Chapter 104: Big red button

Adam didn't reply and instead asked, "Spector, is this sniper rifle any good?"

[[It's trash]]

[Noobkiller9000 (Earth): Hahah harsh.]

[Gunlovergirl (Earth): So much for being Terran Munitions latest product, I just lost all interest in it.]

[Tessisdabest (Terrana 5): ...]

[OfficialRowena (Felinia 4): 😊]

[[Compared to the Boneyard you're carrying it lacks in all aspects, range, velocity, damage potential and ammo capacity. As well as being far noisier since its a ballistic weapon compared to your laser weapon]]

[Gunlovergirl (Earth): Boneyard, now that's a good name for a gun.]

[Tessisdabest (Terrana 5): I've never heard of such a weapon.]

[DeverinianLordMalacoss (Deverinian 9): Nor have I, is the streamer going to show us something interesting again?]

[Beinglittleisnotadisadvantage (Strathorp 7): That's pretty much a guarantee, after all even though energy based sniper rifles do exist they currently can't match ballistic ones.]

[Gunlovergirl (Earth): Why not?]

[Beinglittleisnotadisadvantage (Strathorp 7): Because of their lack of power, there currently isn't an energy cell small and powerful enough that is capable of firing an energy blast further and with more force than a ballistic sniper.]

[Beinglittleisnotadisadvantage (Strathorp 7): Sniper rifle shots have to travel much further than shots from blasters or assault weapons and that is the fatal flaw in any energy weapon, distance. Once an energy shot has been fired it immediately starts to diminish. In most cases the shot from a sniper rifle disappears completely before it even reaches the target.]

Adam reached inside his bag before pulling out two objects.

The first object appeared to be the stock of a futuristic looking sniper rifle with a scope attached, while the second looked like the long barrel section.

Both objects were dark grey in colour with sections of light grey with the occasional spot of orange.

Adam slotted the two sections together so they formed a hole before reaching into the bag again and pulling out an energy cell that was larger than what Stacey's blaster took before slotting it in the bottom of the rifle.

[Gunlovergirl (Earth): Holy fuck that's one sexy ass gun, I think I just got a bit wet looking at it.]

[AlamoMatador4thewin (Earth): TMI]

[Prestigious3horns (Vinox 2): It's definitely not a design I recognise.]

Adam set the rifle up at the edge of the roof before reaching into his bag again and pulling out another weapon that was black and grey in colour except for a red trigger. It wasn't as long as the sniper rifle as it was only just over a meter long but it was far bulkier since it contained four large barrels.

[Noobkiller9000 (Earth): What the fuck is that?]

[Beinglittleisnotadisadvantage (Strathorp 7): I have absolutely no idea.]

[Tessisdabest (Terrana 5): I have never seen anything like it.]

"What's that?" Stacey asked as she looked at the weapon she had never seen the like off.

"This is your new toy in-case shuttles or drop ships show up." Adam said with a smirk as he passed her the weapon.

"Ugh, it's heavy." Stacey said as she took a stance before gripping the trigger grip with one hand and placing the other beneath it as support..

"Missile launchers usually are."

"Missile launcher!" Stacey repeated in shock.

[Handsome3horns (Vinox 2): You gotta be kidding me.]

[Gunlovergirl (Earth): Oh hell yeah, this is just getting me more and more excited. A guy hasn't made me feel this good in so long.]

[AlamoMatador4thewin (Earth): Geeze get a room crazy gun girl.]

[StealthAssassin9 (Earth): How is that a missile launcher? Are they supposed to be that small.]

"How is this a missile launcher?" Stacey asked in wonder before adding, "From what I know portable ones are all shoulder mounted weapons."

"You don't need to worry about that, you just need to listen to my instructions on how to use it." Adam replied before continuing.

"First off, as you can see this weapon has four barrels, this means you can either fire one missile at a time or up to four missiles in rapid succession."

"There is a second handle on either side of the weapon that folds out, fold it out and use it as the second grip instead of resting your hand underneath."

Stacey did as instructed and gripped the handle after she folded it out from the side and found she felt much more secure in holding the weapon after she did so.

