

My Accidental Husband Is My Revenge Partner -

Chapter 61 - Where Is She?

Where Is She?

Edna and Miranda exchanged bewildered glances before their eyes settled on Michelle.

Edna and Miranda had only seen Michelle in passing, usually hanging out with Selene. They never paid much attention to her before and certainly didn't know the extent of her relationship with Selene.

But now, with Michelle standing before them, her eagerness to be part of a plan to ruin Selene's image was unsettling. They couldn't help but exchange wary glances, their confusion turning into suspicion.

"Aren't you Selene's friend?" Edna asked Michelle.

"If I was Selene's friend, would I be here wanting to be a part of your plans to ruin her?" Michelle questioned her back, a smirk on her lips.

"But why would you want Selene to be raped and all that? Did she do something to you?" Miranda was the one to ask this time around.

"She did," Michelle replied.

Since Richard had failed in his task of doing what she had asked of him two days ago, she didn't mind at all if the two people before her would be of good help.

Michelle had never associated herself with both Edna and Miranda, so her feelings towards them were quite neutral as well.

Edna and Miranda shared another look for the nth time, wondering if they should involve Michelle in their plans.

If they didn't, she might go to the director and threaten to tell him everything she had heard from their room.

They gave it some thought.

"Alright, Michelle. It seems that Selene has angered you, which is why you are involving yourself in something like this," said Miranda, stretching out her hand to seal their partnership in their evil plan towards Selene.

Michelle shook her hands.

“Indeed she has,” Michelle replied. She also shook Edna’s hands before they settled on the couch to discuss more on the plan.

**

A few hours later, everyone was all dressed up for the party. Even when it wasn’t a huge party, everyone still dressed elegantly as if they were going to a gala.

Selene gazed at her reflection in the mirror, admiring the elegant white dress that graced her figure. It wasn’t too long or too short, ending just below her knees and perfectly highlighting her long legs.

She paired it with white heels that made her two inches taller.

Satisfied with how she looked in the mirror, Selene stepped out of her room and headed towards where the party was held.

When she reached, she found her colleagues already starting to have fun. But not everyone had arrived, the place wasn’t filled yet.

Selene went to where Kace and co were. She ordered some drinks and gulped everything down in one go.

“Maybe you should take it easy on the drink,” Liam commented when he saw how fast she was drinking.

“I’m on vacation okay, I’m supposed to have fun,” she replied, gulping down another drink.

Liam glanced at Kace and the latter could only sigh.

‘Your husband had better come here quickly and take care of you himself,’ Kace thought to himself before he snatched the third glass from Selene’s hand.

“You do know you are not supposed to be drinking that much, right?” He asked her, keeping the glass aside.

“Of course,” said Selene. Selene’s eyes scanned the room until they landed on Michelle, who stood beside Edna and Miranda. She instantly recognized the two girls as the ones she had overheard gossiping about her on set the other day.

‘What is she doing with them?’ She wondered, her brows furrowing.

Kace followed her gaze, and it also landed on Michelle with the two girls.

Selene had already informed him about the argument they had, so he recognized them immediately.

Both Kace and Selene shared a look but Selene shrugged her shoulders, as if ready for whatever they were planning against her.

Director Jeunes came and made another announcement regarding the party. Since it was a vacation party, they were allowed to drink as much as they wanted. They still had two more days to recover from the hangover, so he didn't bother to stop them from wasting their lives a little that evening.

Selene fetched her phone from her purse, anxiously checking for any messages from Xavier. There was still nothing. He hadn't contacted her since that morning, and now it was already evening.

Her shoulder dropped in disappointment.

'What was I thinking? He's not in love with me,' she thought to herself, putting the phone back into her pocket. She took the glass of drink Kace had snatched from her and gulped it down.

Selene searched for Martha, but didn't find her around.

"Where's Martha?" She asked Liam.

"She said she was sick so she couldn't attend the party," he replied while Selene nodded in understanding.

A man, more than six feet tall walked through the hallway, his elegance attracting so much attention towards him from the villa staff and other celebrities who were around. But he didn't pay any attention to them.

As soon as the staff recognized him to be their boss, they immediately looked away and focused more on their work.

Xavier continued to walk, then stopped when he got to a particular door.

He brought out a spare key he took from a staff member and opened the door. He stepped in, but was greeted with darkness and a familiar weird scent.

He inhaled it a few times, before he recognized the scent. It was an aphrodisiac scent. It is used to turn people on for intimacy.

He frowned deeply, covering his nose so that he wouldn't perceive any more of the sweet scent.

He searched for the light switch. He turned it on. He found the room empty with not a single soul inside. He searched the bathroom as well but couldn't find her either.

Xavier left the room to make a phone call and search for Selene at the same time.

Unfortunately, Selene didn't pick up his call. Xavier gritted his teeth. He tried her number a few more times but it resulted in the same thing.

"Where is she?" He growled.

My Accidental Husband Is My Revenge Partner - Chapter 62 - There's A Snake!

There's A Snake!

At the party, Selene found herself enjoying the evening despite not being particularly close with her colleagues. She stayed close to Kace and Liam, who kept her entertained. Liam shared a few of his life stories, including some embarrassingly funny ones that had them both laughing.

Liam offered to dance with Selene and she obliged.

Together, they went to the dance floor where everyone was jamming to the loud music, shaking their body however they wanted.

At first, Selene was too shy to dance with Liam, so she gulped down one last glass of alcohol.

Kace could only slap his forehead in frustration.

Liam watched Selene, captivated by the way she swayed to the blaring music. He couldn't help but admire how her white dress fit her body perfectly, accentuating every curve. But it was her long legs that truly held his attention, mesmerizing him with every step she took.

He found himself gulping so hard that he had to look away just to catch his breath.

On the other hand, Selene had no idea Liam was admiring her. She danced all her troubles away as if they weren't in the same room with her.

Suddenly, she bumped into someone and a glass of drink spilled on her white dress, staining it.

She gasped in shock, staring down at her red-stained dress. The accident caught the attention of some people before they went back to having fun.

