondra, "Ms. Wolfe is my mentor; she has unparalleled skills in this field throughout H Rovirsa. Even Aettosa invites her to give lectures! What are you all thinking?"

Her tone was full of pride.

As the top socialite at Aettosa who also attended Medical University and was Alondra's proudest disciple, Sabrina could be considered an exceptional woman.

The fact that she stood here talking down on them was only because of Jonathan; unfortunately this damn Jonathan ran off looking for some famous doctor instead of coming to beg her help!

The more she thought about it, the angrier Sabrina got. However, she couldn't lower herself as a top socialite!

Raiden didn't say anything but just sighed deeply. The rest of the Bennett family remained silent too. Jonathan may not be reliable most times, but... each one had their own selfish motives. They weren't necessarily all hoping the old Mr. Bennett would survive.

After divorce, Ex-wife Revealed Identities

Chapter 582

After all, Alondra's surgical skills were indeed among the best in H Rovirsa. There were few who could compare with her especially in Urgford.

Many political elites would beg Alondra personally when they had minor illnesses.

It seemed like only after Alondra had seen them, they could become healthier and more energetic, and their important lives could be preserved.

Raiden thought about how he still had to endure the scolding and disdain of this young girl. He wasn't too happy about it, but he didn't have a choice.

After all, she was the daughter of Lucille, Aettosa's

Secretary of State. So let her disdain him if she wanted to; Alondra was indeed impressive.

Because Paula and Alondra were sisters, whenever Alondra needed help with her research or anything else for that matter, the Bennett family would always provide funding - not to mention other small favors.

So when it came time for the old Mr. Bennett's surgery this time around, they didn't need to go out of their way to ask for help from anyone; Alondra happily prepared herself for it.

But now... there was still no news.

Recently, Alondra had been working on some kind of life-extending experiment - inventing a new drug called RSE 3 that could effectively slow down human aging better than any skincare product worth tens of thousands ever could!

It was ingested directly into the body where its effects would take place immediately by making one look younger while slowing down aging.

As soon as this news got out there were many wealthy investors who rushed over with large sums of money ready to invest in her laboratory because these days not only former rulers pursued immortality but modern people feared death just as much!

Who wouldn't want to live a few more days?

Especially those powerful big shots who wished they could stay eighteen forever!

"Mr. Bennett," Sabrina scanned around before asking with an affected smile, "Hasn't Jonathan's doctor arrived yet? Or did we fall victim to his scam?"

"Yeah!" Jazlynn added impatiently, "We've been waiting so long! Why is there no sign of that so-called famous doctor? Jonathan really has no manners at all! And Raiden..." She paused before continuing, "I don't mean to pry but why did you believe him?"

"Ms. Bennett," Sabrina chuckled contemptuously. "Never mind him since Ms. Wolfe is still waiting for your signature." Jazlynn's face stiffened slightly as anger flickered in her eyes.

How dare this girl look down on someone older than herself?

However, Sabrina was not the one she could vent her anger on. She had to hold back her frustration and look away with a cold expression.

Just then, the elevator opened and Alondra stepped out wearing a white coat.

She was a woman in her forties, quite elegant and slender, with frameless glasses that revealed cold arrogance behind them.

Indeed, like master, like disciple. The aura emanating from her body was somewhat similar to Sabrina's. After all, they were teacher and student.

Sabrina greeted her warmly as soon as she saw her. "Ms. Wolfe, what brings you here?"

"I'm worried about you," Alondra scolded as she glanced at Sabrina disapprovingly. "You've been staying here for so long without going back home."

Sabrina obediently took Alondra's arm and said in an ingratiating tone of voice, "I stayed longer because I'm concerned about the old Mr. Bennett's condition."

The two women walked up to Raiden together while he sighed deeply and said, "Ms. Wolfe..."

"Raiden," Alondra interrupted him impatiently while rolling her eyes mockingly at him before continuing, "The old Mr. Bennett is seriously ill now; you are the backbone of the Bennett family; how can you let Jonathan mess around like this? It's already so late; where is he? When will he arrive?"

"You'll know what a real doctor looks like when he arrives," Raiden retorted dismissively while Sabrina just ignored his words altogether.

However, when it came to Alondra speaking up like this in front of him, Raiden had no choice but to give face even though it made him feel uncomfortable inside.

