Chapter 317: Discussing Jessie's business

"Bingo, that's exactly what it is," Jessie confirmed proudly.

"How has no one thought of this before?" Aphrodite finally asked.

"Joe asked the exact same question after Adam explained his idea to us," Jessie said with a smirk.

"Such an ingenious, busy idea, interactive VR experiences would make VR sex videos obsolete," Aphrodite remarked.

"You're right, once we started selling the new VR porn, people on Trillion basically stopped buying the VR sex videos, sorry if we hurt your income, but don't worry, your holographic videos still sell... slightly," Jessie said with another smirk.

"It's just one planet's sales, I'm not too bothered about that. However, if we could take this universal, then we could commandeer the market." Aphrodite replied.

"We?" Jessie asked with a raised eyebrow before asking, "Are you interested in negotiating then?"

"Damn right I am," Aphrodite replied.

"Very well, however, as Adam said, we will never be able to commandeer the market; the best we can do is make ourselves known as the creators of VR porn so that when people want to buy a new experience, they think of us first."

"That makes sense, unlike Lorelie's new genre of music that she created without any tech, the VR porn is essentially just another form of VR sex videos and uses tech that has already been created; therefore, the VR porn doesn't fall under the universal senate's exclusivity law since you didn't create or discover it," Erkath said thoughtfully.

“Ideally, what you would need to make sure that your company is the number one choice for people who want to buy the VR porn is to have both the best quality VR porn and also the best actors and actresses playing the parts of those they are having sex with,” Rowena said thoughtfully.

“This also explains why Adam said that those clothes were not appropriate for the VR sex videos; however, they are perfect for the VR porn, since the person can remain in the VR porn experience for as long as they want. We could make all sorts of experiences, not just straight-up sex, but foreplay experiences, domination experiences, submissive experiences, and hardcore experiences. We could take anything you actually do as a sexual experience and make it a VR experience. The list is endless.” Aphrodite said in clear excitement.

“The idea had occurred to us, unfortunately, before the EMP blast. We were just getting started and didn’t have the capital or resources to make top-quality productions or hire celebrity sex video stars like yourself, Aphrodite,” Jessie replied.

“As long as we can negotiate a deal that won’t be a problem, not only will you get me as one of the actresses, but I will also speak with some of my sex video star friends about working for us.

As for equipment for top quality production, that will need thinking about, credits aren’t a problem, but sourcing the equipment and setting up a studio and everything is something we will have to consider.” Aphrodite said thoughtfully.

“Do entertainment companies usually have their own studios?” Stacey asked curiously as she considered an idea that was brewing in her mind.

“Sure, they use them for creating adverts and other small productions,” Lorelie replied before asking, “Why?”

“Does that mean Royal Entertainment will have them?” Stacey asked again with a smirk.

“Ohhhhh, I see what you're getting at, that could work,” Lorelie said as she nodded in agreement.

“Lorelie’s right, this could work. Nice one, granddaughter,” Rowena said with a smile.

“What are you three talking about? And why are you bringing up Royal Entertainment? Aren’t they likely to go out of business or be bought out by another entertainment company?” Erkath asked as Aphrodite and Jessie showed looks of curiosity.

“It just so happens that a certain male individual sleeping in the room next door plans to negotiate with Princess Tessa Terrana over the coming days about acquiring Royal Entertainment,” Rowena explained with a smirk.

“What? Why would Adam want to buy an entertainment company? And why am I only hearing about this now?” Erkath asked in confusion.

“Because you had already returned to Deverinian Prime when we first brought the subject up,” Rowena replied before continuing, “Since Lorelie has not had much luck finding an Entertainment Company that appeals to her, and I’m thinking about leaving Dynamic Entertainment, we suggested that Adam create his own entertainment company so that we could join it; however, he was against the idea since it would be too much hard work setting one up from scratch.