“I’m so sorry, Selene. I didn’t mean it,” Michelle apologized, a sorry expression on her face as she tried to clean the dress with her bare hands, but it only made the stain spread even more. “I’m so sorry,” she repeated.

Selene stared at Michelle, placing her hand on her shoulder. “It’s okay, it was just an accident,” said Selene, already feeling a little dizzy due to how much she twirled while dancing. Plus, the alcohol was starting to kick in as well.

“I just ruined your dress. It’s not okay,” said Michelle.

Deep down, Michelle was jubilant. This was the first step in their plan to lure Selene back to her room, where they had spread an aphrodisiac scent. Edna had already informed her that the men were in Selene’s room, ready to carry out the deed.

Her heart tingled, anticipating the humiliation Selene was going to face in the next hour.

“You need to change,” Michelle added, intending to help Selene out of the room, but Selene objected immediately.

She might be drunk, but she still recognized Michelle as her enemy and she wasn’t going to accept any kind of help from her enemy.

She found Michelle’s action suspicious, because how blind was she not to see her and spill a drink on her?

“No, it’s okay. I can take care of it,” said Selene.

“Alright, take care. If you need help, just call me,” said Michelle without insisting any further. She walked back to the room and continued to party.

“Are you sure you don’t need any help?” Liam asked from behind her.

She shook her head. “It’s just a drink. I can’t clean it off so I will just wear another dress. I will be right back,” she replied to him, sharing a look with Kace before she left the party to go back to her room to change.

As soon as she left, Kace got a phone call.

He picked up the call. Before he could say a word, he heard the person from the other line question, “Where’s Selene?”

Kace was a little speechless at first. There was urgency in Xavier’s tone which confused him a little.

“She just left the party. She’s on her way to her room to change because for some reason—”

Kace didn't get the chance to complete his sentence when he heard the beeping sound of the call, indicating that Xavier had already hung up.

Kace placed the phone by his side, sighing, "Bastard," he cursed.

**

Selene glared at the red stain on her white dress. It was glaringly obvious, drawing the attention of everyone she passed. People couldn't help but give her curious or sympathetic glances as she walked by.

"It's just a red champagne stain, my gosh," she said under her breath.

Selene sighed when she sighted the door of her room. Before she could open it, she felt a large hand grab hers and pull her away from the door, making her gasp.

At the party,

Michelle raised her wristwatch to check the time so often that Edna had to tap her on the shoulder

"Girl, will you calm down? It's just been ten minutes since she left the party," said Edna.

Michelle sighed, dropping her hand.

"Are you sure the plan is going to work? Did you spray enough aphrodisiac scent all around the room? And what if the staff reports us since she was the one who gave us the spare key to Selene's room?" Michelle asked all at once, anxiety gripping her.

Richard had already failed her in the first mission. This was the second one with two actresses she didn't quite trust. The only reason she was talking to them was because they hated Selene, just the way she did. Plus, they wanted to harm her.

'If the plan fails, I'm going to lose it,' Michelle thought to herself, grabbing her drink before gulping it down, hoping it would reduce her anxiety.

Miranda spoke, "Girl, we hired three bodybuilder men. They are so strong that I bet she would be able to survive just one man's dick in her hole, talk more of three."

"That's right," Edna seconded.

A few minutes passed before Edna said, "It's time. Remember what we planned?" She asked Michelle and the latter nodded.

Both Edna and Miranda stood up, leaving the party. Unbeknownst to them, Kace had been keeping an eye on them since Michelle left. But they were so far away he couldn't hear what they were saying.

Michelle waited for a little while, waiting for the time to pass. Once it was fifteen minutes since both the besties left, she raised an alarm, "There's a snake in Selene's room!"

My Accidental Husband Is My Revenge Partner - Chapter 63 - Plan Failed

Plan Failed

Immediately, gasps filled the room, and shock was written all over their faces. The music stopped abruptly, plunging the room into an uneasy silence.

In his seat, Kace frowned. "What is she up to this time around?" He wondered.

"What did you say, Michelle?" Director Jeunes asked Michelle, confusion written all over his face as well.

"There's a snake in Selene's room, we have to go help her now," said Michelle.

Without waiting for them to think, she rushed out of the party.

Everyone stared at each other in confusion before they rushed after Michelle.

When Michelle saw that everyone was behind her, a smirk appeared on her lips.

"This is it, Selene. After today's incident, you wouldn't dare to show your face at the set or anywhere else again," she said to herself.

Reaching Selene's door, Michelle pretended to hesitate a little. But the truth was, she waited for everyone to catch up to her. She wanted them to see Selene getting shamelessly fucked by two bodybuilders.

When she heard the moans coming from inside, her heart danced in joy.

Michelle glanced around, but Edna and Miranda were nowhere to be seen. She shrugged, assuming they had gone to barf since the scene must have been revolting.

Once everyone had arrived in front of Selene's room, Michelle pulled open the door.

“Selene, calm down, we will get some—” Michelle halted when she saw the scene in front of her.

Everyone’s eyes widened in shock. They couldn’t help but gasp when they saw what was happening inside Selene’s room.

But no one was more shocked than Michelle who was already inside the room.

Edna and Miranda moaned loudly as they continued to get fucked by the three bodybuilder men. Their faces were filled with delight as they closed their eyes, enjoying the moment.

Even when they saw the people in front of them, they didn’t stop their moaning. Instead, they moaned even louder.

“What nonsense is this?” Director Jeunes questioned, disgust evident in his eyes as he glared at the scene.

A few of the cast and crew brought out their phones and took pictures secretly. If director Jeunes saw them, they would have to delete the pictures immediately.

“Where’s Selene?” Michelle questioned, shock still evident in her face as she stared at Edna and Miranda.

The plan was that Edna and Miranda were supposed to go check up on Selene and the men to see if the action had already started. Then, they would send Michelle a text, asking her to raise an alarm that would force everyone to come to Selene’s room and witness what was happening to her.

But they did mention while they were planning that they might get too engrossed and forget to text her. All Michelle needed to do at that moment was wait for fifteen minutes before she raised a fake alarm.