He reluctantly took out his phone and angrily called Jonathan: "What's wrong with you kid? It has been such a long time already! Where is that famous doctor that you promised us? Can't you stop messing around anymore? You have gone too far by joking around with your grandfather's life! Can you bear such responsibility if anything happens to him?"

After pausing for a moment, he continued, "Moreover, Ms. Wolfe is considered one of the best surgeons nationally, even if not internationally. I don't believe there exists anyone better than Ms. Wolfe."

Jonathan replied through his Bluetooth earphone nonchalantly while driving, "Uncle Raiden, I think it would be better if you come out more often to see more of the outside world."

Raiden turned red with anger upon hearing those words from Jonathan over his phone call. "Jonathan, I'm telling you, if you don't show up in half an hour, I'll sign the papers and let Ms. Wolfe perform the surgery!"

"Uncle Raiden, don't get so worked up. Older people should stay calm to live longer. We're almost there." Jonathan hung up without waiting for Raiden's response.

After divorce, Ex-wife Revealed Identities

Chapter 583

Raiden on the other end of the phone was furious. How dare that brat hang up on him!

This was outrageous!

The rest of the Bennett family looked at Raiden in shock. This... was a bit too shocking?

Jonathan usually acted cool and aloof but with his handsome face and skillful gaming abilities, he had a way with girls.

But no one in the Bennett family respected him because playing games wasn't something to be proud of... and yet he made it his profession.

They were confused what made Jonathan dare to hang up on Raiden, the most powerful man in this family. Tsk Tsk -

These Bennetts couldn't help but think of one thing, simultaneously - "Awesome! Jonathan doesn't even take Raiden seriously! Besides, Alondra's skills were top-notch; they couldn't find anyone else like her at home.

If Jonathan really didn't leave himself any room by offending her so thoroughly... what would happen if he got sick or needed medical attention later? It wouldn't be worth it then.

Sabrina looked at Raiden mockingly and whispered to Alondra, "Ms. Wolfe, don't be angry. Jonathan is young and impulsive. You..."

Alondra knew Sabrina's intentions well. She really liked her apprentice, and glared at Sabrina, "Don't speak for Jonathan. I was petty this time, and yes, I'm a little angry."

"I heard that he found a famous doctor from Larro. What kind of famous doctor does Larro have that we haven't heard about before?" Sabrina was also mad at Jonathan. Why did he have to go out to find another one instead of just letting Ms. Wolfe perform the surgery?

Just then, the elevator doors suddenly opened again.

Jonathan's familiar slender figure came into view, but everyone didn't look at him. Instead, their gaze went past him and directly to the person behind him.

Jazlynn couldn't help but say, "Jonathan's back? And the famous doctor is here too?"

Almost all of the Bennett family widened their eyes, wanting to see what this famous doctor looked like. Behind Jonathan was a slim woman dressed in all black with matching shoes.

She had an amazing figure and her face was strikingly beautiful.

Her clear almond eyes seemed to hide all emotions except for coldness.

She followed Jonathan as if they were taking a leisurely stroll in their own backyard.

Behind her was a tall and handsome man with one hand in his pocket and icy eyes colder than the weather outside.

This was an extremely eye-catching couple who exuded nobility from head to toe. They gave off an inexplicable feeling of unease that made people feel palpitations. He seemed like her guardian angel, firmly guarding by her side.

No one expected that Jonathan would bring such an eye-catching young couple here.

For a moment, no one could tell which one was the famous doctor, but most people guessed it must be the man because his domineering aura made them want to submit to him involuntarily.

It must be him! The woman is too young; how could she possibly be a famous doctor?

But regardless of whether they were famous or not... this couple really matched each other perfectly.

Jonathan led them to his family before lazily speaking up, "This is my boss Sylvia; my grandfather's surgery must be done by her."

Everyone was shocked!

They had guessed it might have been the man but never thought it would actually be this young woman! The Bennetts found it hard to accept and stared curiously at Sylvia...

She looked about twenty years old?

At this age... she probably hadn't even graduated from college yet?

Ms. Wolfe had published a paper in an international medical journal when she was thirty years old, and many people worshiped her for it. Not to mention the fact that at thirty-six years old, she successfully performed a difficult surgery and saved the life of a big shot. From then on, she rose to become a well-known expert in the country.

But Ms. Wolfe was already in her thirties at that time... getting a lot of achievements in her thirties was considered miraculous and impressive! And this woman was only about twenty years old?

So... almost everyone thought that Jonathan had been deceived by Sylvia. This woman was just trying to swindle Jonathan a lot of money!