It seems that he didn’t completely give up on the idea, though, because he later proposed the idea that he try and purchase Royal Entertainment.”

“That would certainly save a lot of effort compared to creating an entirely new company,” Erkath agreed.

“So what you're suggesting is that if Adam manages to acquire Royal Entertainment, we could move production of the VR porn to there and use their equipment?” Jessie asked.

“Yeah, pretty much,” Stacey replied.

“Isn’t Royal Entertainments' headquarters on Terran’s Five?” Jessie asked.

“That’s correct, I went there a few times when I was negotiating with them before,” Lorelie confirmed before asking, “Is that a problem?”

"I guess that depends on how Adam decides to organise the company and if he plans to keep me in charge of the VR porn," Jessie said with slight concern.

"I already told you that Adam is a man who likes to keep his word... at least to his friends. Even if he does acquire Royal Entertainment, the VR porn business is yours, and he's only a minority shareholder. You're just going to have to negotiate using Royal Entertainment's facilities." Stacey stated before thinking of something and asking, "Or are you worried about leaving Trillion and the eighty-sixers?"

"I won't deny the thought had crossed my mind," Jessie replied.

"It's not really anything to be concerned about, you can manage the VR porn operation remotely from Trillion or the eighty-sixers from Terrana Five, you just need someone trustworthy you can leave in charge of each when you are not present," Erkath suggested.

"Su for the VR porn and Joe for the eighty-sixers sounds decent," Stacey suggested.

"You just want to help your bestie in getting more authority," Jessie said with a smirk before adding, "Though those do indeed sound like the best choices."

"Of course, this is all dependent on Adam managing to acquire Royal Entertainment and allowing for the use of its equipment," Aphrodite pointed out.

"I doubt he will have a problem letting them use the equipment, after all, this was his idea originally," Stacey said.

"As for negotiating with Princess Tessa Teranna about acquiring Royal Entertainment, somehow I don't think that will be too problematic for him," Rowena said with a knowing smile.

"Oh? Do you know something we don't, Rowena?" Aphrodite asked.

"Perhaps," Rowena said while giving her signature smirk.

“Wow, look at all the strangely shaped buildings,” Tephe said excitedly as she spun around, looking in every direction.

“They are shaped like that here on Felinia Seven because it’s a planet where it used to always be hot before the planet acquired weather control tech,” Eri replied before continuing to explain.

“The Leonian’s acclimated to the hot weather, which is why Felinia Seven is almost always warm and sunny, though they did reduce the temperature slightly to accommodate the other races visiting.

Each of the planets in the Felidae Galaxy that birthed a different Catonian subspecies has different buildings because their climates are all different.

For instance, the Tigressa planet of Felinia Five is known to be very cold, and it often snows there, which is also why most Tigressa have white hair, ears and tail with black stripes as it helps them hide in the snow better.”

“Wow, that’s so cool, I can’t wait to visit them with the others as Lorelie’s New Genre tour visits the planets,” Tephe replied in clear excitement.

“Speaking of the others, what do you think of them all?” Eri asked curiously.

“Oh, they’re all great. Diva Rowena is always happy to explain and give me advice, Diva Lorelie is so kind and caring, Stacey is always introducing me to new yummy foods she finds from Adam’s homeworld, and Adam always keeps things interesting and entertaining.” Tephe replied as she looked through the windows of the different shops they passed.

“He always keeps things interesting and entertaining. What do you mean?” Eri asked curiously.

“Well, first off, he always seems to be surrounded by interesting and fun people, then there is the fact that he is exploring the universe, something I have always wanted to do.

Next, his ship is amazing and has loads of fun games and movies for entertainment, as well as yummy food and drink the likes of which I have never tasted before.”

“I heard his ship is crazy advanced and even has cloaking tech. Is that true?” Eri asked.

“You heard about that?” Tephe said in surprise before continuing, “Yeah, we were all really shocked when we learned about that, even Rowena, who has seen much in her life.”