So, when Michelle didn’t receive a text from either Edna or Miranda after fifteen minutes had passed, she quickly raised a fake alarm and brought everyone to Selene’s room.

Unfortunately for her, the person she was hoping to be in the two bestie’s position was nowhere to be found.

“Michelle,” Edna moaned Michelle’s name. “Help me,” she added, still moaning.

Kace arrived at the scene, disbelief written all over his face.

He had to call Selene and when she picked up, he immediately questioned her about the snake situation Michelle had mentioned before zooming out of the party.

Turned out that Selene was with Xavier and she didn't get the chance to go into her room so she wasn't sure if there was a snake in her room.

Kace was curious to know what Michelle was planning. But the scene before him had turned him speechless.

"You need to stop tthis," said Director Jeunes.

Immediately, some of the men went to separate the mating humans; the females covered them with blankets, even though there was nothing more for them to hide anymore.

Everything was recorded on their phones.

Selene arrived at the scene also, and when she saw what was happening in her room, she gasped.

"What the hell?!"

**

Some time passed and the besties were back to their senses.

They gripped the blankets given to them to cover up their shame tightly, as tears streamed down from their eyes.

"Do you two care to explain what happened there?" Director Jeunes questioned.

He didn't mind if they wanted to fuck during their vacation, but the fact that they had to do it in someone else's room, was simply disgusting. Not only did they embarrass themselves, but they also drew unwanted attention towards them, or so he thought.

They wanted the attention. Just that they weren't meant to be the people being watched and judged by them.

"We are sorry," said Miranda, tears streaming down her face. She already knew she was fired from the movie since the shame would be too much for director Jeunes to bear if he starred her in the movie any longer, especially after what happened.

"We are not asking for apologies, you two. We want to know, why were both of you having sex in my room?" Selene questioned, eyes narrowing at them.

Edna gritted her teeth in frustration. She had no idea how Selene managed to evade the elaborate trap they had set for her. Seeing Selene unscathed made her blood boil.

“You are the one who was supposed to be in that room getting raped by those three men. It was a trap we set for you and you were saved!” Edna revealed and everyone gasped in shock.

Miranda immediately became alert. She stared at her friend in shock, not expecting her to lose her temper and reveal their plans to everyone who was watching them.

“Edna, what are you talking about?” She asked, hoping that Edna wouldn’t spill anything anymore.

“You know very much what I’m talking about. You had a hand in this, remember? But somehow, this bitch here managed to escape and we fell into our own traps,” Edna barked.

My Accidental Husband Is My Revenge Partner - Chapter 64 - Too Late To Repent

Too Late To Repent

Everyone’s eyes widened in shock; they couldn’t believe what Edna was spouting. The fact that she didn’t bother to hold her tongue showed she didn’t care about what anyone thought.

“How dare you evade our trap?” Edna questioned, expecting an answer from Selene but the latter only stared at her, not out of shock, but out of amusement at how Edna had used her hands to dig her own grave.

Miranda tried to restrain Edna from saying anything more, but it was too late. Everyone had already heard Edna’s words, and the truth of what she revealed hung heavily in the air.

“So you wanted to have me raped by those men?” Selene questioned, her eyes darkened at the two besties. “How shameless can you be?”

“After the insult you threw at us, did you think we would let you be? I promised you that you should be prepared for what we would do to you,” Edna barked. She spoke as if she had lost her mind, and everyone present couldn’t help but whisper amongst themselves how shameless she was, while they recorded her confession secretly.

Michelle backed away, a surge of panic gripping her. Hearing Edna speak uncontrollably, she feared her own name might slip out next. The thought of everyone turning their judgmental eyes on her made her heart race, and she desperately wanted to distance herself from the unfolding chaos.

Director Jeunes was speechless, he didn’t know how to handle the matter at hand. But he was sure of one thing, the two besties were getting fired. He wouldn’t dare have them play a role in the movie else, he wanted to plan his doom.

“That’s enough,” he said, his voice attracting everyone’s attention towards him. “You two owe Selene an apology for what you planned to do to her. Even if you two argued, that shouldn’t result in wanting to have your colleague raped,” he added.

Edna scoffed. “I would rather eat dirt than apologize to her,” she said.

“Is that so?”

Suddenly, they heard a deep voice in the room. Immediately, their attention went to that person. Their eyes widened in shock when they saw Xavier walk into the room, hands in pockets, his hair combed back, leaving a few strands to settle on his forehead.

As always, everyone was amazed when they saw it. Everything about him drew attention to him and they did their job well by admiring him. Even though they found him so handsome, they wouldn’t dare to go close to him, that was how strong his aura was.

When he walked inside the room they were having a conversation, everyone held their breath, as if they were being suffocated.

Everyone at the set didn’t know how much Xavier cared for Selene, but the way he always brought food and flowers for her showed enough.

Edna felt as if water was splashed on her as she broke out in cold sweat, and so did her friend, Miranda, and Michelle who tried to make herself as invisible as possible.

If Xavier got involved in what had happened, they knew for sure things weren’t going to work out well for them.

“X-Xavier,” director Jeunes called. He went to Xavier, hoping the matter wouldn’t escalate more than it already did. Xavier was a huge sponsor to the movie and he couldn’t afford to lose him when two of his cast tried to frame his girlfriend.

“Repeat what you said earlier,” Xavier ordered, his downturned eyes on Edna, and the latter didn’t know if she should breathe through her nose or mouth. His aura was too suffocating, she felt cold under the blanket so she pulled it towards her even more.

Edna didn’t dare to repeat what she said. Instead, she gritted her teeth.

“Your girlfriend is a slut!” She yelled out.

Now, everyone feared for Edna. She did come from a rich family, but there was no way her family’s power would be able to save her from Xavier.

Michelle cursed under her breath, silently hoping that Edna would just shut up her mouth and stop making the matter worse.

“She slept with director Jeunes just so that she could get the lead role in the movie!” Edna added.

Now, Miranda scooted away from Edna, no longer wanting to be associated with her. Edna had let her temper get the better of her, and Miranda could see that she was on the path to dragging both of them down into ruin.

Director Jeunes glared at Edna, shocked by what she dared to say.