Sabrina looked down on him with disdainful eyes and an expression of mixed emotions on her face. "Jonathan, even if you're stupid, you can't be this stupid right? You hired her as a famous doctor? Can she compare to my mentor?"

Everyone was watching the show, but when Sabrina spoke up, they immediately became interested. After all, watching people argue can be entertaining too.

Among them all, though hardly anyone really cared about saving the old Mr. Bennett's life.

She really couldn't understand Jonathan; he risked offending Alondra just to find such a woman? What did he hope to gain from it?

After divorce, Ex-wife Revealed Identities

Chapter 584

At this point almost everyone in the Bennett family had come back to their senses and were looking at Sylvia with contemptuous scrutiny and disbelief.

"How can such a young woman have remarkable skills?" "Master Jonathan is joking around with

Mr. Bennett's life."

"He truly is the most unreliable member of the Bennett family; just looking at him makes me angry."

"This kind of person is purely here for money; once they get paid they'll leave without another word. What if Mr. Bennett's condition gets worse because of them - who will take responsibility?"

"Furthermore, Alondra is one of H Rovirsa's top experts; what kind of storms hasn't she seen before? Even if Jonathan doesn't like Ms. Wolfe. there's no need for him to slap her face like that right?"

"It's obvious he looks down upon Ms. Wolfe, isn't it ? I feel angry for Ms. Wolfe."

Many relatives who came over specifically to visit the old Mr. Bennett began whispering amongst themselves which made everyone from the Bennett Family look very unhappy.

Jonathan wouldn't let them agree on letting Alondra perform surgery after all. What's the point of hiring an expert, a master?

Everyone was waiting for him to work his magic alone.

But now, it turns out to be this unknown woman who only has a pretty face and seems like just another gold-digger that relies on her looks to deceive people.

This is a complete disgrace for the Bennett family; they've been humiliated and embarrassed in front of everyone. If this disgusting incident gets out, the reputation of the Bennett family in Urgford will be ruined?

The entire circle in Urgford would probably mock them. The whole family is completely foolish!

Raiden was about to explode with anger; he felt immense fury inside him. Jonathan must be crazy! He shouldn't have given Jonathan such an opportunity.

How could such a young woman compare herself with Alondra, who was a nationally recognized professor? What kind of expert or renowned doctor was this young woman? Raiden had never heard of such a young female doctor before!

At that moment, Tammy and Skyla were among the group visiting patients when they saw Sylvia too. The two women had been living under intense pressure lately at the Hipps Family as Clare kept investigating their backgrounds.

The whole Hipps Family seemed depressed due to Clare's constant suspicion towards them. Queena ignored them completely as if she believed everything Clare said about them.

Ever since they lost face at the auction last time, Tammy and Skyla had been hiding away in their small courtyard within the Hipps family's castle without coming out unnecessarily.

Clare kept doubting their identities every day along with that blood jade issue - it was unbearable...

This time around, because the old Mr. Bennett fell ill and the Hipps family was too busy, so they appointed the two of them to visit the sick across the country.

And now Sylvia showed up just after they arrived?

"Sylvia?" Tammy didn't want anything to do with her but couldn't resist stepping forward when everyone else questioned Sylvia's abilities - she wouldn't be able sleep at night otherwise.

So she walked towards Sylvia wearing her high heels one step at a time.

She wore a white woolen coat with an excellent cut, and underneath it was a sky-blue dress that made her look tender and pure, as pure as the white lotus.

She always liked to dress herself up like this, which suited her personality perfectly. An angelic bitch!

The Bennett family was very polite to Tammy and Skyla, who were similar to ambassadors from Aettosa in the past. Everyone was surprised when Tammy called Sylvia by name.

After a while, Raiden said in a deep voice, "Miss Andrews knows this famous doctor?"

He deliberately emphasized the word "famous" with strong sarcasm.

Tammy smiled. Even though she wore high-heeled boots, she was still not as tall as Sylvia who was wearing a pair of flat shoes .

She felt quite superior. "Although I didn't want to come here, my grandmother forced me to visit the old Mr. Bennett on her behalf," Tammy said while looking at Raiden again. "Mr. Bennett, you don't know this. Sylvia used to be my sister back then but not anymore."

Her carefully made-up face made her facial features look more profound. "After all... I'm now a socialite of the Hipps family!"

The literary heir!

