

No Escape From My Ruthless Alpha

Chapter 108

Chapter 108: Vampire

Penelope POV

“Wh— who are you?” I asked in a shaky voice when I saw the girl with red eyes crouched in front of me, looking like a maniac

“She’s woken up!” she chirped in a gleeful voice as she looked at me with curiosity

I scrambled back from her with fear, pain blasting in my body due to scraping of the silver chains on my skin. Over the past four days, the chains had eaten into my skin, exposing parts of flesh

Grigor came from his room. He was staring at me as he walked in and stood behind the girl “Jolie, be careful with her, okay? She is weak.”

She giggled. “Don’t worry, Grigor. She wouldn’t even feel it!”

“Feel what?” I asked, my voice a mere whisper

Grigor wasn’t feeding me at all. The last time he gave me wheat bread to eat was yesterday. I chewed hungrily on me, but I was surprised as to why he was feeding me all of a sudden Jolie licked her lips as her pale red eyes gleamed. She had pale blond hair and her skin was so pale that it looked as if she hadn’t seen the sun in ages. She lifted her hand and placed it on my neck. She started caressing my pulse point slowly and licked her lips again

“Stay away,” I growled at her. But she didn’t even flinch

“Did you shift even once?” she asked, as she removed a strand of my tangled hair from eyes

“I heard you were living in the human world.”

My gaze darted between her and Grigor, both of them looking at me with keen interest. Why were they interested as to whether I shifted or not? Something didn’t feel quite alright with them. Panic bloomed in my chest as my stomach twisted into thousands of knots

Jolie brought her face closer to me and this time with a voice filled with danger, she repeated her question, “Did you shift even once?”

“No!” I lied

Her gaze went to my pulse point. She peeled her lips and that’s when I saw her sharp fangs elongating. Like a viper she charged at me and pierced her fangs in my pulse point. I screamed as burning pain blasted in my body. My eyes went to Grigor who was watching Jolie with interest. And then— I heard slurps

Jolie was feeding on my blood as pain jolted through me. The pain was so intense that I screamed and screamed until I lost consciousness. Jolie was a vampire

Darkness surrounded me. It was the kind of darkness that was like shards of ice piercing my soul. Nightmares followed and all I saw were a hundred amber eyes along with red eyes

Madam Lestranger was yelling at me to get ready for the auction. Kiev came to aid her in the auction and then suddenly a strong force threw him on the side

I jerked awake, a scream working up my throat

And I found myself looking at... someone

Through the haze of memories, I tried to recollect who he was. “Grigor...” I managed to say with my dry throat

“So you have woken up!” he said as a smile played on his lips

From the corner of my eyes, I saw a girl walking

In just a shirt that reached her thighs. Her eyes were a bright red and her complexion was a creamy white. She was grinning at me fondly

“Please Grigor,” she said. “We are going to keep her as my pet.”

My neck was hurting so bad that I couldn’t move much

“Yes, of course, Jolie,” he replied. She curled her arms around his shoulders from behind and they both watched me with renewed interest

“You can feed on her as much as you like.” Jolie kissed him on the crown of his head as she hummed a tune

My gaze slowly traveled to Grigor’s lap in which there was the laptop. On its screen was standing a man with the most beautiful winter gray eyes. Who was he? My mind was a chaos of broken memories

“Is he your mate?” Grigor asked

I didn’t even know the man. How could he be my mate? There was another man standing beside him. I wished they could save me. I whispered, “Cave... in the cliff...” After that my eyes drooped

Grigor started to laugh. “Do you think that by saying those words, they will come and save you?” He waved his hand around the cave and said, “This place is so secure and off the grid that no one can find you. So, you will stay here for the rest of your life.”

I took a weak breath and just stared at them

Grigor looked up at the girl and said, “I know you have come to love her blood, baby, but be careful. Let her recover and then have more.”

“Umm...” the girl’s lips downturned. “Her blood is so... tasty!”

Grigor got up and then scooped her in his arms

“You have to control your urges girl!”

I heard her giggling all the way back to the room. I lost my consciousness again. This time I saw strange people in my nightmares. I couldn’t recollect their names. All my memories were addled up

More pain burst out in my body as sharp fangs pierced them while I was unconscious, but I didn’t have the energy to move or even resist or scream. So I let it be..

I used to hear a whisper in my mind of someone

Someone trying to communicate with me or trying to goad me to stay strong. I chuckled. I was hanging with a thin thread onto my life

Every breath seemed borrowed. I just wanted to leave. I felt like a husk. I would see a myriad of images including red eyes when I would wake up from my dizzy spells. But nothing made sense. I think I was delirious. My body burned with fever

I don’t know for how long, but I got out of a dizzy spell with an explosion sounding from somewhere. It rattled the walls and some cracked bits of stone and debris rolled near me. I heard sounds of grunts and screams and then..