He had cleared up the rumor, making sure that no one would release such fake news anymore. He couldn’t help but suspect Edna to be the one who released the fake rumor that circulated the internet a few weeks ago.

“How dare you say such things about Selene?” Xavier questioned, anger evident in his tone.

Earlier, he had been worried that something bad had already happened to Selene when he went to her room. But was glad when he saw her unscathed.

Xavier walked closer to Edna, a fierce glare in his eyes directed at Edna.

It was at that moment that Edna seemed to have come back to her senses.

Xavier’s imposing aura was too much for her to handle. Tears streamed down her eyes as she pleaded, “I’m sorry for what I said, Xavier. This is a mistake and I promise I won’t do it again.”

She had thought that saying disgusting things about Selene in front of her boyfriend would make him despise her at that moment. Unfortunately for her, her plan had failed. But she had spoken too much for her to be forgiven.

Selene couldn’t help but scoff at how Edna had just dug her own grave. But she was overjoyed seeing that their plans had failed and she only had one person to thank for that, Xavier.

“You won’t get the chance to make such a mistake ever again,” said Xavier. “Because from now on, I’m blacklisting the both of you from the entertainment industries. And you can say goodbye to your father’s company because I’m making it go bankrupt in the next hour.”

My Accidental Husband Is My Revenge Partner - Chapter 65 - Lost Her Cool

Lost Her Cool

More tears poured from Edna’s eyes, staining the blanket.

She didn't dare plead, knowing it would be futile to change Xavier's decision. Her family was powerful, indeed, but compared to the Wallaces, they were insignificant.

Miranda seemed to have predicted everything, so she didn't cry much. However, the hurt was still there. Her family was not thriving like Edna's, which was why she stuck with her. Having a rich best friend by her side gave her a sense of security, and despite their differences, they surprisingly got along well.

In just one night, they had lost their career and everyone was going to use them as a laughing stock whenever they got bored.

All of a sudden, Edna caught Michelle from the corners of her eyes, hiding behind one of their colleagues.

Michelle's eyes widened in panic, her heart pounding as she silently begged Edna not to mention her name.

Edna glared at Michelle, "What the hell are you hiding behind that man, Michelle?" She questioned.

Instantly, everyone's gazes landed on Michelle and found her hiding behind someone.

"Why are you trying to hide yourself, Michelle? You were in this just as much as we are," she said. If Edna was going to go down, she wouldn't bat an eyelash before pulling Michelle along with her. Besides, she wanted to partake in their plans.

"Michelle?" Selene called, her voice sounding like a heartbroken person. Everyone saw the both of them as besties so she needed to play that part well.

Selene wasn't the least bit surprised that Michelle was part of the scheme. After seeing her hanging out with Edna and Miranda a few times, Selene had already predicted that they were plotting something.

"Were you part of their plan?" Selene asked, tears pooling in her eyes.

Kace saw Selene, and he couldn't help but chuckle lightly so that no one would hear him.

'She's such a good actress,' he thought to himself.

Michelle immediately shook her head as she looked at everyone one at a time, but they were already giving her the judging look she wanted to avoid, which was why she hid. She still wanted to maintain her image of an innocent person.

"I didn't do anything, she's lying against me. I wouldn't do that to Selene, she's my friend," she lied, trying to defend herself.

Michelle had always portrayed herself as a pure angel who wouldn't hurt a fly. She had a clean reputation with no scandal all the years of her career, which led a few people to find it impossible to believe that she was part of the plan.

"I didn't do it. That's such a disgusting thing they had planned against Selene, and I wouldn't dare be a part of it, I swear," she continued to defend herself, tears already dropping from her eyes to make herself look pitiful.

Edna gritted her teeth, her anger surging through her body. She immediately regretted not recording their conversation with Michelle when she was spilling out the things Selene had done to her, and the reason she wanted to take her revenge. Now that Michelle was denying the accusation, she didn't know what to do to bring her down along with her.

"Then what about the snake you were talking about earlier?" Liam asked her.

He had been quietly watching the show and hadn't said a word.

"You screamed out earlier at the party that Selene sent you a text about a snake being in her room, so we all rushed there," he added.

"What?" Those were the only things Michelle could say, feeling the hair at her back stand on their ends while a dark storm hovered above her head.

"If you are not part of them, show us the text Selene sent you saying there was a snake in her room?" Liam requested, his expression calm.

Her heart skipped a beat at the realization that there was no way she was going to be able to defend herself anymore.

She had faked everything. There was no text and there was no snake.

She heard murmurs around her and she couldn't help but grit her teeth in anger.

Not only was Selene able to evade their traps, but she wouldn't be able to defend herself from the accusation Edna was pinning on her.

She glanced at Edna, noticing the smirk that had pulled up on the latter's lips.

"Michelle, I thought we were friends. How could you do such a thing to me?" Selene asked, an unbelievable look on her face.

Everyone started feeling pity for Selene. She thought that Michelle was her friend but was betrayed.

The ones who also thought that Michelle didn't have a hand in what happened glared at her.

"And so what? Did you think that I was your friend? You disgust me, Selene! You are a thief! You stole my role and stole Xavier from me, that's why I hate you so much. You were supposed to have been raped by those men, but somehow, you managed to escape it," Michelle spouted uncontrollably, the same thing that Edna was regretting at the moment.

"Michelle!!" Xavier yelled. For the first time in his life, he had the sudden urge to hit a woman, but he restrained himself.

Michelle felt her heart skip a beat in fear but she didn't think that Xavier would blacklist her like he did with Edna and Miranda. She believed she was safe.

"Watch your tongue," Xavier warned.

Everyone has been surprised by Michelle's outburst. She didn't expect her to lash out like that, revealing her inner hatred towards Selene. They had always thought Michelle was a humble woman, but after her attitude, they didn't know what to think of her anymore.

"Michelle, how could you?" Selene asked, her eyes red from crying too much.

Even Xavier was amazed at how much Selene was tearing up effortlessly.

"We were never friends! And do you know who revealed those rumors about you? I was," Michelle revealed without batting an eyelash.