Skyla laughed after hearing Tammy's words and added, "Sorry for embarrassing everyone here; back when Sylvia was part of the Andrews family... well, it's hard to describe." She covered her mouth while laughing.

Sylvia had been quite famous in Larro before but so what? Urgford was much bigger than Larro; how could a doctor who only treated the sick in Larro deserve to come here?

Sylvia should take a good look at herself first! Did they think Urgford was just like Larro?

Besides Alondra was an expert professor who was especially well-known in Urgford. What did Sylvia count for?

Chapter 586

"Mom, what are you saying?" Tammy gritted her teeth as the words squeezed out of her mouth. "Are you crazy or something?" This was telling everyone that Sylvia was just a doctor.

Regardless of her medical skills, she truly was a doctor and didn't lie or deceive anyone. "This young woman really is a doctor."

"That's so surprising."

"I suddenly wonder how skilled she really is."

Jonathan only stared at Sylvia with his dark eyes while the voices of those around him continued to ring in his ears.

He gave them an annoyed glance before turning back to Sylvia and saying, "Don't mind them. Boss, Master Franklin, let's go inside; I'll take you to meet my grandfather."

Sylvia looked expressionless as he scanned him with her eyes.

The young man standing before her had tall stature with long limbs wearing baseball uniform which made him look casual yet handsome due to his good looks rather than being tacky.

Especially since he always had a proud look on his face which made people hesitant about provoking him. "Let's go."

"What are we going for!" Suddenly Jazlynn blocked their way.

Her face was gloomy as her scrutinizing gaze carried disdain while looking over at Sylvia.

She spoke very impolitely,"Jonathan, can she compare to Ms. Wolfe? What are you doing? You're usually unreliable enough already, and now your grandpa is lying inside!"

Jonathan rolled his eyes and sneered,"Ms. Wolfe? It's your guys who keep comparing my boss to Alondra all the time, isn't it?"

"Aunt Jonathan, why do you keep comparing my boss to Alondra? They are not even in the same league. Why should they be forced to compete with each other?"

"I tell you, you are humiliating my boss!"

Jonathan was fuming. Who did Alondra think she was? Always chasing after money for her experiments on human genetics. What good had come out of it so far?

There were countless people who wanted his boss to perform surgery on them. All his boss had to do was nod her head and they would line up.

He couldn't understand why all these so-called "experts" and "professors" wasted resources and money. When Alondra heard Jonathan's words, she almost fainted from anger.

How dare this little brat publicly humiliate a nationally renowned expert like herself!

Alondra was furious! Why couldn't she compete with this young woman? How capable she was anyway? Did she have as many awards or published papers as her?

Raiden felt like he had been slapped in the face by Jonathan's words. After all, Alondra was his wife's sister; he couldn't let Jonathan get away with insulting her like that.

With a dark expression on his face, Raiden scolded Jonathan, "Are you crazy? If you want to go crazy, go ahead! Ms. Wolfe is a famous surgeon in our country; when she won her award, you weren't even born yet!"

His chest hurt from anger. "If your grandfather has any problems after being treated by her, can you bear the responsibility?"

"You know what," said Jonathan with a smile as his eyes swept over Raiden and Jazlynn's ugly faces, "I can handle it! My boss is just that awesome! I trust her!"

"You're responsible for it?" Jazlynn cursed loudly, "Just because you play games doesn't mean you're responsible enough for this task! How could someone like our Bennett family produce such a wastrel like yourself?"

"Who says my son is a wastrel?" At that moment, suddenly there came an ice-cold and steady female voice from behind everyone else. "My son is going to bring glory to our country. E-sports have been officially recognized as a sport in recent years. Only narrow-minded people would think it's just playing games," said Jonathan's mother proudly.

"Mom!" Jonathan exclaimed with joy as he saw an elegant middle-aged woman walking towards them. She was wearing a dark purple cheongsam with a white cashmere shawl draped over it.

She exuded elegance, nobility, and charisma. This was Tiana

Marks, Jonathan's mother.

Tiana glanced at everyone and then walked up to Sylvia with a smile on her face.

She shook Sylvia's hands warmly and patted them affectionately, "Jonathan has mentioned you before, but I didn't expect you to be so beautiful."

"Mrs. Bennett, you are the most beautiful one! If I didn't know it earlier, I would have thought that you and Jonathan were siblings!" Sylvia smiled mischievously.