"Now take this." Adam said before he reached into the bag once more and retrieved a metallic container about 30 centimetres long before saying, "This is the ammo clip and contains micro missiles, slot it into that open slot on the bottom of the weapon just behind the trigger grip."

Stacey did as she was told and as she did a red button started to flash.

"That red flashing button indicates the weapon is loaded, press it."

[Beinglittleisnotadisadvantage (Strathorp 7): Ah so it uses micro missiles, that explains why it doesn't need to be shoulder mounted.]

[Tessisdabest (Terrana 5): Don't micro missiles normally lack the destructive force you normally associate with missile launchers though?]

[1000yearsofdeath (Earth): Go on, press the big red button. Kekeke.]

[Gunlovergirl (Earth): Press it, you know you want to.]

[Beczontop (Terrana 5): Why is my baby giving this bitch all the cool toys, where's mine?]

As she pressed the button a small rectangular shaped holographic display appeared beside the weapon.

"Aim it at something but don't pull the trigger."

Stacey did as she was told and as she moved the weapon over several objects she noticed that the objects gained an outline around them on the holographic screen.

"There is another button along with a switch just above the trigger that your thumb can reach. The button is used to designate the target you want the missiles to fire at, once the target is outlined on the holographic display press the button and it will lock in the target. You can have up to four targets locked in depending on how many missiles you want to fire, just press the button the appropriate number of times."

"The switch is the safety, when you're ready to fire, flick it before pulling the trigger. Follow everything?"

Stacey nodded as she played with the new toy Adam had given her and pressed the button to lock onto some buildings in the distance before targeting something else.

[Gunlovergirl (Earth): OMFG I WANT ONE.]

[Beinglittleisnotadisadvantage (Strathorp 7): That is far more high tech than standard missile launchers. Not only does it use micro missiles but it can fire up to four of them at once.]

[DeverinianLordMalacoss (Deverinian 9): Indeed. I have never heard of such a missile launcher, I look forward to seeing what sort of punch it packs.]

[OfficialRowena (Felinia 4): This young man just keeps getting more and more interesting.]

"Team two update." Suddenly a voice came over the Nagareen communication device.

"You're up." Adam said as he smirked at Stacey.

"Stacey rolled her eyes before adopting a deeper voice than normal and saying, "Team two responding, nothing to report."

"Copy that team two, are you ok? you sound different."

"Yes I think I'm coming down with a cold." Stacey replied.

"Understandable, it's these damn Terran's there like germ carrying dogs."

[Tessisdabest (Terrana 5): ...]

[Beczontop (Terrana 5): WHAT THE FUCK! Launch a missile up there reptilian asses.]

[StealthAssassin9 (Earth): Do reptiles have asses?]

Stacey frowned angrily when she heard the response but resisted commenting and instead asked Adam, "So now we wait?"

"Yup." Adam replied as he picked up the sniper rifle and aimed it towards the meeting spot while adjusting the sight.

Far away in the universe on a planet called Devatov 7 many islands floated through the air and one such island had water cascade off the island to the land far below. In the centre of this island a large magnificent castle floated above a pristine lake.

A beautiful white haired woman sat on her large bed as she played with her uniband before she moaned, "God I'm bored. Why does mother insist that I attend this damn Supreme Speaker selection at the universal senate, I mean she herself hasn't attended a senate meeting in how many years?"

"I just want to slumber for another hundred years, maybe then there will be something entertaining that catches my eye."

As she complained she found herself on one of the universes streaming platforms and saw that the stream with the most views was from Prime.

"Ugh, not him. I still remember hearing about the time he claimed he was going to marry me. Pfft as if, no one but a small few outside my family has ever seen me, god why did I have to be born as a white dragon."

As the white haired beauty was about to leave the streaming platform a banner appeared at the top that caught her attention, it seemed to be for a streamer named S.P.E.C.T.O.R and interestingly it showed someone flying through the air carrying a beautiful Terran while having what appeared to be wings and a tail.

"Why would a dragon be assisting a Terran? Also something looks off about those wings, they don't look anything like my own."

Her interest peaked, she opened the stream and was shocked to see some of the names that appeared in the chat.

"Diva Lorelie and Diva Rowena, also Lord Malacoss, I never did get the chance to thank him for the birthday gifts he always sends me."

Driven by curiosity she sent a message in the chat.