My Accidental Husband Is My Revenge Partner - Chapter 66 - This Isn't Over

This Isn't Over

"We were never friends! And do you know who revealed those rumors about you? I was," Michelle revealed without batting an eyelash.

Everyone gasped again, unable to contain their shock at the constant stream of revelations that day. The most surprising of all was Michelle's involvement. No one had expected her to be the one to spread such a damaging rumor about Selene and Director Jeunes.

Whispers of disbelief filled the room as people struggled to differentiate the seemingly innocent Michelle with the malicious act.

“You just came out of nowhere and stole everything from me. Who do you think you are—” Michelle didn’t get the chance to complete her barking when she suddenly felt her cheeks go numb.

Selene had just struck her across the face.

She held her cheeks, before turning to glare at Selene whose tears had stopped flowing.

“I treated you as a friend, and this is how you repay me? By betraying me?” Selene demanded, her eyes bloodshot as she glared down at Michelle. Michelle’s hands were still on her cheek, trying to soothe the pain from the unexpected slap. Her eyes were wide with surprise, never having anticipated such a reaction from Selene.

“I should have known. I should have known that a goody-two-shoes actress like you was just a fake. On the outside, you act like you are the purest angel. But on the inside, you are a snake. A green snake under the grass,” Selene mocked, her eyes flaring in anger.

Michelle was caught off guard again.

She had expected Selene to fall to her knees, begging and tearing up, demanding to know why Michelle would do such a thing. But instead, she was met with a hard slap on the cheek, and Selene’s stinging words only added salt to the wound.

Michelle was pissed off.

Michelle was about to speak but Xavier interrupted her. “That’s enough!”

Her eyes landed on Xavier. Despite knowing there was little to no chance of it happening, she still clung to a glimmer of hope that he might defend her, even just a little. After all, she was his sister-in-law. Tears brimmed in her eyes as she anxiously waited for what Xavier would say next.

“What you have done today is disgusting. But I’m not a bit surprised that you are the one who started the rumor. Don’t think just because you are married into my family, I won’t punish you for what you did to Selene today,” he added.

“Xavier,” Selene called, walking towards him. She linked her arm with his which shocked the latter a little. Selene was also surprised by her actions. But since everyone thought they were dating, she might as well make it look real. “I don’t want you to blacklist Michelle,” she said which got not only Xavier, but everyone else around confused.

“I understand that what she did was out of pure jealousy, but please don’t blacklist her. I want her to continue playing a role in The Sinner and carry on with her career. This may sound stupid, but I forgive her.”

“Selene, are you sure about that? Michelle might try to do something to you since it seems she doesn’t regret what she’d done,” said director Jeunes. He wasn’t surprised about Michelle’s outburst earlier. He was an experienced middle-aged man who had witnessed things in his life. And he knew that Michelle’s character was just a fake.

Selene looked at Michelle who was glaring at her, a smile on her lips before she replied, “She wouldn’t do anything to me, I’m sure of it. When she cools off, I’m sure she will be back to her senses and apologize to me.” Turning to Xavier, she added, “So please Xavier, don’t blacklist her.”

Everyone admired Selene’s kindness. She had just been betrayed in one of the worst ways by her so-called friend, yet she immediately forgave her. She even went as far as to beg her boyfriend, who had the power to blacklist Michelle from the entertainment industry for life, to let her go.

Witnessing Selene’s mature and compassionate handling of the situation, they couldn’t help but develop a soft spot for her.

If only they knew Selene was simply giving Michelle a taste of her own medicine.

Xavier stared at Selene, sensing that she had something planned. This moment was perfect for her to exact revenge on Michelle, but she chose to delay it. He concluded there was only one explanation for her actions—she wanted to toy with Michelle a little while longer, savoring the anticipation of her eventual retribution.

“If you say so, baby. I won’t blacklist her,” Xavier replied.

Shock was written on everyone’s faces when they heard Xavier comply with Selene’s requests. While Selene was caught off guard when Xavier called her baby.

She tried to keep her demeanor together and not break character. She acknowledged his response by smiling at him, while she tried to stop the blush that wanted to appear on her cheeks.

‘Just look at those two,’ Kace thought to himself with a smile on his lips.

“Alright everyone, the party is over. Go back to your rooms and rest,” said director Jeunes, dispersing everyone. It was already nighttime so director Jeunes couldn’t send both Edna and Miranda back home. But he made a mental note to send them back home as soon as the sun rose in the morning, so that they wouldn’t cause any more trouble.

As for Michelle, he could only hope that she behaves herself. If it was up to him, he wouldn’t have agreed to have Michelle continue to play a role in the movie.

Michelle stormed out of the room, and headed towards hers while she glared at Selene all the way. She didn’t appreciate the fact that Selene had just saved her from Xavier’s wrath.

No matter how she saw it, Selene was a bad person and she needed to get rid of her. Her plans have failed, but she didn't want to give up just yet.

"This isn't over, Selene," she mumbled under her breath.

My Accidental Husband Is My Revenge Partner - Chapter 67 - Very Grateful

Very Grateful

Selene was seated on the bed, the pillow on her lay as she waited for Xavier to finish washing up. There was no way she was going back to sleep in her room where Edna and Miranda had just been violated by those men they had sent for her.

Xavier didn't let her either, so he arranged for another room where they would sleep together.

Selene had been surprised when she saw Xavier at the villa. She had been a little mad at him earlier for neither texting nor even calling her. He apologized, saying he was planning on surprising her instead. And she was indeed surprised by his presence.

She could hear the shower rushing from the bathroom. Xavier was taking a long time in the bathroom, and she couldn't help but wonder if he took that much time every day just by taking a shower.

She sighed, searched for the remote, and turned on the TV. The room the staff had arranged for them was much larger than the one she was sleeping in earlier, and she couldn't help but get comfy and enjoy what was displayed on the TV.

Meanwhile,

In the bathroom, Xavier was trying to calm his member down. He had only inhaled a little of the aphrodisiac scent and he had been trying not to get hard. Each time he stroked his hard meat, he would release immediately, but it would continue to get hard again.