Twenty years ago, Tiana was once a popular actress who had starred in many blockbuster movies in H Rovirsa. Even now, all those new rising actresses or idols couldn't surpass Tiana's achievements in showbiz despite their hard work.

She had won three major awards for both movies and TV shows - something no other actress had ever accomplished before in H Rovirsa.

Jonathan inherited her good looks and elegance from her mother.

Thus Jonathan was much more handsome compared to other members of the Bennett family and did not resemble them at all.

After divorce, Ex-wife Revealed Identities

Chapter 587

The faces of those from the Bennett family varied when they saw Tiana appear - it was quite interesting indeed. "Tiana," Raiden said coldly while looking at Sylvia disapprovingly "no matter what, this girl can't do it."

"Raiden," Tiana replied gracefully while smiling elegantly "since she has already come here, why don't we let her see the old Mr. Bennett? If anything goes wrong, Jonathan and I can take full responsibility since we are from a different branch anyway."

Sylvia was stunned, then pulled Tiana, "Mrs. Bennett ..."

Tiana remained calm as she continued speaking softly, "I feel like I've seen your eyes somewhere before; there seems to be something familiar about them..." So she had a great impression of Sylvia, and she looked at her for a long time... Finally, she let out a heavy sigh and said, "You really remind me of an old friend."

"So Tiana, just because she looks like your old friend you unconditionally believe her? Are you going to act as recklessly as Jonathan? You guys... you're driving me crazy!"

Raiden was so angry that he couldn't contain his rage.

Jonathan did not expect his own mother to be so fond of Sylvia and so supportive of Sylvia. He was all a bit shocked and wide-eyed.

Then he heard Sylvia's voice, "Although doctors cure diseases, they are not omnipotent, and If it really comes down to the end of life, I cannot pull someone back from the brink of death. So everything depends on the old Mr. Bennett before I can make any decisions."

As soon as she finished speaking, Jonathan followed up with trust in his face saying, "Boss, if you can't, then no one in our entire country can make it."

"I don't care, boss, my mom and I are putting all our faith in you. You have to try your best to save him! Do you understand?" Jonathan deliberately said so half-jokingly.

He trusted only Sylvia.

"Let's go, let's not waste any more time." Sylvia yawned. She was very tired and exhausted all over by being surrounded by this group of people chattering away like garbage made her extremely unhappy.

Right now all she wanted was to quickly see the old Mr. Bennett then go back to the hotel for rest. Franklin watched her looking so tired, and felt sorry for her.

For the Bennett family, he was really impressed by them.

This time Raiden did not stop Sylvia again, but simply let her step inside.

The room was very quiet inside; several doctors were busy around the old Mr. Bennett trying their best at resuscitation efforts. Hearing footsteps behind them, they turned around and saw Sylvia.

A strange woman, beautiful and solid-looking, but ... who was she?

An older doctor pushed his glasses on the bridge of his nose with an unhappy look on his face, "What's going on? Who are you? Why are you here?"

"This is not a place for young people like you to hang out, so please come back in later if you're visiting the sick." Another doctor said, "Yeah, where's Ms. Wolfe? Why isn't she in to operate on the old Mr. Bennett?"

"The old Mr. Bennett's condition can't be delayed any longer."

Sylvia didn't seem to hear them as she walked over to the bed and looked at the old Mr. Bennett, who was lying there quietly. He was very old, thin and his cheeks were sunken up because he suffered from a long illness.

His eyes were tightly closed, his lips pale without a trace of color. His whole body exuded an aura of being at death's door.

Jonathan followed and asked Sylvia in a whisper, "Boss, how is it? Is there any help?"

His eyes were full of expectation.

Sylvia looked down at the old Mr. Bennett, her pretty face looked serious. "Your grandfather is seriously ill; I need to do a detailed examination."

Jonathan felt very uneasy inside himself.

He lowered his gaze heavily and said, "Excuse me doctors; could you please step aside?" "Master Jonathan, what are you saying? Step aside? What does she want to do?"

It was still that slightly older doctor from earlier who looked displeasedly at Jonathan; he knew what kind of person this young master from the Bennett family was like - too unreliable! It's too unreliable.

Why was he still fooling around at such a critical moment? What was the point of getting such a young girl in?

They were very famous surgical experts in the country, and they only believed in Alondra.

"She's my boss, she's pretty famous in Larro, and I asked her to come and help my grandfather." "What did you say?"

Several doctors were shocked, "Just her? How is that possible?"

