

S.P.E.C.T.O.R 100

Chapter 100: Hey hot stuff

"Spector transmit the layout and all other pertinent data of the Trillion neutron reactor plant to me please." Adam asked.

[[Affirmative Downloading Now]]

"Who are you talking to?" Jessie asked in surprise as Susan and Joe also gave Adam questioning looks.

"Don't worry about it." Adam said dismissively as Spector finished downloading the data and he held out his hand palm upwards.

After he did a holographic projection of the neutron reactor plant formed for them all to see.

The projection showed a giant area on one of Trillion's lowest levels that had a dozen giant energy pylons that were evenly spaced out around a massive octahedron shaped building that connected the floor below to the one above above it.

The energy pylons themselves rose from the ground beneath and dropped from the floor above, however unlike the octahedron structure these didn't form a whole. At the very centre point between the two floors there was a gap where lightning could be seen arcing between the pylons' two ends.

"Do we know the exact location of the meet?" Adam asked.

"Here." Jessie said pointing to a large open square area some distance away from the massive octahedron and pylons that had buildings running along two of the sides like some wide street.

"And you agreed to that? It's such an obvious kill box even I can see that. They just have to see people up in the buildings on either side." Susan said in anger.

"I tried to get it changed after I received the details but they are insisting it has to be there, claiming it's because they don't trust me." Jessie said defensively.

"Pot calling kettle black." Adam mumbled.

"What?"

"Nothing, just a saying from my world, don't worry about it." Adam said before continuing.

"How many people?"

"Three each, or so they claim."

"Any restrictions on transport there and back?"

"None."

"Which means either hover vehicles or even small ships like shuttles." Adam mumbled.

"I plan to head there via hover car since it's not so easy getting hold of a shuttle." Jessie stated.

"Not for you, but I bet they have it easy being a megacorp." Susan commented.

"So there's nothing to stop them from setting people up in the buildings and even having a few shuttles or drop ships on standby to bring forces in." Adam mused.

"I doubt they will set people up in the buildings, I have already sent a few people to investigate the buildings and they claim they are empty. They must know we will be watching them." Joe responded.

"True, then who did you plan to take with you to the meet?" Adam asked.

"Myself, Joe and I were going to ask you but that's not really an option if Stacey is sticking with you. Unless she replaces Joe."

"No, pick a third from your gang, someone recognisable that they can easily pull intel on and are good in a fight." Adam replied.

"What about you then?" Jessie asked.

"If they see a stranger with you they will get suspicious, me and Stacey will set up here." Adam said as he pointed to a large tower-like building that was several hundred meters away from the meeting point.

"You plan to set up with a sniper rifle?" Joe asked.

"Among other things." Adam replied with a smirk.

"Can you make a shot over that distance?" Susan asked with interest however Adam just continued to smirk at her.

"Fine, keep your secrets hmph." Susan pouted causing Stacey to giggle.

"What if they attempt an ambush by drop ship or shuttle?" Joe asked before adding, "I don't think a sniper rifle will be strong enough to take those down."

"Don't worry, that's Stacey's job."

"What mine?" Stacey asked in surprise.

A couple of hours later Stacey stood outside Beck's talking and laughing with the two women watching the door while waiting for Adam.

He had said he needed to return back to his ship in order to get some gear and asked that she wait for him there.

Stacey had decided to change into a dark crop top along with dark trousers, trainers and jacket since she knew their role on tonight's job was to remain unnoticed until something kicked off.

"Waiting on your boyfriend to take you out on a date?" Susan suddenly said as she came out of Becky's entrance door and noticed that Stacey had changed her clothes and was now showing more cleavage than what her friend normally felt comfy showing around men.

"Jealous?" Stacey asked with a smirk."

"Pff, as if." Susan shot back with a roll of her eyes.

"How did the meeting go?" Stacey asked.

After Adam had left to return to his ship Jessie and Susan had started their negotiations about Susan working for them in the new business venture.

"We came to an agreement, they're going to set me up with a room here at Becky's and also provide me with a decent wage along with other benefits."

"Other benefits huh." Stacey replied with a smirk as the two door women checked at her words.

"Shut up Stace." Susan snapped as she blushed slightly.

A moment later the four women and those hanging around the club heard a noise approaching that attracted their attention And caused them all to look in the direction it came from.

For a few seconds they didn't see anything but then they spotted someone riding a sleek black hoverbike as it rounded a corner and came into view.

Everyone watched as the hover bike sped towards Beck's entrance and stopped right in front of Stacey.

"Hey hot stuff, wanna go for a ride?" Adam joked as he turned to look at Stacey.

"Sure." Stacey replied happily before giggling slightly.

"Mind carrying the bag? It will make it easier to travel." Adam asked as he swung a large Single strap bag off his back and held it out to Stacey.

"And you were doing so well." Stacey said in feigned disappointment before adding, "Don't you know a gentleman should offer to carry a ladies bag."

"Well if you want I can keep carrying it, but then you Will have to grab the handles behind you and won't be able to wrap your arms around me."

"It's fine, I'll carry it." Stacey quickly said as she took the bag and swung it over her back before climbing on behind Adam and wrapping her arms around him.

"Hehehe." Susan and the other girls laughed as they watched before Susan asked jokingly, "You gonna take me for a ride one day handsome?"

"Get Stacey's permission and I might." Adam said before he turned the accelerator accusing the hover bike to shoot away.

"Hmph as if I'm actually interested." Susan pouted as the two sort women laughed at her response.

"This is a nice ride." Stacey said as she re-positioned herself to be more comfy as she leaned against Adam's back.

Adam tried to ignore the feeling of Stacey's breasts pressing against his back as it brought up memories of Jenny.

For a moment he remembered the last time he had felt such a feeling. It was when he was giving Jenny a lift home on his bike from school.

"Thanks." Adam replied after forcing himself to concentrate on driving the hover bike.

Adam followed the directions his minimap laid out for him to reach the neutron reactor plant.

"Adam and Stacey have just set off." Joe said as he entered Jessie's office with another woman who followed him.

"Then it's about time we set off also." Jessie said as she got up and grabbed the case containing the dark matter.

"Remember to stay sharp as I have a bad feeling about this."

"Yes boss." The woman said.

"You're not the only one." Joe replied as he checked his blaster while the three walked out the back of the brothel and climbed into a hover van that was parked there and set off.

"There on their way sir." A man dressed in dark clothes said to no one in particular as he watched Beck's from a distance.

"Yes sir, Jessie, the guy named Joe and some other woman I have seen working the front door just left in a dark hover van ." The man said after listening to a voice that came from an earpiece he was wearing.

"Yes sir they had the product with them."

"The only other people to leave around the same time was the courier who delivered the product and the guy she came with."

"No sir, they left from the front after the guy came to pick her up on a hoverbike, she looked like she had got dressed up for him, my guess is they were going on a date."

"Copy that sir I'm clearing out and moving to phase two." The man said before clearing up the gear he had been using to monitor Becky's and leaving.

All that remained was a dead body on the floor of the apartment he had been in.