"Fuck!!" He cursed under his breath.

He was well aware that he had used so much time in the shower and Selene wanted to use it too, but he couldn't go out with a hard-on. It will freak Selene out and she might decide to go back to sleep in her room. That wasn't what he wanted—he wanted to cuddle her to sleep like he did two days ago.

“Just sleep already!” He muttered under his breath as he glared at his member, while stroking it without stopping. He released another load of cum. When he noticed his member going limp, he sighed in relief.

He quickly cleaned up before he left the bathroom.

He had a towel wrapped around his waist with another for wiping his wet hair.

He sighted Selene already asleep while the TV displayed some things he didn’t pay attention to. He stared at her, a smile on his lips.

“So cute,” he mumbled to himself. He leaned towards her, not sure of what he was about to do. A few drops of water from his wet hair landed on Selene’s face, waking her up.

She opened her eyes and found Xavier so close to her face. Her eyes widened but her body remained stiff. Her heart jumped because the only time his face was so close to her, he had kissed her.

They continued to stare at each other, their heart beating in sync without anyone saying a word to break the silence.

Selene couldn’t help but admire his long lashes.

‘He’s a man, what does he need long lashes for?’ She couldn’t help but wonder.

“How are you doing?” She heard him ask her.

She felt her heart skip a beat when she heard his voice. No matter how many times she had heard him speak, she still couldn’t get used to how deep and commanding it was. It was as if she had no choice but to respond to him.

“I’m doing good,” she managed to respond.

Everything that had happened that day was unexpected. Even though she had anticipated an evil trap by the trio, she didn’t expect them to go that far.

She stared at Xavier in the eyes, the same way he was staring at her. His black eyes looked like a black hole and she couldn’t help but feel herself being pulled into it.

Meanwhile, Xavier felt himself getting drowned in her ocean-blue eyes.

“Thank you,” she suddenly said.

“What have I said about you thanking me?” He questioned her.

Selene sighed. “I still need to thank you. You have saved me so many times and I don’t know how to repay you,” she said.

Each time she remembered how many times she could have died or been raped by her enemies, she would always remember Xavier, her savior and protector. She suddenly felt warmth spread across her heart.

When she noticed a smile pull on his lips, her breath hitched.

Xavier leaned closer to her face and Selene’s heart skipped a beat. When Xavier was about to capture her lips, he suddenly felt himself being pushed away. Before he could register what had just happened, Selene had already slipped from under him and rushed towards the bathroom.

He stared at the bathroom, stunned by what had just happened. He smiled before he went to look for his clothes.

When Selene finished showering, she peeked out of the bathroom, silently hoping that Xavier had already gone to bed. Unfortunately for her, Xavier was still wide awake. He had already switched the channel to a football channel.

Her lips pulled up in amusement.

‘I thought all CEOs watched the business news, but I guess my husband is different,’ she thought to herself. When she realized the term she had used to address Xavier, a rosy hue spread on her cheeks.

Sighing, she stepped out of the bathroom, took her clothes, and rushed back inside to wear them.

When she was done, she walked towards the bed, got under the covers, and hoped that Xavier wasn’t going to continue what he wanted to do earlier.

Xavier turned off the TV and followed suit by getting under the covers as well.

He wrapped his hands around her waist and pulled her towards him. At first, Selene was shocked, but she didn’t complain.

“Goodnight,” he wished her, pecking her forehead which only spread more warmth to her heart.

“Goodnight,” he wished back. They closed their eyes to sleep.

When Xavier was sure that Selene was deep in slumber, he opened his eyes, sneaked towards the bathroom, and mumbled some words in dissatisfaction.

“Just go to sleep, fuck!” He cursed at his hardening member.

My Accidental Husband Is My Revenge Partner -

Chapter 68 - We Need To Talk

We Need To Talk

The next morning, everyone continued with their daily lives. Director Jeunes didn't cut the vacation short so everyone still enjoyed themselves while they tried to avoid Michelle as much as possible.

Even after she seemed to have cooled down after what happened the previous day, she didn't bother to talk with anyone.

Director Jeunes made sure to send both Edna and Miranda back as he promised.

In the bedroom, Selene rubbed her eyes before fluttering them open. She found Xavier staring at her, a soft smile on his lips. From the look in his eyes, it was clear he had been watching her for a while.

Feeling a little conscious, Selene covered her mouth before saying, "Good morning."

Xavier's smile widened as he chuckled lightly at her action. "Good morning," he replied. "You were sleeping for so long I thought you weren't going to wake up," he added.

"Really, what's the time?" She asked, intending to jump off the bed but Xavier held her back.

"Relax, it's just 11 am."

She frowned. "11 am and you are not going to work?" She asked, confusion etched on her face.

"I'm not. I want to spend more time with you," he replied.

"Ah-umm..." Selene stuttered, unable to find words to say while her heart nearly raced out of her chest. She tore her eyes away from him, unable to hold his hot gaze.

Xavier pulled her towards her, her head resting on the pillow as he pushed her chin up so that she could look back at him.

Xavier couldn't be any more glad when his member finally slept before he slipped under the covers last night. But now, he was craving for her lips. Their first kiss was unexpected but he didn't regret it at all.

He leaned in before he captured her lips. Selene's eyes widened slightly before she gave in.

Xavier kissed her hard, like a hungry man. Selene was out of breath before he released her.

Her cheeks were flushed while her entire face was as red as a tomato. Her heartbeat raced. She intended to slip from under him like she did the previous night, but it seemed Xavier had already predicted her moves.

He stopped right before she could slip away.

“Ana,” he called her by her real name and Selene felt her heart skip a beat. “I—”

“Xavier,” she immediately interrupted him. “I think I should go,” she added.

Xavier stared at her, confusion etched on her lips. His lips formed a thin line before he nodded hesitantly.

Selene didn’t waste any time. She immediately sprang up and headed towards the bathroom.

Xavier could only stare at her retreating with a sigh. He was also confused, not knowing what he wanted to say to her either.

He ran his hand through his hair in frustration before he sighed again.

“I will tell her that later,” he said to himself.