One doctor tried to convince Jonathan, "Master Jonathan, will you stop joking? You can't mess with an elderly person's life like this. You two go out first, okay? Don't bother us."

Sylvia listened to the same questioning voices of these people as those outside.

She languidly raised her eyes to look over, these people were really some quite famous experts in the country, just ...

She curled her lips in a smile, "Samuel Spears, Zackery Lindsey, Alijah Hartman, you think you can just stand there? Get out of the way, OK?"

Chapter 588

"You... you're so rude! We're older than you, at least show some respect and don't call us by our names!" One doctor was so angry his beard was about to blow up.

"Oh, I can't call you that? Then what should I call you? DOGGO, Moon over the Sea? Or... Cat on the Road?"

Sylvia walked casually to Mr. Bennett's bedside, her long eyelashes slightly lowered as she reached out to press on his chest. She spoke very casually, but after hearing her words, those doctors were thunderstruck!

They stared at Sylvia in disbelief.

There was only one person who knew those nicknames and called them so casually... there could be no second person in this world.

So... Jonathan and two other younger doctors saw these three doctors exclaim in shock at the same time. "Boss! What are you doing here!"

Boss... what did they call Sylvia? Boss? Jonathan had a sense of crisis. Were they trying to compete for their boss with him? This scene was not only strange but also funny.

These three doctors were not young anymore; some were in their forties or almost fifty years old. They could all be Sylvia's uncles... and now they all called her boss together!!

Was there any mistake?

Jonathan felt a strong sense of crisis rising within him as he stared wide-eyed; if it weren't for his good looks, others wouldn't be able to hold back from laughing at his expression.

"What did you just say? Boss?! How did my boss become your boss?"

Samuel was the oldest among them. He changed from being disdainful towards Sylvia earlier into smiling towards her now. His gaze seemed like he was looking at a rare giant panda while nodding and bowing respectfully, "Boss, how come you're so young? Are you twenty years old?"

Alijah also snapped out of his shock, "Boss, how come you're a girl? We always thought you were an old man!"

"Yeah," Zackery added respectfully as he approached them too: "Boss, why did you suddenly come here without calling us first when coming to Urgford?! At least give us a heads-up on the forum! None of us had any preparation for welcoming or entertaining our esteemed guest...

Forum?

Dare they be internet friends?

The kind that Sylvia had never met in person?

His gaze was fixed on Sylvia, who sat calmly in contrast to the three excited male doctors. She sat down by the patient's bed and pressed her fair fingers gently on the old man's chest. Her movements were graceful as she then placed her fingers on his neck.

Samuel asked cautiously, "Boss, how do you feel? Is there any hope for the old Mr. Bennett?"

Sylvia glanced at him lightly before lowering her head to read the old Mr. Bennett's medical records. After a while, she took the fresh examination report from Samuel and began examining it intently.

Samuel froze for a moment, but didn't dare to say anything.

The Bennetts, who had been watching at the door, were all shocked! Alondra's face was also extremely terrible.

She had always known about a very powerful medical forum back home with an eccentric moderator but many fans. Her heart sank slowly - could Sylvia be that forum boss? No way! She was so young... how could she be it?!

Those doctors did not introduce why they called Sylvia their boss so... Alondra still held onto some hope that maybe Sylvia was just was a piece of crap.

After reading for a while longer, Sylvia's long and thick eyelashes trembled slightly as she lifted her head to look at Samuel and his team pointing at the report saying, "There is bleeding in Mr. Bennett's brain which is compressing his nerves, causing poor blood circulation and leading to unconsciousness."

"What do I usually teach you guys? You have to be serious and careful in diagnosis and treatment. Misdiagnosis can harm people's lives!" Sylvia's voice was clear and cold, but it was enough for everyone present to hear it clearly.

Hearing this made everyone present feel embarrassed and guilty.

"Usually, this happens when the patient has been severely stimulated to cause a sudden rise in blood pressure, which stimulates the brain nerves and leads to a bad outcome. So ..." Sylvia's gaze swept to the large pile of the Bennetts at the door, "Did any of you stimulate the old Mr. Bennett?"

The entire Bennett family froze.

At this point no one noticed the flicker of anxiety and weakness on Jazlynn's face. Alondra and Sabrina stared at Sylvia in shock at the same time.

What did this woman just say?

Not a stroke?

Was there bleeding in the brain causing the coma? How was it possible?

Sabrina fully believed in her mentor's diagnosis results. She glared with her carefully drawn eyes, and her tone was clearly sarcastic..

"What are you talking about? It's obvious that you misdiagnosed it! The old Mr. Bennett had a stroke! You don't even know what a stroke is, how dare you come here to save people?"

Sylvia didn't even look at Sabrina and arguing with her would be pointless.

She said directly to Samuel, "Go find a more careful doctor to come over here and perform bloodletting treatment on the old Mr. Bennett to drain the blood clots from his brain so he can regain consciousness naturally without any need for advanced surgery."

Samuel discreetly glanced at Alondra who had an extremely unpleasant expression before turning back to Sylvia respectfully, "Okay okay, I'll immediately have Dr. Mitchell from the surgical department come over here... you don't know how to do it too?"

"I don't have a needle." Sylvia said, faintly.

Bloodletting treatment is complicated; she doesn't like carrying it around wherever she goes unless necessary or if there's no other option available.

What's more, the coma of the old Mr. Bennett only needs a good and experienced doctor, not her at all. Sylvia already has a general understanding of his overall health condition.

People get various problems as they age just like machines that wear out after prolonged use due aging issues appearing eventually.

She isn't God; she's just a doctor who can save lives but natural laws such as aging cannot be controlled by anyone including herself...

So... her eyes flickered slightly - what exactly is Alondra doing in that research lab where they're studying biological research? Is their claim true about delaying aging so much younger years can be added onto someone's life span?

Dr. Mitchell, who received the notice, soon came in with a medicine box.

Sylvia whispered a few acupuncture points, "Apply needles in these areas, as well as on the legs, and on the waist and abdomen."

Samuel and the others watched with envy as Sylvia instructed Dr. Mitchell to apply needles on the spot, each wishing they were learning this kind of medical skill.

Dr. Mitchell frowned and looked displeased when Samuel asked him to listen to Sylvia's instructions. "What do you mean? You called me over here just to take orders from an amateur? Can those acupoints she mentioned really be used for injections? That would be fatal!"

Originally those shocked onlookers the Bennetts, and Alondra and Sabrina master and apprentice, in hearing Sylvia said that a doctor needs to come over to carry out the removal of bruises, but also are shocked, think maybe Sylvia really have a few skills.

But now, after hearing Dr. Mitchell's doubts and objections...

Sabrina suddenly came back to life, as if she had heard something remarkable.

She sneered, holding her noble celebrity demeanor, and opened her mouth in dissatisfaction and mockery, "ouch ... we thought it was really a master! It turns out to be an amateur."

Sylvia didn't even look at her, but said coldly to Dr. Mitchell, "So you won't administer the injection?"

Dr. Mitchell, a chubby middle-aged man, glared at Sylvia, "No, I won't! Those acupoints you mentioned can't be used for injections; if we use them on Mr. Bennett, he'll die."

Jonathan looked at the quiet old man lying on the bed then back at Sylvia who remained expressionless despite their questioning insults towards her.

It seemed like what they said wasn't affecting her in any way.

Her demeanor was icy-cold; it gave off an aura that made people want to look at her even more - like a plum blossom swaying in the wind - emitting its own unique fragrance while easily attracting attention.

She seemed naturally endowed with this ability that drew people's eyes towards her.

"Raiden, I think it's better to get her out of here, don't let her stay here and waste time." Jazlynn gently prodded Raiden, "I think this woman is a liar."

"But ... those doctors called her 'boss', but I heard them right?" Raiden was a little hesitant.

Just then, Samuel angrily pulled Dr. Mitchell and pushed him aside, "If you want to give him an injection, just go ahead, but forget it if you don't. Do you know who my boss is?"

"Who is it?" Dr. Mitchell looked disdainful, "An outsider, I don't care who she is!"

"The Wynter on forum on medicine, do you know, Wynter!" Samuel released him with a proud look on his face, "Who doesn't know how popular the Forum on Medicine is? How many doctors and nurses in China like to search for information there and learn new things? The forum was created by our leader Wynter, who shares all her knowledge and resources for free. She's so great, and her skills are amazing! I believe that every doctor and nurse knows about her."

Dr. Mitchell's face turned red as he stuttered while pointing at Sylvia. "How is that possible? She... she's so young, how could she be the founder of the Forum on Medicine named Wynter? Isn't Wynter a man?! How could she be here?"

Samuel's words shocked everyone present. All eyes were fixed on Sylvia.