**

Selene walked out of the room without Xavier. He’d already told her he would be right behind her once he was through with a few things.

Selene silently prayed that he didn’t. She couldn’t look him in the eyes without blushing, and that alone was embarrassing to her.

Just like the previous day, Selene walked towards where Kace was seated with Liam and Martha.

As soon as Liam saw her, he scanned around, looking for her boyfriend but couldn’t find him anywhere.

Selene asked Martha how she was since she didn’t attend the party. The latter replied saying she caught a fever. Selene wished her well and she started eating breakfast.

Xavier had offered to have breakfast in the room, but Selene immediately objected. She wanted to avoid him for some time.

Liam asked Selene a few questions about her night and the latter kept it simple.

Martha noticed the way Liam cared so much about Selene and couldn't help but feel a pang of jealousy.

Both she and Liam have known each other for long and she knew he cared about her, but having him care about another woman made her feel uncomfortable, even though they were not dating.

Martha sighed and looked away when her eyes landed on Michelle who was seated on her own, having her drink while glaring into her phone as if she wanted it to explode.

"Hey," Martha tapped Selene. "Isn't that your so-called friend Michelle sitting there?" She asked.

Even though Martha wasn't present at the scene yesterday, it wasn't difficult for her to find out what was happening since some people's mouths refuse to keep shut.

Selene with the other two men glanced at Michelle.

"I wonder what she's glaring at her phone for," she mumbled to herself.

Martha stared at Selene with a perplexed look.

"You haven't seen the fire burning on the internet today?" She questioned Selene.

Selene frowned deeply. "What fire?"

Martha pulled out her phone and went to Mestagram where videos of what happened the previous day had been uploaded.

Selene stared with wide eyes, trying to hide the smirk that was threatening to pull on her lips.

"Michelle's fans have turned against her," said Martha, opening the comment section. "Well, most of her fans. Some foolish ones are still defending her," she added.

Selene immediately pulled out her mobile phone to check the comments as well. Some netizens were indeed still defending Michelle after what she did.

She scrolled through the comment section and noticed some netizens defending her while some blamed her for what happened, and why she stole Michelle's main role in the movie by sleeping with the director.

Selene couldn't help but sigh. She placed her phone back inside her pocket and continued to eat breakfast.

"Some people's fingers sometimes need to be cut off so that they can't use it on the internet anymore by typing rubbish," Selene muttered to herself.

Kace' mouth twitched.

Suddenly, she felt someone's presence behind her. She noticed Kace glare at the figure. Curious, she turned, only to find Michelle standing behind her.

"We need to talk," said Michelle.

My Accidental Husband Is My Revenge Partner - Chapter 69 - Is She Dense?

Is She Dense?

"We need to talk," said Michelle. Her face was gloomy as she glared at Selene. Since she didn't find anything wrong with her actions the previous day, she didn't bother to apologize as Selene had said. Seeing the latter chat happily with her friends while her career was getting destroyed on the internet, it made her blood boil.

Selene wasn't even surprised by Michelle's attitude. The latter was acting the way she wanted her to act and everyone was seeing her real skin.

"Michelle, I didn't see you there. What do you want us to talk about? Have you eaten?" Selene asked with a soft tone, ignoring the glare she was receiving from Michelle.

A vein popped on Michelle's forehead. She despised the way Selene was acting and she wanted her to scream at her. She already assumed Selene was a dumb person since she met her, but she couldn't believe Selene was that dumb and dense.

"I'm not eating," Michelle replied through gritted teeth.

She woke up that day with a phone call from Mia, her assistant, informing her about the videos circulating on the internet. She saw her colleagues recording the scene the previous day, but she didn't believe that they would dare to release the videos, since she came from a powerful family that can destroy their families with just a call.

Since then, her mood had turned even sour. She was glad some of her fans were still defending her, but that wasn't enough. Even though there was nothing she could do to the videos because somehow, her father couldn't have them removed from the internet, she wanted to vent her anger all on Selene.

"I want to talk to you in private," Michelle added, walking away without waiting for Selene to reply.

Selene glanced at the others on the table before she shrugged off and followed behind Michelle.

‘What is she planning on talking about now?’ Selene thought to herself.

The both of them stopped when they reached a quieter place at the back of the villa. Not many people passed that side, but Selene released a sigh of relief when she saw the CCTV cameras planted on the walls.

“What do you want to talk about, Michelle? If you want to apologize for what happened the previous day, then you don’t have to. I forgive you,” Selene said with a bright smile on her lips.

“SHUT UP!!” Michelle snapped, shocking Selene. She had to take a few steps back in case Michelle completely lost her senses and tried to attack her. “You are the sole reason all of this is happening. Since the day you showed yourself at old Wallace’s birthday, you have made my life a living hell!”

‘I haven’t even started,’ Selene thought to herself as she continued to maintain a pitiful shocked expression.

“You stole Xavier from me.”

“How did I do that? You are already married to Richard, aren’t you?” Selene asked with an oblivious look. The way she continued to act dense frustrated Michelle.

“I was supposed to marry Xavier! He was solely mine. Anastasia tried to take him away from her but I got rid of her, and now you?!”

“What do you mean you got rid of Anastasia?” Selene asked, slightly surprised that Michelle would spill such information. It could only mean she was furious beyond her control.

Michelle clamped her mouth shut, also surprised she had said such a thing.

“You said your sister, Anastasia suddenly disappeared and she hasn’t contacted you since then,” Selene tried to dig further with curiosity laced in her tone.

“Yes, she disappeared. I threatened her and she ran away and promised to never show her face again,” Michelle spat out so fast one would think she was rapping. When in fact, she was trying to convince Selene not to push the matter.

Meanwhile, Selene couldn’t help but be amazed at how Michelle had covered her slip-up so quickly. It was so believable that if she hadn’t been the Anastasia they were talking about, she would have believed her immediately.

“But that’s not the main point. You still stole Xavier from me, he was meant to be mine but I accidentally got married to Richard. When it came to the movie, you slept with either director Jeunes or Xavier to get a role. As if you weren’t satisfied, you are going after Liam as well?” Michelle barked, more veins popping on her forehead due to how angry she was.

Selene stared at her with a small smile on her lips, trying to contain her anger that was evolving.

“We both know that’s a lie, Michelle. Has Xavier ever acknowledged you before?” She questioned Michelle, adding more salt to her wounds. “You say he’s yours, but I don’t hear him mention your name anytime when we make love,” she added.

Michelle was immediately vexed by Selene’s response. Xavier had never once acknowledged and that was the bitter truth Selene had just slapped her with. Remembering the slap she had received from Selene the previous day, her anger surged.

Michelle raised her arm in the air, ready to strike Selene across the face but Selene was fast enough to grab her wrist before she succeeded.

“Just because I’m quiet and listening to your rubbish, it doesn’t mean I will stand here and let you hit me, Michelle,” said Selene with a fierce glare directed toward Michelle. “Don’t take my humble response for foolishness.”

Michelle stared at Selene, eyes widened in shock. She had never expected to change her demeanor so suddenly, it baffled her. And for a second, she felt cold sweat run down her back. She was terrified.

Twisting her wrist free from Selene’s grip, she threatened, “You think you can scare me? You don’t know who I am, Selene. Don’t mess with me else you are going to get hurt.”

Selene narrowed her eyes. “And what are you going to do? Will you send people to try to rape me like you did yesterday?” Selene questioned Michelle.

My Accidental Husband Is My Revenge Partner - Chapter 70 - Klerene Contract

Klerene Contract

Michelle gritted her teeth and clenched her fists as rage surged through her body. If she could, she would have cut Selene into pieces and fed her flesh to the dogs. The intensity of her hatred was overwhelming, and she could barely contain the fury that threatened to consume her.

All she could see was red as she struggled to control her anger. The burning question in her mind was why Selene hadn’t let Xavier blacklist her.

“You will see Selene,” she managed to say. “I will make your life a living hell,” she promised. Michelle glared at Selene one last time before she walked off.

Selene could only stare at her retreating back with a smirk on her lips.

“I would love to see what you have in store for me, Michelle,” she replied.

Since she had already found the property papers she signed months ago, she didn’t find Michelle useful anymore. So, pretending to be her friend was just a waste of time. She didn’t have any use for Michelle anymore.

Selene went back to her seat. Her three friends gave her a worried expression when she sat down.

“What happened? Did she do anything to try to hurt you?” Liam questioned.

Selene shook her head, replying, “No, she didn’t. She apologized and both of us are good.”

Kace gave her a questioning look, knowing fully well that she was lying. If Michelle ever apologized for what she did, there would be an apocalypse.

“She did?” Liam asked, also finding it hard to believe that. They didn’t see Michelle come back so they had no idea.

Selene nodded. “I told you she was going to apologize and she did. All is good,” she smiled brightly.

This was the best way she could deal with Michelle. Michelle usually acted like the victim, now it was Selene’s turn to act like the victim. Everyone was already starting to have second thoughts about Michelle, but Selene wanted them to only have hatred for her, so she was willing to take her time with Michelle. It would be fun messing with the latter at her own game.

A faint smirk pulled on her lips.

‘Oh Michelle, you are going to regret everything you’ve done to me,’ Selene thought to herself.

Since her breakfast was already cold, she didn’t bother to eat it anymore. Instead, she ordered a chilled drink to survive the scorching heat.

Staring at the pool, Selene contemplated if she should go swimming, but that would require her to wear a revealing bikini, but she wasn’t comfortable showing off her body inappropriately. She shook her head at that thought and decided to manage the chilled drink instead.

A few minutes later, Xavier came out and found her having a chatting moment with his brother, the Liam guy he didn’t like to see around Selene with another woman he wasn’t familiar with.

Without sharing a word with them, he kidnapped Selene and they went to a more private suite. Selene could still see everyone at the pool but being next to Xavier made her feel as if she was indeed kidnapped.

He sat across from her while the waiter came in with the menu.

“Have you eaten yet?” He asked her.

Selene immediately nodded. She rubbed her hands, trying to warm them up. She had just been complaining about the hot weather, but being around Xavier suddenly made her feel chilly.

“What’s wrong?” Xavier asked when he saw her rubbing her hands under that table.

“N-nothing,” she lied. She tried to control her breathing until she calmed down. “I’m hungry,” she added.

Xavier gave her a confusing look before asking, “What would you like to have?”

He handed her the menu so that she could pick whatever she wanted. The both of them ate, then played some games until it was nighttime. Their vacation would be over the next day and they would have to return home.

Xavier wanted to stay longer, but they both had responsibilities. He made a mental note to clear his schedule soon for another vacation, just the both of them in one of his beach houses.

They returned to the mansion and found it clean as always.

‘The maids are serious with their jobs,’ Selene thought to herself.

Selene went directly to her room to clean up. She had showered before they returned but she felt dirty nonetheless.

After showering, she decided to watch a movie on her phone instead of going to the living room. She had a strong feeling she was going to fall asleep if she didn’t, but she didn’t want to fall asleep in the living room.

Before choosing the movie, Selene checked her emails first. She paused when she noticed an email from a popular brand. It was Klerene, one of the biggest brands in Radiantia and across other countries.

Selene frowned deeply, hesitating to open the email. Taking a deep breath, she opened the email, and read through it thoroughly.

“Impossible,” she mumbled, sitting up on her bed as she read through the email again. “They want me to be their global ambassador?”

A smirk pulled on Selene’s lips, replacing the frown.

Selene sent Kace a screenshot of the email and the latter immediately congratulated her.

She was going to be the global ambassador of the same brand Michelle was. Selene couldn't help but recall years ago when Klerene had offered a contract. She had just turned twenty back then. But as always, she was forced to decline the contract.

"Now, isn't this wonderful? Michelle doesn't want anything to do with me but the universe keeps bringing the both of us together," said Selene as she continued to stare at the email.

She jumped on top of her bed in joy. When she grew tired, she sat back down to reread the email.

When her eyes landed on the last paragraph of the email she seemed to have missed, her heart skipped a beat.

"They want us to have a meeting tomorrow to know if I'm interested?"