Their shock was no less than Dr. Mitchell's.

After divorce, Ex-wife Revealed Identities

Chapter 590

"How can she be Wynter? Wynter... Wynter is the master of songwriting and composing who makes Eden popular, isn't he? How can Wynter found a forum on medicine? "

A member of the Bennett Family, who usually followed celebrity news closely, couldn't help but exclaim in surprise as she looked at Sylvia.

"Maybe it's just a coincidence with someone sharing the same name," another woman said.

No one had connected these two Winters together.

How was it impossible that a man was promising both in the entertainment industry and the medical world?

So ...

As the crowd was secretly speculating about Wynter, Alondra snorted.

Who says that creating a forum means you have to have medical skills too?"

She looked up and down at Sylvia, "If you really can't, please get out. We're going to prepare for surgery."

She had always held herself high as an expert professor in medicine; therefore she didn't bother with people like Sylvia whom she considered fraudulent.

However, Alondra never expected that Sylvia would turn out to be none other than the founder of Forum on Medicine -Wynter herself!

So what if it was really Wynter?

It was just someone running an online forum after all; even though Forum On Medicine had won several awards in medical circles but those were awarded to forums, not individuals or their achievements within medicine.

So... Alondra couldn't stand it anymore and didn't want Sylvia to mess around here anymore.

As soon as she spoke, almost everyone in the room stared at her.

She ... was an expert!

Sylvia lifted her eyelids and replied expressionlessly, "Surgery? In the case of old Mr. Bennett, doing a craniotomy would definitely cause the compressed blood vessels to easily form clots... Ms. Wolfe doesn't know this?"

As soon as she finished speaking, Alondra's face turned pale. "Any surgery has risks."

Sabrina heard that Sylvia dared to insult her mentor and immediately became angry, wishing she could show Sylvia what she was capable of.

After all, she was Aettosa's number one socialite.

It was Sylvia's honor to be able to share a room with her!

Who does she think she is? How dare she humiliate Ms. Wolfe like this?

Annoyed, she said to Sylvia, "Miss Andrews, right? How can you talk like that when my mentor is kind enough to remind you? You're ... too rude, aren't you?"

"Yes indeed," Jazlynn chimed in from the side. "Not only rude but also uncultured."

Sylvia glanced at these two women who were making a fuss over nothing and spoke calmly, "Do Urgford's socialites always love making such noise? Your manners really amaze me."

Everyone: "..."

Wherever Sabrina goes, people will flatter her because of her status; they will give her some respect on account of who she is.

This was the first time someone had pointed their finger at Sabrina and scolded her directly.

She felt dizzy with anger; especially since Jonathan was there too.

Her eyes turned red as if seeking help from Jonathan, "Jonathan, this is the famous doctor you brought? Can't you see how rude she is!"

Jonathan, however, gave her a smiling look and looked in a very good mood. "She' much better than a lot of people."

The boss is so bullish, dislike people dislike also very cool.

After all, his grandfather had been one of the founding fathers; if Sylvia could cure his grandfather, she would make a big fame.

If not, the consequences were unimaginable.

Even Alondra took up this job because of Paula was her sister.

It was impossible to watch Raiden's father go to hell.

That was why Alondra took the job.

It was just that Jonathan couldn't trust Alondra; his grandfather had loved him since he was a child and was the first in the Bennett family to his esports dream.

The more Tiana looked at Sylvia, the more she liked her.

She thought this girl was really something else.

She surveyed her usually unruly son nodding and obeying the girl.

She couldn't help but smile as she realized they were a perfect match.

To be able to control Jonathan, this girl was really powerful.

Franklin had no idea that Mrs. Bennett of the Bennett family had had the idea of setting up her son with Sylvia.

He stared intently at Sylvia in the hospital room without blinking an eye. She shone like a sun in the sky, making it almost impossible for him to look away from her confident demeanor which fascinated him even more.

Tammy and Skyla were standing on the edge, trying to push through to see the old Mr. Bennett, but there were too many people gathered in front of them.

They only heard talk about some amazing medical forum and someone named Wynter who seemed incredible

The mother and daughter exchanged a glance with each other as they both simultaneously entertained a terrible thought - Could it be that Wynter was actually Sylvia?

In their eyes, Sylvia was really a bitch!

Tammy took a deep breath and walked over towards Franklin, "Master Franklin... you should not always listen to Sylvia bragging, she just loves to show off and brag, in fact, she is not that great at all. "
